Optimal Health and Normalcy in Childbirth
Don Creevy & Suzanne Arms

This workshop is open to anyone with an interest in birth, in the way children are born, and the issues facing today's parents and professionals, as birth practices evolve and transform our images of what is safe, what is necessary, and what is ideal.

Included in this weekend will be presentation of new and exciting research and alternative styles of birth, films, discussions, and group and individual exercises. Some topics to be covered include: what is normal; minimizing risk; use of non-interventive aids in pregnancy, labor, and with infants; the place of birth; the role of the professional; neighborhood support systems; feminism and mothering; men and childbirth; self care; the relationship of attitude to physiology.

This workshop is of special value for nurses, midwives, physicians, birth educators, therapists, and teachers of human sexuality or women's studies. $200

Week of January 10-15

A Week with Peter Caddy: The Findhorn Experience

For workshop description see January 8-10 $400

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be
David Schiffman

For workshop description see October 4-9 $400

Living Tao: The Joy of Self-Cultivation
Al Chung-liang Huang

The art of successful living is a personal and individual process in the joy and spontaneity of continuous self-cultivation. We shall explore and digest this perennial philosophy in terms of everyday living, and learn to move with ease in the t'ai chi simplicity and delight. $400

Week of January 15-17

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11 $200

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience
Nancy Kaye Lunney

For workshop description see October 16-18 $200

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and t'ai chi dancing with whales, butterflies,
Paul Horn & Al Chung-liang Huang

Paul and Al will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, and China experiences.

Recommended reading and listening: Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Huang: Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon), Watts, Paul Horn's albums: Inside, Nexus, and Dream Machine. $210

Esalen: A Sustainable Village
Leon Burry-Trice

We will look at the ideals, principles, and underlying concepts that bond together the vision of the Esalen village. We will focus on the Esalen community as an example and model of the village plan: from ecological design to energy self-sufficiency; from agricultural stewardship to solar architecture. This workshop is intended for anyone interested in viable ecological communities for the future. $200

Week of January 17-22

Five-day Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners For workshop description see November 1-6. $400

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and t'ai chi dancing with whales, butterflies
Paul Horn & Al Chung-liang Huang For workshop description see January 15-17. $420

Weekend of January 22-24

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff For workshop description see page 11. $200

A Weekend with R. D. Laing: A Bateson Seminar

1. Personal recollections and theoried considerations of Gregory Bateson.
2. Discussions of Bateson's and others' (e.g., Stanislav Grof's) work in relation to Laing's work.
3. Account of the Philadelphia Association household, theory and practice: London, 1965-1981. $200

Week of January 24-29

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff For workshop description see page 11. $400

Opening Feelings: A Path to Consciousness
Clair Killen & Jenny Windsor For workshop description see September 20-25. $400

Healing Rites and Ways
Phillip Mac & Polly Kirby

A week-long experience for health care providers, focusing on each individual's healing ability through centering, awareness, and visualization. In addition, we will experiment with various forms of healing including acupuncture, massage, deep tissue work, homeopathy, and psychic healing. An atmosphere will be created in which we can examine our present healing modes and discover new alternatives. For additional information see page 38. $400

The Lovers' Journey: Awakening Androgyny
Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

This workshop offers participants an opportunity to discover the masculine and feminine polarities within their own being. Inner energies as well as outer, cultural images of male and female roles will be explored, with the purpose of awakening the androgyne within, that state of being in which the psyche is released from the opposition of fixed positions into a vital and flowing consciousness, attuned to the natural rhythms of the universe. The workshop includes both individual open seat work and group process. $400

January 24-February 1

Rediscovering Paradise: Kauai, the Garden Isle of Hawaii
Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

Kauai is the crown jewel of the Hawaiian Islands. On the Na Pali, Kauai's north coast, an ancient trail winds along the ocean to the remote valley of Kalalau. Here, traces of early Hawaiian civilization blend with tropical foliage, creating a setting of unsurpassed beauty. Among the Na Pali's razor-edged spires and flower-choked gorges, the producers of the movie South Pacific found their "Bali H'ai." Along the trail, fluted cliffs rise 3000 feet from the sea, and waterfalls cascade into deep pools, inviting swimming and sunning. The warm weather, brilliant white beaches, and gardenlike campsites make this a truly extraordinary adventure into the loveliest part of the Garden Isle.

Beginning our seven-day adventure at the Lihue Airport, we travel by van 25 miles through the lush patchwork of tropical agriculture to the road's end near the white sands and emerald sea bay of Hanalei. Carrying everything we need in our packs, cooking our food, and sleeping under the same stars the Polynesians charted their voyages by, we come to sense the timeless ebb and flow of life interwoven and in harmony with nature. We swim in crystal pools, camp on secluded beaches, and snorkel in the warm ocean. We pick guava and mango, and learn the history and myths of the early Hawaiians. Woven into the week are practices from psychosynthesis, yoga, group process work, natural history, photography, and journal keeping as well as time for solitude, making our journey through paradise a profound experience of inner and outer discovery and wonder. Previous experience not required. You should be in reasonably good physical condition. Complete equipment/travel information sent on registration. This is Dick & Annie's second Hawaiian trip through Esalen. Registration deadline January 11. $550 (plus airfare)

Weekend of January 29-31

Close Encounters: Experiments in Meeting and Contacting Other Human Beings
Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent For workshop description see November 20-22. $200

Alternative Futures

Paul Hawken
Jay Ogilvy
& Peter Schwartz

What lies in store for us in the coming decades? How can we orient ourselves toward a future that is uncertain? The authors of Seven Tomorrows (Bantam, 1981) will join with workshop participants in generating alternative scenarios for the 80's and 90's. The aim is to inform present decisions with a new stance toward the future. $200

Our Creative Core

Susan Tanner

"Each of us is an artist. All that is needed is a non-judgmental environment where we may use our creative selves and experience the power of our imagination." — Living Stage Credo

Imagination is our birthright, and the freedom to play is as essential to humans as breathing. Through improvisational theatre exercises, dance, visualization, poetry writing, and drawing, we will explore the many roles and characters within our organism in order to contact ourselves and find expression for our creativity. This form of theatre work is strongly influenced by gestalt and neo-Reichian practices. $200

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot
& Stanford Eugene Cates

Within each of us there lives a demon — our own personalized critic — whose greatest joy seems to be to criticize, denigrate, and destroy every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously, simply allowing whatever happens in similar situations. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $200

George Ehrlich

Week of January 31-February 5

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see September 13-18. $400

Joyce Rogers

Let Go/Let Be

Betty Fuller For workshop description see November 22-27 $400

Reichian/Gestalt Intensive

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop combines neo-Reichian breath and body work to facilitate physical/emotional release, with gestalt work to facilitate contact, integration, and self-responsibility.

We provide the time, the space, the opportunity to move at your own pace from dis-ease to ease, from fragmented to whole, from self-discounting to self-validating, from role-playing to authentic self-expression, from helpless victim to active participant in your personal destiny, or from wherever you happen to be coming, to wherever you're growing. You might explore your dreams, your tensions, your madness, or your options; take room to breath or to explode, soak in nuture or exorcise demons, finish past unfinished business or examine present concerns.

First priority is intensive individual work in a supportive group setting. There are also opportunities to experiment with the quality of interpersonal contact through group interactions. $400

Weekend of February 5-7

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners For workshop description see September 18-20 $200

On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners

Phillip Mac For workshop description see page 38. $200

Dreams and Your Personal Mythology

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Examining one's dreams is a powerful mode for assuming increased conscious and active participation in the ongoing development of one's personal mythology. This workshop will introduce the concept of personal mythology, explore the process in personal myth development, survey approaches for increasing conscious participation in one's myth life, and examine the state of one's own personal mythology with methods from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and the exploration of dream material. A substantial portion of the workshop will be devoted to personal exploration that will support participants in assessing their current life space and to intentionally focus energy in new directions. Participants are encouraged to bring a journal and to record their dreams in it prior to the workshop.

Suggested reading: The Realms of Healing (S Krippner & A Villoldo); The Dream Game (A Faraday); Myths to Live By (J Campbell); Working With Dreams (M Ullman & N Zimmerman). $200

Mind/Body Harmony
Emmett & Sandra Ferreira Miller

High level wellness, synergy, flow, balance, harmony — process surrounding us which we all recognize and see and which, at least occasionally, bring joy to our lives. In this workshop we will explore the experience of harmony within, through deep relaxation of the mind and body, through gentle muscle stretching, and through imagery and massage. Opening ourselves to the discovery of harmony around us, we will experience playful movement, music, and massage, and will explore harmony as the essence of high level wellness and peak performance that can help us optimize our personal and business lives and our health. $200

Week of February 7-12

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $400

Massage and Movement
Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 27-October 2. $400

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release
Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

For workshop description see October 4-9. $400

Choosing to Change
Harry Sloan

For workshop description see November 1-6. $400

Weekend of February 12-14

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $200

Couples Workshop: Intimacy and Personal Growth
Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see September 18-20. $200 per participant

Focusing: An Integrative Process of Change
John Welwood

Focusing is a simple experimental method for untangling life problems, emotional blockages, or fixed mental habits, and opening up the natural wisdom of the body/mind. It developed out of many years of research into the core process of change in psychotherapy and creativity by Eugene Gendlin, John Welwood, and others at the University of Chicago.

Focusing teaches people how to pay attention to bodily "felt sense," which contains what they need to know about their lives, allowing new words and images to arise from it. This process integrates mind and body, intellect and intuition, resulting in a "felt shift," a bodily-felt release which allows a person to discover new ways of being and doing, which inspires forward movement in one's life. Focusing also facilitates stress reduction, the ability to listen and communicate more effectively, creativity, and physical healing.

Recommended background reading: Focusing by Eugene Gendlin (Everest House, 1978). $200

Risk Aliveness
Jeffrey Kent & Michael Klaybor

We spend our lives collaborating with our culture and colluding with our families and friends in suppressing, repressing, and depressing our energy, our feelings, our humanity. This workshop is designed to help us begin to reconnect with our personal potency, experimenting with changing avoidance to confrontation, anxiety to excitement, and depression to expression. We will borrow from the disciplines of gestalt, encounter, and kyokushin karate, to create a challenging and non-coercive milieu in which to explore our potential for aliveness. $200

Week of February 14-19

Gestalt Practice
Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $400

Integrity
David Schiffman

For workshop description see December 6-11. $400

Somewhere Between Freedom and Security
Phillis Shankman

Living is often experienced as a delicate balance between one's ongoing desire for personal freedom or growth, and the equally strong need for security and attachment. In this workshop, we will explore the issues of independence/dependence, self-esteem, trust, risk-taking, work, love, and relationship, which effect our ability to successfully discover and maintain the right balance for ourselves at any given time. During the week, we will use meditation, massage, music, movement, and the Esalen/Big Sur environs to slow down, relax, open, and experience ourselves as we are. We will use gestalt process work in the group to explore and develop our awareness of our own unique potential for balance and joy. $400

Steve Beck

Opening the Feelings

Renan Sercarz-Suhl
Julie Wright
& Joe Freeman

This is a Radix® neo-Reichian workshop, aimed at helping every participant grow in the capacity to experience and express deep feeling, to rediscover him/herself, and to contact others. Feeling is rooted in the flow of the life force in the body, and is blocked by chronic muscular contractions, which Reich called the muscular armor. Freeing the armor can enable us to open feeling that has been buried, and to gain a new capacity for love, trust, and joy. We work mainly with breathing, sound, and movement, asking the participant to allow whatever comes up. We will work with no more than ten participants to one teacher; each participant will receive two intensives.

$400

Work-Study Program

The Work-Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen/Big Sur. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. There will be a coming together in the evenings to share, contact, play — alone/together. Professional services such as massage and rolfing are available at staff rates.

Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to the community labor needs, and work assignments are made according to these requirements. The cost of the program is $500 for the first month, $450 for the second month, and $400 for the third. A $250 deposit is required with your application.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex which is 1½ miles north of Esalen. The Work-Study Program, lasting 28 days, is a full time workshop in itself. The work commitment to the community, group process work, and teaching seminars make up a busy schedule for participants. Enrolling in the Esalen catalog workshops is therefore discouraged, since the extra involvement tends to interfere with the fulfillment of the Work-Study Program.

Available dates: December 27-January 24; January 24-February 21; February 21-March 21; March 28-April 25; April 25-May 23; May 23-June 20; June 20-July 18; July 18-August 15; August 15-September 12; September 12-October 10; October 10-November 7; November 7-December 5.

In addition to the regular program, Esalen is now offering an intensive three-month course in basic organic horticulture. The cost of the program will be $1350. A $350 deposit is required. In filling out the Work-Study application, please indicate your preference of landscaping, gardening, or small scale farming.

For information on a special work scholar Gestalt Studies Program see Special Programs, page 39.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with $250 (or $350) deposit to:

Work-Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. $75 of the original deposit is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt of deposit.

Application for the Work-Study Program

date of application _____ daytime telephone _____

name _____ address _____

city _____ state _____ zip _____

date of birth _____ occupation _____ place of employment _____

smoker ☐ non-smoker ☐

The Work-Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work-scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

I am applying for the three-month organic horticultural program. ☐ yes ☐ no

I am applying for the Gestalt Studies Program (see Special Programs, page 39). ☐ yes ☐ no

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles and dates: _____

_____

_____

Please make a personal statement about your interest in the Work-Study program. Include any skills you may have available. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Medical Programs

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses and Physicians

The Board of Registered Nursing in the State of California has approved Esalen Institute as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Institute Category I approval so that physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education.

The following programs are approved for registered nurses and for Category I credit for physicians. See regular program listings for workshop descriptions.

If you have any questions about Esalen's medical or nursing program, contact Polly Kirby, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

September 6-11
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners — 30 hours

September 25-27
On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners
Phillip Mac, MD — 10 hours

October 18-23
Preventing Burnout and Dealing with Medical Impairment
John-Henry Pfifferling, PhD & Jeffrey Blum, MD — 30 hours

Towards a More Sensitive Relating
Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks — 30 hours

October 23-25
Towards a More Sensitive Relating
Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks — 10 hours

October 25-30
The Healing Community:
A Workshop and Seminar for Health Care Professionals
Kathleen Keating, RN — 30 hours

October 30-November 1
The Use of Anti-Psychotic Drugs (Neuroleptics) in Psychiatry
William Carpenter, MD, Michael Goldstein, MD, Herbert Meltzer, MD & Julian Silverman, PhD — 10 hours

October 30, 1981-February 21, 1982
Holistic Health Training Program
Coordinated by Polly Kirby, RN — 92 hours

November 13-15
The Hypnotherapy of Milton Erickson:
A Workshop for Professionals
Jane Parsons — 10 hours

November 27-29
Alternatives to Traditional Health Practices
Polly Kirby, RN — 10 hours

December 13-18
From Burnout to Personal Growth:
Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life
Elliot Aronson, PhD & Ayala Pines, PhD — 30 hours

January 24-29
Healing Rites and Ways
Phillip Mac, MD & Polly Kirby, RN — 30 hours

February 5-7
On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners
Phillip Mac, MD — 10 hours

Holistic Health Training Program

October 30, 1981-February 21, 1982
Coordinated by Polly Kirby

This program is designed for those seeking information and training in alternative health and healing approaches. For health care professionals this program will provide new knowledge and skills in holistic healing practices which they can use in their own health care settings. For lay persons and students this program will provide an in-depth introduction into the holistic health field, as well as the necessary training to maintain a high level of wellness in their own home environments. In addition to the emphasis on healing, the participants will receive complete training and personal experience in the ten deep-tissue sessions, and also will take part in on-going practicums focusing on training in gestalt and group process. There will be a weekly acupuncture clinic exclusively for the participants' own health enhancement, as well as regularly scheduled community health sessions where participants can observe the integration of the various holistic practices being taught. A part-time faculty of about twenty will be involved in different aspects of the teaching program. Based on our experience of the last four-month program, the workshop will be expanded to include fifteen areas of study and practice. These are:

- deep tissue
- gestalt
- community health
- organic gardening
- acupuncture
- homeopathy
- group process
- movement integration
- nutrition
- herbology
- anatomy
- massage
- t'ai chi
- Bach flower remedies
- healing meditations

A course outline describing each of the areas covered can be obtained by writing to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Classes will be held six days per week, with three meetings usually being scheduled for each day. Included in this time will be a four-hour per week work commitment in various community projects. Only Wednesdays will be off-days, although all classes are considered optional, leaving the intensity of the learning experience completely up to the choice and capacity of the individual participants. During this four-month period there will also be on-going community sessions which are open to all residents in the Esalen community. In the past these have included morning yoga practice, zazen meditation, Feldenkrais exercises, body-stretching exercises, movement and dance, various forms of energetic release work, intra and inter-personal process work, chanting and different spiritual and contemplative practices, video tape and movie presentations, astrology sessions, and evening lectures on a host of subjects. During the four-month stay, participants in the program are also free to sign up for any of the regularly scheduled Esalen catalog programs on a space available basis by payment of the leader's fee. To provide some recreation and diversion, occasional outings into the magnificent Big Sur countryside and along the coastline will be planned throughout the program.

Cost of the program including tuition, room, and board is $6300. Rooms will be shared. A $500 deposit is required to reserve a place in the program. Early registration is recommended. The deposit is refundable in full if you are not accepted into the program. A limited scholarship fund is available for this program and will be assigned on the basis of need; kindly apply as early as possible detailing your situation, if this is a consideration for enrolling in the program.

Esalen is not a degree, diploma, or certificate granting institution. This program is offered for professional and educational enrichment. Participants must make their own arrangements to assure compliance with respective state licensing requirements for professionally applying any skills acquired in this program. Verification of attendance will be given to nurses and physicians in the program desiring continuing education credit for this experience.

The program will be repeated in an extended version in the fall of 1982, during the six-month period of October 8-March 27, 1983.

Special Programs

Childbirth and Midwifery

Esalen's Childbirth Education Program has begun offering workshops in birth and midwifery. The program includes weekend workshops for pregnant couples interested in exploring conscious childbirth, presented by midwives and families from the community. Other workshops are for midwives, birth educators, and doctors to come together. For information contact Peggy Horan at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920, (408) 667-2335.

October 4-30
Christina & Stanislav Grof

East and West: Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science

A four-week interdisciplinary training program organized jointly by the Esalen Institute and the International Transpersonal Association (ITA). This workshop is designed for professionals and students of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy interested in the interface and recent convergence of mysticism and science. Special attention will be paid to a new understanding of the psychotic process and transpersonal crisis intervention. This training program is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals qualified to facilitate the process of personal transformation and to assist in spiritual emergencies. It will focus on the following four areas.

1. Great Spiritual Traditions of the East and Ancient Shamanic Practices.
We will explore theoretically and practically siddha yoga, hatha yoga, the Tibetan vajrayana, the Buddhist vipassana meditation, and the shamanic methods of Mexican, North American, and South American Indians.

2. Revolutionary Paradigms in Western Science.
Participants will be introduced to modern developments in consciousness studies, brain research, and quantum-relativistic physics that make it possible to integrate ancient wisdom and modern science. Particular emphasis will be placed on spectrum psychology, psychedelic research, relationship between consciousness and matter, and the holonomic theory of David Bohm and Karl Pribram.

3. Psychosis: Disease or Spiritual Emergence?
We will discuss a new understanding of the psychotic process emerging from psychedelic research and modern laboratory and clinical studies. In this context, the focus will be on the shamanic process of transformation, kundalini awakening, John Perry's Diabasis, and the Laingian approach. We will also consider the promises and pitfalls of the spiritual path and experiment with methods of constructive assistance in transpersonal crises.

4. New Approaches to Therapy and Self-Exploration.
The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic input with deep personal experience and group process. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for the participants throughout the program. We will use evocative music, controlled breathing, mandala drawing, Jungian sandplay (Dora Kalff), cultivation of psychic abilities, body work, and gestalt practice. $1600

November 29-February 21
Coordinated by Joan Fiore

Work-Study Program in Gestalt Studies

For this period of time only, we are accepting a limited number of work-study participants as students in gestalt practice. These must make the full 32 hour per week work commitment as detailed on page 37, plus commit to four evenings per week and five weekends per three-month period of seminars, practicums, and group process work, with a strong emphasis on self-exploration in the gestalt form. Participants are also expected to initiate practice sessions of their own on a regular basis. Participation past the first month is BY INVITATION ONLY. Some second and third month students will get apprenticeship opportunities.

We are particularly interested in involving you if you are already working with people in some capacity (i.e., teaching, counseling, working in mental health or a ministry), and if you have at least as much commitment to self-healing and self-responsibility as to these processes in the populations you work with. We concourage you not to apply if a major focus on personal clearing is not a priority for you. Applicants may expect screening beyond initial application. Please use the information, instructions, and application form on page 37 when you apply. The fees and necessary deposit are the same as for the regular Work-Study Program described on that page.

April 4-30
Coordinated by Joan Fiore

Gestalt Practicum:

A course of experiential/didactic instruction in gestalt practice for those wishing to enhance professional skills and personal well-being, led by Joan Fiore, members of the Esalen gestalt staff, and interns in gestalt practice.

Admission by invitation only.

Week 1: Focuses on the process of group formation and introduces basic gestalt practice, concepts of gestalt, and the language of gestalt, as well as visualization, breath, and body work, to facilitate contact and release. We examine the gestalt form and its focus on integration and self-responsibility. We begin intensive individual gestalt sessions on participants' specific, personal issues.

Week 2: Continues didactic/experiential instruction in gestalt practice by introducing the initiative model of working with one another, both with and without faculty supervision, and continues intensive personal work.

Week 3: Continues practice sessions with video feedback as well as with faculty feedback, and re-focuses on group process, with participants leading group sessions as well as working with one another on an individual basis. Participants begin to create experiments for integrating their learning from this program into their professional/personal lives with their own methods and styles of working and being in the world.

Week 4: We are available to work with the feasibility and application of each participant's experiment and to continue to work with other individual and group issues. Partipants will also practice gestalt work in the Esalen community, with the supervision of more experienced interns and practitioners, as well as with one another. Requests for special application for invitation to this program should be addressed to Joan Fiore, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. $1600

Biographical Information

A

Irene Abizaid ..... linguist, lived for 19 years in the Middle East. She currently teaches intercultural communication.
p. 24

Suzanne Arms ..... is an author (Immaculate Deception: A New Look at Childbirth), filmmaker (Five Women, Five Births: A Film About Choices), public advocate, and futurist.
p. 31

Anne Armstrong ..... has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 16 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 14, 21, 33

Jim Armstrong ..... a former engineer, is a life-long student of esoteric studies.
p. 14, 21, 33

Elliott Aronson ..... is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.
p. 23, 27

Angeles Arrien ..... is an anthropologist, a Basque folklore specialist, a tarot counselor, and on the faculty of the California Institute of Asian Studies.
p. 12

B

Jamie Baraz ..... has studied meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Ram Dass, Jack Kornfield, and others in the United States and Asia. He has led classes and retreats in the Bay Area for four years.
p. 14

Al Bauman ..... studied with Wilhelm Reich. He is a Reichian trainer, musician, and actor.
p. 19

Daniel Bianchetta ..... practices shiatsu, rebirthing, deep tissue massage, gestalt, and intuitive readings at Esalen. He has studied extensively with Swami Muktanada.
p. 20

Jeffrey Blum, ... MD, a radiologist and internist, is the co-founder of the Center for the Well-Being of Health Professionals in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.
p. 19

Fred Boeve ..... is a Trager and emotional release practitioner. He has lived and worked at Esalen for several years.
p. 22, 31

Janet Zuckerman Boeve ..... has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than seven years. Her work includes gestalt practice, encounter, and emotional release work. She is currently a Trager trainee.
p. 11, 22, 31

Charles Brooks, ... author of Sensory Awareness, was formerly a woodworker and designer and has been a teacher of sensory awareness with his wife, Charlotte Selver, since 1963.
p. 19

Judith Brown ..... is author of Back to the Beanstalk. She spends half the year leading training groups in Europe and America and the remainder in private practice and teaching.
p. 17

George Brown ..... founded the confluent education program at the University of California, Santa Barbara School of Education. He works with his wife in Europe and teaches gestalt at U.C.S.B.
p. 17

Leon Burry-Trice ..... is resident architect and designer for the Esalen community.
p. 31

C

Peter Caddy ..... is the co-founder of the Findhorn Foundation, and is presently engaged in visiting and assisting in the link-up of communities, groups, and movements for the process of planetary transformation.
p. 31

Annie Callaway, ... professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for several years.
p. 13, 32

John Caple ..... is a college professor (after 14 years in management), career counselor, consultant, and leader of seminars for industry.
p. 28

Rick Carlson ..... chairs the California Governor's Council on Wellness and Physical Fitness. A lawyer active in the formulation of public policy on health, he is the author of The End of Medicine and Frontiers of Science and Medicine.
p. 16

William Carpenter, Jr., ... MD, is director, Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, and professor of psychiatry, University of Maryland School of Medicine in Baltimore.
p. 21

Seymour Carter ..... has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years.
p. 14

Stanford Eugene Cates, ... a minister on sabbatical from his official duties in San Francisco, is in gestalt training with Paul Rebillot.
p. 28, 29, 32, 33

Randy Cherner ..... is co-director of the Lomi School in Mill Valley, is trained in Lauren Berry work, and holds the rank of shodan in aikido.
p. 19

Barbara Clemans ..... is massage and movement specialist in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 23, 29

Don Creevy, ... MD, FACOG, clinical obstetrician/gynecologist, Stanford University Medical Center, is medical director of The Birth Place, Palo Alto.
p. 31

D

Terran Harcort Daily ..... is staff member and one of the dreamwork leaders of the Jungian-Senoi Institute.
p. 22

Joel Dweck, ... formerly a physicist and freelance builder, is a certified Radix® teacher in private practice in Santa Monica, California
p. 22

Ken Dychtwald, ... psychologist and international consultant, is the author of Bodymind, Millenium: Glimpses into the 21st Century, and The Aging of America (forthcoming).
p. 16

E

Esalen Massage Practitioners include Lila Daniels, Peggy Morrison Horan, Deane Juhan, George King, Lars Larson, Bill Liles, Deborah Medow, Jane Miletich, Dianne Sue Miller, Laurie Muller, Brita Ostrom, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vass.
p. 12, 14, 16, 19, 21, 24, 26, 29, 32, 34, 35

F

David Feinstein ..... is a clinical-community psychologist with the San Diego County Mental Health Services.
p. 34

Joan Fiore ..... practices and teaches gestalt, encounter, self-reparenting, and self-repairing on a group and individual basis.
p. 24, 25, 29, 32, 34

Joyce Frazee ..... is a gestaltist whose training includes art, encounter, bioenergetics, body awareness, and psychosynthesis. She is presently on the staff of Cold Mountain Institute.
p. 15

Joe Freeman ..... lives in Derby, Connecticut where he combines Radix® education with gestalt.
p. 36

Marty Fromm ..... trained with Fritz Perls for three years. Some aspects of their relationship are described in In and Out of the Garbage Pail.
p. 28

Betty Fuller, ... a humanist counselor and director of the Trager Institute, is a certified instructor of Trager psychophysical integration and mentastics©, and of Feldenkrais awareness through movement.
p. 17, 24, 34

G

Dick Galland ..... was the founding director of the Southwest Outward Bound School. He designs and guides wilderness programs for individuals, schools, and corporations.
p. 32

Charles Garfield ..... is the founder and director of the SHANTI Project, an international prototype for volunteer human services programs, and is on the faculty of the U.S. School of Medicine and School of Nursing in San Francisco. He is author of Stress and Survival.
p. 18

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) ... is a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and masseuse.
p. 12

Michael Goldstein, ... MD, is professor of psychology at U.C.L.A.
p. 21

Lawrence Greene ..... is the executive director of the Developmental Learning Center in Saratoga, California. He is a consultant and diagnostician.
p. 15

Christina Grof, ... hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." Co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 17, 22, 26, 31

Stanislav Grof ..... psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of Realms of the Human Unconscious and The Human Encounter with Death.
p. 17, 22, 26, 31

H

Anna Halprin, ... founder of the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop and co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Training Institute in Marin County, is the author of Movement Ritual I and Collected Writings.
p. 12

Daria Halprin-Khalighi ..... is a gestalt movement facilitator and is co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Institute in Marin County.
p. 12

Betsy Hand ..... trained with Virginia Satir and was on the resident staff of the Gestalt Institute of Canada. She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.
p. 14, 35

Robert Hand ..... is an astrological teacher, author, consultant, and researcher in Cape Cod. His latest book is Horoscope Symbols.
p. 21

Michael Harner ..... is an anthropologist whose books include The Way of the Shaman: A Guide to Power and Healing, Hallucinogens and Shamanism, and the novel Cannibal, which he co-authored.
p. 24

Paul Hawken ..... is co-founder of Smith & Hawken Tools and co-author of Seven Tomorrows.
p. 33

Richard Heckler, ... Ph.D., is a founding member of the Lomi School, a student and teacher of aikido, and author of the Mind/Body Interface.
p. 26

Peggy Morrison Horan ..... is an Esalen resident teacher of massage and movement and an apprentice midwife.
p. 12

Paul Horn ..... is a flutist, a jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and a teacher of meditation.
p. 31, 32

Al Chung-liang Huang ..... is the founder-president of The Living Tao, an international learning/sharing network with ongoing t'ai chi dance workshops.
p. 31, 32

J

Galvin Jackson ..... is a counseling consultant, teacher, lecturer, and writer.
p. 16

Dennis Jaffe, ... a family facilitator, teaches at U.C.L.A. Medical School. He is the author of Healing from Within.
p. 19

Sharon Jeffrey, ... tarot-symbology consultant, teacher, lecturer, and writer, has a business consultant firm in San Francisco, S.R. Jeffrey & Associates.
p. 12

Rick Jensen ..... has had extensive experience leading pack trips on horseback in the Ventana wilderness.
p. 15

Don Johnson, ... author of The Protean Body, teaches at Antioch West.
p. 19, 26

Michael Joyce, ... a somatologist and Feldenkrais teacher in private practice in Reno, Nevada and Dutch Flat, California, has written articles on the physiological learning process.
p. 25

Deane Juhan, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.
p. 12

K

Kathleen Keating ..... is a holistic health educator, a nurse practitioner in mental health, and director of inservice education for a private psychiatric hospital.
p. 20

Sam Keen ..... is an explorer of inner space, a psychonaut and philosopher, editor of Psychology Today, author of Apology for Wonder, To a Dancing God, Beginnings Without End.
p. 22, 26

Jeffrey Kent, ... an ongoing student and practitioner of gestalt, uses methods drawn from encounter and Reichian emotional release work.
p. 24, 29, 32, 34, 35

Coeleen Kiebert ..... is a sculptor, art therapist, and long-time explorer of creativity and creative personality.
p. 30

Clair Killen, ... a certified Radix® teacher and former resident teacher at Esalen, is building his home in the mountains of Oregon.
p. 15, 22, 32

Polly Kirby ..... is a registered nurse and former educator who is presently living at Esalen, where she is working toward integrating traditional and alternative healing modes.
p. 21, 24, 32

Michael Klaybor, ... a third degree black belt in kyokushin karate, is a gestalt practitioner specializing in hypnosis, and co-author of Women: Resist and Win.
p. 35

Howard Kornfeld ..... is a physician practicing emergency medicine and serving on the steering committee of Physicians for Social Responsibility.
p. 15

Mari Krieger ..... is part of a feminist group practice in Berkeley and teaches gestalt at Antioch West University.
p. 15

Stanley Krippner, ... dean of faculty at the Humanistic Psychology Institute in San Francisco, was director of the Maimonides Dream Laboratory in New York City.
p. 34

L

R. D. Laing ..... is a psychiatrist whose books The Politics of Experience and The Divided Self had a profound impact on contemporary attitudes toward mental illness and psychiatry.
p. 32

Raven Lang ..... is the author of Birth Book and a founding member of the Santa Cruz Birth Center, the Vancouver, B.C. Birth Center, and the Institute of Feminine Arts.
p. 20

Benj Langdon ..... uses photography as a meditational tool for seeing the beauty in the ordinary. He currently catches shadows of the dance of life that is Esalen, Big Sur.
p. 11

Maureen Lavender ..... is a trainer for The Center for Release and Integration, where she teaches postural integration, Reichian release, rebirthing, and polarity.
p. 18

Paul Lee, ... Ph.D., is director of the Platonic Academy of Herb Studies in Santa Cruz.
p. 20

Dub Leigh ..... is a humanist counselor, an advanced Rolfer®, and a practitioner of both Feldenkrais and Trager methods.
p. 25

George Leonard, ... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in akido, from which he derives his present work.
p. 19

Peter Levine ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He is currently working on three books in the area of stress resolution and Reichian vegito therapy.
p. 19, 26

John Lilly ..... is a teacher and scientist. His books include the Center of the Cyclone and Simulations of God: The Science of Belief (May, 1975).
p. 15

Elisa Lodge ..... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.
p. 13, 25

Nancy Kaye Lunney, ... a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, and does individual as well as group work at Esalen.
p. 19, 26, 31

M

Phillip Mac ..... is a board certified family physician who has trained family physicians and physicians' assistants. His special interest is the health and ill health of health care providers.
p. 15, 32, 34

John Majuri ..... is an eclectic counselor incorporating gestalt, transactional analysis, neo-Reichian work, and hypnosis.
p. 12

Mangrove ..... is an association of teaching and performing artists based in San Francisco, collaborating to explore contact improvisation and the collective creative process.
p. 27

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio), ... certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches in group and private instruction.
p. 17, 35

Marilyn Mason, ... founder/director of the Wilderness Learning Institute in Minneapolis, is a family and sex counselor in private practice.
p. 22

Deborah Medow, ... Esalen masseuse and group leader for many years, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines directed toward rechanneling and balancing energy.
p. 15, 29

Herbert Meltzer, ... MD, is professor of psychiatry at the University of Chicago, and director of the Laboratory of Biological Psychiatry, Illinois State Psychiatric Institute, Chicago.
p. 21

Ralph Metzner, ... a psychologist in practice in San Francisco and on the faculty of the California Institute of Asian Studies, is the author of Maps of Consciousness and Know Your Type.
p. 12

Jane Miletich ..... is a masseuse, yoga practitioner, nutritionist, and student of midwifery.
p. 12

Emmett Miller, ... physician, musician, poet, and dancer, works with hypnosis, meditation, imagery, music, and movement. His books describe selective awareness, the approach he originated.
p. 13, 23, 26, 35

Howard Miller, ... MD, is a board certified surgeon, one of the founders of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis, and a member of the International Society of Hypnosis.
p. 21

Sandra Ferreira Miller ..... has been a bodywork and massage practitioner and instructor for many years, incorporating shiatsu, acupressure, Tragering, and other approaches.
p. 13, 23, 26, 35

Siri Mishler, ... certified Radix® teacher, is in private practice at the Radix® Center in Santa Monica, and is also a trainer for the Radix® Institute in Ojai.
p. 14

N

Bruce Neeb, ... a long term resident of Esalen, is experienced in gestalt, bioenergy, and encounter.
p. 26

The NINE ..... describe themselves as "giant reflectors of your selves, gestalt practitioners, marriage counselors—pure energy of emergent quality available to all." They are the center of the Esalen Paranormal Intelligence Project.
p. 24

O

Jenny O'Connor ..... is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."
p. 24

Heather Maycock Ogilvy ..... is currently working with women on ways to balance the contradictions of being many dimensional. She is in private practice in Palo Alto.
p. 16

Jay Ogilvy ..... is author of Many Dimensional Man: Decentralizing Self and Society and the Sacred, and co-author of Seven Tomorrows.
p. 16, 33

Daniel O'Hanlon ..... is a Jesuit priest and theologian who has had extensive experience with meditation practices in India, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Japan.
p. 19

James Oldham, ... author of Risking Being Alive, psychiatrist, and founder of the Gestalt Institute of Melbourne, is presently working in theatre and dance with Anna Halprin.
p. 17

Wendy Oser ..... is founder and director of Video Feedback Service of Berkeley, specializing in transpersonal, professional, and presentational applications of video, and creator of Video Insight.
p. 14

Brita Ostrom, ... a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 12

P

Wendy Palmer, ... a black belt in aikido, is co-founder of Tamalpais Aikido, an international movement arts center.
p. 26

Jane Parsons ..... was a facilitator in individual, group, and family treatment in the department of psychiatry at Mount Sinai Hospital for 12 years, and is in private practice in New York City.
p. 22

Andre Patsalides ..... is a psychoanalyst, professor of humanistic psychology and Arab studies at the University Catholique de Louvain, Belgium, and guest lecturer at U.C. Berkeley.
p. 24

John-Henry Pfifferling, ... Ph.D., is a medical anthropologist and co-founder of the Center for the Well-Being of Health Professionals in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.
p. 19

Ayala Pines, ... research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology in Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.
p. 23, 27

Prem Das ..... completed a six-year apprenticeship with don Jose Matsuwa and is the founder and director of Mishakai, Center for the Study of Shamanism, Covelo, California.
p. 25

Hector Prestera, ... an acupuncturist and physician, integrates Eastern and Western energy methods in his medical practice in Monterey, California.
p. 26

Christine Price ..... combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.
p. 11, 13, 16, 26

R

Paul Rebillot ..... was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theatre Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.
p. 28, 29, 32, 33

Heidi Rorick-Schaeffer ..... is a dance/movement practitioner in Santa Monica, California.
p. 20

Honey Rose ..... is a wife, mother of six children, and midwife whose main interest is natural healing.
p. 12

Jack Rosenberg, ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.
p. 16

Mira Rothenberg ..... is the co-founder of the Blueberry Treatment Centers in New York City. She has pioneered in intuitive approach of intimate contact in treating severe childhood mental illness.
p. 26

Frank Rubenfeld, ... past president of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, has been leading Esalen groups since 1969. He is in private practice in Berkeley.
p. 15

Ilana Rubenfeld ..... is the originator of her own integration called "gestalt synergy." She trained with Fritz and Laura Perls and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is on the faculty of New York University.
p. 29

Anne Ruderman, ... a certified Radix® teacher and clinical social worker, is in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 22

Rutuima, ... Prem Das' wife and don Jose's brother's (don Carlos') granddaughter, is a mother and teacher of Huichol.
p. 25

S

Stephano Sabetti, ... director of the Institute for Life Energy in Munich, is the author of Life Energy: A Psychotherapeutic Evolution.
p. 12

David Schiffman ..... is currently a leader in residence at Esalen, where he is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 12, 14, 15, 16, 17, 21, 22, 26, 31, 35

Will Schutz ..... is director of the Center for Holistic Studies, Antioch University, San Francisco, and author of the Elements of Encounter and Profound Simplicity.
p. 20, 29

Alan Schwartz ..... is a teacher of gestalt and a college professor whose latest article in print is "Energy Systems and Gestalt Process." He is currently writing a book titled The Psychology of Energy.
p. 29, 30

Peter Schwartz ..... is a senior policy analyst at the Center for the Study of Social Policy at SRI International, and co-author of Seven Tomorrows.
p. 33

Charlotte Selver ..... teaches sensory awareness, perception, and nonverbal and verbal communication. A new center is being built for her at Green Gulch Farm in connection with the Zen Center, San Francisco.
p. 19

Renan Sercarz-Suhl, ... a certified Radix® teacher and trainer with the Radix® Institute, practices in Santa Monica and Seattle.
p. 36

Phyllis Shankman, ... a counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, teaches at U.C.L.A. Extension.
p. 35

Julian Silverman, ... an Esalen Trustee, is a project director for Aspen Research Institute.
p. 21

David Silverstein, ... certified Radix® neo-Reichian teacher, specialized in hypnosis, movement, and dance, and is in private practice in Berkeley.
p. 20

Harriet Jasik Skibbins ..... is a licensed counselor, dreamwork leader, and assistant director of the Jungian-Senoi Institute of Berkeley.
p. 22

Harry Sloan, ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Robert Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 21, 30, 35

Gerald Smith ..... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 14, 35

Joan Steffy ..... has developed her abilities as a psychic and medium through methods learned in Europe, Brazil, and North America.
p. 16

Gael Switzer ..... is a Rolfer® and teacher of Rolfing®-movement integration. She has studied movement with Judith Aston.
p. 14

T

Susan Tanner ..... is an actress, director, and teacher of improvisational theatre. She is based in Los Angeles and affiliated with the Living Stage Company in Washington, D.C.
p. 13, 26, 33

U

Skip Utterback ..... has spent his life raising and training horses. He has been a rancher in the Salinas valley for 40 years.
p. 15

V

Gerrit Verschuur ..... was a research radio astronomer active in the search for extraterrestrial intelligence. He is the author of The Invisible Universe and Cosmic Catastrophe.
p. 20

W

John Welwood ..... is an editor and frequent contributor to the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology, and editor of The Meeting of the Ways: Explorations in East/West Psychology.
p. 35

Jenny Windsor, ... a registered nurse, is working with movement and the body as metaphor.
p. 15, 22, 32

Strephon Kaplan Williams ..... is the innovator of the Jungian-Senoi approach, a practicing dreamwork analyst, and author of the Jungian-Senoi Dreamwork Manual.
p. 22

Julie Wright, ... a certified Radix® teacher, practices in Santa Monica and does regular workshops in Rye, N.Y.
p. 36

Z

John Ziegler, ... in private practice in New York City, is also directing Winners, an all-improvised Off-Off Broadway drama/comedy that combines theatre and gestalt.
p. 17, 27

George Ehrlich

The Esalen media center has produced several audio-visual presentations to be available December, 1981.

They are entitled:

Gazebo — an innovative concept of school where learning replaces knowing; from the three R's to feeding baby goats and swimming with dolphins.

Esalen — an overview of Esalen: its history and the growth of its workshops, projects, and people.

Esalen's Energy Program — Esalen's plan to utilize the geo-thermal energy of its natural hot springs to heat buildings with home built, low temperature room heaters, and to provide domestic hot water.

Films and Tapes

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single tape titles are $9 ($10 by purchase order); two-tape titles are $16 ($18 by purchase order):

Fritjof Capra: The Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures
Bob Schwartz: (2) Entrepreneurship & Human Potential, I-II
George Leonard & Paul Hawken: (2) Visions & Economics, I-II

Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
Julian Silverman: Structural Basis of Body Work
David Schiffman: Group Process: Gestalt Etiquette
Alan Schwartz: Gestalt and Spirituality Journal Readings

Duane Elgin: Voluntary Simplicity
Reb Anderson: Zen
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism

Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human, I-II
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma, I-II
Charlotte Selver/Charles Brooks: (2) Sensory Awareness, I-II
Al Drucker: (2) Holistic Health and the Five Elements, I-II

Theodore Roszak: Personal Transformation through History
Roszak & Thompson: Cultural Transformation in the 80's
Wm. Irwin Thompson: On the Evolution of Human Culture
Wm. Irwin Thompson: Political Transformation

James Fadiman: Sufi Stories
Prem Das: Shamanic Journey with Drum Ritual
Sam Keen: An Erotic Psychology
Al Drucker: Creation, Entropy. . .and Deep Tissue Work

Rollo May & Daniel Ellsberg: Good and Evil
Linus Pauling: Vitamin C and Cancer
Andrew Weil: Altered States Without Drugs
Ram Dass: Hang on Tightly; Let Go Lightly

Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey, I-II
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot, I-II
Anne & Jim Armstrong: (2) A Psychic Training Program, I-II
Sam Keen & Rick Carlson: (2) The Politics of Healing, I-II

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Barbara Clemans: Explorations In Movement (3 tapes, 6 lessons) $30 ($34 by purchase order)
John & Toni Lilly: The Cetacean/Human Cyclone (3 tapes, 4½ hours) $30 ($34)
Joseph Campbell & Al Huang: Movement And Myth To Live By (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness And Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend Seminar (6 tapes, 9 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)
Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement; The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Esalen 1979-1980 Stress and Caring Conferences (10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology And The Individual Adventure (10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)
Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar (8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975-1980)

With Gregory Bateson's passing, these recordings are now part of his estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate:

Metaphors and Butterflies	Grof Workshop	May 1975
Schizophrenia and the Double Bind	Grof Workshop	May 1976
The Pattern Which Connects	Work Study	Dec 1978
What is Epistemology?	Work Study	Sep 1979
Civilization and Addiction, I-II	Work Study	Nov 1979
Interfaces—Boundaries Which Connect	Tues Forum	Feb 1980
It Used to Matter	Tues Forum	Mar 1980
Simple Thinking	Tues Forum	Apr 1980
Neither Mechanical or Supernatural	Work Study	Apr 1980
It Takes Two to Know One, I-II	Grof Workshop	May 1980

The complete set of twelve tapes (totaling almost 18 hours) comes in a vinyl album, accompanied by a summary of the contents of each recording for reference, plus additional pages. The set of twelve tapes is $88 ($98 by purchase order). Please add $2 to your order for mailing. In California include 6% tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Recordings from the Early Years

A catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $1 from: BIG SUR

RECORDINGS, PO Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write to HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette of Al Huang's work, entitled T'ai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, address inquiries to The Pattern Which Connects, PO Box 8, Forest Knolls, California 94933 — Phone (415) 488-0135.

The book FOOD FOR THE SENSES, Recipes and Artwork from the Esalen Community, is now available. To order by mail send $6.80 per book (includes postage) with your name and address to Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. California residents add 36¢ tax per book ($7.16). Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery. Orders of five books or more are available at wholesale prices. Write for further information.

The Esalen Catalog

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name

Address

City State Zip

We invite you to join us
in our organization

Friends of Esalen

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive regular mailings of the Esalen catalogs. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student	$15	One Year Donor	$50	One Year Patron	$500
One Year Individual	$25	One Year Sponsor	$100	(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name Student Affiliation

Street

City, State Zip Code Date

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

Registration Information

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three-week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercharge, BankAmericard, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335 Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The price of a weekend workshop will be $165, and a five-day will be $340. Please telephone or write the Esalen office for further information.

Scholarship Information: If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June 15-September 15 programs or for weekend programs.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from September through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Some special staff programs may also be open to residents. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $55 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $70 per day, or $105 per day per couple. Please phone the office for additional information.

General Information: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 5 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $15 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

The Esalen Staff

Sherry Ackerson
Barbara Adamson
John Ahrens
Steve Beck
April Bekaert
Daniel Bianchetta
Janet Zuckerman Boeve
Steve Bogoff
Leon Burry-Trice
Steve Cohen
Eve Cohn
Bette Dingman
Sydelle Foreman
Ann Guenther
Paul Herbert
Perry Holloman
LaVerne Hummel
Jaelitza
Polly Kirby
Benj Langdon
Dai Lesty
Kelly McKay
Chris Morath
Jose Mozic (Raman)
Glenn Naritomi
Bob O'Black
Lew Porter
Joyce Rogers
John Russell
John Soper
Ken Stevens (Narayana)
Margaret Stevens
Rick Tarnas
Lia Thompson
Selena Van Cleve
Bruce Weston
Steve Williams

Managers
Tom Brenner
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Brian Lyke
Helen Malcolm
Bruce Neeb

Board of Trustees
Diana Becchetti
Mark Dayton
Steven Donovan
Joseph Goldin
Janet Lederman
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Weir Perry
Richard Price
Julian Silverman

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place.

(Please Print)

Name_____ Sex M ☐ F ☐ Age_____

Address _____

City, State_____ Zip_____ Occupation_____

Telephone Number: Day Area Code ( ) _____ Evening Area Code ( ) _____

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend:_____ ☐ housing as a couple

Check whether this workshop will be held in Big Sur ☐ or as a Wilderness Program ☐

Do you smoke?_____

Limousine Service:
I want limousine service from (check one):
_____Monterey Airport
_____Monterey Greyhound Bus Station
at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays ar J Sundays only)

The $15 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's_____ (for physicians wanting CEU's)_____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Reservation Fee

[illegible] amount enclosed: $_____

Your reservation can be charged to:
☐ Master Charge ☐ Bank Americard ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration date_____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 46. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

The Esalen Catalog

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasizes the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

The Esalen Catalog

January-
June, 1982

One Dollar

Contents

The Esalen Catalog
Volume XXI, Number 1

Biographical Information 40–43
Catalog Subscription Information 43
Esalen Staff 46
Esalen Seminars 10–33
Experiencing Esalen 10
Experiencing Esalen: The Body 10
Food for Thought
Gazebo Children Play With Dolphins 4–5
Hell of a Way to Run a Universe
Nick Herbert 6–7
Notes From the Physics Workshop
Pamela Rainbear Portugal 8
Friends of Esalen 43
Future Programs 39
Medical Programs 36
Registration Information 46
Reservation Form 47
Special Announcements 44
Special Programs 35–36
Tapes and Films 45
Ways of Being at Esalen 10
Wilderness Programs 37–39
Work-Study Program 34

Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920
Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday & Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordinator: Joyce Rogers

©1981 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

"Contact is the appreciation of differences"
Fritz Perls

Steve Beck

Starting as the vision of one man, Selig Morganrath, Esalen's grounds, gardens, and farm continue to evolve in beauty and fruitfulness. Through the ongoing dedicated efforts of the lands crew and environmentally sound biodynamic and edible landscaping practices, we now have over fifteen varieties of fruit trees and berries, and are starting small scale grain crops. Through the farm-related Food Resource Project, we have started beekeeping, are planning chicken coops, and have the equipment to fish the waters of the coast. This catalog is dedicated to the people of the lands crew, and to the beautiful grounds of Esalen that they maintain and improve.

Gazebo Children Play With Dolphins

. . . thanks to Marine World-Africa, USA, and the Human-Dolphin Foundation.

Photographs by Joyce Rogers, Steve Beck, Keith Thompson, and Heather Malcolm

Hell Of A Way To Run A Universe

To the brain's eye, the same object appears different according to illumination, distance, and point of view. Our mind's eye unites these various viewpoints into a single conceptual image "out there" —a process that psychologists call "object constancy". The story of the blind men and the elephant points to an apparent failure of object constancy: separate impressions of "the elephant" do not coalesce into a single image for the blind men. The elephant appears as a wall, snake, fan, or tree, depending on what part each man has hold of. Each insists exclusively on his own point of view until, in most versions, a child comes along who sees the whole picture.

Because we are surrounded by what appear to be objects, this story amuses us by suggesting the absurd possibility of entities for which the usual conceptual consensus does not occur—the possibility of "non-objects." Many optical illusions qualify as non-objects, as do certain "impossible figures" devised by artists. Fifty years ago—to the consternation of physicists—atoms joined the ranks of non-objects. Atoms are too small to see; physicists probe them with a variety of methods more indirect than vision. Each method of getting in touch with the atomic elephant reveals a different picture. Moreover these separate pictures of the atom refuse to fit together into a single image.

Steve Beck

If atoms are not things and ordinary objects mere assemblies of atoms, why do ordinary objects seem so thinglike?

Some people interpret such observer-dependent phenomena as a breakdown of the distinction between subject and object, but an atom is objective enough. An atom is objective in the sense that different observers, taking the same viewpoint, will see the same picture, but at the same time, an atom is not an object because the pictures resulting from different viewpoints do not correspond to any unique thing. The atom objectively exists—as a non-object. As Heisenberg put it: "An atom is not a thing."

If atoms are not things and ordinary objects mere assemblies of atoms, why do ordinary objects seem so thinglike? Physics doesn't quit with atoms: ordinary objects are not really things either. However, under normal conditions, the thinglessness of ordinary objects is imperceptible.

We never observe a thing "in itself" but only as it appears in a certain experimental context. In each context, certain properties reveal themselves. But for an atom the sum of all such properties exceeds that which a single object can possess. There is more to an atom than meets the eye. Heisenberg showed that this "moreness" can be quantified and that it is equal to Planck's Quantum of Action. The Quantum is the unit of ambiguity in the universe. Both an apple and an atom have an "unthinglike extraness" one Quantum wide. An apple can be said to be more objectlike than an atom because an apple is made up of zillions of Quanta. In any context humans can devise. an apple's extraness is lost in its own glare, like stars in daylight. On the other hand, anything as small as an atom is a bundle of ambiguity.

An atom—mere handful of Quanta—is extremely sensitive to context. Atoms are hardly the "solid, massy, impenetrable particles" imagined by Newton; equally unreal: the fuzzy airbrushed clouds in modern physics texts. The truth is that atoms are nothing that anyone can picture; atoms are more like puns.

For an atom, even such a fundamental property as spatial location is determined by context. If you measure an atom with a crystal grating, it seems to be everywhere at once (wave); if you measure it with a bubble chamber, the same atom leaves a track as fine as a spider's thread (particle). Atoms are creatures of context; they have no properties of their own.

If someone were ingenious enough to devise a metacontext in which an atom appears "as it really is," physicists could slip back into comfortable old thingness. However, Neils Bohr closed off this possibility when he showed that choosing one context always involves giving up another. Yet both contexts are necessary for a full view of the atom. According to Bohr, nothing but partial contexts are available to humans. You can choose any viewpoint you please; but you cannot choose them all. Object-nostalgic physicists, most notabley Einstein, have attempted to devise contexts which evade Bohr's rule, but none have so far succeeded and hopes are not high.

Unthinglike Moreness and Incompatible Contexts are important features of the new physics. Atoms can display more properties than mere things because of the many sets of mutually exclusive contexts in which they can be observed. But to define a context we must know which parts of the environment really affect the observation and which are irrelevant. Where does a context end? Curiosity about the boundaries of context led to the discovery of the mysterious quantum connection.

Consider two systems (A and B) that have interacted in the past, have stopped interacting, and have moved far apart. Two physicists—Albert & Boris—make separate measurements on systems A and B. Albert chooses a (necessarily partial) context in which to look at A. At the same time, far-away Boris selects a context and looks at B.

Jane English

The results that Albert observes will naturally depend on Albert's context, but will his results also depend on the context chosen by Boris? The answer to this question is very peculiar—peculiar even by the standards of a thingless universe.

The question of the influence of distant contexts on local observations was posed by physicist John Stewart Bell. His answer is known as Bell's Theorem. Bell proved that certain systems which have once interacted continue to be linked by a strange quantum connection. "Once connected, always connected," says Bell.

We can appreciate the strangeness of the quantum connection by comparing it to Newton's Law of Gravitation. In Newton's vision every particle in the universe attracts every other. This attraction is mediated by the gravitational field, falls off as the square of the distance, and cannot act faster than the speed of light. Universal gravitation connects everything in the world, but its connection is carried by a field, mitigated by distance, and limited by light speed.

On the other hand, the quantum connection is not carried by any known field—systems A and B are truly not interacting. What seems to be going on here is that, despite their apparent separation, the very beings of the two systems never part—an option made possible by their thinglessness.

In contrast to gravity, the quantum connection does not diminish with distance—it is as strong at a million miles as at a millimeter. And since nothing is acting in the space between, the quantum connection cannot be shielded by interposing matter.

The quantum connection is instantaneous. The instant Boris chooses his context, Albert's system feels the effect. The quantum connection is faster than light yet it does not violate relativity because Albert cannot decode the message he gets. The quantum connection is Nature's own superluminal hot line—not open to people.

Quantum bond mnémonic: unlike gravity or any other force known to humans, the quantum connection is unmediated, unmitigated, and immediate.

Bell did not discover the quantum connection but he proved that it is real. Physicists were familiar with this connection before Bell was born but believed it to be a mere convention like the International Date Line. Bell showed in 1964 how the reality of the quantum connection could be decided by experiment.

Every object, even the most ordinary, contains a Quantum of thinglessness. Each object, no matter how solitary, has left a part of its being in everything it touched. Physicists have grown used to these facts but not one of us understands what is really going on. Meanwhile we share our world with mystery furniture.

Nick Herbert
May 1981

NOTES FROM THE PHYSICS WORKSHOP

Summary: Physicist John Bell is working on experiments which suggest that particles once connected remain in some sense connected. His work points to the conclusion that reality can be non-local; there may be a kind of communication that exists across space instantaneously.

In January of 1980, Michael Murphy's physics teachers, Nick Herbert and Saul-Paul Sirag, conducted an Esalen workshop titled "Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality."

The workshop began with a discussion of quantum mechanics, the system of experimental rules that has dominated the last fifty years of physics. Quantum mechanics have led most modern physicists to the conclusion that ambiguity and randomness are elements of nature.

Ambiguity (two or more valid meanings for one event) is ever-present, for example, in the study of light. Light can be understood as a wave, and it can be understood as a beam of particles (photons). Whether it seems to be a wave or seems to be in particles depends on whether it is measured with a wave counter or a particle counter. This is a case of what you see depends on your point of view.

As this discussion was going on in Esalen's Big House, one could look out the window and see the Pacific Ocean waves splashing into bits of foam as they hit the rocky cliffs. In physics the distinction between matter and field is no longer clear cut; perhaps both are somehow both, depending on how they are measured.

Randomness in nature has become evident from experiments following the rigorous and precise rules of quantum mechanics. What was previously written off as error and equipment failure is now often acknowledged as an element of nature. There is some randomness in everything that happens. Physicists no longer try to predict exactly what will occur in an experiment because events cannot be completely controlled or predicted. Now researchers calculate the probability that a specific event will occur, realizing that the same conditions can lead to different results.

Quantum mechanics is a set of rules for conducting experiments; it does not offer a general theory about the reality underlying the experiments.

Al•Huang commented that the findings of quantum physics are consistent with the ideas of Taoism. The Tao is unpredictable.

BELL'S THEORY

John Bell, of the European Organization for Nuclear Research, has been looking for the hidden variables of quantum physics. His theory is that any reality underlying what we see is non-local. With this theory, he is challenging Einstein's theory that no influence of any kind can travel faster than the speed of light. Einstein's position is known as "Einstein separability" or "locality."

In The Scientific American (Nov. 79), Bernard d'Espagnat presents the current evidence against Einstein locality. Experiments are still underway. Results thus far appear to support Bell's ideas. As the research progresses, better methods of testing are developing.

To prove that influence can travel faster than light, Bell started with the local experiment done by Einstein, Podolsky, and Rosen (the EPR experiment), which measured the polarization of pairs of photons emitted by decomposing mercury light.

As mercury light decomposes, pairs of photons are emitted. When these pairs of photons are polarized (passed through screens similar to polarized sunglasses), they line up into two beams of light; one blue, one green.

In Bell's hypothetical experiment, these blue and green beams of light are simultaneously passed through two different pieces of calcite, a bi-refracting crystal. Sometimes the photons are refracted up, sometimes down, as measured by photon collectors.

On the basis of the experiments cited in The Scientific American, Bell predicts that if the two pieces of calcite are parallel, the action of the paired photons will be perfectly correlated; they will both go up or both go down. As the calcites are set less parallel, the correlation decreases.

The central question is: how do the photons instantaneously know that the two pieces of calcite are parallel? How is the information of parallelness transmitted across the gap between the two photons as they hit the calcite?

John Bell concludes, with the enthusiastic support of Nick Herbert and Saul-Paul Sirag, that reality is non-local: the difference between here and there, is, on some level, unreal. Events can interact faster than the speed of light. As the photons hit the pieces of calcite, each photon seems to know how both calcites are placed. The photons started out together; they seem to continue to know what is happening to the other.

Bell's research may lead to more scientific study of telepathy and the idea that we are all one. All life speaks the same genetic code. Apparently we also have some linkage on the atomic level.

As d'Espagnat concludes in The Scientific American (Nov. 79, p. 181), "Most particles or aggregates of particles that are ordinarily regarded as separate objects have interacted at some time in the past with other objects. The violation of separability seems to imply that in some sense all these objects constitute an indivisible whole."

See also: Quantum Mechanics by David Bohm, and A Place For Human Beings by Pamela Portugal.

Pamela Rainbear Portugal
©1980 PRP

Ways of Being at Esalen

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose that approach which feels most appropriate and pursue it in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work-Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 34 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there are lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep-tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Joyce Rogers

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman Boeve

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen/Big Sur. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness training, encounter, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls).

Schedule

January 15–17
January 24–29
February 7–12
March 5–7
March 7–12
March 26–28
April 11–16
April 23–25
May 9–14
June 4–6
June 6–11

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Benj Langdon

Similar in format to Experiencing Esalen, but with a greater focus on a wide variety of body oriented approaches.

Schedule

January 8–10
January 22–24
February 12–14
March 19–21
April 16–18
May 14–16
May 28–30

Esalen Seminars

Weekend of January 1-3

Creative Pattern and Experience
Coeleen Kiebert

An in-depth exploration of the creative process. Participants will identify their own form of creative expression. Individual pattern and experience will evolve through color, paint, clay, and music. Art will become a vehicle of communication, both inward and outward. $200

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process
Alan Schwartz

This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. $200

Humor and the Creative Process: The "Ha Ha" and the "Aha!"
Harry Sloan

The dynamics of humor intimately parallel the creative process. Those humorous moments that extricate us from a stuck situation are similar to creative insight, which spontaneously resolves a problem with which we have been wrestling. In both cases there is often an experience of freedom, joy, perspective, and connection with a deeper sense of self.

The purpose of this program is not to become a stand-up comic, but to use humor as a vehicle for developing a playful view of life and ourselves. The format will blend experiential exercises with discussion of the nature of humor and the creative process. Some of the themes that participants will focus on are: the imagination as a bridge between conflict and resolution; self-affirmation and the ability to create; humor and spontaneity; the archetype of the wise old fool; and methods to enhance the quality of humor in one's daily life. This intensive program will be geared for those who are willing to be silly, play, risk, and penetrate into the restrictive elements in their process that tend to retard the "Ha Ha" or "Aha!" $200

Week of January 3-8

Gestalt Practice
Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear
—And used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. Those who primarily wish interpersonal work are advised to attend an encounter rather than a gestalt group.

Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls); Tao Te Ching (Lao Tzu); The Power of Mindfulness (Nyanponika Thera); Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg (J.C. Pearce); Illusions (Richard Bach). $400

The Spiritual Path: Promises and Pitfalls
Christina & Stanislav Grof

We will combine observations from modern consciousness research and from various traditional practices to explore the process of spiritual awakening. The participants will have the opportunity to confront transpersonal areas within themselves in various experiential exercises, combining evocative slide-shows, music, controlled breathing, mandala drawing, and individual work if appropriate. Special attention will be paid to the understanding of and approach to "spiritual emergencies" which can occur in the context of the kundalini process and other forms of personal evolution. $400

The Feeling Process
Janet Zuckerman Boeve & Fred Boeve

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to oneself, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants can learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate, in a safe environment, in the exploration of expression or depression. An experiential workshop. $400

Weekend of January 8-10

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $200

Exploring Self-Acceptance
David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and encounter methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive, creative functioning. $200

Joyce Rogers

The Lands Crew: (left to right) Bruce Neeb, April Bakaert, John Lallaman, Eve Cohn, Clay Langdon, Steve Williams, Rafael Church, and Christina Tschumi.

Optimal Health and Normalcy in Childbirth

Don Creevy & Suzanne Arms

This workshop is open to anyone with an interest in birth, in the way children are born, and the issues facing today's parents and professionals, as birth practices evolve and transorm our images of what is safe, what is necessary, and what is ideal.

Included in this weekend will be presentations of new and exciting research and alternative styles of birth, films, discussions, and group and individual exercises. Some topics to be covered include what is normal; minimizing risk; use of non-interventive aids in pregnancy, labor, and with infants; the place of birth; the role of the professional; neighborhood support systems; feminism and mothering; men and childbirth; self care; the relationship of attitude to physiology.

This workshop is of special value for nurses, midwives, physicians, birth educators, therapists, and teachers of human sexuality or women's studies. $200

A Weekend with Peter Caddy: The Findhorn Experience

This workshop will explore the Findhorn spirit, the spirit of cooperating with God, nature, and man. The stress will be on what is right with you and the universe. Participants will explore the example of the founding and development of Findhorn, and use meditation and discussion to create a community of consciousness for the weekend. $200

Week of January 10–15

A Week with Peter Caddy: The Findhorn Experience

For workshop description see January 8-10. $400

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, encounter, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $400

Living Tao: The Joy of Self-Cultivation
Al Chung-liang Huang

The art of successful living is a personal and individual process in the joy and spontaneity of continuous self-cultivation. Participants will explore and digest this perennial philosophy in terms of everyday living, and learn to move with ease in the t'ai chi simplicity and delight. $400

Weekend of January 15-17

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $200

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies,
Paul Horn & Al Chung-liang Huang

Paul and Al will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, and China experiences.

Recommended reading and listening: Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Huang; Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon), Watts; Paul Horn's albums: Inside, Nexus, and Dream Machine. $210

Esalen: A Sustainable Village
Leon Burry-Trice

Participants will look at the ideals, principles, and underlying concepts that bond together the vision of the Esalen village. They will focus on the Esalen community as an example and model of the village plan: from ecological design to energy self-sufficiency; from agricultural stewardship to solar architecture. This workshop is intended for anyone interested in viable ecological communities for the future. $200

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience
Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $200

Week of January 17-22

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies,
Paul Horn & Al Chung-Liang Huang

For workshop description see January 15-17. $420

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners

An introduction to the language of the body, this course will attempt to view the human interior through various windows: massage demonstration and practice, yoga, Feldenkrais, movement, and evening lectures and discussions. Every major portion of the body will be given detailed attention. During morning and afternoon practice session participants will integrate this information in their own manner, evolving their own styles of working with the body. $400

Weekend of January 22-24

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $200

A Weekend with R. D. Laing: A Bateson Seminar

1. Personal recollections and theoried considerations of Gregory Bateson.
2. Discussions of Bateson's and others' (e.g., Stanislav Grof's) work in relation to Laing's work.
3. Account of the Philadelphia Association household, theory and practice: London, 1965-1981. $200

Week of January 24-29

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $400

Healing Rites and Ways
Phillip Mac & Polly Kirby

A week-long experience for health care providers, focusing on each individual's healing ability through centering, awareness, and visualization. In addition, participants will experiment with various forms of healing, including acupuncture, massage, deep tissue work, homeopathy, and psychic healing. An atmosphere will be created in which present healing modes can be examined and new alternatives discovered. For additional information see page 36. $400

Opening Feelings: A Path to Consciousness
Clair Killen & Jenny Windsor

Using various emotional release methods, movement, meditation, and massage, participants will experience their body armor, explore their fear of death and life, look at ways they control their lives, and consider new choices for living. $400

The Lover's Journey: Exploring our Polarities
Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

It is hard to relate to another person realistically if we are unconscious of our own inner process, the kinds of roles we play with ourselves and others, our sexual identities, our shadow and inner opposite selves.

This workshop will try to bring these many aspects of ourselves into awareness, where they can be evaluated and integrated. By dramatizing our own negative and positive polarities, ideal man, ideal woman, negative man, negative woman, our parent figures, and our own sexual identity, we can get a better grasp on who we are and how we are in relationship.

By combining playful improvisational theatre methods with gestalt process and emotional release it is possible to experience the humor as well as the profundity of these images and then to bring them into here and now contact with other members of the group, to discover how to relate more effectively. $400

January 24–February 1

Rediscovering Paradise: Kauai, the Garden Isle of Hawaii

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, pages 37 & 38. $550 (plus airfare)

Weekend of January 29–31

Close Encounters: Experiments in Meeting and Contacting Other Human Beings

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop provides an opportunity for participants to pay attention to the quality of their interpersonal contact, particularly to their willingness to take risks and their ability to stay true to their feelings while meeting and contacting others.

You may discover your own rhythm of contacting and withdrawal; you may discover how you sabotage yourself from having more satisfying relationships; you may discover you're getting exactly what you want from your relationships. You may discover anything; you may discover nothing. You may even discover that you're in charge. $200

Our Creative Core

Susan Tanner

"Each of us is an artist. All that is needed is a non-judgmental environment where we may use our creative selves and experience the power of our imagination."—Living Stage Credo

Imagination is our birthright, and the freedom to play is as essential to humans as breathing. Through improvisational theatre exercises, dance, visualization, poetry writing, and drawing, participants in this workshop will explore their many roles and characters to develop creativity. This form of theatre work is strongly influenced by gestalt and neo-Reichian practices. $200

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during this weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possiblities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $200

Alternative Futures

Paul Hawken, Jay Ogilvy & Peter Schwartz

What lies in store for us in the coming decades? How can we orient ourselves toward a future that is uncertain? The authors of Seven Tomorrows (Bantam, 1981) will join with workshop participants in generating alternative scenarios for the 80's and 90's. The aim is to inform present decisions with a new stance toward the future. $200

Week of January 31–February 5

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities. During the training exercises Anne Armstrong will use her own "tracking" abilities, acquired from over twenty years' experience in this field, to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. She has found through her professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the psychic input they normally receive. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to de-mistify the intuitive/psychic process and train participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $400

Let Go/Let Be Betty Fuller

Movement is a primary means to learning about self, relationships with others, and about one's place in the universe. This workshop includes physical and mental stress reduction and alignment exercises, guided imagery, nutritional information, and moving meditations, as well as the integrative bodymind approaches of Trager, Feldenkrais, and Rolf-Nolte. For each approach, methods for daily practice and individual followup are presented. The schedule allows time for rest and relaxation at the baths and participation in the work of the Esalen community. $400

Reichian/Gestalt Intensive

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop combines neo-Reichian breath and body work to facilitate physical/emotional release, with gestalt work to facilitate contact, integration, and self-responsibility. It will provide the time, the space, the opportunity to move from dis-ease to ease, from fragmentation to wholeness, from self-discounting to self-validating, from role-playing to authentic self-expression, from helpless victim to active participant. Group members might explore their dreams, tensions, madness, or options; take room to breathe or to explode, soak in nurture or exorcise demons, finish past unfinished business or examine present concerns.

First priority will be on intensive individual work in a supportive group setting. There will also be opportunities to experiment with the quality of interpersonal contact through group interactions. $400

Joyce Rogers

Weekend of February 5--7

On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners

Phillip Mac

This workshop is designed to look at the stresses of the health provider in training and in practice. We will work toward developing greater personal health consciousness through self-awareness and self-responsibility, and creating a healing environment within ourselves. Body awareness, centering, and visualization will be some of the methods employed. For additional information see page 36. $200

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This seminar gives basic instruction in massage. Through demonstration and practice, participants are taught the location of major muscle groups. They are also shown how to begin, develop, and close a session of full-body massage. There will be an emphasis on grounding and internal awareness, on the quality of one's touch, and on areas in ourselves and others that need relief. $200

Dreams and Your Personal Mythology

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Examining one's dreams is a powerful mode for assuming increased conscious and active participation in the ongoing development of one's personal mythology. This workshop will introduce the concept of personal mythology, explore the process in personal myth development, survey approaches for increasing conscious participation in one's myth life, and examine the state of one's own personal mythology with methods from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and the exploration of dream material. A substantial portion of the workshop will be devoted to personal exploration that will support participants in assessing their current life space and to intentionally focus energy in new directions. Participants are encouraged to bring a journal and to record their dreams in it prior to the workshop.

Suggested reading: The Realms of Healing (S. Krippner & A. Villoldo); The Dream Game (A. Faraday); Myths to Live By (J. Campbell); Working With Dreams (M. Ullman & N. Zimmerman). $200

Mind/Body Harmony

Emmett & Sandra Ferreira Miller

High level wellness, synergy, flow, balance, and harmony are processes which we all recognize and which, at least occasionally, bring joy to our lives. In this workshop participants will explore the experience of harmony within, through deep relaxation of the mind and body, through gentle muscle stretching and through imagery and massage. Participants will experience playful movement, music, and massage, and will explore harmony as the essence of high level wellness and peak performance that can help them optimize their personal and business lives and their health. $200

THE FARM

Joyce Rogers

Steve Beck

Joyce Rogers

Steve Beck

Week of February 7-12

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see page 9. $400

Massage and Movement
Esalen Massage Practitioners
This workshop will include basic massage instruction and awareness exercises, focusing on the qualities of touch. Movement exercises will include the basics of t'ai chi, awareness of body structure, and contact improvisation. $400

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release
Ma Prita (Laura De Nuccio)
This workshop provides a safe environment for participants to consciously experience the process of their own unfolding—physically, emotionally, energetically, sexually, spiritually.

By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked and frozen in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within. As we contact and allow our hurt and pain, we can increase our capacity for pleasure and joy. As we allow our expression of anger, we can deepen our capacity for love and compassion. As we contact and allow our expression of fear, we move toward trusting ourselves and others.

Utilizing Reichian emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, Feldenkrais, massage, reflexology, dance, meditation, and various other approaches, participants can move toward expanding their capacity for trust and fulfillment. $400

Choosing to Change
Harry Sloan
This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $400

Weekend of February 12-14

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see page 9. $200

Couples Workshop: Intimacy and Personal Growth
Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith
This workshop will focus on deepening contact and strengthening mutual support while expanding as individuals. Some of the time will be spent using structured approaches for enhancing communication, being separate, trusting, and fighting fairly. The approaches will be tailored to what each participant brings to the weekend. $200 per person

Focusing: An Integrative Process of Change
John Welwood
Focusing is a simple experimental method for untangling life problems, emotional blockages, or fixed mental habits, and opening up the natural wisdom of the body/mind. It developed out of many years of research into the core process of change in psychotherapy and creativity by Eugene Gendlin, John Welwood, and others at the University of Chicago.

Focusing teaches people how to pay attention to bodily "felt sense," which contains what they need to know about their lives, allowing new words and images to arise from it. This process integrates mind and body, intellect and intuition, resulting in a "felt shift," a bodily-felt release which allows a person to discover new ways of being and doing, which inspires forward movement in one's life. Focusing also facilitates stress reduction, the ability to listen and communicate more effectively, creativity, and physical healing.

Recommended background reading: Focusing by Eugene Gendlin (Everest House, 1978) $200

Risk Aliveness
Jeffrey Kent & Michael Klaybor
Many of us spend our lives collaborating with our culture and colluding with our families and friends in supressing, repressing, and depressing our energy, our feelings, our humanity. This workshop is designed to help participants reconnect with personal potency, changing avoidance to confrontation, anxiety to excitement, and depression to expression. Methods will be borrowed from gestalt, encounter, and kyokushin karate. $200

Week of February 14-19

Gestalt Practice
Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff
For workshop description see January 3-8. $400

Integrity David Schiffman
In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $400

Somewhere Between Freedom and Security
Phyllis Shankman
Living is often experienced as a delicate balance between one's desire for personal freedom or growth and the need for security and attachment. In this workshop, participants will explore the issues of independence/dependence, self-esteem, trust, risk-taking, work, love, and relationship. During the week, participants will use meditation, massage, music, movement, and the Esalen/Big Sur environs to slow down, relax, open, and experience themselves fully. Gestalt process work will be used to increase self-awareness. $400

Weekend of February 19-21

A Weekend with Joseph Campbell $190

—

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman For workshop description see January 8-10. $190

Energy Awareness and Body Transformation

George Leonard & Annie Styron

For centuries, yogic literature has described the transformative powers arising from meditative and physical disciplines. Recent years have seen the rise of new theories and research on positive bodily change through intentionality. Using simple mental and physical exercises derived from the art of aikido and from wellness practice, George Leonard and Annie Styron will guide participants along the frontiers of this emerging field. The workshop will begin with balancing and centering, stress reduction, and alternative ways of dealing with conflict, pain, and other problems, then will move into the use of intention and visualization. During the workshop, each participant will be offered the opportunity to create a program for the transformation of his or her own body.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, and Michael Murphy, Jacob Atabet. $190

Week of February 21-26

From Burnout to Personal Growth: Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who work with people who have experienced or are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and joyousness of their relationships with clients, colleagues, family, and friends. For additional information see page 36. $390

Sound Body/Sound Mind: An Introduction to Ohashi-atsu

Wataru Ohashi

By utilizing the entire body energy of the giver upon the receiver, Ohashi-atsu helps to restore a feeling of well-being and good health through touch. This workshop will teach basic Ohashi-atsu methods, including knowledge of tsubos (pressure points) and meridians (energy channels), how to utilize the essential ki energy, and how to apply body weight rather than muscular pressure for a more continuous, gentile, touching motion. $390

The Human Journey

Joseph Campbell & Sam Keen

Through lectures, slides, and discussions we will explore one of the oldest metaphors for the meaning of life—life as a journey, pilgrimage, odyssey, ascent. We will range through ancient and modern maps charting the stages on life's way. Guided exercises will aid each participant in recovering personal myths, constructing an autobiography, exploring the interweaving of universal and unique themes that make up a lifetime. Please bring a sampling of photographs from each period of your life. $410

Family Circles

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

"If you get rid of the pain before you have answered its questions, you get rid of the self along with it."
—C. G. Jung

In order to survive and win approval in our childhood situations, many of us had to develop an "act"—a set of acceptable behaviors that required the painful suppression of our own spontaneous energies. One step toward recovery of the authentic self can be the purging of inhibiting programs delivered in childhood. Family Circles offers a safe, supportive environment in which to answer the questions of our childhood inhibitions and destroy them through dramatic ritual action. Through a process of reparenting by ideal parents, psychodynamically enacted, participants will create for themselves the childhood of their heart's desire. $390

Weekend of February 26-28

Close Encounters: An Experiment in Meeting and Contacting Other Human Beings

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent For workshop description see January 29-31. $190

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Saul-Paul Sirag

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world. Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Micheison-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what this current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation. $190

The Body and Spirituality

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

The body is the chalice of the spirit, and must be emptied before it can be filled.

To strive for spiritual awakening without resolving the issues of the body can result in disorientation. These issues can be found in the body armor, those muscular tensions that stand in the way of full physical and emotional expression. Each tension in the body carries with it some unfinished experience of the past or expectation of the future.

In this weekend, participants will explore the various issues held within their bodies. They will create a safe space in which to express what has been depressed and integrate what has been locked up and fragmented. The group will work with a variety of disciplines, such as Reichian breathing, gestalt process, encounter, meditation, and chanting. $190

Week of February 28–March 5

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners — For workshop description see January 17-22. $390

Opening Feelings: A Path to Consciousness
Clair Killen & Jenny Windsor — For workshop description see January 24-29. $390

Put Your Memories, Fantasies, and Dreams to Work for You: A Reichian/Gestalt Approach to Energy Release
Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent — "To understand is to tremble. To recollect is to re-enter and to be riven."—Harold Brodkey
This workshop focuses on releasing the energy locked in our memories, fantasies, and dreams so that this energy can be made available for present relationships and life situations in a way that makes existence in the present less encumbered by unfinished business of the past, as well as self-programmed, self-fulfilling prophecies of doom for the future. First priority is on intensive intrapersonal work in a supportive group setting. There will also be opportunities to explore the nature of interpersonal relating through group interactions. $390

Pleasure, Sensuality, and Your Body
Barbara Clemans — This workshop is designed to enhance the feeling of aliveness in the body using pleasure to awaken the senses. In a soft, supportive environment, group members will start at the beginning, moving together in unity to learn caring, contact and nurturing, sensitive giving, and relaxed receiving. They will explore new patterns of moving and being together, and vital explorations in movement to music. $390

Weekend of March 5–7

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff — For workshop description see page 9. $190

Advanced Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners — Participants will use movement, demonstrations of specific practices, and discussions to find new approaches to massage. This workshop is open to those who have taken Esalen's massage intensive or its equivalent. $190

Body Insights Hector Prestera — Hector Prestera shares his views of body energy and personality blocks from both descriptive and intuitive levels. Personal and group process will be allowed as they naturally emerge. This workshop is for individuals who are willing to share themselves as part of their process of discovery. $190

Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich — This is a workshop for people who want to increase their level of awareness and assume responsibility for their own health management. The emphasis will be on nutrition, and learning what to eat in order to create vitality, energy, and health in the body. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live foods will be presented. Cooking classes will provide practical information on health food preparation. Group members will be instructed in the use of guided imagery to support the healing process. An exercise/flexibility program will be developed for each individual. The information presented will then be integrated into a personalized health plan for each participant to work with at home. $190

A Psychohistory of Adolf Hitler
Helm Stierlin — This seminar will draw on the author's psychohistory of Adolf Hitler, focusing particularly on his family dynamics. This will provide a major perspective for looking at political terrorism in post war Germany. At the same time, the origins and consequences of Nazism will be discussed. In this, the author will make use of his experiences as a family therapist of many German families in which older members had been active Nazis. $190

Week of March 7–12

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff — For workshop description see page 9. $390

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release
Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio) — For workshop description see February 7-12. $390

T'ai Chi Chih: A Key to Peace and Balance
Catherine Elber — Presented to the public in 1974, t'ai chi chih was a closely guarded secret of China's imperial class for over a thousand years. Easier than t'ai chi ch'uan, these movements are gentle and simple, providing energy, serenity, and balance. $390

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg — This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop, participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep us locked in obsolete behavior patterns. $390

Weekend of March 12–14

Exploring Self-Acceptance
David Schiffman — For workshop description see January 8-10. $190

A Psychic Training Workshop
Anne & Jim Armstrong — For workshop description see January 31-February 5. $190

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Joyce Rogers

Love: Emotion, Myth, and Metaphor
Robert Solomon
Jay & Heather Maycock Ogilvy

This workshop is for those who wish to think about and play with the question "What is Love?" Much of what we believe about love is a confusion of myths and metaphors, some quaint, some innocent, some amusing, some insidious. "Love" is a political word. It does not just name an emotion; it is itself emotive. We will jostle our unexamined love myths, both personal and social, in an effort to "re-vision," redefine the selves that give meaning to the word. Our methods will include philosophical discussion, story telling, and guided imagery. $190

Being Together, Being Ourselves
Paul Rebillot
& Stanford Eugene Cates

"Let there be spaces in your togetherness and let the winds of the heavens dance between you."
—Kahlil Gibran

Do you lose yourself when relating with others? Or do you avoid close relationship in order to protect yourself? The integration of these two dimensions of our being—the individual and the social—begins for most of us in experiences of personal relationship. Improvisation, gestalt process, and theatre games will help participants open doors to new awarenesses of self and relationship. This workshop will explore ways to achieve the delicate balance of communion and separateness that characterizes the integrated human being. $190

Week of March 14–19

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be
David Schiffman

For workshop description see January 10-15. $390

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see January 17-22. $390

Manifesting Your Personal Myth
Paul Rebillot
& Stanford Eugene Cates

Within the depths of every person is a story. These stories tell themselves over and over again in the lives of individuals as well as in the myths and rituals of every age and culture. Unaware of our story, we are lived by it, mistaking the gods for mere coincidences, reducing archetypal dramas to personal neuroses. Again and again, we find ourselves in the same situation, struggling with the same issues.

Once aware of our story, however, we can begin to draw on the energies of archetypal patterns, cooperating with them, working with them creatively, living our myth forward to new awakenings.

Working with myths and fairy tales, as well as personal dream material, participants in this workshop will explore their personal stories and experience them through gestalt process, intensive breath work, fantasy, dramatization, and ritual. $390

THE GROUNDS

Steve Beck

Steve Beck

Joyce Rogers

Steve Beck

Steve Beck

Weekend of March 19-21

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff — For workshop description see page 9. — $190

A Weekend with Will Schutz — $190

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience
Nancy Kaye Lunney — For workshop description see January 15-17. — $190

The Vertical Dance: A Climbing Weekend
Dick Galland & Annie Callaway — For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. — $175

Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson

About 80% of illness care—and an even higher percentage of preventive care—is self-provided, yet this most important part of our health care system is largely ignored by many health care professionals. Health workers are trained to rely almost entirely on expert-provided interventions.

This workshop will provide an overview of the field of self-care. Topics will include the present extent of self-care, what people can learn to do for themselves, self-care classes, self-diagnostic tests, self-help groups, social support systems, health promotion, self-care in the schools, the literature of self-care, the effectiveness and safety of self-care, self-care in the clinic, dealing with sophisticated medical consumers, the developing technology of self-care, special problems health professionals have in taking care of themselves, and more. Participants will have an opportunity to meet others with similar interests and to share their personal and professional experiences in self-care. For additional information see page 36. $190

Week of March 21-26

Esalen Staff Week — We will have no public programs during this period.

Weekend of March 26-28

A Special Weekend at Esalen

Except for one introductory workshop, we have set aside this weekend for all those Esalen friends who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and contact with the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual, and we will have Big Sur musicians and dancers as part of the weekend's activities. $120

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff — For workshop description see page 9. — $190

March 27-April 4

Woman's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure
Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge — For workshop description see Wilderness programs, page 38. — $375

Week of March 28-April 2

The Healing Community: A Workshop and Seminar for Health Care Professionals
Kathleen Keating

Participants will experience living together as an intentional community as they explore the theory and dynamics of roles and behaviors which are healing, for themselves as well as for clients and patients. Particular attention will be paid to the powerful healing energy that is created by the total group. There will be special emphasis on the healing modalities and methods in the wellness and holistic health revolution, and also on group dynamics, communication, and methods for uncovering creative solutions. Individuals will have an opportunity to explore individual power and leadership within the group. For additional information see page 36. $390

Your Own Myth-Body to Live By!
Joseph Campbell & Al Chung-liang Huang

We will explore and recreate ancient myths in our daily lives—in our thoughts and in our bodies—as we integrate intellect and movement into one harmonious living practice.

Recommended readings: by Campbell—Myths to Live By (Bantam), The Flight of the Wild Gander (Gateway), The Complete Grimm Fairytales (Pantheon). By Huang—Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People), Tao: The Watercourse Way (with Alan Watts, Pantheon), Living Tao (Celestial Arts). $410

Motion and Emotion: A Week of Gestalt Practice and Improvisational Theatre
Christine Price & Susan Tanner

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. With the use of guided meditations and individual open seat work participants have the opportunity to contact and explore their present experience, including unfinished situations from the past and fantasies of the future. Improvisational theatre provides an environment in which the players can bring their experience into creative expression through movement, music, and the creation of characters. By combining these two forms the improvisation can be an expression, affirmation, and celebration of the experiences discovered in the gestalt process. $390

Contacting Center, Inside and Outside
Deborah Medow

In this workshop participants will focus on alternative ways of contacting themselves—centering—and then moving out, contacting and interacting with others, from this centered place within. Basic yogic theory and practice, including purification methods, breathing exercises, meditation, and asanas (yogic postures), will be presented. Through the healing and meditative contact of massage, one's inner sensitivity can be shared with other members of the group. Through movement, music, improvisational dance, and theatre games, group members can play with the inside/outside balance which makes for more contact in daily interactions with themselves and others. $390

Steve Beck

Weekend of April 2-4

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process
Alan Schwartz For workshop description see January 1-3. $190

Pleasure, Sensuality, and Your Body
Barbara Clemans For workshop description see February 28-March 5. $190

Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich

For workshop description see March 5-7. For additional information, see page 36. $190

Astrology: A Map of the Psyche
Robert Hand

Carl Jung once stated that astrology contained within its teachings the sum total of the psychological knowledge of the ancients. The point of this workshop will be to show the validity of this statement expressed in modern terms.

Many people have tried to make astrology fit into various systems of modern psychology. Here we will explore the extent to which astrology is, in itself, a complete system of psychology, which makes its own statements about human nature, and which suggests rather surprising consequences for ideas of human life and behavior.

Little or no previous knowledge of astrology will be required in this workshop. We will be concerned largely with the symbolism and its psychological import, not especially with the techniques of horoscope analysis. Any material of a technical nature that is needed in the workshop will be introduced as we go along. $190

Is Enlightenment Everything? Rilke's Vision vs. New Age Distortions and Elephant Dung
Robert Bly

It is a proper task, in each decade, to look back at the decade before and think what is to be kept and what is to be left behind. In this workshop, we will try together to sift through the New Age harvest, separating the black grains from the white, as the fairy tales say. A few of the issues are: how far can we go from our own cultural tradition without losing a center? Is enlightenment everything? What about endarkment, the via negativa? How useful is the Eastern model of the psyche for a Westerner? As a guide to human growth, the poems and ideas of Rainer Rilke carry massive strength, and rise from our own tradition. We will keep his thought in the discussion as a guide, and go over certain of his poems. Participants should bring with them Selected Poems of Rainer Maria Rilke (Harper & Row), translated by Robert Bly, and any other Rilke translations they have, and their own questions. $190

Week of April 4-9

Living Tao Laughters: A Week With Al Chung-liang Huang & Living Tao Staff

Al will present his approach to t'ai chi and movement meditation with an emphasis on jokes and laughter. $390

Circle of Damage, Circle of Grace: A Workshop for Children and Their Parents
Mira Rothenberg & Peter Levine

When most of us are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of the walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them. Others are deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions.

In this workshop participants will look at the process by which they, as parents, children, and family unit, constrict intimacy and fortify citadels. They will explore safe ways to begin to dissolve these blocks and re-establish a basis for the exchange of feelings, needs, and perceptions.

Recommended reading: Children with Emerald Eyes (Pocket Books, N.Y.) by Mira Rothenberg. $390

Gestalt, Bioenergy, and Human Contact; Old and New Learning Integrated
Alan Schwartz

There is an energetic dimension to human behavior which is often locked behind the habitual patterns of defending against the fear, pain, and even joy associated with feeling. The visible expression of these patterns lies in the blocked musculature of the body. Reich, Perls, and Lowen suggested ways of being in which a person learned to allow more movement in the aggressive and sexual expression of the body. This week will be an opportunity to test the organism as Movement. Allowing energy means integrating body, feelings, conceptual process, and spirit. The result is stability and a deeper awareness of self and our interdependence with physical and social environments. The workshop can be thought of as a learning week. Appropriate didactic material will be covered. $390

April 4-30

Gestalt Practicum
Coordinated by Joan Fiore

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1600

Weekend of April 9-11

Weekend Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see February 5-7. $190

Death and Resurrection
Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

This workshop offers the opportunity to experience, rather than avoid, one of life's most real situations and its only inevitability: one's own death. On a wider scale, it explores ways to move creatively through life's many transitions, letting go of the old and welcoming the new.

Participants will prepare to experience death by reviewing their lives, completing unfinished business, writing wills. They will plan and celebrate their own funerals. Attachments to persons, things, and self-images will be gradually severed until, surrendering all to the ultimate unknown, the birth of the truly new may be experienced. $190

Spiritual Healing Alan Young

This workshop will be experiential, and will answer such questions as: What is spiritual healing? How does it work? Why isn't everyone healed? What are the inner causes of disease? How can we discover the underlying cause in each case? How can I help my own healing? How can I develop the ability to be a channel for the healing of others? It will include exercises in sensing the energy radiating from your own body, and from that of others. It will culminate in a demonstration healing in which all will be invited to participate.

The workshop is designed to interest: (a) Those who want to learn about healing themselves, or at least assist in the healing process; (b) Those who wish to become a channel for the healing of others; and (c) Those who want to learn more about spiritual healing as a matter of interest or personal growth. $190

Hypnosis and Parapsychology
Lee Pulos

All participants will be taught to experience beginning and advanced methods of self-hypnosis. There will be a

THE GARDEN

Steve Beck

Joyce Rogers

number of opportunities throughout the workshop to practice hypnosis for personal habit changes and to learn how to use hypnotic uncovering practices such as automatic writing and ideo-motor questioning. In addition to brief lecturettes explaining and de-mystifying hypnosis, the workshop will include exploratory use of hypnosis as a bridge to other realities. Trance states for opening up psychic and telepathic channels will be experienced and these will lead into turning one's visions inward to the possibility of multiple dimensions and existences. A feature of the workshop will be to teach how to use hypnosis for health maintenance $190

Week of April 11-16

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff For workshop description see page 9. $390

Choosing to Change
Harry Sloan For workshop description see February 7-12. $390

Joyce Rogers

Joyce Rogers

Steve Beck

Jane English

Joyce Rogers

Joyce Rogers

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio) For workshop description see February 7-12 $390

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman "Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of the self-defeating patterns of the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $390

Weekend of April 16-18

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff — For workshop description see page 9. — $190

On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners
Phillip Mac — For workshop description see February 5-7. $190

Exploring Self-Acceptance
David Schiffman — For workshop description see January 8-10. $190

When Push Comes to Shove: Fundamentals of Conflict Resolution in Everyday Life
Terry Dobson — Conflict is the opposition of principles, forces, or wills; resolution is the process by which we bring these opposites into agreement. Based on principles derived from the art of aikido, this workshop examines several conflicts of ordinary life—our family quarrels, our lovers' spats, our hassles with the "problem people" we encounter at work, the internal struggles we have with ourselves. It will explore ways to handle resistance and the buttons that trigger our fears and competitiveness. Through lectures, body-movement, role-playing, and individual work, participants will look for ways to gain and regain composure under fire, ways to diffuse the anger and hostility in ourselves and other people. $190

Week of April 18-23

Advanced Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners — This workshop will include morning and afternoon practice sessions with various instructors, yoga, movement, evening lectures and discussions, and demonstrations of specific practices designed to increase the range of conditions with which participants can deal effectively. The following concerns will receive emphasis: how to sustain one's energy through a day of treatments; how to clear negative energy released by the client; how to use weight and leverage. As one massages more and more deeply, emotional changes can be triggered by the unravelling of blocked muscular energy. As these emotions present themselves, they will provide group members with some firsthand practice in productive ways to move through them.

The format and pace of this course will presume some previous massage experience—at least an introductory five-day intensive or its equivalent. $390

Hall of Mirrors
Jenny O'Connor & The NINE — "Black and white have the middle master of transparency."—The NINE

In this workshop you will not just step into your own reflection, you will step into the fragments of every reflection you have ever lived, and thereby learn choice.

"The mystic steps into the revolving door of choice and realizes that he or she is not an apparition of the glass, but a glass for the apparition."—The NINE

Some of the finest teachers of the New Age have made themselves available for this workshop—some traveling from as far afield as Sirius B.

"A lie is just a fumble of the imagination."—The NINE $390

Adventures in Self-Exploration
Christina & Stanislav Grof — Focused self-exploration in this workshop will be based on the model of the unconscious that emerged from psychedelic research. It includes not only biographically determined areas but also the dynamics of the death-rebirth process and transpersonal experiences. Methods will include a combination of music and guided affective imagery, mandala drawing, yoga, massage, and individual work when indicated. $390

Surrender to Self
Merri Goldenson (Devarani) — In a supportive and safe environment participants will utilize individual Reichian intensives, group interaction, bioenergetics, imagery, hypnosis, dance, and massage to discover new ways to soften, let go, and surrender to themselves and others. $390

Weekend of April 23-25

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff — For workshop description see page 9. $190

The Moving Center
Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff — An American shamanic ritual using music, poetry, sacred dance, and ritual theatre experiences to mirror the mind, catalyze the heart, and open the body as a channel for creative energies. Through collective rituals participants will explore individual dreams and visions and learn to share differences. $190

The Art of Midwifery
Elizabeth Davis — Midwifery is more than medical; it's an art which combines sensitive response with creative facilitation. Designed for aspiring and practicing midwives plus interested parents-to-be, this workshop will explore ways of being with pregnancy and birth that are whole and healing. Participants will look at case histories and share practical methods of handling complications of pregnancy, birthing, and postpartum. Open participation is encouraged; bring stories to share. $190

Ritual Music Practice
Robert Greenway & Eddie Guthman — Since tribal times and before, humans have ridden waves of sound between day-to-day practical living and the most profound spiritual experiences. Much of this has been lost in our time. This workshop is a step toward reclaiming our spiritual music heritage. Participants will practice special ways of listening to inside and outside sounds, alone and together, both improvisationally and in a more structured ritual context. They will be helped to discover their true voices, to explore instinctive rhythms, tribal chanting, heart songs, etc. Group members are encouraged to bring sound-producing instruments (wind, percussive, string, or other), no matter how fancy or ordinary. $190

Joyce Rogers

Week of April 25-30

The Lover's Journey: Exploring Our Polarities

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

For workshop description see January 24-29. $390

Unity Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

This is a five-day shamanic healing ritual designed to inspire and channel the religious, sexual, and creative aspects of life energy into unity and expression. Through music, sacred dance, poetry, and ritual theatre processes, participants will explore and present their unique experiences of life's waves, rhythms, and cycles. The Moving Center tools are designed to release gifts, talents, and potentials. $390

Attachment and Separation: Loving and Letting Go

George Kohlrieser

Life involves a series of attachments and separations. This experiential workshop will focus on attachments—parents, family, children, spouses, lovers, places, things—and the corresponding grief reactions to separation. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. Depression is a signal that something is wrong in the attachment system, and burn-out occurs when people are negatively attached or cannot attach to either people or goals.

Joy is the physiological and psychological outcome of positive emotional attachments, and the unresolved grief of past separations can interfere with making new attachments and the experience of joy. Saying hello can only occur after saying goodbye. Patterns of attachment and separation learned in childhood, including symbiotic relationships, will be identified and related to how participants make attachments and separate in the here and now. The formation and celebration of positive emotional attachments and the emotional resolution of past separations will be encouraged within the supportive atmosphere of the group. $390

Weekend of April 30-May 2

Couples Workshop: Intimacy and Personal Growth

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see February 12-14. $190

Celebration of the Sensitivity of Self

Daniel Bianchetta

This seminar will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through energy awareness, massage, meditation, and movement. Emphasis will be on recognizing and remembering the wisdom and sensitivity of the self. $190

Energy Awareness and Personal Transformation

George Leonard

In the world of energy awareness, problems become opportunities and pain becomes a gift of energy. Through simple movement exercises, participants will practice centering, relaxation, and blending, and learn alternative ways of dealing with conflict and stress. To quote The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time. . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse. $190

Applied Vulnerability: Personal and Social Skills for Survival and Well-Being

Donald Michael

The next two decades will be a time of profound transition. The convergence of events, of new technologies (especially in biology), the inadequacy of conventional modes of governance, multiplicity of conflicting values, and the disintegration of the mythic system that has given coherence and direction to our perceptions and purposes over the last 300 years, all point to tumultous and difficult times ahead. If the years ahead are to be a time of transition to a sustainable world by the year 2000, it can only be by adapting a societal and personal posture of becoming learners. Underlying all else is the need to recognize and accept the extent of our ignorance about our situation. By acknowledging our ignorance, we become vulnerable, and by accepting vulnerability it becomes possible for us to feel compassion for our fellows and ourselves. In this workshop participants will explore several skills or "new competences" which follow from this compassionate posture and which open the possibility for humane and just responses to personal and social crises. These skills include acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future responsive, goal setting, self knowledge, and interpersonal competence. The workshop is appropriate for those who are interested in applying these skills to their personal lives as well as for persons interested in professional and vocational applications. $190

Week of May 2-7

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see January 17-22. $390

The Love Story: A Transformational Theatre Experience

Swami Anand Veereshwar (William Pennell Rock)

This workshop is an experience of transformation through theatrical expression. No theatrical background is necessary. Greatly strengthened by love and mutual support, participants will learn the secrets of surrender in improvisational expression, dance, and music. Participants will explore: the masculine, yang, or active principle; the feminine, yin, or receptive principle; the ego-resistance by which the active and receptive principles are unconsciously separated; the nature spirit by which they are united. The purpose of the entire process is to experience the balanced energies resulting from the inner union of the masculine and feminine in mystical synthesis. There can emerge a new capacity for expression and a new understanding of the whole self and its journey toward individuation. $390

Stress-Management and Optimal Performance

Ken Dychtwald & Staff

In this workshop participants will explore and examine the physical and psychological dynamics and characteristics of stress, with particular attention to ways in which stress can seriously hamper health and all aspects of personal and professional performance.

The daily program will include: running, stretching, and aerobic dancing classes; meditation, relaxation and stress-reduction sessions; health walks/hikes; massage classes at the Esalen baths; healthy and nutritious meals prepared in the Esalen kitchen; and evening seminars on such topics as stress-management, life planning, time management, total fitness, diet and nutrition, and longevity. This comprehensive program has been designed to allow each participant an opportunity to rest, refresh, and renew while simultaneously learning practical stress-management, self-care, and life-planning skills. $390

May 2-28

Paranormal Intelligence: Explorations of the Limits of Human Capacities
Christina & Stanislav Grof For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1600

Joyce Rogers

Weekend of May 7-9

Advanced Massage Weekend: Introduction to Polarity Massage
Esalen Massage Practitioners

Polarity energy balancing methods integrated with Esalen massage will be explored during this weekend. Previous massage or body work experience is recommended. $190

The Astrological Perspective
Rick Tarnas

This is a workshop for those interested in astrology as a tool for self-understanding. We will discuss the nature of the planetary archetypes and how to interpret one's birth chart. Particular attention will be paid to transits, and how to use them for understanding the ups and downs, the breakthroughs and crises, of our constantly changing lives. We will also discuss how planetary movements coincide with various events of historical importance—scientific breakthroughs, cultural revolutions, political and economic upheavals. There will be a special focus on the dynamics of the twentieth century, including the next two decades. No prior knowledge of astrology is assumed, though the greater your astrological understanding, the more you will probably receive from the workshop. Bring your birth chart if possible. $190

A Course in Miracles
Frances Vaughan & Roger Walsh

A Course In Miracles is a practical and theoretical self-study course for personal transformation. It is a spiritual teaching, but it is not a religion. It offers a universal teaching on the nature of self and the role of perception in shaping experience. It emphasizes self-knowledge, healing, and removing the obstacles to the awareness of love in relationships. At one level, the Course consists of a text which discusses theoretical and practical concepts, a workbook for students containing 365 daily lessons for putting the concepts into action, and a manual for teachers which defines our roles as teachers and students on the journey of awakening to the reality of who and what we are. The Course emphasizes experience rather than theory and provides practical instructions for spiritual development, especially through relationships.

This workshop will discuss the basic psychological principles of the Course, and the methods for putting them into practice in everyday life. It is open to anyone interested in the Course, but is particularly appropriate for those in the helping professions interested in using this form of self-directed transpersonal process. $190

Towards a More Sensitive Relating
Charles Brooks

An introduction to sensing, for more meaningful contact with our own nature and with the world around us.

Sensory awareness is a practice for rediscovering and reviving full sensory functioning. Through the gradual quieting of premature and inappropriate activity, it directs our attention both inwards and outwards to the actuality of the present moment. As perceptivity revives, true relationship becomes possible. Each everyday occasion in living gains its own freshness, its own uniqueness. We can become content again, like healthy children, as quality begins to make quantity unimportant. $190

May 7-14

A Seven-Day Wilderness Experience from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Center
Jeffrey Kent & Jessica Britt

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $325

Week of May 9-14

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $390

Gestalt Practice
Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see January 3-8. $390

Healing Rites and Ways II
Susan Baldi & Phillip Mac

Group members in this workshop for health care providers will experience visualization, massage, and centering in the context of health and its application to others. A focus will be taking a critical look at current health care practices and some alternative methods. Participants will have the opportunity to experience and evaluate these new methods for their own healing and the healing of others. Video taping and review will be used. For additional information see page 36. $390

Weekend of May 14-16

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $190

Encounter for Couples
Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop is for couples who feel willing to risk relationship for the possibility of enriching and deepening it. In this very intense weekend, participants will utilize gestalt, encounter, and family process to uncover and differentiate the specific interactions that deaden and depress the energy of relationship from contact that enlivens and excites, so that they can begin to make enlightened choices for themselves on an ongoing, moment-to-moment basis. $190 per participant

Beyond the Death of God: The Gnostic Gospels and the Revival of the Spirit
Elaine Pagels & Sam Keen

When orthodox Christianity declared the gnostic movement heretical we lost a sophisticated, mystical religious tradition that might have changed the course of Western culture. In the present time, when the old God of the Patriarchs, the transcendent Father in Heaven, is dead (according to Nietzsche and Time magazine), we are experiencing a rebirth of the spiritual quest. Coincidently, the Gnostic Gospels have been rediscovered and seem almost contemporary in their emphasis on the role of imagination in religion, the equality of the feminine, the non-heirarchical and non-authoritarian nature of authentic religious community. Participants will spend the weekend looking at these ancient resources, discussing and exploring the relation of body to spirit. Recommended reading: Pagels, The Gnostic Gospels; Keen, Apology for Wonder. $190

May 15-24

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains
Dick Galland, Annie Callaway & Marilyn Mason

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $575

Week of May 16-21

Our Creative Core
Susan Tanner

For workshop description see January 29-31. $390

Reichian/Gestalt Intensive
Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

For workshop description see January 31-February 5. $390

May 16-June 4

Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul
Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1200

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Weekend of May 21-23

Exorcising the Demon "Should"
Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

For workshop description see January 29-31. $190

A Weekend with Rollo May

Rollo May will discuss with the group some of his central ideas, some of which were touched upon in Love and Will and his latest book, Freedom and Destiny. Among these are:

1. The loss of the American Dream (The Great Gatsby) and the need for a sense of tragedy in America.
2. The daimonic as the source of destruction and creativity and our efforts to achieve the latter (Beethoven).
3. Despair and Joy (Demeter and Persephone).
4. The Dark Night of the Soul (St. John of the Cross) and the Holy City of which it is the prelude. $190

Week of May 23-28

Integrity David Schiffman

For workshop description see February 14-19. $390

The Hero's Journey
Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

The hero's journey is a dynamic form designed to facilitate people through life changes. Each group member's world will be viewed through the lens of fantasy, dramatized and experienced in a rite of passage based on a universal ritual used to celebrate this metamorphosis: the myth of the hero.

The hero will be structured from the absolute "yes," the demon from the absolute "no" of the participant's personality, externalizing the inner conflict. The two will then confront each other on the hero's journey, creating a dramatic struggle until a synthesis of the opposing forces is reached. $390

Weekend of May 28-30

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 9. $190

Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing
Dick Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $190

Therapeutic Touch in Care of Self and Others
Cookie (Arlene) Jurgens & Lavaughan Wilson

Therapeutic touch is a non-invasive care modality involving energy field intervention. This method, as developed by Dolores Krieger, Ph.D., R.N., will be explored in an experiential manner in this workshop. Therapeutic touch involves the use of meditation, centering, and visualization in developing an awareness of human energy fields, in perceiving changes and differences within these fields, and in channeling and modulating energy to facilitate healing for self and client. Current research, as well as the application and integration of therapeutic touch into the conventional health care system, will be topics of discussion. For additional information see page 36. $190

Joyce Rogers

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples
David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge
This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods. $190

Week of May 30-June 4

A Psychic Training Program
Anne & Jim Armstrong
For workshop description see January 31-February 5. $390

The Health Care Contract: Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement
Jerry Green
This workshop for health practitioners explores the basic elements of contract as they apply to health care relationships. Participants examine the process of patient/client planning for clarifying goals, expectations, and complementary responsibilities to improve clinical efficacy and minimize the risk of malpractice or licensing problems. A model for defining the responsibilities of each party will be developed based upon the scientific and philosophical objectives of medicine and holistic health practice. Experiential role playing will assist participants to develop skills for initiating patient/client contracts that support their unique clinical abilities. The workshop will also examine how written instruments, including brochures, intake applications, forms for record keeping, correspondence, and patient/client journals, can facilitate working relationships, document their progress, and evidence the nature of the professional responsibility assumed. For additional information see page 36. $390

Opening the Feelings
Dale Cummings
Participants will employ Radix® neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix® intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting, which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief or pain, fear and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexual feelings intensify and merge. $390

Weekend of June 4-6

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see page 9. $190

Weekend Massage Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners
For workshop description see February 5-7. $190

Body Insights Hector Prestera
For workshop description see March 5-7. $190

Preparing for Conscious Childbirth: A Workshop for Pregnant Couples Honey Rose, Peggy Morrison Horan, Jane Miletich & Esalen Mothers
Participants will share their hopes, fear, experience, and expectations with other pregnant couples. By recognizing and owning the joys possible through conscious childbirth, group members will explore the birthing possibilities available today. There will be discussions, film, exercise, massage, nutrition instruction, and ritual. $190

A Celebration of Life
Emmett & Sandra Ferreira Miller
This workshop will provide a time of quiet relaxation, music, movement, dance, and song, touching the silent source within, and emerging gently into movement, guided by soft melodies that sing of the beauty that surrounds us. With sound and voice joining in the song of life, the pulse of rhythm lifting weightless bodies and spirits into spontaneous dance, one can experience the fullness of being in silence and in sound, in stillness and in movement. A time of joy, celebration, and play. $190

June 4-11

Wilderness Celebration: Emergence in Nature
Jessica Britt & Ruth Leveton
For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $325

Week of June 6-11

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see page 9. $390

Gestalt Practice
Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff
For workshop description see January 3-8. $390

Zero Balancing Fritz Smith
Zero balancing is a body handling system utilizing structural acupressure to deal directly with the interface between body structure and energy flow. The workshop will be both didactic and experiential. Traditional anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology will be reviewed and then reinterpreted from an alternative viewpoint indicating the often overlooked imbalances which occur within our foundation joints. These imbalances may lead to chronic body pain, and frequently represent an ongoing energy drain from the body. While there will be both theoretical presentations and practical demonstrations, the main emphasis of the workshop will be toward individual instruction. This workshop is limited to persons certified in the healing professions. $390

June 6–July 2

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman
Elisa Lodge
& Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1600

Weekend of June 11–13

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

For workshop description see January 15-17. $190

Close Encounters: Experiments in Meeting and Contacting Other Human Beings

Joan Fiore
& Jeffrey Kent

For workshop description see January 29-31. $190

Energy Awareness and Creative Sexuality

George Leonard
& Annie Styron

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop, we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of energy awareness to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's forthcoming book, Love, Sex and Creation. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse. $190

Week of June 13–18

Opening Feelings: A Path to Consciousness

Clair Killen
& Jenny Windsor

For workshop description see January 24-29. $390

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see February 7-12. $390

Put Your Memories, Fantasies, and Dreams to Work for You: A Reichian/Gestalt Approach to Energy Release

Joan Fiore
& Jeffrey Kent

For workshop description see February 28-March 5. $390

Massage for Health Professionals

Deane Juhan
Brita Ostrom
& Esalen Massage Practitioners

This workshop is for people who touch the lives of others who are in dis-ease. It has several objectives: to cultivate the awareness of touching and being touched; to provide experiences of contacting others without words; to demonstrate methods of touching and massage; and to demonstrate the relationship between simple physical contact and the reduction of bodily stress. For additional information see page 36. $390

Esalen

A Calendar of 1982

A generation has passed since Richard Price and Michael Murphy came to Big Sur and embarked on an experiment that has evolved under the name of Esalen Institute. It is with this same spirit that we enthusiastically begin our second generation by offering these 12 months and 12 images. These 12 beautifully reproduced black and white photographs are printed on the finest paper, spiral bound, with one photograph for each month. The calendar lists when the sun enters each astrological sign, phases of the moon, and equinoxes, as well as legal and religious holidays. To order by mail, use the following form:

I am ordering _____ calendars at $7.00 apiece, plus an additional $1.55 per calendar for postage and handling in Canada, U.S.A., and Mexico. Other countries include $2.75. I am enclosing a total of $_____ (California residents add 6% tax.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please Mail to: Calendar, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920—Make checks payable to Esalen Institute

Work-Study Program

The Work-Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen/Big Sur. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. There will be a coming together in the evenings to share, contact, play—alone/together. Professional services such as massage and Rolfing® are available at staff rates.

Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to the community labor needs, and work assignments are made according to those requirements. The cost of the program is $500 for the first month, $450 for the second month, and $400 for the third. A $250 deposit is required with your application.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex which is 1½ miles north of Esalen. The Work-Study Program, lasting 28 days, is a full-time workshop in itself. The work commitment to the community, group process work, and teaching seminars make up a busy schedule for participants. Enrolling in the Esalen catalog workshops is therefore discouraged, since the extra involvement tends to interfere with the fulfillment of the Work-Study Program.

Available dates: March 28–April 25; April 25–May 23; May 23–June 20; June 20–July 18; July 18–August 15; August 15–September 12; September 12–October 10; October 10–November 7; November 7–December 5; December 5–January 2, etc.

In addition to the regular program, Esalen is now offering an intensive three-month course in basic organic horticulture. The cost of the progam will be $1350. A $350 deposit is required. In filling out the Work-Study application, please indicate your preference of landscaping, gardening, or small scale farming.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with $250 (or $350) deposit to:

Work-Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. $75 of the original deposit is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt of deposit.

Application for the Work-Study Program

Date of Application _____ Daytime Telephone _____

Evening Telephone _____

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

The Work-Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice; listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work-scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

I am applying for the three-month organic horticultural program ☐ yes ☐ no

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles and dates: _____

_____

_____

Please make a personal statement about your interest in the Work-Study program. Include any skills you may have available. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Special Programs

Childbirth and Midwifery

Esalen's Childbirth Education Program has begun offering workshops in birth and midwifery. The program includes weekend workshops for pregnant couples interested in exploring conscious childbirth, presented by midwives and families from the community. Other workshops are for midwives, birth educators, and doctors to come together. For information contact Peggy Morrision Horan at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920, (408) 667-2335.

April 4-30
Coordinated by Joan Fiore

Gestalt Practicum

A course of experiential/didactic instruction in gestalt practice for those wishing to enhance professional skills and personal well-being, led by Joan Fiore, members of the Esalen gestalt staff, and interns in gestalt practice.

Admission by invitation only.

Week 1: Focuses on the process of group formation and introduces basic gestalt practice, concepts of gestalt, and the language of gestalt, as well as visualization, breath and body work, to facilitate contact and release. We examine the gestalt form and its focus on integration and self-responsibility. We begin intensive individual gestalt sessions on participants' specific, personal issues.

Week 2: Continues didactic/experiential instruction in gestalt practice by introducing the initiative model of working with one another, both with and without faculty supervision, and continues intensive personal work.

Week 3: Continues practice sessions with video feedback as well as with faculty feedback, and re-focuses on group process, with participants leading group sessions as well as working with one another on an individual basis. Participants begin to create experiments for integrating their learning from this program into their professional/personal lives with their own methods and styles of working and being in the world.

Week 4: The faculty is available to work with the feasibility and application of each participant's experiment and to continue to work with other individual and group issues. Participants will also practice gestalt work in the Esalen community, with the supervision of more experienced interns and practitioners, as well as with one another. Requests for special application for invitation to this program should be addressed to Joan Fiore, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920 $1600

May 2-28
Christina & Stanislav Grof

Paranormal Intelligence: Explorations of the Limits of Human Capacities

A four-week interdisciplinary training program organized jointly by Esalen Institute and the International Transpersonal Association (ITA). This workshop is designed for professionals and students of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy interested in new paradigms for science and the new image of human nature. Special attention will be paid to the application of new data and concepts to an alternative understanding of certain episodes of unusual states of consciousness currently labeled as psychotic, and to transpersonal crisis intervention. This training program is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals qualified to facilitate the process of personal transformation and to assist others in spiritual emergencies. It will focus on the following areas:

Paranormal Experience and Abilities. The group will explore modern consciousness research, theory of psychedelic practice, and experiential methods of self-exploration that provide convincing evidence about the existence of paranormal intelligence and of the superconscious. Visiting psychics will spend time with participants sharing their special skills, offering insights into their lives and paranormal functioning, and assisting the group members to discover and cultivate their own psychic abilities.

Modern Parapsychological Research: Prominent parapsychologists will present their data on telepathy, remote viewing, psychokinesis, spiritual healing, and other paranormal phenomena. We will show films covering different aspects of parapsychological research. Participants will be introduced to modern developments in consciousness research, brain studies, psychedelic therapy, and quantum-relativistic physics that provide new conceptual frameworks for understanding psychic phenomena, particularly the work of Fritjof Capra, Geoffrey Chew, David Bohm, and Karl Pribram.

Psychosis: Disease or Spiritual Emergency? The group will discuss new understanding of the psychotic process emerging from psychedelic research, historical and anthropological studies, modern clinical and laboratory investigations, and analysis of ancient spiritual traditions. There will be a special focus on the promises and pitfalls of the spiritual path and on methods of constructive assistance in transpersonal crisis.

New Approaches to Self-Exploration, Healing, and Personal Transformation: The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic input with personal experience and group process. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for the participants throughout the program. Participants will experience controlled breathing, evocative music, mandala drawing, Jungian sandplay (Dora Kalff), cultivation of psychic abilities, and body work.

To apply for this program, please send your deposit and application to Christina Grof, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. $1600

May 16-June 4
Jack Rosenberg

Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

This workshop will start wherever you are in your inner journey. The work is an in-depth integration of body and gestalt practices and the transformative process of consciousness.

The course will cover:

Psychology of the Self: Working with early unfinished situations that interrupt our sense of well-being and interfere with our relationships in the present. Sexual implications of this work will be dealt with in body work and in lecture.

Body Work (Gestalt Body Approach): Theoretic and practical application, combining classical Reichian work, yoga, and aerobics and massage, assisted by Andrea Rosenberg.

Transformative Process of Consciousness: As our inner journey progresses, our figure/ground awareness is shifted from "doing" and "having" to "being" and to our relationship with the eternal. We will explore ways to integrate and sustain these new awarenesses in our everyday life. $1200

June 6-July 2

David Schiffman
Elisa Lodge
& Esalen Staff

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful." —Xenophon

People, like plants, need special care and attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what we've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness: What are the most important elements that support this transformation and renewal? And how might this process be effectively shared with others? Out of the answers to these basic questions has emerged the dream of combining the best of Esalen's human potential practice work with the spirit of adventure found in Outward Bound's wilderness programs, along with the gracious informality of living and working together in one of the most beautiful and peaceful settings in the world.

The aim of this unique curriculum will be to explore and develop a new model for learning, one that not only deepens the experience of traditional therapeutic process, but also breaks new ground in erasing the line between intensive group and individual work and the ordinary world of everyday life.

Among the areas we will touch on during this month are:

The Body and its Functions: As a temple for the spirit; as a reflection, and as a turning point from past habits, fears, and attitudes; as a source of grace, ease, and fluidity in movement and in contact; as a kinetic homebase for exuberance, playfulness, and balance; and as a healing source of touch.

The Emotional Realm: Exploring and opening the limits of temperament; redirecting negative feelings for inspiration and power; cultivating passion and strength as the core of integrity; resolving inner and outer turmoil simply and peacefully.

The Mind: Developing the powers of the imagination for self-affirmation and creativity; deepening the ability to see, hear, and understand so that one can range easily from the practical to the the transcendental; strengthening the sense of fair-witness and developing the skillful use of the will; using the perspective of humor to heal separation.

Coming together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in ourselves, the group will create a community whose foundation is based on trust, good will, and authenticity.

During the month each participant will have the opportunity to clarify and develop his/her own style and artfulness as an individual guide and group facilitator doing in-depth training in gestalt practice, body work, psychosynthesis methods, and the meditative arts. The program will be structured to include: intensive individual work; creative music and movement; wilderness and equestrian experiences; group rituals and celebrations; supervised observations; practicum work in group leading and individual counseling skills; video feedback; and illustrated lectures and didactic theoretical sessions.

The emphasis throughout will be on creating a personally integrated perspective that will bring buoyancy and lightness into life and work. This workshop is designed for people from all walks of life. $1600

Medical Programs

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses and Physicians

The Board of Registered Nursing in the State of California has approved Esalen Institute as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Institute Category I approval so that physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education.

The following programs are approved for registered nurses and for Category I credit for physicians. See regular program listings for workshop descriptions.

If you have any questions about Esalen's medical or nursing program, contact Polly Kirby, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

January 24-29
Healing Rites and Ways
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Polly Kirby, R.N. 30 hours

February 5-7
On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners
Phillip Mac, M.D. 10 hours

February 21-26
From Burnout to Personal Growth:
Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. 30 hours

March 5-7
Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. 10 hours

March 19-21
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. 10 hours

March 28-April 2
The Healing Community:
A Workshop and Seminar for Health Care Professionals
Kathleen Keating, R.N. 30 hours

April 2-4
Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. 10 hours

April 16-18
On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Professionals
Phillip Mac, M.D. 10 hours

May 9-14
Healing Rites and Ways
Susan Baldi, R.N. & Phillip Mac, M.D. 30 hours

May 28-30
Therapeutic Touch in Care of Self and Others
Cookie (Arlene) Jurgens, R.N. & Lavaughan Wilson, R.N. 10 hours

May 30-June 4
The Health Care Contract:
Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement
Jerry Green, J.D. 30 hours

June 13-18
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom
& Esalen Massage Practitioners 30 hours

October 8, 1982-January 28, 1983
Holistic Health Training Program
For program description see Future Programs, page 39.
Coordinated by Polly Kirby, R.N. 92 Hours

Steve Beck

Wilderness Programs

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

On one week programs, the deposit is $100. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your $100 deposit is forfeited. The balance of the fee, if already paid, may be applied to other programs within one year.

January 24-February 1
Dick Galland
& Annie Callaway

Rediscovering Paradise: Kauai, the Garden Isle of Hawaii

Kauai is the crown jewel of the Hawaiian Islands. On the Na Pali, Kauai's north coast, an ancient trail winds along the ocean to the remote valley of Kalalau. Here, traces of early Hawaiian civilization blend with tropical foliage, creating a setting of unsurpassed beauty. Among the Na Pali's razor-edged spires and flower-choked gorges, the producers of the movie South Pacific found their "Bali H'ai." Along the trail, fluted cliffs rise 3000 feet from the sea, and waterfalls cascade into deep pools, inviting swimming and sunning. The warm weather, brilliant white beaches, and gardenlike campsites make this a truly extraordinary adventure into the loveliest part of the Garden Isle.

Beginning our seven-day adventure at the Lihue Airport, the group will travel by van 25 miles through the lush patchwork of tropical agriculture to the road's end near the white sands and emerald sea bay of Hanalie. Carrying everything we need in our packs, cooking our food, and sleeping under the same stars the Polynesians charted their voyages by, we come to sense the timeless ebb and flow of life interwoven and in harmony with nature. We swim in crystal pools, camp on secluded beaches, and snorkel in the warm ocean. We pick guava and mango, and learn the history and myths of the early Hawaiians. Woven into the week are practices from psychosynthesis, yoga, group process work, natural history, photography, and journal keeping as well as time for solitude, making our journey through paradise a profound experience of inner and outer discovery and wonder. Previous experience not required. You should be in reasonably good physical condition. Complete equipment/travel information sent on registration. This is Dick & Annie's second Hawaiian trip through Esalen. Registration deadline January 11. $550 (plus airfare)

March 19-21 Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

The Vertical Dance: A Climbing Weekend

"There is an art to finding one's direction in the lower regions by the memory of what one saw higher up. When one can no longer see, one can at least still know." —Rene Dumal

Rock climbing is a dance done in a vertical world, a dance of grace, balance, and simplicity. It is an opportunity for stretching limits, for extending ourselves, for exploring our own edges. Rock climbs offer us a profound metaphor for looking at the ways in which we deal with stress and challenge in our daily lives.

Participants will climb the sunny boulders and low rock faces at Pinnacles National Monument, three hours east of Esalen. They will learn basic movements, with safety ropes that enable experiment. They will also learn to rappel and belay. No climbing or camping experience is necessary. A camping equipment package may be rented through the group leaders. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $175

March 27-April 4 Elisa Lodge & Annie Callaway

Woman's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure

During this seven-day adventure, starting at Arroyo Seco, the group will hike westward with the sun through chapparal, spreading oaks, and fields of wild flowers, emerging from the redwoods on the spectacular Big Sur Coast. During their hike, participants will explore feminine roles and archetypes, the dominant and shadowy parts of themselves, vulnerability and strength, heroism and adventurousness. There will be group process work, traditional wilderness instruction, rock climbing, rappelling, and Rolfing® movement integration, designed to promote balance, grace, and fluidity. Each participant will spend 24 hours alone in reflection and contemplation near the end of the trip.

The first night will be spent camping out at Esalen, and the last morning will be spent, upon return, at the baths. No previous camping experience necessary. Complete equipment list will be sent upon registration. $375

May 15-24 Dick Galland Annie Callaway & Marilyn Mason

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

The rugged Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone, almost disappears as it crosses the Mexican border into the Baja peninsula. About one hundred miles below the border it rises to form the Sierra San Pedro Martir, a forested plateau about 7500 feet high. On the eastern edge of this plateau, the soaring granite form of Picacho del Diablo, Baja's highest peak, rises to over 10,000 feet. This workshop will take us from a trailhead on the plateau's western edge through pine forests, broad open meadows, and along clear streams to the base of Diablo on the eastern escarpment. From there participants may climb the peak. To the west the green hills slope off into the Pacific. In the east the plateau falls away to the desert and the waters of the Gulf of California. Participants will descend onto the desert through a sinuous granite canyon, pausing to play in waterfalls and deep pools.

Group members will carry everything they need in packs, cook over fires, and learn a range of basic wilderness skills, including basic rock climbing. 24 hours will be spent alone in reflection and contemplation. The workshop will also include psychosynthesis, group process work, yoga, and journal writing. No previous experience is required. You should be healthy and reasonably fit. The program begins and ends in San Diego. Complete information on travel, clothing, and equipment will be sent upon registration. $575

May 7-14 Jeffrey Kent & Jessica Britt

A Seven-Day Wilderness Experience from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Center

Nature can provide us with opportunities to stretch our limits and explore our inner wilderness. By living without the routines that remove us from our source, giving priority to feeling and honest exchanges, we can expand our sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. They will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, geography, and the cultural history of the area. There will be sessions to work with feelings as they emerge, and rites of purification. The hike will conclude with each participant spending a 24-hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley, with natural hot springs, for the last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $325

May 28-30 Dick Galland

Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing

Few pastimes offer the opportunity of so profound a look into the natural world and into ourselves as flyfishing. The tools of the fisherman have more to do with disciplining the body and mind and tuning the senses than with killing trout. There is a focus and subtlety of movement in fly fishing akin to Eastern meditative disciplines. The possibility always exists of entering the trout's world. In fly fishing, the trout are the teachers. They let you know by their actions when you have presented the fly properly.

This weekend, which will be spent at Esalen, is a combination of practical instruction, visualization, physical exercise, and guided fantasy. Participants spend Saturday on the Esalen grounds learning basics. On Sunday, we travel a few miles up the coast to tempt the rainbows of the Big Sur River. Beginners and accomplished fishermen welcome. Complete information on equipment will be sent upon registration. $190

June 4-11 Jessica Britt & Ruth Leveton

Wilderness Celebration: Emergence in Nature

During this seven-day trip to the High Sierra, the group will practice ancient and modern methods for clearing and channelling energy, using American Indian purification rites, dream work, gestalt and group process, sound, breath, and music. There will be instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, geography, and the cultural history of the area. There will also be a "vision quest"—a time alone in the wilderness. No experience is necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. Detailed information sent upon registration. $325

July 4-30 Jeffrey Kent Helga Kraft & Harry Kent

Moon Cycle: A Month-Long Wilderness Adventure in Yosemite

Yosemite's wilderness is a world of both spectacular and subtle beauty. There the group will come together to share and integrate learning in a supportive atmosphere. Participants will spend time hiking (packing in everything needed for survival), rock climbing, rappelling, fishing, sunning, learning minimal impact camping, eating delicious and highly nutritious food, processing any feelings that emerge, and building Indian sweat lodges for use in chanting, praying, cleansing, encountering, singing, laughing, grumbling, doing nothing, solo-ing (for up to three days at one time), confronting fears, learning about strengths, and competing for the best popcorn recipe.

The main focus will be learning to find strength, courage, and playfulness within, reclaiming power, spontaneity, and inner peace. Methods will include the exertion of hiking and mountaineering, gestalt, encounter, and the American Indian circle, as well as guided imagery, meditation, and whatever else may feel appropriate at the moment.

Previous wilderness experience is not necessary. Participants should be in good health and prepared for the challenges of vigorous physical activity. Also highly recommended is a sense of humor and a willingness to "look bad." The group will meet in Yosemite on July 4. A complete travel information and equipment list will be sent to you upon registration.

Future Programs

September 5-26

Coordinated by Christine Price & Jessica Britt

The Primal Circle: Exploring the Roots of Well-Being

The search for physical, emotional, and spiritual well-being can be exciting and challenging. This workshop is a time for sharing those practices which we have found most effective and nourishing for ourselves.

First Week: Personal Roots
This part of the program will focus on physical sensations and feelings, using gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, and massage.

Second Week: Primal Roots
By backpacking in the wilderness, participants will have the opportunity to enrich their connection with nature. Taking inspiration from ancient ceremonies, they will invent rituals relevant to their present lives.

Third Week: Creative Roots
The closing week provides time for creative dance, music, and improvisational theatre. Sessions for personal clearing will again be included.

More information regarding this workshop is available upon request. Write to Christine Price, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

October 3-29

Joe D. Goldstrich & Esalen Staff

Optimum Health

This workshop will have three major components: training in nutrition, exercise with body awareness, and psychological process work. Each group member will have at least one private consultation with Dr. Goldstrich.

Nutrition Training: Participants will learn how to find the most nutritious foods in supermarkets and health food stores, and how to read labels wisely. They will participate in food preparation for the workshop, practicing recipes and methods that promote good health. The food program will integrate the best elements of the Pritikin, macrobiotic, and "live food" diets. Blood will be analyzed at the beginning and end of the workshop to see what progress each participant has made toward optimal health.

Exercise With Body Awareness: After an evaluation of each participant's fitness level, a personalized exercise program will be formulated. Video tape will be used to give insight into body image, enabling a healthier image to be formed. A wide range of flexibility programs will be used.

Psychological Health: Participants will learn relaxation and stress reduction methods, using group process work, gestalt imagery, and gestalt practice.

October 8, 1982-January 28, 1983

Coordinated by Polly Kirby

Holistic Health Training Program

This program is designed for those seeking information and training in alternative health and healing approaches. For health care professionals this program will provide new knowledge and skills in holistic healing practices which they can use in their own health care settings. For lay persons and students this program will provide an in-depth introduction into the holistic health field, as well as the necessary training to maintain a high level of wellness in their own home environments. In addition to the emphasis on healing, the participants will receive complete training and personal experience in the ten deep-tissue sessions, and also will take part in on-going practicums focusing on training in gestalt and group process. There will be a weekly acupuncture clinic exclusively for the participants' own health enhancement, as well as regularly scheduled community health sessions where participants can observe the integration of the various holistic practices being taught. A part-time faculty of about twenty will be involved in different aspects of the teaching program. Based on our experience of the last four-month program, the workshop will be expanded to include fifteen areas of study and practice. These are: deep tissue; acupuncture; nutrition; t'ai chi; gestalt; homeopathy; herbology; Bach flower remedies; community health; group process; anatomy; healing meditations; organic gardening movement integration; massage. A course outline describing each of the areas covered can be obtained by writing to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Classes will be held six days per week, with three meetings usually being scheduled for each day. Included in this time will be a four-hour per week work commitment in various community projects. Only Wednesdays will be off-days, although all classes are considered optional; leaving the intensity of the learning experience completely up to the choice and capacity of the individual participants. During this four-month period there will also be on-going community sessions which are open to all residents in the Esalen community. In the past these have included morning yoga practice, zazen meditation, Feldenkrais exercises, body-strengthening exercises, movement and dance, various forms of energetic release work, intra and inter-personal process work, chanting and different spiritual and contemplative practices, video tape and movie presentations, astrology sessions, and evening lectures on a host of subjects. During the four-month stay, participants in the program are also free to sign up for any of the regularly scheduled Esalen catalog programs on a space available basis by payment of the leader's fee. To provide some recreation and diversion, occasional outings into the magnificent Big Sur countryside and along the coastline will be planned throughout the program.

Esalen is not a degree, diploma, or certificate granting institution. This program is offered for professional and educational enrichment. Participants must make their own arrangements to assure compliance with respective state licensing requirements for professionally applying any skills acquired in this program. Verification of attendance will be given to nurses and physicians in the program desiring continuing education credit for this experience.

For further information write to Polly Kirby, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

Biographical Information

A

Suzanne Arms ..... is an author (Immaculate Deception: A New Look at Childbirth), filmmaker (Five Women, Five Births: A Film About Choices), public advocate, and futurist.
p. 11

Anne Armstrong..... has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 16 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 13, 18, 32

Jim Armstrong ..... a former engineer, is a life-long student of esoteric studies.
p. 13, 18, 32

Elliott Aronson..... is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.
p. 17

B

Susan Baldi, ... R.N., is director of student health at Santa Rosa Community College.
p. 30

Daniel Bianchetta ..... practices shiatsu, rebirthing, deep tissue massage, gestalt, and intuitive readings at Esalen. He has studied extensively with Swami Muktanada.
p. 27

Robert Bly..... is the author of nine books including National Book Award winner Light Around the Body. His translations include the poems of Neruda and Rilke.
p. 23

Fred Boeve ..... is a Trager and emotional release practitioner. He has lived and worked at Esalen for several years.
p. 10

Janet Zuckerman Boeve ..... has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than seven years. Her work includes gestalt practice, encounter, and emotional release work.
p. 9, 10

Jessica Britt ..... is a registered nurse who is a student and practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.
p. 30, 32

Charles Brooks, ... author of Sensory Awareness, was formerly a woodworker and designer and has been a teacher of sensory awareness with his wife, Charlotte Selver, since 1963.
p. 30

Leon Burry-Trice ..... is a resident architect and designer for the Esalen community.
p. 12

C

Peter Caddy ..... is the co-founder of the Findhorn Foundation, and is presently engaged in visiting and assisting in the link-up of communities, groups, and movements for the process of planetary transformation.
p. 11

Annie Callaway, ... professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for several years.
p. 13, 21, 30

Joseph Campbell..... is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.
p. 17, 21

Stanford Eugene Cates, ... a minister on sabbatical from his official duties in San Francisco, is in gestalt training with Paul Rebillot.
p. 12, 13, 17, 19, 23, 27, 31

Barbara Clemans ..... is massage and movement specialist in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 18, 22

Don Creevy, ... MD, FACOG, clinical obstetrician/gynecologist, Stanford University Medical Center, is medical director of The Birth Place, Palo Alto.
p. 11

Dale Cummings,..... MFCC and certified Radix® teacher, is in private practice at the Radix® Center in Santa Monica, and is also a trainer for the Radix® Institute in Ojai.
p. 32

D

Elizabeth Davis, ... midwife, instructor at the Holistic Childbirth Institute in San Francisco, is the author of A Guide to Midwifery, Heart and Hands.
p. 26

Terry Dobson ..... apprenticed to the founder of aikido for eight years. He is the author of Giving In To Get Your Way and Safe and Alive.
p. 26

Ken Dychtwald, ... psychologist and international consultant, is the author of Bodymind, Milienium: Glimpses into the 21st Century, and The Aging of America (forthcoming).
p. 28

E

Catherine Elber ..... is one of the first and few people in the world teaching t'ai chi chih.
p. 18

Esalen Massage Practitioners include Lila Daniels, Peggy Morrison Horan, Deane Juhan, George King, Lars Larson, Bill Liles, Deborah Medow, Jane Miletich, Dianne Sue Miller, Laurie Muller, Brita Ostrom, and Vicki Topp.
p. 12, 14, 16, 18, 19, 23, 26, 28, 29, 32, 33

F

David Feinstein ..... is a clinical-community psychologist with the San Diego County Mental Health Services.
p. 14

Tom Ferguson,..... M.D., is editor of the Journal of Medical Self-Care, medical editor of the Whole Earth Catalog/Co-Evolution Quarterly, and editor of the book Medical Self-Care: Access to Health Tools.
p. 21

Joan Fiore, ... an Esalen trustee, practices and teaches gestalt, encounter, self-reparenting, and self-repairing on a group and individual basis.
p. 13, 17, 18, 23, 30, 33

Betty Fuller, ... a humanist counselor and director of the Trager Institute, is a certified instructor of Trager psychophysical integration mentastics©, and of Feldenkrais awareness through movement.
p. 13

G

Dick Galland..... was the founding director of the Southwest Outward Bound School. He designs and guides wilderness programs for individuals, schools, and corporations.
p. 13, 21, 30, 31

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) .. is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and masseuse.
p. 26

Joe D. Goldstrich, ... Esalen resident faculty member, is former chief cardiologist at Pritikin Longevity Center, and past national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Association.
p. 18, 23

Jerry Green..... is an attorney specializing in medicine and holistic health practices.
p. 32

Robert Greenway ..... is an associate professor of psychology at Sonoma State University, where he is founder of the wilderness-psychology program.
p. 26

Christina Grof, ... hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." She is co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 10, 26, 29

Stanislav Grof, ... psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of The Human Encounter with Death and LSD Psychotherapy.
p. 10, 26, 29

Eddie Guthman ..... plays bass for the oceanic jazz groups "Belair" and "Angel Song", and is in his fourth season with the Napa Valley Symphony Orchestra.
p. 26

H

Betsy Hand ..... trained with Virginia Satir and was on the resident staff of the Gestalt Institute of Canada. She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.
p. 16, 27

Robert Hand ..... is an astrological teacher, author, consultant, and researcher in Cape Cod. His latest book is Horoscope Symbols.
p. 23

Paul Hawken ..... is co-founder of Smith & Hawken Tools and co-author of Seven Tomorrows.
p. 13

Nick Herbert ..... is an independent researcher in the foundations of physics. He is currently interested in Bell's Theorem and its applications to ordinary life.
p. 17

Peggy Morrison Horan ..... is an Esalen resident teacher of massage and movement and an apprentice midwife.
p. 32

Paul Horn ..... is a flutist, a jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and a teacher of meditation.
p. 12

Al Chung-liang Huang ..... is the founder-president of The Living Tao, an international learning/sharing network with ongoing t'ai chi dance workshops.
p. 12, 21, 23

J

Deane Juhan, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.
p. 33

Arlene (Cookie) Jurgens, ... R.N., M.N., and nursing educator, is a member of the board of trustees of the Nurse Healers Professional Association, Inc.
p. 31

K

Kathleen Keating ..... is a holistic health educator, a nurse practitioner in mental health, and director of inservice education for a private psychiatric hospital.
p. 21

Sam Keen ..... is an explorer of inner space, a psychonaut and philosopher, editor of Psychology Today, author of Apology for Wonder, To a Dancing God, Beginnings Without End.
p. 17, 30

Harry Kent, ... professional mountain guide from Colorado, has climbed and taught extensively in the Alps, Rockies, and Yosemite.
p. 38

Jeffrey Kent, ... an ongoing student and practitioner of gestalt, uses methods drawn from encounter and Reichian emotional release work.
p. 13, 16, 17, 18, 30, 33

Coeleen Kiebert ..... is a sculptor, art therapist, and long-time explorer of creativity and creative personality.
p. 10

Clair Killen, ... a certified Radix® teacher and former resident teacher at Esalen, has been working with cancer patients and building his home in Oregon.
p. 12, 18, 33

Polly Kirby ..... is a registered nurse and former educator who is presently living at Esalen, where she is working toward integrating traditional and alternative healing modes.
p. 12

Michael Klaybor, ... a third degree black belt in kyokushin karate, is a gestalt practitioner specializing in hypnosis, and co-author of Women: Resist and Win.
p. 16

George Kohlrieser ..... is director of Shiloah, Center for Human Growth in Dayton, Ohio, where he works with individuals, families, and groups.
p. 27

Helga Kraft, ... longtime Esalen resident, is a student and practitioner of gestalt and sensory awareness.
p. 38

Stanley Krippner, ... dean of faculty at the Humanistic Psychology Institute in San Francisco, was director of the Maimonides Dream Laboratory in New York City.
p. 14

L

R. D. Laing ..... is a psychiatrist whose books The Politics of Experience and The Divided Self have had a profound impact on contemporary attitudes toward mental illness and psychiatry.
p. 12

Benj Langdon ..... has worked as a brain researcher, drug education consultant, and documentary filmmaker. He is currently exploring transformation through body practices.
p. 9

George Leonard, ... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.
p. 17, 27, 33

Ruth Leveton, ... co-founder of Medicine Way, Inc., is a wilderness instructor for U.C. Santa Cruz Extension, student of biology and environmental studies, poet, and mask maker.
p. 32

Peter Levine ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He is currently working on three books in the area of stress, resolution and Reichian vegito therapy.
p. 23

Elisa Lodge ..... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.
p. 21, 32, 33

Nancy Kaye Lunney, ... a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, and does individual as well as group work at Esalen.
p. 12, 21, 33

M

Phillip Mac ..... is a board certified family physician who has trained family physicians and physicians' assistants. His special interest is the health and ill health of health care providers.
p. 12, 14, 26, 30

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio), ... certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches in group and private instruction.
p. 16, 18, 25

Marilyn Mason, ... founder/director of the Wilderness Learning Institute in Minneapolis, is a family and sex counselor in private practice.
p. 30

Rollo May ..... is the recipient of ten honorary degrees and author of Love and Will and Freedom and Destiny.
p. 31

NOPRST

Deborah Medow, ... Esalen masseuse and group leader for many years, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines directed toward rechanneling and balancing energy.
p. 21

Donald Michael ..... is the author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn.
p. 28

Jane Miletich ..... is a masseuse, yoga practitioner, nutritionist, and student of midwifery.
p. 32

Emmett Miller, ... physician, musician, poet, and dancer, works with hypnosis, meditation, imagery, music, and movement. His books describe selective awareness, the approach he originated.
p. 14, 32

Sandra Ferreira Miller ..... has been a bodywork and massage practitioner and instructor for many years, incorporating shiatsu, acupressure, Tragering, and other approaches.
p. 14, 32

The NINE. ..... describe themselves as "giant reflectors of your selves, gestalt practitioners, marriage counselors —pure energy of emergent quality available to all." They are the center of the Esalen Paranormal Intelligence Project.
p. 26

Jenny O'Connor ..... is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."
p. 26

Heather Maycock Ogilvy ..... is a counselor in private practice in Menlo Park, California. She also works in the Children's Hospital at Stanford.
p. 19

Jay Ogilvy ..... is author of Many Dimensional Man: Decentralizing Self and Society and the Sacred, and co-author of Seven Tomorrows.
p. 13, 19

Wataru Ohashi ..... is one of the first teachers to extensively promote the understanding of shiatsu in the United States. He is the founder and director of the Shiatsu Education Center in New York City.
p. 17

Brita Ostrom, ... a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 33

Elaine Pagels, ... author of The Gnostic Gospels, is professor of religion at Barnard College, Columbia University.
p. 30

Ayala Pines ..... research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.
p. 17

Hector Prestera, ... an acupuncturist and physician, integrates Eastern and Western energy methods in his medical practice in Monterey, California.
p. 18, 32

Christine Price ..... combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.
p. 10, 16, 21, 30, 32

Lee Pulos ..... is a clinical psychologist whose career has ranged from a traditional clinical practice in hypnosis to his current interests in gathering cross-cultural data on paranormal healing.
p. 23

Paul Rebillot ..... was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theatre Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.
p. 12, 13, 17, 19, 23, 27, 31

Honey Rose ..... is a wife, mother of six children, and midwife, whose main interest is natural healing.
p. 32

Jack Rosenberg, ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.
p. 18, 30

Gabrielle Roth ..... is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the east coast, where she directs and performs with her own theatre/dance company.
p. 26, 27

Mira Rothenberg ..... is the co-founder of the Blueberry Treatment Centers in New York City. She has pioneered an intuitive approach of intimate contact in treating severe childhood mental illness.
p. 23

David Schiffman ..... is currently a leader in residence at Esalen, where he is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 10, 11, 16, 17, 18, 19, 25, 26, 31, 32, 33

Will Schutz ..... is director of the Center for Holistic Studies, Antioch University, San Francisco, and author of Elements of Encounter and Profound Simplicity.
p. 21

Alan Schwartz ..... is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."
p. 10, 22, 23

Peter Schwartz ..... is a senior policy analyst at the Center for the Study of Social Policy at SRI International, and co-author of Seven Tomorrows.
p. 13

Phyllis Shankman, ... a counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, teaches at U.C.L.A. Extension.
p. 16

Saul-Paul Sirag ..... has published two physics papers in Nature and has authored a theory on the size of the universe. In 1977 he founded the Consciousness Theory Group, which he directs.
p. 17

Harry Sloan, ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Robert Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 10, 16, 24, 33

Fritz Smith ..... is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is in a private practice of holistic health in Watsonville, California.
p. 32

Gerald Smith ..... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 16, 27

Robert Solomon, ... author of The Passions and Love: Emotion, Myth and Metaphor, is currently teaching at Smith College.
p. 19

Helm Stierlin, ... author of Adolf Hitler: A Family Perspective, is director of the Division of Psychoanalysis and Family Therapy at the University of Heidelberg Medical School.
p. 18

Annie Styron ..... is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.
p. 17, 33

Susan Tanner ..... is an actress, director, and teacher of improvisational theatre. She is based in Los Angeles and affiliated with the Living Stage Company in Washington, D.C.
p. 13, 21, 30

V

Rick Tarnas . . . . . is Esalen's director of programs and education.
p. 29

Frances Vaughan . . . . . is a transpersonal psychologist in private practice in Mill Valley, Ca., professor of psychology at the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, and author of Awakening Intuition.
p. 29

Swami Anand Veereshwar . . . (William Pennell Rock), a disciple of Rajneesh, is founder and director of Bodhisattva Arts, a production company in Hollywood.
p. 28

W

Roger Walsh . . . . . is a psychiatrist on the faculty of the medical school at U.C. Irvine and author of Towards an Ecology of Brain.
p. 29

John Wellwood . . . . . is an editor and frequent contributor to the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology, and editor of The Meeting of the Ways: Explorations in East/West Psychology.
p. 16

Lavaughan Wilson . . . . . is a registered nurse, nursing educator, and practitioner and teacher of therapeutic touch.
p. 31

Jenny Windsor, ... a registered nurse whose experience has been mainly in oncology, is a licensed boat captain. She is building a house with her husband.
p. 12, 18, 33

Y

Alan Young . . . . . is a spiritual healer in private practice in Carmel, California.
p. 23

The Esalen Catalog

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

We invite you to join us
in our organization

Friends of Esalen

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive regular mailings of the Esalen catalogs. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student $15
One Year Individual $25
One Year Donor $50
One Year Sponsor $100
One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

Special Announcements

The Esalen media center has produced several audio-visual presentations to be available December, 1981. They are entitled:

Gazebo — an innovative concept of school where learning replaces knowing; from the three R's to feeding baby goats and swimming with dolphins.

Esalen — an overview of Esalen: its history and the growth of its workshops, projects, and people.

Esalen's Energy Program — Esalen's plan to utilize the geo-thermal energy of its natural hot springs to heat buildings with home built, low temperature room heaters, and to provide domestic hot water.

For more information contact Media Department, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes and artwork
by people of the Esalen community is now available.
To order by mail
use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $.85 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $6.80 (California residents add 6% tax). I am enclosing a total of $_____

Name _____ Street _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.
Allow 6 weeks for delivery. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Spiritual Emergency Network

This past fall, the Spiritual Emergency Network at Esalen announced the opening of Aurora House for Spiritual Emergencies. A rural retreat northeast of San Francisco, Aurora provides a supportive learning environment for persons undergoing intense spiritual transformation. Aurora residents are self-referred. For further information, contact the Spiritual Emergency Network, (408) 667-2151.

Nacimiento Ranch and Research Center

The birth of the Nacimiento Ranch and Research Center is taking place in the "golden, rolling hills of California" on the site of a 57-acre former guest ranch, a mile and a half from Lake Nacimiento, near Paso Robles. The new ranch center will have full residential and resort facilities in a setting of natural beauty and will be available for rental by groups in the human potential field by winter of '81-'82.

Directors Linda Tellington-Jones and Eleonora Islinger are assembling staff and organizing the Ranch's own courses in two areas: equine programs and human development programs. The equine program will include research and courses in horsemanship for adults, beginning to advanced, which will be based on Feldenkrais methods that dissolve barriers of tension and fear in the animal and that develop contact and trust between human and horse. The human development program will include special courses for athletes and business professionals, under the direction of Christopher Connolly, co-founder of the "Sporting Bodymind" series in Great Britain.

These workshops will explore frameworks common to the business and sporting worlds, such as competition, teamwork, and performance. They will promote the integration of body, mind, and emotions, recognizing wholeness as an indispensable step toward achieving realization of one's full potential. A variety of practices will be drawn upon, including self-hypnosis, visualization, biofeedback, psychophysical re-education, and meditation.

Cooperative projects with Esalen are under discussion, including wilderness trips, on horseback and on foot, through the thousands of acres of open country between Lake Nacimiento and the Big Sur coast.

For further information please write or call: Nacimiento Ranch and Research Center, 1400 Lakeview Drive, Paso Robles, Ca. 93446, (805) 238-1743.

Films and Tapes

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single tape titles are $9 ($10 by purchase order); two-tape titles are $16 ($18 by purchase order):

Fritjof Capra: The Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures
Bob Schwartz: (2) Entrepreneurship & Human Potential. I-II
George Leonard & Paul Hawken: (2) Visions & Economics. I-II

Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
Julian Silverman: Structural Basis of Body Work
Davis Schiffman: Group Process: Gestalt Etiquette
Alan Schwartz: Gestalt and Spirituality Journal Readings

Duane Elgin: Voluntary Simplicity
Reb Anderson: Zen
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism

Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human. I-II
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma. I-II
Charlotte Selver/Charles Brooks: (2) Sensory Awareness. I-II
Al Drucker: (2) Holistic Health and the Five Elements. I-II

Theodore Roszak: Personal Transformation through History
Roszak & Thompson: Cultural Transformation in the 80's
Wm. Irwin Thompson: On the Evolution of Human Culture
Wm. Irwin Thompson: Political Transformation

James Fadiman: Sufi Stories
Prem Das: Shamanic Journey with Drum Ritual
Sam Keen: An Erotic Psychology
Joseph Campbell: Tibetan Book of The Dead

Rollo May & Daniel Ellsberg: Good and Evil
Linus Pauling: Vitamin C and Cancer
Andrew Weil: Altered States Without Drugs
Ram Dass: Hang on Tightly: Let Go Lightly

Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey. I-II
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot. I-II
Anne & Jim Armstrong: (2) A Psychic Training Program. I-II
Sam Keen & Rick Carlson: (2) The Politics of Healing. I-II

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Barbara Clemans: Explorations in Movement (3 tapes, 6 lessons) $30 ($34 by purchase order)
John & Toni Lilly: The Cetacean/Human Cyclone (3 tapes, 4½ hours) $30 ($34)
Joseph Campbell & Al Huang: Movement And Myth To Live By (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness And Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend Seminar (6 tapes, 9 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 (66)
Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement, The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 (80)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Joseph Chilton Pearce: Insight and Ecstasy (8 tapes, 11 hours) $72 ($80)
Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences (10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology And The Individual Adventure (10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)
Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar (8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975-1980)

With Gregory Bateson's passing, these recordings are now part of his estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate.

PART I — Six Tapes

Metaphors and Butterflies	Grof Workshop	May 1975
Schizophrenia and the Double Bind	Grof Workshop	May 1976
The Pattern Which Connects	Work Study	Dec 1978
What is Epistemology?	Work Study	Sep 1979
Civilization and Addiction. I-II	Work Study	Nov 1979

PART II — Six Tapes

Interfaces—Boundaries Which Connect	Tues Forum	Feb 1980
It Used to Matter	Tues Forum	Mar 1980
Simple Thinking	Tues Fourm	Apr 1980
Neither Mechanical or Supernatural	Work Study	Apr 1980
It Takes Two to Know One. I-II	Grof Workshop	May 1980

Part I or Part II may be ordered separately (6 tapes each) for $54 ($60 by purchase order). Either set of six will come in vinyl album accompanied by summary of contents of all twelve for reference, plus additional pages. For Parts I & II combined in one order, send $98 ($110 by purchase order). Please add $2 for mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). In California include 6% sales tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Recordings from the Early Years

A catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $1 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, PO Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette of Al Huang's work, entitled T'ai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, address inquiries to The Pattern Which Connects, PO Box 8, Forest Knolls, California 94933 — Phone (415) 488-0135.

Registration Information

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three-week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335

Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The price of a weekend workshop will be $165, and a five-day will be $340. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Scholarship Information: If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June15–September 15 programs or for weekend programs.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from September through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Some special staff programs may also be open to residents. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $55 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $70 per day, or $105 per day per couple. Please phone the office for additional information.

General Information: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 5 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $15 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

The Esalen Staff

Sherry Ackerson
Barbara Adamson
John Ahrens
Steve Beck
April Bekaert
Daniel Bianchetta
Janet Zuckerman Boeve
Steve Bogoff
Leon Burry-Trice
Glen Cheda
Steve Cohen
Bette Dingman
Ann Guenther
Paul Herbert
Perry Holloman
LaVerne Hummel
Shirley Hyles
Jaelitza
Polly Kirby
Benj Langdon
Dai Lesty
Lois MacLean
Kelly McKay
Chris Morath
Jose Mozic (Raman)
Glenn Naritomi
Lew Porter
Joyce Rogers
John Russell
John Soper
Ken Stevens (Narayana)
Margaret Stevens
Rick Tarnas
Lia Thompson
Selena Van Cleve
Bruce Weston
Steve Williams

Managers
Tom Brenner
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Brian Lyke
Helen Malcolm
Bruce Neeb

Board of Trustees
Diana Becchetti
Steven Donovan
Joan Fiore
Joseph Goldin
Janet Lederman
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Weir Perry
Julian Silverman

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See Reservation Information, page 46.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐ Age _____

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Check whether this workshop will be held in Big Sur ☐ or as a Wilderness Program ☐

Do you smoke? _____

Limousine Service:
I want limousine service from (check one):
_____ Monterey Airport
_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station
at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only)

The $15 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Reservation Fee

Total amount enclosed: $ _____
Your reservation can be charged to:
Mastercard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 46. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

The Esalen Catalog

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasizes the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

MAY - OCTOBER, 1982 · ONE DOLLAR

Contents

Volume XXI, Number 2

Biographical Information 36–40

Catalog Subscription Information 40

Esalen Staff 42

Esalen Seminars 11–29

Experiencing Esalen 8

Experiencing Esalen: The Body 8

Food for Thought

From An End To Ordinary History
Michael Murphy 4

The Limits of Educability
Frank Barron 5

Thoughts on Regression and Trancendence
Keith Thompson 6–7

Friends of Esalen 40

Gestalt Practice 8

Medical Programs 35

Registration Information 42

Reservation Form 43

Ongoing Big Sur Wilderness Experience 8–9

Special Announcements 40–41

Special Programs 30–32

Tapes and Films 41

Ways of Being at Esalen 8

Wilderness Programs 32–35

Work-Study Program 10

Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday & Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordinator: Joyce Rogers
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Cover Photograph: Joyce Rogers

©1981 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

Joyce Rogers

"Contact is the appreciation of differences"

Fritz Perls

From "An End to Ordinary History"

The following is from the introduction to Michael Murphy's novel, An End to Ordinary History, which was published this spring by J. P. Tarcher/Houghton-Mifflin.

Kathy Thornod

Michael Murphy and Richard Price, co-founders of Esalen

In the Soviet Union, the Mysteries have not died: so begins a CIA memorandum dated April 19, 1973. The pages that follow tell a fantastic story. A Soyuz spaceship crashed when its two pilots saw an apparition; the Soviet government commissioned a study of the cosmonauts' visions and their relation to UFO reports; and as a result the Soviet Academy of Sciences was torn by controversy. A cousin of Sergei Kirov, Stalin's rival for power in the 1920's, was involved, along with Ivan Strelnikov, Russia's great pioneer of laser research.

The memorandum was released in 1979 under the Freedom of Information Act, with a few sections deleted for security reasons. Across one of its margins are scribbled the words, "file in looney bin with other UFO reports," a phrase that reflects our government's attitude toward the whole affair. Neither the CIA nor State Department has answered my inquiries about it.

In spite of initial skepticism, I have come to believe the story. My judgment is based to some extent upon my travels in the Soviet Union, but also on my faith in Darwin Fall, an American who was involved in the events described by the CIA memo. His detailed account has convinced me that the Soviet peoples' fascination with the Mysteries has not abated during the Communist era.

This fascination is not limited to orthodox faiths, however, and is far deeper and more complex than an interest in UFOs or parapsychology. While embracing wisdoms of the past, it inspires new explorations, some of them highly experimental. The issues it raises are often debated, sometimes in the Soviet press. In 1981, for example, Komsomol Pravda proposed that a national institute be formed to study psychic healing, only to be criticized by Literaturnaya Gazeta for its promotion of superstitious beliefs. Similar debates go on between scientific institutes and government bodies. Within the labyrinthine structures of the Soviet academic and government bureaucracies, the reality of precognition, clairvoyance, telekinesis and mystical illumination are much discussed. As you will see, even their Academy of Sciences figures in these controversies.

Until 1972, Darwin Fall owned and ran the Greenwhich Press in San Francisco. His central interest, though, has been a comparative study of the human body's supernormal capacities, a project that led to his meeting Jacob Atabet, the strangely gifted artist you will meet in these pages, and to their adventures with Vladimir Kirov, the Soviet Union's leading expert on parapsychology.

Kirov, around whom this story revolves, was an initiate of a mystic school in Central Asia and an agent of the KGB. He introduced Fall to his school's secret doctrine that our planet is part of a "larger Earth," the "Earth of Hurqalya," in which the human body becomes a luminous form of the soul.

During the autumn of 1979, I met Fall twice a week to hear about his adventure. From those conversations I learned that Kirov's passion to join the mystic quest with the ideals of socialism had been awakened and shaped by his broken family. His maternal grandfather, Ali Shirazi, the seer who gave the Way of Hurqalya its modern expression, had been publicly condemned by Kirov's father, a prominent Bolshevik. By showing that spiritual exploration is a part of social progress, Kirov hoped to heal the schism his family exemplified. His strange destiny separated him from both friends and enemies, but joined him paradoxically to most of the Soviet people he knew. For most of his fellow citizens carry a similar chasm in their hearts. Nearly all of them must reconcile the separate worlds they are born to, worlds that come into conflict, it seems, in the halls of the Kremlin itself.

The Limits of Educability

A paper delivered at the annual meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1978

Intellectual aptitude is the basic human resource which education in our school seeks to cultivate. And intelligence itself, biologically resident in the human brain and probably unchanged in range, mean, and variability for at least 15,000 years, is an especially interesting case of limits for the psychologist.

It is useful here to distinguish two senses of the term "intelligence": 1) intelligence in the sense of ability to understand and use the fundamental tools of intellect, such as words, numbers, sensory (visual, audial, olfactory, etc.) images, feelings, and demeanor (including gesture); and 2) intelligence in the sense of scope (breadth, depth, range) of what is intellected (seen, heard, felt, acted). In this second sense of the term, recent generations have clearly greatly surpassed their forebears. Intelligence in this sense cannot be circumscribed with any assurance, since whole new realms of possible knowledge are constantly being opened to exploration through scientific discovery and invention.

There have, of course, been many and indeed perhaps most influential efforts outside the schools to increase human scope. These often are not thought of as "education," but I believe they are best understood as methods for learning to actualize performance potentials, i.e., as educational techniques. Some are ancient, some very modern. They include:

1) Psychotherapy, ranging from psychoanalysis and its offshoots to behavior modification and including, in my definition of it, encounter groups, gestalt therapy, and the new therapies using artistic expression as a mode of growth.

2) Conflict-free grace; internal locus of control of impulse leading to appropriate and graceful action; perfect balance of opposites; in terms of sexual differentiation, a psychological androgyny.

3) A permanent, pervasive recognition that loss is inevitable in life, including the loss of life itself; and, with this, a transcendence of loss through reflection and expressive action.

4) Passionate investment in the future, including the future one will not experience personally; to become "an arrow of longing for the other shore."

5) "Supernatural" "powers" of various sorts, such as telepathy, clairvoyance, leaving the body for solo flights through earth and universe, levitation, psychokinesis, extreme spontaneous body heat, luminosity or transfiguration of the body, incorruptibility after death, and various of the familiar Siddhis that are said to follow from Yogic practice, such as bilocation, ability to change size, invisibility, eternal youth.

Oddly enough, prolonged depth psychotherapy aims at producing at least three of these characteristics. The person in that process must re-experience (or experience fully for the first time) the many losses that we all meet in life, going back even to the loss of the mother's womb, our first matrix, upon birth. The source of irrational neurotic, unconscious guilt must be discovered by the strengthened ego, and in effect abolished; i.e., infantile and childhood sources of imagery of good and evil lose their hold on the person. The future is seen as hopeful even though nothing can be expected from it; or, better, because it need furnish nothing to verify our worth for us.

The attainment of grace and of supernatural powers remain beyond psychology, of course, and beyond psychotherapy, however deep. These are spiritual matters, but not matters to be excluded from the question, "What are the limits of man?"

Frank Barron

Thoughts on Regression and Transcendence

(This is a review of an essay entitled "The Pre/Trans Fallacy" by Ken Wilbur, which appeared in ReVISION Journal [Fall, 1980]. As the essay itself is 20 pages in length, this review is an attempt to convey its major points in considerably reduced form.)

One of the big criticisms of human potential therapies and transpersonal theory offered by proponents of more orthodox approaches to psychotherapy is that so-called "higher states" of consciousness are, in fact, merely regressive, infantile impulses dressed up in the fabric of "spirituality." Freud and his followers regularly made this assertion, and continue to do so, reducing the experience of transpersonal union with God to a yearning to return to the mother's breast; explaining mystical reports of samadhi as pre-subject/object narcissism; placing spiritual visions in the same category as prepersonal id-impulses. This world view considers the highest human attainment to be the evolution of rationality—the integration of unconscious, pre-conscious id-impulses into the "highest" level of human nature, that of fully conscious, rational, mental ego. Talk of states "beyond" is considered just so much childish fantasy.

One of the first orders of business, then, for those who seek to show the empirical basis for spiritual experiences of union with the All, self-existent delight, profound inner peace, and similar transpersonal dimensions, has been to challenge the Freudian world view of the personal ego as the crowning human achievement. The transpersonal response often has been that the ego is in fact an illusion, the height of alienation from Spirit. In this view ego is a kind of original sin to be absolved by returning to the Source, the Self, God—no matter which words you choose, the goal is usually spoken of as the attainment of non-egoic primal oneness.

These two opposing world views leave us with what Ken Wilbur calls the "pre/trans fallacy." In an article by the same name in the Fall, 1980 edition of ReVISION, Wilbur summarizes the fallacy of the Freudian, orthodox view as the reduction of all spiritual or transpersonal insight and experience to regressive or prepersonal fantasy, and the fallacy of the transpersonal view as the elevation of the prepersonal to the transpersonal. By "prepersonal," Wilbur means those primary process impulses, drives, and behaviors which exist in the organism prior to the development of ego structures. The emergent secondary process, the sense of person, is the "personal" realm. The "transpersonal," then, in this developmental view of human growth, are those realms beyond the ego, beyond the individual self-sense—all the "spiritual stuff." (Of course, Wilbur is not the first to use these terms in this way; they are emphasized in this review to clarify their significance in his argument.)

Wilbur summarizes the half-truth, the glimmer of partial insight, in each fallacy. If the first world view is wrong in denying the reality and validity of transpersonal experience, it is also very correct in maintaining that we possess prepersonal, irrational, and subconscious realms, and that these realms exist prior to the development of the personal, rational, conscious component, and that the higher (or later) personal realm develops out of the lower (or earlier) prepersonal matrix. And, if the second world view is wrong in confusing pre-egoic innocence with trans-egoic insight and freedom, and in equating various modes of infantile, self-centered predifferentiated fusion with the trans-subject/object, transcendent One, it too is correct in maintaining that transpersonal experience represents a greater realization of Spirit which is irreducible to earlier prepersonal and personal realms.

Now, those who have read this far may be wondering: what do these dry, abstract formulations have to do with the price of tea in China or the price of an encounter group at Esalen? Exactly this: Wilbur proposes, and I agree, that both the "right and wrong" halves of the second fallacy have a good deal of bearing on the theories and practices of the human potential movement—especially the tendency to devalue ego or elevate pre-ego. Rather than assigning ego the lot of original sin or ultimate alienation from the Source, Wilbur draws on a solid tradition of religious and philosophical thought which sees the emergence of ego and personhood as an evolutionary advance in the return to the Source—a kind of halfway house in the journey to the Superconscious All. Wilbur refers to a passage from Salinger's Franny and Zooey which signals this whole issue:

> "Franny, becoming deeply drawn to contemplative (transpersonal and mystical) practices, decides that all misery in the world is, in essence, the fault of ego, and that ego consequently must go. As someone sarcastically but accurately explains her views, 'everything's ego, ego, ego, and the only intelligent thing for a girl to do is lie around . . . and beg God for a little mystical experience that'll make her nice and happy.' Finally Zooey reacts: 'You keep talking about ego. My God, it would take Christ himself to decide what's ego and what isn't . . . But don't go screaming about egos in general. In my opinion, if you really want to know, half the nastiness in the world is stirred up by people who aren't using their true egos. Take your Professor Tupper. From what you say about him, anyway, I'd lay almost any odds that this thing he's using, the thing you think is his ego, isn't his ego at all but some other, much dirtier, much less basic faculty.' "

If ego strength is not a developmental aberration, but a process of centering in self-consciousness and individuation, then, as Wilbur puts it, "the problem is that many, perhaps most, people who seek or need therapy are suffering in large part from prepersonal fixations, dissociations, and obsessions, and haven't the ego-strength to transcend those angers, impulses, and drives which threaten to overwhelm their very existence." Ironically, the ego is often rapped as a self-centered, narcissistic structure. But change the emphasis from ego as ogre to ego as integrator and its emergence in nature can be seen as an evolutionary advance over pre-egoic realms which are far more self-centered and narcissistic. It is not a lack of ego-transcendence but lack of ego-esteem that makes body sensation, emotional expression, and experiential immediacy either inaccessible or overwhelming for many people. When the invitations to "get out of your mind and into your senses" and to "let go" are twisted from their original purpose of bringing attention to the here-and-now and

Steve Beck

It is not a lack of ego-transcendence but a lack of ego-esteem, that makes body sensation, emotional expression, and experiential immediacy either unaccessible or overwhelming for many people.

used to denigrate egoic conceptualization and integration, what we end up with, in Wilbur's words, is the "pre-verbal body all by itself, and therefore what is really getting left out is the actual union of verbal-mind and feeling-body—the true body-mind union." All this does is "put the mind back on the lowest rung of the ladder by elevating the pre-verbal body to exalted status and by giving that body a name that makes the whole thing sound holistic." He continues:

> "It is one thing . . . to recontact the body so as to re-integrate it, quite another to recontact the body and stay there. Unless the released body-feelings are taken up and made part of the higher stream of communicative exchange and intersubjective sharing, they merely re-inforce an isolated I-ness. For it is only the mind, via symbol-exchange in communicative discourse, that reaches intersubjective and interpersonal bonding. The body as body is merely subjective; the mind is intersubjective; spirit is transsubjective—and the lower you go on that ladder, the more narcissistic and selfcentric you become."

It's important not to overdraw the distinctions between pre-personal regression and transpersonal progression. That "the map is not the territory" is no less important to remember with the pre/trans fallacy grid than with any other explanatory principle. Even the most conceptually clear and experientially rigorous approaches to human growth seldom admit such clear-cut distinctions within their dynamics. (And to condemn regression in the service of the ego would be to damn the entire enterprise of therapy. To deprecate the power and value of expressing prepersonal energies—anger, fear, jealousy, etc.—in group process or individual therapy, for the purposes of integrating them into consciousness, would be to throw the baby out with the bathwater.) In "The Pre/Trans Fallacy" Wilbur makes it clear, in fact, that the prepersonal cannot be transcended without first being integrated. At the same time, he writes, human potential psychologies can and often do encourage wallowing in bodily impulses and emotional process which actually retards the ascent to greater personal and transpersonal integration. Many transpersonal authors and practitioners manage to confuse prepersonal fusion with transpersonal union precisely because:

> "In their understandable haste to move beyond ego, they frequently fail to specify clearly in which direction that movement is or should be occurring. Two things tend to happen: they either elevate pre-egoic license to the status of trans-egoic freedom, or they simply denigrate the role of mind, ego, secondary process and logic, and in its place they argue for a mode that is called simply "non-egoic," "non-role bound," "non-logical," etc. In such cases, this "non-egoism" usually conceals a mixture and confusion of pre-egoic fantasy with trans-egoic vision, of prepersonal desires with transpersonal growth, of pre-egoic whoopee with trans-egoic liberation."

The force of Ken Wilbur's argument, finally, is his insistence that the paradigm clashes between exponents of either half of the pre/trans fallacy will not be resolved by each side simply extending its argument to its logical, linear extreme. The pre/trans fallacy itself is an error, but the two world views generated by the fallacy's two sides are half true and half fallacious. Each school—the orthodox Freudian and the transpersonal—has the opportunity to learn from the other. Our choice, Wilbur concludes, is to "take the true from both and discard the false from both."

(For reprints of the unedited text of "The Pre/Trans Fallacy," write to ReVision, PO Box 316, Cambridge, MA 02138).

Keith Thompson

• WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN •

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose that approach which feels most appropriate and pursue it in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work- Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 10 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self- exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen/Big Sur. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness training, encounter, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls).

Schedule:

May 9–14
June 4–6
June 6–11
June 18–20
June 27–July 2
July 9–11
July 11–16
July 30–August 1
August 8–13
August 27- 29
September 19–24
October 1–3
October 10–15

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Coordinated by Jeffrey Kent & Andrea Rosenberg

Similar in format to Experiencing Esalen, these workshops will emphasize learning different ways to keep your body healthy and vital. Participants will be introduced to various approaches Esalen offers for fitness, stress reduction, and body awareness. Some of the following practices will be included: dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, yoga, hiking, meditation, massage, and diet and nutritional information. The staff will provide guidance to help you find and select the practices most suitable to your individual needs.

Schedule:

May 28–30
August 6–8
September 24–26
October 15–17

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that Awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. Those who primarily wish interpersonal work are advised to attend an encounter rather than a gestalt group.

Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls); Tao Te Ching (Lao Tzu); The Power of Mindfulness (Nyanponika Thera); Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg (J. C. Pearce); Illusions (Richard Bach).

Schedule:

May 9–14
June 6–11
July 4–9
August 1–6
August 22–27

Ongoing Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest on four day-long hikes (4–10 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will take home enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after this week of walks. More information will be sent upon registration.

Steve Beck

Schedule:
September 19–24

• WORK-STUDY PROGRAM •

The Work-Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen/Big Sur. It is a work- oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. There will be a coming together in the evenings to share, contact, play—alone/together. Professional services such as massage and Rolfing® are available at staff rates.

Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to the community labor needs, and work assignments are made according to those requirements. The cost of the program is $500 for the first month, $450 for the second month, and $400 for the third. A $250 deposit is required with your application.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex which is 1½ miles north of Esalen. The Work-Study Program, lasting 28 days, is a full-time workshop in itself. The work commitment to the community, group process work, and teaching seminars make up a busy schedule for participants. Enrolling in the Esalen catalog workshops is therefore discouraged, since the extra involvement tends to interfere with the fulfillment of the Work-Study Program.

Available dates: May 23–June 20; June 20–July 18; July 18–August 15; August 15–September 12; September 12–October 10; October 10–November 7; November 7–December 5; December 5–January 2; January 2–30; January 30–February 27.

In addition to the regular program, Esalen is now offering an intensive three-month course in basic organic horticulture. The cost of the progam will be $1350. A $350 deposit is required. In filling out the Work-Study application, please indicate your preference of landscaping, gardening, or small scale farming.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with $250 (or $350) deposit to:

Work-Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. $75 of the original deposit is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt of deposit.

• Application to the Work-Study Program •

Date of Application _____ Daytime Telephone (_____) _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

The Work-Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work-scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

I am applying for the three-month organic horticultural program ☐ yes ☐ no

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles and dates: _____

_____

_____

Please make a personal statement about your interest in the Work-Study program. Include any skills you may have available. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

• ESALEN SEMINARS •

Weekend of May 7–9

Advanced Massage Weekend: Introduction to Polarity Massage

Esalen Massage Practitioners

Polarity energy balancing methods integrated with Esalen massage will be explored during this weekend. Previous massage or body work experience is recommended. $190

The Astrological Perspective

Rick Tarnas

This is a workshop for those interested in astrology as a tool for self-understanding. We will discuss the nature of the planetary archetypes and how to interpret one's birth chart. Particular attention will be paid to transits and how to use them for understanding the ups and downs, the breakthroughs and crises of our constantly changing lives. We will also discuss how planetary movements coincide with various events of historical importance—scientific breakthroughs, cultural revolutions, political and economic upheavals. There will be a special focus on the dynamics of the twentieth century, including the next two decades. No prior knowledge of astrology is assumed, though the greater your astrological understanding, the more you will probably receive from the workshop. Bring your birth chart if possible. $190

A Course in Miracles

Frances Vaughan & Roger Walsh

A Course In Miracles is a practical and theoretical self-study course for personal transformation. It is a spiritual teaching, but it is not a religion. It offers a universal teaching on the nature of self and the role of perception in shaping experience. It emphasizes self-knowledge, healing, and removing obstacles to the awareness of love in relationships. At one level, the Course consists of a text which discusses theoretical and practical concepts, a workbook for students containing 365 daily lessons for putting the concepts into action, and a manual for teachers. The Course emphasizes experience rather than theory and provides practical instructions for spiritual development, especially through relationships.

This workshop will discuss the basic psychological principles of the Course, and the methods for putting them into practice in everyday life. It is open to anyone interested in the Course, but is particularly appropriate for those in the helping professions interested in using this form of self-directed transpersonal process. $190

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charles Brooks

An introduction to sensing, for more meaningful contact with our own nature and with the world around us.

Sensory awareness is a practice for rediscovering and reviving full sensory functioning. Through the gradual quieting of premature and inappropriate activity, it directs our attention both inwards and outwards to the actuality of the present moment. As perceptivity revives, true relationship becomes possible. Each everyday occasion in living gains its own freshness, its own uniqueness. We can become content again, like healthy children, as quality begins to make quantity unimportant. $190

May 7–14

A Seven-Day Wilderness Experience From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Center

Jeffrey Kent & Jessica Brit:

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 32. $325

Week of May 9–14

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $390

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $390

Healing: Rites and Ways

Susan Baldi & Phillip Mac

Group members in this workshop for health care providers will experience visualization, massage, and centering in the context of health and its application to others. A focus will be taking a critical look at current health care practices and some alternative methods. Participants will have the opportunity to experience and evaluate these new methods for their own healing and the healing of others. Video taping and review will be used. For additional information see page 35. $390

Weekend of May 14–16

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."—M. C. Richards, Centering.

Stress related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf®movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $190

Encounter for Couples

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop is for couples who feel willing to risk relationship for the possibility of enriching and deepening it. In this very intense weekend, participants will utilize gestalt, encounter, and family process to uncover and differentiate the specific interactions that deaden and depress the energy of relationship from contact that enlivens and excites, so that they can begin to make enlightened choices for themselves on an ongoing, moment-to-moment basis. $190 per participant

Beyond the Death of God: The Gnostic Gospels and the Revival of the Spirit

Elaine Pagels & Sam Keen

When orthodox Christianity declared the gnostic movement heretical we lost a sophisticated, mystical religious tradition that might have changed the course of Western culture. In the present time, when the old God of the Patriarchs, the transcendent Father in Heaven, is dead (according to Nietzsche and Time magazine), we are experiencing a rebirth of the spiritual quest. Coincidently, the Gnostic Gospels have been rediscovered and seem almost contemporary in their emphasis on the role of imagination in religion, the equality of the feminine, the non-heirarchical and non-authoritarian nature of authentic religious community. Participants will spend the weekend looking at these ancient resources, discussing and exploring the relation of body to spirit. Recommended reading: Pagels, The Gnostic Gospels; Keen, Apology for Wonder. $190

May 15–24

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland, Annie Callaway & Marilyn Mason

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 32. $575

Week of May 16–21

Our Creative Core

Susan Tanner

"Each of us is an artist. All that is needed is a non-judgmental environment where we may use our creative selves and experience the power of our imagination."—Living Stage Credo

Imagination is our birthright, and the freedom to play is as essential to humans as breathing. Through improvisational theater exercises, dance, visualization, poetry writing, and drawing, participants in this workshop will explore their many roles and characters to develop creativity. This form of theater work is strongly influenced by gestalt and neo-Reichian practices. $390

Reichian/Gestalt Intensive

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop combines neo-Reichian breath and body work to facilitate physical/emotional release, with gestalt work to facilitate contact, integration, and self-responsibility. It will provide the time, the space, the opportunity to move from dis-ease to ease, from fragmentation to wholeness, from self-discounting to self- validating, from role-playing to authentic self-expression, from helpless victim to active participant. Group members might explore their dreams, tensions, madness, or options; take room to breathe or to explode; soak in nurture or exorcise demons; finish unfinished business or examine present concerns.

First priority will be on intensive individual work in a supportive group setting. There will also be opportunities to experiment with the quality of interpersonal contact through group interactions. $390

May 16–June 4

Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 30. $1200

Weekend of May 21–23

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $190

A Weekend with Rollo May

Rollo May will discuss his central ideas with the group, some of which were touched upon in Love and Will and his latest book, Freedom and Destiny. Among these are:

1. The loss of the American Dream (The Great Gatsby) and the need for a sense of tragedy in America.

2. The daimonic as the source of destruction and creativity, and our efforts to achieve the latter (Beethoven).

3. Despair and Joy (Demeter and Persephone).

4. The Dark Night of the Soul (St. John of the Cross) and the Holy City of which it is the prelude. $190.

Week of May 23–28

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

The hero's journey is a dynamic form designed to facilitate people through life changes. Each group member's world will be viewed through the lens of fantasy, dramatized, and experienced in a rite of passage based on a universal ritual used to celebrate this metamorphosis: the myth of the hero.

The hero will be structured from the absolute "yes," the demon from the absolute "no" of the participant's personality, externalizing the inner conflict. The two will then confront each other on the hero's journey, creating a dramatic struggle until a synthesis of the opposing forces is reached. $390

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $390

Weekend of May 28–30

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $190

Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing

Dick Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 32. $190

Therapeutic Touch in Care of Self and Others

Cookie (Arlene) Jurgens & Lavaughan Wilson

Therapeutic touch is a non-invasive care modality involving energy field intervention. This method, as developed by Dolores Krieger, will be explored in an experiential manner in this workshop. Therapeutic touch involves the use of meditation, centering, and visualization in developing an awareness of human energy fields, in perceiving changes and differences within these fields, and in channeling and modulating energy to facilitate healing for self and client. Current research, as well as the application and integration of therapeutic touch into the conventional health care system, will be topics of discussion. For additional information see page 35. $190

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods. $190

Week of May 30–June 4

The Health Care Contract: Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement

Jerry Green

This workshop for health practitioners explores the basic elements of contract as they apply to health care relationships. Participants examine the process of patient/client planning for clarifying goals, expectations, and complementary responsibilities to improve clinical efficacy and minimize the risk of malpractice or licensing problems. A model for defining the responsibilities of each party will be developed based upon the scientific and philosophical objectives of medicine and holistic health practice. Experiential role playing will assist participants to develop skills for initiating patient/client contracts that support their unique clinical abilities. The workshop will also examine how written instruments, including brochures, intake applications, forms for record keeping, correspondence, and patient/client journals, can facilitate working relationships, document their progress, and evidence the nature of the professional responsibility assumed. For additional information see page 35. $390

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

This workshop is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities. During the training exercises Anne Armstrong will use her own "tracking" abilities, acquired from over twenty years' experience in this field, to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. She has found through her professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the psychic input they normally receive. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to de-mystify the intuitive/psychic process and train participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $390

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

Participants will employ Radix® neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix® intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting, which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief or pain, fear and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexual feelings intensify and merge. $390

Weekend of June 4–6

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $190

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This seminar gives basic instruction in massage. Through demonstration and practice, participants are taught the location of major muscle groups. They are also shown how to begin, develop, and close a session of full body massage. There will be an emphasis on grounding and internal awareness, on the quality of one's touch, and on areas in ourselves and others that need relief. $190

A Celebration of Life

Emmett & Sandra Ferreira Miller

This workshop will provide a time of quiet relaxation, music, movement, dance, and song, touching the silent source within, and emerging gently into movement, guided by soft melodies that sing of the beauty that surrounds us. With sound and voice joining in the song of life, the pulse of rhythm lifting weightless bodies and spirits into spontaneous dance, one can experience the fullness of being in silence and in sound, in stillness and in movement. A time of joy, celebration, and play. $190

June 4–11

Wilderness Celebration: Emergence in Nature

Jessica Britt & Ruth Leveton

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 33. $325

Steve Beck

Week of June 6–11

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $390

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $390

Zero Balancing

Fritz Smith

Zero balancing is a body handling system utilizing structural acupressure to deal directly with the interface between body structure and energy flow. The workshop will be both didactic and experiential. Traditional anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology will be reviewed and then reinterpreted from an alternative viewpoint indicating the often overlooked imbalances which occur within our foundation joints. These imbalances may lead to chronic body pain, and frequently represent an ongoing energy drain from the body. While there will be both theoretical presentations and practical demonstrations, the main emphasis of the workshop will be toward individual instruction. This workshop is limited to persons certified in the healing professions. $390

June 6–July 2

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 30. $1600

Weekend of June 11–13

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $190

Energy Awareness and Creative Sexuality

George Leonard & Annie Styron

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop, we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of energy awareness to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's new book, Love, Sex and Creation. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse. $190

Close Encounters: Experiments in Meeting and Contacting Other Human Beings

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

This workshop provides an opportunity for participants to pay attention to the quality of their interpersonal contact, particularly to their willingness to take risks and their ability to stay true to their feelings while meeting and contacting others. The style of the workshop is provocative. It is not for everyone.

You may discover your own rhythm of contact and withdrawal; you may discover how you sabotage yourself from having more satisfying relationships; you may discover you're getting exactly what you want from your relationships. You may discover anything; you may discover nothing. You may even discover that you're in charge. $190

The Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 33. $190

Week of June 13–18

Massage for Health Professionals

Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners

This workshop is for people who touch the lives of others who are in disease. It has four objectives: to cultivate the awareness of touching and being touched; to provide experiences of contacting others without words; to demonstrate methods of touching and massage; and to demonstrate the relationship between simple physical contact and the reduction of bodily stress. For additional information see page 35. $390

Opening Feelings: A Path to Consciousness

Clair Killen & Jenny Windsor

Using various emotional release methods, movement, meditation, and massage, participants will experience their body armor, explore their fear of death and life, look at ways they control their lives, and consider new choices for living. $390

Put Your Memories, Fantasies, and Dreams to Work for You: A Reichian/Gestalt Approach to Energy Release

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

"To understand is to tremble. To recollect is to reenter and to be riven."—Harold Brodkey

This workshop focuses on releasing the energy locked in our memories, fantasies, and dreams so that this energy can be made available for present relationships and life situations in a way that makes existence in the present less encumbered by unfinished business of the past, as well as self-programmed, self-fulfilling prophecies of doom for the future. First priority is on intensive intrapersonal work in a supportive group setting. There will also be opportunities to explore the nature of interpersonal relating through group interactions. $390

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $390

Weekend of June 18–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $190

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student, I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher, these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop is based on the attempt to evoke and balance psychodymamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $190

From Sanctuary to Society: The Birth of Sacred Civilization

François Duquesne

A new kind of planetary spirituality is being born that seeks expression through many individuals, centers, and communities around the world. A return to sacred civilization is in the making. A task of the 1980's is to bring into focus, through workable, demonstrable models, the main features of a pluralistic world society that is based on a common spiritual heritage and destiny.

This workshop will use the experience of the Findhorn Foundation and other intentional communities to explore the personal and social dimensions of this transition. How do we build planetary eco-villages? How do we apply spiritual principles to finance and economics, decision-making and governance? How do we take the mystical insights of the sanctuary into the forms of industrial civilization and maintain integrity? How do we make our world sacred? $190

Lucid Dreaming

Kenneth Kelzer

A "lucid dream" is one in which the dreamer knows he is dreaming. The lucid state allows the dreamer to see that his consciousness is capable of two, three, or more levels of awareness at once. Lucidity is often marked by great intensity of feelings, ecstasy, archetypal experiences, vivid colors, images or music that seem "out of this world," a delicate sense of inner balance, feelings of highly refined energies moving through the body. Although the lucid state can occur spontaneously, it can also be cultivated. This workshop will demonstrate an intuitive "energy" model for contacting the lucid dream and the ordinary dream. Participants will learn specific tools for opening to higher or mystical states of consciousness in dreams. $190

Humor and the Creative Process: The "Ha Ha" and the "Aha!"

Harry Sloan

The dynamics of humor intimately parallel the creative process. Those humorous moments that extricate us from a stuck situation are similar to creative insight, which spontaneously resolves a problem with which we have been wrestling. In both cases there is often an experience of freedom, joy, perspective, and connection with a deeper sense of self. The purpose of this program is not to become a stand-up comic, but to use humor as a vehicle for developing a playful view of life and ourselves. The format will blend experiential exercises with discussion of the nature of humor and the creative process. Some of the themes that participants will focus on are: the imagination as a bridge between conflict and resolution; self-affirmation and the ability to create; humor and spontaneity; the archetype of the wise old fool; and methods to enhance the quality of humor in one's daily life. This intensive program will be geared for those who are willing to be silly, play, risk, and penetrate into the restrictive elements in their process that tend to retard the "Ha Ha" or "Aha!" $190

Week of June 20–25

The Creative Process in Movement and Dance

Anna Halprin & Rana Halprin-Vassau

"The fact that there has always been dance compels us to accept it as an old, deeply rooted human activity whose foundations reside in the nature of human beings. It will continue as long as the rhythmic flow of energy operates, and until man/woman ceases to respond to the forces of life and the universe. As long as there is life, there will be dance."

—Margaret H. Doubler

This workshop is designed to inspire and guide an exploration through movement and dance of one's own life resources and themes. The learning process will be aimed at integrating emotional and physical expression, utilizing dance, and also incorporating gestalt principles and visualization exercises. Learning principles of movement ritual will be an important focus, as will be the development and expansion of personal and group creativity as a way of promoting health and increasing expressiveness and spontaneity.

Recommended Readings: Movement Ritual I, by Anna Halprin, available at the Esalen bookstore. Collected Writings II, by Anna Halprin, available by writing the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop, Fort Mason, San Francisco, Ca. 94123. $390

Surrender to Self

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

In a supportive and safe environment participants will utilize individual Reichian intensives, group interaction, bioenergetics, imagery, hypnosis, dance, and massage to discover new ways to soften, let go, and surrender to themselves and others. $390

Exploring the Limits of Intimate Relationships

Ayala Pines & Gordon Clanton

The way people love is shaped by the culture in which they live. This workshop will address the cultural effects on the way we express and protect our love. Special attention will be given to jealousy as a protective reaction to exploring the limits of intimate relationships.

Through lectures, group discussions, personal explorations, and role playing, we will examine issues related to love and jealousy, share current knowledge about these subjects, and gain better understanding of effectively handling them.

The workshop is intended for couples who wish to explore the limits of their relationship and deal with issues of commitment and jealousy; for researchers interested in studying the subject; for therapists and marriage counselors; and for individuals who experience jealousy as a significant personal issue. $390

Work Choices, Life Choices

Anne & John Caple

"Work and love," Freud said, "are the basic requirements of human existence." In this workshop participants will explore the choices they make about work and the congruence of these decisions with their life directions. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use art, body work, gestalt processes, and video feedback to seek answers and consider life decisions.

This week is for career changers, potential career changers, re-entry persons, and those who influence others in career choice. Some time will be available for individual work/life problems during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs. $390

Weekend of June 25–27

Massage and Movement

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This workshop will include basic massage instruction and awareness exercises, focusing on the qualities of touch. Movement exercises will include the basics of t'ai chi, awareness of body structure, and contact improvisation. $190

Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care

Tom Ferguson

About 80% of illness care—and an even higher percentage of preventive care—is self-provided, yet this most important part of our health care system is largely ignored by many health care professionals. Health workers are trained to rely almost entirely on expert-provided interventions.

This workshop will provide an overview of the field of self-care. Topics will include the present extent of self- care, what people can learn to do for themselves, self-care classes, self-diagnostic tests, self-help groups, social support systems, health promotion, self-care in the schools, the literature of self-care, the effectiveness and safety of self-care, self-care in the clinic, dealing with sophisticated medical consumers, the developing technology of self-care, special problems health professionals have in taking care of themselves, and more. Participants will have an opportunity to meet others with similar interests and to share their personal and professional experiences in self-care. For additional information see page 35. $190

Couples Workshop: Intimacy and Personal Growth

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

This workshop will focus on deepening contact and strengthening mutual support while expanding as individuals. Some of the time will be spent using structured approaches for enhancing communication, being separate, trusting, and fighting fairly. The approaches will be tailored to what each participant brings to the weekend. $190 per person

A Weekend with Ali Akbar Khan

Maestro Ali Akbar Khan his college of music staff will give a weekend-long music lesson appropriate for all music enthusiasts from appreciator to trained musician. This teaching of the fundamentals of the North Indian classical tradition and its instruments (voice, sarod, sitar, flute, tabla, harmonium, tanpura, as well as Western instruments) will provide hands-on experience for all stylistic applications. $190

Week of June 27–July 2

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $400

Healing: Rites and Ways

Susan Baldi & Phillip Mac

For workshop description see May 9-14. $400

The Wisdom of the Body

Peter Levine

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes.

We try to break out of these citadels, often with intense, even violent force. This can help to restore some sense of feeling, bringing us "out of our heads" and more into our bodies. These emotional explosions can, however, become habitual, even mechanical, ways of releasing tension. In this workshop we will explore other avenues toward re-discovering deep softer feelings, pleasure, and self-esteem. So, rather than storming our citadels, we will look at softening the body armor; at allowing the body to express itself in its own language within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $400

Transpersonal Psychology: New Approaches to Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

We will explore theoretically and experientially the rapidly developing area of transpersonal psychology. Using a combination of controlled breathing, evocative music, body work, and mandala drawing, the participants will have the opportunity to confront various unfinished biographical issues, elements of the death-rebirth process, and the spectrum of transpersonal experiences. This experimentation with powerful new approaches to personality change will be complimented by discussion of a conceptual framework based on modern consciousness research and the world-view emerging from modern physics. Special attention will be paid to the process of kundalini awakening, the concept of spiritual emergency, and to methods of assistance in transpersonal crises. $400

Weekend of July 2–4

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see page May 14–16. $200

Symbols of Personal Growth: The Tarot

Angeles Arrien & Sharon Jeffrey

The tarot provides a visual map for aiding personal growth and transformation. During this seminar visual symbols will be examined, with an emphasis on how they can be applied in personal, psychological, educational, and managerial situations. The significance and meaning of the myths, colors, numbers, and astrological aspects found within the Thoth deck will be explored and related to personal growth processes. Individual consultations will be part of the experience. $200

Open Psychodrama Encounter

Maurica Anderson & Fred Moore

Whatever else a workshop is, it should be enjoyable. This one will be a flexible weekend's work and play using a variety of encounter, gestalt, and body-awareness approaches, with emphasis on psychodrama—the enactment of improvised life scenes as a way of expressing feelings, gaining insight, working through interpersonal conflicts, developing more openness and spontaneity, and having fun. The degree of active involvement is up to the individual. $200

Unfinished Animal

Theodore Roszak

Ted Roszak writes: "Evolution has always seemed to me a fundamentally mysterious process, a baffling marriage of flesh and form, accident and design. How did the great biological-psychological transitions—from the lifeless to the living, from the vegetative to the sentient, from the instinctual to the intelligent—take place? Does the evolutionary story have a discernable shape and climax? What sense are we to make of ourselves at the midpoint between the mythical ape-man and the mythical superman?

"All these questions straddle science and metaphysics. They require us to look beyond Darwin to the great philosophical rhapsodies of Nietzsche, Teilhard de Chardin, Bergson, Gurdjieff. We will also want to explore the human potential methods and holistic approaches to biological form—as in the work of L. L. Whyte and Erich Jantsch.

"Our purpose is to know ourselves as beings enacting a drama of transformation."

Recommended reading: Unfinished Animal by Theodore Roszak (available in Harper & Row paperback). $200

Intimate Relationships: Meeting the Challenge

John Welwood & Joanne Martin

How can we salvage long-term relationships in a world where their traditional rationale has disintegrated? How can two people continue to grow with each other over a lifetime? We need a new vision of the meaning and challenge of the man/woman relationship for our times—one that includes both Eastern and Western wisdom and understands love as an unending process of discovering our genuine humanness. This workshop will include both talks and experiential work to explore and clarify what is going on in our relationships and what we really want from them. We will study the dynamics of intimacy—passion, surrender, ambivalence, vulnerability, resonance, struggle, need, compassion, polarity, discipline, mindful sexuality—seeing relationship as a transformative journey of self-knowledge and wisdom. $200 per participant

July 3–12

Rites of Passage: A Mountain/River Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 33. $475

Kathy Thormod

Week of July 4–9

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $400

A Week with Will Schutz $400

Experiencing Archetypes

Jessica Britt & Howard Levene

Eros, logos, masculine, feminine, shadow, spirit . . . archetypes can be understood as essential forms, metaphors, and behaviors which seed our deeper patterns of psychic functioning. Through gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, the expressive arts, and ritual, participants will explore their archetypal dimensions, seeking individual meanings and expression. The workshop will focus on the ways we embody various archetypes and how our particular patterns affect our communications, values, and daily lives. $400

Developing Psychic Awareness

Joan Steffy

Have you ever had experiences which are beyond the "normal" range of human perception and coincidence— the unexplainable? This workshop is designed to demystify these experiences and show the practical application of psychic awareness in everyday life. Prior to the workshop participants will receive exercises for exploring expanded states of consciousness. Some areas to be covered are: self hypnosis for health maintenance, spiritual healing, cleansing and protection, dowsing, telepathy, automatic writing, and mediumistic trance states. Exercises will also be given for continuing development of psychic awareness after the workshop. $400

July 4–30

Moon Cycle: A Month Long Wilderness Adventure in Yosemite

Jeffrey Kent, Helga Kraft & Harry Kent

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, pages 33 & 34. $1300

Weekend of July 9–11

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $200

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

For workshop description see June 11-13. $200

Re-imprinting: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Ericksonian), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in or opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $200

The Turning Point: Crisis and Transformation in Science and Society

Fritjof Capra

This workshop will explore the fundamental paradigm shift that is going to dominate the eighties—a shift from a fragmented, mechanistic world view to an organic, holistic, and ecological view. The new paradigm, or vision of reality, includes the new concepts of space, time, and matter developed in subatomic physics; the emerging systems view of life, mind, consciousness, and evolution; the integration of Western and Eastern approaches to psychology; and an ecological and feminist perspective which is spiritual in its ultimate essence and will lead to profound changes in our technology and our economic and political structures. $200

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is very rare for most people to use painting purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to do it just for the process of exploration, not for the result. In this workshop we will focus on the painting experience as a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to creative expression. Emphasis will be placed on the practical experience of creative painting in which participants are given support and stimulation to discover a natural way of painting based directly on feeling. The mechanisms and patterns that prevent creative action will be discussed in order to integrate understanding with experience. The work will take place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, and a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. An audio-visual program will illustrate the development of inner expression during the painting process. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

$200 (plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Week of July 11–16

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $400

On Letting Go

Judyth Weaver

In everything we do we have a choice; we can perform with stress or without it, we can have fun or suffer, we can act economically or wastefully, we can hold on tightly or let go. The more we are in touch with our feelings and abilities, the more choices we have available to us.

This workshop will focus on rediscovering awareness of self—mentally, physically, and spiritually—to develop and integrate as many options as possible. It is through this awareness that we can choose how to live.

T'ai chi ch'uan for relaxed exercise, gentle breathing methods for stress reduction, deep sensing of our organism, gestalt, movement, massage, and meditations, can all work together to integrate a sense of centered grounding and balance that will develop and enhance an economic, energetic, pleasurable, and successful life. $400

The Spiritual Path: Promises and Pitfalls

Christina & Stanislav Grof

We will combine observations from modern consciousness research and from various traditional practices to explore the process of spiritual awakening. The participants will have the opportunity to confront transpersonal areas within themselves in various experiential exercises, combining evocative slide-shows, music, controlled breathing, mandala drawing, and individual work if appropriate. Special attention will be paid to the understanding of and approach to "spiritual emergencies" which can occur in the context of the kundalini process and other forms of personal evolution. $400

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

This workshop provides a safe environment for participants to consciously experience the process of their own unfolding—physically, emotionally, energetically, sexually, spiritually.

By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within. As we contact and allow our hurt and pain, we can increase our capacity for pleasure and joy. As we allow our expression of fear, we move toward trusting ourselves and others.

Utilizing Reichian emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, Feldenkrais, massage, reflexology, dance meditation, and various other approaches, participants can move toward expanding their capacity for trust and fulfillment. $400

Self and Beyond

John Zeigler & Christian Murphy

". . . the key is to open a way whence the imprisoned splendor can escape." —Browning

"Love is nature's psychotherapy."—Eric Berne

Come celebrate your limitlessness and restore the original you: loveable, capable, and unscarred by destructive parental/societal belief systems. Invoke a serene and perfect inner self that can give expression to a natural clarity, aliveness, and creativity. We will use a synthesis of intensive body and gestalt work for deep emotional release, self-hypnosis for reprogramming a negative consciousness, and other ancient and modern body/mind/spirit methods. Through supportive group interaction you can experience problems for what they really are: opportunities that can create a spontaneous and unconditional love of self, others, and an abundant universe. Through the options of massage, movement, t'ai chi, music, singing, improvisation, and laughter, you can awaken to the miracle you already are. $400

Weekend of July 16–18

Food for Health

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to assume responsibility for their health care management. The emphasis will be on learning what to eat to create vitality, energy, and health. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live food will be presented. Participants will learn how to shop with awareness in the supermarket and health food store and how to prepare food in a nutritious way. Each participant will receive a personalized health plan to work with at home. For additional information see page 35. $200

Massage, Movement, and Yoga

Deborah Anne Medow

Participants are invited to spend a weekend utilizing basic massage, movement, and yoga practices as vehicles for nurturing body, mind, and spirit.

mornings: yoga theory and practice sessions afternoons: massage instruction evenings: movement and integration $200

Achieving High Performance

Jerry Fletcher

Most people have experienced the surprise of performing at a higher level than they normally attain, without the burnout, stress, and fatigue that usually accompany work binges. Yet until recently little has been known about how people reach high level performance, how they can sustain such times once they happen, or how they can re-create them when needed.

This seminar presents a carefully developed process for individuals to learn what their high performance patterns are, how to arrange their environments to support their high performance patterns, how to sustain high levels of performance once they begin, and how to use their high performance patterns in dealing effectively with new problems or situations. As part of the seminar, participants will focus on developing personal high performance plans for themselves. $200

The Existential Model

Galvin Jackson

Through a variety of activities we will build a support group for the nurturance of self-awareness, trust, risking, relations with others, sexual identity, sensual expression, and the freedom necessary to attain a comfort with areas that will permit a carry-over to each participant's own life style. The workshop will employ an existential model, in which each person is seen as existing with no "givens." The task is for participants to define themselves through creations (actions). Group members will be asked to make statements about themselves through interfacing with others as authentically as possible. The leader's role is to return consistently to the present moment, and to reflect and clarify the feelings and ideas of each individual. Interaction methods will be employed, to generate immediate, productive experiences for group members. The workshop's goals are to clarify self-definitions, to expand potentials, and to extend abilities to sustain intimacy. $200

A Weekend with Timothy Leary

This workshop will focus on the evolution of intelligence in the immediate future. Among the numerous options for personal and social growth to be considered: the intelligent use of drugs; new brain/mind perspectives; scientific breakthroughs in genetics; sociobiology; neuropolitics; personal demographics; psycho-ecology; new hedonic-aesthetic-erotic technologies; the humanization of computers; and life extension and rejuvenation methods. The aim of the seminar is to anticipate and learn how to surf the tidal wave of changes which is now transforming our concepts of human nature. Scientific optimism is the theme of the weekend. The absolute survival necessity of transcending fundamentalist Christian and Islamic doctrines will be demonstrated. The use of humor as a tactic for evolutionary change and personal growth will be reviewed and illustrated. $200

Week of July 18–23

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see June 18-20. $400

Five Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

An introduction to the language of the body, this course will attempt to view the human interior through various windows: massage demonstration and practice, yoga, Feldenkrais, movement, and evening lectures and discussions. Every major portion of the body will be given detailed attention. During morning and afternoon practice sessions participants will integrate this information in their own manner, evolving their own styles of working with the body. $400

The Necessity of Heightened Awareness of Human Beliefs: Religious, Scientific, Consensual, Self, and Non-Human

Antionetta & John Lilly

Each of us seems to be motivated by beliefs, either outspoken or hidden from others and even from self. Tours of one's inner realities are belief-limited. The belief defines the territory and the domain.

In the internal reality the map is the territory. In the external reality the map is not the territory. In general, maps are generated by beliefs, and maps generate beliefs. In the isolation tank, for example, after the initial adaptation periods, one can explore the maps of beliefs and the beliefs about maps in the religious, scientific, consensual, non-human, and self domains.

Beliefs about one's mind and self: is our mind a product of brain activity only? Is the mind contained in the brain? If so, how did it evolve, under what orders? Is the mind uncontained by a brain? Are brains leaky, allowing information to go out and in, without the use of the known twenty-or-so senses? Is a human mind only a node in a network of universal minds interconnected across a species as well as with other human minds?

We intend, with the help of the group and its interactions, to explore these questions and to relate them to the problem of communication with dolphins.

Books for suggested readings: Simulations of God: The Science of Belief; The Center of the Cyclone; The Human Biocomputer; The Scientist; Communication Between Man and Dolphin; The Dyadic Cyclone; Lilly on Dolphins; The Deep Self. These books can be obtained from the Human/Dolphin Foundation, Box 4172 Malibu, Ca. 90265. (213) 457-4384. $400

Hypnosis and Neo-Reichian Bodywork

David Silverstein & Gottfried Heuer

This workshop will combine neo-Reichian bodywork and hypnosis to enable participants to work on different levels simultaneously. By loosening the body armor through the neo-Reichian approach, participants may become more receptive to exploring their unconscious processes. Hypnosis will be used to gain access to altered states of consciousness, to experience or re-experience fantasies, dreams, unfinished childhood situations, and possible past-life events. By bringing together these two approaches to human development, the workshop's aim is to create a safe environment which respects each individual's natural process of growth. $400

Asian and Western Psychologies

Huston & Kendra Smith

An exploration of the ways in which Asian concepts of the emotions and the levels of mind can contribute to Western understanding of the human self—its nature, its dynamics, and its nurturance. Special attention will be directed to points where Asian psychology connects with (or differs sharply from) existential psychology, gestalt, and psycho- synthesis. Huston Smith's films on Hinduism, Tibetan Buddhism, Sufism, and his Conversation with Daisetz Suzuki will be shown. $400

Weekend of July 23–25

Life Not Before, Not After, but Life With Men

Lois Bateson, Antionetta Lilly & Mai von Forster

Three women married to unusual men will talk from their experience about friendship, humor, and respect for self and others, as the basis for enduring relationships. What are the properties in man and woman that can form "the pattern that connects"? $200

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

Focused self-exploration in this workshop will be based on the model of the unconscious that emerged from psychedelic research. It includes not only biographically determined areas but also the dynamics of the death-rebirth process and transpersonal experiences. Methods will include a combination of music and guided affective imagery, mandala drawing, yoga, massage, and individual work when indicated. $200

See Yourself Release

Gael Switzer & Wendy Oser

This workshop seeks to expand self-image and promote a freer, more graceful body. We will use facilitated video feedback and integrated movement education to gently guide you toward releasing patterns of holding that contribute to tension, pain, and awkwardness, and a limited view of yourself. You may experience subtle yet powerful shifts, first in ordinary activities (breathing, walking, sitting), then in more sophisticated areas such as how you use your body in work, play, or any other movement discipline. You will be taught skills that will continue to enhance your elegance and allow you to see yourself with greater objectivity and compassion. $200

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and encounter methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $200

The Dynamic Forces of Love, Eros, and Sexuality

John Pierrakos

In spite of sexual and social advances, modern men and women have lost faith in their innate capacity to sustain and nurture the forces of love, eros, and sexuality. This workshop will explore the obstacles and characterological resistances to these core movements from an historical perspective, as well as their emergence from the human unconscious. We will attempt to discover new pathways toward developing, sustaining, and integrating these dynamic qualities into the personality. The workshop will cover: the nature and main elements of love, eros, and sexuality; their relationship to personality and character structure; their influence in shaping love, marriage, and cultural relations; integration of these forces with ego concepts and the body's energy centers; and human intentionality and the will to love as key creative elements of this process.

This is a workshop for the helping professional and will be both didactic and experiential. $200

Week of July 25–30

Healing Contact

Jessica Britt & Deborah Anne Medow

Harnessing and contracting life energy creates an environment where illness can occur. Disease separates us from our natural life pulsation; healing makes us whole again.

During this week, the group will explore the ingredients and context of alternative healing approaches as they affect physical, emotional, and spiritual life rhythms. Using themselves as models, participants will be taught to recognize and create a healing environment which can allow life energy to be contacted and rechanneled toward wholeness or well being.

Kathy Thormod

Through the practice of gestalt, Reichian breath work, massage, chanting, dance, meditation, and yoga, the workshop will emphasize developing essential healing skills: listening, sensing, contacting, and focusing attention to life energy and its shifts through breath, sound, touch, movement, and emotion. Using the skills and practices learned during the week, the workshop will culminate in a ritual using the group community as a healing family. For additional information see page 35. $400

Skylight of the Mind

Prem Das & Rutuma

Bliss and ecstasy are described as a daily experience by both shamans and yogins. This workshop will actively explore ancient methods used by shamans and yogins to gain access to the human potential for bliss, ecstasy, and transpersonal insight. Singing, dancing, and dreaming together can reveal how shamanic and yogic approaches can be employed for healing the "extended family." In culmination, the group will gather in a circle for a nocturnal ceremony in celebration of the living potential. $400

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, encounter, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $400

Attachment and Separation: Loving and Letting Go

George Kohlrieser

Life involves a series of attachments and separations. This experimental workshop will focus on attachments—parents, family, children, spouses, lovers, places, things—and the corresponding grief reactions to separation. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. Depression is a signal that something is wrong in the attachment system, and burn-out occurs when people are negatively attached or cannot attach to either people or goals.

Joy is the physiological and psychological outcome of positive emotional attachments, and the unresolved grief of past separations can interfere with making new attachments and the experience of joy. Saying hello can only occur after saying goodbye. Patterns of attachment and separation learned in childhood, including symbiotic relationships, will be identified and related to how participants make attachments and separate in the here and now. The formation and celebration of positive emotional attachments and the emotional resolution of past separations will be encouraged within the supportive atmosphere of the group. $400

The Foundations of Body Image

Deane Juhan & Andrea Rosenberg

This is a course for the improvement of your relationship with the body —your own and those you contact personally and professionally. Each major area of the body will be studied and experienced in turn. The sessions allotted for each area will include: slides and discussion to familiarize the group with the basic anatomical structures; specific stretches and exercises to isolate the muscles and joints in question; movement, dance and visualization to explore the psychological dimensions of each body part; instruction in massage methods designed to locate and alleviate common problems.

The intent is to provide enough concrete experience for each participant to feel a change for the better in self image; to provide enough discussion to understand how the improvements occurred and how they may be sustained; and particularly, to help you contact your images of your physical self—the body you do have, the body you think you have, and the body you could have. $400

Weekend of July 30–August 1

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $200

Encounter for Couples

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

For workshop description see May 14-16. $200 per participant

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Heinz Pagels

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation. $200

Energy Awareness and Personal Transformation

George Leonard & Annie Styron

In the world of energy awareness, problems become opportunities and pain becomes a gift of energy. Through simple movement exercises, participants will practice centering, relaxation, and blending, and learn alternative ways of dealing with conflict and stress. To quote The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short." Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse. $200

July 30–August 6

Gestalt Synergy®Methods: Integrating Bodymind Wisdom

Ilana Rubenfeld

The focus in this workshop will be on experiencing one's own body and emotions as a total organism. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tension and imbalance. A unique blend of gestalt, Alexander technique, and Feldenkrais exercises will be used as a gateway to contacting, expressing, and working through deep feelings. Massage staff will be on hand to assist the workshop.

We have the choice of contacting ourselves and each other with joy, sadness, compassion, humor, ideas, and with the body—the whole person. $600

Week of August 1–6

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $400

From Burnout to Personal Growth: Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who work with people who have experienced or are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and joyousness of their relationships with clients, colleagues, family, and friends. For additional information see page 35. $400

Come to Yourself

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

". . . and what he said was not often said by the real part of him. It was as if someone stood there bound and gagged while an inferior impersonator spoke for him."—Doris Lessing

This workshop focuses on finding and opening paths in the present that allow us to return to events and interactions in the past where we lost our integration (integrity). We will give ourselves opportunities to contact earlier versions of ourselves and to explore what influences led us to devalue the uniqueness of our as-isness. We will work toward bringing to awareness our own processes of suppression, repression, depression, projection, self- deception, and avoidance, and examine how these processes affect our aliveness and power in the here and now, and what steps we can take to reclaim ourselves. Modes of exploring are drawn from gestalt practice, neo- Reichian energy release work, primal work, family process, and guided fantasy. First priority is on intensive individual work in a supportive group setting. There are also opportunities to explore the nature of our interpersonal relating. $400

Pleasure, Sensuality, and Your Body

Barbara Clemans

This workshop is designed to enhance the feeling of aliveness in the body using pleasure to awaken the senses. In a soft, supportive environment group members will start at the beginning, moving together in unity to learn caring, contact and nurturing, sensitive giving, and relaxed receiving. They will explore new patterns of moving and being together, Feldenkrais awareness, and vital explorations in movement to music. $400

Weekend of August 6–8

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $200

Experiencing Esalen for Health Care Professionals

Coordinated by Jessica Britt

This workshop is designed for health care professionals who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on experiencing a variety of approaches to self awareness, self care, and new healing modalities. Experience may be grouped in three broad areas: A) Caring for the body, including work in sensory and body awareness, movement, nutrition, and different methods of body work, such as massage, Rolfing®, deep-tissue work, and shiatsu; B) Intra/interpersonal awareness, including exercises in meditation, centering, and gestalt awareness training; and C) Specific health-care-related issues, including values and attitudes about the nature of health and disease, the importance of self-reference and self-responsibility, and the understanding of the nature of human interactions. For additional information see page 35. $200

Vision Improvement: Our Willingness to See

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

This weekend will focus primarily on the awareness continuum, emphasizing ways to clear and re-educate the eye and the self to see without distortion in the here and now. With the aid of various approaches including deep emotional release, bioenergetics, gestalt, the Bates system, and nutrition, participants will have the opportunity to create new ways of looking at themselves and the world. $200

Love, Power, and Relationship

Harry Sloan

Power without love and love without power create imbalance within the self and in relationships. The capacity to be both sensitive and strong, caring and independent, enhances the ability to relate in a balanced and meaningful way. The development of these basic qualities is unique for each of us, and often reflects our "growing edge" in relating. This weekend will be a time to explore the strengths and limitations within our relational patterns. Our purpose together will be to become aware of our next steps toward more fulfilling and joyful relationships. $200

Strategies for Creative Living

John Krysko & Nancy Rosanoff

Recent brain research has indicated that the brain is divided into two hemispheres: the right, controlling artistic functions; and the left, controlling analytic functions. Simultaneous use of both sides of the brain allows for the possibility of giving expression to more than what the individual parts perceived. Whole-brain thinking is creative thinking.

This workshop will introduce processes which facilitate such a creative synthesis. There will be practical exercises which may help to develop a natural flow from ideas to actions, excitement to achievement, heart to mind. The aim is to go beyond balance to active involvement. Particular attention will be paid to increasing the participant's range of perception through the development of psychic sensibilities, using attunement exercises with simple approaches designed for grounding this awareness in daily activities. $200

August 7–14

Encountering in the High Sierra: A Gentle Trip

Maurica Anderson & Tom Moore

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, Page 34. $360

Week of August 8–13

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $400

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see May 30-June 4. $400

Transpersonal Psychology: New Approaches to Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see June 27-July2. $400

Single Parent Families

Robert Hunt

Special issues of single fathers and mothers will be addressed through group discussion, family massage, movement, psychodrama, role play, and video. Participants will explore themes of affection, independence, discipline, and parents' and children's responses to sexuality and dating. Single parents are invited to bring children seven years and older. Some scholarships may be available for children under 18. Please call the Esalen office for scholarship information. $400 per participant

You Don't Have to Suffer to Feel Good

Harry Sloan

Frequently, people approach change with the attitude that you have to suffer to grow. The experience of growth becomes heavy and humorless. What is lacking is a creative perspective which could help solve the problems we feel stuck in.

In an atmosphere of tenderness and humor, this workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Personal work will stress deepening awareness of our own unique sense of direction and the obstacles in the way. We will focus on learning to allow change, using humor as a vehicle for developing a spontaneous, flexible, and playful view of life and ourselves.

The basic approach will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal psychology, and cathartic methods which emphasize releasing and transforming blocked energies. Our purpose together will be to develop a creative perspective which aligns our will and motivation with the natural process of change and integration. $400

Weekend of August 13–15

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see June 4-6. $200

Expressing Your Attractiveness

James Oldham

By finding the ways in which you inhibit your natural attractiveness, you can change how you feel and move. We will focus on specific ways people block themselves from enjoyment. Letting go of these inhibitions allows a wide variety of spontaneous attractive behavior to emerge naturally. This workshop will not attempt to provide formulas or predetermined strategies; rather, it will allow you to find your gifts. The approach will be gestalt, utilizing theater awareness and special methods of movement awareness.

You may find at the end of this workshop that you are bringing people closer and evoking more interest in the people around you, without your understanding how you are doing it. $200

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit contact. One focus will be on integration via energy release methods. Another will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. $200

Take the "S" out of Cosmic: The Tao and Zen and Oz of Living

Al Chung-liang Huang & Living Tao Staff

This workshop is "for those who believe in the spiritual transcendance and crystal learning of LAUGHTER, and those who know they are much too serious and wish to en-lighten themselves in the DANCE of 'the pattern that connects'." $200

August 15–19

Moving On: A White Water Adventure on "The River of No Return"

David Schiffman & Bob Doppelt

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $565

Joyce Rogers

Week of August 15–20

Symbols of Personal Growth: The Tarot

Angeles Arrien & Sharon Jeffrey

For workshop description see July 2–4. $400

How to Heal Yourself: Tools for Optimum Health

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to increase their level of awareness and assume responsibility for their own health management. The emphasis will be on nutrition, and learning what to eat in order to create vitality, energy, and health in the body. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live foods will be presented. Cooking classes will provide practical information on healthy food preparation. Group members will be instructed in the use of guided imagery to support the healing process. An exercise/flexibility program will be developed for each individual. The information presented will then be integrated into a personalized health plan for each participant to work with at home. For additional information see page 35. $400

Gestalt, Bioenergy, and Human Contact; Old and New Learning Integrated

Alan Schwartz

There is an energetic dimension to human behavior which is often locked behind the habitual patterns of defending against the fear, pain, and even joy associated with feeling. The visible expression of these patterns lies in the blocked musculature of the body. Reich, Perls, and Lowen suggested ways of being in which a person learned to allow more movement in the aggressive and sexual expression of the body. This week will be an opportunity to test the organism as movement. Allowing energy means integrating body, feelings, conceptual process, and spirit. The result is stability and a deeper awareness of self and our interdependence with physical and social environments. The workshop can be thought of as a learning week. Appropriate didactic material will be covered. $400

Living Tao: Connecting Life's Patterns into Joyous Action

Al Chung-liang Huang & Living Tao Staff

Al Huang invites you to "enjoy and promote a Dancing Mind with a Thinking Body through direct experiences of the pure language of music and dance in J. S. Bach and t'ai chi Watercourse Way." $400

Integrative Body Work

Gael Switzer & Vicki Topp

This is a special massage workshop which utilizes Rolfing-Movement Integration®. Based on the theories of Ida Rolf, Rolfing-Movement Integration® teaches the principles of physical strength, support, grace, and ease. This workshop will begin with specific exercises which promote an easy and open physical structure. Participants will then be shown how to apply these same exercises and principles while learning to give an effective, integrative massage. $400

Weekend of August 20–22

The Gentle Art of Becoming-Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge

For workshop description see May 28-30. $200 per participant

Open Psychodrama Encounter

Walt & Maurica Anderson

For workshop description see July 2-4. $200

On Letting Go

Judyth Weaver

For workshop description see July 11-16. $200

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see July 23-25. $200

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Health: An Introductory Workshop

Michael Harner

The shamanic journey is an ancient visionary method used by humankind to enter nonordinary reality and explore the hidden universe otherwise known mainly through myth and dream. Participants will undergo an experiential initiation into the journey, aided by traditional drumming and dancing designed to promote the shamanic state of consciousness. Using the spirit canoe and other methods, they will learn how the shaman's journey can be utilized to restore power and health, to acquire knowledge, and to solve personal problems. Participants will be introduced to shamanic seeing, to shamanic interaction with the powers of nature, and to the practical application of shamanism in their daily lives. Bring a pen and notebook. Recommended reading: The Way of the Shaman: A Guide to Power and Healing by Michael Harner (Harper & Row; Bantam). $200

August 20–28

Wilderness Encounter: Eight Days in the Mountains of Northern Yosemite

Jeffrey Kent, Don Hackett & Susan Hackett

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $360

Week of August 22–27

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $400

Integrity

David Schiffman

For workshop description see May 23-28. $400

T'ai Chi Yoga

Catherine Elber & Deborah Anne Medow

Two ancient methods which are often practiced for personal evolution are t'ai chi and yoga. Each system combines fluidity with precision, creating a balance of yin and yang, a dance of the sun (ha) and moon (tha)—hatha.

During this week, the basic practices involved in doing t'ai chi and ashtanga yoga will be taught, providing group participants with the opportunity to focus on developing a stronger sense of inner and outer balance. $400

Advanced Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This workshop will include morning and afternoon practice sessions with various instructors, yoga, movement, evening lectures and discussions, and demonstrations of specific practices designed to increase the range of conditions with which participants can deal effectively. The following concerns will receive emphasis: how to sustain one's energy through a day of treatments; how to clear negative energy released by the client; how to use weight and leverage. As one massages more and more deeply, emotional changes can be triggered by the unravelling of blocked muscular energy. As these emotions present themselves, they will provide group members with some first hand practice in productive ways to move through them.

The format and pace of this course will presume some previous massage experience—at least an introductory five day intensive or its equivalent. $400

Learning to Practice Shamanic Healing: An Introductory and Intermediate Training Workshop

Michael Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and acting on that learning, especially for well- being and healing. In this experiential workshop the participants will practice the methods of the shaman (a type of medicine man or woman) to see, and to activate power to resist illness and maintain personal health. Through awakening dormant human capabilities and forgotten connections with the powers of nature, one may discover how the way of the shaman can be pursued in daily life to help oneself and others. With the aid of traditional sonic-driving approaches, the group will engage in archetypal exercises and rituals practiced by North and South American Indian shamans. Special work will include shamanic journeys to both the Lower- and Upperworlds for knowledge and power, work with plant and animal powers, divination, clairvoyance, the death and rebirth experience, and instruction in shamanic methods of helping the terminally ill and their relatives.

This workshop is for both beginners and those who have previously taken a workshop with Michael Harner. The more advanced participants will have training in the work of the shaman as psychopomp and healer of harmful intrusions. There will also be an introduction to the Ghost Dance experience. Please bring a notebook and pen.

Recommended reading: The Way of the Shaman: A Guide to Power and Healing by Michael Harner (Harper & Row; Bantam). $400

Weekend of August 27-29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $200

Close Encounters: Experiments in Meeting and Contacting Other Human Beings

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

For workshop description see June 11-13. $200

Why Me? Why Now? The Meaning of Disease

Jeff Kane

One can fruitfully comprehend disease as an unconscious form of behavior, a physiologically encoded statement about one's life. Understood as such, behavior may be consciously modified to a more adaptive style. Every patient contact is potentially a healing transaction. In learning how a disease fits into the patient's life, the health professional can learn how to communicate meaningfully with the person as well as address the disease. For additional information see page 35. $200

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Introduction to Meditation

Daniel O'Hanlon

The process of coming to really know ourselves, to get in touch with and transform those places in ourselves which we often unconsciously hide from ourselves, is a lifetime task. For some of us, at certain moments in our growth, practices of quiet meditation drawn from time-tested traditions are precisely what we need for a genuine breakthrough. To meet this need, this workshop will provide introductory instruction and guidance in a variety of meditative practices, drawn from Hindu and Buddhist disciplines, from the Christian traditions of the East and West, and from the recent explorations of the human potential movement.

Suggested readings: New Seeds of Contemplation (Merton) and Zen Mind Beginner's Mind (Suzuki). $200

The American Future: New Vision Beyond Old Frontiers

Tom Hayden

This workshop will examine ways to create a participatory society in which persons of all lifestyles believe that they matter, instead of an escapist culture which drives millions into irrelevance. Participants will discuss ways to move beyond wasteful, privately oriented existence to a more conserving, caring, and disciplined lifestyle. The focus of the workshop will be on old and new alternatives for our future as a society, and on ways toward a future which works for everyone because it includes everyone. $200

Week of August 29–September 3

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see May 14–16. $400

Put Your Memories, Fantasies, and Dreams to Work for You: A Reichian/Gestalt Approach to Energy Release

Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent

For workshop description see June 13-18. $400

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see July 9-11.

$400 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Celebration of the Sensitivity of Self

Daniel Bianchetta

This seminar will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through energy awareness, massage, meditation, and movement. Emphasis will be on recognizing and remembering the wisdom and sensitivity of the self. $400

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop, participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep us locked in obsolete behavior patterns. $400

August 29–September 5

Woman's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure Through the Big Sur Wilderness

Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $375

Weekend of September 3–5

Food for Health

Joe D. Goldstrich

For workshop description see July 16-18. $2

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see June 4-6. $20

A Journey into Wholeness: The Balancing of Masculine and Feminine in Relationships and Within Oneself

Peter Caddy

As the old and static patterns of relationships become less appropriate and more unworkable, many people are looking for new models and methods to achieve a balance in their business, home, and social relationships. Through personal sharings and drawing upon the collective experience of the group, this workshop will explore the meaning and dimensions of new age relationships, focusing on identifying and working with the masculine and feminine energies, both within each person and in a planetary context. $200

The Moving Center

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

An American Shamanic ritual using music, poetry, sacred dance, and ritual theater experiences to mirror the mind, catalyze the heart, and open the body as a channel for creative energies. Through collective rituals participants will explore individual dreams and visions and learn to share differences. $200

The Future of Intelligence

Frank Barron

The most spectacular feature of organic evolution has been the development of intelligence. And we humans seem to be its most spectacular embodiment. Lest such a view be considered human species-centricity at its worst, let's consider for a moment—suppose someone else is in fact out there watching Spaceship Earth. Isn't it likely that "they" might have noticed—seen and heard—that a lot of human commotion has intention in it? For our intelligence is a designing design, making marks all over the planet as well as little-big marks throughout the solar system. Where is intelligence going in its development? No one has the answer, but we are thinking about it. We may even have designs on our own intelligence. Can intelligence affect its own evolution? How? Should it?

This symposium will take up topics such as these: the genetics of stability and change in human intelligence; the scope of intelligence and the scope of the intellected; intelligence measurable and immeasurable; communal intelligence; intelligence putty (intelligence face-to-face, back-to-back, horizontal-vertical, dextral-sinistral, sideways, up and down, and other changeable conditions); new software programs for the biocomputer; creativity on the loose; applied creativity; the use, abuse, and fun of intelligence. $200

Week of September 5–10

A Week with Peter Caddy: The Findhorn Experience

This workshop will explore the Findhorn spirit, the spirit of cooperating with God, nature, and man. The stress will be on what is right with you and the universe. Participants will explore the example of the founding and development of Findhorn, and use meditation and discussion to create a community of consciousness for the week. $390

Unity

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

This is a five-day shamanic healing ritual designed to inspire and channel the religious, sexual, and creative aspects of life energy into unity and expression. Through music, sacred dance, poetry, and ritual theater processes, participants will explore and present their unique experiences of life's waves, rhythms, and cycles. The Moving Center tools are designed to release gifts, talents, and potentials. $390

September 5–26

The Primal Circle: Exploring the Roots of Well-Being

Christine Price, Jessica Britt & Visiting Faculty

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 31. $1350

September 5–October 1

The Mystical Quest

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 31. $1600

Weekend of September 10–12

Surrender to Self

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see June 20-25. $190

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® Movement

Elisa Lodge

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body."—James Joyce

This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used. $190

Spiritual Healing

Alan Young

This workshop will be experiential, and will answer such questions as: What is spiritual healing? How does it work? Why isn't everyone healed? What are the inner causes of disease? How can we discover the underlying cause in each case? How can I help my own healing? How can I develop the ability to be a channel for the healing of others? It will include exercises in sensing the energy radiating from your own body, and from that of others. It will culminate in a demonstration healing in which all will be invited to participate.

The workshop is designed to interest: (a) those who want to learn about healing themselves, or at least assist in the healing process; (b) those who wish to become a channel for the healing of others; and (c) those who want to learn more about spiritual healing as a matter of interest or personal growth. $190

High Performance Management in Health Care

Charles Garfield

This workshop is based on "state-of-the-art" concepts currently being used nationally by health care administrators and supervisors as well as highly productive managers in business and industry. It was developed after hundreds of hours of interviewing administrators, supervisors, health professionals, and some of the most successful corporate executives in U.S. industry and abroad. The workshop is designed for all health administrators and supervisors as well as department heads, health educators, program developers and personnel officers. Topics will include: methods of improving productivity; the reduction of blocks to high level performance in organizations; the relationship between creative stress and high level performance; management strategies and styles of high performing healthcare administrators and supervisors; handling difficult people; and the modification of systems that foster stress and burnout. Recommended reading: Stress and Survival (Mosby, 1979). $190

September 11–18

Gentle Backpacking, Gentle Encountering in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Tom Moore

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $310

September 11–21

River of Solitude: The Lower Canyons of the Rio Grande

Annie Callaway & Dick Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $550

Week of September 12–17

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see June 18–20. $390

Five Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see July 18-23. $390

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

For workshop description see July 11-16. $390

Developing Psychic Awareness

Joan Steffy

For workshop description see July 4-9. $390

Weekend of September 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $190

Couples Workshop: Intimacy and Growth

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see June 25-27. $190 per participant

Self-Hypnosis, Selective Awareness, and Movement

Emmett & Sandra Ferreira Miller

Movement requires the use of muscular activity in varying degrees of intensity. So, too, thought processes and interpersonal communication proceed through stages of higher and lower energy. Many personal and social difficulties (symptoms, unwanted emotions, maladaptive habit patterns) can be eased when we learn to react in accordance with and in response to our internal and external environment.

This workshop will explore principles of self-hypnosis, selective awareness, Feldenkrais, t'ai chi, dance, and movement, to expand self-awareness and the ability to allow the mind and body to flow with changing experiences. $190

Week of September 19–24

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see page 8. $390

Ongoing Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Esalen Wilderness Staff
For workshop description see pages 8 & 9. $390

Designing a Healthy Lifestyle
Ken Dychtwald

In this five day experiential workshop, the group will explore and examine the ways in which certain attitudes and lifestyle variables correlate with high levels of health, life-satisfaction, longevity, and professional effectiveness. Particular attention will be placed on having each participant develop a personal approach to altering his or her personal habits and attitudes in order to enhance all aspects of mental and physical functioning within an enjoyable "life plan."

The daily program (all optional) will include: running, stretching, and aerobic exercise sessions; meditation, relaxation, and stress-reduction classes; health walks/hikes; sensory awareness and creative visualization instruction; massage lessons at the Esalen baths; nutritious meals prepared in the Esalen kitchen; and a series of didactic seminars on such topics as life planning, longevity, diet and nutrition, optimal fitness, stress-management, wellness, and peak performance.

Although the material and activities to be covered in this seminar will be of value to all interested participants, graduates of previous Ken Dychtwald workshops are encouraged to attend. $390

Weekend of September 24–26

Experiencing Esalen: The Body
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see page 8 $190

Encounter for Couples
Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent
For workshop description see May 14-16 $190 per participant

Exploring Self-Acceptance
David Schiffman
For workshop description see July 23-25. $190

Week of September 26–October 1

Reichian/Gestalt Intensive
Joan Fiore & Jeffrey Kent
For workshop description see May 16-21. $390

Psychosynthesis: A Professional Training Workshop
Harry Sloan

Harry Sloan writes: "Many of us have experienced those moments in working with clients when we don't have the foggiest idea of what's going on. Often, to avoid the discomfort of confusion and not knowing, we hurriedly grasp for what is most familiar—a technique, map, or model. This can lead to the mechanical experience of 'going through the motions' and rote interventions. However, if we could reach for essence and truth instead of falling back on what's most familiar, the dissonance might open to insight. The result of capturing the moment and responding to the need of the client and to the dynamics of the situation can have a decidedly different effect upon both the guide and client. The heart of psychosynthesis is understanding the process of reaching for essence within ourselves and our clients. This practice can lead to developing wisdom and intuition, transcending the methodologies we use.

"The format will combine individual work within the group setting with seminars, group exercises, and practicum. This training program will be useful not only to those who are interested in psychosynthesis, but also to anyone in the helping professions who wants to come into a more creative relationship with his/her discipline.

"Psychosynthesis is the name for the conscious attempt to align and cooperate with the natural process of growth and integration. It recognizes that each human being is spiritual in essence and encourages the realization and expression of this essence, or higher self, as fully as possible in personal and social existence." $390

Joyce Rogers

Kathy Thornod

Mythologist, Joseph Campbell and philosopher, Sam Keen

Hall of Mirrors

Jenny O'Connor & The NINE

"Black and white have the middle master of transparency."—The NINE

In this workshop you will not just step into your own reflection, you will step into the fragments of every reflection you have ever lived, and thereby learn choice.

"The mystic steps into the revolving door of choice and realizes that he or she is not an apparition of the glass, but a glass for the apparition."—The NINE

Some of the finest teachers of the New Age made themselves available for this workshop—some traveling from as far afield as Sirius B.

"A lie is just a fumble of the imagination."—The NINE $390

Weekend of October 1–3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $190

Energy Awareness and Creative Sexuality

George Leonard & Annie Styron

For workshop description see June 11-13. $190

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see May 30-June 4. $190

Body Snatching: Build-Them-Yourself Characters

Edie McClurg

What would it be like to become a different person with a different past, present, and future? And to make it up as you go along? Through improvisational theater approaches we can learn to discard generalities and zero in on the germ of truth that makes each person different. You must be able to talk in order to improvise; but improvisation is not just talking. Structure, dramatic conflict, and satisfactory resolution will be explored with each new character and situation that pops up in our midst. Actors and comedians are welcome, but acting experience is not required. Being able to listen, observe, and laugh is required. We might be so good we'll want to get a barn and put on a show—or not. We'll make it up as we go along. $190

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feeling of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $190

Week of October 3–8

Body Changes: Feldenkrais and Rolfing®

Dub Leigh, Michael Joyce & Dee Dee Lozier

This workshop is designed for those who want to begin or accelerate their process of body change toward comfort and awareness, with increasing ability in movement and relaxation. We will focus on resolution of individual functional problems in neuromuscular and connective tissue organization of the body. Group sessions will use gentle exercises for increasing awareness while relating parts of the body together in a more harmoniously integrated movement. We will learn to recognize our body signals of discomfort or awkwardness as opportunities to explore and improve how we are in our bodies. This workshop will include individual work in Feldenkrais and Rolfing®. Participants will be guided in the development of a personal program for continuing improvement at home. $390

Opening the Feelings

Joel Dweck & Anne Ruderman

The aim of this Radix® neo-Reichian workshop is to help participants to grow in their capacity to experience and express deep feeling, to rediscover themselves, and to contact others in a deeper way. Using emotional release methods, the most important being the intensive, which is a period of individual work within a small, supportive group, deeply held emotions of pain, fear, and rage can emerge. This release can soften chronic unconscious patterns of tension, and a new and deeper capacity for pleasure, trust, and love can follow. Each participant will receive two intensives, and the workshop will be limited to ten participants for each facilitator. $390

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of the self-defeating patterns of the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $390

October 3–29

Optimum Health

Joe D. Goldstrich & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, Page 31.

$1600 plus $100 lab fees

October 7–10

The Vertical Dance: A Climbing Adventure in Yosemite

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $225

Weekend of October 8–10

Pleasure, Sensuality, and Your Body

Barbara Clemans

For workshop description see August 1–6. $190

Experiencing Esalen for Couples

Nancy Kaye Lunney, Bruce Neeb & Experiencing Esalen Staff

An experiential workshop incorporating verbal and nonverbal contact, massage, and creative expression. There will be time together and time apart to experience yourselves individually and in relation to each other. $190 per participant

The Transformation of Mythology through Time

Joseph Campbell

A slide illustrated survey of the main stages of transformation of myth from paleolithic to modern times. The first hours will deal with prehistoric and non-literate materials, the following talks and discussions with the history of the high traditions. The main stages of our common human history and main provinces of differentiation will be defined and illustrated through a comparative survey of arts and rites. The relevance of all this to an understanding of the conflicts of the contemporary scene will be a topic of discussion throughout. $190

October 8, 1982–January 28, 1983

Holistic Health Four Month Residential Training Program

Coordinated by Polly Kirby

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32. $6300

Week of October 10–15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $390

Massage for Health Professionals

Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom & Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see June 13-18. $390

A Feast For Life

Andre Gregory

Andre Gregory writes: "These workshops are an occasion for me to give and take in the sense that I can pass on certain technical skills while using the participants to explore new directions in my own work. Generally, my best workshops are the ones in which I have no idea of what I'm going to do, which is true for this event. I would like to join the creator and the child in everyone to promote a healing process within the confines of professional theater. The workshop will be of most value to those of all ages who are currently involved with theater or are considering the theater as a profession, but who feel that the theater as they see it somehow contributes to the process of death rather than to the process of life." $390

Weekend of October 15–17

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 8. $190

Successful Business Behavior for Women, or "Act like a lady, think like a man, and work like a dog."

Victoria Elliot

In this workshop we will learn about the social issues vs. the business issues of being a woman. How to make decisions better and faster, how to get to the bottom line, and how to communicate to get what you want from the people you work with. $190

On the Way to Health: A Guide for Health Practitioners

Phillip Mac

This workshop is designed to look at the stresses of the health provider in training and in practice. We will work toward developing greater personal health consciousness through self-awareness and self-responsibility, and creating a healing environment within ourselves. Body awareness, centering, and visualization will be some of the methods employed. For additional information see page 35. $190

Joyce Rogers

• SPECIAL PROGRAMS •

May 16–June 4
Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg

This workshop will start wherever you are in your inner journey. The work is an in-depth integration of body and gestalt practices and the transformative process of consciousness.

The course will cover:

Psychology of the Self: Working with early unfinished situations that interrupt our sense of well-being and interfere with our relationships in the present. Sexual implications of this work will be dealt with in body work and in lecture.

Body Work (Gestalt Body Approach): Theoretic and practical application, combining classical Reichian work, yoga, and aerobics and massage, assisted by Andrea Rosenberg.

Transformative Process of Consciousness: As our inner journey progresses, our figure/ground awareness is shifted from "doing" and "having" to "being" and to our relationship with the eternal. We will explore ways to integrate and sustain these new awarenesses in our everyday life.

$1200

June 6–July 2
Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge & Esalen Staff

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."
—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special care and attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what we've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. What are the most important elements that support this transformation and renewal? And how might this process be effectively shared with others? Out of the answers to these basic questions has emerged the dream of combining the best of Esalen's human potential practice work with the spirit of adventure found in Outward Bound's wilderness programs, along with the gracious informality of living and working together in one of the most beautiful and peaceful settings in the world.

The aim of this unique curriculum will be to explore and develop a new model for learning, one that not only deepens the experience of traditional therapeutic process, but also breaks new ground in erasing the line between intensive group and individual work and the ordinary world of everyday life.

Among the areas we will touch on during this month are:

The Body and its Functions: As a temple for the spirit; as a reflection, and as a turning point from past habits, fears, and attitudes; as a source of grace, ease, and fluidity in movement and in contact; as a kinetic homebase for exuberance, playfulness, and balance; and as a healing source of touch.

The Emotional Realm: Exploring and opening the limits of temperament; redirecting negative feelings for inspiration and power; cultivating passion and strength as the core of integrity; resolving inner and outer turmoil simply and peacefully.

The Mind: Developing the powers of the imagination for self-affirmation and creativity; deepening the ability to see, hear, and understand so that one can range easily from the practical to the transcendental; strengthening the sense of fair-witness and developing the skillful use of the will; using the perspective of humor to heal separation.

Coming together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in ourselves, the group will create a community whose foundation is based on trust, good will, and authenticity.

During the month each participant will have the opportunity to clarify and develop his/her own style and artfulness as an individual guide and group facilitator doing in-depth training in gestalt practice, body work, psychosynthesis methods, and the meditative arts. The program will be structured to include: intensive individual work; creative music and movement; wilderness and equestrian experiences; group rituals and celebrations; supervised observations; practicum work in group leading and individual counseling skills; video feedback; illustrated lectures and didactic theoretical sessions.

The emphasis throughout will be on creating a personally integrated perspective that will bring buoyancy and lightness into life and work. This workshop is designed for people from all walks of life. $1600

September 5–26
The Primal Circle: Exploring the Roots of Well-Being

Christine Price, Jessica Britt & Visiting Faculty

The search for physical, emotional, and spiritual well-being can be exciting and challenging. This workshop is a time for sharing those practices which we have found most effective and nourishing for ourselves.

First Week: Personal Roots: Many ancient disciplines are keyed toward giving up personal identity and entering nirvana, bliss, etc., by recognizing our oneness with all existence. For many people in our culture this is a futile effort because we are not even aware of the "self" which can be surrendered into the "whole." The beginning of this workshop will focus on "coming home" to ourselves. In intensive sessions of gestalt practice and Reichian breath work, our physical sensations and feeling process will be primary. Some moderate fasting, massage practice, and chanting sessions will also be included.

Second Week: Primal Roots: By spending ten days backpacking in the wilderness, participants will have the opportunity to enrich their connection with nature and explore their relationships to each other in a setting devoid of the usual distractions and supports. Taking inspiration from ancient ceremonial practices, we will create and enact rituals relevant to our present lives.

Third Week: Creative Roots: The creative arts are an ancient channel for divine expression as well as self-expression. Trance dancing, moving meditations, mantra, and chanting are ways which have been used for thousands of years to connect to and become an extension of the god/goddess. This final week provides time to explore these practices, both in their original forms and their modern interpretations. Sessions for personal clearing will again be included.

The visiting faculty will include Leonard Bearne, Byron Brown, Steven Harper, Susan Harper, Ruth Leveton, and Gail Stewart. For more information regarding this workshop, write to Christine Price, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. $1350

September 5–October 1
The Mystical Quest

Christina & Stanislav Grof

A four week, interdisciplinary training program designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy interested in understanding the mystical quest and approaches to attaining higher consciousness. Special attention will be paid to the similarities and differences between psychosis and mysticism, and to the vicissitudes of consciousness evolution. This program is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals trained to facilitate the process of personal transformation and to assist in spiritual emergencies. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Ancient Mystical Traditions. We will explore theoretically and practically the cartographies and technologies of the sacred developed in the context of shamanism, Hinduism, Buddhism, Kabbala, and alchemy.

Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science: Dawning of a New Paradigm. Scientists who have made major contributions to the emerging paradigm will discuss the recent developments in Western science—consciousness research, brain physiology, parapsychology, systems theory, and quantum-relativistic physics—that are rapidly bridging the gap between science and mysticism.

Psychosis: Disease Or Evolutionary Crisis. We will explore new understandings of the psychotic process emerging from psychedelic research, Jungian psychology, Kundalini research, and modern clinical and laboratory studies. An attempt will be made to differentiate psychosis from "spiritual emergency" or evolutionary crisis. Participants will have the opportunity to experiment with methods of constructive assistance in transpersonal crises.

Self-Exploration and Group Process. The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic input with deep personal experience. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for the process of self-exploration throughout the month. We will use "holonomic integration," developed by the coordinators, which combines controlled breathing, evocative music, focused body work, and mandala drawing. Other methods used in the workshop will be Dora Kalff's sandplay, Gestalt practice, training of psychic abilities, and Esalen massage. $1600

October 3–29
Optimum Health

Joe D. Goldstrich & Staff

This program, led by a former chief cardiologist at Pritikin Longevity Center, is for individuals committed to realizing greater potential for health and well-being. The three main components of the program are nutrition, exercise and movement, and group process work. By combining insights and approaches from various schools and traditions of healing and health care, we can avoid the dogmatism and exclusivity which so often characterize our understanding of issues concerning health.

Nutrition: Blood samples will be analyzed at the beginning and end of the program to track each participant's progress toward greater health. Based on the first blood sample in combination with Dr. Goldstrich's comprehensive life history review index, each participant's diet during the month will be based on a unique synthesis of the Pritikin approach, macrobiotics, and "live food" diets. Participants will also learn how to shop for the most nutritious food in supermarkets and health food stores, and how to prepare food using methods which preserve nutritional value.

Exercise and Movement: Each participant will receive a fitness level review from Dr. Goldstrich as the basis for an individualized approach to exercise and movement. A variety of approaches will be available to participants, including hatha yoga and stretching, t'ai chi, aerobic and jazz dance, and jogging. Massage instruction will be part of the curriculum and sessions will be offered at the baths. In addition, two day-hikes are planned in the surrounding Big Sur wilderness area. Videotape review of movement sessions will be included as a means of body image feedback and self-improvement. The mutual benefits of sound nutrition and regular exercise will be emphasized throughout the program.

Group Process: Most of us have encountered our own mental and emotional resistance to greater well-being. By exploring the roots of our resistance to growth and change, we can gain greater access to inner resources such as courage, strength, patience and determination—all of which help to ensure the success and enjoyment of one's commitment to greater health. Through group interaction, guided imagery, gestalt practice and other approaches to group and individual process, participants will have an ongoing opportunity to contact and integrate deeper parts of themselves. Relaxation and stress reduction approaches will also be introduced.

Overview: Esalen is a unique setting for this residential program in developing optimal health. Much of the food is grown on the property, including food from the Esalen Farm. Combined with the array of approaches to mental, emotional, spiritual, and physical development offered on a regular basis, and its setting in a supportive community environment, Esalen offers a sense of natural abundance from which to explore good health in this comprehensive program. For additional information see page 35. $1600+$100 lab fees

October 8, 1982–January 28, 1983
Holistic Health Training Program

Coordinated by Polly Kirby

This program is designed for those seeking information and training in alternative health and healing approaches. For health care professionals this program will provide new knowledge and skills in holistic healing practices which they can use in their own health care settings. For lay persons and students this program will provide an in-depth introduction into the holistic health field, as well as the necessary training to maintain a high level of wellness in their own home environments. In addition to the emphasis on healing, the participants will receive complete training and personal experience in the ten deep tissue sessions, and also will take part in ongoing practicums focusing on training in gestalt and group process. There will be a weekly acupuncture clinic exclusively for the participants' own health enhancement, as well as regularly scheduled community health sessions where participants can observe the integration of the various holistic practices being taught. A part-time faculty of about twenty will be involved in different aspects of the teaching program.

The workshop will include fifteen areas of study and practice. These are: deep tissue; acupuncture; nutrition; t'ai chi; gestalt; homeopathy; herbology; Bach flower remedies; community health; group process; anatomy; healing meditations; organic gardening; movement integration; massage. A course outline describing each of the areas covered can be obtained by writing to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

Classes will be held six days per week, with three meetings usually being scheduled for each day. Included in this time will be a four-hour per week work commitment in various community projects. Only Wednesdays will be off-days, although all classes are considered optional, leaving the intensity of the learning experience completely up to the choice and capacity of the individual participants.

During this four month period there will also be on-going community sessions which are open to all residents in the Esalen community. In the past these have included morning yoga practice, zazen meditation, Feldenkrais exercises, body-strengthening exercises, movement and dance, various forms of energetic release work, intra and inter-personal process work, chanting and different spiritual and contemplative practices, video tape and movie presentations, astrology sessions, and evening lectures on a host of subjects.

During the four month stay, participants in the program are also free to sign up for any of the regularly scheduled Esalen catalog programs on a space available basis by payment of the leader's fee. To provide some recreation and diversion, occasional outings into the magnificent Big Sur countryside and along the coastline will be planned throughout the program.

Esalen is not a degree, diploma, or certificate granting institution. This program is offered for professional and educational enrichment. Participants must make their own arrangements to assure compliance with respective state licensing requirements for professionally applying any skills acquired in this program. Verification of attendance will be given to nurses and physicians in the program desiring continuing education credit for this experience.

For further information write to Polly Kirby, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. $6300

• WILDERNESS PROGRAMS •

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

On one week programs, the deposit is $100. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your $100 deposit is forfeited. The balance of the fee, if already paid, may be applied to other programs within one year.

May 7–14
A Seven-Day Wilderness Experience From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Center

Jeffrey Kent & Jessica Britt

Nature can provide us with opportunities to stretch our limits and explore our inner wilderness. By living without the routines that remove us from our source, giving priority to feeling and honest exchanges, we can expand our sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. They will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, geography, and the cultural history of the area. There will be sessions to work with feelings as they emerge, and rites of purification. The hike will conclude with each participant spending a 24-hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley, with natural hot springs, for the last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $325

May 15–24
Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland, Annie Callaway & Marilyn Mason

The rugged Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone, almost disappears as it crosses the Mexican border into the Baja peninsula. About one hundred miles below the border it rises to form the Sierra San Pedro Martir, a forested plateau about 7500 feet high. On the eastern edge of this plateau, the soaring granite form of Picacho del Diablo, Baja's highest peak, rises to over 10,000 feet. This workshop will take us from a trailhead on the plateau's western edge through pine forests, broad open meadows, and along clear streams to the base of Diablo on the eastern escarpment. From there participants may climb the peak. To the west the green hills slope off into the Pacific. In the east the plateau falls away to the desert and the waters of the Gulf of California. Participants will descend onto the desert through a sinuous granite canyon, pausing to play in waterfalls and deep pools.

Group members will carry everything they need in packs, cook over fires, and learn a range of basic wilderness skills, including basic rock climbing. 24 hours will be spent alone in reflection and contemplation. The workshop will also include psychosynthesis, group process work, yoga, and journal writing. No previous experience is required. You should be healthy and reasonably fit. The program begins and ends in San Diego. Complete information on travel, clothing, and equipment will be sent upon registration. $575

May 28–30
Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing

Dick Galland

Few pastimes offer the opportunity of so profound a look into the natural world and into ourselves as flyfishing. The tools of the fisherman have more to do with disciplining the body and mind and tuning the senses than with killing trout. There is a focus and subtlety of movement in fly fishing akin to Eastern meditative disciplines. The possibility always exists of entering the trout's world. In fly fishing, the trout are the teachers. They let you know by their actions when you have presented the fly properly.

Kathy Thormod

This weekend, which will be spent at Esalen, is a combination of practical instruction, visualization, physical exercise, and guided fantasy. Participants spend Saturday on the Esalen grounds learning basics. On Sunday, we travel a few miles up the coast to tempt the rainbows of the Big Sur River. Beginners and accomplished fishermen welcome. Complete information on equipment will be sent upon registration. $190

June 4–11
Wilderness Celebration: Emergence in Nature

Jessica Britt & Ruth Leveton

During this seven day trip to the High Sierra, the group will practice ancient and modern methods for clearing and channelling energy, using native purification rites, dream work, gestalt and group process, sound, breath, and music. There will be instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, geography, and the cultural history of the area. There will also be a "vision quest"—a time alone. The goal is to re-own and empower our natural rhythm of body, voice, heart, and spirit, facilitated by the wilderness. No experience is necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. Detailed information sent upon registration. $325

June 11–13
The Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

"There is an art in finding one's direction in the lower regions by the memory of what one saw higher up. When one can no longer see, one can at least still know."—Rene Dumal

Rock climbing is a dance done in a vertical world, a dance of grace, balance, and simplicity. It is an opportunity for stretching limits, extending ourselves, exploring our own edges. Our responses to the challenges of climbing offer a metaphor for looking at the ways we deal with stress and challenge in our daily lives. During the day we will play on the sunny boulders and low rock faces at Pinnacles National Monument, three hours east of Esalen. We'll learn basic movements, such as how to rappel and belay, building trust in our hands and feet and each other. Safety ropes free us to experiment and to discover our inner heroes.

We'll prepare our meals together over a crackling fire and camp beneath the stars, sharing insights from the day's adventure. This weekend begins Friday evening and ends Sunday evening at the Monterey airport. A shuttle bus operates between the airport and Esalen, and we'll travel by van to and from Pinnacles. No previous climbing or camping experience is necessary. A complete camping equipment package may be rented through the leaders. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $175

July 3–12
Rites of Passage: A Mountain/River Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

This workshop is grounded in the notion that a person's responses to the challenges of mountain and river reflect their responses to the challenges of daily life. From the real and immediate lessons of the wilderness, we can come to see ourselves more clearly and act with a greater sense of clarity, purpose, and direction. For seven days we'll explore the remote and spectacular Marble Mountains wilderness in northern California. Carrying everything we need in our packs, we'll hike through forests and meadows, and camp by crystal mountain lakes. From a base camp in a small alpine basin, we'll experience beginning rock climbing and rappelling, ascend a nearby peak, relax in a sweat house, and each spend 24 hours completely alone in reflection and contemplation. We'll learn a variety of mountain skills including camp craft, map and compass travel, wilderness medicine, gourmet cooking, and mountain ecology. At the end of seven days, we'll resupply with fresh food and move to the nearby Klamath River for two full days of whitewater rafting, guiding our twelve-foot rubber rafts with paddles through the rapids. We'll also combine approaches from group process work, yoga, meditation, and journal writing to help us ground our experiences so we may incorporate them into our daily lives. No previous experience is required, though participants should be in good physical health. Complete information on clothing, equipment, and travel will be sent upon registration. We'll meet in Medford, Oregon on July 3. $475

July 4–30
Moon Cycle: A Month-Long Wilderness Adventure in Yosemite

Jeffrey Kent, Helga Kraft & Harry Kent

Yosemite's wilderness is a world of both spectacular and subtle beauty. There the group will come together to share and integrate learning in a supportive atmosphere. Participants will spend time hiking (packing in everything needed for survival), rock climbing, rappelling, fishing, sunning, learning minimal impact camping, eating delicious and highly nutritious food, processing any feelings that emerge, and building Indian sweat lodges for use in chanting, praying, cleansing, encountering, singing, laughing, grumbling, doing nothing, soloing (for up to three days at one time), confronting fears, learning about strengths, and competing for the best popcorn recipe.

The main focus will be learning to find strength, courage, and playfulness within, reclaiming power, spontaneity, and inner peace. Methods will include the exertion of hiking and mountaineering, gestalt, encounter, and the American Indian circle, as well as guided imagery, meditation, and whatever else may feel appropriate at the moment.

Previous wilderness experience is not necessary. Participants should be in good health and prepared for the challenges of vigorous physical activity. Also highly recommended is a sense of humor and a willingness to "look bad." The group will meet in Yosemite on July 4. A complete travel information and equipment list will be sent to you upon registration. $1300

August 7–14
Encountering in the High Sierra: A Gentle Trip

Maurica Anderson & Tom Moore

During this seven day workshop we will hike in eight miles to a clear mountain lake (10,000 feet) off the main trails in the John Muir Wilderness area of the High Sierra. Mules will carry in all of the food, camping equipment, and personal gear, enabling us to have outrageously good food (fresh or frozen meats, fruit and vegetables). You need carry only your lunch and rain poncho on the hike in. We will camp by the lake for six days, taking short day hikes to the surrounding lakes and meadows, working with body awareness, psychodrama, gestalt, and encounter, laughing a lot and getting to know the high country, one another, and ourselves.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary, but applicants should possess a good sense of humor and be capable of hiking uphill at altitudes of up to 11,000 feet. For a detailed information sheet write or call Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis Street, Albany, CA 94706 (415-526-5814). Participants will meet in the Sierra on August 7. $360

August 15–19
A White Water Adventure on "The River of No Return"

David Schiffman & Bob Doppelt

The first fifty miles of this expedition are on Idaho's legendary Salmon River and the last fifteen on Oregon's Snake River through Hell's Canyon, the deepest gorge in the United States. Hundreds of feet above us are the vertical rock walls of the Inner Canyons. The focus of the trip is the opportunity to "Row it Yourself"—a concept developed by the Oregon River Experience Staff, which enables each participant, with a partner, to navigate their own boat. Basic wilderness and river skills will be complemented with a variety of approaches to inner development. Along the way there will be opportunities to see and enjoy old mines, Indian pictographs, and remote side canyons. No previous rafting experience is necessary. The group will meet in Lewiston, Idaho. Further information on equipment and transportation is available by writing David Schiffman at Esalen. (Registration deadline: July 15.) $565

August 20–28
Wilderness Encounter: Eight Days in the Mountains of Northern Yosemite

Jeffrey Kent, Don Hackett & Susan Hackett

We will go to the wilderness to get closer to its beauty; we go to face ourselves, to simplify, to have fun, certainly to empower ourselves; we go because we can greatly and dramatically expand our sense of self and depth of being. We believe that by doing whatever is most risky—even uncomfortable—we can give ourselves the greatest potential for personal growth. Explore with us, from the Hetch-Hetchy reservoir to the very remote and spectacular Lake Edith region. We will hike, fish, be challenged by beginning rock climbing, camp, tell stories, and sing songs. Throughout the seven days, we give whatever time is necessary to working with any feelings that may emerge. Our experience together, sometimes nudging personal boundaries and limits, encountering ourselves, each other, and nature, includes a 24-hour period completely alone.

No experience is necessary, but participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information on request and complete fact sheet sent upon registration. $360

August 29–September 5
Women's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure Through the Big Sur Wilderness

Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge

We will come together in the Big Sur Wilderness to explore our inner world: our feminine roles and archetypes; dominant and shadow parts of ourselves; our vulnerability and strength; our heroism and adventurousness. Woven into our week are group process work, traditional wilderness skills, rappelling, and Rolfing® movement integration, designed to open ourselves to balance, grace, and fluidity. A full moon, crackling fires, and excellent food—much of it fresh—will enhance our journey. Near the end each of us will spend 24 hours alone in reflection and contemplation. We will camp out at Esalen our first night, drive to the trailhead the next morning, and return to Esalen the following Sunday morning to enjoy the hot springs. Lunch will be our final meal together. No previous wilderness experience is necessary. Complete equipment list will be sent on registration. $375

September 11–18
Gentle Backpacking, Gentle Encountering, in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Tom Moore

After Labor Day but before deer hunting season begins is a time of quiet in the Sierra. We will take seven days of this quiet to hike into the John Muir Wilderness area at a leisurely pace, spending each afternoon and evening by a mountain lake or rushing stream. Several mule-loads of food will be left on the trail for us, enabling us to keep our pack weight down and to eat outrageously good food. We will spend some time doing massage, body awareness, psychodrama, and encounter, laughing a lot and getting to know the high country, one another, and ourselves. There will be some time for doing nothing or for taking strenuous side hikes.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary, but participants should possess a good sense of humor and be capable of carrying a pack at altitudes up to 10,500′ for distances of 4 to 6 miles a day. For complete information sheet write or call Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis St., Albany, Ca. 94706 (415) 526-5814. Participants will meet in the Sierra on September 11. $310

September 11–21
River of Solitude: The Lower Canyons of the Rio Grande

Annie Callaway & Dick Galland

We will float nearly 50 miles of the Rio Grande as it winds through the Big Bend country, forming the border between Texas and Mexico. We feel ourselves slowing, adjusting our pace to the river, floating in the warm water and shedding our cares to become a part of this timeless land of sun, rock, and water. We will camp at night on the riverbank to cook over mesquite campfires and sleep in the warm sand, beneath the brilliant canopy of the desert stars. We will explore sinuous limestone side canyons, visit ancient Indian shelter caves, and marvel at the unique Chihuahuan desert vegetation and geology. In six six-person rafts we will paddle past strands of river cane and swim in crystal springs along the river. We will make music, invent rituals, and tell stories of our own journeys. We will use relaxation, yoga, and group process approaches, breathing deeply and opening our hearts, to emerge at the end of the trip refreshed and renewed. The group will meet in Midland, Texas, on September 11. Information on clothing, equipment, and travel will be sent upon registration. $550

October 7–10
The Vertical Dance: A Yosemite Climbing Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

During the days we'll play on the magnificent granite boulders and low rock faces of the "Incomparable Valley." We'll learn basic movements, such as how to rappel and belay, building trust in our hands and feet and each other. Safety ropes will free us to experiment and to discover our inner heroes. We'll camp in organized campgrounds, cooking together over crackling fires and sharing the day's adventures. One night we will don our city clothes for dinner at the Ahwahnee Hotel, a Valley tradition for nearly 100 years. The weekend begins Thursday afternoon and ends Sunday afternoon at the Fresno airport. We travel by van to and from Yosemite. No previous camping or climbing experience is necessary. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $225

• MEDICAL PROGRAMS •

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

The Board of Registered Nursing in the State of California has approved Esalen Institute as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

The following programs are approved for registered nurses. See regular program listings for workshop descriptions.

May 9–14
Healing Rites and Ways
Susan Baldi, R.N. & Phillip Mac, M.D. — 30 hours

May 28–30
Therapeutic Touch in Care of Self and Others
Cookie (Arlene) Jurgens, R.N. & Lavaughan Wilson, R.N. — 10 hours

May 30–June 4
The Health Care Contract:
Structuring Clinical Relationship by Agreement
Jerry Green, J.D. — 30 hours

June 13–18
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom
& Esalen Massage Practitioners — 30 hours

June 25–27
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. — 10 hours

June 27–July 2
Healing: Rites and Ways
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 30 hours

July 16–18
Food for Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 10 hours

July 25–30
Healing Contact
Jessica Britt, R.N. & Deborah Anne Medow — 30 hours

August 1–6
From Burnout to Personal Growth:
Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 30 hours

August 6–8
Experiencing Esalen for Health Care Professionals
Coordinated by Jessica Britt — 10 hours

August 15–20
How to Heal Yourself: Tools for Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 30 hours

August 27–29
Why Me? Why Now? The Meaning of Disease
Jeff Kane, M.D. — 30 hours

September 3–5
Food for Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 10 hours

October 10–15
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom
& Esalen Massage Practitioners — 30 hours

October 15–17
Stress Reduction: A Guide for Physicians
and Other Medical Care Personnel
Phillip Mac, M.D. — 10 hours

October 8, 1982–January 28, 1983
Holistic Health Four Month Residential Training Program
Coordinated by Polly Kirby, R.N. — 92 Hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Institute Category I approval so that physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education.

The following programs are approved for Category I credit for physicians. See regular program listings for workshop descriptions.

June 13–18
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom
& Esalen Massage Practitioners — 30 hours

June 25–27
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. — 10 hours

July 16–18
Food for Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 10 hours

August 15–20
How to Heal Yourself: Tools for Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 30 hours

September 3–5
Food for Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 10 hours

October 10–15
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Brita Ostrom
& Esalen Massage Practitioners — 30 hours

October 15–17
Stress Reduction: A Guide for Physicians
and Other Medical Care Personnel
Phillip Mac, M.D. — 10 hours

October 3–29
Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. & Staff — 92 hours

October 8, 1982–January 28, 1983
Holistic Health Four Month Residential Training Program
Coordinated by Polly Kirby, R.N. — 92 hours

If you have any questions about Esalen's medical or nursing program, contact Polly Kirby, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

· BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION ·

—A—

Maurica Anderson ..... regularly conducts psychodrama and support groups at various alcoholism treatment centers. She has co-led the Esalen High Sierra encounter for the past eleven years.
p. 16, 22, 24, 26

Walt Anderson ..... is a writer, political scientist, environmentalist, and longtime Esalen group leader. His most recent book is a history of Esalen, entitled The Upstart Spring.
p. 24

Anne Armstrong ..... has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 16 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 13, 22, 28

Jim Armstrong ..... a former engineer, is a life-long student of esoteric studies.
p. 13, 22, 28

Elliott Aronson ..... is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.
p. 21

Angeles Arrien ..... is an anthropologist, a Basque folklore specialist, a tarot counselor, and on the faculty of the California Institute of Asian Studies.
p. 16, 23

—B—

Susan Baldi, ... R.N., is director of student health at Santa Rosa Community College.
p. 11, 16

Frank Barron ..... is professor of psychology at the University of California at Santa Cruz and author of several books, including The Shaping of Personality (Harper & Row, 1979).
p. 25

Lois Cammack Bateson, ... marriage and family counselor, student of Vedanta and Buddhist traditions, currently lives in the Zen community in San Francisco.
p. 19

Daniel Bianchetta ..... practices shiatsu, rebirthing, deep tissue massage, gestalt, and intuitive readings at Esalen. He has studied extensively with Swami Muktanada.
p. 25

Jessica Britt ..... is a registered nurse who is a student and practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.
p. 11, 13, 17, 19, 22, 26

Charles Brooks, ... author of Sensory Awareness, was formerly a woodworker and designer and has been a teacher of sensory awareness with his wife, Charlotte Selver, since 1963.
p. 11

—C—

Peter Caddy ..... is the co-founder of the Findhorn Foundation, and is presently engaged in visiting and assisting in the link-up of communities, groups, and movements for the process of planetary transformation.
p. 25

Annie Callaway, ... professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for several years.
p. 12, 14, 17, 25, 26, 29

Joseph Campbell ..... is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.
p. 29

Anne Caple ..... is an editor with previous careers as homemaker and fiber artist; she is skillful in art processes and dreamwork.
p. 15

John Caple ..... is a college professor (with a previous career in business management), career counselor, and leader of seminars for industry.
p. 15

Fritjof Capra ..... is the author of The Tao of Physics and has written a new book, The Turning Point, published by Simon and Schuster, on which this workshop is based.
p. 17

Seymour Carter ..... has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years, and is currently a teacher in residence at Esalen.
p. 14, 19, 26

Michell Cassou ..... is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of The Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 17, 25

Stanford Eugene Cates, ... a minister on sabbatical from his official duties in San Francisco, is in gestalt training with Paul Rebillot.
p. 12

Gordon Clanton ..... teaches sociology at San Diego State University and is the author of Jealousy and Face to Face to Face: An Experiment in Intimacy.
p. 15

Barbara Clemans ..... is a massage and movement specialist in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 21, 29

Stewart Cubley ..... artist and scientist, is co-founder of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 17, 25

Dale Cummings ..... MFCC and certified Radix® teacher, is in private practice at the Radix® Center in Santa Monica, and is also a trainer for the Radix® Institute in Ojai.
p. 13

—D—

Bob Doppelt ..... has been a river guide since 1967, and is a licensed guide in Idaho, Oregon, Utah, and Wyoming.
p. 23

François Duquesne ..... is the executive director of the Findhorn Community in northern Scotland, and an educator and writer on the themes of personal and planetary transformation.
p. 15

Joel Dweck ..... formerly a physicist and freelance builder, is a certified Radix® teacher in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 29

Ken Dychtwald, ... psychologist and international consultant, is the author of Bodymind, Millenium: Glimpses into the 21st Century, and The Aging of America (forthcoming).
p. 27

—E—

Catherine Elber ..... is one of the first and few people in the world teaching t'ai chi chih. She has taught at Esalen since 1975.
p. 24

Victoria Elliot, ... an Esalen trustee, is vice president of Norman H. Gershman Consultants, executive recruiters and management consultants to the securities business.
p. 29

—F—

Tom Ferguson, ... M.D., is editor of the Journal of Medical Self-Care, medical editor of the Whole Earth Catalog/Co-Evolution Quarterly, and editor of the book Medical Self-Care: Access to Health Tools.
p. 15

Joan Fiore, ... an Esalen trustee, practices and teaches gestalt, encounter, self-reparenting, and self-repairing on a group and individual basis.
p. 11, 12, 14, 21, 24, 25, 27

Jerry Fletcher ..... is president of Manifest International, a Berkeley-based training and management consulting firm specializing in assisting individuals and organizations to reach high levels of performance.
p. 18

—G—

Dick Galland ..... was the founding director of the Southwest Outward Bound School. He designs and guides wilderness programs for individuals, schools, and corporations.
p. 12, 14, 17, 26, 29

Charles Garfield, ... clinician, consultant, researcher, and writer on impro . ing human performance, reducing job stress, and preventing burnout, is author of Stress and Survival.
p. 26

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) ..... is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and masseuse.
p. 15, 26

Joe D. Goldstrich, ... past national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Associaiton, is a physician and author specializing in nutrition and preventive medicine.
p. 18, 23, 25, 29

Jerry Green ..... is an attorney specializing in medicine and holistic health practices.
p. 13

Andre Gregory ..... is co-author and star of My Dinner With Andre, creator of the Manhattan Project, and director of it's world famous production of Alice in Wonderland.
p. 29

Christina Grof, ... hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." She is co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 16, 18, 19, 22, 24, 26

Stanislav Grof, ... psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of The Human Encounter with Death and LSD Psychotherapy.
p. 16, 18, 19, 22, 24, 26

—H—

Don Hackett ..... has spent many years exploring various healing methods. He has backpacked to the Sierras, Cascades, and Himalayas.
p. 24

Susan Hackett ..... has had many years of wilderness experience. She is an artist and student of gestalt who works with elderly and disabled adults
p. 24

Anna Halprin, ... founder of the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop and co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Training Institute in Marin County, is the author of Movement Ritual I and Collected Writings.
p. 15

Rana Halprin-Vassau ..... presents the "Halprin Method" in private practice in Santa Fe, New Mexico, teaching Movement Ritual I and Dance Explorations.
p. 15

Betsy Hand ..... trained with Virginia Satir and was on the resident staff of the Gestalt Institute of Canada. She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.
p. 16, 26

Michael Harner ..... is an anthropologist whose books include The Way of the Shaman: A Guide to Power and Healing, Hallucinogens and Shamanism, and the novel Cannibal, which he co-authored.
p. 24

Steven Harper, ... an instructor/guide for mountaineering and outdoor schools, has returned from a year long journey in the Himalaya and Africa.
p. 8

Tom Hayden ..... chairs the California Campaign for Economic Democracy. His latest book is The American Future.
p. 25

Nick Herbert ..... is an independent researcher in the foundations of physics. He is currently interested in Bell's Theorem and its applications to ordinary life.
p. 21

Gottfried Heuer, ... a neo-Reichian specialist at the Gerds Boyesen Institute for Biodynamic Psychology in London, studied hypnosis in Vienna and is a published author on the subject.
p. 18

Al Chung-liang Huang ..... is the founder-president of The Living Tao, an international learning/sharing network with ongoing t'ai chi dance workshops, and author of Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain.
p. 23

Robert Hunt ..... is a family and child psychiatrist on the faculty at Yale University.
p. 22

—J—

Galvin Jackson ..... is a counseling consultant, teacher, lecturer, and writer.
p. 18

Sharon Jeffrey, ... tarot-symbology consultant, teacher, lecturer, and writer, has a business consultant firm in San Francisco, S.R. Jeffrey & Associates.
p. 16, 23

Michael Joyce, ... a somatologist and Feldenkrais teacher in private practice in Reno, Nevada and Dutch Flat, California, has written articles on the physiological learning process.
p. 28

Deane Juhan, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.
p. 14, 21, 29

Arlene (Cookie) Jurgens, .. R.N., M.N., and nursing educator, is a member of the board of trustees of the Nurse Healers Professional Association, Inc.
p. 12

—K—

Jeff Kane, ... a physician, is founder of the Center for the Art of Healing in Moraga, California. His main interest is in the philosophy of self-health.
p. 24

Sam Keen ..... is an explorer of inner space, a psychonaut and philosopher, editor of Psychology Today, author of Apology for Wonder, To a Dancing God, Beginnings Without End.
p. 11

Kenneth Kelzer ..... works as a transpersonal educator in Marin County and has been teaching classes on dreams for over ten years.
p. 15

Harry Kent, ... professional mountain guide from Colorado, has climbed and taught extensively in the Alps, Rockies, and Yosemite.
p. 17

Jeffrey Kent, ... an ongoing student and practitioner of gestalt, uses methods drawn from encounter and Reichian emotional release work.
p. 8, 11, 12, 14, 17, 21, 24, 25, 27

Ali Akbar Khan ..... is a master performer of sarod, and founder of the Ali Akbar Khan College of Music in Calcutta, India, and San Rafael, California.
p. 16

Clair Killen, ... a certified Radix® teacher and former resident teacher at Esalen, has been working with cancer patients and building his home in Oregon.
p. 14

Polly Kirby ..... is a registered nurse and certified acupuncturist who is presently living at Esalen, where she is working toward integrating traditional and alternative healing modes.
p. 29

George Kohlrieser ..... is director of Shiloah, Center for Human Growth in Dayton, Ohio, where he works with individuals, families, and groups.
p. 20

Helga Kraft, ... longtime Esalen resident, is a student and practitioner of gestalt and sensory awareness.
p. 17

John Krysko ..... is a New York based psychic, specializing in business and stock market consultation. He also does personal and pastoral counseling.
p. 22

—L—

Benj Langdon, ... former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.
p. 11, 16, 25

Timothy Leary ..... is a philosopher and scientific optimist.
p. 18

Dub Leigh ..... is a humanist counselor, an advanced Rolfer®, and a practitioner of both Feldenkrais and Trager methods.
p. 28

George Leonard, ... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.
p. 14, 21, 28

Howard Levene, ... a Jungian analyst practicing in the Bay area, is chairman of the curriculum committee of the C.G. Jung Institute in San Francisco.
p. 17

Ruth Leveton, ... co-founder of Medicine Way, Inc., is a wilderness instructor for U.C. Santa Cruz Extension, leader for Rites of Passage, and student of biology and environmental studies.
p. 13

Peter Levine ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He is currently working on three books in the area of stress, resolution, and Reichian vegito therapy.
p. 16

Antionetta Lilly, ... trustee of the Human/Dolphin Foundation and president of Human Software Corporation, was trained as a counselor and artist, and designs environments to live and work in.
p. 19

John Lilly ..... is a teacher and scientist. His books include The Center of the Cyclone and Simulations of God: The Science of Belief (May, 1975).
p. 19

Elisa Lodge ..... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.
p. 12, 14, 24, 25, 26

DeeDee Lozier ..... is a Feldenkrais practitioner who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in the United States and Israel.
p. 28

Nancy Kaye Lunney, ... a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, and does individual as well as group work at Esalen.
p. 14, 17, 29

—M—

Phillip Mac ..... is a board certified family physician who has trained family physicians and physicians' assistants. His special interest is the health and ill health of health care providers.
p. 11, 16, 29

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio), certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches in group and private instruction.
p. 18, 22, 26

Joanne Martin ..... is a counselor in private practice who specializes in imagery and energetic processes.
p. 16

Marilyn Mason, ... founder/director of the Wilderness Learning Institute in Minneapolis, is a family and sex counselor in private practice.
p. 12

Esalen Massage Practitioners include Lila Daniels, Peggy Morrison Horan, Deane Juhan, George King, Lars Larson, Bill Liles, Deborah Medow, Jane Miletich, Dianne Sue Miller, Laurie Muller, Brita Ostrom, and Vicki Topp.
p. 11, 13, 14, 15, 19, 22, 24, 25, 26, 29

Rollo May ..... is the recipient of ten honorary degrees and author of Love and Will and Freedom and Destiny.
p. 12

Edie McClurg ..... is an actress/comedienne/writer who has created improvisational characters on the "The Richard Pryor Show," "The David Letterman Show," and "The Merv Griffin Show."
p. 28

Deborah Medow, ... Esalen masseuse and group leader for many years, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines directed toward rechanneling and balancing energy.
p. 18, 19, 24

Emmett Miller, ... physician, musician, poet, and dancer, works with hypnosis, meditation, imagery, music, and movement. His books describe selective awareness, the approach he originated.
p. 13, 26

Sandra Ferreira Miller ..... has been a bodywork and massage practitioner and instructor for many years, incorporating shiatsu, acupressure, Tragering, and other approaches.
p. 13, 26

Fred Moore ..... teaches in the graduate counseling program at Sonoma State University, is supervising psychologist for Azure Acres alcoholic treatment facility, and maintains a private practice in Rohnert Park, Ca.
p. 16

Tom Moore ..... has co-led the Esalen High Sierra encounter for the past two years, and is currently a resident member of the Harbin Community.
p. 22, 26

Christian Murphy, ... a counselor in private practice in New York City, is a professional actress currently starring in the all-improvised play, WINNERS!
p. 18

—N—

Bruce Neeb, ... a long term resident of Esalen, is experienced in gestalt, bioenergy, and encounter.
p. 29

The NINE ..... describe themselves as "giant reflectors of your selves, gestalt practitioners, marriage counselors —pure energy of emergent quality available to all." They are the center of the Esalen Paranormal Intelligence Project.
p. 28

—O—

Jenny O'Connor ..... is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."
p. 28

Daniel O'Hanlon ..... is a Jesuit priest and theologian who has had extensive experience with meditation practices in India, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Japan.
p. 25

James Oldham, ... author of Risking Being Alive, and founder of the Gestalt Institute of Melbourne, is presently working in theater and dance with Anna Halprin.
p. 22

Wendy Oser ..... is founder and director of Video Feedback Service of Berkeley, specializing in transpersonal, professional, and presentational applications of video, and creator of Video Insight.
p. 19

Brita Ostrom, ... a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 14, 29

—P—

Elaine Pagels, ... author of The Gnostic Gospels, is professor of religion at Barnard College, Columbia University.
p. 11

Heinz Pagels, ... president of the New York Academy of Sciences, author of The Cosmic Code, professes physics in New York City.
p. 21

John Pierrakos, ... student of Wilhelm Reich, is the executive director of the Institute for the New Age, and is in psychiatric private practice in New York City.
p. 19

Ayala Pines ..... research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.
p. 15, 21

Prem Das ..... completed a six-year apprenticeship with don Jose Matsuwa and is the founder and director of Mishakai, Center for the Study of Shamanism, Covelo, California.
p. 20

Hector Prestera, ... a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neuro-linguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.
p. 17

Christine Price ..... combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.
p. 8, 11, 14, 26

—R—

Paul Rebillot ..... was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theatre Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.
p. 12

Nancy Rosanoff ..... pioneered Strategies for Creative Living through personal counseling and workshop formats. She also conducts in-house corporate seminars on creative thinking and creative collaboration.
p. 22

Andrea Rosenberg ..... is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practitioner, has trained with Anna Halprin, and currently conducts Esalen community classes in stretch/exercise, aerobics, and dance.
p. 8, 21

Jack Rosenberg, ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.
p. 12, 25

Theodore Roszak ..... is professor of humanities at San Francisco State University and author of The Making of a Counterculture, Where the Wasteland Ends, Person/ Planet, Unfinished Animal, and his first novel, Bugs.
p. 16

Gabrielle Roth ..... is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the east coast, where she directs and performs with her own theater/dance company.
p. 25

Ilana Rubenfeld ..... is the originator of her own integration called "gestalt synergy." She trained with Fritz and Laura Perls and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is on the faculty of New York University.
p. 21

Anne Ruderman, ... a Certified Radix® teacher and clinical social worker, is in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 29

Rutuima, ... Prem Das' wife and don Jose's brother's (don Carlos') granddaughter, is a mother and teacher of Huichol.
p. 20

—S—

David Schiffman ..... is currently a leader in residence at Esalen, where he is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 12, 14, 19, 20, 23, 24, 27, 29

Will Schutz ..... is director of the Center for Holistic Studies, Antioch University, San Francisco, and author of Elements of Encounter and Profound Simplicity.
p. 17

Alan Schwartz ..... is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."
p. 22, 23

Julian Silverman, ... an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.
p. 28

David Silverstein ..... is a hypnotherapist and neo-Reichian practitioner in private practice in Berkeley.
p. 19

Harry Sloan, ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Robert Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 14, 15, 22, 27

Fritz Smith ..... is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is in a private practice of holistic health in Watsonville, California.
p. 14

Gerald Smith ..... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 16, 26

Huston Smith, ... born and raised in China, is professor of philosophy and religion at Syracuse University, and author of The Religions of Man and Beyond the Post-Modern Mind.
p. 19

Kendra Smith, ... a psychiatric social worker, is a graduate of Nyingma's human development program, and has published on Japan's Morita therapy and Buddhist Psychology.
p. 19

Joan Steffy ..... has developed her abilities as a counselor, psychic, and medium through methods learned in Europe, Brazil, and the American shamanic tradition.
p. 17, 26

Annie Styron ..... is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.
p. 14, 21, 28

Gael Switzer ..... is a Rolfer® and teacher of Rolfing®-movement integration. She has studied movement with Judith Aston.
p. 19, 24

—T—

Susan Tanner ..... is an actress, director, and teacher of improvisational theater. She is based in Los Angeles and affiliated with the Living Stage Company in Washington, D.C.
p. 12

Rick Tarnas ..... is completing a book on astrology to be published later this year.
p. 11

Vicki Topp ..... joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.
p. 24

—V—

Frances Vaughan ..... is a transpersonal psychologist in private practice in Mill Valley, Ca., professor of psychology at the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, and author of Awakening Intuition.
p. 11

—W—

Roger Walsh ..... is a psychiatrist on the faculty of the medical school at U.C. Irvine and author of Towards an Ecology of Brain.
p. 11

Judyth Weaver, ... student of oriental culture and healing, authorized teacher of t'ai chi, has a private practice in Reichian work, and is on the faculty of California Institute of Integral Studies.
p. 18, 24

John Wellwood ..... is a counselor and teacher, and author of a new book on relationships, Passion and Surrender: The Challenge of Modern Relationships.
p. 16

Lavaughan Wilson ..... is a registered nurse, nursing educator, and practitioner and teacher of therapeutic touch.
p. 12

Jenny Windsor, ... a registered nurse whose experience has been mainly in oncology, a licensed boat captain. She is building a house with her husband.
p. 14

—Y—

Alan Young ..... is a spiritual healer in private practice in Carmel, California, and the author of a recently published book, Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage?
p. 26

—Z—

John Zeigler ..... is a counselor with individual and group practice in New York City. His all-improvised audience participation Off-Off Broadway play WINNERS! combines theater and gestalt.
p. 18

Janet Zuckerman ..... has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than seven years. Her work includes gestalt practice, encounter, and emotional release work.
p. 8

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive regular mailings of the Esalen catalogs. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student	$15	One Year Donor	$50	One Year Patron	$500
One Year Individual	$25	One Year Sponsor	$100	(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

The Esalen Catalog

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Recipes and Artwork from the Esalen Community

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes and artwork by people of the Esalen community is now available. To order by mail, use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies of Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $1.20 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $7.15 (California residents add $.35 tax.) I am enclosing a total of $_____.

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery.

The Media Center

The Esalen media center has produced two audio-visual presentations. They are entitled:

Esalen—An overview of Esalen, its history and the growth of its workshops, projects, and people.

The Ritual of Birth—A 17 minute audio-visual presentation of a home birth, a blessing way ceremony honoring the birthing family, and images of the children from the Esalen community.

The Esalen Media department is establishing a photographic archive of Esalen's history. We need slides and black and white photographs from the 60's and 70's. Persons interested in contributing may send either originals or copies. All slides and photographs will be returned to donors who enclose self-addressed, stamped envelopes. This is an opportunity for photographers to share their memories of Esalen as captured by camera. Please send slides and photographs to Esalen Media Department, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. All contributions will be appreciated.

Films & Tapes

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Stanislav Grof: ABC's of Psychiatry
Stanislav Grof: Introduction to Spiritual Emergency Work
John C. Lilly: Births, Brains, and Beings
Albert Hofmann: LSD and The Nature of Reality
Anna Halprin: Movement Ritual — Tape I
Emmett Miller: Healing Journey

Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
David Schiffman: Group Process: Maps of Consciousness
Reb Andersen: Zen
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom
Frank Barr: On the Evolutionary Bio-Process
Joe D. Goldstrich: Nutritional Systems and Belief Syst

Fritjof Capra: Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures
Theodore Roszak: Personal Transformation thru History
Roszak & Thompson: Cultural Transformation in the 80's
Wm. Irwin Thompson: On the Evolution of Human Culture
Thompson & Roszak: Political Transformation

Rollo May & Daniel Ellsberg: Good and Evil
Linus Pauling: Vitamin C and Cancer
Andrew Weil: Altered States Without Drugs
Ram Das: Hang on Tightly; Let Go Lightly
James Fadiman: Sufi Stories
Sam Keen: An Erotic Psychology

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Robert Bly: (2) An Evening with Robert Bly at Esalen
George Leonard: (2) Energy Awareness & Transformation
Anne & Jim Armstrong: (2) A Psychic Training Program
Sam Keen & Rick Carlson: (2) The Politics of Healing

Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot
Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Fritjof Capra: Mind, Matter & Consciousness (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 with check or money order ($44 by purchase order)
Stanislav Grof: Nature, Mind & Consciousness (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Kornfield: The Art and Practice of Buddhism (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Julian Silverman: Structural Basis of Body Work (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)

Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development (7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend Seminar (6 tapes, 8 hoursns) $60 (66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 (66)
Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)

Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)
Heinz Von Foerster & John Lilly: Meta-Language (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Joseph Campbell: Psyche and Symbolism (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)

Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self & Soul (8 tapes, 10 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Chilton Pearce: Insight and Ecstasy (8 tapes, 11 hours) $80 ($88)
Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar (8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)
Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences (10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and The Individual Adventure (10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please address order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975–1980)

This recorded series of informal talks on twelve tapes is now part of Gregory Bateson's estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate. The complete set may now be purchased in two equal parts: Part I or Part II may be ordered separately (6 tapes each) for $60 ($66 by purchase order). Either set of six tapes will come in a vinyl album accompanied by a summary of contents of all twelve, for reference, plus additional pages. For Parts I & II combined in one order, send $98 ($108 by purchase order). Please add $2 for mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). In California include 6% sales tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Recordings from the Early Years

A 32-page catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $2 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, PO Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette of Al Huang's work, entitled Tai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, address inquiries to The Pattern Which Connects, PO Box 8, Forest Knolls, California 94933 — Phone (415) 488-0135.

· RESERVATION INFORMATION ·

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three- week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335

Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The price of a weekend workshop will be $165, and a five-day will be $340. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Scholarship Information: If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June15–September 15 programs or for weekend programs.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from September through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Some special staff programs may also be open to residents. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $55 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $70 per day, or $105 per day per couple. Please phone the office for additional information.

General Information: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 5 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $15 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

The Esalen Staff

Sherry Ackerson
Barbara Adamson
John Ahrens
Steve Beck
April Bekaert
Daniel Bianchetta
Steve Bogoff
Leon Burry-Trice
Glen Cheda
Steve Cohen
Bette Dingman
Ann Guenther
Paul Herbert
Perry Holloman
LaVerne Hummel
Shirley Hyles
Jaelitza
Polly Kirby
Dai Lesty
Lois MacLean
Kelly McKay
Jose Mozic (Raman)
Glenn Naritomi
Lew Porter
Joyce Rogers
John Soper
Rick Tarnas
Lia Thompson
Selena Van Cleve
Bruce Weston
Janet Zuckerman

Managers
Tom Brenner
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Brian Lyke
Helen Malcolm
Bruce Neeb

Board of Trustees
Diana Becchetti
Steven Donovan
Victoria Elliot
Joan Fiore
Joseph Goldin
Janet Lederman
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Weir Perry
Julian Silverman

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See Reservation Information, page 42.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐ Age _____

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Check whether this workshop will be held in Big Sur ☐ or as a Wilderness Program ☐

Do you smoke? _____

Limousine Service:
I want limousine service from (check one):
_____ Monterey Airport
_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station
at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only)

The $15 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Reservation Fee

Total amount enclosed: $ _____
Your reservation can be charged to:
MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 42. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

THE ESALEN CATALOG

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920
DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

SEPTEMBER 1982 - FEBRUARY 1983 · ONE DOLLAR

Contents

Volume XXI, Number 3

Big Sur Wilderness Experience 10–11

Biographical Information 36–40

Catalog Subscription Information 40

Esalen Seminars 13–31

Esalen Staff 42

Experiencing Esalen 10

Experiencing Esalen: The Body 10

Films and Tapes 41

Food for Thought

The Perinatal Period: Interface of Biology and Behavior
Reprinted from Brain/Mind Bulletin 4–5

Mapping out the Lucid Dream
An Interview with Stephen LaBerge
Keith Thompson 6–7

Annual Physics Conference 8–9

Esalen Soviet American Exchange Meeting 8–9

Esalen Update 9

Friends of Esalen 40

Gestalt Practice 10

Media Center 31

Medical Programs 35

Reservation Information and Application 42–43

Special Programs 32–33

Ways of Being at Esalen 10

Wilderness Programs 34

Work-Study Program and Application 12

Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday & Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Associate Editor: Heather Tarnas
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Kathy Thormod and Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Cover Etching by Judith Stern

©1982 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

Kathy Thormod

"Contact is the appreciation of differences"
Fritz Perls

The Perinatal Period:

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Interface of Biology and Behavior

This is the description from Brain/Mind Bulletin of a five day invitational conference held at Esalen in December, 1981. The two dozen participants included specialists in neurobiology, neuroendocrinology, neuropsychology, anatomy and physiology, obstetrics and gynecology, clinical psychology, hypnotherapy, psychiatry, and philosophy.

We are not born all at once. Birth is more than the physical contractions of the uterus and the propulsion of a fetus from womb to world. Each birth is a continuum of physical and psychological events that begin during gestation and continue through a period of postnatal bonding.

Viewing childbirth within such a "perinatal continuum" was recently proposed at an Esalen conference as a positive alternative to the conventional delivery-room perspective. Equating birth with labor tends to define it as a painful trauma fraught with danger to the well-being of mother and infant.

In the larger perspective of this perinatal continuum, conference co-organizer Peter Levine said, the stress of delivery can be anticipated, lived, and remembered as a positive transformational experience for both mother and child.

The conference frequently focused on birth from the baby's perspective and examined the medical profession's tendency to view birth pathologically.

The stress of birth. Obstetrician Jeffrey Babbitt of Kaiser Hospital, Oakland, described the first five minutes of life. The newborn must clear its lungs of amniotic fluid and redirect its blood flow both to the lungs and to the liver. At the same time, it must accommodate its sudden emergence from a secure, enfolding environment into unbounded surroundings, unfamiliar motions, body positions, handling and other sensations.

The changes are stressful, conferees agreed, but they need not be injurious. "It is not birth that is traumatic," said psychophysiologist Lewis Mehl, "but traumatic birth that is traumatic."

Traumatic births are increasing unnecessarily, said Suzanne Arms of the Berkeley (Calif.) Birth Center. The increase of Caesarean births from five per cent in 1970 to 15 percent in 1978 involved mostly healthy, full- term babies of white middle-class mothers, she said. The Caesarean birth rate for obviously 'at-risk' babies of less-well-to-do mothers has not greatly increased.

Potential physical risks to the newborn include brain and central nervous system damage from instrument deliveries and oxygen deprivation from a constricted umbilical cord. Potential psychic risks include the experience of suffocation and lack of emotional support.

Suffocation fear. Blockage of oxygen supply, the most common birth trauma, invokes the greatest of human fears—suffocation. Psychotherapist Stanislav Grof suggested that the unconscious 'castration fear' of Freudian psychology may relate to the cutting of the umbilical cord rather than to potential danger to the genitals.

The first stage of birth is the most unpleasant for the fetus, Grof said. "It's in a 'no- exit' situation when the uterus begins contracting and the cervix is not yet open."

Thousands of Grof's patients in LSD and other therapies have 'relived' the suffocating no-exit trauma of the birth experience. Hypnotic regression also can activate such memories.

For some people, Levine observed, the no-exit birth phase is the "biological root of resignation," the basis for their feeling that "nothing I do makes a difference."

Deprivation of the newborn's emotional needs also can be traumatic, even to the point of disrupting the infant's neuroendocrine proceses, Levine said. But positive emotional support can prevent or offset the effects of other birth trauma.

Self-fulfulling prophecy. "The consensus reality that birth is difficult creates difficult birth situations," John Lilly observed. This is part of a larger problem in which "almost all of our understanding of neurological systems is based on neuropathology and not on dynamic living tissue."

This self-reinforcing view of birth as an emergency is reflected in the tendency of nurses to have complicted pregnancies and difficult births, Arms said, and in physicians' encountering the obstetrical complications they most fear.

When birth complications were no longer discussed in an ongoing class for expectant mothers, Berkeley therapist Gayle Petersen said, their occurence decreased.

A study cited by psychobiologist Michael Leon, University of California-Irvine, determined that "the most important variable in prenatal classes was the positive enthusiasm of the presenter, no matter who it was or how highly trained."

The birth environment. "A woman becomes increasingly hypersuggestive as pregnancy progresses," commented San Francisco gynecologist David Cheek, "and she receives many negative inputs from the medical system."

Excessive use of drugs was criticized by many. "It's more scary for the newborn when the mother is not conscious," Mehl said. When the mother is drugged, Arms noted, the tissue around the baby feels dead.

To the extent that infants are directly affected by drugs, Grof said, "we may be programming a drug-dependent society by giving newborns a cellular memory of countering stress with drugs."

Birth and intrauterine experiences that threaten a baby's well-being persist in memory. Judging from a growing body of research, it appears they can have a lasting influence.

Under the influence of hypnosis and psychotropic drugs, many people have recalled prenatal and birth experiences that related to current physical and psychological problems: headaches, respiratory disorders, phobias, depression, anxiety. Recalling the experiences frequently relieves or eliminates the symptoms.

A client of San Francisco therapist Jack Downing 'relived' a painful fetal memory of rejection while under hypnosis. The memory: When his mother said she was pregnant, her husband was upset and wanted her to get an abortion. He said, "I've been saving to buy a Chrysler." A bitter argument ensued.

The client related his current feelings of insecurity to the father's rejection. But he found the memory hard to believe because his parents had never argued in his presence. When he questioned they reluctantly acknowledged the incident. The confrontation had so upset them that they agreed never to argue again.

Fetal perception of such events is taken very personally, Downing said. "The knowledge involved in such pre-natal conditioning is extremely literal."

Head pain is frequently associated with birth trauma, said gynecologist David Cheek. Patients' hypnotic recall of painful pressure to the head during birth is often enough to eliminate symptoms of chronic headache, including migraine.

Cheek's patients commonly relate their reported birth experiences to present moods and behavior patterns. Many patients with asthma and emphysema were nearly suffocated during birth.

Ability to recall the details of one's birth under hypnosis is uncanny, Cheek said. His patients can correctly indicate which arm freed first during delivery and which way the head turned as it emerged. He has verified the accuracy of such reports by checking them against obstetrical notes made during delivery.

The Esalen conferees discussed several remedies and preventive measures:

Renegotiating memory. "Memories can be negotiated," Grof said. "If you consciously reconstruct and complete your experience of a physical trauma, you can be rid of its psychological effects."

Reliving traumatic birth memories, he said, may at some point feel like suicide, but it also can free one from the fear of death.

Resetting the nervous system. Fetal deprivation of oxygen, according to conference co-organizer Peter Levine, tends to disorganize the autonomic nervous system, reducing its ability later to cope with stress. This deficit can be remedied via repeated short inhalations of carbon dioxide.

The resulting oxygen deprivations perturb the nervous system slightly, so it tends to rebound to a higher 'set point' for stress response. The therapy also is effective in overcoming nervous-system dysfunction from other insults.

Levine warned against over-generalizing birth trauma. "Some—perhaps many—babies do not experience suffocation at birth."

Changing attitudes. "Many mothers are worried that birth will be traumatic for their child," said California psychophysiologist Lewis Mehl. Cheek said a link may exist between such anxiety and spontaneous abortions. Using hypnosis to determine the unconscious attitudes of expectant mothers, Cheek discovered that many have great fear for themselves or their babies.

Habitual aborters have troubled sleep, Cheek said. Their dreams provide clues to the specifics of their fear, which can then be resolved during counseling or hypnotherapy.

Conscious gestation. Positive imaging of the birth experience for both mother and baby can prevent or minimize birth trauma, according to several conferees. "What we imagine and dream in our hearts, we create in our subsequent experience," Mehl said. "A healthy fantasy in advance can compete with contrary experience."

Mehl, Downing and therapist Ian McNaughton stressed the importance of 'conscious gestation' in which parents communicate directly to the fetus. (See book reviews in Brain/Mind Bulletin, Sept. 14, 1981, for a discussion of fetal sensitivity to sound and its psychological overtones.)

In addition to assuring the fetus of parental love, concern and joyful anticipation of its birth, the pregnant woman also can provide specific communications. Thus if she becomes upset with her partner, McNaughton said, she can assure the unborn child, "It's all right, I'm not mad at you."

Professional sensitivity. Physicians' attitudes toward childbirth also must change, said conference co-organizer Stephan Porges. "Documenting the existence of long-term memory of the birth experience would change the way birth takes place."

Currently, Porges said, newborns are believed to have no memory for procedures that give physical or psychological trauma. Thus, for example, circumcision is performed without analgesia. "Physicians would certainly use analgesia if they thought the baby's pain was unconsciously remembered with potentially longterm consequences."

Porges cited professional arrogance of doctors as another source of insensitivity to the newborn's experience.

"Because we live in a period of high technology, we have arrogantly assumed that we also live in a period of wisdom. But anyone at the top of his field realizes how little is known."

Physicians often are familiar only with research of the preceding decade, he said. "The medical profession needs to research the history of its own science instead of assuming that what we know today is all there is."

In looking back, he added, the profession would rediscover a more humane attitude toward facilitating the birth process.

Reprinted from Brain&Mind Bulletin, published by Interface Press, Box 42211, Los Angeles, Calif. 90042; $20 a year. Send stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope for sample issue.

MAPPING OUT THE LUCID DREAM

An Interview with Stephen LaBerge

That we sometimes become aware that we are dreaming while we are dreaming has been known at least since the time of Aristotle. But as a field of study, lucid dreaming is relatively young and largely unexplored, having been relegated to the closets of hallucination, day-dreaming, and the occult by many sleep researchers.

Stephen LaBerge is a pioneer in the effort to bring lucid dreaming into a more central arena of consciousness research. His work at Stanford University's Sleep Research Center is helping to put lucid dreaming on the map as an important approach to the development of human capacities. As a preview of his December 17–19 seminar at Esalen, Keith Thompson engaged LaBerge in a conversation about his research and asked him to speculate on the significance of lucid dreams for probing the mysteries of the psyche.

Thompson: Lucid dreaming is only beginning to be appreciated as a new frontier of consciousness. Why should it be studied? What are its potentials?

LaBerge: Lucid dreams allow the private language of dreams to be studied scientifically. For the first time we're able to verify that people actually have the experiences they say they have. Because lucid dreamers can remember to perform predetermined actions and signal to the environment while still in the dream, we're now able to validate and verify these once subjective reports in a way that makes it a scientific endeavor. Subjects can go into the dreamworld and do experiments as explorers, and become participant-observers of their dream experience. So it has become much easier to explore the dream world in a methodical way rather than have to rely on the accident that a person will dream something we just happen to see correspondences with. This allows us to map out the dream world in a more powerful way than ever before.

Thompson: What happens in the body during a lucid dream?

LaBerge: We've found that when a person moves his "dream eyes," his physical eyes move or oscillate as well; and when he moves his "dream muscles," his physical muscles show a similar pattern of activity, though somewhat suppressed. There's reason to believe there's direct correspondence between what a person does with his "dream body" and what's actually going on in the brain. In an experiment we did with singing and counting, we found that the shifts in brain activity were the same when people dreamed of singing or counting as when they actually were performing these tasks. When we compared it with when people imagined they were singing or counting, there were hardly any shifts of brain activity. So lucid dreaming is a lot more like really doing an activity than imagining is, which fits with the experiential reality of lucid dreaming.

Thompson: If there is indeed this connection between lucid dreaming and brain activity, the potential for working with psychosomatic disorders would seem to be great.

LaBerge: This is an important area of application. If a subject is invited to have a dream in which he sees himself as whole and integrated, would this facilitate healing in just as clear a way as the singing/counting example indicates? This is an area worth studying. It suggests that REM sleep can be used for self-regulation of health and well-being. REM sleep contains the largest physiological variability of any period of one's daily functioning, so this means it has the greatest potential for alterations of one's physiology in a self-directed way. I would call this particular potential application of lucid dreams "psychosomatic integration."

Thompson: How about using lucid dreams for greater psychological integration, for making contact with our many sub-personalities?

LaBerge: This is probably the strongest area for application of lucid dreaming at this point. In gestalt terms, lucid dreams allow you to put on a character, a part of yourself, and accept this part of yourself, thus allowing integration. Lucid dreams allow for self-confrontation and self-integration, giving you a chance to face and accept those parts of yourself you would otherwise reject. Let's say you have an old habit which comes up when you're frightened, which is to run away. In the usual dream state, we act in accord with our habits. But one thing the lucid dream allows is deliberate action, action based on reflection, so we can step back from a given situation and view the larger picture. So in a nightmare in which you were being pursued by a threatening mob, the running away response could be inhibited, and you could face the conflict and resolve it. I've found that simply turning around and asking "Who are you?" is a good way to approach a disturbing dream image, which recontextualizes it from "You're a terrible thing I've got to get awa from" to "You're a part of myself I have curiosity about and am willing to give atte tion to." The attitude changes from fearing an unknown threatening aspect to explorin some part of yourself that needs attention and acceptance. In this way lucid dreaming can be seen as a kind of laboratory or classroom or playground for self-exploratior in which you can try out various kinds of behavior or modes of being and see how they work. It allows an opportunity experi entially to test John Lilly's axiom about inner realities being belief limited.

Thompson: In this same sense, Freud's inte pretation and standardization of dream images—once quite liberating for the new terrains of mind they revealed—now get in the way to the extent that they program and limit our dream experience. We've learned, for example, that every flying dream doesn't have to be about sexual inte course, as Freud claimed, but can represen symbolically any number of possible experiences.

LaBerge: Very much so. When we start of in life, we crawl to get around, but once a new skill is learned walking we no longer need to crawl. Once you can fly, why wal Lucid dreamers gain an additional sense of the possibilities of freedom in flying dream But there's also the issue of responsibility balance the freedom we gain. One of the possible problems with lucid dreaming is th ego's attempt to control the entire field of action in the dream. In a dream in which you're being pursued by an ogre, you coul turn it into a frog or simply turn and run, which is avoiding the confrontation at han It wouldn't resolve the issue of the ogre. Yeats said that in dreams begins responsibi ity. Lucid dreaming allows the dreamer to say, "I'm dreaming; this is all my creation," and it becomes difficult to avoid the sense responsibility for the dream and what it represents. It is no longer possible to fall back on the Freudian explanation of dream as unconscious material beyond our contro So it becomes necessary to work with ever element of the dream as part of yourself, and not to allow the ego to dictate easy solutions which don't resolve the issues at hand.

Thompson: This approach resonates with what Perls called "organismic integrity"—extending the boundaries of what you accept as yourself to include all of your experience, and with the Buddhist idea of mind as open space in which all experience unfolds, excluding nothing.

LaBerge: Yes, and with this kind of context, it becomes difficult to disown any part of the dream, no matter how disturbing the image might be. People often feel in a lucid dream that some part of the dream experience is not from them, but from the astral plane or some other actual dimension apart from them. These people often try to get rid of these "entities" or aspects of their experience—"Get thee behind me, Satan!"—and the repressed images always return in unexpected ways, often in physical illness.

Thompson: We're touching an important issue here. What do you make of the sophisticated cartographies of inner space of explorers like Swedenborg, whose books are full of reports of journeys to "other dimensions"? Is he simply split-off from his experience, in a grandiose state of denial and projection, or do you think it's possible that he and others might actually, as they claim, enter alternative realities, different time-space dimensions where whole other worlds might exist?

LaBerge: Well, frankly, in the 600 some lucid dreams I've had and recorded, I've not yet had an experience in which I was convinced that any part of it was from anywhere but me. I'm open to the possibility of objective realities being contacted in a lucid dream, but that's an empirical matter that has to be tested out in the dream lab. Experiments in mutual dreaming would be one way to go about this. As for Swedenborg's model, it's important to remember that before the middle of the twentieth century, the idea that we construct our experience with our brain, that the eyes are not simply windows to the world "out there," was simply not understood. It was difficult for people not to assume that because they were seeing something, there must be something actually there. Many people believed that since the things they saw were not in the world when they woke up, they must be in some other world, in the astral world. So one thing perhaps Swedenborg is talking about is the experiential reality of what he saw and heard, which might in fact seem even more real than real. But this still doesn't say anything about objectivity in the physical world of consensus and community, which determines actuality in a way that inner reality, which is a private matter, cannot.

Thompson: I was interested to read that lucid dreams often occur after a person has awakened from one dream, sat up and read for a while or meditated or had sex, and then returned to sleep. The lucid experience seems to be connected with the ability to bridge between different states of consciousness, from sleep to waking to sleep again.

LaBerge: In a lucid dream our brain combines features of the normal waking state of consciousness with the dream state of consciousness. I call it being awake in your sleep. The brain is fully awake, so you're awake to the inner world, but you're totally asleep to the outer world. Evidently having been recently awake helps to activate that kind of waking consciousness. One way we've discovered lucid dreams are initiated is that a person wakes up within a REM sleep period, makes a mental note of being awake, and then goes back to sleep immediately. Then, as you point out, a lucid dream happens. The period of wakefulness is enough to activate the part of the brain that's involved in a level of consciousness sufficient to note, "Oh, I'm dreaming..."

Thompson: Should a person try to have lucid dreams?

LaBerge: Most of us dream maybe three to five times a night during REM periods, though few of us remember many of our dreams. Lucid dreams seem to be easier to remember. Would a person want to have lucid dreams all the time? I'd say probably not. The use of consciousness in the dream state is the same as it is in the waking state. In the waking state, habit accounts for much of our lives, making it unnecessary for us to think through each time how to spell the same word or how to start the car every morning. But when you find yourself driving to work when you really want to be going to visit a friend, you come back to yourself and say, "Wait a minute, what am I doing? At that moment of consciousness a more flexible and creative response is possible. It's the same in a dream—there are times when it's valuable just to let your dream unfold, and times when lucidity provides a different and equally useful quality of awareness. When I began to have frequent lucid dreams, I made the agreement with my unconscious to let me know when lucidity would be relevant, so I said to myself, "I want to realize I am dreaming when it's wise."

Thompson: Is there a particular application of lucid dreaming that you find the most promising?

LaBerge: One of the potentially most important areas of application is what I call transformation. Once you've been through the self acceptance level of lucid dreams, once you've faced your fears and accepted your ogres, new levels of self are open to exploration. If you were in a dream right now and you knew it was a dream, you would also know that the real dreamer, yourself, would be asleep in bed somewhere in the physical world, and that the person you thought you were in the dream was only a dream image. This is the "dream ego," the person we think we are in the dream, a model of ourselves. It's not, however, who we really are. In the non-lucid dream, the dream ego image is not distinct from the dreamer. But once the dream becomes lucid, the dreamer knows the dream ego is just an image, a working model. Once you've got control through lucidity, it becomes possible to work with surrendering control over to a part of yourself beyond your model of yourself, beyond your usual ego boundaries. In short, it becomes possible to explore what else there is in you beyond what you already know. This opens to the realm of transpersonal experiences where you literally know that the person you were experiencing yourself to be is not the whole you. Your being expands to include more dimensions; often there's the experience of expanding to include the entire cosmos. These kinds of lucid experiences can serve to awaken us to the possibility of higher or deeper levels of consciousness. One thing that prevents us from expanding consciousness is the false assumption that we're already fully developed and fully awake.

Thompson: What do you see as the next stage in lucid dream research?

LaBerge: One of the main tasks is to characterize the psychophysiology of lucid dreaming—the conditions under which it happens normally. We're currently studying half a dozen subjects in the sleep laboratory to understand when and under what conditions lucid dreaming happens. Once we better understand this aspect, we'll be in a position to stimulate lucid dreams technologically. For example, turning on a tape recording automatically saying "this is a dream" at the onset of REM sleep has worked to some extent, and we feel we can refine this approach if we find out exactly when in a REM period the potential for lucidity is there. So our broadest experimental work is the continuing characterization of the phenomenology of lucid dreaming, as well as developing techniques for making the state available to everyone.

Thompson: Being aware of dreaming while dreaming seems a perfectly normal, natural process. Yet for most of us, lucid dreams are rare, and seem exceptional when they do occur. Why do you think this is so?

LaBerge: In one sense, dreaming is analogous to language. All normal adult humans speak and understand at least one language, which is a complex achievement. But how many of us would do so if we weren't taught? And who teaches us to dream? Lucid dreaming is an untapped human capacity which hasn't been developed because we haven't been educated for it. So I believe that with respect to lucid dreaming, we're at the threshold of an exciting world of exploration and discovery.

Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Meeting

James Hickman, director, Soviet-American Exchange; Joseph Monteville, founding member of the International Society for Political Psychology.

Arthur Cox, author and former State Department expert on Soviet affairs; Dorothy Fall, former art director of America Magazine.

The second annual meeting of advisors for the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange was held in March. Participants included scholars in the field Soviet-American relations and psychologists studying problems of diplomacy and conflict resolution.

Annual Physics Conference

L to R: Charles Brandon, The Reality Foundation; Nick Herbert, physicist; Khola Herbert, Boulder Creek Elementary School; Ariadna Chernavska, philosopher; John F. Clauser, physicist; Saul-Paul Sirag, physicist; Bernard d'Espagnat, physicist; Henry P. Stapp, physicist.

The Third Esalen Conference on the Nature (Reality (March 1982) brought together physicists, philosophers, and mathematicians to discuss the quantum-physical basis of conscio ness, proposed experiments along quantum/ classical boundaries, new consequences of Bel interconnectedness theorem, and the use of mathematics to cope with otherwise uncommunicable experiences. At this conference, physicists John S. Bell and John F. Clauser were awarded the Reality Foundation Prize fc their part in establishing non-locality as an incontestable fact of nature. Since 1976 the Esalen Physics Program—currently directed b Nick Herbert and Saul-Paul Sirag—has been concerned with exploring the foundations of physics, widening its connections with other disciplines, and communicating new physics ideas to the general public.

L to R: Walter Clemens, professor of Political Science at Boston University and expert in Soviet-American affairs; Steward Brand, publisher of The Whole Earth Catalog and Co-Evolution Quarterly; John Davidson, Sovietologist; Vera Dunham, Fellow of the Kennan Institute and expert on Soviet literature; Dulce Murphy, Soviet-American Exchange.

John F. Clauser, Charles Brandon, and Bernard d'Espagnat (receiving Reality Foundation Prize for John Bell)

ESALEN UPDATE

In 1983, Esalen Institute will bring more teachers into long-term residence. These teachers will explore significant work in the field of human capabilities, and make this work available in a variety of formats for those who wish intensive study over a one or two month period.

The first such program, scheduled for next May and June, will feature George Leonard's Energy Training. Leonard is a long- time Esalen leader, former vice- president, former president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology, and author of numerous books. Energy Training, derived from the Eastern art of aikido and from Western psychology and physical theory, is a comprehensive body of work which teaches practical alternative ways of dealing with life situations and of enhancing the flow of vital energy. Most of the training involves simple movement exercises in which the body itself becomes a learning facility. Since 1973, Leonard, who holds a black belt in aikido, has presented his work to more than 35,000 people. Energy Training has been successfully applied to such diverse fields as education, the arts, sports, sexuality, psychotherapy, management and organizational development.

Leonard will be joined in his two months residency by his colleagues Annie Styron and Drs. Joel and Susan Kirsch. Styron brings a background of wellness education to Energy Training. Joel Kirsch has a special interest in sports, psychotherapy, and management training, Susan Kirsch in organizational development.

While in residency, the Leonard team will present a number of weekend and five-day workshops, including the following:

May 6-8
Energy Training: The State of the Art

May 8-13
Energy Training and the Samurai Game

May 15-20
A Festival of the Happy Martial Arts

May 23-25
The Scientific Investigation of Subtle Energies (an invited conference)

May 27-29
Energy Training in Sports

June 5-8
Innovations in Management Training

June 10-12
The Erotic Connection: Energy Training and Sexuality

June 19-22
A New Approach to Human Resource Development

June 24-26
The Further Reaches of Human Energy

Esalen Work Scholars will be offered a month-long Energy Training program during this period. In addition, a limited number of applicants will be accepted for a rigorous, two- month-long program leading to possible certification by Energy Training Institute International. Several educational institutions have indicated interest in offering college credit for participation in these programs.

A full description of the Leonard Energy Training residency will be carried in the next Esalen brochure. For advance information write Energy Training Institute International, P.O. Box 258, Mill Valley, Ca. 94942.

• WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN •

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose that approach which feels most appropriate and pursue it in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work- Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 12 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self- exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen/Big Sur. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness training, encounter, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls).

Schedule:

September 17–19	$190
September 19–24	$390
October 1–3	$190
October 10–15	$390
October 22–24	$190
November 12–14	$190
November 21–26	$390
November 26–28	$190
December 19–24	$390
December 24–26	$190
January 14–16	$190
January 23–28	$390
February 4–6	$190

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

Similar in format to Experiencing Esalen, these workshops will emphasize learning different ways to keep your body healthy and vital. Participants will be introduced to various approaches Esalen offers for fitness, stress reduction, and body awareness. Some of the following practices will be included: dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, yoga, hiking, meditation, massage, and diet and nutritional information. The staff will provide guidance to help you find and select the practices most suitable to your individual needs.

Schedule:

September 24–26	$190
October 15–17	$190
October 31–November 5	$390
December 10–12	$190
January 7–9	$190

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls); Tao Te Ching (Lao Tzu); The Power of Mindfulness (Nyanponika Thera); Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg (J. C. Pearce); Illusions (Richard Bach).

Schedule:

November 7–12	$390
December 5–10	$390
January 16–21	$390
February 6–11	$390

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest on four day-long hikes (4–10 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will take home enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after this week of walks. More information will be sent upon registration.

Kathy Thormod

Schedule:

September 19–24	$390
October 17–22	$390

• WORK-STUDY PROGRAM •

The Work-Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen/Big Sur. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. There will be a coming together in the evenings to share, contact, play—alone/together. Professional services such as massage and Rolfing® are available at staff rates.

Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to the community labor needs, and work assignments are made according to those requirements. The cost of the program is $500 for the first month, $450 for the second month, and $400 for the third. A $250 deposit is required with your application.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex which is 1½ miles north of Esalen. The Work-Study Program, lasting 28 days, is a full-time workshop in itself. The work commitment to the community, group process work, and teaching seminars make up a busy schedule for participants. Enrolling in the Esalen catalog workshops is therefore discouraged, since the extra involvement tends to interfere with the fulfillment of the Work-Study Program.

Available dates: September 12–October 10; October 10–November 7; November 7–December 5; December 5–January 2; January 2–January 30; January 30–February 27; March 6–April 3; April 3–May 1; May 1–May 29; May 29–June 26; June 26–July 24; July 24–August 21.

In addition to the regular program, Esalen is now offering an intensive three-month course in basic organic horticulture. The cost of the progam will be $1350. A $350 deposit is required. In filling out the Work-Study application, please indicate your preference of landscaping, gardening, or small scale farming.

For information on a three month Work-Study Program in Bodywork (March 6–May 29, 1983), see Special Programs, page 32.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with $250 (or $350) deposit to:

Work-Study Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. $75 of the original deposit is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt of deposit.

• Application to the Work-Study Program •

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

The Work-Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work-scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

I am applying for the three-month organic horticultural program ☐ yes ☐ no

I am applying for the bodywork studies program. ☐ yes ☐ no

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles and dates: _____

_____

_____

Please make a personal statement about your interest in the Work-Study program. Include any skills you may have available. _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

• ESALEN SEMINARS •

Week of September 5–10

A Week with Peter Caddy: The Findhorn Experience

This workshop will explore the Findhorn spirit, the spirit of cooperating with God, nature, and man. The stress will be on what is right with you and the universe. Participants will explore the example of the founding and development of Findhorn, and use meditation and discussion to create a community of consciousness for the week. $390

Unity

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

This is a five-day shamanic healing ritual designed to inspire and channel the religious, sexual, and creative aspects of life energy into unity and expression. Through music, sacred dance, poetry, and ritual theater processes, participants will explore and present their unique experiences of life's waves, rhythms, and cycles. The Moving Center tools are designed to release gifts, talents, and potentials. $390

September 5–26

The Primal Circle: Exploring the Roots of Well-Being

Christine Price, Jessica Britt & Visiting Faculty

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 32. $1350

September 5–October 1

The Mystical Quest

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 32 &33. $1600

Weekend of September 10–12

Surrender to Self

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

In a supportive and safe environment participants will utilize individual Reichian intensives, group interaction, bioenergetics, imagery, hypnosis, dance, and massage to discover new ways to soften, let go, and surrender to themselves and others. $190

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® Movement

Elisa Lodge

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body."—James Joyce

Elisa writes, "This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used." $190

Spiritual Healing

Alan Young

This workshop will be experiential, and will answer such questions as: What is spiritual healing? How does it work? Why isn't everyone healed? What are the inner causes of disease? How can we discover the underlying cause in each case? How can I help my own healing? How can I develop the ability to be a channel for the healing of others? It will include exercises in sensing the energy radiating from your own body, and from that of others. It will culminate in a demonstration healing in which all will be invited to participate.

The workshop is designed to interest: (a) those who want to learn about healing themselves, or at least assist in the healing process; (b) those who wish to become a channel for the healing of others; and (c) those who want to learn more about spiritual healing as a matter of interest or personal growth. $190

High Performance Management in Health Care

Charles Garfield

This workshop is based on "state-of-the-art" concepts currently being used nationally by health care administrators and supervisors as well as highly productive managers in business and industry. It was developed after hundreds of hours of interviewing administrators, supervisors, health professionals, and some of the most successful corporate executives in U.S. industry and abroad. The workshop is designed for all health administrators and supervisors as well as department heads, health educators, program developers and personnel officers. Topics will include: methods of improving productivity; the reduction of blocks to high level performance in organizations; the relationship between creative stress and high level performance; management strategies and styles of high performing healthcare administrators and supervisors; handling difficult people; and the modification of systems that foster stress and burnout. Recommended reading: Stress and Survival (Mosby, 1979). $190

September 11–18

Gentle Backpacking, Gentle Encountering in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Tom Moore

For workshop description see Wilderness Program, page 34. $310

September 11–21

River of Solitude: The Lower Canyons of the Rio Grande

Annie Callaway & Dick Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34. $550

Week of September 12–17

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student, I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher, these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop is based on the attempt to evoke and balance psychodynamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $390

Steve Beck

Five Day Massage Intensive

Vicki Topp & George King

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tension, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $390

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. Some of the areas to be touched upon this week include: recognizing tensions which lock emotions in the body; practices for releasing unexpressed hurts, to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; learning to express anger constructively, opening the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; exploring the nature of fear, moving toward greater trust of self and others; developing a more fluid way of thinking, which can lead to greater resilience and flexibility, physically and emotionally. Participants will be shown ways to listen to and trust their body's responsiveness and inner direction, and move toward mobilizing, directing, and focusing the life force into creative expression. Methods will include Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, vision improvement, massage, dance, and meditation. $390

Developing Psychic Awareness

Joan Steffy

Have you ever had experiences which are beyond the "normal" range of human perception and coincidence— the unexplainable? This workshop is designed to demystify these experiences and show the practical application of psychic awareness in everyday life. Prior to the workshop participants will receive exercises for exploring expanded states of consciousness. Some areas to be covered are: self hypnosis for health maintenance, spiritual healing, cleansing and protection, dowsing, telepathy, automatic writing, and mediumistic trance states. Exercises will also be given for continuing development of psychic awareness after the workshop. $390

Weekend of September 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Self-Hypnosis, Selective Awareness, and Movement

Emmett & Sandra Ferreira Miller

Movement requires the use of muscular activity in varying degrees of intensity. So, too, thought processes and interpersonal communication proceed through stages of higher and lower energy. Many personal and social difficulties (symptoms, unwanted emotions, maladaptive habit patterns) can be eased when we learn to react in accordance with and in response to our internal and external environment.

This workshop will explore principles of self-hypnosis, selective awareness, Feldenkrais, t'ai chi, dance, and movement, to expand self-awareness and the ability to allow the mind and body to flow with changing experiences. $190

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Being close yet also free to grow individually is a most important theme in any intimate relationship. This weekend will be tailored to what each participant brings, and will provide structured experiences designed to enhance communication, help resolve conflict, raise self-esteem, and promote fun. Limited to ten couples. $190 per participant

Week of September 19–24

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see pages 10 & 11. $390

Designing a Healthy Lifestyle

Ken Dychtwald

In this five day experiential workshop, the group will explore and examine the ways in which certain attitudes and lifestyle variables correlate with high levels of health, life-satisfaction, longevity, and professional effectiveness. Particular attention will be placed on having each participant develop a personal approach to altering his or her personal habits and attitudes in order to enhance all aspects of mental and physical functioning within an enjoyable "life plan."

The daily program (all optional) will include: running, stretching, and aerobic exercise sessions; meditation, relaxation, and stress-reduction classes; health walks/hikes; sensory awareness and creative visualization instruction; massage lessons at the Esalen baths; nutritious meals prepared in the Esalen kitchen; and a series of didactic seminars on such topics as life planning, longevity, diet and nutrition, optimal fitness, stress-management, wellness, and peak performance.

Although the material and activities to be covered in this seminar will be of value to all interested participants, graduates of previous Ken Dychtwald workshops are encouraged to attend. $390

Weekend of September 24–26

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $190

Week of September 26–October 1

Hall of Mirrors

Jenny O'Connor & The NINE

"Black and white have the middle master of transparency."—The NINE

In this workshop you will not just step into your own reflection, you will step into the fragments of every reflection you have ever lived, and thereby learn choice.

"The mystic steps into the revolving door of choice and realizes that he or she is not an apparition of the glass, but a glass for the apparition."—The NINE

Some of the finest teachers of the New Age made themselves available for this workshop—some traveling from as far afield as Sirius B.

"A lie is just a fumble of the imagination."—The NINE $390

Psychosynthesis: A Professional Training Workshop

Harry Sloan

Harry Sloan writes: "Many of us have experienced those moments in working with clients when we don't have the foggiest idea of what's going on. Often, to avoid the discomfort of confusion and not knowing, we hurriedly grasp for what is most familiar—a technique, map, or model. This can lead to the mechanical experience of 'going through the motions' and rote interventions. However, if we could reach for essence and truth instead of falling back on what's most familiar, the dissonance might open to insight. The result of capturing the moment and responding to the need of the client and to the dynamics of the situation can have a decidedly different effect upon both the guide and client. The heart of psychosynthesis is understanding the process of reaching for essence within ourselves and our clients. This practice can lead to developing wisdom and intuition, transcending the methodologies we use.

"The format will combine individual work within the group setting with seminars, group exercises, and practicum. This training program will be useful not only to those who are interested in psychosynthesis, but also to anyone in the helping professions who wants to come into a more creative relationship with his/her discipline.

"Psychosynthesis is the name for the conscious attempt to align and cooperate with the natural process of growth and integration. It recognizes that each human being is spiritual in essence and encourages the realization and expression of this essence, or higher self, as fully as possible in personal and social existence." $390

Weekend of October 1–3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Energy Awareness and Creative Sexuality

George Leonard & Annie Styron

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of energy awareness to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's new book, Love, Sex and Creation. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse. $190

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $190

Body Snatching: Build-Them-Yourself Characters

Edie McClurg

What would it be like to become a different person with a different past, present, and future? And to make it up as you go along? Through improvisational theater approaches we can learn to discard generalities and zero in on the germ of truth that makes each person different. You must be able to talk in order to improvise; but improvisation is not just talking. Structure, dramatic conflict, and satisfactory resolution will be explored with each new character and situation that pops up in our midst. Actors and comedians are welcome, but acting experience is not required. Being able to listen, observe, and laugh is required. We might be so good we'll want to get a barn and put on a show—or not. We'll make it up as we go along. $190

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feelings of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $190

Week of October 3–8

Body Changes: Feldenkrais and Rolfing®

Dub Leigh, Michael Joyce & Dee Dee Lozier

This workshop is designed for those who want to begin or accelerate their process of body change toward comfort and awareness, with increasing ability in movement and relaxation. We will focus on resolution of individual functional problems in neuromuscular and connective tissue organization of the body. Group sessions will use gentle exercises for increasing awareness while relating parts of the body together in a more harmoniously integrated movement. We will learn to recognize our body signals of discomfort or awkwardness as opportunities to explore and improve how we are in our bodies. This workshop will include individual work in Feldenkrais and Rolfing®. Participants will be guided in the development of a personal program for continuing improvement at home. $390

Opening the Feelings

Joel Dweck & Anne Ruderman

The aim of this Radix® neo-Reichian workshop is to help participants to grow in their capacity to experience and express deep feeling, to rediscover themselves, and to contact others in a deeper way. Using emotional release methods, the most important being the intensive, which is a period of individual work within a small, supportive group, deeply held emotions of pain, fear, and rage can emerge. This release can soften chronic unconscious patterns of tension, and a new and deeper capacity for pleasure, trust, and love can follow. Each participant will receive two intensives, and the workshop will be limited to ten participants for each facilitator. $390

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of the self-defeating patterns of the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $390

Kathy Thormod

The new outdoor baths

October 3–29

Optimum Health

Joe D. Goldstrich & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 33.

$1600 plus $100 lab fees

October 7–10

The Vertical Dance: A Climbing Adventure in Yosemite

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 34.

$225

Weekend of October 8–10

Experiencing Esalen for Couples

Nancy Kaye Lunney, Bruce Neeb & Experiencing Esalen Staff

An experiential workshop incorporating verbal and nonverbal contact, massage, and creative expression. There will be time together and time apart to experience yourselves individually and in relation to each other.

$190 per participant

Pleasure, Sensuality, and Your Body

Barbara Clemans

Barbara Clemans writes, "The language of the body is universal. It transcends the limitations imposed on us by speech. This workshop is designed to enhance the feeling of aliveness in the body using the medium of pleasure to awaken the senses. In a soft, supportive environment we will start at the beginning, moving together in unity. We will learn caring, contact and nurturing, sensitive giving, and relaxed receiving. We will explore new patterns of moving and being together with and without music. The baths, the rhythm of the ocean, and massage will heighten our awareness of the pleasure inherent in simplicity." $190

The Transformation of Mythology Through Time

Joseph Campbell

A slide illustrated survey of the main stages of transformation of myth from paleolithic to modern times. The first hours will deal with prehistoric and non-literate materials, the following talks and discussions with the history of the high traditions. The main stages of our common human history and main provinces of differentiation will be defined and illustrated through a comparative survey of arts and rites. The relevance of all this to an understanding of the conflicts of the contemporary scene will be a topic of discussion throughout. $190

October 8, 1982–January 28, 1983

Holistic Health Four Month Residential Study Program

Coordinated by Polly Kirby

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 33. $6300

Week of October 10–15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Massage for Health Professionals

Deane Juhan & Brita Ostrom

Many discomforts, functional difficulties, and degenerative conditions are either precipitated, perpetuated, or exacerbated by stress and the chronic muscular contractions which accompany it. This seminar will focus on the practical application of massage methods to infirmities in which emotional and muscular tension play a significant role. Instruction will include the development of a pleasurable and effective touch, the demonstration and practice of the fundamentals of a full-body massage treatment, a slide-lecture concerning the relationship of massage to anatomical structure and to physiological function, and discussions concerning the use of massage methods in specific situations. For additional information see page 35. $390

A Feast For Life

Andre Gregory

Andre Gregory writes: "These workshops are an occasion for me to give and take in the sense that I can pass on certain technical skills while using the participants to explore new directions in my own work. Generally, my best workshops are the ones in which I have no idea of what I'm going to do, which is true for this event. I would like to join the creator and the child in everyone to promote a healing process within the confines of professional theater. The workshop will be of most value to those of all ages who are currently involved with theater or are considering the theater as a profession, but who feel that the theater as they see it somehow contributes to the process of death rather than to the process of life." $390

Weekend of October 15–17

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Successful Business Behavior for Women, or "Act like a lady, think like a man, and work like a dog."

Victoria Elliot

In this workshop we will learn about the social issues vs. the business issues of being a woman. How to make decisions better and faster, how to get to the bottom line, and how to communicate to get what you want from the people you work with. $190

Stress Reduction: A Guide for Physicians and Other Medical Care Personnel

Phillip Mac

This workshop is designed to look at the stresses of the health provider in training and in practice. We will work toward developing greater personal health consciousness through self-awareness and self-responsibility, and creating a healing environment within ourselves. Body awareness, centering, and visualization will be some of the methods employed. For additional information see page 35. $190

Week of October 17–22

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see pages 10 & 11. $390

Somewhere Between Freedom and Security

Phyllis Shankman

Living is often experienced as a delicate balance between one's desire for personal freedom or growth and the need for security and attachment. In this workshop, participants will explore the issues of independence/dependence, self-esteem, trust, risk-taking, work, love, and relationship. During the week, participants will use meditation, massage, music, movement, and the Esalen/Big Sur environs to slow down, relax, open, and experience themselves fully. Gestalt process work will be used to increase self-awareness. $390

October 17–24

Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics: Beginning Training

Betty Fuller

In this professional training, participants are instructed in Trager table work, receiving sessions from experienced practitioners as well as giving to and receiving from each other under supervision. In addition, participants learn to practice and teach mentastics, learn basic communication skills, clearing exercises, and simple meditations, and have time in group to share and process their experience. This training is open to professionals in education, body work, holistic health care, counselling, psychology, medicine, chiropractic, sports, performing arts, and other disciplines which see movement as a primary means of learning. $630

Weekend of October 22–24

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Principles of Self-Healing

Rick Ingrasci & Peggy Taylor

All healing is essentially self-healing. This workshop will be an exploration of our innate capacity for healing ourselves. Relaxation, guided imagery, breath, sound, movement, and the healing power of love will be utilized to change the patterns which constrict our lives. A healing circle will provide participants with a safe and supportive environment in which to develop balanced lifestyles, including nutrition, physical fitness, relationships, play, and environmental awareness. $190.

Week of October 24–29

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to one's self, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants can learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate, in a safe environment, in the choice of expression or depression. $390

The Wellness Community Experience

Jackie Doyle, Torkin Hibbard, Rick Ingrasci, David LaChappelle, Chuck Steinberg & Peggy Taylor

The wellness community is a five day residential experience in forming an intentional community to work together on a holistic approach to personal health. The wellness community is designed to create a caring, supportive community in a beautiful, natural setting where participants can learn to experience their own potential for self-healing and personal fulfillment. We will pay particular attention to the powerful healing energy that is created by a group of loving and caring people.

The wellness community experience will help you identify areas of imbalance in your own life and construct a plan to move toward full health. Health partnerships will be formed to focus on specific personal goals. Healing circles, in which many healing disciplines will be represented, will give participants an opportunity to gain experience in the use of their own healing energy.

Workshop sessions will be led by qualified professionals in the following fields: relationships, sexuality, personal health, and health in the workplace and in the environment. During the week you will have an opportunity to experience spiritual attunement, visualization, relaxation, movement, music, ritual, laughter, friendship, and healing. We will take advantage of the beautiful natural surroundings and hold many activities outdoors. $390

Weekend of October 29–31

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 24-26. $190

Weekend Massage Intensive

Lila Daniels Klapman & George King

In this introductory seminar, participants will learn to give a competent full-body massage. The emphasis will be on developing a soothing and penetrating contact, on sustaining that contact to create a relaxing and integrating experience, and on centering their own physical and mental energies while they work. The intent of the seminar is to introduce massage as a practical approach to developing greater sensory awareness and bringing relief from stress. $190

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of "holonomic integration," developed by the workshop leaders, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the entire spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be in the roles of experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $190

Achieving Maximum Performance in Athletics

Joyce Hanna & Gerald Smith

Within each person's mindset there is a combination of attitudes toward performance which will allow a maximum effort in any athletic event. Since sports uniquely dramatize the human ability to surpass its limits, this workshop will have special emphasis on methods to overcome self-limiting expectations. Recent research in sports psychology, such as the effects of visual-motor behavior rehearsal, relaxation, and imagery on optimal performance, will be reviewed. The primary focus for the workshop will be enhancing your view of what is the best combination of attitudes and disciplines to allow for maximum performance. The following topics will be introduced: tailoring your own goal setting and reward process; handling feelings of boredom, pain, fatigue, and anxiety; dealing with ambivalent feelings toward success; overcoming self-defeating attitudes toward competition; strengthening the capacity for psychological endurance; using pre-match mental preparation; incorporating attentional focusing; preventing burnout. Participants will have an opportunity to design their own personalized maximum performance programs. $190

Week of October 31–November 5

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop, participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep us locked in obsolete behavior patterns. $390

When Push Comes to Shove: Methods of Conflict Resolution for Everyday Life

Terry Dobson

Conflict is the opposition of principles, forces, or wills. Resolution is the process by which we bring these opposites into agreement. Participants will examine the conflicts of ordinary life—family quarrels, lovers' spats, hassles with the "problem people" we meet on the job—and will explore how the principles of aikido can be used to develop grace under pressure. Through a blend of lecture, body-movement, role-play, and other experiential work, participants will expand the ABC's of conflict resolution: Adaptability—the capacity to be responsive to the situation; Balance—the ability to keep a cool head under fire; Concentration—the power to integrate and focus one's faculties. The result is a system of preparation which is remarkably effective in responding positively to the pressures of modern life. $390

Innertuning: An Introduction to the Chakra System

Shyam Bhatnagar

Chakras are energy centers located throughout the body. This seminar will be an introduction to and presentation of the chakra psychology system. When one or another of the chakras vibrates abnormally, an altered state of consciousness may result. The chakra psychology system presents a new methodology for understanding altered states and their resultant behavioral patterns. Included will be discussion concerning diet, yogic related exercises, and work with some basic chakra sounds. $390

Weekend of November 5–7

Astrology: A Map of the Psyche

Robert Hand

Carl Jung once stated that astrology contained within its teachings the sum total of the psychological knowledge of the ancients. The point of this workshop will be to show the validity of this statement expressed in modern terms.

Many people have tried to make astrology fit into various systems of modern psychology. Here we will explore the extent to which astrology is, in itself, a complete system of psychology, which makes its own statements about human nature, and which suggests rather surprising consequences for ideas of human life and behavior.

Little or no previous knowledge of astrology will be required in this workshop. We will be concerned largely with the symbolism and its psychological import, not especially with the techniques of horoscope analysis. Any material of a technical nature that is needed in the workshop will be introduced as we go along. $190

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

"A dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened."—Talmud.

Each night we receive brilliant, insightful, creative communiques disguised in poetic imagery. In this workshop we will explore how to use our dreams for personal growth, insight, creativity, and problem solving. Participants will discover that any dream, howevery fragmentary or prosaic, can offer entry to a new world of insight. Methods for dream discovery will include exercises in dream recall, Senoi dream practices, mandala drawing, gestalt dream work, and psychosynthesis. $190

Training for the Moment of Death

Sogyal Rinpoche

To prepare for death is to become familiar with the nature of mind and its projections. Through a correct practice of meditation, we can recognize these projections as the display of one's own mind, and develop the inner trust and confidence to face death, and develop the compassion and wisdom for helping others effectively in life and death.

In this seminar, Sogyal Rinpoche, a Tibetan lama, will explore what happens at and after the moment of death; how to prepare for one's own death; how to be of service to the dying; how to practice mourning; and how to develop a continuous awareness of the sleep and dreaming state. The material offered is based on ancient Buddhist knowledge, such as is found in The Tibetan Book of the Dead. $190

Week of November 7–12

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Five Day Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see September 12-17. $390

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver

An introduction to sensing, for more meaningful contact with our own nature and with the world around us.

How we relate to our deep inner needs, to other people, or to different tasks and situations depends on how we perceive them and how we trust our own findings. When perception is clear and full, we cannot make mistakes. Our whole organism is geared to respond appropriately. We have come, however, to see through a fog of preconceptions, a bewildering fabric of the ideas and judgements of others. Our own experience has been belittled; our perceptive faculties have lost their edge. The true I and the true you no longer meet. Both life and death have become often threatening fantasies.

Sensory awareness is a practice for rediscovering and reviving full sensory functioning. Through the gradual quieting of premature and inappropriate intellectual activity, it directs our attention both inward and outward to the actuality of the present moment. As perceptivity revives, true relationship becomes possible. Each everyday occasion in living gains its own freshness, its own uniqueness. We can become content again, like healthy children, as quality begins to make quantity unimportant. $390

Kathy Thornod

The late Richard St. Barbe Baker helping community children plant trees at Esalen

Weekend of November 12–14

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

For workshop description see November 7-12. $190

Intuition Practice

Helen Palmer

This seminar teaches the identification of personal intuition systems that can be made accessible by internal focusing practices, or that may already be operating in unrecognized ways. The practices develop the ability to discriminate between personal thoughts, fantasies projected from personal thinking, and impressions received from situations outside the self. The psychic aspect of intuition rests on the ability to shift attention from the self to impressions received from outside the self. $190

Sexuality and Spirituality

Sam Keen

Sam Keen writes: "All of us in Western culture are heirs to a dualistic, schizophrenic, diseased way of thinking, feeling, and being in the world. We suffer from a vision and philosophy of life that posits a civil war between: mind and body; spirit and matter; reason and emotion; ego and id; duty and desire; power and love; man and woman; culture and nature; spirituality and sexuality. As a result, the life of the spirit and the life of the body have been divorced. When God was separated from all that was sensual and natural and feminine "He" died. Institutional religion became repressive of sexuality and mystical ecstasy. Many moderns turned away from religion and hoped to find in sex a replacement for the missing sense of the sacred, only to discover that sex alone could not bear this burden. We now find ourselves in a time when we must re-examine the meaning of both sexuality and spirituality.

"This seminar consists of lectures, guided journeys in memory and imagination, sharing our stories, careful touch, creating maps of our sexual and spiritual pilgrimage, exploring the meaning of erotic at-one-ment."

$190

Week of November 14–19

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

For workshop description see September 12-17. $390

Critiquing Approaches in Medical Care

Phillip Mac & Susan Baldi

Designed for health professionals, this workshop will allow the participant to critically examine non-traditional as well as traditional forms of treatment, including acupuncture, nutrition, and visualization. Integration of physiological, psychological, and emotional aspects as they apply to clinical practice for patient application will be emphasized. The theoretical models, experimental sessions, and video taping will provide a comprehensive approach to a variety of treatment plans. For additional information see page 35. $390

Transpersonal Psychology: New Approaches to Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This workshop will explore theoretically and experientially the rapidly developing area of transpersonal psychology. The emphasis in experiential work will be on "holonomic integration," a method developed by the leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It mediates access not only to unresolved biographical issues, but to powerful death-rebirth experiences and a broad spectrum of transpersonal phenomena. Special attention will be paid to the problem of "spiritual emergencies" and constructive approaches to transpersonal crises. $390

Bonding Through Play, Replay, and Role Play

John Zeigler & Christian Murphy

"The path to deeper bonding with others begins with awareness, and this workshop examines how increased awareness emerges through new dimensions in role playing.

"Replay: A primary awareness is the identification of your inner villains and the repetitive scripts they inherited from parents, teachers, and society that block bonding.

"Role Play: During the first evening, the self-defeating games of your villains are personified in a demonstration by the leaders of a new role playing method that is a blend of the gestalt principles of Fritz Perls and improvisational theatre. As a thread throughout the workshop, this role playing gives full expression to your natural creativity, clarity, and aliveness, and to the unfolding of the heros and heroines you are becoming. The unique quality of the group interaction created by the role playing process is a paradox: intense and highly charged emotionally (since you may have asked others to help you confront your villains), yet simultaneously supportive, trusting, loving, and, above all, non-threatening and non-coercive. You are free to choose the degree you wish to be involved. You will also have the opportunity to apply role playing to individual self-exploration on the open seat, to body work for deep emotional release, to self-hypnosis, and to your inner work/play when you return home.

"Play: In addition, you will have renewal time through the options of theatre games, t'ai chi, music, singing, dancing, laughter, and massage sessions at the baths. The majestic beauty of Big Sur as a backdrop to our workshop stage is a consistent gentle reminder that the role playing parts used to release your imprisoned splendor are part of a greater whole that bonds, mystifies, and inspires." $390

Weekend of November 19–21

A Weekend with Will Schutz

$190

The Esalen Village

Leon Burry-Trice

The land speaks to us in terms of design. Our approach to how we design our homes and communities reflects our understanding of the nature of the land on which we build. The purpose of the seminar is to look at the composition and structure of the Esalen village and to focus on the Esalen community as an example and teaching model of the village plan, from ecological design to energy self-sufficiency, from agricultural stewardship to solar architecture. This seminar is intended for anyone interested in creating a viable and sustainable community for the future.

$190

Body Insights

Hector Prestera

Hector Prestera shares his views of body energy and personality blocks from both descriptive and intuitive levels. Personal and group process will be allowed as they naturally emerge. This workshop is for individuals who are willing to share themselves as part of their process of discovery. $190

The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing: An Experiential Exploration

Michael Harner, assisted by Sandra Harner

The shamanic journey is one of humankind's most ancient visionary methods of entering non-ordinary reality and exploring the hidden universe usually glimpsed only through myths and dreams.

In this workshop, participants will undergo an experiential initiation into the journey, aided by traditional drumming and dancing methods designed to achieve the shamanic state of consciousness. The spirit canoe and other modes will be used to journey to both the Lowerworld and the Upperworld. Participants will learn how to use the shaman's journey to heal and maintain health, acquire knowledge, and solve daily problems.

It is recommended that participants read Dr. Harner's book, The Way of the Shaman: A Guide to Power and Healing, Harper and Row (hardcover) and Bantam Books (paperback), prior to attending the workshop. Please bring notebooks and pens. $190

Week of November 21–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

The Psyche and Soma of Health

Jessica Britt & Deborah Anne Medow

Since Freud's work with hysteria and Hans Selye's with stress, the role of the psyche on physical health has become increasingly acknowledged. Conscious and unconscious mental attitudes affect the body through repressed emotional and physical energy. Life stances which initially aid and protect a person become overdeveloped and rigid, which leads to anxiety, stress, tension, and physical illness.

During this week, the group's focus will be awareness, understanding, and experiencing the psyche/soma in relationship to health and illness.

The group's emphasis will be on the role of breath, emotion, and physical self-care to total well-being.

Through basic instruction and practice in gestalt, Reichian breath work, massage, yoga, and meditation, participants will be facilitated in the skills of listening, sensing, contacting, and integrating the psyche/soma phenomena into their health practices. For additional information see page 35. $390

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $390

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom. A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."—M. C. Richards, Centering.

Stress related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf® -movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $390

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Janet Zuckerman (J.Z.)

Weekend of November 26–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Deane Juhan & Vicki Topp

This seminar is designed for persons who have had some experience in giving massage. Through demonstrations and practice sessions, participants will learn how to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of their massage skills and have the opportunity to add fresh approaches to their work. The intent is to help participants make deeper and more sensitive contact, and to heighten their awareness of the responses they are creating. $190

Vision Improvement: Our Willingness to See

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio)

This weekend will focus primarily on the awareness continuum, emphasizing ways to clear and re-educate the eye and the self to see without distortion in the here and now. With the aid of various approaches including deep emotional release, bioenergetics, gestalt, the Bates system, and nutrition, participants will have the opportunity to create new ways of looking at themselves and the world. $190

Skylight of the Mind

Prem Das & Rutuma

Bliss and ecstasy are described as a daily experience by both shamans and yogins. This workshop will actively explore ancient methods used by shamans and yogins to gain access to the human potential for bliss, ecstasy, and transpersonal insight. Singing, dancing, and dreaming together can reveal how shamanic and yogic approaches can be employed for healing the "extended family." In culmination, the group will gather in a circle for a nocturnal ceremony in celebration of the living potential. $190

Week of November 28–December 3

Pleasure, Sensuality, and Your Body

Barbara Clemans

For workshop description see October 8-10. $390

Mind, Brain, and Unitive Consciousness

John Lilly & Amit Goswami

The following topics will be discussed, all within an integrative paradigm that encompasses physics and psychology: Is mind contained?—the human biocomputer and Godel's theorem; complementarity and reality; hidden variables and alternate realities; neurophysiology and quantum mechanics of the brain-mind; neurochemistry, drug experiences, meditation, and other methods of transcendence. The workshop will also include experiential sessions on: how to program the human biocomputer; the meaning of meditation; psychic explorations. $390

The Health Care Contract: Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement

Jerry Green

This workshop for health practitioners explores the basic elements of contract as they apply to health care relationships. Participants examine the process of patient/client planning for clarifying goals, expectations, and complementary responsibilities to improve clinical efficacy and minimize the risk of malpractice or licensing problems. A model for defining the responsibilities of each party will be developed based upon the scientific and philosophical objectives of medicine and holistic health practice. Experiential role playing will assist participants to develop skills for initiating patient/client contracts that support their unique clinical abilities and the specific needs of individual patients or clients. The workshop will also examine how written instruments, including brochures, intake applications, forms for record keeping, correspondence, and patient/client journals, can facilitate working relationships, document their progress, and evidence the nature of the professional responsibility assumed. For additional information see page 35. $390

Weekend of December 3–5

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see October 29-31. $190

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 24-26. $190

From Burnout to Personal Growth: Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who work with people who have experienced or are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and joyousness of their relationships with clients, colleagues, family, and friends. For additional information see page 35. $190

Week of December 5–10

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

A Psychic Training Program

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see October 1-3. $390

Massage for Health Professionals

Deane Juhan, Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman

For workshop description see October 10-15. $390

Symbols and Myths of Transformation

Angie Arrien

This seminar is an intensive experiential study of symbols as tools of personal growth and facilitators for increased perception and intuition. We will consider a variety of symbols: psychologically, as archetypes of individuation, and cross-culturally, as universal constants. The symbols to be studied and experienced include: sun and moon, trees, flowers, circles/wheels/mandalas, totem animals, masks, light and fire, the elements, sacred mountains, the body and its parts, the journey/path, and others. Some of the sources of symbolism that we will draw on are astrology, alchemy, mythology and folklore of all the cultures, and tarot. Special attention will be given to the uses and significance of symbols in dreams, art and the helping professions. Specific symbolic creative projects and exercises in extending perception and intuition will be part of the seminar. $390

Weekend of December 10–12

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see September 17-19. $190 per participant

Native American and Other Spiritual Traditions, Rituals, and Ceremonies

Evelyn Eaton

Partly Algonquin by birth, Evelyn Eaton came to the Arapaho and Paiute Medicine Men for healing in 1960. She was included in their ceremonies and Sweat lodges, went through the traditional fasts, and is now a Metis Medicine Woman, Elder, and Grandmother. She will help participants to understand and use ritual and ceremony in their lives, to bring healing and harmony to Our Mother Earth and to all that live upon her. $190

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to assume responsibility for their health care management. The emphasis will be on learning what to eat to create vitality, energy, and health. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live food will be presented. Special attention will be given to increasing complex carbohydrate and fiber while decreasing simple sugar. We will examine the optimum amount of fat and cholesterol needed to both prevent and reverse atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease. Ideal protein intake for various levels of physical activity and health states will be examined and protein combinations to obtain complete sources will be demystified. Participants will learn how to shop with awareness in the supermarket and health food store and how to prepare food in a nutritious way. Each participant will receive a personalized health plan to work with at home. Suggested reading: The Best Chance Diet by Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D., F.A.C.C.; published by Humanics Limited, Atlanta, Ga. For additional information see page 35. $190

Week of December 12–17

New Approaches to Birth, Sex, and Death

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This workshop will explore the implications of modern consciousness research for the understanding of the three basic aspects of existence—birth, sex, and death—and their mutual interrelations. The focus will be on such issues as the relevance of the birth trauma for psychiatry and psychotherapy, new understanding of emotional, sexual, and psychosomatic disorders, the Kundalini syndrome, new revolutionary approaches to self-exploration and healing, and constructive handling of spiritual crises. The format of the workshop combines discussion with deep personal experience, and participants will have the opportunity to personally explore their experiences and feelings in the above three areas, using the method of "holonomic integration" which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. $390

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is very rare for most people to use painting purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to do it just for the process of exploration, not for the result. This workshop will focus on the painting experience as a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to creative expression. Emphasis will be placed on the practical experience of creative painting in which participants are given support and stimulation to discover a natural way of painting based directly on feeling. The mechanisms and patterns that prevent creative action will be discussed in order to integrate understanding with experience. The work will take place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, and a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. An audio-visual program will illustrate the development of inner expression during the painting process. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

$390 (plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Personal Magnetism at Home and at Work

James Oldham

Each of us has special insights and talents, and at moments we are able to express these attractively, yet at other times it is difficult to be so personally magnetic. Success at work and at play depends on our ability to be attractive to others, and learning how to do this effectively enhances our capacity to live life to the fullest. In our personal life we can expect deeper relationships and at work can increase our productivity, making better presentations to others while working in a more successful team-oriented way.

This workshop will introduce a new method of directed personal management that will allow participants to draw on all their talents and deep insights. It will help to develop the capacity to express these understandings in a powerful and effective way. Along with the method of directed personal management will go specific tools that can enhance creativity and effectiveness. These will include graphic visualizations and a method of increasing sensitive non-verbal communication. The method, based on gestalt principles, theater awareness, and management by objectives, is a practical results-oriented approach. $390

Coming Home: An Invitation to Remember Your Self

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio) & Daniel Bianchetta

Providing a safe environment for you to be wholly who you are, we will begin with deep emotional release work, continuing then to the subtler realms of energy and intuitive awareness, exploring, experiencing, and expanding self. Our complementary approaches are neo-Reichian work; intuitive awareness; movement; meditation; gestalt; play; t'ai chi; aikido; massage. $390

Weekend of December 17–19

The New World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing that we are dreaming. The presence of consciousness during this extraordinary state of consciousness allows us to respond flexibly and creatively to the flow of dream experience. We are in a unique position to control our dreams; this control brings within reach a remarkable range of possibilities from indulging your wildest fantasies to fulfilling your highest spiritual aspirations.

For most of us, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so; workshop participants will learn how to develop the skill of lucid dreaming. The results of recent scientific research will be presented and participants will be exposed to a wide variety of uses to which the world of lucid dreaming can be put, including self-exploration, creative problem solving, healing, adventure, and, perhaps most importantly, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

The emphasis will be on improving the quality of the dreamer's experience while in the dream. This means self-control, not dream control; changing the context rather than the content of the dream. Ann Faraday has called lucid dreaming "one of the most exciting frontiers of human experience." This workshop will provide an opportunity to find out why. $190

Gestalt Workshop

Marty Fromm

This workshop is designed for professionals who are interested in further personal growth and professional training in the practice of gestalt, as well as for others who are simply interested in their own personal growth through gestalt. While the sessions will be mostly experiential, ample time will be provided for didactic sessions of theory and practice.

The focus is on awareness: the discovery of what is, rather than on what was, might be, or should be. We will concentrate on "how and now" rather than on "why and because" of past and future, and will attend to body language and feelings. $190

Guided Meditation Practice: A Quiet Preparation for the Holiday Season

Daniel O'Hanlon

Advent has traditionally been a time of quiet inward preparation for the birth of a new life within. This weekend will be a time for centering, a time of quiet and gathering of energies before the busyness of the holiday season. The time will be given mostly to directed practice, drawing on a variety of sources from different spiritual traditions, East and West. Silence during the weekend is recommended. Suggested readings: Journey of Awakening (Ram Das) and New Seeds of Contemplation (Thomas Merton). $190

The Hypnotherapy of Milton Erickson: A Workshop for Professionals

Jane Parsons

Because he believed that trance seems "to provide a special psychological state in which the patient can reassociate and reorganize his inner psychological complexities," Milton Erickson taught hypnosis by putting his students in trance. This experiential workshop will utilize color videotapes of Dr. Erickson's training workshops taken in October, 1979, to explore his ideas and methods. Some of the themes we will investigate are: "My unconscious is smarter than I am." "Do something to make their symptom undesirable and they'll give it up." "Using their language, join their metaphor." "Change the frame of reference; transform a bitter childhood memory into an adult accomplishment." "Never say the expected thing. When you say the unexpected, the other person has to rearrange his thinking."

This workshop is for professionals in the health field. Non-professionals who wish to participate on a space-available basis may send a letter stating their background and interest in attending to Mrs. Jane A. Parsons, 275 Central Park West, Apt. 4B, New York, N.Y. 10024, or telephone her at (212) 873-4557.

Recommended reading: Uncommon Therapy (Haley).

For additional information see page 35. $190

Week of December 19–24

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Christmas Present

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

We've idealized birth in the Christmas story—the newborn child surrounded by adoring parents, singing angels, comforting animals; worshipped by the wise and the simple, welcomed into the world and loved for nothing that he does, but for simply being who he is. Most of us were not welcomed in that way, and at Christmastime our disillusionment peaks. Our despondency and regrets are based on unfulfilled ideals, promises, and fairy tales. Using gestalt, guided fantasy, theater games, and rituals, we will seek to release ourselves from the excess baggage of past regrets and future expectations in order to return to the divine simplicity of our own present being. Out of that simplicity, we will create our own "Christmas present," a celebration in which each of us singly and all of us together can give ourselves our self for Christmas. $390

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $390

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow

"To Touch and Feel is to Experience. Many people live out their entire lives without ever really Touching or being Touched by anything . . . . They do not live and become one with life." from Seven Arrows by Hyemeyohsts Storm.

Deborah writes, "For the past fourteen years, I have been teaching and practicing yoga and various types of bodywork, developing my art of touching and moving, my inner and outer balance. Now, for the past two years, I have begun to work with the Native American medicine ways. The blending of the Eastern Indian yogic tradition and the American Indian medicine ways has enabled me to touch so much more deeply inside myself, inside Mother Earth, and in my relations to all my fellow beings.

"During these five days, classes in yogic cleansing methods, theory, breath purifications, meditation, and asanas will be integrated with sessions in massage, creative movement, chanting, medicine wheel, and Native American practices. Weather permitting, one afternoon will be spent hiking in the Big Sur hills, consciously making a more meaningful contact with the land. Through the various practices taught during the week, the workshop is designed to help participants move from a deeper, more loving space within themselves, in their relations with the Earth, and all its inhabitants." $390

Weekend of December 24–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 24-26. $190

Weekend Massage Intensive

Attila Vaas & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see October 29-31. $190

Humor and the Creative Process: The "Ha Ha" and the "Aha!"

Harry Sloan

The dynamics of humor intimately parallel the creative process. Those humorous moments that extricate us from a stuck situation are similar to creative insight, which spontaneously resolves a problem with which we have been wrestling. In both cases there is often an experience of freedom, joy, perspective, and connection with a deeper sense of self. The purpose of this program is not to become a stand-up comic, but to use humor as a vehicle for developing a playful view of life and ourselves. The format will blend experiential exercises with discussion of the nature of humor and the creative process. Some of the themes that participants will focus on are: the imagination as a bridge between conflict and resolution; self-affirmation and the ability to create; humor and spontaneity; the archetype of the wise old fool; and methods to enhance the quality of humor in one's daily life. This intensive program will be geared for those who are willing to be silly, play, risk, and penetrate into the restrictive elements in their process that tend to retard the "Ha Ha" or "Aha!" $190

Week of December 26–31

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $390

Perceptual Body

Rosemary Feitis, Owen James & R. Louis Schultz

Perceptual body was created by three advanced Rolf® practitioners as a pre-Rolfing® training. The workshop is a new way of seeing the body, using eyes, ears, nose, throat, hands, and hara. (The hara is an energy center located two fingers below the navel. It is the basic moving center of the body, known as the tan t'ien in Zen practice.) The emphasis is on non-linear approaches and unorthodox methods of viewing/integrating the body image (yours and others), through living anatomy, palpation, and Rolf® movement. This introduction to a new kind of percepton is a distillation of the original fourteen day course. $390

December 26–January 2

Gestalt Synergy: An Integrative Approach to Self Actualization

Ilana Rubenfeld

The sea always has waves . . . waves are the sea . . . sea and waves are one. To speak of waves apart from the sea is a delusion—so mind and body are one!

The focus in this workshop will be on experiencing one's own body and emotions as a total organism. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tension and imbalance. A unique blend of gestalt, Alexander technique, and Feldenkrais exercises will be used as a gateway to contacting, expressing, and working through deep feelings. Massage staff will be on hand to assist the workshop.

We have the choice to contact ourselves and each other with joy, sadness, compassion, humor, ideas, and with the body—the whole person. $580

Weekend of December 31–January 2

Awakening the Healer Within: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Every human being is a potential channel for healing energy. Negative conditioning of our emotions, or unconscious beliefs and behavior, combined with environmental factors such as pollution, can give birth to dissociated parts of self which act as impediments to our natural healing abilities. Studies have shown the reality of psychic awareness, in which a person can not only better understand his/her own functioning, but actually heal and psychicly ward off illness.

This workshop will provide a didactic and experiential model for participants to gain a perspective on psychic healing, and the basic skills necessary to develop healing abilities in themselves. Channeling of energies will be taught, along with methods of dissolving impediments to the healing process. $190

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

The human being's movement toward a stable and balanced organism undergoes many adjustments in direct proportion to his/her responses to parental and environmental messages. The result is the formulation of stratified patterns of visible physiology and behavior. These join to form that which is usually called personality, one's individual energy system. Two common examples of energy system responses to life stress are those personalities who collapse under stress and those who control. There are many more. This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit intrapersonal and interpersonal contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. For additional information read the January 2-7 description. $190

Week of January 2–7

Gestalt, Bioenergy, and Human Contact: Old and New Learning Integrated

Alan Schwartz

There is an energetic dimension to human behavior which is often locked behind the habitual patterns of defending against the fear, pain, and even joy associated with feeling. The visible expression of these patterns lies in the blocked musculature of the body. Reich, Perls, and Lowen suggested ways of being in which a person learned to allow more movement in the aggressive and sexual expression of the body. This week will be an opportunity to test the organism as movement. Allowing energy means integrating body, feelings, conceptual process, and spirit. The result is stability and a deeper awareness of self and our interdependence with physical and social environments. The workshop can be thought of as a learning week. Appropriate didactic material will be covered. $390

Kathy Thornod

Plant physiologist and author Rupert Sheldrake and research psychiatrist Stan Grof at an Esalen conference on paranormal intelligence

The Spiritual Path: Promises and Pitfalls

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This seminar will combine observations from modern consciousness research with various traditional practices to explore the process of spiritual awakening. The participants will have the opportunity to confront transpersonal areas within themselves, using "holonomic integration," a method developed by the workshop leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. Special attention will be paid to the understanding and management of "spiritual emergencies"—transpersonal crises which can occur in the context of various spiritual practices or spontaneous spiritual awakening. $390

Loss, Grief, and Depression

Joel Kotin

This workshop is for health care professionals who work with people who have experienced losses or depression, or who have experienced losses or depression themselves. It will focus on the experience of loss, grief, and depression from both a theoretical and experiential point of view. Participants will learn some principles of both cause and recovery from these states. For additional information see page 35. $390

Creative Attachment: The Art of Making Affectional Bonds

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others; a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including emotional detachment, depression, and burn-out. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $390

Weekend of January 7–9

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

A Weekend with Sim Van der Ryn: Experiences in Ecological Design

Using examples from Sim Van der Ryn's work and those of other designers, participants will explore how their lives, houses, and communities can be revisioned and redesigned to use less energy and resources and be in better balance with locally available resources and natural cycles. $190

A Journey into Wholeness: The Balancing of Masculine and Feminine in Relationships and Within Oneself

Peter Caddy

As the old and static patterns of relationships become less appropriate and more unworkable, many people are looking for new models and methods to achieve a balance in their business, home, and social relationships. Through personal sharings and drawing upon the collective experience of the group, this workshop will explore the meaning and dimensions of new age relationships, focusing on identifying and working with the masculine and feminine energies, both within each person and in a planetary context. $190

Introducing Hands-On Computer at Esalen

Tom Taussig, Wendy Oser & Matthew Litwin

"Hands on at Esalen" no longer refers exclusively to the many bodywork practices available at Esalen. It also means that during this weekend seminar, participants will be introduced to the potentials of the home computer revolution. Specifically, participants can expect to be taught the fundamentals of these computer processes: word processing; text entry and editing; and file manipulation, including copying, storing, retrieving, and printing your work.

This seminar is designed for persons with no hands-on computer experience, for potential computer whizzes of all ages, backgrounds, and educational levels. In fact, one purpose of the workshop is to dispel the common notion about facility with computers, expressed by a New York computer mogul: "If you were born before 1965, boy, you're going to be out of it." ("Here Come the Microkids," Time, May 3, 1982.) If anything, the evidence is to the contrary; it appears that most people are quick computer learners, depending on their goals and intentions. The leaders wish to show that far from being miraculous, magical, or demonic, home computers are simply a valuable tool for creating and producing with greater ease and efficiency.

Bring a current project to work with: a letter, journal, chapter of your book, or dissertation. Bring your partner and learn the "intimacies of software" together. Most of all, bring an open mind and a willingness to learn something new. Come prepared to dissipate stress related to your written and organizational work—as well as to your attitude toward computers. By registering 30 days in advance, you can be assured of the use of a portable Osborne computer throughout the workshop. $190

Week of January 9–14

A Week with Peter Caddy The Findhorn Experience

For workshop description see September 5-10. $390

Rhythmic Pattern of the Tao

Chunghiang Al Huang & Staff

"Weaving philosophy, poetry, mythology, quantum physics, t'ai chi dancing, music of J.S. Bach and all that jazz and laughter for an affirmation of the transparent transcendence in everyday living." $390

Work Choices, Life Choices

John Caple

"Work and love," Freud said, "are the basic requirements of human existence." In this workshop participants will explore the choices they make about work and the congruence of these decisions with their life directions. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use art, body work, gestalt processes, and video feedback to seek answers and consider life decisions.

This week is for career changers, potential career changers, re-entry persons, and those who influence others in career choice. Some time will be available for individual work/life problems during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs. $390

Weekend of January 14–16

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies

Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul and Chungliang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, and China experiences.

Recommended reading and listening: Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Huang; Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon), Watts; Paul Horn's albums: Inside, Nexus, and Dream Machine. $210

Spiritual Authority vs. Spiritual Tyranny: Are Standards Possible?

Dick Anthony & Claudio Naranjo

Human growth sometimes involves the transcendence of conventional morality and invariant rules of conduct. For that reason, charismatic guru-therapists are not always held to traditional professional or moral standards. When does such freedom become license? Complaints of violence, sexual and financial exploitation, narcissistic power-tripping, spiritual tyranny have become commonplace in recent years. Sophistication is no guarantee of protection. Knowledgeable practitioners have themselves become trapped in grandiose group delusions. Leaders are sometimes as vulnerable as followers in this regard. Are guidelines possible for avoiding such difficulties of the path? In the Orient the authority of a religious teacher usually exists within a tradition or lineage which sets limits to the possibility of spiritual fraud. Can we establish such a critical tradition of religious literacy here? The workshop leaders will share their own experiences from a variety of contemporary religious/therapeutic settings, discussing these questions. Is there a valid distinction between the mystical teacher and the transpersonally-oriented therapist? Can we formulate rough standards of accountability for either the guru or therapist with respect to sexual and financial conduct, control over followers' or clients' lives, limitation of violence, level of training, quality of performance? $190

Week of January 16–21

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies

Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 14-16. $420

The Turning Point: Crisis and Transformation in Science and Society

Fritjof Capra

This workshop will offer the opportunity of an in-depth exploration of the paradigm shift that is going to dominate this decade—a shift from a fragmented, mechanistic world view to an ecological vision of reality which is spiritual in its ultimate essence. The discussions will include the fields of physics, biology, systems theory, health care, economics, ecology, and politics. There will be ample time for relaxed, informal exchanges of ideas. Contacts will also be made with other Esalen leaders to facilitate experiential approaches to the new vision of reality. $390

Weekend of January 21–23

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see October 29-31. $190

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Lila Daniels Klapman

For workshop description see November 26-28. $190

Fairy Tales: The Enduring Stories

Gioia Timpanelli

This seminar includes a performance of fairy tales and a dialogue on the significance of fairy tales in modern life. These ancient, enduring stories, like dreams, deal with vivid, universally understood images of people and events inseparably linked. Possible topics for discussion: the fairy tale as journey literature; the hero and heroine; the dark side or place of failure; the ultimate success; the witch; the giant. The stories told in the Friday evening performance will be used in the discussions on the following days. $190

The Two-Career Couple

Ayala Pines

With a growing number of women choosing a career as an integral part of their adult life, couples are increasingly faced with the challenges involved in balancing two careers and a home.

When both partners are involved in a full time career about which they care deeply, they have to deal with the inherent conflict between the pull of the career and the pull of the relationship about which they care equally deeply. The tight line between career and intimacy often includes such issues as: sharing of household chores; changing sex role stereotypes; time; money; burnout; jealousy; power.

The weekend workshop is intended for two-career couples interested in exploring these and similar issues, and who are committed to increasing intimacy, sharing, and growth in their relationship. $190

Kathy Thormod

Physicists Fritjof Capra and Russell Targ at an Esalen conference on paranormal intelligence

Week of January 23–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see November 21-26. $390

Steve Beck

Ilana Rubenfeld and Helen Malcolm

A Course in Miracles

Frances Vaughan & Roger Walsh

A Course In Miracles is a practical and theoretical self-study course for personal transformation. It is a spiritual teaching, but it is not a religion. It offers a universal teaching on the nature of self and the role of perception in shaping experience. It emphasizes self-knowledge, healing, and removing obstacles to the awareness of love in relationships. At one level, the Course consists of a text which discusses theoretical and practical concepts, a workbook for students containing 365 daily lessons for putting the concepts into action, and a manual for teachers. The Course emphasizes experience rather than theory and provides practical instructions for spiritual development, especially through relationships.

This workshop will discuss the basic psychological principles of the Course, and the methods for putting them into practice in everyday life. It is open to anyone interested in the Course, but is particularly appropriate for those in the helping professions interested in using this form of self-directed transpersonal process. $390

January 23–30

Shamanic Healing, Journeying, and the Afterlife Experience: Basic and Intermediate Shamanic Practice

Michael Harner, assisted by Sandra Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and acting on that learning, especially for well-being and healing. In this experiential workshop the participants will practice the methods of the shaman (a type of medicine man or woman), to see and to activate power to resist illness and maintain personal health. With the aid of traditional sonic-driving and dancing methods, the group will engage in archetypal exercises and rituals practiced by North and South American Indian shamans to awaken dormant human capabilities and forgotten connections with the powers of nature. Training will include shamanic journeys to both the Lower- and Upperworlds for knowledge and power, work with animal and plant powers, divination, clairvoyance, and shamanic methods of healing, including the extraction of spiritual pain and illness. There will be an introduction to the Ghost Dance method and to shamanic ways of exploring the afterlife experience. Participants will be taught shamanic methods of helping the terminally ill and their families, and the work of the shaman as psychopomp or conductor of souls.

This rare seven-day workshop is both for beginners and for those who have previously taken a workshop with Michael Harner.

It is recommended that participants read beforehand Michael Harner's book, The Way of the Shaman: a Guide to Power and Healing (Bantam; also Harper & Row), and bring a notebook and pen to preserve their experiences for their own shamanic development. They are also invited to bring drums and rattles. $580

Weekend of January 28–30

Hall of Mirrors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

For workshop description see September 26-October 1. $190

Re-printing: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Ericksonian), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in or opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $190

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods. $190 per participant

Medical Self-Care: New Directions in Patient Education

David Sobel

A new strategy is needed to address current health problems—one which acknowledges the critical importance of individual lifestyle and behavior and equips people to become active agents in their own health care. Lay people and self-help groups are increasingly being recognized as the primary resource in the health care system. Health professionals are entering into partnerships with patients in which traditionally passive patients are encouraged to take an active, responsible, and effective role in their health care. This course will explore the importance of lay people in self-diagnosis, self-treatment, and health promotion. The emphasis will be on how health professionals can learn practical ways to teach self-care skills to patients. Topics will include: the role of lifestyle and individual behavior in health; self-diagnostic tests and skills; self-treatment strategies; self-help and mutual aid groups; use of the media to promote public health education; restructuring periodic health examinations; and how to overcome barriers to effective self-care. The course is intended to assist health professionals gain understanding and skills in self-care education. For additional information see page 35. $190

Week of January 30–February 4

Five Day Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Brita Ostrom

For workshop description see September 12-17. $390

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see December 19-24. $390

Experiencing Archetypes

Jessica Britt & Howard Levene

God/goddess, eros, logos, masculine, feminine, shadow, spirit . . . archetypes can be understood as essential forms, metaphors, and behaviors which seed our deepest patterns of psychic functioning.

Through gestalt practice, dream work, Reichian breath work, and the expressive arts, the group will seek awareness and direct experience of their archetypal realms, getting in touch with individual meanings and expression.

During these five days participants will take a look at how the ways we embody our particular archetypal patterns can effect our communications, values, and daily lives. $390

Waves and Whispers: An Intensive for Beginning and Advanced Participants

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

This will be a five day exploration of cellular, fluid, and intrinsic movement. The aim is to establish an intuitive sense of all aspects of living as movement rather than movement as a separate activity. Within the human organism there exist infinitely fine levels of sensation, as direct as "ordinary" sensory experience, but far more subtle, requiring a willingness to be intimate with currently unknown activities within. There will be exploration of movement through the body, through sound, through different ways of breathing, and through communication. The ability to participate deeply in these ways can enhance understanding of healing, of creativity, and what it means to experience ourselves biologically. Film documentaries will be shown which demonstrate how a sense of "bio-movement" can help healing processes. $390

The Human Potential Goes to College: The Antioch Holistic Studies Program

Will Schutz, Don Johnson, Marilyn Kriegel, Thompson Barton & Judi Bell

Where does the human potential lead? Thousands of people have been through dozens of workshops and wonder what to do next. One direction is to use the learning of the human potential movement to influence the establishment. As Capra has pointed out in The Turning Point, what is needed for social effectiveness is a change in perception, an evolution from a mechanistic paradigm to a holistic one. An obvious place to begin influencing social institutions is education. Four years ago, some of the human potential theory and methods were integrated with the best of traditional education into a masters degree program at Antioch University West in San Francisco. The holistic studies program introduced both method and content into traditional education. In content, our aim was to present an integrated program rather than an eclectic one, that is, to interrelate the various aspects of a person—intellectual, physical, spiritual, emotional, aesthetic, and social—rather than simply to deal with each aspect in a separate workshop or class. Our focus was on using experiential human potential methods as the critical teaching techniques to help each student to dissolve blocks and to use themselves more fully.

During this week we shall present a sample of a week at Antioch Holism. Each aspect of the person will be experienced fully and related to the others, i.e., how does the way you dance relate to the way you think? Activities covering the various aspects of the whole person will include: running with Barton; movement, dance, and body awareness with Johnson and Bell; group process with Kriegel and Schutz; Feldenkrais with Schutz; and seminars and lectures with all. The seminars will include discussions of theory, education, bodymind, applications of holism to traditional knowledge and to social issues, and holism as a philosophy and a basis for social policy.

The workshop is designed especially for students, prospective students, educators, philosophers, and for those interested in where to go next with the human potential movement. For further information about this workshop write Esalen Program, Holistic Studies, Antioch University, 650 Pine, San Francisco, CA 94108. $390

Weekend of February 4–6

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $190

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $190

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $190

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Bixby Bridge as seen from Hurricane Point

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Saul-Paul Sirag

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation. $190

Disease and Self-Healing

Sam Keen

The myths we live by (the economic, political, religious and family value-systems) inform both our minds and our bodies. Our scripts, stories, life-styles predispose us to be vulnerable to stress in unique ways. An urban, competitive way of life, for instance, leads predictably to a high incidence of heart attacks, cancer, respiratory infections, and diabetes. By discovering how we disease ourselves we also recover the power to heal ourselves. This seminar will explore:

Personal history: What disease scripts did you get from your family? What rules about what must you do to remain healthy? What meanings were assigned to special diseases?

Social and political ideology: What religious, economic, and cultural myths are informing your life and death styles? Why will modern men inevitably die eight years earlier than women? What price in health and happiness do you pay by the myth of competition, success, progress?

Somatic cryptology: How do you decipher the messages of your pain and disease? How do you listen to the voices of your illness? What does pleasure say to you?

The art of self-healing: How to use creative imagination, memory, visualization, dreams, meditation, touch, and music to change your disease scripts and enter into a more healing relationship with your many selves.

Healing the body politic: How much disease is a cry of loneliness and despair? What are the unheard voices that speak to us out of violence? How do we recover the communion that is necessary for health? $190

Week of February 6–11

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $390

Zero Balancing: Beginning-Intermediate Workshop

Fritz Smith

Zero balancing is a body-handling system focusing on the interface between body structure and energy flow. Our musculoskeletal function at this level is beneath conscious awareness, and when imbalances occur at this interface the body tends to compensate around them, rather than resolve them directly. This imbalance often leads to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and lessened potential for vibrant health.

In this program traditional anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology are reviewed: Eastern concepts of ch'i energy, its movement in the body, and the chakra systems are discussed. With this as background, the system of zero balancing is presented, including specific guidelines for evaluating and balancing the structural/energetic interface in the body.

This workshop is both didactic and experiential, with the main emphasis on teaching the participants new skills in body handling.

This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification. $390

The Wisdom of the Body

Peter Levine

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes.

We try to break out of these citadels, often with intense, even violent force. This can help to restore some sense of feeling, bringing us "out of our heads" and more into our bodies. These emotional explosions can, however, become habitual, even mechanical, ways of releasing tension. In this workshop we will explore other avenues toward re-discovering deep softer feelings, pleasure, and self-esteem. So, rather than storming our citadels, we will look at softening the body armor; at allowing the body to express itself in its own language within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $390

Open Seat

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes, "The concept of 'open seat' is an open space into which people may enter in order to work through their resistances, express their feelings, and reorder their way of being in the world. As a gestalt facilitator I help people find ways of healing themselves by combining the principles of gestalt with concepts of ritual and theater. I assist people in working with their subconscious material, such as dreams and fantasies, in order to augment their ways of living and dealing with day to day problems. I encourage people to become more expressive in all ways: in their personal lives; in their communities; and in the political situations to which they feel committed. I can help people develop a clear sense of responsibility, not only for their own life process, but also for the world." $390

Weekend of February 11–13

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see September 24-26. $190 per participant

Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop

Fritz Smith

This workshop is for people who have completed at least one introductory zero balancing program. Following a review of basic concepts, time will be spent on answering specific questions and giving individual instruction as needed. New work will focus on exploring the direct perception and assessment of energy currents in the body, refinement of evaluating and balancing the foundation joints, and the discussion of nonfoundation joints, including the small joints of the body. Theory will be clarified by demonstration and individual practice, using each other as models.

This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification. $190

Russian Roulette: The Superpower Game

Arthur Cox

Arthur Cox is one of the world's most foremost authorities on nuclear armaments. In his book Russian Roulette: The Superpower Game (Time Books, 1982), Cox describes the terrifying possibility of accidental nuclear war by computer error, and shows how in a recent 18 month period, there were 3703 false alarms on the early warning system of the North American Air Defense Command. Computer error was the cause of many of these alarms, some so serious that the U.S. Strategic Air Command and nuclear submarines were alerted, as were ICBM launch centers and the president's command center plane at Andrew's Air Force Base. The danger grows daily; the risk is annihilation.

In this seminar, Cox will show that there is no such thing as "politically intelligent" employment of strategic nuclear weapons. "At this stage in history," Cox has said, "it is recklessly irresponsible to take the risk of trying to build the weapons necessary to destroy the Soviet nuclear arsenal and at the same time attempt to ensure our political-social survival and recovery. This is suicidal fantasy. This is Russian Roulette."

Cox will offer a comprehensive, pragmatic strategy to avoid nuclear holocaust, where U.S.-Soviet negotiations are key. The weekend provides an opportunity for participants to join with Cox to brainstorm creative political actions to avoid nuclear war by governments and by people, both in the U.S. and abroad. Together, Arthur Cox believes, we can and must find the way to a stable, peaceful world. $190

Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care

Tom Ferguson

About 70% of illness care—and an even higher percentage of preventive care—is self-provided, yet this most important part of our health care system is largely ignored by many health care professionals.

This workshop will provide an overview of the field of self-care. Topics will include the present extent of self- care, what people can learn to do for themselves, self-care classes, self-diagnostic tests, self-help groups, social support systems, health promotion, self-care in the schools, the literature of self-care, the effectiveness and safety of self-care, self-care in the clinic, dealing with sophisticated medical consumers, the developing technology of self-care, special problems health professionals have in taking care of themselves, and how this is related to care of others. Participants will have an opportunity to meet others with similar interests and to share their personal and professional experiences in self-care. For additional information see page 35. $190

The Media Center

The Esalen Media Center has produced two multi-media slide presentations which are now available for rental and purchase.

ESALEN. An 18-minute program which gives an overview of Esalen—its history, the many facets of Esalen today, including workshops, long term programs, special projects, the property and coastline, people, and the daily schedule.

Musical soundtrack by Paul Horn, Joel Andrews, and Pinchey Pete.

Cost: For Sale	Slide Program—includes 129 color slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entre 7610 dissolve unit available on request)	$150.00
	½" VHS color video cassette	$125.00
	¾" U-Matic color video cassette	$135.00
For Rent	½"VHS color video cassette	per week - $ 30.00
	¾"U-Matic color video casette	per week - $ 35.00

THE RITUAL OF BIRTH. A 14-minute program of a home birth, a "blessing way" ceremony honoring the birthing family, and images of the children from the Esalen community.

Musical soundtrack by David Tate and Char Pias Brenner.

Cost: For Sale	Slide Program—includes 74 color slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entre 7610 dissolve unit available on request)	$95.00
	½" VHS color video cassette	$75.00
	¾" U-Matic color video cassette	$65.00
For Rent	½"VHS color video cassette	per week - $ 20.00
	¾"U-Matic color video casette	per week - $ 25.00

• SPECIAL PROGRAMS •

Tutorial Program in Gestalt Body Therapy

This will be a professional training program for licensed or license-eligible psychotherapists and graduate students in gestalt body therapy (GBT). GBT is a complete system of psychotherapy with an emphasis on breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. The program will consist of approximately one week (five days) at Esalen every five weeks for a period of two years. This program can lead to an M.A. or Ph.D. in psychology through affiliation with an approved degree-granting institution. The program will be didactic and experiential and is based on a tutorial system with Jack Rosenberg and staff. If interested, please contact Jack Rosenberg, 1107 W. Washington Bl., Venice, Ca. 90291. Please include personal and therapeutic history and educational background.

Esalen Massage Practitioner Certificate Program

The Esalen massage practitioners will be offering an Esalen Massage Practitioner Certificate Program through Twin Lakes College of the Healing Arts in Santa Cruz, Ca. The fall, 1982 three month program meets on weekends beginning September 11. For further information phone (408) 476-2152. $550.

September 5-26
The Primal Circle: Exploring the Roots of Well-Being

Christine Price, Jessica Britt & Visiting Faculty

"The search for physical, emotional, and spiritual well-being can be exciting and challenging. This workshop is a time for sharing those practices which we have found most effective and nourishing for ourselves," write Chris and Jessica.

First Week: Personal Roots: Many ancient and modern practices have developed to teach people how to be free of conditioning and to move into direct experience of "true nature." For many in our culture this process is a difficult one, because frequently we are not aware of a "self" beyond our personal history. The beginning of this workshop focuses on "coming home" to ourselves. In intensive sessions of gestalt practice and Reichian breath work, our physical sensations and feeling process will be primary. Some moderate fasting, massage practice, and chanting sessions will also be included.

Second Week: Primal Roots: By spending ten days backpacking in the wilderness, participants will have the opportunity to enrich their connection with nature and explore their relationships to each other in a setting devoid of the usual distractions and supports. Taking inspiration from ancient ceremonial practices, we will create and enact rituals relevant to our present lives.

Third Week: Creative Roots: The creative arts are an ancient channel for divine expression as well as self-expression. Poetry, moving meditation, mantra, and chanting are ways which have been used for thousands of years to connect with and become an extension of the "infinite source." This final week provides time to explore these practices, both in their original forms and their modern interpretations. Sessions for personal clearing will again be included.

The visiting faculty will include Leonard Bearne, Byron Brown, Steven Harper, Susan Harper, Ruth Leveton, and Gail Stewart. For more information regarding this workshop, write to Christine Price, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. $1350

September 5-October 1
The Mystical Quest

Christina & Stanislav Grof

A four week, interdisciplinary program designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy interested in understanding the mystical quest and approaches to attaining higher consciousness. Special attention will be paid to the similarities and differences between psychosis and mysticism, and to the vicissitudes of consciousness evolution. This program is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals able to facilitate the process of personal transformation and to assist in spiritual emergencies. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Ancient Mystical Traditions. We will explore theoretically and practically the cartographies and technologies of the sacred developed in the context of shamanism, Hinduism, Buddhism, Kabbala, and alchemy.

Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science: Dawning of a New Paradigm. Scientists who have made major contributions to the emerging paradigm will discuss the recent developments in Western science—consciousness research, brain physiology, parapsychology, systems theory, and quantum-relativistic physics—that are rapidly bridging the gap between science and mysticism.

Psychosis: Disease Or Evolutionary Crisis. We will explore new understandings of the psychotic process emerging from psychedelic research, Jungian psychology, kundalini research, and modern clinical and laboratory studies. An attempt will be made to differentiate psychosis from "spiritual emergency" or evolutionary crisis. Participants will have the opportunity to experiment with methods of constructive assistance in transpersonal crises.

Self-Exploration and Group Process. The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic input with deep personal experience. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for the process of self-exploration throughout the month. We will use "holonomic integration," developed by the coordinators, which combines controlled breathing, evocative music, focused body work, and mandala drawing. Other methods used in the workshop will be Dora Kalff's sandplay, gestalt practice, development of psychic abilities, and Esalen massage. $1600

October 3-29
Optimum Health

Joe D. Goldstrich & Staff

This program, led by a former chief cardiologist at Pritikin Longevity Center, is for individuals committed to realizing greater potential for health and well-being. The three main components of the program are nutrition, exercise and movement, and group process work. By combining insights and approaches from various schools and traditions of healing and health care, we can avoid the dogmatism and exclusivity which so often characterize our understanding of issues concerning health.

Nutrition: Blood samples will be analyzed at the beginning and end of the program to track each participant's progress toward greater health. Based on the first blood sample in combination with Dr. Goldstrich's comprehensive life history review index, each participant's diet during the month will be based on a unique synthesis of the Pritikin approach, macrobiotics, and "live food" diets. Participants will also learn how to shop for the most nutritious food in supermarkets and health food stores, and how to prepare food using methods which preserve nutritional value.

Exercise and Movement: Each participant will receive a fitness level review from Dr. Goldstrich as the basis for an individualized approach to exercise and movement. A variety of approaches will be available to participants, including hatha yoga and stretching, t'ai chi, aerobic and jazz dance, and jogging. Massage instruction will be part of the curriculum and sessions will be offered at the baths. In addition, two day-hikes are planned in the surrounding Big Sur wilderness area. Videotape review of movement sessions will be included as a means of body image feedback and self-improvement. The mutual benefits of sound nutrition and regular exercise will be emphasized throughout the program.

Group Process: Most of us have encountered our own mental and emotional resistance to greater well-being. By exploring the roots of our resistance to growth and change, we can gain greater access to inner resources such as courage, strength, patience and determination—all of which help to ensure the success and enjoyment of one's commitment to greater health. Through group interaction, guided imagery, gestalt practice and other approaches to group and individual process, participants will have an ongoing opportunity to contact and integrate deeper parts of themselves. Relaxation and stress reduction approaches will also be introduced.

Overview: Esalen is a unique setting for this residential program in developing optimal health. Much of the food is grown on the property, in the garden or at the Esalen Farm. Combined with the array of approaches to mental, emotional, spiritual, and physical development offered on a regular basis, and its setting in a supportive community environment, Esalen offers a sense of natural abundance from which to explore good health in this comprehensive program. For additional information see page 35. $1600+$100 lab fees

Steve Beck

A deep tissue demonstration during the four month holistic health training program

October 8, 1982-January 28, 1983
Holistic Health Residential Program

Coordinated by Polly Kirby

This program is designed for those seeking information and training in alternative health and healing approaches. For health care professionals this program will provide new knowledge and skills in holistic healing practices which they can use in their own health care settings. For lay persons and students this program will provide an in-depth introduction into the holistic health field, as well as the necessary teaching to maintain a high level of wellness in their own home environments. In addition to the emphasis on healing, the participants will receive instruction and personal experience in the ten deep tissue sessions, and also will take part in ongoing practicums focusing on gestalt and group process. There will be a weekly acupuncture clinic exclusively for the participants' own health enhancement, as well as regularly scheduled community health sessions where participants can observe the integration of the various holistic practices being taught. A part-time faculty of about twenty will be involved in different aspects of the teaching program.

The workshop will include several areas of study and practice. Most of the following will be included: deep tissue; acupuncture; nutrition; t'ai chi; gestalt; homeopathy; herbology; Bach flower remedies; community health; group process; anatomy; healing meditations; organic gardening; movement integration; massage. A course outline describing each of the areas covered can be obtained by writing to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

Classes will be held six days per week, with three meetings usually being scheduled for each day. Included in this time will be a four-hour per week work commitment in various community projects. Only Wednesdays will be off-days, although all classes are considered optional, leaving the intensity of the learning experience completely up to the choice and capacity of the individual participants.

During this four month period there will also be on-going community sessions which are open to all residents in the Esalen community. In the past these have included morning yoga practice, zazen meditation, Feldenkrais exercises, body-strengthening exercises, movement and dance, various forms of energetic release work, intra and inter-personal process work, chanting and different spiritual and contemplative practices, video tape and movie presentations, astrology sessions, and evening lectures on a host of subjects.

During the four month stay, participants in the program are also free to sign up for any of the regularly scheduled Esalen catalog programs on a space available basis by payment of the leader's fee. To provide some recreation and diversion, occasional outings into the magnificent Big Sur countryside and along the coastline will be planned throughout the program.

Esalen is not a degree, diploma, or certificate granting institution. This program is offered for professional and educational enrichment. Participants must make their own arrangements to assure compliance with respective state licensing requirements for professionally applying any skills acquired in this program. Verification of attendance will be given to nurses and physicians in the program desiring continuing education credit for this experience.

For further information write to Polly Kirby, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. $6300

March 6-May 29
Work-Study Program in Bodywork

Coordinated by Deane Juhan, Deborah Anne Medow & the Esalen Massage Practitioners

This three month course, which includes the regular 32-hour work commitment detailed on page 12, offers intensive instruction in various approaches to massage practice, movement, and self-care. The goals of the program are: to provide information and practical experience that will enrich the participant's knowledge of his/her own body and its functions; to give instruction in a wide range of bodywork methods so that each participant will learn to give an effective massage; and to familiarize the group with the fundamentals of gestalt and group process as they relate to personal growth and massage.

Massage instruction and practice will include Esalen massage, polarity, Rolfing®, deep tissue, Trager, Feldenkrais, acupressure, and psychic massage. The principle movement disciplines introduced will be yoga, aerobics and stretching, patterning, Halprin's movement ritual, mentastics, gestalt movement, contact improvisation, jazz dance, and t'ai chi. Classes in self-care will include diet for nutrition and cleansing, meditation, and energy pacing to avoid burnout. Anatomical and physiological information relevant to massage, movement, and self-care will be presented in a series of slide lectures. Regular gestalt and group process sessions will be scheduled throughout the program, led by the Esalen gestalt staff, to facilitate the group's cohesiveness and the learning process of each individual. Please use the information, instructions, and application form on page 12 when you apply. The fees and necessary deposit are the same as for the regular Work-Study Program described on that page.

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

• WILDERNESS PROGRAMS •

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop we require the following deposit:

Up to 3 days	$ 50
4-7 days	$100
8-14 days	$200
15-21 days	$300
Over 21 days	$400

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip your deposit is forfeited.

September 11–18
Gentle Backpacking, Gentle Encountering, in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Tom Moore

After Labor Day but before deer hunting season begins is a time of quiet in the Sierra. We will take seven days of this quiet to hike into the John Muir Wilderness area at a leisurely pace, spending each afternoon and evening by a mountain lake or rushing stream. Several mule-loads of food will be left on the trail for us, enabling us to keep our pack weight down and to eat outrageously good food. We will spend some time doing massage, body awareness, psychodrama, and encounter, laughing a lot and getting to know the high country, one another, and ourselves. There will be some time for doing nothing or for taking strenuous side hikes.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary, but participants should possess a good sense of humor and be capable of carrying a pack at altitudes up to 10,500′ for distances of 4 to 6 miles a day. For complete information sheet write or call Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis St., Albany, Ca. 94706 (415) 526-5814. Participants will meet in the Sierra on September 11. $310

September 11–21
River of Solitude: The Lower Canyons of the Rio Grande

Annie Callaway & Dick Galland

We will float nearly 50 miles of the Rio Grande as it winds through the Big Bend country, forming the border between Texas and Mexico. We feel ourselves slowing, adjusting our pace to the river, floating in the warm water and shedding our cares to become a part of this timeless land of sun, rock, and water. We will camp at night on the riverbank to cook over mesquite campfires and sleep in the warm sand, beneath the brilliant canopy of the desert stars. We will explore sinuous limestone side canyons, visit ancient Indian shelter caves, and marvel at the unique Chihuahuan desert vegetation and geology. In six six-person rafts we will paddle past strands of river cane and swim in crystal springs along the river. We will make music, invent rituals, and tell stories of our own journeys. We will use relaxation, yoga, and group process approaches, breathing deeply and opening our hearts, to emerge at the end of the trip refreshed and renewed. The group will meet in Midland, Texas, on September 11. Information on clothing, equipment, and travel will be sent upon registration. $550

October 7–10
The Vertical Dance: A Yosemite Climbing Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

During the days we'll play on the magnificent granite boulders and low rock faces of the "Incomparable Valley." We'll learn basic movements, such as how to rappel and belay, building trust in our hands and feet and each other. Safety ropes will free us to experiment and to discover our inner heroes. We'll camp in organized campgrounds, cooking together over crackling fires and sharing the day's adventures. One night we will don our city clothes for dinner at the Ahwahnee Hotel, a Valley tradition for nearly 100 years. The weekend begins Thursday afternoon and ends Sunday afternoon at the Fresno airport. We travel by van to and from Yosemite. No previous camping or climbing experience is necessary. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $225

· MEDICAL PROGRAMS ·

Esalen Institute is a California state approved provider for continuing education for health professionals. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category 1 approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

As of June 1982, the following are approved courses. See regular program listing for course description. For additional course approvals in present catalog contact the Esalen office.

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

September 10–12
High Performance Management in Health Care
Charles Garfield — 10 hours

October 10–15
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan & Brita Ostrom — 30 hours

October 15–17
Stress Reduction: A Guide for Physicians and Other Medical Care Personnel
Phillip Mac, M.D. — 10 hours

November 14–19
Critiquing Approaches in Health Care
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 30 hours

November 21–26
The Psyche and Soma of Health
Jessica Britt, R.N. & Deborah Anne Medow — 30 hours

November 28–December 3
The Health Care Contract:
Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement
Jerry Green, J.D. — 30 hours

December 5–10
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman, M.D. — 30 hours

December 10–12
Food for Health and Wellness
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 10 hours

December 17–19
The Hypnotherapy of Milton Erickson:
A Workshop for Professionals
Jane Parsons — 10 hours

January 2–7
Loss, Grief, and Depression
Joel Kotin, M.D. — 30 hours

January 28–30
Medical Self-Care:
New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D. — 10 hours

February 11–13
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. — 30 hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

September 10–12
High Performance Management in Health Care
Charles Garfield — 10 hours

October 3–29
Optimum Health
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 30 hours

October 8, 1982–January 28, 1983
Holistic Health Four Month Residential Program
Coordinated by Polly Kirby, R.N. — 92 hours

October 10–15
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan & Brita Ostrom — 30 hours

October 15-17
Stress Reduction: A Guide for Physicians and Other Medical Care Personnel
Phillip Mac, M.D. — 10 hours

November 14–19
Critiquing Approaches in Health Care
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 30 hours

November 21–26
The Psyche and Soma of Health
Jessica Britt, R.N. & Deborah Anne Medow — 30 hours

November 28–December 3
The Health Care Contract:
Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement
Jerry Green, J.D. — 30 hours

December 3–5
From Burnout to Personal Growth:
Increasing Effectiveness and Enjoyment in Work and Life
Elliot Aronson, PhD. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

December 5–10
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan, Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman, M.D. — 30 hours

December 10–12
Food for Health and Wellness
Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D. — 10 hours

December 17–19
The Hypnotherapy of Milton Erickson:
A Workshop for Professionals
Jane Parsons — 10 hours

January 2–7
Loss, Grief, and Depression
Joel Kotin, M.D. — 30 hours

January 28–30
Medical Self-Care: New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D. — 10 hours

February 6-11
Zero Balancing: Beginning–Intermediate Workshop
Fritz Smith, M.D. — 30 hours

February 11–13
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. — 30 hours

· BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION ·

—A—

Maurica Anderson p. 13 . . . . . regularly conducts psychodrama and support groups at various alcoholism treatment centers. She has co-led the Esalen High Sierra group for many years.

Dick Anthony p. 27 . . . . . is an associate of the Center for the Study of New Religions in Berkeley and is co-editor of Conversion, Coercion and Commitment in New Religious Movements.

Anne Armstrong p. 16, 23 . . . . . has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 18 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.

Jim Armstrong, p. 16, 23 . . . . . a former engineer, is a life-long student and teacher of esoteric studies.

Elliott Aronson p. 23 . . . . . is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.

Angie Arrien p. 23 . . . . . is a Basque folklore specialist, anthropologist, and a tarot counselor who teaches at the California Institute of Asian Studies.

—B—

Susan Baldi, p. 21 . . . . . R.N., is director of student health at Santa Rosa Community College.

Thompson Barton, p. 29 . . . . . currently teaching the holistic sports course at Antioch West, presents an evolutionary development in the art of teaching sports, fitness, and movement called the integrated awareness method.

Judi Bell p. 29 . . . . . is chair of the creative arts therapy department at Antioch University, San Francisco. She has done pioneering work in integrating movement into family therapy.

Shyam Bhatnagar, p. 19 . . . . . founder of innertuning, which is based on chakra psychology, is director of S.R.I. Centers International and is on the faculty of International University in Lugano, Switzerland.

Daniel Bianchetta p. 24 . . . . . practices shiatsu, rebirthing, deep tissue massage, gestalt, and intuitive readings at Esalen. He has studied extensively with Swami Muktananda.

Jessica Britt p. 13, 21, 29 . . . . . is a registered nurse who is a student and practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.

Charles Brooks, p. 20 . . . . . author of Sensory Awareness, was formerly a woodworker and designer and has been a teacher of sensory awareness with his wife, Charlotte Selver, since 1963.

Leon Burry-Trice p. 21 . . . . . is a builder and an architect on Esalen's staff.

—C—

Peter Caddy p. 13, 26 . . . . . is the co-founder of the Findhorn Foundation, and is presently engaged in visiting and assisting in the link-up of communities, groups, and movements for the process of planetary transformation.

Annie Callaway, p. 13, 17 . . . . . professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for several years.

Joseph Campbell p. 18 . . . . . is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.

John Caple p. 26 . . . . . is a college professor (with a previous career in business management), career counselor, and leader of seminars for industry.

Fritjof Capra, p. 27 . . . . . Ph.D., is researching theoretical high energy physics at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and is author of two books, The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point..

Seymour Carter p. 13 . . . . . has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years, and is currently a teacher in residence at Esalen.

Michell Cassou p. 23 . . . . . is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

Stanford Eugene Cates p. 24 . . . . . is working and in training with Paul Rebillot, assisting and co-leading groups. He has trained in Trager psychophysical integration and is a minister.

Barbara Clemans p. 18, 22 . . . . . is a massage and movement specialist in private practice in San Francisco.

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, p. 29 . . . . . a professional dancer and teacher of movement, has studied and performed ballet, modern jazz, Afro-Cuban, and primitive dance in New York and the West Indies.

Arthur Cox p. 31 . . . . . has had direct experience in all aspects of U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union—including diplomacy, intelligence and covert operations, military affairs and arms control, trade, and information and cultural programs.

Stewart Cubley, p. 23 . . . . . artist and scientist, is co-founder of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

—D—

Terry Dobson p. 19 . . . . . apprenticed to the founder of aikido for eight years. He is the author of Giving In To Get Your Way and Safe and Alive.

Jackie Doyle p. 19 . . . . . is the president-elect of the Association for Humanistic Psychology, was a founder of Greenhouse in Cambridge, Mass., and is in private practice in the Bay Area.

Joel Dweck, p. 16 . . . . . formerly a physicist and freelance builder, is a certified Radix® teacher in private practice in Santa Monica, California.

Ken Dychtwald, p. 15 . . . . . psychologist and international consultant, is the author of Bodymind, Millenium: Glimpses into the 21st Century, and The Aging of America (forthcoming).

—E—

Evelyn Eaton p. 23 . . . . . is a musician, author, poet, world traveller, lecturer, teacher, and "a mystic with a keen sense of humor."

Victoria Elliot, p. 18 — an Esalen trustee, is vice president of Norman H. Gershman Consultants, executive recruiters and management consultants to the securities business.

—F—

Tom Ferguson, p. 31 — M.D., is editor of the Journal of Medical Self-Care, medical editor of the Whole Earth Catalog/ Co-Evolution Quarterly, and editor of the book Medical Self-Care: Access to Health Tools.

Rosemary Feitis, p. 25 — a certified Rolfer®, editor of Ida Rolf Talks, is presently writing two manuscripts: one on consciousness; the other, with Louis Schultz, on anatomy.

Joyce Frazee p. 20 — is a gestaltist whose training includes art, encounter, bioenergetics, body awareness, and psychosynthesis. She is presently on the staff of Cold Mountain Institute.

Marty Fromm p. 24 — trained with Fritz Perls for three years. Some aspects of their relationship are described in In and Out of the Garbage Pail.

Betty Fuller, p. 18 — a humanist counselor, A.H.A., is director of the Trager Institute, and a certified instructor of Trager psychophysical integration and mentastics©, and of Feldenkrais awareness through movement.

—G—

Dick Galland. p. 13, 17 — was the founding director of the Southwest Outward Bound School. He designs and guides wilderness programs for individuals, schools, and corporations.

Charles Garfield, p. 13 — clinician, consultant, researcher, and writer on improving human performance, reducing job stress, and preventing burnout, is author of Stress and Survival.

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) p. 13 — is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and masseuse.

Joe D. Goldstrich, p. 17, 23, 33 — past national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Association, is a physician and author specializing in nutrition and preventive medicine.

Amit Goswami, p. 22 — Ph.D., is a physics professor researching a quantum theory of consciousness. He is the author of The Cosmic Dancers to be published by Harper and Row.

Jerry Green p. 22 — is an attorney specializing in medicine and holistic health practices.

Andre Gregory p. 18 — is co-author and star of My Dinner With Andre, creator of the Manhattan Project, and director of it's world famous production of Alice in Wonderland.

Christina Grof, p. 13, 19, 21, 22, 23, 26, 27 — hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." She is co-author of Beyond Death.

Stanislav Grof, p. 13, 19, 21, 22, 23, 26, 27 — psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of The Human Encounter with Death and LSD Psychotherapy.

—H—

Betsy Hand, p. 15, 23, 31 — former resident staff member of the Gestalt Institute of Canada, has 20 years experience with families, couples, and groups. She is in private practice in Kentfield, Ca.

Robert Hand p. 20 — is an astrological teacher, author, consultant, and researcher. His latest book is Horoscope Symbols and he is completing a manuscript tentatively entitled Essays on Astrology.

Joyce Hanna p. 19 — is a behavioral fitness consultant in Palo Alto, California. She is a marathon runner and has competed in the Boston marathon.

Michael Harner, p. 21, 28 — an anthropologist who has studied shamanism among South and North American Indians for more than two decades, is the author of The Way of the Shaman.

Sandra Harner, p. 21, 28 — textile artist and executive director of the Center for Shamanic Studies, Norwalk, Connecticut, has accompanied her husband, Michael, in studies among Upper Amazon tribes.

Steven Harper p. 10 — an instructor/guide for mountaineering and outdoor schools, has recently returned from a year long journey in the Himalaya and Africa.

Susan Harper, p. 29 — a dance teacher in Los Angeles and San Francisco, is co-founder of Continuum Montage, a company which produces and distributes recordings by musicians and composers.

Nick Herbert p. 30 — is an independent researcher in the foundations of physics. He is currently interested in Bell's Theorem and its applications to ordinary life.

Torkin Hibbard p. 19 — is the director of People's Clinic in Boulder, Colorado.

Paul Horn. p. 27 — is a flutist, a jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and teacher of meditation.

Chungliang Al Huang p. 26, 27 — is the founder-president of Living Tao Foundation and director of its Lan Ting Institute, an international cultural-arts network for lifelong learning.

—IJ—

Rick Ingrasci p. 19 — is a physician/healer in private practice in Newton, Mass. He is health editor of New Age magazine and health director of Interface.

Owen James p. 25 — is director of the Center for Integral Living, New York and Toronto. He has been a certified Rolfer® and movement teacher for over a decade.

Don Johnson, p. 29 — Ph.D., is co-chair of the holistic studies department at Antioch University and author of The Protean Body. His interest is in social forces that shape the human body.

Michael Joyce, p. 16 — a somatologist and Feldenkrais teacher in private practice in Reno, Nevada and Dutch Flat, California, has written articles on the physiological learning process.

Andrea Juhan. p. 10, — is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practioner, has trained with Anna Halprin, and currently conducts Esalen community classes in stretch/exercise, aerobics, and dance.

Deane Juhan, p. 18, 22, 23, 33 — a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.

—K—

Sam Keen p. 21, 30 — is an explorer of inner space, a psychonaut and philosopher, editor of Psychology Today, author of Apology for Wonder, To a Dancing God, Beginnings Without End.

George King, p. 15, 19 — a massage practitioner for 22 years, has worked throughout the U.S., Europe, and South America.

Polly Kirby ..... is a registered nurse and certified acupuncturist who is presently living at Esalen, where she is working toward integrating traditional and alternative healing modes.
p. 18

Gary Klapman ..... has been practicing emergency medicine in Santa Cruz for five years and is a student of medical ecology.
p. 23

Lila Daniels Klapman, ... longtime member of the Esalen massage crew, integrates deep tissue, polarity, and Trager bodywork in her teaching and practice.
p. 19, 23, 27

George Kohlrieser ..... is director of Shiloah, Center for Human Growth in Dayton, Ohio, where he works with individuals, families, and groups.
p. 26

Joel Kotin, ... a psychoanalyst and associate clinical professor of psychiatry and human behavior at U.C. Irvine, is author of numerous publications on both biological and psychological aspects of depression.
p. 26

Marilyn Harris Kriegel, ... former senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute of San Francisco, is co-chair of the graduate department of holistic studies at Antioch University West.
p. 29

—L—

Stephen LaBerge, ... Ph.D., is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and does research on conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University.
p. 24

David LaChappelle ..... is an artist and clairvoyant, trained in polarity, yoga, and meditation. He has taught at the Rocky Mountain Healing Arts Institute.
p. 19

Benj Langdon, ... former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.
p. 22, 27

Dub Leigh ..... is a humanist counselor, an advanced Rolfer®, and a practitioner of both Feldenkrais and Trager methods.
p. 16

George Leonard, ... author of Education and Ectasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.
p. 9, 16

Howard Levene, ... a Jungian analyst practicing in the Bay area, is chairman of the curriculum committee of the C.G. Jung Institute in San Francisco.
p. 29

Peter Levine ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He is currently working on three books in the area of stress resolution, and Reichian vegito therapy.
p. 31

Bill Liles, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, integrates polarity with traditional Esalen massage.
p. 20, 29

John Lilly ..... is a teacher and scientist. His books include The Center of the Cyclone and Simulations of God: The Science of Belief (May, 1975).
p. 22

Matthew Litwin ..... is a 15 year old "computer nerd" (Time Magazine, May 3, 1982), creating computer programs supporting a project to eradicate curable blindness in Nepal.
p. 26

Elisa Lodge ..... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.
p. 13, 29

DeeDee Lozier ..... is a Feldenkrais practitioner who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in the United States and Israel.
p. 16

Nancy Kaye Lunney, ... a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, does individual as well as group work, and is manager of programming at Esalen.
p. 18, 29

—M—

Phillip Mac ..... is a board certified family physician who has trained family physicians and physicians' assistants. His special interest is the health and ill health of health care providers.
p. 18, 21

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio), certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches to well being in group and private instruction.
p. 15, 21, 22, 24

Edie McClurg ..... is an actress/comedienne/writer who has created improvisational characters on "The Richard Pryor Show," "The David Letterman Show," and "The Merv Griffin Show."
p. 16

Deborah Medow, ... longtime Esalen bodywork practitioner and group leader, teaches Ashtanga yoga, creative movement, and related healing disciplines; she is also a student of the Native American tradition.
p. 21, 24, 27, 33

Emmett Miller, ... physician, musician, poet, and dancer, works with hypnosis, meditation, imagery, music, and movement. His books describe selective awareness, the approach he originated.
p. 15

Sandra Ferreira Miller ..... has been a bodywork and massage practitioner and instructor for many years, incorporating shiatsu, acupressure, Tragering, and other approaches.
p. 15

Tom Moore ..... has co-led the Esalen High Sierra encounter for the past two years, and is currently a resident member of the Harbin Community.
p. 13

Laurie Muller (Lioness), ... a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches of healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 20, 25

Christian Murphy ..... specializes in role playing for personal growth. She applies it to assertiveness training, writer's block, marriage, family, corporate communication, single's workshops, and group process work.
p. 21

—N—

Claudio Naranjo ..... teaches at the Integral Studies Institute and is author of The One Quest.
p. 27

Bruce Neeb, ... a long term resident of Esalen, is experienced in gestalt, bioenergy, and encounter, and is currently manager of Esalen's lands crew.
p. 18

The NINE ..... describe themselves as "giant reflectors of your selves, gestalt practitioners, marriage counselors —pure energy of emergent quality available to all." They are the center of the Esalen Paranormal Intelligence Project.
p. 15, 28

—O—

Jenny O'Connor ..... is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."
p. 15, 28

Daniel O'Hanlon ..... is a Jesuit priest and theologian who has had extensive experience with meditation practices in India, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Japan.
p. 24

James Oldham ..... is a psychiatrist who has specialized in modelling human success factors and teaching them to other people. His clients include congressmen, company presidents, and ambitious professionals.
p. 23

Wendy Oser . . . . . is a recent computer learner and a long time leader of self-empowering workshops.
p. 26

Brita Ostrom, ... a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 18, 29

—P—

Helen Palmer, ... a clairvoyant counselor, has developed an intuition training that utilizes personality issues as access points to psychic perception and the inner life.
p. 20

Jane Parsons . . . . . was facilitator in individual, group, and family treatment in the department of psychiatry at Mount Sinai Hospital for 12 years, and is in private practice in New York City.
p. 24

Ayala Pines, ... research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.
p. 23, 27

Prem Das . . . . . completed a six-year apprenticeship with don Jose Matsuwa and is the founder and director of Mishakai, Center for the Study of Shamanism, Covelo, California.
p. 22

Hector Prestera, ... a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neuro-linguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.
p. 21, 28

Christine Price . . . . . combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.
p. 10, 13, 20, 23, 27, 30

—R—

Paul Rebillot . . . . . was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theatre Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.
p. 24, 29, 31

Sogyal Rinpoche . . . . . is a scholar and meditation master from Tibet who teaches extensively on death and dying.
p. 20

Jack Rosenberg, ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.
p. 19

Gabrielle Roth . . . . . is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the east coast, where she directs and performs with her own theater/dance company.
p. 13

Ilana Rubenfeld . . . . . is the originator of her own integration called "gestalt synergy." She trained with Fritz and Laura Perls and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is on the faculty of New York University.
p. 25

Anne Ruderman, ... a Certified Radix® teacher and clinical social worker, is in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 16

Rutuima, ... Prem Das' wife and don Jose's brother's (don Carlos') granddaughter, is a mother and teacher of Huichol.
p. 22

—S—

David Schiffman . . . . . is currently a leader in residence at Esalen, where he is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 15, 16, 19, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29

R. Louis Schultz, ... Ph.D., a certified Rolfer®, Rolf® movement practitioner, and director of the New York School for Rolfing®; has developed a living anatomy course from his teaching experiences.
p. 25

Will Schutz, ... founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 21, 29

Alan Schwartz . . . . . is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."
p. 25

Charlotte Selver . . . . . teaches sensory awareness, perception, and non-verbal and verbal communication. A new center is being built for her at Green Gulch Farm through the Zen Center, San Francisco.
p. 20

Julian Silverman, ... an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.
p. 16

Saul-Paul Sirag . . . . . has published two physics papers in Nature and has authored a theory on the size of the universe. In 1977 he founded the Consciousness Theory Group, which he directs.
p. 30

Phyllis Shankman . . . . . is an instructor at U.C.L.A. Extension, counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, and founder of Women in Transition Seminars.
p. 18

Harry Sloan, ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Robert Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 16, 25

Fritz Smith . . . . . is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is in a private practice of holistic health in Watsonville, California.
p. 30, 31

Gerald Smith . . . . . is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 15, 19, 23, 31

David Sobel . . . . . is department chief for preventative medicine, Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center, San Jose; author of To Your Health; associate editor of Medical Self-Care; conducts Healthline on KNTV 11.
p. 29

Joan Steffy . . . . . has developed her abilities as a counselor, psychic, and medium through methods learned in Europe, Brazil, and the American shamanic tradition.
p. 15

Chuck Steinberg . . . . . is a holistic physician at the University of Colorado, where he specilizes in behavioral medicine and health promotion.
p. 19

Elizabeth Stratton, ... a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.
p. 25

Annie Styron . . . . . is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.
p. 16

—T—

Peggy Taylor . . . . . is the editor and publisher of New Age magazine. She has been teaching the Bates method of vision improvement for several years.
p. 19

Tom Taussig . . . . . is a computer consultant, taught computer design at U.C. Berkeley, now teaches enlightment psychology at J.F.K. University, and growth workshops in the Bay Area and Europe.
p. 26

Gioia Timpanelli, ... poet, teacher and winner of two Emmy awards for writing, producing, and broadcasting, is completing a P.B.S. pilot on fairy tales for adults.
p. 27

	Vicki Topp p. 15, 22	joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.
—V—	Attila Vaas p. 25	has been an Esalen massage practitioner for the past six years. His approach combines polarity, acupressure, and the Esalen massage.
	Sim Van der Ryn, p. 26	former California State architect, is founder of the Farallones Institute and professor of architecture, U.C. Berkeley; author of Self Reliant Living in the City and The Toilet Papers.
	Frances Vaughan, p. 28	author of Awakening Intuition and co-editor of Beyond Ego, is in private practice and core faculty at the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology.
—W—	Roger Walsh p. 28	is a psychiatrist on the faculty of the medical school at U.C. Irvine, is co-editor of Beyond Ego and Beyond Health and Normality.
—Y—	Alan Young p. 13	is a spiritual healer in private practice in Carmel, California, and the author of a recently published book, Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage?
—Z—	John Zeigler, p. 21	in private practice with Christian Murphy in Manhattan, is also her co-producer and co-performer in Winners, an all-improvised Off-Off Broadway drama/comedy/gestalt.
	Janet Zuckerman p. 10, 19	has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than seven years. Her work includes gestalt practice, group process,and emotional release work.

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student $15
One Year Individual $25
One Year Donor $50
One Year Sponsor $100
One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

The Esalen Catalog

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year, including postage and handling, is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. A preaddressed envelope is included in this catalog for your convenience.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

Films & Tapes

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Stanislav Grof: ABC's of Psychiatry
Stanislav Grof: Introduction to Spiritual Emergency Work
John C. Lilly: Births, Brains, and Beings
Albert Hofmann: LSD and The Nature of Reality
Anna Halprin: Movement Ritual — Tape I
Emmett Miller: Healing Journey

Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
David Schiffman: Group Process: Maps of Consciousness
Reb Andersen: Zen
Jack Kornfield: The Sword of Wisdom
Frank Barr: On the Evolutionary Bio-Process
Joe D. Goldstrich: Nutritional Systems and Belief Systems

Fritjof Capra: Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures
Theodore Roszak: Personal Transformation thru History
Roszak & Thompson: Cultural Transformation in the 80's
Wm. Irwin Thompson: On the Evolution of Human Culture
Thompson & Roszak: Political Transformation

Rollo May & Daniel Ellsberg: Good and Evil
Linus Pauling: Vitamin C and Cancer
Julian Silverman: The Basis of the Healing Relationship
Ram Das: Hang on Tightly; Let Go Lightly
James Fadiman: Hasidic & Sufi Teaching Stories
Sam Keen: An Erotic Psychology

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Robert Bly: (2) An Evening with Robert Bly at Esalen
Robert Bly: (2) Fairy Stores for Men and Women
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism
George Leonard: (2) Energy Awareness & Transformation
Anne & Jim Armstrong: (2) A Psychic Training Program
Sam Keen & Rick Carlson: (2) The Politics of Healing

Andrew Weil: (2) The Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot
Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Joseph Campbell: Transformations of Myth through Time (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 with check or money order ($44 by purchase order)
R. D. Laing: Dialogues with James Fadiman and Fritjof Capra (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Kornfield: The Art and Practice of Buddhism (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Julian Silverman: Structural Basis of Body Work (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Fritjof Capra: Mind, Matter & Consciousness (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Stanislav Grof: Nature, Mind & Consciousness (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)

Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development (7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend Seminar (6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)
Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)

Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)
Heinz Von Foerster & John Lilly: Meta-Language (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Joseph Campbell: Psyche and Symbolism (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)

Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self & Soul (8 tapes, 10 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Chilton Pearce: Insight and Ecstasy (8 tapes, 11 hours) $80 ($88)
Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar (8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)
Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences (10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and The Individual Adventure (10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please address order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975–1980)

This recorded series of informal talks on twelve tapes is now part of Gregory Bateson's estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate. The complete set may now be purchased in two equal parts: Part I or Part II may be ordered separately (6 tapes each) for $60 ($66 by purchase order). Either set of six tapes will come in a vinyl album accompanied by a summary of contents of all twelve, for reference, plus additional pages. For Parts I & II combined in one order, send $98 ($108 by purchase order). Please add $2 for mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). In California include 6% sales tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Meditation Music, Space Age Music

This new music, called by many names (cosmic, celestial, transcedent, new age) covers a wide range and is becoming increasingly known and appreciated. Listed here are several mail order sources for catalogs and information: HALPERN SOUNDS, 620 Taylor Way #14, Belmont, CA 94002; SOURCE, 1307 Buena Vista, Pacific Grove, CA 93940; HEARTS OF SPACE, PO Box 31321, San Francisco, CA 94131; VITAL BODY MARKETING, 77-41A Vleigh Place, Flushing NY 11367; YES! BOOKSTORE, 1035 31st Street NW, Washington DC 20007.

Recordings from the Early Years

A 32-page catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $2 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, PO Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette of Al Huang's work, entitled Tai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, address inquiries to The Pattern Which Connects, PO Box 8, Forest Knolls, California 94933 — Phone (415) 488-0135.

· RESERVATION INFORMATION ·

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three- week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335

Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The price of a weekend workshop will be $165, and a five-day will be $340. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Scholarship Information: If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June15–September 15 programs or for weekend programs.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from September through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Some special staff programs may also be open to residents. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $55 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $70 per day, or $105 per day per couple. Please phone the office for additional information.

General Information: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 5 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $15 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

The Esalen Staff

Sherry Ackerson
Barbara Adamson
John Ahrens
Steve Beck
April Bekaert
Daniel Bianchetta
Steve Bogoff
Leon Burry-Trice
Craig Carr
Glen Cheda
Steve Cohen
Bette Dingman
Ann Guenther
Paul Herbert
Perry Holloman
Shirley Hyles
Jaelitza
Polly Kirby
Dai Lesty
Lois MacLean
Kelly McKay
Jose Mozic (Raman)
Glenn Naritomi
Lew Porter
Joyce Rogers-Lyke
John Soper
Rick Tarnas
Lia Thompson
Selena Van Cleve
Bruce Weston
Janet Zuckerman

Managers
Tom Brenner
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Brian Lyke
Helen Malcolm
Bruce Neeb

Board of Trustees
Diana Becchetti
Steven Donovan
Victoria Elliot
Joseph Goldin
Janet Lederman
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Weir Perry
Julian Silverman

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See Reservation Information, page 42.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐ Age _____

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Check whether this workshop will be held in Big Sur ☐ or as a Wilderness Program ☐

Do you smoke? _____

Limousine Service:
I want limousine service from (check one):
_____ Monterey Airport
_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station
at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only)

The $15 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Reservation Fee

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Your reservation can be charged to:

MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 42. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

THE ESALEN CATALOG

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920
DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

JANUARY - JUNE, 1983 ONE DOLLAR

Contents

Volume XXII, Number 1

Audio Recordings 44–45

Big Sur Wilderness Experience 15

Biographical Information 39–43

Catalog Subscription Information 43

Esalen Seminars 17–35

Experiencing Esalen 15

Experiencing Esalen: The Body 15

Food for Thought

Making Connections
Janet Lederman 4–5

Energy Training at Esalen Institute
George Leonard 6–10

Accidental Nuclear War
Arthur Cox 11–13

Faces of the Enemy 13

Friends of Esalen 43

General Information 46

Gestalt Practice 15

Media Center 45

Medical Programs 38

Reservations Form 47

Special Programs 36–37

Ways of Being at Esalen 14–15

Wilderness Programs 37

Work-Study Program and Application 16

Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday & Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editors: Nancy Kaye Lunney
and Heather Tarnas
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Rogers-Lyke
and Kathy Thormod

©1983 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

Kathy Thormod

"Contact is the appreciation of differences"
Fritz Perls

Hi Halima
After Kathleen & I left you at the Bart Station I realized I won't be seeing much of you this year, & I want to tell you I love you & miss you!

I'm sending a catalog because Esalen give C.E. credit for nurses & also because some people can use their insurance to pay for workshops & I thought that might apply to you

Come visit! Sharab

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

MAKING CONNECTIONS

THE GAZEBO, has been joined by other stages for learning.
Now it is a fully formed:

LEARNING THEATRE.

THEATRE:
Gk. – theatron to view act of seeing an outdoor structure for dramatic performances.

LEARN: to gain knowledge or understanding of a skill by study, instructions, or EXPERIENCE.
Within the LEARNING THEATRE all avenues are available.
New dramas continue to unfold in response to changes in population.

GAZEBO–ATARI.

SEEING OUT SEEING IN

PROJECT: SPACEBUS
HIGH TECH – HIGH TOUCH imagination touching the energy of nature first hand.

Making connections
from one space and then another!
Moving.
Balancing,
inner and outer environments.
This is a test,
Frustration or success?

Launching Pad: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California.
BLAST OFF: Atari Institute for Educational Research, Sunnyvale, California.

ATARI

October 18, 1982

Janet Lederman
Jim Doty
Gazebo School
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Dear Janet and Jim:

On behalf of the Atari Institute for Educational Action Research let me extend our appreciation to you and your staff for your participation in the Institute's Sister School project.

Confirming our earlier conversations, the Institute will provide the Gazebo School with: Atari hardware, software, phone installation, maintenance and support services for the duration of the program. Upon completion, the Atari equipment will remain as a donation to the Gazebo School and its maintenance and support costs will revert to the school.

This pilot program addresses the issues of educational equity, teacher training, resource sharing, and student networking through computer technology. (Project description enclosed.)

We are particularly appreciative of Gazebo's participation in the project because of its holistic approach to education. What we learn from the implementation of computers in an affective educational setting has the potential of impacting all of computer education.

Once again, many thanks.

Best personal regards,

Sandra Williams
Manager
Program Development

P.S. Roster of participating schools included.

PRE-LAUNCH HISTORY

THE GAZEBO – now grown into a fully formed LEARNING THEATRE, received a very used and tired yellow school bus. It could no longer move. The small children and toddlers played in, on, and around the bus for many weeks. They drove it everywhere their imaginations took them.

They painted the bus with their powdered paints in a variety of spontaneous styles. Flowers appeared. Names. Numbers. Many funny faces. They painted the top of the bus, the front, the back, and both sides. They painted the tires, the windows, the mirrors, and even the headlights. They came to know the whole of the OUTSIDE of the bus.

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

THE BUS NEEDS A SPECIAL PLACE!

A special place was found. On it were several cords of wood. Everyone helped move the wood; little people and big people working together. The seats were very difficult to remove. The children worked and worked. John, the Big Sur bus driver came to help. He had all the right tools. Now there is the steering wheel, the driver's seat, and the control panel. There is a wonderful empty space and many ideas. Everyone helped Jim scrub the inside of the bus. The bus is slowly changing.

WHAT'S THE BUS GOING TO LOOK LIKE?

Everyone has special ideas.
WHAT COLOR WILL IT BE?
INSIDE, OUTSIDE?

WE'VE NEVER DONE THIS BEFORE!

A DIFFERENT TIME
A DIFFERENT SPACE
A DIFFERENT DIMENSION
ANOTHER PLACE

The big kids helped darken the windows. They turned each bus window into a mirror. Waiting to move into the bus is ATARI, a new computer. Atari is ready to begin the SPACEBUS JOURNEY with the GAZEBO children.

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

EVERYBODY is joining to create a special place inside the bus for ATARI and a SPACE-CREW.

PROJECT–SPACEBUS is ready to RUN.
ALL SYSTEMS GO!

Janet Lederman

Kathy Thormod

ENERGY TRAINING AT ESALEN INSTITUTE

At some point during every Energy Training workshop, I pose a question to the group: "What do you do when somebody pushes you?" Though I've asked the question hundreds of times to various groups totalling well over 35,000 individuals, the initial, reflexive answer is always the same: "Push back."

Taking that as a cue, I ask a member of the group to grasp my arm and push me. I push back and a futile, unpleasant struggle ensues. This all-too-familiar "push-back" response, I suggest, generally comes out in one of three ways: I can win, I can lose, or there can be a stalemate. There's obviously something wrong with each of these outcomes. If I win, somebody else must lose. Losing doesn't feel good. And a stalemate is a waste of time and energy.

Whatever the outcome, it's clear that the push-back response severely limits our options. Here we have a situation that comes up all the time. There is an attack, not necessarily physical, but verbal, psychological, social. Somebody pushes, somebody else pushes back and the battle is joined. There seems to be no way out. We are doomed to struggle or yield for as long as we live.

Continued on following page

Kathy Thormod

Joyce Rogers-Lytle

But wait! There is an alternative, a simple movement called blending, which involves neither resisting nor yielding. I ask to be pushed again. This time, I wheel around to face the world from my attacker's viewpoint. From this new position, everything is transformed. Now I can be both powerful and gentle. I am free to move in many ways. In fact, using the body as a metaphor for the rest of life, I now have practically unlimited choices of action—a point that is easily demonstrated.

If it's true that what we term mental health is directly proportionate to the number of perceived options, and vice versa, then the multiplication of options is a matter of great importance, for groups and nations as well as for individuals. And this is one of the main purposes of Energy Training—not simply to prescribe methods and techniques but to increase the number of available options in every situation.

This blending exercise is just one of hundreds of Energy Training exercises. By practicing blending with a partner, you learn to incorporate an alternative way of dealing with attacks into every aspect of your life. After blending physically, you are much more likely to blend verbally and psychologically. In this, as in other Energy Training exercises, the physical exercise is followed by a discussion of practical, everyday applications.

Energy Training can be described as a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations and of enhancing the flow of vital energy. It is not physically demanding and yet it leads to physical centeredness, balance, and grace. It does not aim for emotional catharsis but is sometimes psychologically intense. Its purpose is extremely practical and down to earth, and yet it often brings about results that seem extraordinary or even paranormal.

The path that led me to this work began in 1970, when I began studying the art of aikido under a remarkable teacher named Robert Nadeau in a class organized by Esalen co-founder Michael Murphy. Nadeau himself had studied with the founder of modern aikido, Morihei Uyeshiba, known to aikidoists as "O Sensei" (great teacher). Aikido is undeniably a martial art, effective as well as subtle. But it was created by O Sensei to reform the traditional martial arts, to replace conflict and discord with the power of love and harmony. Nadeau introduced me to the idea that the principles of aikido could be used in a non-strenuous manner with people from many walks of life. In 1973, I began giving Energy workshops while continuing to study aikido. In 1976 I received my black belt in the art and helped start an aikido school in Mill Valley, California. Energy Training is inspired by aikido and is enriched by Western psychology and physical theory. Its evolution is reflected in my books, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, both of which described Energy work.

Several informal principles have emerged out of this work. Among them are the following:

1. You are the authority. Anything you experience during Energy Training is totally valid for you. You are responsible for what you do, perceive, feel, and are.

2. The capacity of the human being and of human society is largely untapped.

3. The body is a highly effective learning facility. It is fully in-

One Woman's Experience Of The Samurai Game

The Samurai Game, developed by George Leonard out of his Energy Training work, recreates the consciousness of the medieval Japanese samurai under game conditions. It will be the central focus of an Esalen five-day workshop May 8–13. The following response was received in a letter to Leonard from Patti O. Britton of New York City, who played the game in July 1982.

I want to express to you how I experienced the Samurai Game. I can only speak of my experience, for never in my life have I felt so totally at one with myself. The feelings and awareness I had were of being totally in the moment. I consider myself normally to be a fairly open, growing, risk-taker in life. And yet I usually hold back a part of me. To the Samurai Game I gave all. I resisted not at all. I acted in the total burning fire of the now and I was fully alive, for an eternity, until that moment ended. I fought bravely, valiantly, without fear or doubt, for three battles before I died due to a mistake made by my daimyo. Even in the knowledge of his error, I died in full consciousness and without remorse, for I had given of myself fully while alive.

After the game, my feelings and thoughts and senses were running rampant, accompanied by an intense state of perfect calm. I knew that for the first time in my life, or so it seems, I had truly suspended my own clinging belief system, had experienced true and total commitment and had felt purely alive and fully human. I had never known that level of present-centeredness before and I cherish the experience. It enabled me to experience the connectedness of all who played and all who watched the game as one.

strumented, it has thousands of feedback circuits, and the feedback is practically instantaneous. Once you've tuned into your body, you've tapped an almost limitless source of learning.

4. A centered body leads to a centered life. Your bodily stance goes a long way towards indicating your stance in life. The human body can be taken as a metaphor for everything else in human existence.

5. Expect nothing, be ready for anything. Readiness is, of course, a good thing. But expectations get in the way of readiness.

6. Put it up on the mat. In other words, develop your talents, make them public, be willing to be a fool. Don't hoard yourself.

7. Take the hit as a gift. Challenges can be energizing. Don't deny the existence of negative happenings; use them. Even some of the shocks and blows that occur to you in life can help you achieve your potential, if you know how to handle them.

8. Personal intention carries great power. Intention is what you consciously or unconsciously aim for or establish as purpose. Your intention, if strong enough, has an almost unbelievable power to create your reality.

9. A change of context makes transformation possible and indeed likely. The word "context" comes from the Latin terms, con and texere, meaning "to weave together." How you weave your world together, how you see things, has a lot to do with how you deal with life situations and what happens to you. To change perceptions is often to change experience. Most Energy Training exercises involve a change of context.

These principles lead to a work that is quite broad in its applications. Over the past ten years, it has been applied to such diverse fields as education, psychotherapy, sexuality, sports, corrections, drug abuse prevention, ballet, management, human resources development, and personal growth. And it is gratifying to receive reports of positive results from individuals who range from filmmakers to a Pan-Am captain, from ballet dancers to Silicon Valley executives.

The Esalen Energy Training residency in May and June marks an important milestone in the development of this new work. Never before has Energy Training been made available in such concentrated form and in such a variety of formats. These include:

1. Weekend and Five-Day workshops. Participants can take the following workshops singly or in combination. (Descriptions of these sessions can be found under "Esalen Seminars" in this catalog.)

May 6–8 Leonard Energy Training: The State of the Art

May 8–13 Energy Training and the Samurai Game

May 13–15 Psychedo

May 15–20 A Festival of the Happy Martial Arts

May 27–29 Energy Training in Sports

June 10–12 Energy Training and the Art of Love

June 24–26 The Further Reaches of Human Energy

Continued on following page

John Poggy

A Certification Program In Energy Training

A limited number of applicants will be accepted for an intensive, rigorous eight-week program leading to possible certification by the Energy Training Institute. The program will be conducted under the personal supervision of the Energy Training staff and will include mental, physical, psychological, and spiritual training. There will be an opportunity for candidates to practice teaching the exercises during the second half of the program. The cost will be $3,800, which includes room and board. At the end of the first four weeks, those for whom the work seems inappropriate may leave the program; in this case, half of their payment will be refunded. Applicants should be in good physical shape, and willing to give their wholehearted effort at all times. For further information write the Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 258, Mill Valley, CA 94942, Attention Susan Kirsch.

Kathy Thomsod

2. An invited conference on the scientific investigation of subtle energies. Noted scientists will gather May 23–25 to present papers on and discuss ways of measuring the extraordinary feats that sometimes emerge in the course of Energy Training.

3. Two special programs on the application of Energy Training to management and human resources development on June 5–8 and June 19–22. (See box.)

4. A special Energy Training track for Esalen work-scholars from May 29 to June 24.

5. A rigorous, two-month-long program leading to possible certification by the Energy Training Institute. (See box.)

My own association with Esalen goes back to 1967. From the beginning, I've seen this Institute as a place that nurtures new approaches to human growth and makes them available to a larger community. My colleagues from the Energy Training Institute and I are especially gratified to help initiate a series of residency programs that further validate Esalen's pioneering role on the frontiers of personal and social transformation.

George Leonard

June 5–8, 1983
ALTERNATIVE PERSPECTIVES IN MANAGEMENT
Joel Kirsch & Susan Kirsch with Richard Pascale

"We face a tough task in changing how we manage because we are a large part of the problem. We must change who we are, as well as what we do." —Richard Pascale & Anthony Athos, The Art of Japanese Management

Managers are bombarded with a host of issues on a daily basis. In a survey of corporate management personnel, the most frequently mentioned concerns were the rapid rate of change, motivation and worker needs, conflict resolution, participative management, communication, leadership, team building, and stress management.

Using Energy Training principles and activities, each of these topics will be addressed, offering managers insights into alternative ways of dealing with the issues. Participants will discover how problems can be used as opportunities and how sudden shocks and surprises can be used to improve performance.

This approach to management training has been used at leading corporations and institutions including General Electric, Ampex, Rolm, the U.S. Forest Service, Golden Gate University, and Stanford Medical Center.

International management consultant Richard Pascale will participate in all of Monday's session and be available for questions and discussion Monday evening.

June 19–22, 1983
NEW APPROACHES TO HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT
Susan Kirsch & Joel Kirsch with Warren Bennis & Sheldon Davis.

". . . people, from janitor to chief executive, are the only true resource of a country and of a company."—Peter Drucker

Drawing from principles of management, education, psychology, consciousness research, and Energy Training, this workshop is specifically designed for personnel in training and human resource development from business, education, and the social services.

The workshop will introduce a unique method for using the body as a means for teaching more effective ways to develop leadership, deal with change, increase motivation, improve communication, maximize personal power, increase problem solving ability, and facilitate team building.

Warren Bennis, professor at the University of Southern California's School of Business Administration and internationally recognized scholar, author, and consultant, and Sheldon Davis, vice-president for Digital and author of numerous articles on training and organizational effectiveness, will discuss pertinent issues facing the human resource development specialist.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Susan or Joel Kirsch
Energy Training Institute
P.O. Box 258
Mill Valley, CA 94942
(415) 383-3999

For registration contact Esalen Institute.

John Poppy

Working under the direction of author and long-time Esalen group leader George Leonard, each member of the staff has made a significant contribution to the development of Energy Training and each is a student of aikido. With a background in education, counseling, and sports, Joel Kirsch has Masters degrees in both Health and Marriage and Family Counseling. He received a Ph.D. in Psychology and Transformational Studies from International College in 1980, and his doctoral project, Energy Training and the Human Potential, includes detailed instructions for 43 Energy exercises. Susan Kirsch, with a background in educational research and training, holds a Masters in Speech Communications and a Ph.D. from International College in Organizational Development. Her doctoral project, completed under Dr. Jack Gibb in 1981, is entitled Trust and Energy Training in Organizational Development. Having studied Zen with Joshu Sasaki Roshi, as well as other spiritual disciplines, Annie Styron Leonard has worked since 1980 with Dr. John Travis as a Wellness Associate. In 1978-79 she served as a participant-observer of Energy Training, documenting exercises for Esalen's Bodily Transformation Project.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Accidental Nuclear War

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

As the danger of accidental nuclear war increases, the question of who has the finger on the nuclear trigger becomes critical.

The following excerpt is from Russian Roulette: The Superpower Game, by Arthur Cox (Times Books, 1982, $14.95):

At 11:00 A.M. on June 3, 1980, the Air Force officers monitoring the early warning system deep underground inside Cheyenne Mountain, Colorado, were struck with terror. The fluorescent display screens connected to the Nova Data General computer were flashing a warning: The Soviet Union had launched a large attack from its land-based missiles and strategic submarines. The submarines had launched their missiles from positions close to the coast of the United States; the missiles would reach their targets in less than ten minutes.

The alert was immediately fed into computers of the Strategic Air Command in Omaha, the National Military Command Center in the Pentagon, and the Alternate Military Command Center underground in Mount Weather, fifty miles northwest of Washington. Pilots and crews of 116 B-52 nuclear bombers at airfields across the United States raced to their planes, gunned the engines, and began to taxi for takeoff. Nuclear submarine commanders at sea were alerted for action. At the underground launch centers near silos housing the American intercontinental ballistic missiles, officers strapped themselves into jolt-resistant swivel chairs, unlocked strongboxes, removed verification codes, and inserted launch keys into their slots. (When two keys ten feet apart are twisted within two seconds of each other, the missiles blast off toward their targets in the Soviet Union.)[1] Unlike a bomber, which can be called back, an ICBM, once launched, continues irretrievably on its terrible mission.

Fortunately for our planet this computer error was discovered in time. But it was only one of three serious computer failures in eight months which placed the United States on nuclear alert. Incredibly, the June 3 incident was followed by another alarm on June 6, reported by the same faulty computer. According to a Pentagon briefing, these false alarms were caused by the failure of an electronic chip, about the size of a dime, which costs forty-six cents. Eight months earlier a war game tape was fed into the computers and unaccountably interpreted as the real thing. It took six minutes before the command and control officers determined that the attack was simulated.

During this time the pilot and crew of the E-4 command center plane which is always on runway alert at Andrews Air Force Base to allow the President to escape early nuclear attack and still be able to direct retaliation from the skies took off without President Carter. In fact, the plane was in the air before the President had even been informed of the alert.

As attested by a report prepared by the Senate Armed Services Committe, there were 3,703 alarms in the eighteen-month period from January 1979 to June 1980. Most of these were routinely assessed and dismissed, but 147 false alarms were serious enough to require evaluation of whether or not they represented a potential attack.

The Pentagon code word for an accident involving nuclear weapons is "broken arrow." The Defense Department has publicly acknowledged thirty-two "broken arrows," the most recent of which was the Titan II missile explosion in Damascus, Arkansas, on September 19, 1980. So far we have never had a nuclear explosion, but we have been lucky. In 1950 a B-29 carrying a nuclear bomb crashed on takeoff. In 1961 a B-52 with two nuclear weapons crashed near Yuba City, California. Also in 1961, another B-52 with two nuclear bombs went out of control near Goldsboro, North Carolina. When Air Force bomb experts reached the scene of the accident, they found that five of the six safety interlocks on one of the weapons had been set off by the force of the crash; only one remaining switch prevented the twenty-four-megaton bomb from detonating and spreading destruction and fallout over a wide area. In 1966 a B-52 crash near Palomares, Spain, resulted in dispersal of plutonium over an extensive agricultural area. The United States cleaned up the damage at a cost of $50 million. In 1968 a B-52 crashed and burned near Thule Air Force Base in Greenland. The bomber carried four nuclear weapons, all of which were destroyed by fire. During a four-month operation 237,000 cubic feet of radioactively contaminated ice, snow, and water were removed to an approved storage site in the United States.

The Pentagon says that new safety features now make an accidental nuclear explosion almost impossible. However, there is still the possibility of radioactive contamination if a nuclear weapon is consumed by fire or shattered by accidental detonation of nonnuclear explosives which are part of each nuclear device. And there are 30,000 nuclear weapons in the United States, stored in more than 200 locations in forty states.[2] The safety record has been remarkable, but the risks are growing.

One of the greatest risks we face is accidental launch of nuclear weapons resulting from breakdowns in the communications systems and insufficient time for reliable human decision making. After the two false alarms in June 1980 Secretary of Defense Harold Brown told a Senate inquiry: "I can assure that our strategic command and control system is configured to insure that a false alert could not result in a nuclear launch." Pentagon specialists said the key is a human judgment that must be made at each phase of an alert: Human decision is intended to prevent machinery alone from ordering a nuclear strike. Assistant Secretary of Defense Gerald P. Dinneen, the top expert on the U.S. early warning system at that time, declared: "There is no chance that any irretrievable actions would be taken on the basis of ambiguous computer information."

According to Dinneen, duty officers in various command posts make initial judgments that are passed back to Washington and up to the President, "who alone has the authority to order nuclear retaliation." A Pentagon report to the Senate was more specific: "The last stage of a nuclear alert is the convening of a missile attack conference that brings in all senior personnel, including the President. No such conference has ever been convened." All this information might be reassuring if we could continue to have the time necessary to implement the system, or if the Russians continue to fail to react to our false alerts, or if we can continue to maintain the record of extraordinary good luck that has marked the past thirty years.

But the next decade will be very different from the past thirty years. Unless the nuclear arms race is reversed, the probability of accidental nuclear war will increase sharply. The next round of nuclear weapons systems will make both superpowers fearful, with reason, of surprise attack. Some nuclear weapons based in Europe will be able to reach their Soviet targets with great accuracy in as little as six minutes. No system of command and control can possibly insure presidential decisions under those circumstances. Both sides will be on a continuous hair-trigger alert. In times of major political crisis the danger of accident will be probable rather than possible, as it is today.

Under such circumstances, imagine the Soviet reaction to one of our false alerts when their intelligence tells them that our B-52's are in the air and our ICBMs are being prepared for launch. If they have only six minutes to launch their missiles before their command and control system is destroyed, the odds are very strong that they will fire before an attack has been completed. This is known as launch under attack or launch on warning.

An indication of Soviet jumpiness came after the U.S. false alarm of November 1979. Tass commentator Alexander Dmitryuk said: "The Pentagon may have set off a false alarm about a Soviet nuclear attack deliberately to see the reaction of the Russians." And, he added, "there were other false alarms at the end of the 1950's and 1960's, and each could have ended in a catastrophe. . . . This incident shows once again on what a thin thread security now hangs and how this thread is tested for strength by irresponsible people in the United States."

• • •

As the danger of accidental nuclear war increases, the question of who has the finger on the nuclear trigger becomes critical. Our nation should be paying much more attention to the possible consequences of the assassination or incapacitation of our President. Our history demonstrates that the risks are great. Scenarios involving launch of nuclear weapons by delegated authority, by ambiguous authority, or by mistake are far more plausible than the worst-case war games played in the Pentagon which presently serve as the basis for spending hundreds of billions of dollars on new strategic weapons systems.

Inevitably command and control of nuclear weapons are not a risk-free business because the whole system, though mechanized, involves human beings, thousands of them, all along the line from the President down to the men in the missile silo who wear sidearms to be able to shoot their partners if they should go insane while on the job. The following story is revealing:

On July 9, 1973, Major Harold L. Hering, U.S. Air Force, asked a question. He was a student at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California where officers learn how to launch nuclear missiles from their underground silos. According to Major Hering, it seemed like a logical question, so he raised his hand and asked. What he wanted to know was this: If he got an order to fire the missiles how could he be sure it was a lawful order? How, for example, could he be sure it wasn't fake, sent by someone other than the President? Or could he be sure the President himself hadn't gone crazy? Major Hering never got an answer.

Instead, the Air Force dropped him from the course, stopped his promotion to Lieutenant Colonel and began proceedings to kick him out of the service. Major Hering, a 21-year veteran who received the Distinguished Flying Cross in Vietnam, was given an administrative discharge from the Air Force for "failure to demonstrate acceptable qualities of leadership." He had, the Air Force said, a "defective mental attitude toward his duties."[3]

Obviously, if the system is going to work, the officers who are responsible for putting the keys in the slots and turning them must act without question when they receive the correct coded signal. However, history demonstrates that Major Hering was asking valid questions. The three major computer errors in 1979 and 1980 set in motion alarms that could conceivably have resulted in commands to launch. There have been episodes in our history when Presidents of the United States were not fully in control of their faculties, either physical or mental. There have been other times when Presidents have been under severe emotional stress. In 1974, when Congress was considering impeachment proceedings, President Richard Nixon called several members of the House to the White House to seek their support. The President was very emotional as he asserted that his work for peace had been much more important to the nation than any "little burglary at Watergate." Then he said something very frightening, perhaps to demonstrate what a responsible leader he had been: "Why, I can go into my office and pick up the telephone, and in 25 minutes 70 million people will be dead."[4]

The CBS television documentary The Defense of the United States included the following exchange:

BOB SCHIEFFER: More disturbing, perhaps, is the ease with which strategists talk about first strike. Limited nuclear war has made the horror of a nuclear exchange seem somehow manageable, even commonplace. That suggests we have finally learned to live with the bomb.

Out in the missile fields of North Dakota, where men control warheads hundreds of times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, it is just another day at the office.

CREWMAN: I have Echo, November, Alpha, Bravo, Lima, Echo.
CREWMAN: Okay. Let's coordinate the command with everybody else.
CREWMAN: Everybody is coordinated.
CREWMAN: Coordinated!
CREWMAN: Okay. I'm launching at this time. (Buzzer) I have missile away.
SCHIEFFER: It must be an enormous responsibility. You must . . . to be in charge, as you two gentlemen are, of the most powerful weapon that man has ever devised?
CREWMAN: Yes, sir, it is a definite challenge. It's more responsibility than I could obtain in a civilian world. And to me that is job satisfaction.
SCHIEFFER: Do you guys actually know which missiles out there in the silos are yours?
CREWMAN: Yes, sir, we certainly do.
SCHIEFFER: And do you know the targets that they are targeted for?
CREWMAN: No, sir, we do not.
SCHIEFFER: You don't know?
CREWMAN: No, sir.
SCHIEFFER: Do you ever wonder?
CREWMAN: Yes, sir, sometimes I do. I wonder what the target is. You know, are the people over there thinking the same way I am? . . . But to actually know where the target is for each missile, I really wouldn't want to know. Personally I wouldn't want to know.
SCHIEFFER: Why not?
CREWMAN: Well, I—I really don't—I don't have to know to start with. Secondly, I would—I would feel kind of—kind of emotional about what kind of people I'd be destroying.[5]

[1]Richard Thaxton, "Nuclear War by Computer Chip," The Progressive (August 1980).
[2]Stephen Talbot and Jonathan Dann, "Broken Arrows, Broken Sleep," Los Angeles Times, March 18, 1981. Talbot and Dann received the 1981 George Polk Award for local television reporting for their documentary Broken Arrow: Can a Nuclear Weapon Accident Happen Here?
[3]Phil Stanford, "Who Pushes the Button?," Parade magazine (March 28, 1976).
[4]Ibid.
[5]CBS Reports, The Defense of the United States, Part I: "Ground Zero," June 14, 1981. □

Faces of the Enemy

"The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything save our modes of thinking, and we thus drift toward unparalleled catastrophes."
—Albert Einstein

"We have met the enemy and he is us."—Pogo

This conference examines the darkness— the shadow within each of us, which, unchecked and unexamined, leads to the destruction of ourselves and others. It seeks solutions not in our weapons but in our minds. Its premise is that hope begins when we acknowledge and face our dark side, reowning our projections and learning to change the habitual patterns of the antagonistic mind.

Leading figures from the arts, the sciences, philosophy, religion, and the Soviet and United States governments address such issues as the psychological process of projection, the creation and perception of enemies, the political process of propaganda, and the war between the sexes. Conversely, they also explore positive options, including replacing pervasive fear with basic trust, developing the art of empathy and the education of compassion, and learning to embrace the darkness so that we may move into the light. Together, speakers and participants think about how we can create the conditions that allow us to attain peace—within ourselves, with others, and on the planet.

SAN FRANCISCO: 2 days, Jan. 29–30; Sat.–Sun., 9 am-5 pm; Palace of Fine Arts Theatre, 3301 Lyon St.; $75 (edp 046029)

Cosponsored by the Esalen Institute and the Tarrytown Group.

EXAMINING THE ENEMY

SAM KEEN, consulting editor, Psychology Today; author of To a Dancing God and Apology for Wonder (conference moderator)
Paranoia, Propaganda, and Projection

ASHLEY MONTAGU, renowned anthropologist; author of Darwin: Competition and Cooperation and The Nature of Human Aggression
Is There Any Way Out? The Aggressive Human

HIGH NOON: THE U.S. AND THE U.S.S.R.

VALENTINE BEREZHKOV, First Secretary of the Soviet Embassy, Washington, D.C.
How Russians Perceive Americans

ARTHUR M. COX, author of Russian Roulette, drawing on a lifetime of experience in all aspects of U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union
How Americans Perceive Russians

THE DARK SIDE

SUSAN GRIFFIN, poet, author of Women and Nature and Pornography and Silence
The Need for an Enemy

ROBERT BLY, poet, author of The Man in the Black Coat Turns
What the Shadow Knows

THE HEART IN ACTION: TWO TRADITIONS

RICHARD BAKER ROSHI, Abbot, San Francisco Zen Center and Tassajara Mountain Center
An Eastern Perspective

WILLIAM SLOAN COFFIN, social activist and minister of Riverside Church, New York City
A Western Perspective

Mail to: Dept. B, University Extension, University of California, 2223 Fulton St., Berkeley, CA 94720. (415) 861-7720

• WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN •

Kathy Thormod

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose that approach which feels most appropriate and pursue it in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work- Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 16 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self- exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION: If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June 15–September 15 programs or for weekend programs.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness training, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls).

Schedule:
January14–16	$190
January 23–28	$390
February 4–6	$190
February 18–20	$190
March 4–6	$190
March 6–11	$390
March 18–20	$190
March 27–April 1	$390
April 1–3	$190
April 8–10	$190
April 29–May 1	$190
May 15–20	$390
May 27–29	$190

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

Similar in format to Experiencing Esalen, these workshops will emphasize learning different ways to keep your body healthy and vital. Participants will be introduced to various approaches Esalen offers for fitness, stress reduction, and body awareness. Some of the following practices will be included: dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, yoga, hiking, meditation, massage, and diet and nutritional information. The staff will provide guidance to help you find and select the practices most suitable to your individual needs.

Schedule:
January 7–9	$190
March 4–6	$190
April 3–8	$390
May 1–6	$390

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls); Tao Te Ching (Lao Tzu); The Power of Mindfulness (Nyanponika Thera); Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg (J. C. Pearce); Illusions (Richard Bach).

Schedule:
January 16–21	$390
February 6–11	$390
March 6–11	$390
April 3–8	$390
May 8–13	$390

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest on four day-long hikes (4–10 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after this week of walks. More information will be sent upon registration.

Schedule:
April 10–15	$390

• WORK-STUDY PROGRAM •

The Work-Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen. It is a work oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to community labor needs and work assignments are made according to those requirements.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders, who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

Beginning in January, 1983, the program will be divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a specific interest section which will be focusing primarily on one type of growth practice, such as gestalt and Reichian work, massage and body work, etc.

The schedule of specific interest programs planned thus far for 1983 includes:

January 2–February 27: A two month program in gestalt practice and Reichian breath work coordinated by Christine Price and Jessica Britt.

March 6–May 29: A three month program in body work, with massage certification available, coordinated by Deane Juhan, Deborah Anne Medow, and the Esalen massage practitioners.

May 29–June 26: A one month energy awareness program coordinated by George Leonard. There will be no general interest section offered this month.

June 26–July 24: A one month group process program coordinated by Janet Zuckerman.

July 24–September 18: A two month program focused on gestalt practice coordinated by Christine Price and Seymour Carter.

*These two programs may be applied to as a three month unit, or as two separate programs.

In as much as the Work-Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing® are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

As of January 1, 1983, the 28 day Work-Study Program costs $600 for the first month. A $300 deposit in U.S. currency is required with your application. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month, at a cost of $550, or a third month at a cost of $500 depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community.

Esalen offers an intensive three month Work-Study course in basic organic horticulture. The cost of this program is $1650. A $400 deposit is required. In filling out the Work-Study application, please indicate your preference for landscaping, gardening, or small scale farming.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work-Study Program,
Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.
Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt.

Available dates: January 2–January 30; January 30–February 27; March 6–April 3; April 3–May 1; May 1–May 29; May 29–June 26; June 26–July 24; July 24–August 21; August 21–September 18; September 18–October 16; etc.

• Application to the Work-Study Program •

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐

I prefer the specific interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ in _____.
(subject)

I am applying for the three month organic horticulture program. yes ☐ no ☐

The Work-Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

If you have emergency medical skills, (M.D., E.M.T. or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay please check here. ☐

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles, group leaders, and dates: _____

_____

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work-Study Program. Include any skills you may have available.

• ESALEN SEMINARS •

Week of January 2–7

Gestalt, Bioenergy, and Human Contact: Old and New Learning Integrated

Alan Schwartz

There is an energetic dimension to human behavior which is often locked behind the habitual patterns of defending against the fear, pain, and even joy associated with feeling. The visible expression of these patterns lies in the blocked musculature of the body. Reich, Perls, and Lowen suggested ways of being in which a person learned to allow more movement in the aggressive and sexual expression of the body. This week will be an opportunity to test the organism as movement. Allowing energy means integrating body, feelings, conceptual process, and spirit. The result is stability and a deeper awareness of self and our interdependence with physical and social environments. The workshop can be thought of as a learning week. Appropriate didactic material will be covered. $390

The Spiritual Path: Promises and Pitfalls

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This seminar will combine observations from modern consciousness research with various traditional practices to explore the process of spiritual awakening. The participants will have the opportunity to confront transpersonal areas within themselves, using "holonomic integration," a method developed by the workshop leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. Special attention will be paid to the understanding and management of "spiritual emergencies"—transpersonal crises which can occur in the context of various spiritual practices or spontaneous spiritual awakening. $390

Loss, Grief, and Depression

Joel Kotin

This workshop is for health care professionals who work with people who have experienced losses or depression, or who have experienced losses or depression themselves. It will focus on the experience of loss, grief, and depression from both a theoretical and experiential point of view. Participants will learn some principles of both cause and recovery from these states. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Creative Attachment: The Art of Making Affectional Bonds

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others; a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including emotional detachment, depression, and burn-out. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $390

Weekend of January 7–9

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

A Weekend with Sim Van der Ryn: Experiences in Ecological Design

Using examples from Sim Van der Ryn's work and those of other designers, participants will explore how their lives, houses, and communities can be revisioned and redesigned to use less energy and resources and be in better balance with locally available resources and natural cycles. $190

A Journey into Wholeness: The Balancing of Masculine and Feminine in Relationships and Within Oneself

Peter Caddy

As the old and static patterns of relationships become less appropriate and more unworkable, many people are looking for new models and methods to achieve a balance in their business, home, and social relationships. Through personal sharings and drawing upon the collective experience of the group, this workshop will explore the meaning and dimensions of new age relationships, focusing on identifying and working with the masculine and feminine energies, both within each person and in a planetary context. $190

Introducing Hands-On Computer at Esalen

Tom Taussig, Wendy Oser & Matthew Litwin

"Hands on at Esalen" no longer refers exclusively to the many bodywork practices available at Esalen. It also means that during this weekend seminar, participants will be introduced to the potentials of the home computer revolution. Specifically, participants can expect to be taught the fundamentals of these computer processes: word processing; text entry and editing; and file manipulation, including copying, storing, retrieving, and printing your work.

This seminar is designed for persons with no hands-on computer experience, for potential computer whizzes of all ages, backgrounds, and educational levels. In fact, one purpose of the workshop is to dispel the common notion about computers, expressed by a New York computer mogul: "If you were born before 1965, boy, you're going to be out of it." ("Here Come the Microkids," Time, May 3, 1982.) If anything, the evidence is to the contrary; it appears that most people are quick computer learners, depending on their goals and intentions. The leaders wish to show that far from being miraculous, magical, or demonic, home computers are simply a valuable tool for creating and producing with greater ease and efficiency.

Bring a current project to work with: a letter, journal, chapter of your book, or dissertation. Bring your partner and learn the "intimacies of software" together. Most of all, bring an open mind and a willingness to learn something new. Come prepared to dissipate stress related to your written and organizational work—as well as to your attitude toward computers. By registering 30 days in advance, you can be assured of the use of a portable Osborne computer throughout the workshop. $190

Week of January 9–14

A Week with Peter Caddy: The Findhorn Experience

This workshop will explore the Findhorn spirit, the spirit of cooperating with God, nature, and man. The stress will be on what is right with you and the universe. Participants will explore the example of the founding and development of Findhorn, and use meditation and discussion to create a community of consciousness for the week. $390

Rhythmic Pattern of the Tao

Chungliang Al Huang & Staff

"Weaving philosophy, poetry, mythology, quantum physics, t'ai chi dancing, music of J.S. Bach and all that jazz and laughter for an affirmation of the transparent transcendence in everyday living." $390

Work Choices, Life Choices

John Caple

"Work and love," Freud said, "are the basic requirements of human existence." In this workshop participants will explore the choices they make

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

about work and the congruence of these decisions with their life directions. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use art, body work, gestalt processes, and video feedback to seek answers and consider life decisions.

This week is for career changers, potential career changers, re-entry persons, and those who influence others in career choice. Some time will be available for individual work/life problems during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs. $390

Weekend of January 14–16

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies

Paul Horn & Chunghang Al Huang

Paul and Chunghang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, and China experiences.

Recommended reading and listening: Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Huang; Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon), Watts; Paul Horn's albums: Inside, Nexus, and Dream Machine. $210

Spiritual Authority vs. Spiritual Tyranny: Are Standards Possible?

Dick Anthony & Claudio Naranjo

Human growth sometimes involves the transcendence of conventional morality and invariant rules of conduct. For that reason, charismatic guru-therapists are not always held to traditional professional or moral standards. When does such freedom become license? Complaints of violence, sexual and financial exploitation, narcissistic power-tripping, spiritual tyranny have become commonplace in recent years. Sophistication is no guarantee of protection. Knowledgeable practitioners have themselves become trapped in grandiose group delusions. Leaders are sometimes as vulnerable as followers in this regard. Are guidelines possible for avoiding such difficulties of the path? In the Orient the authority of a religious teacher usually exists within a tradition or lineage which sets limits to the possibility of spiritual fraud. Can we establish such a critical tradition of religious literacy here? The workshop leaders will share their own experiences from a variety of contemporary religious/therapeutic settings, discussing these questions. Is there a valid distinction between the mystical teacher and the transpersonally-oriented therapist? Can we formulate rough standards of accountability for either the guru or therapist with respect to sexual and financial conduct, control over followers' or clients' lives, limitation of violence, level of training, quality of performance? $190

Week of January 16–21

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies

Paul Horn & Chunghang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 14-16. $420

The Turning Point: Crisis and Transformation in Science and Society

Fritjof Capra

This workshop will offer the opportunity of an in-depth exploration of the paradigm shift that is going to dominate this decade—a shift from a fragmented, mechanistic world view to an ecological vision of reality which is spiritual in its ultimate essence. The discussions will include the fields of physics, biology, systems theory, health care, economics, ecology, and politics. There will be ample time for relaxed, informal exchanges of ideas. Contacts will also be made with other Esalen leaders to facilitate experiential approaches to the new vision of reality. $390

Weekend of January 21–23

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of "holonomic integration," developed by the workshop leaders, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the entire spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be in the roles of experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $190

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Deane Juhan & Vicki Topp

This seminar is designed for persons who have had some experience in giving massage. Through demonstrations and practice sessions, participants will learn how to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of their massage skills and have the opportunity to add fresh approaches to their work. The intent is to help participants make deeper and more sensitive contact, and to heighten their awareness of the responses they are creating. $190

Fairy Tales: The Enduring Stories

Gioia Timpanelli

This seminar includes a performance of fairy tales and a dialogue on the significance of fairy tales in modern life. These ancient, enduring stories, like dreams, deal with vivid, universally understood images of people and events inseparably linked. Possible topics for discussion: the fairy tale as journey literature; the hero and heroine; the dark side or place of failure; the ultimate success; the witch; the giant. The stories told in the Friday evening performance will be used in the discussions on the following days. $190

The Two-Career Couple

Ayala Pines

With a growing number of women choosing a career as an integral part of their adult life, couples are increasingly faced with the challenges involved in balancing two careers and a home.

When both partners are involved in a full time career about which they care deeply, they have to deal with the inherent conflict between the pull of the career and the pull of the relationship about which they care equally deeply. The tight line between career and intimacy often includes such issues as: sharing of household chores; changing sex role stereotypes; time; money; burnout; jealousy; power.

The weekend workshop is intended for two-career couples interested in exploring these and similar issues, and who are committed to increasing intimacy, sharing, and growth in their relationship. $190

Week of January 23–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."—M. C. Richards, Centering.

Stress related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf® movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $390

A Course in Miracles

Frances Vaughan & Roger Walsh

A Course In Miracles is a practical and theoretical self-study course for personal transformation. It is a spiritual teaching, but it is not a religion. It offers a universal teaching on the nature of self and the role of perception in shaping experience. It emphasizes self-knowledge, healing, and removing obstacles to the awareness of love in relationships. At one level, the Course consists of a text which discusses theoretical and practical concepts, a workbook for students containing 365 daily lessons for putting the concepts into action, and a manual for teachers. The Course emphasizes experience rather than theory and provides practical instructions for spiritual development, especially through relationships.

This workshop will discuss the basic psychological principles of the Course, and the methods for putting them into practice in everyday life. It is open to anyone interested in the Course, but is particularly appropriate for those in the helping professions interested in using this form of self-directed transpersonal process. $390

January 23–30: A Seven Day Workshop

Shamanic Healing, Journeying, and the Afterlife Experience: Basic and Intermediate Shamanic Practice

Michael Harner, assisted by Sandra Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and acting on that learning, especially for well-being and healing. In this experiential workshop the participants will practice the methods of the shaman (a type of medicine man or woman), to see and to activate power to resist illness and maintain personal health. With the aid of traditional sonic-driving and dancing methods, the group will engage in archetypal exercises and rituals practiced by North and South American Indian shamans to awaken dormant human capabilities and forgotten connections with the powers of nature. Training will include shamanic journeys to both the Lower- and Upperworlds for knowledge and power, work with animal and plant powers, divination, clairvoyance, and shamanic methods of healing, including the extraction of spiritual pain and illness. There will be an introduction to the Ghost Dance method and to shamanic ways of exploring the afterlife experience. Participants will be taught shamanic methods of helping the terminally ill and their families, and the work of the shaman as psychopomp or conductor of souls.

This rare seven day workshop is both for beginners and for those who have previously taken a workshop with Michael Harner.

It is recommended that participants read beforehand Michael Harner's book, The Way of the Shaman: a Guide to Power and Healing (Bantam; also Harper & Row), and bring a notebook and pen. They are also invited to bring drums and rattles. $580

Weekend of January 28–30

Hall of Mirrors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

"Black and white have the middle master of transparency."—The NINE

In this workshop you will not just step into your own reflection, you will step into the fragments of every reflection you have ever lived, and thereby learn choice.

"The mystic steps into the revolving door of choice and realizes that he or she is not an apparition of the glass, but a glass for the apparition."—The NINE

Some of the finest teachers of the New Age made themselves available for this workshop—some traveling from as far afield as Sirius B.

"A lie is just a fumble of the imagination."—The NINE $190

Re-printing: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Ericksonian), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in or opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $190

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods. $190 per participant

Medical Self-Care: New Directions in Patient Education

David Sobel

A new strategy is needed to address current health problems—one which acknowledges the critical importance of individual lifestyle and behavior and equips people to become active agents in their own health care. Lay people and self-help groups are increasingly being recognized as the primary resource in the health care system. Health professionals are entering into partnerships with patients in which traditionally passive patients are encouraged to take an active, responsible, and effective role in their health care. This course will explore the importance of lay people in self-diagnosis, self-treatment, and health promotion. The emphasis will be on how health professionals can learn practical ways to teach self-care skills to patients. Topics will include: the role of lifestyle and individual behavior in health; self-diagnostic tests and skills; self-treatment strategies; self-help and mutual aid groups; use of the media to promote public health education; restructuring periodic health examinations; and how to overcome barriers to effective self-care. The course is intended to assist health professionals gain understanding and skills in self-care education. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

Week of January 30–February 4

Five Day Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Brita Ostrom

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tension, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $390

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $390

Experiencing Archetypes

Jessica Britt & Howard Levene

God/goddess, eros, logos, masculine, feminine, shadow, spirit . . . archetypes can be understood as essential forms, metaphors, and behaviors which seed our deepest patterns of psychic functioning.

Through gestalt practice, dream work, Reichian breath work, and the expressive arts, the group will seek awareness and direct experience of their archetypal realms, getting in touch with individual meanings and expression.

During these five days participants will take a look at how the ways we embody our particular archetypal patterns can effect our communications, values, and daily lives. $390

Waves and Whispers: An Intensive for Beginning and Advanced Participants

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

This will be a five day exploration of cellular, fluid, and intrinsic movement. The aim is to establish an intuitive sense of all aspects of living as movement rather than movement as a separate activity. Within the human organism there exist infinitely fine levels of sensation, as direct as "ordinary" sensory experience, but far more subtle, requiring a willingness to be intimate with currently unknown activities within. There will be exploration of movement through the body, through sound, through different ways of breathing, and through communication. The ability to participate deeply in these ways can enhance understanding of healing, of creativity, and what it means to experience ourselves biologically. Film documentaries will be shown which demonstrate how a sense of "bio-movement" can help healing processes. $390

The Human Potential Goes to College: The Antioch Holistic Studies Program

Will Schutz, Don Johnson, Marilyn Kriegel, Thompson Barton & Judi Bell

Where does the human potential lead? Thousands of people have been through dozens of workshops and wonder what to do next. One direction is to use the learning of the human potential movement to influence the establishment. As Capra has pointed out in The Turning Point, what is needed for social effectiveness is a change in perception, an evolution from a mechanistic paradigm to a holistic one. An obvious place to begin influencing social institutions is education. Four years ago, some of the human potential theory and methods were integrated with the best of traditional education into a masters degree program at Antioch University West in San Francisco. The holistic studies program introduced both method and content into traditional education. In content, our aim was to present an integrated program rather than an eclectic one, that is, to interrelate the various aspects of a person—intellectual, physical, spiritual, emotional, aesthetic, and social—rather than simply to deal with each aspect in a separate workshop or class. Our focus was on using experiential human potential methods as the critical teaching techniques to help each student to dissolve blocks and to use themselves more fully.

During this week we shall present a sample of a week at Antioch Holism. Each aspect of the person will be experienced fully and related to the others, i.e., how does the way you dance relate to the way you think? Activities covering the various aspects of the whole person will include: running with Barton; movement, dance, and body awareness with Johnson and Bell; group process with Kriegel and Schutz; Feldenkrais with Schutz; and seminars and lectures with all. The seminars will include discussions of theory, education, bodymind, applications of holism to traditional knowledge and to social issues, and holism as a philosophy and a basis for social policy.

The workshop is designed especially for students, prospective students, educators, philosophers, and for those interested in where to go next with the human potential movement. For further information about this workshop write Esalen Program, Holistic Studies, Antioch University, 650 Pine, San Francisco, CA 94108. $390

Weekend of February 4–6

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $190

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Anne and Jim Armstrong

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $190

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Saul-Paul Sirag

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation. $190

Week of February 6–11

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Zero Balancing: Beginning-Intermediate Workshop

Fritz Smith

Zero balancing is a body-handling system focusing on the interface between body structure and energy flow. Our musculoskeletal function at this level is beneath conscious awareness, and when imbalances occur at this interface the body tends to compensate around them, rather than resolve them directly. This imbalance often leads to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and lessened potential for vibrant health.

In this program traditional anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology are reviewed: Eastern concepts of ch'i energy, its movement in the body, and the chakra systems are discussed. With this as background, the system of zero balancing is presented, including specific guidelines for evaluating and balancing the structural/energetic interface in the body. This workshop is both didactic and experiential, with the main emphasis on teaching the participants new skills in body handling.

This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification. C. E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

The Wisdom of the Body

Peter Levine

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes.

We try to break out of these citadels, often with intense, even violent force. This can help to restore some sense of feeling, bringing us "out of our heads" and more into our bodies. These emotional explosions can, however, become habitual, even mechanical, ways of releasing tension. In this workshop we will explore other avenues toward re-discovering deep softer feelings, pleasure, and self-esteem. So, rather than storming our citadels, we will look at softening the body armor; at allowing the body to express itself in its own language within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $390

Open Seat

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes, "The concept of 'open seat' is an open space into which people may enter in order to work through their resistances, express their feelings, and reorder their way of being in the world. As a gestalt facilitator I help people find ways of healing themselves by combining the principles of gestalt with concepts of ritual and theater. I assist people in working with their subconscious material, such as dreams and fantasies, in order to augment their ways of living and dealing with day to day problems. I encourage people to become more expressive in all ways: in their personal lives; in their communities; and in the political situations to which they feel committed. I can help people develop a clear sense of responsibility, not only for their own life process, but also for the world." $390

Weekend of February 11–13

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Being close yet also free to grow individually is a most important theme in any intimate relationship. This weekend will be tailored to what each participant brings, and will provide structured experiences designed to enhance communication, help resolve conflict, raise self-esteem, and promote fun. Limited to ten couples. $190 per participant

Kathy Thornod

Rabbis David Zeller and Schlomo Carlbach perform as part of the Wednesday evening program series.

Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop

Fritz Smith

This workshop is for people who have completed at least one introductory zero balancing program. Following a review of basic concepts, time will be spent on answering specific questions and giving individual instruction as needed. New work will focus on exploring the direct perception and assessment of energy currents in the body, refinement of evaluating and balancing the foundation joints, and the discussion of nonfoundation joints, including the small joints of the body. Theory will be clarified by demonstration and individual practice, using each other as models.

This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification. $190

Russian Roulette: The Superpower Game

Arthur Cox

Arthur Cox is one of the world's most foremost authorities on nuclear armaments. In his book Russian Roulette: The Superpower Game (Time Books, 1982), Cox describes the terrifying possibility of accidental nuclear war by computer error, and shows how in a recent 18 month period, there were 3703 false alarms on the early warning system of the North American Air Defense Command. Computer error was the cause of many of these alarms, some so serious that the U.S. Strategic Air Command and nuclear submarines were alerted, as were ICBM launch centers and the president's command center plane at Andrew's Air Force Base. The danger grows daily; the risk is annihilation.

In this seminar, Cox will show that there is no such thing as "politically intelligent" employment of strategic nuclear weapons. "At this stage in history," Cox has said, "it is recklessly irresponsible to take the risk of trying to build the weapons necessary to destroy the Soviet nuclear arsenal and at the same time attempt to ensure our political-social survival and recovery. This is suicidal fantasy. This is Russian Roulette."

Cox will offer a comprehensive, pragmatic strategy to avoid nuclear holocaust, where U.S.-Soviet negotiations are key. The weekend provides an opportunity for participants to join with Cox to brainstorm creative political actions to avoid nuclear war by governments and by people, both in the U.S. and abroad. Together we can and must find the way to a stable, peaceful world. $190

Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care

Tom Ferguson

About 70% of illness care—and an even higher percentage of preventive care—is self-provided, yet this most important part of our health care system is largely ignored by many health care professionals.

This workshop will provide an overview of the field of self-care. Topics will include the present extent of self- care, what people can learn to do for themselves, self-care classes, self-diagnostic tests, self-help groups, social support systems, health promotion, self-care in the schools, the literature of self-care, the effectiveness and safety of self-care, self-care in the clinic, dealing with sophisticated medical consumers, the developing technology of self-care, special problems health professionals have in taking care of themselves, and how this is related to care of others. Participants will have an opportunity to meet others with similar interests and to share their personal and professional experiences in self-care. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

Week of February 13–18

New Approaches to Birth, Sex, and Death

Christina & Stanislav Grof

In this workshop, we will explore the implications of modern consciousness research for the understanding of the three basic aspects of existence—birth, sex, and death—and their mutual interrelations. We will focus on such issues as the relevance of the birth trauma for psychiatry and psychotherapy, new understanding of emotional, sexual, and psychosomatic disorders, the kundalini syndrome, new revolutionary approaches to self-exploration and healing, and constructive handling of spiritual crises. The format of the workshop combines discussion with deep personal experience and participants will have the opportunity to explore personally their experiences and feelings in the above three areas. We will use the method of "holonomic integration," which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. $390

The Therapeutic Approaches of Milton H. Erickson, M.D.

Jane Parsons

This is a course designed for medical and psychiatric clinicians who work in hospitals. Dr. Erickson's approaches are of particular value because of his exquisite understanding of the use of verbal and nonverbal communication to affect physiological changes. A clinician who knows how to talk to a patient's unconscious mind, which Erickson defines as a rich storehouse of learning potential, can call upon abilities and experiences unique to that patient and can evoke hitherto unrecognized strengths and "patterns of happiness." These patterns can come alive even in a hospital bed and can have powerful therapeutic effects.

This course will teach clinicians to discover and develop their own unique resources that will enhance and refine their therapeutic methods and that will enable them to sharpen their sensory skills so that they can understand and utilize minimal nonverbal responses.

Dr. Erickson's understanding of how the mind works will be explored didactically and experientially. We will watch his training sessions on video, and will integrate these with practical exercises that gradually build up technical skills. Clinicians will be invited to present cases for discussion.

C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Citizenship in the Solar Age: Thinking Globally, Acting Locally

Hazel Henderson

Hazel Henderson writes: "An integral aspect of personal growth and development is healthy interaction within groups. As we resolve internal fears and conflicts and achieve a greater sense of empowerment, it becomes natural to seek further challenge and wider social interaction. Abraham Maslow identified these higher, growth-oriented needs as including the desire for social harmony, justice, order, and beauty in our communities and environment. We know that we have the power to heal our own bodies and minds, and similarly, we know how to heal our fragmented social relationships. And when we honor this knowledge, action for social change can be healing and integrative, rather than "need-oriented" activism which projects one's inner conflicts onto issues and ends up in divisiveness or coercive organizing.

"This workshop explores the interface between personal growth and holistic social action. I am interested in addressing theoretical, strategic, spiritual, and practical ways of becoming effective planetary citizens. There are no hard formulas for this—we will all be learners together. Some of the themes of great interest to me are: personal growth as a prerequisite to healthy social change, and social action as a prerequisite to further personal growth; the emergence of transformational paradigms in science, literature, art, and music which suggest greater planetary awareness and global networking; the vital new role of non-governmental organizations; learning to de-mystify economics (economics as politics in disguise); the mass media as the nervous system of the body politic (gaining media access for citizens groups and community issues, and evaluating various media as channels for social renewal); and identifying the winning coalitions for the new societies of the Solar Age.

"The world needs truly mindful, responsible, social-change activism and leadership as never before, just as developing self-actualizers need the risk-taking and challenge of relating to ever-more complex patterns of social, ecological and planetary interdependence. I am interested in teaching and learning how to accept the challenge of helping to heal our divisive, competitive, nationalistic, industrial societies (East and West); how to move beyond their narrow technological/rationalism and militaristic posturing; and how to help foster viable alternative futures which can operate peacefully and fairly on our inter-connected planet."

Recommended reading: The Politics of the Solar Age: Alternatives To Economics, Hazel Henderson, (Doubleday, Anchor paperback N.Y.); The Aquarian Conspiracy, Marilyn Ferguson, (Tarcher); Person/Planet, Theodore Roszak, (Doubleday); New Age Politics, Mark Satin, (Delta); The Turning Point, Fritjof Capra, (Simon & Schuster); The Politics of Women's Spirituality, Charlene Spretnak, (Doublelday); Mega-Trends: Ten New Directions that are Transforming our Lives, John Naisbett, (Warner Communications, N.Y.) $390

Weekend of February 18–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Inner Attunement for the People Professions

Daniel Goleman & Tara Bennett-Goleman

A key to effective work with people is focused awareness, the essence of empathy. A recent neurological model of attention suggests that focused awareness can also act as a stress antidote and make "flow"—the experience of peak performance—more likely in working with people.

This workshop aims to heighten empathy by drawing on Asian methods for sharpening awareness. It is particularly suited for those who work with others and want a buffer from burnout, on the one hand, and to cultivate their interpersonal effectiveness, on the other. We will use the "mindful arts"— including Japanese tea ceremony and flower arranging, meditation, and meditative movement—to focus awareness. Blending these with face-to-face and group activities will move mindfulness into amplifying empathy. $190

The Soviet Union Today: Clichés or Questions

Vera Dunham

Vera writes, "Truth—whatever that means—about the Soviet Union today is obscured by ignorance, indifference, and preconceived notions in the West. It is no less distorted by dogmatic cliches and cant endemic to the official Soviet propaganda machinery.

"This seminar will explore several important social issues as they are revealed in Soviet literature, and discuss them in a special way, namely, by pointing out what we do not know about them as outsiders. What I propose to do, therefore, is to identify some pertinent questions about Soviet life without fretting about neatly packaged answers. Awareness of uncertainties and problems of perception is mandatory for objectivity. One should know what one does not know. Examples: Has social stratification been increasingly more divisive? What is Soviet ethnic pluralism? Is there social mobility? Is the family still strong? Is the Soviet future what it used to be?" $190

Week of February 20–25

Five Day Massage Intensive

Peggy Morrison Horan & George King

For workshop description see January 30-Febuary 4. $390

Freeing the Natural Voice

Kristin Linklater

The workshop will introduce exercises designed to relieve the vocal musculature from habitual patterns of tension and inhibition. The potential of the human voice to express emotion freely and thoughts accurately will be explored through specific relaxation and awareness. Exercises will include work on the spine, breathing, resonance, throat relaxation, range, and articulation. We will use imaging, emotional expression, physical alignment, and written and spontaneous poetry speaking to rediscover the delights of the human voice. $390

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $390

Innerstanding

Daniel Bianchetta

This workshop will focus on the integration of body, mind, and spirit through intuitive and energy awareness, massage, meditation, and movement. Emphasis will be on practical and gentle ways of remembering and recontacting the wisdom, compassion, and sensitivity within us. $390

Weekend of February 25–27

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Deane Juhan & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see January 21-23. $190

Psychology and Physiology of Breathing for Health Professionals

Peter Levine

Breathing holds a unique position in the total economy of the organism. It is a middle ground between voluntary (neocortical) and involuntary (autonomic) functions. Thus, the breath reflects both conscious and unconscious processes. Breath is the key to understanding the dynamics of anxiety and depression and underlies various approaches facilitating stress reduction and muscular relaxation. Pronounced alterations of breathing, relating to psychic events, have been identified in clinical practice. For example, syndromes of hyper- and hypo-ventilation have had sporadic study in medicine and psychiatry. In this workshop, breathing will be looked at generally, as a psychophysiological pivot in stress and emotion. The development of respiration from its perinatal roots to adult functions will be traced. The workshop will be experiential as well as didactic. Case material will be discussed in clinical applications of breathing to psychosomatic medicine and perinatal stress prevention. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

Movement and Dance for Couples

Anna Halprin & Daria Halprin-Khalighi

Maintaining an open and creative channel of communication within the couple is essential to the growth, health, and endurance of the relationship. In order to do this it is necessary to make a commitment to and set aside time for discovering and rediscovering creative resources with your partner.

In this weekend you will have an opportunity to explore the creative connection in your couple relationship through movement and dance, kinetic drawing, and gestalt writing. It will be a time for focusing on mutual growth and shared experience, and for enlivening and empowering the couple relationship in ways that can be applied to daily life.

$190 per participant.

The World of the California Indians

Malcolm Margolin

A look into California Indian ways of thinking and living—into how one might function in a world in which rocks, trees, rivers, and mountains are considered as alive, intelligent, and sometimes more powerful than people, in a society in which one might never meet a stranger or know more than a few hundred people. Topics will include the tremendous variety of native people in California (500 tribes, over 120 different languages), food gathering and preparation, childrearing, shamanism, sense of place, arts and crafts, attitudes toward nature and death, and the extent to which modern Native Californians have been able to keep the old ways alive. $190

Week of February 27–March 4

Esalen Staff Week

We will have no public programs during this period.

Weekend of March 4–6

A Special Weekend at Esalen

Except for two introductory workshops, we have set aside this weekend for all those Esalen friends who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and contact with the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual, and we will have Big Sur musicians and dancers as part of the weekend's activities. $120

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Week of March 6–11

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see January 23-28. $390

Experiencing your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $390

Week of March 6–25

Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1200

Weekend of March 11–13

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

For workshop description see February 4-6. $190

A Video Workshop for Couples

Wendy Oser & Tom Taussig

This workshop makes extensive use of video feedback to help you observe yourself, your mate, and your relationship from a new point of view. There will be opportunities to see yourselves individually and as couples through video playback; through direct video feedback you can engage with yourself and each other in original, spontaneous ways. You can explore deeply or lightly your response to your relationship with regard to image, attitude, and inner wisdom.

In becoming aware of some of the values and beliefs that shape your experience, you may also make new choices and renew commitments. $190

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feelings of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $190

Professional Responsibility Training: Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement

Jerry Green

This workshop for health practitioners explores the basic elements of contract as they apply to role clarification in health care relationships. Participants examine the process of patient/client planning for clarifying goals, expectations, and complementary responsibilities to improve clinical efficacy and minimize the risk of malpractice or licensing problems. A model for defining the responsibilities of each party will be developed based upon the scientific and philosophical objectives of medicine and holistic health practice. Experiential role playing will assist participants to develop skills for initiating patient/client contracts that support their unique clinical abilities and the specific needs of individual patients or clients. The workshop will also examine how written instruments, including brochures, intake applications, forms for record keeping, correspondence, and patient/client journals, can facilitate working relationships, document their progress, and evidence the nature of the professional responsibility assumed. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

Week of March 13–18

Polarity Massage

Bill Liles & Deborah Anne Medow

The Esalen mineral baths will be the classroom for learning, exploring, and experiencing the basic concepts of the polarity system as applied to the human energy field through the medium of massage. Emphasis will be on the dynamics of living anatomy, the psyche/soma connection, polarity points and counterpoints, polarity balancing methods, and the integration of these methods with the traditional Esalen massage as it has evolved over the years. The workshop is designed for professional body workers and serious laymen who intend to incorporate these methods into their own practices. $390

The Mystical Quest

Christina & Stanislav Grof

We will explore theoretically and experientially the discoveries of modern psychology and consciousness research suggesting that the spiritual and mystical dimensions are inherent constituents of the human personality. Using a combination of controlled breathing, evocative music, focused body work, mandala drawing, and slide shows, participants will have the opportunity to connect with transpersonal levels of their psyche. Special attention will be paid to the promises and pitfalls of the mystical quest. $390

The Lover's Journey: A Quest for the Inner Man, the Inner Woman

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes, "My study of Carl Jung's Psychology of the Transference stimulated me to look into the concept of the alchemical marriage as a process of owning and uniting the various archetypal aspects of ourselves. By exploring my own polarities, I saw how they affect the organization of my personality. By becoming aware of four aspects of myself, the negative and positive man, and the negative and positive woman, I discovered when I am being authentic with others and when I am not. All four must live together within me if I am to experience my wholeness.

"Consequently, I created a process in which people, by developing these roles, can discover how they liberate or how they confuse relationship. By playing out these roles and having fun with them, they become options rather than determinations.

"At the climax of this workshop, participants design and act out a ritual of joining together, a wedding celebration whereby they create the possibility of these four aspects actually uniting within themselves, awakening the seed of individuation."

Kathy Thurmad

Fritz Smith conducts a demonstration during his Zero Balancing workshop.

Weekend of March 18–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Peak Athletic Performance

Guy Benjamin & George Pegelow

How do top athletes achieve high-level performance and what factors interfere with such achievement? How can you transcend those barriers which seem to limit your ability to sink that critical putt, run that extra mile, or win that difficult match point?

This workshop will explore some of the factors which limit us in our efforts to achieve high-level athletic performance. After examining elements in our culture which distort our self-perception, participants will practice methods of relaxation, visualization, concentration, and energy awareness which can help them overcome these limiting factors.

Workshop leaders will discuss and demonstrate application of the various methods in their own disciplines. $190

Burnout: Causes and Cures

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Fines

This workshop is designed for people who give service to others and who are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and creativity of their relationships with clients and colleagues. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

Letting Go/Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

This is a weekend of intense body work, structured for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which is reflected in the body as armor, tension, stress, and a lack of spontaneity. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released and more positive feelings of joy, love, trust, and pleasure can be experienced more fully.

A most important feature of the workshop is the individual Radix-Reichian intensive, done in a safe, supportive environment. By also using dreamwork, hypnosis, chiropractic, bioenergetics, massage, dance, and group interaction as one lets go—moves on, a new capacity for living can emerge. $190

Week of March 20–25

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see January30-February 4. $390

Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Celebrating with Chungliang's new book, "offering Chinese 'dim sum' (a light touch of heart) profundities, tai ji dancing (quantum hop), laughter, poetry and I Ching in Chinese brush calligraphy, music of J. S. Bach and JAZZ-Z-Z-ZEN and TAO and OZ of living."

Recommended reading: by Huang/Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Living Tao (Celestial Arts), Tao: The Watercourse Way/with Watts (Pantheon), Watts. $390

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within.

Some of the areas to be touched upon this week include: recognizing and learning to release tensions which lock emotions in the body; ways of contacting and allowing unexpressed sadness and pain, to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; practices for expressing and releasing anger constructively, which may open the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; learning about the nature of fear—moving toward greater trust of self and others. Paying special attention to the mental processes that shape the emotional and physical body, participants will be shown ways to trust their body's responsiveness and inner direction.

This workshop will utilize Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, vision improvement, massage, dance, meditation, and various other bodymind approaches. $390

Weekend of March 25–27

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see January 21-23. $190

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see January 28-30. $190 per participant

Weekend Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Brita Ostrom

In this introductory seminar, participants will learn to give a competent full-body massage. The emphasis will be on developing a soothing and penetrating contact, on sustaining that contact to create a relaxing and integrating experience, and on centering their own physical and mental energies while they work. The intent of the seminar is to introduce massage as a practical approach to developing greater sensory awareness and bringing relief from stress. $190

Dancing Cello Meets the Tao of Bach: JAZZZEN!

Chungliang Al Huang & David Darling

"J. S. Bach, Jazz and Improvisation in tai ji movement and joyous sound. Join the DANCE!"

Recommended listening: David Darling Solo and Cycles, David Darling, ECM Records. $190

Week of March 27–April 1

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Your Own Myth-Body to Live By!

Joseph Campbell & Chungliang Al Huang

"We will explore and recreate ancient myths in our daily lives—in our thoughts and in our bodies—as we integrate intellect and movement into one harmonious living practice."

Recommended readings: by Campbell—Myths to Live By (Bantam), The Flight of the Wild Gander (Gateway), The Complete Grimm Fairytales (Pantheon); by Huang—Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Living Tao (Celestial Arts), Tao: The Watercourse Way (with Watts, Pantheon). $410

Effecting Change: The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

This is a week for recognizing the relationship between personal growth/change and economic/environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern for your individual energy system to provide more stable contact with the difficulties of the emerging decade.

The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the system's movement towards maturity is the development of the consistency of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character, strong emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of strength development leads each of us to develop compensations in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some of the obvious are psychosomatic problems, blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, things is often a major compensation for the strength that allows us the experience of self, people, and things.

Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations, trusting self and the group process enough to experiment with mobilizing more energy. This means rendering more alive the strength of the physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result is clarity and stability and a deeper awareness of the balance of self as we contact the very real issues of the coming decade. For further information, read the April 1-3 workshop description. $390

Weekend of April 1–3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Mythology in Twentieth Century Literature and Art: James Joyce and Pablo Picasso

Joseph Campbell

This will be a three day seminar, commencing Friday evening with a general introduction and discussion of A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man; spending Saturday morning and afternoon with Ulysses; giving Saturday evening to a slide presentation of the major works of Picasso; and concluding Sunday morning with Finnegans Wake. $190

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

The human being's movement toward a stable and balanced organism undergoes many adjustments in direct proportion to his/her responses to parental and environmental messages. The result is the formulation of stratified patterns of visible physiology and behavior. These join to form that which is usually called personality, one's individual energy system. Two common examples of energy system responses to life stress are those personalities who collapse under stress and those who control. There are many more. This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit intrapersonal and interpersonal contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. For additional information read the January 2-7 description. $190

Awakening the Healer Within: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Every human being is a potential channel for healing energy. Negative conditioning of our emotions, or unconscious beliefs and behavior, combined with environmental factors such as pollution, can give birth to dissociated parts of self which act as impediments to our natural healing abilities. Studies have shown the reality of psychic awareness, in which a person cannot only better understand his/her own functioning, but actually heal and psychically ward off illness.

This workshop will provide a didactic and experiential model for participants to gain a perspective on psychic healing, and the basic skills necessary to develop healing abilities in themselves. Channeling of energies will be taught, along with methods of dissolving impediments to the healing process. $190

Week of April 3–8

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

The Evolution of Intelligence: A "How To" Seminar

Timothy Leary & Friends

Leary says, "It is useful and amusing to accept two premises: 1.) that few human beings use more than .000,001 (one millionth) of their available brain-potential; most of us are, in fact, robots programmed by our brains, and 2.) that once an individual learns how to program the brain, then the probabilities of accelerated personal growth are limitless.

"This seminar will consider 24 levels/types of intelligence, 24 stages of neuro-technology through which a human being can develop. Participants will be encouraged to take and analyze newly devised test-questionnaires which will allow assessment of their lives in terms of intelligence increase, from infancy and childhood to adolescence and beyond; and to write detailed life programs for multiplying intelligence in each of the 24 dimensions.

"Evolutionary competence in the following vectors will be studied: biological intelligence; emotional intelligence; mental-intellectual intelligence; social intelligence; sensory-erotic-aesthetic intelligence; brain-computer intelligence; genetic intelligence; and metaphysiological (out-of-body) intelligence." $390

April 3–29

Evolution of Consciousness Perspectives of Inner and Outer Space Research

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1600

Weekend of April 8–10

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Massage for Families

Peggy Morrison Horan & Deborah Anne Medow

A fulfilling way for families to spend time together is to share in the gift of massage. This weekend is a time for families to become closer by sharing the experience of learning massage. Daytime sessions will be held at the hot baths. Families with children over five years of age are welcome. Special family rates available on request.

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $190

Week of April 10–15

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes, "Again and again, in my work with people, I have seen the suffering and confusion caused by our society's lack of significant rites of passage. Without shamans or ritual masters to guide them, modern women and men must find their own lonely and usually traumatic paths from one stage of life to another—whether it be a child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus, the adolescent's awkward approach to puberty, marriage or the ending of a marriage, or a change of career. Every such change requires a movement from one level of being to another.

"Seeing this need, I created a rite of passage universal enough to allow people to discover the pattern of change, whatever that change might be. That pattern is exemplified in the myth of the hero. The new stage of life that is to be reached calls forth a heroic action on the part of the person taking the journey. At the same time, as soon as a new goal begins to emerge, all of the resistance to that goal emerges as well. I call these two forces 'the hero' and 'the demon.' In order for the new state of being to be realized, these two forces must discover how to communicate with each other and how to work together. The old forms must fall away so that the new form can emerge.

"My purpose is to give people a chance to experience a rite of passage so that they can go into the changes in their lives with a sense of joy and greater context. My hope is that through this process people will awaken to their own creative genius and enter into the drama of their lives with imagination and delight."

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero With a Thousand Faces and Myths to Live By. $390

Balancing Your Body: T'ai Chi and Integrated Movement

Catherine Elber, Meigra Mixter & Jason Mixter

In an unbalanced body, chronic holding patterns arise which restrict movement, decrease available energy, and impede free expression. With time, the body becomes "fixed"; the natural resiliency becomes frozen into a limited set of predictable responses. This physical "set" limits our ability to move freely, feel deeply, and solve problems creatively.

During our five days together, you will be taught to recognize fixed patterns of structural imbalance in yourself and others. Through the use of Rolfing® Movement Integration and the gentle, powerful movements of t'ai chi chih, holding patterns can begin to dissolve, creating space for elegant and fluid movement.

Concepts of dynamic support, active lengthening, core of the body versus the sleeve, integrity in movement, and methods to maintain balance will be taught allowing you to use this information at home in practical, everyday life situations. $390

The Psyche and Soma of Health

Jessica Britt & Deborah Anne Medow

Since Freud's work with hysteria and Hans Selye's with stress, the role of the psyche on physical health is increasingly acknowledged. Conscious and unconscious mental attitudes affect the body through repressed emotional and physical energy. Life stances which initially aid and protect a person become over-developed and rigid, leading to anxiety, stress, tension, and physical illness.

During this week, the group's focus will be awareness, understanding and experiencing the psyche/soma phenomenon in relationship to health and illness, and the effects this dynamic has for the health professional in patient care. The group's emphasis will be on the relationship of breath, emotion, and physical self-care to total well-being.

Through basic instruction and practice in gestalt, Reichian breath work, massage, yoga, and meditation, participants will be facilitated in the skills of listening, sensing, contacting, and integrating the psyche/soma phenomenon into their clinical health practices. C. E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Weekend of April 15–17

Esoteric Teachings of the Western Tradition

Jay Ogilvy

The turn toward oriental mysticism is partly a turn away from a tradition of Western thought. Western philosophy seems overly preoccupied with a purely cognitive, even mathematical approach to truth. But wisdom requires more than mathematical logic . . . as many Western philosophers have known. This workshop will follow an underground stream through the Western tradition beginning with the pre-Socratic philosophers, through the Socratic irony in Plato's Dialogues, into the mixture of Gnostic and neo-Platonic traditions, and on to the esoteric teachings hidden within often ignored passages from Kant, Hegel, and Nietzsche. Intended as an introduction to an experiential, revelatory, and passionate path in Western philosophy, this workshop will also interest students acquainted only with the orthodox, academic history of our tradition. There is more in our "sacred texts" than meets the academic eye. $190

The Body and Spirituality

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

"The body is the chalice of the spirit and must be emptied before it can be filled. To strive for spiritual awakening without resolving the tensions of the body can result in disorientation. These muscular tensions, or body armorings, stand in the way of full physical and emotional expression carrying with them some unfinished experience of the past or expectation of the future."—Paul Rebillot.

"People often choose spirituality to avoid dealing with their own cultural and personal inhibitions, becoming 'holy' rather than 'true to their own individual paths.' With gentle encouragement to expose these armorings, people develop a more honest perception of themselves."—Stanford Eugene Cates.

"In this weekend we will encourage participants to discover the stresses held in their bodies and explore what the issues are that these tensions represent.

"We will use gestalt process, Reichian breathing, meditation, and chanting to create a safe place together for the expression of what has been depressed and for the integration of what has been inhibited and fragmented." $190

Hypnosis and Parapsychology

Lee Pulos

All participants will be taught to experience beginning and advanced methods of self-hypnosis. There will be a number of opportunities throughout the workshop to practice hypnosis for personal habit changes and to learn how to use hypnotic uncovering practices such as automatic writing and ideo-motor questioning. In addition to brief lecturettes explaining and demystifying hypnosis, the workshop will include exploratory use of hypnosis as a bridge to other realities. Trance states for opening up psychic and telepathic channels will be experienced and these will lead into turning one's visions inward to the possibility of multiple dimensions and existences. A feature of the workshop will be to teach how to use hypnosis for health maintenance. $190

The Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend Near Big Sur

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $175

Week of April 17–22

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see February 20-25. $390

Experiencing Astrology

Robert Hand

The basis of astrological symbols lies within the psyche, and every symbol in astrology can be experienced in terms of feelings and sensations. Being in touch with the symbols of astrology at this level gives one knowledge of what the horoscope means at much more than an intellectual level.

The workshop is aimed at persons who have anywhere from a minimal to an advanced level of astrological knowledge. The object of the workshop will be to get an inner experience of the symbolism of one's individual horoscope through guided meditation exercises. In these the participant will gain, through visions and fantasies, a non-intellectual knowledge of the symbolism in his or her own chart, and what it signifies.

The only requirement for this workshop is that the individual know his or her own birthdate, and, if at all possible, time and place as well. Each individual will be working with his or her own horoscope as well as sharing the horoscopes of others.

When applying, please send the office your birth date, and time and place, if possible, well in advance of the workshop dates, so that your chart may be cast before the workshop. $390

The Foundations of Body Image

Andrea & Deane Juhan

This is a course for the improvement of your relationship with the body—your own and those you contact personally and professionally. Each major area of the body will be studied and experienced in turn. The sessions allotted for each area will include: slides and discussion to familiarize the group with the basic anatomical structures; specific stretches and exercises to isolate the muscles and joints in question; movement, dance, and visualization to explore the psychological dimensions of each body part; instruction in massage methods designed to locate and alleviate common problems.

The intent is to provide enough concrete experience for each participant to feel a change for the better in self image; to provide enough discussion to understand how the improvements occurred and how they may be sustained; and, particularly, to help you contact your images of your physical self—the body you do have, the body you think you have, and the body you could have. $390

Weekend of April 22–24

Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care

Tom Ferguson & Joe Graedon

For workshop description see February 11-13. $190

A New Science of Life

Rupert Sheldrake

The hypothesis of formative causation may provide the basis for a new scientific paradigm which goes far beyond the currently predominant mechanistic theory of life. The idea that the form and behavior of living organisms are shaped by morphogenetic fields, themselves molded by the form and behavior of past similar organisms, leads to a new interpretation of heredity and the evolutionary process. Memories need no longer be thought of as somehow stored inside the brain; they may depend on direct connections with the organism's own past due to morphic resonance, and tuning in to the experience of other members of the species may give rise to a pooled or collective memory. In this workshop some of the implications of formative causation for biology, psychology, parapsychology, and philosophy will be explored and discussed.

Recommended reading: A New Science of Life by Rupert Sheldrake (J. P. Tarcher). $190

The Moving Center

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

An American shamanic ritual using music, poetry, sacred dance, and ritual theater experiences to mirror the mind, catalyze the heart, and open the body as a channel for creative energies. Through collective rituals participants will explore individual dreams and visions and learn to share differences. $190

Week of April 24–29

How to Heal Yourself: Tools for Optimum Heath

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to increase their level of awareness and assume responsibility for their own health management. The emphasis will be on nutrition, and learning what to eat in order to create vitality, energy, and health in the body. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live foods will be presented. Cooking classes will provide practical information on healthy food preparation. Group members will be instructed in the use of guided imagery to support the healing process. An exercise/flexibility program will be developed for each individual. The information presented will then be integrated into a personalized health plan for each participant to work with at home. $390

Suggested reading: The Best Chance Diet by Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D., F.A.C.C.; published by Humanics Limited, Atlanta, Ga.

Steve Beck

Unity

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

This is a five-day shamanic healing ritual designed to inspire and channel the religious, sexual, and creative aspects of life energy into unity and expression. Through music, sacred dance, poetry, and ritual theater processes, participants will explore and present their unique experiences of life's waves, rhythms, and cycles. The Moving Center tools are designed to release gifts, talents, and potentials. $390

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $390

Weekend of April 29–May 1

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Experiencing your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see March 6-11. $190

Gestalt - Movement

Dianne Miller-Lesty

What the mind can perceive the body can conceive.

Your thoughts and feelings live in your physical body. Your body reflects your thought processes, images, and feelings. We manifest with our bodies.

We repeat certain movements and actions daily. These same patterns of movement are recognizable in our relationships. Simply, we reflect our outer and inner environment physically.

This workshop will focus on exploring the physical awareness and range of movement that we exhibit in daily life employing a blend of Halprin-Feldenkrais methods, massage, and dance, combined with gestalt, visualization, and hypnosis and auto-suggestion. With awareness, release, and flexibility in our thoughts and feelings we can learn to develop less stressful ways of moving. $190

Kathy Thormod

Creativity and The Feminine

Susan Griffin

Susan Griffin presents a new way of looking at creativity. Working from the theories in her books (Woman and Nature: The Roaring Inside Her and Pornography and Silence: Culture's Revenge Against Nature), and from her own process as a poet, essayist, and playwright, she explores how the false dichotomy between nature and culture, mind and body, the masculine and feminine, affect the creative process. Her premise is that the totalitarian repression of the arts is a political expression of the fear of nature and the feminine. She will lead participants in the workshop to discover how this repression becomes internalized. Using meditation, writing exercises and guided imagery, Susan will show how creativity is an expression of the unity of matter and spirit, the "feminine" and the "masculine" qualities of sensuality, intuition, insight, intelligence. She will guide students toward experiencing a deeper level of knowledge, a knowledge which emanates from the body and from experience, and she will help students to express this knowledge in a creative form. $190

Week of April 29–May 5

Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Jessica Britt & Steven Harper

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $375

Week of May 1–6

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Five Day Massage Intensive

George King & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see January 30-February 4. $390

Human Potential Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to educate the human potential, which means the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work.

Suitable for professionals and non-professionals alike. $390

Evolutionary Process in Action: A Week With Arthur Young & the Theory of Process Working Group

Alise Agar, Frank Barr, Michael Buchele, & John Saloma

Experience a week with Arthur Young, inventor of the Bell helicopter, author of The Reflexive Universe and Geometry of Meaning, and philosopher of consciousness and cosmology. The seminar will examine Young's theory of consciousness and cosmology as a potential New Age paradigm and frontier applications of these new ideas in such diverse fields as ancient and contemporary mythologies, religions, philosophies, and esoteric symbol systems. Of particular interest will be the application of this comprehensive paradigm in the physical and life sciences, with specific discussions and proposed solutions to such enigmas as non-locality and the photonic "quantum of action," the "mind-body" problem, the chakra-neuroendocrine interface, regeneration, schizophrenia, and altered states of consciousness. Further applications of Young's process theory include its relevance in history, politics, and social transformation. The ultimate importance of such an evolutionary vision lies in its potential to promote a viewpoint which integrates science and metaphysics, includes paranormal phenomena, and acknowledges the unique qualities of humanity and our role in the universe. Experiential components will include stimulating guest faculty in music, visual arts, and group graphics.

Recommended Reading: The Reflexive Universe, The Geometry of Meaning, Which Way Out, by Arthur M. Young. The books are available through Robert Briggs Associates, 2934 Benvenue Avenue, Berkeley, CA 94705. $390

Weekend of May 6–8

Leonard Energy Training: The State of the Art

George Leonard & the Energy Training Staff

In the world of Energy Training, problems become opportunities. Stress and pain become gifts of energy. Personal and social options are multiplied. The flow of vital energy is enhanced. Leonard Energy Training is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations. It is not physically demanding. It does not aim at emotional catharsis. Most of the training involves simple movement exercises in which the body itself becomes a learning facility. Participants will practice such things as centering, relaxing under pressure, blending, and alternative ways of being. There will also be discussions of applications to education, sports, management, relationships, social transformation, and personal growth.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse. $190

Edible Landscaping—More Food, Less Work

Robert Kourik

Beauty, recreational pleasure, and fresh, vibrant food with superior flavor can be yours with an edible landscape. This workshop is for those who want to design and maintain a low care/high yield food producing landscape.

The well planned landscape brings together self-seeding annual vegetables, herbs, native plants, ornamentals, soil improvers, and beneficial insect attractants to assist in the evolution of a biologically sustainable landscape. The model of an edible landscape is the mature, stable forest community with its biological web of interdependencies and ecological wisdom.

The goal of this workshop is to gain better insight into the design "tools" required to blend together the elements of a holistic edible landscape for your family and home. To supplement the slide shows and lectures, the workshop will tour through the beautiful ornamental and edible landscape and farm production project at Esalen. $190

A Practical Approach to Sexual Counseling

Jack Rosenberg

This course is a practical approach to sexual counseling from both a physiological and psychological point of view.

Sexual difficulties can be a symptom of what is going on in a relationship. In turn, the relationship is almost always a reflection of what is going on in each individual's psyche. The difficulty of moving from the symptom of sex, through the relationship, to the intrapsychic process is a major task of the clinician. With the use of lecture, demonstration, and group experience, the participants will be introduced to a way of working with this task from the perspective of the body. C. E. credit for doctors and nurses is available; for additional information see page 38. $190

The Transformation Project: A Progress Report

Michael Murphy & Steven Donovan

Michael Murphy's novel, Jacob Atabet, speculated that the next stage of human development would involve the power to alter the physical body at will. The Transformation Project was organized in 1976 to explore this possibility. A comparative study is being made of thirty-eight research fields (including transformational religious practice, spiritual healing, hypnosis, spontaneous remission from disease, psychical research and parapsychology, sport and physical fitness, acupuncture, psychotherapy, and creativity) to find the fundamental psychophysical processes inherent in high level human functioning, and to develop disciplines to effect such high level change. We will present results to date (with emphasis on meditation, imagery, and sport), and discuss the implications of these results for individual practice.

Recommended reading: Jacob Atabet and The Psychic Side of Sports by Michael Murphy (available through Esalen). $190

Week of May 8–13

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Energy Training and the Samurai Game

George Leonard & the Energy Training Staff with Werner Erhard

This workshop provides a rare opportunity for you to immerse yourself, under game conditions, in the life of the medieval Japanese samurai. The Samurai Game was created by George Leonard and is used in the est Six-Day Training. Est founder, Werner Erhard will be in attendance on Wednesday and Thursday and will lead the game Wednesday night. Its purpose is to make it possible for you to experience a style of governance and consciousness radically different from that of 20th century America, and to face symbolic death and rebirth. By entering this other world, you get a chance to see your own life with new eyes, and to fully comprehend the futility of conflict. During the workshop, you will receive a thorough grounding in Energy Training and will play three complete Samurai Games. Between games, you will continue to live samurai-style with your own group much of the time, and to join in creating legends, songs, poems, and a history in the spirit of bushido, the Way of the Warrior. The Samurai Game is not physically demanding, but is psychologically intense and must be played wholeheartedly.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse; Taisen Deshimaru, The Zen Way to the Martial Arts; Inazo Nitobe, Bushido, the Warrior's Code. $390

The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing for the Health Professional

Jack Downing & Murray Korngold

The "art" of healing is seldom taught as a rational discipline. We propose that empathy between care-giver and care-receiver can form the base for the "art" of healing; that conscious empathy can be developed through the faculty of intuition, and that this skill provides a matrix for joining effective healing to scientific knowledge. The health professional becomes a healer. Healing demands the deepest intent from the professonal; the balance between professionalism and personal feelings must be adjusted in order to enhance the healing process. Key to this is the willingness to sense and respond to subtle body cues, both in oneself and the patient. The course will provide lecture and practical experience on empathy development and application to clinical situations. C. E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Weekend of May 13–15

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see February 11-13. $190 per participant

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Shiffman

For workshop description see April 8-10. $190

Psyche-do: Fundamentals of Conflict Resolution in Everyday Life

Terry Dobson

Conflict is the opposition of principles, forces, or wills; resolution is the process by which we bring these opposites into agreement. Based on principles derived from the art of aikido, this workshop examines several conflicts of ordinary life—our family quarrels, our lovers' spats, our hassles with the "problem people" we encounter at work, the internal struggles we have with ourselves. It will explore ways to handle resistance and the buttons that trigger our fears and competitiveness. Through lectures, body-movement, role-playing, and individual work, participants will look for ways to gain and regain composure under fire, ways to diffuse the anger and hostility in ourselves and other people. $190

Ways to Transform Self and Society

Donald Keys

We can learn to use the creative tension between our inner life and the outer world to generate rapid growth in ourselves and constructive change in the world. At this time of earth crisis and transition, well-centered "change agents" are vitally needed. Personal transformation and transformation of society go together, but the person who takes responsibility needs to learn the methods and principles of a spiritual stance in the world.

In this workshop we will use group discussion, guided imagery and music, lecture, and meditation to experience personally and directly our inner direction as the basis for manifesting a transformed Earth.

Recommended reading: Earth at Omega: Passage to Planetization, (Brandon); Disarmament: The Human Factor (Pergamon).

$190 plus $5 for workbook

Kathy Thormod

Andre Gregory, recent workshop leader at Esalen.

May 14–23

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $575

Week of May 15–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $390

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see January 30-February 4. $390

A Festival of the Happy Martial Arts

George Leonard, Energy Training Staff & Visiting Teachers

The martial arts can have a happy face, and their principles can be applied to everyone's life, leading toward inner calm in the face of everyday problems. This festive week of demonstration, participation, and celebration is designed for those with absolutely no experience as well as for students of the martial arts who are looking for new approaches. The sophisticated, non-aggressive art of aikido will be the central practice, but there will also be a chance to watch and practice such arts as t'ai chi, karate, and capoiera in their most joyful manifestations. Visiting masters of the various arts will present full-scale demonstrations, but most of the workshop will be devoted to experiential sessions for which no previous experience is necessary. Obviously, no one can learn a martial art in five days, but everyone will have a chance to gain a unique body-mind-spirit understanding of more than one art, along with increased confidence and grace under pressure.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse; Taisen Deshimaru, The Zen Way to the Martial Arts. $390

Symptom as Metaphor

Jeff Kane & Ronnie Paul

"It is more important to know what kind of patient has a disease than what kind of disease the patient has."— Sir William Osler

Contrary to popular concept, disease does not "strike" randomly. Patterns are perceptible. Massive current evidence points toward the conclusion that disease is inextricably connected to diet, stress factors, exercise, and attitudes. In short, disease is somehow related to the way we lead our lives.

This principle dovetails with the concept that the body is not an insensate sack of enzymes, but the physical vehicle for the continual, deliberate expression of the mind. That is, disease may be fruitfully seen as a physiologically encoded, translatable message about our state of being. This approach is neither alternative nor antithetical to allopathic medicine. It is a necessary complement. Patients need to examine and adjust their lives while physicians attend to their physical aspect. This course will invite participants to incorporate these concepts into their own practice. Practitioners may, in turn, educate their patients about the healing benefits of deep relaxation, voluntary pain control, and physiological manipulation. This course utilizes yoga to bring awareness to a symptom, imagery to translate the symptom into an existential statement, and therapeutic dialogue to initiate the appropriate behavioral change. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Weekend of May 20–22

Wellsprings of Creativity: A Workshop in Communal Autobiography

Keith Berwick

This workshop is designed to tap the hidden wellsprings of creativity in our collective historical unconscious. Participants will attempt to recreate the life and thought of another time and place. Each member will adopt a fictional role and will interact with other members in their fictional roles resulting in a creation of a community of "intimate others" fashioned out of the collective, historical imagination of the participants. Methods will include voice dialogue, guided imagery, past-life reading, and affective journal and letter writing. $190

Fluidity of Being: Rolf®s Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body."—James Joyce

Elisa writes, "This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used." $190

Being Together, Being Ourselves

Paul Rebillot

". . . Let there be spaces in your togetherness and let the winds of the Heavens dance between you."— Kahlil Gibran

Paul writes, "I designed this workshop to deal with the problem: 'How can I be together with a group of people or intimate with another human being without losing myself?"

"Theater games and gestalt process provide the context for participants to explore ways to achieve the delicate balance between opening and closing without losing contact with other people. Adaptation of American Indian ritual along with dance improvisation provide the possibility of communicating beyond words." $190

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion. The seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Suggested reading: The Experience of Insight, Joseph Goldstein (Unity Press); A Gradual Awakening, Stephen Levine (Doubleday). $190

Week of May 22–27

Open Seat

Paul Rebillot

For workshop description see February 6-11. $390

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see March 18-20. $390

Massage for Health Professionals

Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman

Many discomforts, functional difficulties, and degenerative conditions are either precipitated, perpetuated, or exacerbated by stress and the chronic muscular contractions which accompany it. This seminar will focus on the practical application of massage methods to infirmities in which emotional and muscular tension play a significant role. Instruction will include the development of a pleasurable and effective touch, the demonstration and practice of the fundamentals of a full-body massage treatment, a slide-lecture concerning the relationship of massage to anatomical structure and to physiological function, and discussion concerning the use of massage methods in specific situations. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow

"To Touch and Feel is to Experience. Many people live out their entire lives without ever really Touching or being Touched by anything. . . They do not live and become one with life."

—from Seven Arrows by Hyemeyohsts Storm.

Deborah writes, "For the past fourteen years, I have been teaching and practicing yoga and various types of bodywork, developing my art of touching and moving, my inner and outer balance. Now, for the past two years, I have begun to work with the Native American medicine ways. The blending of the Eastern Indian yogic tradition and the American Indian medicine ways has enabled me to touch so much more deeply inside myself, inside Mother Earth, and in my relations to all my fellow beings.

"During these five days, classes in yogic cleansing methods, theory, breath purifications, meditation, and asanas will be integrated with sessions in massage, creative movement, chanting, medicine wheel, and Native American practices. Weather permitting, one afternoon will be spent hiking in the Big Sur hills, consciously making a more meaningful contact with the land. Through the various practices taught during the week, the workshop is designed to help participants move from a deeper, more loving space within themselves, in their relations with the Earth, and with all its inhabitants." $390

Weekend of May 27–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 15. $190

Energy Training in Sports

George Leonard & Joel Kirsch

The practice of Leonard Energy Training has shown itself to be effective in improving performance, reducing injuries, and increasing enjoyment in physical sports. This workshop is designed for everyone from World Class athletes to those who are just taking up a sport—or are considering doing so. We begin with the assumption that every human being is born with the capacity to move efficiently, gracefully, and even joyfully, and that there is an appropriate sport for every body and every body type. Here, Energy Training will be applied to the sports experience.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete; Michael Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom. $190

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to assume responsibility for their health care management. The emphasis will be on learning what to eat to create vitality, energy, and health. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live food will be presented. Special attention will be given to increasing complex carbohydrate and fiber while decreasing simple sugar. We will examine the optimum amount of fat and cholesterol needed to both prevent and reverse atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease. Ideal protein intake for various levels of physical activity and health states will be examined and protein combinations to obtain complete sources will be demystified. Participants will receive a personalized health plan to work with at home.

Suggested reading: The Best Chance Diet by Joe D. Goldstrich, M.D., F.A.C.C.; published by Humanics Limited, Atlanta, Ga. $190

Kathy Thornod

Ken Dychtwald, Esalen group leader, at lunch with a workshop member.

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Britt

This is an intense introductory workshop in intrapsychic work using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice.

Reichian work utilizes the breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration the possibility is opened to come to a truer concept of self, with an expanded ability to respond in the present. This workshop is limited to ten participants. $190

Week of May 29–June 3

Hall of Mirrors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

For workshop description see January 28-30. $390

A Week with Will Schutz $390

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita (Laura DeNucci)

For workshop description see March 20-25. $390

Body Workshop: Rolf/Feldenkrais

Dub Leigh & Dee Dee Lozier

"You must first know where you are before you can move to where you want to be."— Dub Leigh

The goal of this workshop is to have participants become aware of where they are now and to give them the tools that will assist them to move in the direction of where they want to be. Based upon the individual and group methods of Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais and Dr. Ida P. Rolf, each person will receive a private session in both structural integration (Rolfing®) and functional integration (Feldenkrais). Group work will be a combination of Rolf®-paterning and awareness through movement. The workshop is designed both for people with structural or functional body problems, and people who want more awareness, comfort, and mobility. $390

Weekend of June 3–5

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Vicki Topp

For workshop description see March 25-27. $190

An Introduction to the Esalen Gardens

Esalen Lands Crew

In the profound and dramatic setting of the Big Sur Coast, the Esalen lands crew has spent years creating and maintaining a variety of beautiful landscape gardens. This weekend we invite you to our introductory tours and discussions of the methods we use. Members of the lands crew will define the variety of methods and schools of thought that we eclectically follow, all of which have a base in the environmentally clean organic approach. Robert Kourik, a well known horticulturist, (see May 6-8) will be our guest for the topic, "Edible Landscaping." Other areas discussed will be the French Intensive soil preparation, organic recycling, interplanting, insect control, companion planting, mulching systems, and germination methods. $190

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. In this workshop, participants will examine their work life and work options in the context of their love for themselves, for others in their lives, and for the larger world. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use integrative exercises, art, body work, and gestalt processes to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly what they want and how to get it.

This weekend is for those discontent with their work life, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons,, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life/work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs. $190

Plants and Health

Andrew Weil

Most of the medicines in current use come from plants or are variants of drugs found originally in plants. Few doctors now prescribe botanical medicines, though. Instead they use highly refined, potent derivatives of plants to produce immediate, dramatic effects. Modern pharmaceutical drugs have their place, but exclusive reliance on them is a principal reason for the expense and harmfulness of regular treatment. Learning to use medicinal plants is a way of exploring alternatives to dependence on doctors and of taking more responsibility for your own health.

Participants in this workshop will learn how to recognize and obtain common beneficial plants and how to continue to learn about this subject on their own. Methods of preparing and using plants as remedies will be demonstrated.

Recommended reading: The Natural Mind, The Marriage of the Sun and Moon, Health and Healing in the Year 2000, Andrew Weil. $190

The New World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing that we are dreaming. The presence of consciousness during this extraordinary state of consciousness allows us to respond flexibly and creatively to the flow of dream experience. We are in a unique position to control our dreams; this control brings within reach a remarkable range of possibilities from indulging your wildest fantasies to fulfilling your highest spiritual aspirations.

For most of us, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so; workshop participants will learn how to develop the skill of lucid dreaming. The results of recent scientific research will be presented and participants will be exposed to a wide variety of uses to which the world of lucid dreaming can be put, including self-exploration, creative problem solving, healing, adventure, and, perhaps most importantly, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

The emphasis will be on improving the quality of the dreamer's experience while in the dream. This means self-control, not dream control; changing the context rather than the content of the dream. Ann Faraday has called lucid dreaming "one of the most exciting frontiers of human experience." This workshop will provide an opportunity to find out why. $190

Week of June 5–10

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see January 23-28. $390

Longevity: Fulfilling Our Biological Potential

Kenneth Pelletier

Human life expectancy is 100 years old and longer. With our present lifestyles and environment it is evident that we do not often attain this biological potential. However, there is a sharp increase in the United States and throughout the world of more people living more than 100 healthy and productive years. This trend has profound medical, psychological, economic, and personal implications.

This seminar is an exploration of the practical means now available for any individual to extend his or her life expectancy to 100 vigorous years and beyond. Among the areas to be considred and demonstrated are: nutrition and diet which has been known to extend life for the last 50 years; regeneration of the human body and organs; use of antioxidants such as Vitamin E is examined; new discoveries in genetic engineering and biochemistry of substances that enhance memory and promote regeneration; the role and types of exercise in life extension; prolonging and restoration of sexual activity; methods of stress management and meditation for optimum health and performance; and the use of visualization and the influence of the mind in human longevity.

Steve Beck

Emphasis is upon adapting these factors to each individual's life to create a practical plan for optimum health and longevity. Videotapes and color slides of centenarian communities in the Soviet Union, Ecuador, Pakistan, and Tahiti will be featured.

Suggested reading: by Kenneth R. Pelletier, Holistic Medicine: From Stress to Optimum Health, (Delacorte and Delta, 1979); Longevity: Fulfilling Our Biological Potential, (Delacorte and Delta, 1981). $390

June 5–July 1

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 36 & 37. $1600

Weekend of June 10–12

Energy Training and the Art of Love

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop, we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of Leonard Energy Training to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's new book, The End of Sex. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse and The End of Sex; Nathaniel Branden, The Psychology of Romantic Love. $190

Authority, Power, and Inner Knowing

François Duquesne

This workshop focuses on the issues of power, authority and growth as they affect creative and harmonious decision making in private and public life. As a new age emerges, so must forms of government that blend the best of the past while allowing for the fullest expression of spirit. Drawing examples from Findhorn's nineteen years of organization and experimentation, from other New Age communities and from writings of contemporary visionaries, we will look into government for the future. We will also examine current world affairs within the context of planetary transformation and the creation of the new world community.

Those of you who are involved in New Age communities or who face the challenge of group decision making may find this workshop particularly helpful. It is led by the focalizer of the Findhorn Community and therefore offers a stimulating insight into leadership and New Age politics as practiced there. $190

Adjunct Approaches in Traditional Health Care Systems

Phillip Mac & Susan Baldi

This workshop will explore a variety of supportive modes of fostering well-being in patients in clinical settings. Included will be the use of touch, nutrition, and stress-reduction approaches. The emphasis of the group will be on the integration of these approaches in traditional health care settings. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

• SPECIAL PROGRAMS •

Special Announcement

Joseph Campbell, author, lecturer, and international authority on ancient and modern mythologies, will be Esalen's scholar-in-residence for the month of November, 1983.

A limited number of places will be available for individuals interested in spending the month studying with Joseph Campbell in an in-depth tutorial program focusing on the subject of the participants' specific interests. The fee for the month will be $1600.

Three weekend workshops will also be available through the catalog: "Psyche and Symbol Archetypes"; "Myth and the Body"; and "Symbolism of the Kundalini." They may be taken as a series or individually. The weekends will be available to month-long participants at a reduced rate. Further information will be announced in the next issue of the catalog.

Tutorial Program in Gestalt Body Therapy

This will be a professional training program for licensed or license-eligible psychotherapists and graduate students in gestalt body therapy (GBT). GBT is a complete system of psychotherapy with an emphasis on breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. The program will consist of approximately one week (five days) at Esalen every five weeks for a period of two years. This program can lead to an M.A. or Ph.D. in psychology through affiliation with an approved degree-granting institution. The program will be didactic and experiential and is based on a tutorial system with Jack Rosenberg and staff. If interested, please contact Jack Rosenberg, 1107 W. Washington Bl., Venice, Ca. 90291. Please include personal and therapeutic history and educational background.

March 6–May 29
Work-Study Program in Body Work

Coordinated by Deane Juhan, Deborah Anne Medow & the Esalen Massage Practitioners

This three month course, which includes the regular 32-hour work commitment detailed on page 16, offers intensive instruction in various approaches to massage practice, movement, and self-care. The goals of the program are: to provide information and practical experience that will enrich the participant's knowledge of his/her own body and its functions; to give instruction in a wide range of body work methods so that each participant will learn to give an effective massage; and to familiarize the group with the fundamentals of gestalt and group process as they relate to personal growth and massage.

Massage instruction and practice will include Esalen massage, polarity, Rolfing®, deep tissue, Trager, Feldenkrais, acupressure, and psychic massage. The principle movement disciplines introduced will be selected from yoga, aerobics and stretching, patterning, Halprin's movement ritual, mentastics, gestalt movement, contact improvisation, jazz dance, and t'ai chi. Classes in self-care will include diet for nutrition and cleansing, meditation, and energy pacing to avoid burnout. Anatomical and physiological information relevant to massage, movement, and self-care will be presented in a series of slide lectures. Regular gestalt and group process sessions will be scheduled throughout the program, led by the Esalen gestalt staff, to facilitate the group's cohesiveness and the learning process of each individual. Please use the information, instructions, and application form on page 16 when you apply. The fees and necessary deposit are the same as for the regular Work-Study Program described on that page.

March 6–25
Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg

This workshop will start wherever you are in your inner journey. The work is an in-depth integration of body and gestalt practices and the transformative process of consciousness.

The course will cover:

Psychology of the Self: Working with early unfinished situations that interrupt our sense of well-being and interfere with our relationships in the present. Sexual implications of this work will be dealt with in body work and in lecture.

Body Work (Gestalt Body Approach): Theoretic and practical application, combining classical Reichian work, yoga, and aerobics and massage, assisted by Andrea Juhan.

Transformative Process of Consciousness: As our inner journey progresses, our figure/ground awareness is shifted from "doing" and "having" to "being" and to our relationship with the eternal. We will explore ways to integrate and sustain these new awarenesses in our everyday life.

$1200

April 3–29 83
Evolution of Consciousness: Perspectives of Inner and Outer Space Research

Christina & Stanislav Grof

A four week interdisciplinary program organized jointly by Esalen Institute and the International Transpersonal Association (ITA). This seminar is designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, history, religion, and philosophy, interested in exploring future trends of consciousness evolution and the influence of inner and outer space research on humanity and its destiny. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Modern Consciousness Research and the quest for the new paradigm. Scientists who have made significant contributions to the emerging paradigm will discuss the revolutionary findings in clinical and laboratory consciousness research, including psychedelic therapy and parapsychology, quantum-relativistic physics, brain physiology, information and systems theory, and biology, that have dramatically transformed the image of reality and of human nature.

Outer Space Exploration and the Human Psyche. We will explore the outer space program both as an expression of consciousness evolution and as its powerful catalyst. The discussion will focus on such issues as the experiences of astronauts in outer space and their counterparts in "psychenauts" exploring inner realms, the psychology of space colonies and extraterrestrial migration, current state of the UFO research, and the relationship between planetary archetypes and consciousness evolution. These discussions will be illustrated by astronomical footage about space research and planetary probes.

Complications of Consciousness Evolution. Rapid evolution of consciousness, both individual and collective, can be associated with dramatic manifestations that resemble certain psychotic phenomena. The problem of such "transpersonal crises" will be explored in the light of data from comparative religion, anthropology, psychedelic therapy, and modern clinical and laboratory research.

Self-Exploration and Group Process. The seminars of this series use an experimental educational format which combines didactic input with deep experiential self-exploration and group process. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for the participants throughout the program.

$1600

June 5–July 1
Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."
—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special care and attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what we've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. What are the most important elements that support this transformation and renewal? And how might this process be effectively shared with others? Out of the answers to these basic questions has emerged the dream of combining the best of Esalen's human potential practice work with the spirit of adventure found in Outward Bound's wilderness programs, along with the gracious informality of living and working together in one of the most beautiful and peaceful settings in the world.

The aim of this unique curriculum will be to explore and develop a new model for learning, one that not only deepens the experience of traditional self exploration, but also breaks new ground in erasing the line between intensive group and individual work and the ordinary world of everyday life.

Among the areas we will touch on during this month are:

The Body and its Functions: As a temple for the spirit; as a reflection, and as a turning point from past habits, fears, and attitudes; as a source of grace, ease, and fluidity in movement and in contact; as a kinetic homebase for exuberance, playfulness, and balance; and as a healing source of touch.

The Emotional Realm: Exploring and opening the limits of temperament, redirecting negative feelings for inspiration and power; cultivating passion and strength as the core of integrity; resolving inner and outer turmoil simply and peacefully.

The Mind: Developing the powers of the imagination for self-affirmation and creativity; deepening the ability to see, hear, and understand so that one can range easily from the practical to the transcendental; strengthening the sense of fair-witness and developing the skillful use of the will; using the perspective of humor to heal separation.

Coming together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in ourselves, the group will create a community whose foundation is based on trust, good will, and authenticity.

During the month each participant will have the opportunity to clarify and develop his/her own style and artfulness as an individual guide and group facilitator doing in-depth study of gestalt practice, body work, psychosynthesis methods, and the meditative arts. The program will be structured to include: intensive individual work; creative music and movement; supervised observations; practicum work in group leading and individual counseling skills; video feedback; illustrated lectures and didactic theoretical sessions.

The emphasis throughout will be on creating a personally integrated perspective that will bring buoyancy and lightness into life and work. This workshop is designed for people from all walks of life. $1600

• WILDERNESS PROGRAMS •

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop we require the following deposit:

Up to 3 days	$ 50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip your deposit is forfeited.

April 15-17
The Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend Near Big Sur

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

"There is an art in finding one's direction in the lower regions by the memory of what one saw higher up. When one can no longer see, one can at least still know."—Rene Dumal

Rock climbing is a dance done in a vertical world, a dance of grace, balance, and simplicity. It is an opportunity for stretching limits, extending ourselves, exploring our own edges. Our responses to the challenges of climbing offer a metaphor for looking at the ways we deal with stress and challenge in our daily lives. During the day we will play on the sunny boulders and low rock faces at Pinnacles National Monument, three hours east of Esalen. We'll learn basic movements, such as how to rappel and belay, building trust in our hands and feet and each other. Safety ropes free us to experiment and to discover our inner heroes.

We'll prepare our gourmet meals together over a crackling fire and camp beneath the stars, sharing insights from the day's adventure. This weekend begins Friday evening and ends Sunday evening at the Monterey airport. A shuttle bus operates between the airport and Esalen, and we'll travel by van to and from Pinnacles. No previous climbing or camping experience is necessary. Minimum equipment will be needed. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $175

April 29-May 6
Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Jessica Britt & Steven Harper

Nature can provide us with opportunities to stretch our limits and explore our inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment we can expand our sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. We will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, geography, and cultural history of the area.

With the wilderness as our mirror, we will explore our inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, we will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24 hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley, with natural hot springs, for our last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $375

May 14-23
Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

The rugged Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone, almost disappears as it crosses the Mexican border into the Baja peninsula. About one hundred miles below the border it rises to form the Sierra San Pedro Martir, a forested plateau about 7500 feet high. On the eastern edge of this plateau, the soaring granite form of Picacho del Diablo, Baja's highest peak, rises to over 10,000 feet. This workshop will take us from a trailhead on the plateau's western edge through pine forests, broad open meadows, and along clear streams to the base of Diablo on the eastern escarpment. From there participants may climb the peak. To the west the green hills slope off into the Pacific. In the east the plateau falls away to the desert and the waters of the Gulf of California. Participants will descend onto the desert through a sinuous granite canyon, pausing to play in waterfalls and deep pools.

Group members will carry everything they need in packs, cook over fires, and learn a range of basic wilderness skills, including basic rock climbing. 24 hours will be spent alone in reflection and contemplation. The workshop will also include psychosynthesis, group process work, yoga, and journal writing. No previous experience is required. You should be healthy and reasonably fit. The program begins and ends in San Diego. Complete information on travel, clothing, and equipment will be sent upon registration. $575

• MEDICAL PROGRAMS •

Esalen Institute is a California state approved provider for continuing education for health professionals. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category 1 approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

January 2-7
Loss, Grief, and Depression
Joel Kotin, M.D. — 30 hours

January 28-30
Medical Self-Care:
New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D. — 10 hours

February 11-13
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. — 10 hours

February 13-18
The Therapeutic Approaches of Milton H. Erickson, M.D.
Jane Parsons, A.C.S.W. — 30 hours

February 25-27
Psychology and Physiology of Breathing for Health Professionals
Peter Levine, Ph.D. — 10 hours

March 11-13
Professional Responsibility Training:
Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement
Jerry Green, J.D. — 10 hours

March 18-20
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliott Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

April 22-24
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. & Joe Graedon, M.S. in Pharmacology — 10 hours

May 6-8
A Practical Approach to Sexual Counseling
Jack Rosenberg, D.D.S., Ph.D. — 10 hours

May 15-20
Symptom as Metaphor
Jeff Kane, M.D. & Ronnie Paul — 30 hours

May 22-27
Massage for Health Professionals
Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman, M.D. — 30 hours

June 10-12
Adjunct Approaches in Traditional Health Care Systems
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 10 hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

January 2-7
Loss, Grief, and Depression
Joel Kotin, M.D. — 30 hours

January 28-30
Medical Self-Care: New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D. — 10 hours

February 6-11
Zero Balancing: Beginning-Intermediate Workshop
Fritz Smith, M.D. — 30 hours

February 11-13
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. — 10 hours

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Deane Juhan, an Esalen massage practitioner, gives a Trager session.

February 13-18
The Therapeutic Approaches of Milton H. Erickson, M.D.
Jane Parsons, A.C.S.W. — 30 hours

February 25-27
Psychology and Physiology of Breathing for Health Professionals
Peter Levine, Ph.D. — 10 hours

March 11-13
Professional Responsibility Training:
Structuring Clinical Relationships by Agreement
Jerry Green, J.D. — 10 hours

March 18-20
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliott Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

April 10-15
The Psyche and Soma of Health
Jessica Britt, R.N. & Deborah Anne Medow — 30 hours

April 22-24
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals
in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. & Joe Graedon, M.S. in Pharmacology — 10 hours

May 6-8
A Practical Approach to Sexual Counseling
Jack Rosenberg, D.D.S., Ph.D. — 10 hours

May 8-13
The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing
for the Health Professional
Jack Downing, M.D. & Murray Korngold, Ph.D., A.B.P.P. — 30 hours

May 15-20
Symptom as Metaphor
Jeff Kane, M.D. & Ronnie Paul — 30 hours

May 22-27
Massage for Health Professionals
Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman, M.D. — 30 hours

June 10-12
Adjunct Approaches in Traditional Health Care Systems
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 10 hours

· BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION ·

– A –

Alise Agar, p. 30 — as program co-ordinator for the Institute for the Study of Consciousness in Berkeley, facilitates the convergence of philosophers, scientists and metaphysics as part of an evolutionary vision.

Dick Anthony p. 18 — is an associate of the Center for the Study of New Religions in Berkeley and is co-editor of Conversion, Coercion and Commitment in New Religious Movements.

Anne Armstrong p. 24, 30 — has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 18 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.

Jim Armstrong, p. 24, 30 — a former engineer, is a life-long student and teacher of esoteric studies.

Elliott Aronson p. 26 — is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.

– B –

Susan Baldi, p. 35 — R.N., is director of student health at Santa Rosa Community College.

Jamie Baraz p. 33 — has studied meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Ram Dass, Jack Kornfield, and others in the United States and Asia. He has led classes and retreats in the Bay Area for several years.

Frank Barr p. 30 — is a physician, author, and consciousness researcher who has successfully applied Arthur Young's process paradigm to such problems as the body-mind interface, schizophrenia, altered states, and regeneration.

Thompson Barton, p. 20 — currently teaching holistic sports at Antioch West, presents an evolutionary development in the art of teaching sports, fitness, and movement called the integrated awareness method.

Judi Bell p. 20 — is chair of the creative arts therapy department at Antioch University, San Francisco. She has done pioneering work in integrating movement into family therapy.

Guy Benjamin, p. 25 — quarterback for the World Champion San Francisco 49ers, is an instructor at Stanford University in classes dealing with optimal performance, and a student of zen and taoism.

Tara Bennett-Goleman p. 23 — is a counselor, movement instructor, and student of Indian dance and the mindful arts.

Keith Berwick p. 32 — is an historian, author, TV host, and producer of award-winning programs on personal transformation, including The Energy Workshop, Parenting, and Faces: The Urban Mosaic.

Daniel Bianchetta p. 24 — practices shiatsu, rebirthing, deep tissue massage, gestalt, and intuitive readings at Esalen. He has studied extensively with Swami Muktananda.

Jessica Britt p. 20, 28, 30, 33 — is a registered nurse who is presently a member of the Esalen community and a practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.

Michael Buchele p. 30 — is a physician who synthesizes holistic medicine with Arthur Young'ss theory of evolution process.

– C –

Peter Caddy p. 17 — is the co-founder of the Findhorn Foundation, and is presently engaged in visiting and assisting in the link-up of communities, groups, and movements for the process of planetary transformation.

Annie Callaway, p. 28, 32 — professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for several years.

Joseph Campbell p. 26, 27 — is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.

Anne Caple p. 34 — is a technical writer and editor with earlier careers as homemaker and fiber artist. She is a student of the intuitive process.

John Caple p. 17, 34 — is a college professor and career counselor with an earlier career in business management. He is the author of Careercycles (1983).

Fritjof Capra p. 18 — is researching theoretical high energy physics at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and is author of two books, The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point.

Stanford Eugene Cates p. 25, 27, 28 — is working and in training with Paul Rebillot, assisting and co-leading groups. He has trained in Trager psychophysical integration and is a minister.

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, p. 20 — a professional dancer and teacher of movement, has studied and performed ballet, modern jazz, Afro-Cuban, and primitive dance in New York and the West Indies.

Arthur Cox p. 22 — has had direct experience in all aspects of U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union—including diplomacy, intelligence and covert operations, military affairs and arms control, trade, and information and cultural programs.

– D –

David Darling p. 26 — is a dancing cellist, a classical musician, composer, and a teacher of improvisation. He is an original member of the Paul Winter Consort.

Terry Dobson p. 31 — apprenticed to the founder of aikido for eight years. He is the author of Giving In To Get Your Way and Safe and Alive.

Steven Donovan p. 31 — is director of the Transformation Project and is an Esalen trustee.

Jack Downing, p. 31 — M.D., is a psychiatrist with a comprehensive background in gestalt, Rolfing®, Arica, applied kinesiology, and neuro-linguistic programming.

Vera Dunham p. 23 — is an internationally acclaimed poet, translator, essayist, and expert on Soviet culture.

François Duquesne p. 35 — is the executive director of the Findhorn Community in northern Scotland, and an educator and writer on the themes of personal and planetary transformation.

– E –

Catherine Elber p. 28 — is one of the first and few people in the world teaching t'ai chi chih. She has taught at Esalen since 1975.

Werner Erhard ..... is founder of the est training and a number of other transformation programs and projects offered by a world-wide network of centers, associated entities, and individuals.
p. 31

Esalen Lands Crew ..... includes Steve Beck, April Bekaert, Sydney Ocean, and Bruce Neeb.
p. 34

-F-

Tom Ferguson,..... M.D., is editor of the quarterly journal Medical Self-Care, medical editor of The Whole Earth Catalog/Co-Evolution Quarterly, and author of the book Medical Self-Care: Access to Health Tools.
p. 22, 29

-G-

Dick Galland..... was the founding director of the Southwest Outward Bound School. He designs and guides wilderness programs for individuals, schools, and corporations.
p. 28, 32

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) ..... is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and is in private practice in West Los Angeles and San Francisco.
p. 26,33

Joe D. Goldstrich,..... past national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Association, is a physician and author specializing in nutrition and preventive medicine.
p. 29, 33

Daniel Goleman ..... is a senior editor of Psychology Today and president of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology.
p. 23

Joe Graedon ..... writes a syndicated column, The People's Pharmacy, which runs in more than 100 newspapers. He is the author of The People's Pharmacy and People's Pharmacy-2.
p. 29

Jerry Green ..... is an attorney specializing in medicine and holistic health practices.
p. 25

Susan Griffin ..... is an author, poet, teacher, and lecturer. Formerly an instructor at U.C. Berkeley and San Francisco State University, she now teaches writing privately.
p. 30

Christina Grof,..... hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." She is co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 17, 19, 23, 25, 26, 27

Stanislav Grof,..... psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of The Human Encounter with Death and LSD Psychotherapy.
p. 17, 19, 23, 25, 26, 27

-H-

Anna Halprin,..... founder of the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop and co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Training Institute in Marin County, is the author of Movement Ritual I and Collected Writings.
p. 24

Daria Halprin-Khalighi .... is a gestalt movement facilitator and is co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Institute in Marin County.
p. 24

Betsy Hand, ... former resident staff member of the Gestalt Institute of Canada, has 20 years experience with families, couples, and groups. She is in private practice in Kentfield, Ca.
p. 21, 31

Robert Hand,..... as an astrological teacher, author, consultant, and researcher, is involved in micro-computer technology. His latest books are Horoscope Symbols and Essays on Astrology (Para Research).
p. 28

Michael Harner,..... an anthropologist who has studied shamanism among South and North American Indians for more than two decades, is the author of The Way of the Shaman.
p. 19

Sandra Harner,..... textile artist and executive director of the Center for Shamanic Studies, Norwalk, Connecticut, has accompanied her husband, Michael, in studies among Upper Amazon tribes.
p. 19

Steven Harper ..... teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, and is currently the coordinator of the Esalen Wilderness Programs.
p. 15, 30

Susan Harper, ... a dance teacher in Los Angeles and San Francisco, is co-founder of Continuum Montage, a company which produces and distributes recordings by musicians and composers.
p. 20

John Heider,..... psychologist, group leader, and teacher of group leaders, was an Esalen resident from 1967-71. He later founded The Human Potential School of Mendocino.
p. 30

Hazel Henderson ..... is a self-described "independent, self-employed futurist," and author of The Politics of the Solar Age: Alternatives to Economics (Anchor Press/Doubleday).
p. 23

Nick Herbert ..... is an independent researcher in the foundations of physics, and author of Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics.
p. 21

Peggy Morrison Horan .... is an Esalen masseuse and teacher, and coordinator of the Esalen Childbirth Education Program.
p. 23, 27

Paul Horn..... is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and teacher of meditation.
p. 18

Chungliang Al Huang ..... is the founder-president of The Living Tao Foundation, and director of its Lan Ting Institute, an international cultural-arts network for lifelong learning.
p. 17, 18, 26

-J-

Don Johnson ..... is co-chair of the holistic studies department at Antioch University and author of The Protean Body. His interest is in social forces that shape the human body.
p. 20

Andrea Juhan..... is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practioner, has trained with Anna Halprin, and currently conducts Esalen community classes in stretch/exercise, aerobics, and dance.
p. 15, 29

Deane Juhan, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.
p. 19, 24, 29

-K-

Jeff Kane, ... M.D., researches the body-mind relationship and teaches medical philosophy, stress management, and hatha yoga. His articles have appeared in CoEvolution Quarterly, New Age, and Yoga Journal.
p. 32

Donald Keys, ... author, human rights and peace movement leader, and consultant to United Nations delegations, is founder and president of Planetary Citizens.
p. 31

George King, ... a massage practitioner for 22 years, has worked throughout the U.S., Europe, and South America.
p. 23, 30

Joel Kirsch,..... a founding member of the Energy Training Institute, has developed and presented energy training programs in management, human resource development, sports, dance, education, and psychotherapy.
p. 33

Gary Klapman ..... has been practicing emergency medicine in Santa Cruz for five years and is a student of medical ecology.
p. 33

Lila Daniels Klapman, p. 33 . . . . . longtime member of the Esalen massage crew, integrates deep tissue, polarity, and Trager bodywork in her teaching and practice.

George Kohlrieser p. 17 . . . . . is director of Shiloah, Center for Human Growth in Dayton, Ohio, where he works with individuals, families, and groups.

Murray Korngold p. 31 . . . . . is a certified acupuncturist and a teacher and speaker on parapsychology and psychic healing.

Joel Kotin, p. 17 . . . . . a psychoanalyst and associate clinical professor of psychiatry and human behavior at U.C. Irvine, is author of numerous publications on both biological and psychological aspects of depression.

Robert Kourik, p. 31 . . . . . formerly director of the edible landscape program at Farallones Institute Rural Center, is a landscaper and designer of food-producing gardens and solar greenhouses.

Marilyn Harris Kriegel, p. 20 . . . . former senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute of San Francisco, is co-chair of the graduate department of holistic studies at Antioch University West.

-L-

Stephen LaBerge p. 34 . . . . . is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and does research on conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University.

Benj Langdon, p. 19, 24, 34 . . . . . former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.

Timothy Leary p. 27 . . . . . is a philosopher and scientific optimist.

Dub Leigh p. 34 . . . . . is a somatologist with many years of experience. He was personally trained and certified by Ida Rolf and Moshe Feldenkrais.

Annie Styron Leonard p. 35 . . . . . is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.

George Leonard, p. 30, 31, 32, 33, 35 . . . . . author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.

Howard Levene, p. 20 . . . . . a Jungian analyst practicing in the Bay Area, is chairman of the curriculum committee of the C.G. Jung Institute in San Francisco.

Peter Levine p. 21, 24 . . . . . has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He holds doctorates in medical biophysics and psychology. His interests include the effects of stress on children and infants.

Bill Liles, p. 20, 25, 26 . . . . . a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, integrates polarity with traditional Esalen massage.

Kristin Linklater p. 23 . . . . . is a teacher of voice production, an actress, author of Freeing the Natural Voice, and director of training for Shakespeare & Co., Lenox, Mass.

Matthew Litwin p. 17 . . . . . is a 15 year old "computer nerd" (Time Magazine, May 3, 1982), creating computer programs supporting a project to eradicate curable blindness in Nepal.

DeeDee Lozier p. 34 . . . . . is a Feldenkrais practitioner who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in the United States and Israel.

Nancy Kaye Lunney, p. 21 . . . . . a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, does individual as well as group work, and is manager of programming at Esalen.

Phillip Mac p. 35 . . . . . is a board certified family physician who has trained family physicians and physicians' assistants. His special interest is the health and ill health of health care providers.

-M-

Ma Prita (Laura DeNuccio), p. 26, 34 certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches to well being in group and private instruction.

Malcolm Margolin p. 24 . . . . . is a Berkeley writer and publisher specializing in California natural history and Indian life. Recent books include The Ohlone Way and The Way We Lived.

Deborah Medow, p. 25, 27, 28, 33 . . . . . Esalen body work practitioner and group leader since 1969, teaches Ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines; she is also a student of the Native American tradition.

Dianne Miller-Lesty p. 30 . . . . . specializes in movement, massage, hypnosis, gestalt, and collective creativity. She has been teaching the Halprin Dancers approach at Esalen for several years.

Jason Mixter p. 28 . . . . . is a certified advanced Rolfer® and Rolf® movement teacher who has been associated with Esalen since 1971.

Meigra Mixter p. 28 . . . . . is a certified Rolf® movement teacher and massage practitioner who lives and works in Carmel Valley.

Laurie Muller (Lioness), p. 24, 30 . . . . a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches of healing the body, mind, and spirit.

Michael Murphy p. 31 . . . . . is co-founder of Esalen Institute and founder of the Transformation Project. He is author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, and An End to Ordinary History.

-N-

Claudio Naranjo p. 18 . . . . . teaches at the Integral Studies Institute and is author of The One Quest.

The NINE p. 19, 34 . . . . . describe themselves as "giant reflectors of your selves, gestalt practitioners, marriage counselors —pure energy of emergent quality available to all."

-O-

Jenny O'Connor p. 19, 34 . . . . . is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."

Jay Oglivy p. 28 . . . . . taught philosophy for 12 years at Yale, The University of Texas, and Williams College. He is the author of Many Dimensional Man: Decentralizing Self, Society, and the Sacred.

Wendy Oser, p. 17, 25 . . . . . founder and director of Video Feedback Service of Berkeley, and creator of Video Insight, specializes in transpersonal, professional, and personal applications of video.

Brita Ostrom, p. 20, 26, 34 . . . . . a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.

—P—

Jane Parsons . . . . . was facilitator in individual, group, and family treatment in the department of psychiatry at Mount Sinai Hospital for 12 years, and is in private practice in New York City.
p. 23

Ronnie Paul, ... formerly a ranked Eastern Junior tennis player, now studies and teaches the Iyengar method of hatha yoga. She is a frequent author and former contributing editor for Yoga Journal.
p. 32

George Pegelow, ... instructor in Chinese kenpo karate at Stanford, also teaches classes in taoism and optimal performance there, and is founder/president of the International Movement Arts Center, Inc.
p. 25

Kenneth Pelletier. . . . . . is assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at U.C.S.F.; assistant professor, public health department, U.C. Berkeley; and director of the California Health and Medical Foundation.
p. 34

Ayala Pines, ... research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.
p. 19, 26

Hector Prestera, ... a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neuro-linguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.
p. 20

Christine Price . . . . . combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.
p. 15, 18, 21, 24, 27, 31

Lee Pulos . . . . . is a clinical psychologist whose career has ranged from traditional clinical practice in hypnosis to his current interests in gathering cross-cultural data on paranormal healing.
p. 28

—R—

Paul Rebillot . . . . . was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theatre Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.
p. 21, 25, 27, 28, 32, 33

Jack Rosenberg, ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.
p. 24, 31

Gabrielle Roth . . . . . is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the east coast, where she directs and performs with her own theater/dance company.
p. 29

—S—

John Saloma . . . . . is a social-political scientist, consciousness researcher, and author of several books and papers in those fields.
p. 30

David Schiffman . . . . . a longtime leader at Esalen, is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 20, 26, 27, 29, 31, 32, 35

Elisa Lodge Schiffman . . . . . trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.
p. 20, 26, 32, 35

Will Schutz, ... founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 20, 34

Alan Schwartz . . . . . is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."
p. 17, 26, 27

Rupert Sheldrake. . . . . . is a biologist and author of A New Science of Life.
p. 29

Julian Silverman, ... an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.
p. 25

Saul-Paul Sirag . . . . . has published two physics papers in Nature and has authored a theory on the size of the universe. In 1977 he founded the Consciousness Theory Group, which he directs.
p. 21

Harry Sloan, ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Dr. Robert Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 24, 28

Fritz Smith . . . . . is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is in a private practice of holistic health in Watsonville, California.
p. 21, 22

Gerald Smith . . . . . is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 21, 31

David Sobel, ... M.D., is department chief for preventive medicine, Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center, San Jose; author of To Your Health; associate editor of Medical Self-Care; conducts Healthline on KNTV 11.
p. 20

Elizabeth Stratton, ... a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.
p. 27

—T—

Tom Taussig . . . . . teaches psychology and computer science, and is irreverently committed to life being easy.
p. 17, 25

Gioia Timpanelli, ... poet, teacher and winner of two Emmy awards for writing, producing, and broadcasting, is completing a P.B.S. pilot on fairy tales for adults.
p. 19

Vicki Topp . . . . . joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.
p. 19, 34

—V—

Sim Van der Ryn, ... former California State architect, is founder of the Farallones Institute and professor of architecture, U.C. Berkeley and author of Self Reliant Living in the City and The Toilet Papers.
p. 17

Frances Vaughan, ... author of Awakening Intuition and co-editor of Beyond Ego, is in private practice, and is a core faculty member at the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology.
p. 19

—W—

Roger Walsh . . . . . is a psychiatrist on the faculty of the medical school at U.C. Irvine, and is co-editor of Beyond Ego and Beyond Health and Normality.
p. 19

Andrew Weil, ... M.D., is an investigator of alternative medicine, mind-body interactions, and beneficial plants, and author of The Natural Mind, and Health and Healing in the Year 2000.
p. 34

—Y—

Arthur Young, ... philosopher, scientist, and inventor of the Bell helicopter, is founder of the Institute for the Study of Consciousness in Berkeley, and author of The Reflexive Universe and Geometry of Meaning.
p. 30

—Z—

Janet Zuckerman . . . . . has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than seven years. Her work includes gestalt practice, group process,and emotional release work.
p. 15,

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student $15
One Year Individual $25
One Year Donor $50
One Year Sponsor $100
One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

Food for the Senses

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes and artwork by people of the Esalen community is now available. To order by mail, use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies of Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $1.20 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $7.15 (California residents add $.35 tax.) I am enclosing a total of $_____.

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery.

The Esalen Catalog

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year, including postage and handling, is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. A preaddressed envelope is included in this catalog for your convenience.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

• AUDIO RECORDINGS •

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Paul Herbert, Mike Fann, and Dan Clark of Workshop Casettes and Dolphin Tapes.

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Thomas Banyacya: Hopi Prophecy & Survival
Ram Dass: Dharma and The Bomb: Confronting Paradox
Rollo May & Daniel Ellsberg: Good & Evil
Gregory Bateson: Eternal Verities of Life
Willis Harman: Alternative Futures
Stanislav Grof: The New Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm
Albert Hofmann: LSD and The Nature of Reality
John C. Lilly: Birth, Brains & Beings
Fritjof Capra: Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
Tom Ferguson: What About Self-Care?
Julian Silverman: The Basis of the Healing Relationship
Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
Joe D. Goldstrich: Nutritional Systems & Belief Systems
Jack Rosenberg: Introduction to Gestalt Body Therapy
Ilana Rubenfeld: Rubenfeld Synergy Method — I
David Zeller: A Kabbalistic Perspective on Consciousness
Emmett Miller: Healing Journey
Joseph Campbell: Kundalini Rising

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Daniel Ellsberg: (2) Toward Nuclear Disarmament
Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life
Sheldrake, Capra, Targ & Grof: (2) Considerations
Fritjof Capra: (2) Mind, Matter and Consciousness
Robert Bly: (2) An Evening with Robert Bly at Esalen
Robert Bly: (2) Thoughts on the Art of Poetry
Bernard Aaronson: (2) Tantric Chant, Poetry & Hypnosis
Andrew Weil: (2) The Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities
Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Egyptian Tarot

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please address your order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Donald Keys: Inner Transformation and Outer Involvement (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 with check or money order ($44 by purchase order)
Rollo May: A Weekend with Rollo May: The F. Scott Fitzgerald Myth and Your Own (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Theodore Roszak & Wm. Irwin Thompson: Personal and Cultural Transformation (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Stanislav Grof: Nature, Mind & Consciousness (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Joseph Campbell: Transformations of Myth through Time (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
R. D. Laing: Dialogues with James Fadiman and Fritjof Capra (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Rosenberg: New Understanding of Sexual Relationship (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Julian Silverman: Structural Basis of Body Work (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Joe D. Goldstrich: Food For Health (4 tapes, 5½ hours) $40 ($44)

Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity & Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)
Gregory Bateson: Steps to an Ecology of Mind (6 tapes, 7½ hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend (6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development (7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)

Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)
Heinz Von Forster & John Lilly: Meta-Language (6 tapes, 7 hours) $72 ($80)
Joseph Campbell: Psyche and Symbolism (6 tapes, 8 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)

Joyce Rogers-Lyke

Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self & Soul
(8 tapes, 10 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Chilton Pearce: Insight and Ecstasy
(8 tapes, 11 hours) $80 ($88)
Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar
(8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)
Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences
(10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and the Individual Adventure
(10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please address order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975–1980)

This recorded series of informal talks on twelve tapes is now part of Gregory Bateson's estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate. The complete set may now be purchased in two equal parts: Part I or Part II may be ordered separately (6 tapes each) for $60 ($66 by purchase order). Either set of six tapes will come in a vinyl album accompanied by a summary of contents of all twelve, for reference, plus additional pages. For Parts I & II combined in one order, send $98 ($108 by purchase order). Please add $2 for mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). In California include 6% sales tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Recordings from the Early Years

A 32-page catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $2 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, PO Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Meditation Music, Space Age Music

This new music, called by many names (cosmic, celestial, transcedent, new age) covers a wide range and is becoming increasingly known and appreciated. Listed here are several mail order sources for catalogs or information: HALPERN SOUNDS, 620 Taylor Way #14, Belmont, CA 94002; HEARTS OF SPACE, PO Box 31321, San Francisco, CA 94131; NARADA, 1804 E. North Ave., Milwaukee, WI 53202; VITAL BODY MARKETING, Box 703, Fresh Meadows, NY 11365; YES! BOOKSTORE & TAPES, 1035 31st Street NW, Washington, DC 20007.

• THE MEDIA CENTER •

The Esalen Media Center has produced two audio-visual programs which are now available for rental or purchase. They are two-projector slide dissolve shows which can be shown with a single projector. We have also transferred the programs onto video cassettes.

Esalen

An 18-minute slide presentation with a soundtrack of narration and music telling the story of Esalen—from its early history to the present. Included are scenes of the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, and the various work departments, as well as aspects of our workshop seminars, long-term programs, and special projects. Musical soundtrack by Paul Horn, Joel Andrews, and Pinchey Pete.

Cost: For Sale
Slide Program—includes 130 color slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entre 7610 dissolve unit available on request)		$150.00
1/2" VHS color video cassette		$125.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette		$135.00
For Rent
1/2" VHS color video cassette	per week	$30.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette	per week	$35.00

The Ritual Of Birth

A 10-minute slide presentation including scenes of a "blessing way" ceremony honoring the birthing family, and a home birth. Musical soundtrack by David Tate and Char Pias Brenner.

Cost: For Sale
Slide Program—includes 52 color slides, cassette tape and script (pulsed tape for Entre 7610 dissolve unit available on request)		$85.00
1/2" VHS color video cassette		$65.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette		$75.00
For Rent
1/2" VHS color video cassette	per week	$20.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette	per week	$25.00

Color slide sets of five scenes of Esalen—the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, garden, the outdoor hot baths, t'ai chi on the pool deck—are available for sale at $5.50 per set.

Please address your order with a check payable to the ESALEN MEDIA CENTER, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. California residents add 6% sales tax for sale purchases.

Overseas air mail orders please add additional postage: each slide program $10 ($15 for Australia and Asia), each video cassette $7, each slide set $1.

Kathy Thormod

Kathy Thormod and Joyce Rogers-Lyke of the Media Department work with independent video technician, Eric Stromberger.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette on Chungliang Al Huang's new work, entitled Tai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, send inquiries also to KLB PRODUCTIONS at the above address.

· GENERAL INFORMATION ·

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three- week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335

Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 5 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The price of a weekend workshop will be $165, and a five-day will be $340. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $60 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $100 per day, or $110 per day per couple. Family special rates are available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Bus Service: Bus service to Esalen and along Highway #1 is provided twice daily from Monterey and San Luis Obispo by Coastlines. Buses depart from the Monterey Airport at 9 am and 3 pm and from the Monterey Greyhound Terminal and Doubletree Inn a few minutes later. The fare is $5 one way. From San Luis Obispo the fare is $10 one way, with departures beginning at the airport at 8:30 am and 3 pm with stops at Greyhound and Amtrac a few minutes later. Additional information can be obtained by consulting timetable No. 6288 at your local bus terminal or by calling Coastlines directly at (408) 649-4700 or (805) 541-3407.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $18 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Esalen Institute

Board of Trustees
Diana Becchitti
Steven Donovan
Victoria Elliot
Joseph Goldin
Janet Lederman
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Weir Perry
Julian Silverman

Managers
Steve Bogoff
Tom Brenner
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Brian Lyke
Bruce Neeb

Core Staff
Barbara Adamson
John Ahrens
Steve Beck
April Bekaert
Daniel Bianchetta
Craig Carr
Steve Cohen
Annie Dawson
Bette Dingman
Ann Guenther
Paul Herbert
Shirley Hyles
Jaelitza
Polly Kirby
Lou MacLean
Kelly McKay
Jose Mozic (Raman)
Glenn Nantomi
Sidney Ocean
Lew Porter
Joyce Rogers-Lyke
John Soper
Rick Tarnas
Selena Van Cleve
Bruce Weston
Janet Zuckerman

Special Projects Staff
James Bupp
Sandy Clendenen
Barbara Cohen
David Heinstadt
Brian Ross
Steve Sorton
Heather Tarnas
Kathy Thormod

Esalen Body Work Practitioners
John Ahrens
Daniel Bianchetta
Martine Bittman
Char Piaa Brenner
Jessica Britt
Craig Carr
Patrick Douce
Perry Holloman
Peggy Morrison Horan
Andrea Juhan
Deane Juhan
George King
James (Lars) Larson
Bill Liles
Ma Prita
Deborah Anne Medow
Jane Miletich
Jaime Morton
Laurie (Lioness) Muller
Arthur Munver
Brita Ostrom
Elisa Lodge Schiffman
Laurie Schutz
Cyndi Rogers Silverman
Margaret Stevens
Dick Stratman
Vicki Topp
Attila Vass

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 46.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐ Age _____

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Check whether this workshop will be held in Big Sur ☐ or as a Wilderness Program ☐

Do you smoke? _____

Limousine Service:
I want limousine service from (check one):
_____ Monterey Airport
_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station
at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only)

The $18 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Reservation Fee

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Your reservation can be charged to:

MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 46. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

THE ESALEN CATALOG

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920
DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

MAY - OCTOBER, 1983 • ONE DOLLAR

Contents

Volume XXII, Number 2

Audio Recordings 44–45

Big Sur Wilderness Experience 13

Biographical Information 39–43

Catalog Subscription Information 43

Esalen Seminars 15–34

Experiencing Esalen 12–13

Experiencing Esalen: The Body 13

Food for Thought

How Fritz Perls Came to Esalen
An Interview with Dick Price 4–6

Fritz
From John Heider's Esalen Journal 7

Getting Born was the Hard Part
Jack Kornfield 10–11

Satelite Rock-and-Roll Fest Beams U.S.-Soviet Bond
Keith Thompson 8–9

Friends of Esalen 43

General Information 46

Gestalt Practice 13

Media Center 45

Medical Programs 38

Reservations Form 47

Special Programs 35

Ways of Being at Esalen 12

Wilderness Programs 36–37

Work-Study Program and Application 14

Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday & Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editors: Nancy Kaye Lunney
and Heather Tarnas
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Rogers-Lyke
and Kathy J. Thormod

Cover Photograph by Kathy J. Thormod

©1983 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

Paul Herbert

"Contact is the appreciation of differences."
Fritz Perls

July 8, 1983 marks the 90th anniversary of Fritz Perls birth.
We lovingly dedicate this issue to you, Fritz.

How Fritz Perls Came To Esalen

an interview with Dick Price

Paul Herbert

The following interview by Heather Tarnas is one of a series of occasional features which seek to evaluate the legend, lore, and legacy of Fritz Perls, to examine the ongoing development of gestalt awareness practice, and to better understand the relationship of gestalt to other forms and approaches. Coming in a future catalog: Keith Thompson's essay on Perls and Existentialism.

Heather: How did Fritz come to Esalen? How long was he here?

Dick: Fritz was wandering; he had no real settled place of residence. At Christmas time 1963, a program was organized by Gene Sagan, a psychologist in Berkeley and a student of Fritz. Gene organized a University of California Extension sponsored program and sent out about 30,000 catalogs on U.C.'s mailing list. He was quite expansive and got together something like 17 leaders supposing that Esalen might get as many as 50 or more participants. When it became apparent that there were only going to be about 15 or 20 participants for 17 leaders, U.C. backed out of the program. Michael and I decided to do it anyway and cut the leadership down to about seven leaders, one of whom was Fritz Perls. That was our introduction to Fritz over 19 years ago.

Heather: And was that right here at Esalen?

Dick: Yes, my first introduction to Fritz was right over in the house we are looking at now [The Big House].

Heather: What did he do after the program was finished?

Dick: He decided after leaving that he wanted to come back and live in residence here. Neither Michael nor I were very enthusiastic about that, having been more impressed by his rudeness than his skill. But we thought he might be some kind of a draw, so we agreed that he would be a renter and do his programs here. He came to stay in April of '64.

Heather: How did you see his "rudeness"?

Dick: I think it was a combination of his character and his concern over his health. We didn't know how close he felt himself to death from his heart condition. I think Fritz lived so much in physical vitality that life without it was perhaps more a burden than a grace. He could be rather direct anyway at his best, but it was his directness coupled with his sourness that made him at that time so unpleasant.

Heather: Did that spill over into his work with people?

Dick: I would have thought so. During the first year and a half he was here, my contact with him was almost solely, and with difficulty, working out a business relationship. I entered one of his groups on very short notice in January of 1966 and found that everything that he seemed outside the group he was not in the group. Outside of the group he was impatient and mean; inside, he was patient, kind.

Heather: So a different personality emerged in his groups?

Dick: Or some very interesting opposite manifestation of the same personality. I was quite surprised and pleased that within the context of the group he was so present and available.

Heather: How did you become a student of his?

Dick: I began with him when I was the administrator here. I came primarily for my own personal work, not at the time with any idea of becoming a practitioner myself. That just evolved later. As our relationship got better, he invited me to train with him. My personal work was still primary; the training relationship was secondary. Fritz really didn't enter into formal training relationships. You learned from him by simply being with him, going to his groups, and getting limited feedback . . . you tended to be very much on your own. Fritz made a strong point that he didn't want to create a lot of "little Fritzes." The approach was to be utilized in relationship to the person learning it not according to any formula. So in one way "training" is the wrong word for gestalt.

Heather: So you learned by doing.

Dick: . . . learned by doing, by being receptive and making my own gestalt formations.

Heather: So you were really tuning into how you could work yourself and with others.

Dick: That is true of gestalt work anyway. Practitioners set up a situation in which they make their own discoveries whether they're doing their own personal work or they're working with others.

Heather: How do you feel Fritz influenced Esalen?

Dick: He was certainly one of the greatest influences on Esalen. In the years he was here he was always experimenting and attempting to move to new things. Fritz had been influenced by Zen, by psychodrama, and by Charlotte Selver's sensory awareness. Gestalt was itself a synthesis coming to its own integrity. People would come to that sometimes attempting to take the whole, sometimes to take a part, attempting in turn to make their own synthesis. The basic elements of what he did became a very strong part of Esalen, influencing, more or less, the range of approaches here.

Heather: Would you say that the spirit of Fritz's work pervades Esalen more than any other particular approach?

Dick: I think there are two streams. One is best represented by Fritz and the other by Ida Rolf. If you want a parallel, Fritz was working with the relative plasticity of the character structure and Ida with the relative plasticity of the physical structure. What happened in the 60's was the joining and converging of these two streams, and the marriage between the two is the fundamental matrix from which Esalen proceeds to this day.

Even though Ida came to Esalen through Fritz, and Fritz credited Ida with extending his life by opening up his heart cavity through the body work she did on him, he made a comment that once Ida combines her work with his, "then she would really have something." And Ida could very well have said the same thing about his work: that once Fritz combined his approach with hers then there really would be something. And Esalen has effectively gone a long way in fulfilling that relationship.

Heather: What most appealed to you about his work?

Dick: I had been to a number of practitioners before Fritz and he was the first who focused on what my experience was and not on a lot of talking about behavior. As simple as that was, it was something of a revelation in giving me a practical way to handle what was going on with me.

"Our main function is to reflect and to clarify, giving authority back to the person rather than taking it ourselves."

When he came here he had four words for his approach: "I and Thou, Here and Now." So for the first time, I think, in such a relationship I felt like a "Thou" rather than an "It." And I appreciated that immensely.

Heather: It is such a simple concept.

Dick: Yes, it seems the ultimate in simplicity and it is. Fritz at one point talks about "the philosophy of the obvious." I relate it to Tao Te Ching, where the problem is not so much in learning something new but in unlearning something old. There aren't all sorts of other things to learn but rather to unlearn. In Taoist terminology, you return to your original block rather than complicate the carving on that block.

Heather: What is it about Fritz's work that you would qualify?

Dick: We have made the work less confrontive — "softer." Rather than attempting to frustrate what a person is doing we follow the stream. And we have changed some of the terminology. For example, the "hot-seat" has an obvious connotation. We say "open-seat" instead. And we changed "therapy" to "practice"—something we do along with rather than to someone. Much less opposition is set up. What Fritz used to call the "defeat the therapist game" is played much less.

Heather: Do you feel that he was sensitive enough to people? Or was he often just trying to frustrate them?

Dick: I think that a lot of people did primarily pick up on Fritz's "meanness," his confrontiveness. Frustration isn't always "skillful frustration" which is something of a problem with people attempting to imitate Fritz. Fritz, I think, could be very present and go with the flow—especially when he himself was interested or liked someone. And if he didn't like someone or was annoyed by what they were doing then he could be very, very frustrating and, I think, often appropriately so.

Heather: Do you do that yourself in your own work? Depending on the work that the person is doing do you tend to one direction or another?

Dick: Yes, but I would say Fritz's work was 50-50. Ours tends to be 90-10 and the frustration element is much less.

Heather: In my work with Chris [Price], watching how she goes with exactly what is happening, it is almost as if she is psychically reading what I am doing before I am aware of what it is.

Dick: We do what we call "tracking" or what the Ericksonians call "pacing." In other words we're entering another person's patterns of breathing, their gestural patterns, and so on. As much as possible we are going with, almost entering the space in which they are working and getting our feedback from that position. Our main function is to reflect and to clarify, giving authority back to the person rather than taking it ourselves. Even if a person chooses to in some way "not grow," what we are asking is that they come to a point of choice for that. I can summarize the approach in three terms: awareness or mindfulness; responsibility or choice; and trust. Trust primarily in one's own process, one's own ability with awareness and choice to come to the best possible self-regulation.

Instead of therapists we refer to ourselves as reflectors giving feedback with as little interference as possible. Rather than "change" we ask for clarity of contact, which I think is essential to the gestalt approach.

Heather: The change can come after.

Dick: The change might come after. Or someone might come to the point of choice, not to change.

Heather: And until you come into an awareness. . . .

Dick: . . . . you are not in a position to make a clear choice. Without complete contact and complete owning of what I am doing any change is likely to be spurious. If I fully own that this is what I am doing then I'm in a position to look at what my alternatives are in my present life. At the time when I set up a behavior, perhaps I didn't have any other real choice.

Heather: The trust that you talk about as being an essential part of working with someone, did Fritz develop that same sense of trust?

Dick: Working effectively with Fritz, part of the experience was in fact learning to trust yourself.

Heather: How was it that he came into originating and developing gestalt therapy?

Dick: He and his wife, Laura, developed it over a period of time, each in their own way. He had been a training analyst in South Africa where they moved in 1934. I get the impression that Fritz became bored with the role of analyst, and for his own entertainment be began something else. In South Africa he wasn't under the same peer pressure to be a "legitimate" analyst. Being willing to experiment was a wonderful characteristic of Fritz.

Heather: So in a way he didn't have to be concerned with what his peers were doing or thinking of his work.

Dick: So it would seem. He was not so terribly inclined to be that concerned anyway. And in some way he was. One paradox in Fritz was that he both wanted to do what he wanted to do and he wanted peer recognition.

Paul Herbert

Heather: Did he actually get recognition during his lifetime?

Dick: When he was about 73 he said that he wanted to "be as famous as he deserved to be" by the time he was 75. And on his 75th birthday he decided he was as famous as he wanted to be, as he deserved to be. He gave me the lesson of seeing that that evaluation was perfectly subjective, that anyone could decide at anytime that they were "as famous as they deserved to be," and then hopefully just drop it. So he did, in a way, loosen up in the last year or so of life. He was as a matter of fact getting a lot of recognition. I remember when he first was here he had only about four or five people coming to the group. He almost left. Then a workshop or two later he would get eight or nine, which would be just enough to keep him here. Even in 1966, when I began working with him, he only had about 12 or 13 people in a five day group. And then in 1968 he began to get more popular until in 1969 we had to turn people away. For his weekends he was drawing a full house, as many as one hundred people, and many of them were professionals.

Paul Herbert

Gradually over these years be became a lot happier. His health and his spirits improved greatly as he got what he needed: good food, a place to be, fresh air, and the affection and contact which he simply wasn't getting when he was going about with no real home.

Heather: And people were genuinely interested in his work.

Dick: Right, and they were appreciating him. He came into aspects of himself that were healthier and more loving and productive.

Heather: To what do you attribute his recognition? Was it a combination of his being at Esalen as well as an increasing interest in the human potential movement?

Dick: I think it was both. It was a combination of the man and the situation and his very real theatrical ability that made him the focal character of the human potential movement of the 60's. He says, somewhere in his writings: ". . . the arrow Fritz hitting the bull's eye Esalen."

Dick Price is the co-founder of Esalen and has been practicing gestalt as a facilitator for twelve years.

Fritz

from John Heider's Esalen Journal

August 29, 1968

By getting what I want, I become content and free this energy. In the unsatisfied me, the energy can be seen in the static form of chronic muscle tension. These chronically tensed muscles are safely locked in place and are barriers to both action and emotion. Wilhelm Reich called them muscle armorings, but Fritz Perls says that the Reichian formulation is paranoid and suggests threat from the outside. Fritz calls them self-imposed straight jackets. You don't trust yourself, so you cut off a portion of yourself and ostracise, so to speak. Fritz asks his patients to reestablish discourse with the disowned parts in order to reintegrate them into the whole self. When they are re-integrated, the energy, which hitherto has gone to wage civil war, is once again available. This is a very powerful idea. It makes sense of the injunctions of Socrates to know thyself and his more specific wish that the outward and the inner man be one. It also makes sense of the local expression, "let it all hang out." Be you, accept you, don't waste energy isolating and rejecting parts of yourself. Don't be on guard all the time, when by letting it all hang out there is nothing to guard.

Fritz is 75, a distinguished, if controversial scientist and therapist. He is no hero but a tremendously varied man, and overflowing with energy. I have no use for gurus who bare no resemblance to their promises for others; and of all the gurus that pass through or live at Esalen, Fritz may be the most manifested. Whether he is being mean or compassionate, he is a powerful presence.

By power, once again I refer to the ability to make an act have a chosen effect. Whereas energy can be scattered and impotent as in an energetic puppy, power is the efficacious application of energy.

Fritz has power, and even as the years reduce his energy, such is his balance that he can achieve great results.

August 31, 1968

When I first met Fritz, last September, I was afraid of him. I was afraid that he would waste me with a glance or a word. He does this to importunate strangers, especially stuffed shirts, and I incline in that direction.

In his workshops he can be a shameless tyrant. If a person comes to sit on the "hot seat" to work with Fritz and then sits silently or asks what to do, Fritz may puff on his cigarette and look or say, "I don't care what you do" with dismissing tones and Berlin accent. He withers people who try to suck him in or beartrap him, people who play helpless and feed off others and refuse to take responsibility for their own power.

But he is not the Black Magician, the Evil Man, I thought.

Fritz: "I am I; you are you.
I do my thing, you do your thing.
I am not in this world to fulfill your expectations.
You are not in this world to fulfill my expectations."

Sunday January 26, 1969

"When Fritz gets bored, he conceives grand schemes. At breakfast he talked about a plan to "infect the ministry." He wants to run Gestalt workshops designed to pull religion out of its moral morass and focus man on the god within. When he is in this mood, Fritz talks as if the take-over would require only a few workshops.

Then Lorna sat beside him. He asks her which vegetables he should eat now. She tells Fritz that carrots are good to clear the mind. He harrumphs and says that for years he has been trying to get rid of his mind and now she wants him to improve it.

John Heider was a 1967® 1968 Esalen Resident Fellow and leader of subsequent Resident Fellow and catalog programs. Presently living in Florida, he is giving a workshop at Esalen on May 1® 6.

Satellite Rock-and-Roll Fest Beams U.S.-Soviet Bond

By Keith Thompson

"There was a point when we saw each other seeing each other, back and forth. It was a powerful, wonderful thing. The Russians were crying, screaming, hollering; it was one of the most moving experiences they had ever had. Afterward some of them told me that for the first and probably only time in their lives, they had lived in history."—Jim Hickman, reflecting on the success of the first US-USSR satellite rock concert.

Over Labor Day weekend in September, 1982, more than 300,000 people gathered in the scenic foothills of the San Bernadino Mountains in southern California to participate in the first "US Festival," a celebration combining innovative applications of communications and computer technology, the universal language of music and song, and generous doses of human spirit to help foster cooperation and understanding among young people all over the world.

The US Festival was produced by the UNUSON Corporation, a company created by Apple Computer mogul Stephen Wozniak to help create an international awareness of the need to strike a balance between serving oneself and serving others — in other words, serving us. "The problems the world faces belong to all of us, and we can solve them by working together," says UNUSON president Peter Ellis. "We're celebrating the beginning of a decade that, we hope, will be marked by cooperation, teamwork, and a willingness to ask "What's in it for us?" before "What's in it for me?"

While the planning for the US Festival had been underway for more than a year, one of the most remarkable events of the weekend—a satellite link-up between American and Soviet rock musicians—was planned only in the final weeks before the festival, and its chances for success were uncertain even in the final hours before the satellite simulcast was scheduled.

The idea came in a late-night brainstorming session weeks before the festival, when Ellis and UNUSON associate, Richard Lukens, asked each other a simple question: "Would it be possible to have the Russians participate via live satellite link-up?" As they fleshed out this exciting yet seemingly remote possibility,

Videotape by Unuson Corporation & Gostele Radio

they became convinced that such a direct Soviet-American connection could be a striking example of the US Festival's larger theme: the spirit of people all over the world pulling together, serving one another, emphasizing the aspirations for peace and comraderie common to the people of both nations. Ready for a challenge, they set about making it happen.

Lukens knew of Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange Program and approached its director Jim Hickman with the idea. Hickman felt it was a unique opportunity for Russians and Americans to connect with one another, and he agreed to propose the link-up to the Soviets during a forthcoming trip to Moscow. With but a few weeks remaining before the festival and in the face of expert opinion that it could not be accomplished the wheels were set in motion.

In Moscow, Hickman and former astronaut Rusty Schweikart (who was there to lecture at the USSR Academy of Sciences) and Esalen's Soviet trustee Joseph Goldin met with representatives of the State Committee for Radio and Television (Gosteleradio). The idea of satellite participation in a large gathering of young Americans was well received by the Soviets, but the timing was poor since August is a holiday month in Moscow. They felt it would be difficult to coordinate so complex an undertaking in so little time, with most decision-makers on vacation. Still, Hickman felt encouraged to proceed with the preparations. As he was returning to the United States, Lukens was at work coordinating the technical aspects of the satellite hook-up and working with the Soviet Embassy in Washington to secure visas and other travel arrangements.

•••

Meanwhile, at the festival site in California, efforts were proceeding apace for three days of live music by thirty of America's most popular rock and country/western bands. Speakers designed to carry the music to 300,000 people with the quality of front-row seats were placed throughout the 60 acre amphitheater. Two 60 foot screens on either side of the stage were designed to make giants of such superstars as Fleetwood Mac, The Grateful Dead, The Police, Jackson Browne, and Eddie Money. Above the stage, a "diamond vision" screen displayed US Festival logos with crystalline clarity, and laser light beams were placed to criss-cross the night sky. A huge circus tent was raised to house state-of-the-art video games, synthesizers, and home computers. Campsites and portable toilets were readied. Massive sprinkling systems were erected to help the crowds stay cool in the sweltering desert heat. Against this unprecedented "high-tech" backdrop, festival planners had arranged for mime artists, jugglers, puppeteers, and other roving entertainment. All that was left to come were the participants, and come they did—slowly, steadily, enthusiastically—from all over America and the world, many of them waiting nearby for days for the grounds to open on September 3.

***

With just four days left before the festival, there had still been no final go-ahead from Moscow. Lukens returned to California to wait for word, and Hickman planned a fishing trip with his family. Then the call came: the visas were approved. The Soviets wanted to participate. The link-up was on!

Hickman and Lukens left for Moscow immediately and arrived two days before the festival to begin several hours of negotiations with Gosteleradio on the best format for the link-up and other strategic issues. Potential hitches and miscommunications hovered momentarily and were finally avoided, allowing remaining red tape to be brushed aside and work to begin on creating a "mini-festival" in the Moscow studio featuring several hundred Soviet students. Three half-hour satellite broadcasts were arranged, one on Saturday morning and two on Sunday.

The Saturday broadcast, which introduced several pre-recorded segments, featured a panel involving Hickman, Lukens, and a Soviet television commentator. After a few hours of sleep in their hotel room, Hickman and Lukens returned to the studio at 5:00 am Sunday to prepare for the live two-way broadcast. Hickman recalls entering the studio, still wiping the sleep from his eyes: "The last thing I had seen the night before was a huge, quiet room with a yellow rug and nothing else. When I walked in that morning, all the lights were up, two big bands were on the stage and a third was setting up. Six cameras were panning a group of 300 bright-eyed 18 to 25 year old Russians who were tossing beach balls, dancing around and singing with the music. I threaded my way through the crowd, stood in the middle of the room, and turned around in circles, trying to believe what I was seeing. It was one of the most extraordinary moments of my life."

The telecasts were technically flawless on the Soviet side. A 10 foot screen had been erected in the Moscow studio on which the Russian participants could see the California festival live and uncensored. An electronic mirror allowed the Russians to see themselves on the 60-foot diamond vision screen being watched by 300,000 Americans on site in California. As the screen flashed the backdrop of the festival banner from the Moscow studio, Hickman and Lukens stood with hundreds of Soviet teenagers, threw beach balls in the air and proclaimed, with what can only be called satellite-age panache, "LIVE! FROM MOSCOW! IT'S SATURDAY NIGHT!"

Comments of the young Soviet participants ranged from the incredulous to the ecstatic: "It's amazing, we saw the Americans, and they're the same as us . . ." "I am shaken to the core, something has changed inside me . . ." "I feel a spiritual uplift . . ." "I was overwhelmed by the recognition that we are all inhabitants of the same small planet . . ." "Music is a language through which we can understand and communicate with each other—we with the Americans and they with us."

The afternoon following the festival, Hickman and Lukens watched a report on the link-up on Vremya, the influential television news program viewed by 150 million Soviets every night. "The first thing Vremya showed was the festival site with thousands of young Americans," Lukens recalls. "For three minutes we watched the spectacular phenomenon of Eddie Money playing his latest American hit and the Soviets dancing to it. Our segment was the entire culture segment of the program, three times as long as any other feature, and it was an accurate representation of what happened."

In an article about the US Festival telecast, the Soviet newspaper 'Literaturnaya Gazeta wrote: "It became clear to everyone once more that we are the crew of a very small ship, the 'Earth,' and its survival in the cosmic ocean depends on US. The opportunity to send their regards to their American counterparts 12,000 miles away was seen by Soviet young people as a unique television peace march."

Reflecting on the memory of Russians and Americans roaring good wishes and blowing kisses to each other, Hickman said: "The important thing is what we do with these feelings to bring us all closer together. This is the heart and spirit of the Esalen Exchange Program."

"GETTING BORN WAS THE HARD PART"

Thoughts on Spiritual Practice and Social Action

Kathy J. Thornood

by Jack Kornfield

Jack Kornfield is a teacher of Vipassana (Insight) meditation and co-founder with Joseph Goldstein of the Insight Meditation Society in Barre, Massachusetts. Each year he and Joseph co-lead meditation retreats at the Barre center and at locations around the world, including an annual April retreat in the desert of southern California. The format consists of intensive practice in sitting and walking meditation, with a talk each evening followed by questions and answers. At the April, 1982 desert retreat, a student asked the following question: "Here I am sitting on my ass for two weeks, dealing with a lot of pain and gaining insight into the nature of my mind, while the problems of the world grow steadily worse. What I'd like to know is how can meditation practice be brought into line with enlightened social and political action, or whether they can be brought together, or should I choose one or the other?" Jack answered that he had planned to talk about this very topic two nights later, and he did. Here is a condensed version of his talk.

In speaking the other evening, I promised to address the question of service and responsibility in the world. The question is how to reconcile service with non-attachment, with emptiness of self, with non-self. Tonight I want to talk with you about learning to distinguish love, compassion, and equanimity from what might be called their "near-enemies." The near-enemy to love is attachment. It masquerades as love: "I love, I love this person, I love this thing," which usually means "I want to hold it, I want to keep it, I don't want to let it be." This isn't love at all; it's attachment, and they're different. There's a big difference between love, which allows and honors and appreciates, and attachment, which grasps and holds and aims to possess. The near-enemy to compassion is pity. Instead of feeling the openness of compassion, pity says, "Oh, that poor person! They're suffering; they're different from me." This sets up separation and duality. "That is outside me; I want it, I need it to be complete." I and it are seen as different. The near- enemy to equanimity is indifference. It feels very equanimous to say, "I don't give a damn, I don't care, I'm really not attached to it," and in a way it's a very peaceful, relieved feeling. Why is that? Because it's a withdrawal; it's a removal from world and from life. Can you see the difference? Equanimity, again like love and compassion, is not a removal. It's being in the middle of the world and opening to it with balance, seeing the unity in things. Compassion is a sense of our shared suffering. Equanimity is a balanced engagement with life. The others—attachment, pity, and indifference—all are ways of backing away from fear, of removing ourselves. It's not a departure from the world that meditation leads to but a deeper vision that's not self- centered, that moves from I and other, from that dualistic way of viewing, to a more spontaneous, whole, unified way.

I went to see a teacher in India named Vimala Thakar for an interview as part of a media project I'm involved with. She's been a meditation teacher for many years and in many ways is a Dharma heir to Krishnamurti. After she had been working in rural development for many years, Krishnamurti asked her to begin to teach, and she became a powerful and much-loved meditation teacher. Now she has returned to her rural development work and she's not teaching as much meditation anymore. So I went to her and asked, "Why did you go back to rural development and helping the hungry and homeless after teaching meditation?" and she was insulted by my question. She said, "Sir," (as Krishnamurti does) "I am a lover of life, sir, and I make no distinction between serving people who are starving and have no dignity in their physical lives and serving people who are fearful and closed and have no dignity in their mental lives. There's no difference to me. I love all of life and the way that I give is to respond to whatever's presented to me."

It was a wonderful response! There's a Sufi or Islamic phrase that puts it together. It says: "Praise Allah, and tie your camel to the post." It's both sides; pray, yes, but also make sure you do what's necessary in the world. It's a balance between what don Juan called "controlled folly"—seeing that all of life is a show of light and sound and that this tiny blue-green planet hangs in space with millions and billions of stars and galaxies, and that people have only been here for one second of world time compared with millions of years of other changes. This context helps us to laugh more often, to enter into life with joy and controlled folly and not with a sense of self importance. But the other side, the balance to that, is a quality of impeccability, of realizing how precious life is, even though it's transient and ephemeral, and how, in fact, each of our actions and words do count; each affects all the beings around us in a very profound way.

You know, I could make a very convincing case to you if I wanted, for the practice of sitting meditation—just to do that and nothing else—and an equally convincing case for going out and serving the world. Look at it from the first side. Does the world need more oil and energy and food? Actually, no. There are enough resources for all of us. There is starvation and poverty and disease because of ignorance, prejudice, and fear, because we hoard and create wars over imaginary geographic boundaries and act as if one group of people are different from another group somewhere else on the planet. What the world needs is not more oil, but more love and generosity, kindness, and understanding. And until those are attained, the other levels won't work, so you really have to sit and meditate and get that understanding in yourself first. I won't go any further with this argument but it could be very convincing.

As for the other side, well, I only have to mention Cambodia or Somalia and the starvation in Central Africa and India, where the enormity of the suffering is almost beyond comprehension. In India alone, 350,000,000 people live in such poverty that they have to work that day to get enough food to feed themselves that night, if they're lucky. We interviewed a man in Calcutta who was 64 years old and pulled a rickshaw for a living. He's been pulling it for forty years and he had ten people dependent on him for income. He'd gotten sick once the year before for ten days and after a week they ran out of money. How can we let this happen? Forty deaths per minute from starvation in the world; $714,000 a minute spent on machines to kill people.

Extended logically, both arguments are quite convincing, aren't they? The question is how to choose what to do, what path to take, where to put our energy in life—even which spiritual path to follow. Spirituality in this country has blossomed and it's exquisite! It's also kind of confusing. There are so many ways to go—how to decide? I can just share my own experience which is a very immediate one. A couple of years ago war was raging in Cambodia. I know some people there and a couple of the local languages, and I said, "I'm going," and I went, not for very long but long enough to be of some assistance. This year, feeling a real need to bring a greater marriage of service and formal meditation, I went to India again with some friends to collect tapes for radio and television on the relationship between spiritual practice and social responsibility.

I didn't think about it much at the time. It just seemed like it had to be done and I went and did it. It's really something immediate and personal. The spiritual path doesn't hold out some simple solution, some easy formula for everyone to follow. It's not a question of imitation. You can't be like Mother Theresa. She's Mother Theresa, and she's wonderful. If you tried, you wouldn't be like you. You have to be yourself. What it means is listening to your heart to know the right thing to do, and then doing it in the spirit of growing in awareness and service.

It's not always easy. Nobody said it was easy. Getting born was the hard part. It's not an easy trip even getting out of the womb. It's really difficult and there's a lot that's hard. It's beautiful too, but it's difficult, so that's fine. That's how it is. There's the story of Mother Theresa and her ring, which many of you have heard. Someone said to Mother Theresa, "Well, you know, it's easier for you. You're not married or in a relationship."

"What do you mean?" she answered. "I am married," holding up the ring that signifies the marriage of Jesus to the nun: "And he can be very difficult."

There are two great forces in this world. One is the force of killing. That's how dictators run places. They run them by killing other people. By being willing and not being afraid to kill. It's true. But there's another great force equally powerful, maybe more so, and that's the force of not being afraid to die. That's the only force that's powerful enough to meet someone who's not afraid to kill. What Gandhi showed in India was the power of this force. Thousands of troops came from one direction to partition and to quell the riots, while from the other direction came one person, Gandhi, whose strategy eventually succeeded. How did he do it? He said, "I'm going to starve. I won't eat until you guys cut this out." He knew that his people cared for him so much, they wouldn't let him die. That's what love is—putting yourself on the line. The spirit of service in little ways and big ways, that's really what practice is: serving ourselves, serving the world around us. It's a giving of ourselves or a giving up of ourselves to the unity, the whole, and not just this little I-me-mine. It's powerful and it's joyful. It's really wonderful to learn to give. It's freeing.

One of the exquisite experiences in my travels in India was to go to the holy city of Benares to the Ganges River bank, filled with hundreds of temples and stores and markets. Along the Ganges are the bathing ghats where people come to pay their respects and bathe as a purification, and also there are ghats where they bring bodies to burn. I'd heard about them for years and had always thought, "Wow, that must be a heavy place. They bring bodies there and they burn them and it must be really intense." It was amazing to be rowed in this little boat down the Ganges in a very quiet way up to the burning ghats where there were maybe twelve different fires going and six or eight of them were going with bodies on them. Every fifteen minutes or half an hour, they'd carry a new body down to the fires, chanting "Rama Nama Satya Hei," which could be translated as "The only truth is the name of God." It wasn't heavy at all. It was peaceful and quiet and sane. It was really sane. It was just, "Well, that's what happens."

What does this have to do with meditation practice? It has to do with the recognition that, in the face of the tremendous suffering of the world, there can be joy that comes not from denying pain and seeking pleasure, but from our ability to sit in meditation, even when it's difficult, and to let our hearts open to our experience. It's really the nitty-gritty work of practice to sit here and feel your sadness and my sadness and our fear, our desperation and our restlessness, to open to them and begin to learn that to love is to die to how we want it to be and to open more to its truth. To love is to accept. It's not a weakness at all; it's the most extraordinary power.

There's a beautiful sutra that talks about the blessings of those who grow in this kind of love. It's called the cultivation of loving-kindness and it lists fifty blessings that come through diligent practice. It says that if your heart is open and loving, you will have sweet dreams and fall asleep more easily and awaken contented with a smile. The devas and angels will love and protect you and men and women will love you and weapons won't be able to harm you. Guns will misfire and poison won't work and things that come to harm you won't be able to, it's such a powerful force. People will welcome you everywhere into their countries and into their homes and you'll have pleasant thoughts and your mind will become very quiet. Animals will sense this love and they'll love you back. Elephants will bow to you and your voice will become sweet and soft and your babies will be happy in the womb and happy when they grow up. If you fall off a cliff, it says, a tree will always be there to catch you. Your countenance will be serene and your eyes shiny and you'll become awakened.

This is, anyway, what the sutra says will happen. We don't talk about loving-kindness early on in the retreat for the good reason that people are sitting with restlessness and anger and knee pains. Joy, peace, and serenity are not what's happening. But I'll tell you a secret that's real important in the practice: true love—not the near-enemies of "I want" or "I'm in love with", but deeper love than that—is really the same as awareness; they're identical. It's to see the divine goodness, the Buddha nature, the truth of each moment and to say yes, to allow ourselves to open, to accept. That's really our practice every moment, whether in sitting meditation or action-meditation, whether sitting on a cushion or sitting near the barricades in protest. It's to be aware, to see the truth which frees us; it's opening to what's now, to what's here, and to seeing it as it is.

The forces of injustice in the world loom so huge, and sometimes we feel so tiny; how are we to have an impact? I'll leave you with the words of don Jose, speaking of don Genaro in Castaneda's Tales of Power:

> Genaro's love is the world . . . He was just now embracing this enormous earth but since he's so little all he can do is swim in it. But the earth knows that Genaro loves it and it bestows on him its care. That's why Genaro's life is filled to the brim and his state, wherever he'll be, will be plentiful . . .
>
> Only if one loves this earth with unbending passion can one release one's sadness. A warrior is always joyful because his love is unalterable and his beloved, the earth, bestows upon him inconceivable gifts . . .
>
> Only the love for this splendorous being can give freedom to a warrior's spirit; and freedom is joy, efficiency, and abandon in the face of any odds. That is the last lesson. It is always left for the very last moment, for the moment of ultimate solitude when a man faces his death and his aloneness. Only then does it make sense

Kathy J. Thornod

• WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN •

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose that approach which feels most appropriate and pursue it in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work- Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 14 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self- exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

SCHOLARSHIP INFORMATION: If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June 15–September 15 programs or for weekend programs. There are no scholarships available for The Work- Study Program.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self- awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls).

Schedule:
May 15–20	$390
May 27–29	$190
June 17–19	$190

June 24–26	$190
July 10–15	$420
July 15–17	$210
July 24–29	$420
July 29–31	$210
August 5–7	$210
August 7–12	$420
August 21–26	$420
September 9–11	$210
September 18–23	$420
September 23–25	$210

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

Similar in format to Experiencing Esalen, these workshops will emphasize learning different ways to keep your body healthy and vital. Participants will be introduced to various approaches Esalen offers for fitness, stress reduction, and body awareness. Some of the following practices will be included: dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, yoga, hiking, meditation, massage, and diet and nutritional information. The staff will provide guidance to help you find and select the practices most suitable to your individual needs.

Schedule:

July 3–8	$420
July 22–24	$210
July 31–August 5	$420
August 26–28	$210
September 4–9	$420

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls); Tao Te Ching (Lao Tzu); The Power of Mindfulness (Nyanponika Thera); Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg (J. C. Pearce); Illusions (Richard Bach).

Schedule:

May 8–13	$390
June 19–24	$390
July 3–8	$420
July 29–31	$210
August 7–12	$420
September 11–16	$420

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length) and weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration.

Schedule:

July 8–10	$210
August 14–19	$420
September 2–4	$210
September 11–16	$420
October 9–14	$420

Special Programs for Managers and Trainers

June 5–8
An Alternative Approach to Management

Joel & Susan Kirsch

In a management survey, the most frequently mentioned concerns were dealing with change, conflict, communication, leadership, team building, and stress management.

These topics will be addressed using simple physical movement activities derived from the gentle martial art of aikido in which the body itself becomes a metaphor for learning. Participants will gain insights into how their way of being influences their success. "We face a tough task in changing how we manage because we are a large part of the problem," writes Richard Pascale. "We must change who are are, as well as what we do."

Pascale, co-author of The Art of Japanese Management, will participate in Monday's program and host a conversation session Monday evening.

$765

June 19–22
A New Approach to Human Resource Development

Joel & Susan Kirsch

Drawing from principles of management, education, psychology, consciousness research, and the martial art of aikido, this workshop is designed for personnel in training and human resource development in business, education, and the social sciences.

This workshop will introduce a unique method for using the body as a learning facility in training and development programs. Participants will learn effective ways to develop leadership, deal with change, increase motivation, improve communication, maximize personal power, increase problem solving ability, and facilitate team building.

Workshop guest Sheldon Davis, vice-president of Digital, will discuss applications of this approach to the HRD specialist.

$765

• WORK-STUDY PROGRAM •

The Work-Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen. It is a work oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to community labor needs and work assignments are made according to those requirements.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders, who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a specific interest section which focuses primarily on one type of growth practice, such as gestalt and Reichian work, massage and body work, etc.

The schedule of specific interest programs planned thus far for 1983 includes:

May 29–June 26: A one month energy awareness program coordinated by George Leonard. There will be no general interest section offered this month.

June 26–July 24: A one month group process program coordinated by Janet Zuckerman.

July 24–September 18: A two month program focused on gestalt practice coordinated by Christine Price and Seymour Carter.

*These two programs may be applied to as a three month unit, or as two separate programs.

Mid-October–Mid-January: A program focused on holistic studies coordinated by Polly Kirby. For more details write Polly Kirby, c/o Esalen.

In as much as the Work-Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing® are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

The 28 day Work-Study Program costs $600 for the first month. A $300 deposit in U.S. currency is required with your application. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month, at a cost of $550, or a third month at a cost of $500 depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. There are no scholarships available for The Work-Study Program.

Esalen offers an intensive three month Work-Study course in basic organic horticulture. The cost of this program is $1650. A $400 deposit is required. In filling out the Work-Study application, please indicate your preference for landscaping, gardening, or small scale farming.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work-Study Program,
Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.
Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt.

Available dates: May 1–May 29; May 29–June 26; June 26–July 24; July 24–August 21; August 21–September 18; September 18–October 16; October 16–November 13; November 13–December 11; December 18–January 15; January 15–February 12; etc.

• Application to the Work-Study Program •

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐

I prefer the specific interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ in _____.
(subject)

I am applying for the three month organic horticulture program. yes ☐ no ☐

The Work-Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

If you have emergency medical skills, (M.D., E.M.T. or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay please check here. ☐

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles, group leaders, and dates: _____

_____

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work-Study Program. Include any skills you may have available.

Joyce Rogers

Weekend of May 6–8

Leonard Energy Training: The State of the Art

George Leonard & the Energy Training Staff

In the world of Energy Training, problems become opportunities. Stress and pain become gifts of energy. Personal and social options are multiplied. The flow of vital energy is enhanced. Leonard Energy Training is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations. It is not physically demanding. It does not aim at emotional catharsis. Most of the training involves simple movement exercises in which the body itself becomes a learning facility. Participants will practice such things as centering, relaxing under pressure, blending, and alternative ways of being. There will also be discussions of applications to education, sports, management, relationships, social transformation, and personal growth.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse. $190

Edible Landscaping—More Food, Less Work

Robert Kourik

Beauty, recreational pleasure, and fresh, vibrant food with superior flavor can be yours with an edible landscape. This workshop is for those who want to design and maintain a low care/high yield food producing landscape.

The well planned landscape brings together self-seeding annual vegetables, herbs, native plants, ornamentals, soil improvers, and beneficial insect attractants to assist in the evolution of a biologically sustainable landscape. The model of an edible landscape is the mature, stable forest community with its biological web of interdependencies and ecological wisdom.

The goal of this workshop is to gain better insight into the design "tools" required to blend together the elements of a holistic edible landscape for your family and home. To supplement the slide shows and lectures, the workshop will tour through the beautiful ornamental and edible landscape and farm production project at Esalen. $190

A Practical Approach to Sexual Counseling

Jack Rosenberg

This course is a practical approach to sexual counseling from both a physiological and psychological point of view.

Sexual difficulties can be a symptom of what is going on in a relationship. In turn, the relationship is almost always a reflection of what is going on in each individual's psyche. The difficulty of moving from the symptom of sex, through the relationship, to the intrapsychic process is a major task of the clinician. With the use of lecture, demonstration, and group experience, the participants will be introduced to a way of working with this task from the perspective of the body. C. E. credit for doctors and nurses is available; for additional information see page 38. $190

The Transformation Project: A Progress Report

Michael Murphy & Steven Donovan

Michael Murphy's novel, Jacob Atabet, speculated that the next stage of human development would involve the power to alter the physical body at will. The Transformation Project was organized in 1976 to explore this possibility. A comparative study is being made of thirty-eight research fields (including transformational religious practice, spiritual healing, hypnosis, spontaneous remission from disease, psychic research and parapsychology, sport and physical fitness, acupuncture, psychotherapy, and creativity) to find the fundamental psychophysical processes inherent in high level human functioning, and to develop disciplines to effect such high level change. We will present results to date (with emphasis on meditation, imagery, and sport), and discuss the implications of these results for individual practice.

Recommended reading: Jacob Atabet and The Psychic Side of Sports by Michael Murphy (available through Esalen). $190

Week of May 8–13

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $390

Energy Training and the Samurai Game

George Leonard & the Energy Training Staff with Werner Erhard

This workshop provides a rare opportunity for you to immerse yourself, under game conditions, in the life of the medieval Japanese samurai. The Samurai Game was created by George Leonard and is used in the est Six-Day Training. Est founder, Werner Erhard will be in attendance on Wednesday and Thursday and will lead the game Wednesday night. Its purpose is to make it possible for you to experience a style of governance and consciousness radically different from that of 20th century America, and to face symbolic death and rebirth. By entering this other world, you get a chance to see your own life with new eyes, and to fully comprehend the futility of conflict. During the workshop, you will receive a thorough grounding in Energy Training and will play three complete Samurai Games. Between games, you will continue to live samurai-style with your own group much of the time, and to join in creating legends, songs, poems, and a history in the spirit of bushido, the Way of the Warrior. The Samurai Game is not physically demanding, but is psychologically intense and must be played wholeheartedly.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse; Taisen Deshimaru, The Zen Way to the Martial Arts; Inazo Nitobe, Bushido, the Warrior's Code. $390

The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing for the Health Professional

Jack Downing & Murray Korngold

The "art" of healing is seldom taught as a rational discipline. We propose that empathy between care-giver and care-receiver can form the base for the "art" of healing; that conscious empathy can be developed through the faculty of intuition, and that this skill provides a matrix for joining effective healing to scientific knowledge. The health professional becomes a healer. Healing demands the deepest intent from the professonal; the balance between professionalism and personal feelings must be adjusted in order to enhance the healing process. Key to this is the willingness to sense and respond to subtle body cues, both in oneself and the patient. The course will provide lecture and practical experience on empathy development and application to clinical situations. C. E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Weekend of May 13–15

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Being close yet also free to grow individually is a most important theme in any intimate relationship. This weekend will be tailored to what each participant brings, and will provide structured experiences designed to enhance communication, help resolve conflict, raise self-esteem, and promote fun. Limited to ten couples. $190 per participant

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $190

Psyche-do: Fundamentals of Conflict Resolution in Everyday Life

Terry Dobson

Conflict is the opposition of principles, forces, or wills; resolution is the process by which we bring these opposites into agreement. Based on principles derived from the art of aikido, this workshop examines several conflicts of ordinary life—our family quarrels, our lovers' spats, our hassles with the "problem people" we encounter at work, the internal struggles we have with ourselves. It will explore ways to handle resistance and the buttons that trigger our fears and competitiveness. Through lectures, body-movement, role-playing, and individual work, participants will look for ways to gain and regain composure under fire, ways to diffuse the anger and hostility in ourselves and other people. $190

Ways to Transform Self and Society

Donald Keys

We can learn to use the creative tension between our inner life and the outer world to generate rapid growth in ourselves and constructive change in the world. At this time of earth crisis and transition, well-centered "change agents" are vitally needed. Personal transformation and transformation of society go together, but the person who takes responsibility needs to learn the methods and principles of a spiritual stance in the world.

In this workshop we will use group discussion, guided imagery and music, lecture, and meditation to experience personally and directly our inner direction as the basis for manifesting a transformed Earth.

Recommended reading: Earth at Omega: Passage to Planetization, Donald Keys (Brandon); Disarmament: The Human Factor (Pergamon). $190 plus $5 for workbook

May 14–23

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 36. $575

Week of May 15–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $390

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $390

A Festival of the Happy Martial Arts

George Leonard, Energy Training Staff & Visiting Teachers

The martial arts can have a happy face, and their principles can be applied to everyone's life, leading toward inner calm in the face of everyday problems. This festive week of demonstration, participation, and celebration is designed for those with absolutely no experience as well as for students of the martial arts who are looking for new approaches. The sophisticated, non-aggressive art of aikido will be the central practice, but there will also be a chance to watch and practice such arts as t'ai chi, karate, and capoiera in their most joyful manifestations. Visiting masters of the various arts will present full-scale demonstrations, but most of the workshop will be devoted to experiential sessions for which no previous experience is necessary. Obviously, no one can learn a martial art in five days, but everyone will have a chance to gain a unique body-mind-spirit understanding of more than one art, along with increased confidence and grace under pressure.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse; Taisen Deshimaru, The Zen Way to the Martial Arts. $390

Symptom as Metaphor

Jeff Kane & Ronnie Paul

"It is more important to know what kind of patient has a disease than what kind of disease the patient has."— Sir William Osler

Contrary to popular concept, disease does not "strike" randomly. Patterns are perceptible. Massive current evidence points toward the conclusion that disease is inextricably connected to diet, stress factors, exercise, and attitudes. In short, disease is somehow related to the way we lead our lives.

This principle dovetails with the concept that the body is not an insensate sack of enzymes, but the physical vehicle for the continual, deliberate expression of the mind. That is, disease may be fruitfully seen as a physiologically encoded, translatable message about our state of being. This approach is neither alternative nor antithetical to allopathic medicine. It is a necessary complement. Patients need to examine and adjust their lives while physicians attend to their physical aspect. This course will invite participants to incorporate these concepts into their own practice. Practitioners may, in turn, educate their patients about the healing benefits of deep relaxation, voluntary pain control, and physiological manipulation. This course utilizes yoga to bring awareness to a symptom, imagery to translate the symptom into an existential statement, and therapeutic dialogue to initiate the appropriate behavioral change. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Weekend of May 20–22

Wellsprings of Creativity: A Workshop in Communal Autobiography

Keith Berwick

This workshop is designed to tap the hidden wellsprings of creativity in our collective historical unconscious. Participants will attempt to recreate the life and thought of another time and place. Each member will adopt a fictional role and will interact with other members in their fictional roles resulting in a creation of a community of "intimate others" fashioned out of the collective, historical imagination of the participants. Methods will include voice dialogue, guided imagery, past-life reading, and affective journal and letter writing. $190

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body."—James Joyce

Elisa writes, "This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used." $190

Being Together, Being Ourselves

Paul Rebillot

"Let there be spaces in your togetherness and let the winds of the Heavens dance between you."— Kahlil Gibran

Paul writes, "I designed this workshop to deal with the problem: 'How can I be together with a group of people or intimate with another human being without losing myself?'

"Theater games and gestalt process provide the context for participants to explore ways to achieve the delicate balance between opening and closing without losing contact with other people. Adaptation of American Indian ritual and dance improvisation provide the possibility of communicating beyond words." $190

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

Jamie Boraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation practice is a systematic examination of the mind/body process through calm and focused awareness. Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear or clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process. Insight is the deepening experience of the process itself, free of interpretation, leading to wisdom and compassion. The seminar is designed for those who have had no previous meditation experience as well as for those who wish to deepen their practice. Meditation instruction, the philosophy behind the practice, group discussions, and actual practice periods will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on how to integrate vipassana practice in daily life after the workshop is over.

Suggested reading: The Experience of Insight, Joseph Goldstein (Unity Press); A Gradual Awakening, Stephen Levine (Doubleday). $190

Week of May 22–27

Open Seat

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes, "The concept of 'open seat' is an open space into which people may enter in order to work through their resistances, express their feelings, and reorder their way of being in the world. As a gestalt facilitator I help people find ways of healing themselves by combining the principles of gestalt with concepts of ritual and theater. I assist people in working with their subconscious material, such as dreams and fantasies, in order to augment their ways of living and dealing with day to day problems. I encourage people to become more expressive in all ways: in their personal lives; in their communities; and in the political situations to which they feel committed. I can help people develop a clear sense of responsibility, not only for their own life process, but also for the world." $390

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

This is a weekend of intense body work, structured for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which is reflected in the body as armor, tension, stress, and a lack of spontaneity. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released and more positive feelings of joy, love, trust, and pleasure can be experienced more fully.

A most important feature of the workshop is the individual Radix-Reichian intensive, done in a safe, supportive environment. By also using dreamwork, hypnosis, chiropractic, bioenergetics, massage, dance, and group interaction as one lets go/moves on, a new capacity for living can emerge. $390

Massage for Health Professionals

Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman

Many discomforts, functional difficulties, and degenerative conditions are either precipitated, perpetuated, or exacerbated by stress and the chronic muscular contractions which accompany it. This seminar will focus on the practical application of massage methods to infirmities in which emotional and muscular tension play a significant role. Instruction will include the development of a pleasurable and effective touch, the demonstration and practice of the fundamentals of a full-body massage treatment, a slide-lecture concerning the relationship of massage to anatomical structure and to physiological function, and discussion concerning the use of massage methods in specific situations. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow

"To Touch and Feel is to Experience. Many people live out their entire lives without ever really Touching or being Touched by anything. . . . They do not live and become one with life."—from Seven Arrows by Hyemeyohsts Storm.

Deborah writes, "For the past fifteen years, I have been teaching and practicing yoga and various types of body work, developing my art of touching and moving, my inner and outer balance. Now, for the past three years, I have begun to work with the Native American medicine ways. The blending of the Eastern Indian yogic tradition and the American Indian medicine ways has enabled me to touch so much more deeply inside myself, inside Mother Earth, and in my relations to all my fellow beings.

"During these five days, classes in yogic cleansing methods, theory, breath purifications, meditation, and asanas will be integrated with sessions in massage, creative movement, chanting, medicine wheel, and Native American practices. Weather permitting, one afternoon will be spent hiking in the Big Sur hills, consciously making a more meaningful contact with the land. Through the various practices taught during the week, the workshop is designed to help participants move from a deeper, more loving space within themselves, in their relations with the Earth, and with all its inhabitants." $390

Weekend of May 27–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $190

Energy Training in Sports

George Leonard & Joel Kirsch

The practice of Leonard Energy Training has shown itself to be effective in improving performance, reducing injuries, and increasing enjoyment in physical sports. This workshop is designed for everyone from World Class athletes to those who are just taking up a sport—or are considering doing so. We begin with the assumption that every human being is born with the capacity to move efficiently, gracefully, and even joyfully, and that there is an appropriate sport for every body and every body type. Here, Energy Training will be applied to the sports experience.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Ultimate Athlete; Michael Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom. $190

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to assume responsibility for their health care management. The emphasis will be on learning what to eat to create vitality, energy, and health. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live food will be presented. Special attention will be given to increasing complex carbohydrate and fiber while decreasing simple sugar. We will examine the optimum amount of fat and cholesterol needed to both prevent and reverse atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease. Ideal protein intake for various levels of physical activity and health states will be examined and protein combinations to obtain complete sources will be demystified. Participants will receive a personalized health plan to work with at home.

Suggested reading: The Best Chance Diet, Joe D. Goldstrich (Humanics Limited). $190

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Moore Britt

This is an intense introductory workshop in intrapsychic work using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice.

Reichian work utilizes the breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration the possibility is opened to come to a truer concept of self, with an expanded ability to respond in the present. This workshop is limited to ten participants. $190

Week of May 29–June 3

A Week with Will Schutz $390

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

"In this form we become bridge between whole and unwhole, happy and said, good and bad. We are thought form, the first thought as you, as mankind, assumed shape and the last thought as you choose to leave. What remains is afterthought or vibration as we know it, and so the form begins again. The vibration came before the chicken."—The NINE

"This workshop is an invitation to spend time with The NINE in dialogue and self-discovery. As they move to answer questions, they create a kind of language that bypasses the mental structures of the brain and enters through the pores of the body. It can be beyond expectation because it enters the space between all expectations and, caught unawares, you may find yourself looking at a reflection of yourself that is shockingly familiar, for there may be more of you than you ever believed possible. You may well be compelled to reach across that space between the masks you carry and the self you don't quite yet believe possible and so put the strain of your theater to rest for a while. All this through a meeting, a few questions that seem simple enough in the asking but may rebound in a way that strikes far beyond what you thought you asked. It is a very fast way to know yourself better, in a form that teaches through compassion, humor, intelligence and a vital concern for the future of us and our planet."—Jenny O'Connor $420

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within.

Some of the areas to be touched upon this week include: recognizing and learning to release tensions which lock emotions in the body; ways of contacting and allowing unexpressed sadness and pain to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; practices for expressing and releasing anger constructively, which may open the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; learning about the nature of fear—moving toward greater trust of self and others. Paying special attention to the mental processes that shape the emotional and physical body, participants will be shown ways to trust their body's responsiveness and inner direction.

This workshop will utilize Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, vision improvement, massage, dance, meditation, and various other approaches. $390

Body Workshop: Rolf/Feldenkrais

Dub Leigh & Dee Dee Lozier

"You must first know where you are before you can move to where you want to be."— Dub Leigh

The goal of this workshop is to have participants become aware of where they are now and to give them the tools that will assist them to move in the direction of where they want to be. Based upon the individual and group methods of Moshe Feldenkrais and Ida P. Rolf, each person will receive a private session in both structural integration (Rolfing®) and functional integration (Feldenkrais). Group work will be a combination of Rolf®-patterning and awareness through movement. The workshop is designed both for people with structural or functional body problems, and people who want more awareness, comfort, and mobility. $390

Weekend of June 3–5

Weekend Massage Intensive

Vicki Topp & Brita Ostrom

In this introductory seminar participants will learn to give a competent full-body massage. The emphasis will be on developing a soothing and penetrating contact, on sustaining that contact to create a relaxing and integrating experience, and on centering physical and mental energies while working. The intent of the seminar is to introduce massage as a practical approach to developing greater sensory awareness and bringing relief from stress. $190

An Introduction to the Esalen Gardens

Esalen Lands Crew

In the profound and dramatic setting of the Big Sur Coast, the Esalen lands crew has spent years creating and maintaining a variety of beautiful landscape gardens. This weekend we invite you to our introductory tours and discussions of the methods we use. Members of the lands crew will define the variety of methods and schools of thought that we eclectically follow, all of which have a base in the environmentally clean organic approach. Robert Kourik, a well known horticulturist, (see May 6-8) will be our guest for the topic, "Edible Landscaping." Other areas discussed will be the French Intensive soil preparation, organic recycling, interplanting, insect control, companion planting, mulching systems, and germination methods. $190

Steve Beck

Group leaders, Jack Rosenberg and daughter Andrea Juhan.

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. In this workshop, participants will examine their work life and work options in the context of their love for themselves, for others in their lives, and for the larger world. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use integrative exercises, art, body work, and gestalt processes to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly what they want and how to get it.

This weekend is for those discontent with their work life, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life/work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs. $190

Plants and Health

Andrew Weil

Most of the medicines in current use come from plants or are variants of drugs found originally in plants. Few doctors now prescribe botanical medicines, though. Instead they use highly refined, potent derivatives of plants to produce immediate, dramatic effects. Modern pharmaceutical drugs have their place, but exclusive reliance on them is a principal reason for the expense and harmfulness of regular treatment. Learning to use medicinal plants is a way of exploring alternatives to dependence on doctors and of taking more responsibility for your own health.

Participants in this workshop will learn how to recognize and obtain common beneficial plants and how to continue to learn about this subject on their own. Methods of preparing and using plants as remedies will be demonstrated.

Recommended reading: The Natural Mind, The Marriage of the Sun and Moon, Health and Healing in the Year 2000, Andrew Weil. $190

The New World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing that we are dreaming. The presence of consciousness during this extraordinary state of consciousness allows us to respond flexibly and creatively to the flow of dream experience. We are in a unique position to control our dreams; this control brings within reach a remarkable range of possibilities from indulging your wildest fantasies to fulfilling your highest spiritual aspirations.

For most of us, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so; workshop participants will learn how to develop the skill of lucid dreaming. The results of recent scientific research will be presented and participants will be exposed to a wide variety of uses to which the world of lucid dreaming can be put, including self-exploration, creative problem solving, healing, adventure, and, perhaps most importantly, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

The emphasis will be on improving the quality of the dreamer's experience while in the dream. This means self-control, not dream control; changing the context rather than the content of the dream. Ann Faraday has called lucid dreaming "one of the most exciting frontiers of human experience." This workshop will provide an opportunity to find out why. $190

Week of June 5–10

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."—M. C. Richards, Centering.

Stress related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf® movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $390

Longevity: Fulfilling Our Biological Potential

Kenneth Pelletier

Human life expectancy is 100 years old and longer. With our present lifestyles and environment it is evident that we do not often attain this biological potential. However, there is a sharp increase in the United States and throughout the world of more people living more than 100 healthy and productive years. This trend has profound medical, psychological, economic, and personal implications.

This seminar is an exploration of the practical means now available for any individual to extend his or her life expectancy to 100 vigorous years and beyond. Among the areas to be considered and demonstrated are: nutrition and diet which, for the last fifty years, has been known to extend life; regeneration of the human body and organs; use of antioxidants such as Vitamin E; new discoveries in genetic engineering and biochemistry of substances that enhance memory and promote regeneration; the role and types of exercise in life extension; prolonging and restoration of sexual activity; methods of stress management and meditation for optimum health and performance; and the use of visualization and the influence of the mind in human longevity.

Emphasis will be on adapting these factors to each individual's life to create a practical plan for optimum health and longevity. Videotapes and color slides of centenarian communities in the Soviet Union, Ecuador, Pakistan, and Tahiti will be featured.

Suggested reading: by Kenneth R. Pelletier, Holistic Medicine: From Stress to Optimum Health, (Delacorte and Delta, 1979); Longevity: Fulfilling Our Biological Potential, (Delacorte and Delta, 1981). $390

June 5–July 1

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1600

Weekend of June 10–12

Energy Training and the Art of Love

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop, we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of Leonard Energy Training to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's new book, The End of Sex. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Kathy J. Thornod

Footbridge to the Big House.

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Silent Pulse and The End of Sex; Nathaniel Branden, The Psychology of Romantic Love. $190

Authority, Power, and Inner Knowing

François Duquesne

This workshop focuses on the issues of power, authority, and growth as they affect creative and harmonious decision-making in private and public life. As a new age emerges, so must forms of government that blend the best of the past while allowing for the fullest expression of spirit. Drawing examples from Findhorn's nineteen years of organization and experimentation, from other New Age communities, and from writings of contemporary visionaries, we will look into government for the future. We will also examine current world affairs within the context of planetary transformation and the creation of the new world community.

Those of you who are involved in New Age communities or who face the challenge of group decision-making may find this workshop particularly helpful. It is led by the focalizer of the Findhorn Community and therefore offers a stimulating insight into leadership and New Age politics as practiced there. $190

Adjunct Approaches in Traditional Health Care Systems

Phillip Mac & Susan Baldi

This workshop will explore a variety of supportive modes of fostering well-being in patients in clinical settings. Included will be the use of touch, nutrition, and stress-reduction approaches. The emphasis of the group will be on the integration of these approaches in traditional health care settings. C. E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $190

Week of June 12–17

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep us locked in obsolete behavior patterns. $390

Advanced Massage Intensive

Vicki Topp & Bill Liles

This workshop will include morning and afternoon practice sessions with various instructors, yoga, movement, evening lectures and discussions, and demonstrations of specific practices designed to increase the range of conditions with which participants can deal effectively. The following concerns will receive emphasis: how to sustain one's energy through a day of treatments; how to clear negative energy released by the client; how to use weight and leverage. As one massages more and more deeply, emotional changes can be triggered by the unravelling of blocked muscular energy. As these emotions present themselves, they will provide group members with some first hand practice in productive ways to move through them.

The format and pace of this course will presume some previous massage experience—at least an introductory five day intensive or its equivalent. $390

Psychosynthesis: A Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

Harry Sloan writes: "Many of us have experienced those moments in working with clients when we don't have the foggiest idea of what's going on. Often, to avoid the discomfort of confusion and not knowing, we hurriedly grasp for what is most familiar—a technique, map, or model. This can lead to the mechanical experience of 'going through the motions' and rote interventions. However, if we could reach for essence and truth instead of falling back on what's most familiar, the dissonance might open to insight. The result of capturing the moment and responding to the need of the client and to the dynamics of the situation can have a decidedly different effect upon both the guide and client. The heart of psychosynthesis is understanding the process of reaching for essence within ourselves and our clients. This practice can lead to developing wisdom and intuition, transcending the methodologies we use.

"The format will combine individual work within the group setting with seminars, group exercises, and practicum. This program will be useful not only to those who are interested in psychosynthesis, but also to anyone in the helping professions who wants to come into a more creative relationship with his/her discipline.

"Psychosynthesis is the name for the conscious attempt to align and cooperate with the natural process of growth and integration. It recognizes that each human being is spiritual in essence and encourages the realization and expression of this essence, or higher self, as fully as possible in personal and social existence." $390

Weekend of June 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 12. $190

A Weekend with Carl Rogers

Carl Rogers & Ruth Sanford

The topics and activities of the weekend will be chosen to fit the needs and preferences of the participants. Some of the following are likely to be included: intimacy in relationships; the facilitation of learning in the 80s; a demonstration counseling interview; the new science and its implications for psychology; dealing with intercultural and interracial hostilities; men/women issues; learning programs in the person-centered approach; theory and philosophy of the person-centered approach; and implications for the future.

The weekend is intended for those who wish to engage in an experiential/cognitive process focused on the current developments in the person-centered approach; the revolutionary impact of empowering the person in counseling, in interpersonal relationships, and in the social-political arena. $190

Week of June 19–24

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $390

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ed Jackson

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes. Our sense of the body is lessened and our connectedness is diminished.

In this workshop body approaches and dream work will be incorporated to teach us how to trust more fully in our bodies rather than kill our excitement and passion. Through a vital sense of the body and feelings we can understand our dreams, impulses, and actions more deeply, and can begin to re-own our inner selves. Avenues will be explored in developing a sense of pleasure, ease, and self-esteem. Without storming our citadels by force, we can soften body armor by allowing the body to express itself, in its own language, within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $400

June 20–29

Rites of Passage: A Sierra Mountain/River Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, pages 36 & 37. $550

Weekend of June 24–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $190

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard & Energy Training Staff

In addition to its practical applications, Leonard Energy Training offers the possibility of extraordinary powers of intuition and sensing. This workshop will present a basic grounding in Energy Training, then move into experiments that push the limits of what we carelessly term "normal" human capacities. To quote The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet: sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: George Leonard, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse. $190

Yoga: The Physical, Psychological, and Spiritual Dimensions

Joel Kramer

This workshop will allow you to experience a mind/body approach to yoga that combines Eastern and Western perspectives, enabling yoga to directly enhance the quality of your daily life. The physical yoga sessions will introduce an approach to postures that use breath to create energy and center awareness. As the body has tight areas that limit energy, so, too, does the mind. The mental yoga sessions will show how to use the mind to transform itself and expand consciousness.

We will explore how yoga relates to emotions, health, consciousness, relationships, and other aspects of life. This workshop is for anyone interested in experiencing yoga or deepening their practice.

Recommended reading: The Passionate Mind, Joel Kramer. $190

Week of June 26–July 1

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student, I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher, these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop is based on the attempt to evoke and balance psychodynamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $390

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is very rare for most people to use painting purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to do it just for the process of exploration, not for the result. This workshop will focus on the painting experience as a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to creative expression. Emphasis will be placed on the practical experience of creative painting in which participants are given support and stimulation to discover a natural way of painting based directly on feeling. The mechanisms and patterns that prevent creative action will be discussed in order to integrate understanding with experience. The work will take place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, and a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. An audio-visual program will illustrate the development of inner expression during the painting process. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

$390 (plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Move and Dance

Anna Halprin & Rana Halprin-Vasseau

From the delight-maker (Koshares) of the American Indian dances to the comedy within the Greek tragedy, the role of humor has been an important factor in releasing stress and tension on the personal as well as social level. Yet it seems as if many of us in our daily lives, both personally and professionally, have forgotten this age-old art, and are not enjoying as much play, lightness, and creativity as we might like.

In this workshop, we will have the opportunity to recapture the fun and excitement of dance and to use humor, play, and serious study to break through emotional, physical, and mental blocks that interfere with our creativity. Specific skills developed at the Tamalpa Institute of San Francisco Dancer's Workshop will be used to increase movement range, imagination, and artistic development.

This workshop is for students, potential students for Tamalpa trainings, educators, health practitioners, counselors, handicapped and little people, couples, elders, performing artists, and others.

For further information about this workshop write: Tamalpa Institute of SF Dancer's Workshop, Fort Mason Center, San Francisco, CA 94123. (415) 771-1212.

Recommended books by Anna Halprin: Movement Ritual I (available at Esalen); Collected Writings II (available by writing SF Dancer's Workshop). $390

Relationships: Deepening the Connection Between Men and Women

Joel Kramer & Diana Alstad

This workshop will provide an environment for open communication and understanding between men and women. We will look at such basic issues as: trust, freedom and commitment, power, jealousy, adequacy, and sexuality; why relationships fall apart; what men and women don't know about each other; the male point of view—what feminism left out; why we are often attracted to people who aren't "good" for us; why some "autonomous" women still lose themselves in relationships with men; keeping relationships new once the newness has worn off; using the mind to open the heart.

Awareness and intelligence can help keep passion and sexuality alive over time. A process will be presented which can enable you to move beyond the patterns and blind spots that may prevent a relationship from forming, or that may keep an existing relationship from growing. Understanding yourself and examining how you interact with others can eliminate many seemingly hopeless conflicts.

This workshop is open to couples or individuals. There will be discussions, group interaction, and exercises focusing on specific issues relevant to the participants. $390

Weekend of July 1–3

Weekend Massage Intensive

Attila Vaas & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see June 3-5. $190

The Esalen Village

Leon Burry-Trice & Ned Callihan

During this weekend we will look at the structure of the Esalen village and focus on the Esalen community as a model of an evolving village plan, from ecological design to energy self-sufficiency, from agricultural stewardship to architectural expression. This workshop is intended for anyone interested in the process of evolving a viable and sustainable community. $190

Esalen Deep Tissue Work: Theory in Structure

John McKeithen & Esalen Deep Tissue Practitioners

Esalen deep tissue work is a form of myofascial body work designed to affect the spacial relationships of connective tissue planes within the human body. By freeing and balancing these fascial planes, a greater coordination, grace, and freedom of movement can follow.

In this weekend we will provide both a didactic and experiential sampling of this work. We will cover the basic theory, hands on methods, and structural context that we use in working with the human body. Our intention is to provide information for people who are embarking on professional training in connective tissue work and to offer ideas and tools for professional body workers and health-care practitioners to apply to their own work.

Suggested reading: Ida Rolf Talks About Rolfing and Physical Reality, Ida Rolf; The Anatomy Coloring Book, Wynnkapit/Lawrence M. Elson; Gestalt Approach, An Eyewitness to Therapy, Fritz Perls. $190

Psychodrama

Walt & Maurica Anderson

Psychodrama is the enactment of improvised life scenes as a way of expressing feelings, gaining insight, and working through interpersonal conflicts. With an emphasis on psychodrama and by using group process, gestalt, and body awareness approaches, we will work at and play with ways of becoming more open and spontaneous. The degree of active involvement will be up to the individual. $190

Shaping Love & Intimacy from Conflict

John Zeigler & Christian Murphy

The aim of this workshop is twofold: one, to demonstrate the healing power of increased emotional release during conflicts, and two, to teach ways to manage repetitive emotional binging.

This weekend is also designed to explode the myth that emotional blow-ups must have catastrophic interpersonal repercussions. In fact, the opposite can be illustrated: if feelings like rage, grief, and fear are expressed within the context of the gestalt structure that is taught, people are likely to respond with compassion, understanding, and even affection.

Self-hypnosis will be explored as a way to reprogram the unworkable and destructive belief systems that are inherited from parents, teachers, and society and that are the cause of many upsets. As T.S. Eliot said, "You are nothing but a set of obsolete responses."

The methods that will be used may include gestalt and body work for deep emotional release, a role playing method developed by the leaders, and non-threatening, non-coercive, supportive group interaction, massage at the baths, laughter, play, music, and movement. $190

July 3–10

Designing a Healthy Lifestyle: A Seven Day Workshop

Ken Dychtwald

In this experiential workshop, the group will explore and examine the ways in which certain attitudes and lifestyle variables correlate with high levels of health, life-satisfaction, longevity, and professional effectiveness. Particular attention will be placed on having each participant develop a personal approach to altering his or her personal habits and attitudes in order to enhance all aspects of mental and physical functioning within an enjoyable "life plan."

The daily program (all optional) will include: running, stretching, and

Kathy J. Thomsed

Erik Erikson, Jim Hickman, and Paddy Doherty at the first Erickson Symposium on political psychology.

aerobic exercise sessions; meditation, relaxation, and stress-reduction classes; health walks/hikes; sensory awareness and creative visualization instruction; massage lessons at the Esalen baths; nutritious meals prepared in the Esalen kitchen; and a series of didactic seminars on such topics as life planning, longevity, diet and nutrition, optimal fitness, stress-management, wellness, and peak performance.

Although the material and activities to be covered in this seminar will be of value to all interested participants, graduates of previous Ken Dychtwald workshops are encouraged to attend. $580

Week of July 3–8

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $390

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $390

The Existential Model

Galvin Jackson & Don Ridge

Through a variety of activities we will build a support group for the nurturance of self-awareness, trust, risking, relations with others, sexual identity, sensual expression, and the freedom necessary to attain a comfort with areas that will permit a carry-over to each participant's own life style. The workshop will employ an existential model, in which each person is seen as existing with no "givens." The task is for participants to define themselves through creations (actions). Group members will be asked to make statements about themselves through interfacing with others as authentically as possible. The leader's role is to return consistently to the present moment, and to reflect and clarify the feelings and ideas of each individual. Interaction methods will be employed, to generate immediate, productive experiences for group members. The workshop's goals are to clarify self-definitions, to expand potentials, and to extend abilities to sustain intimacy. $390

Weekend of July 8–10

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $190

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods. $190 per participant

Invest In Yourself

John Krysko

Self investment is the process where who you are harmonizes with what you do. Money is an extension of yourself and how you invest it reflects how you are actualizing your goals, dreams, and beliefs in the world. The power of money lies in its ability to concretize self-expression. This workshop puts you at the center of your investment, while utilizing your total mind (logical, intuitive, and decision-making), an approach called subjective analysis. Personal investment strategies will be developed during this weekend which reflect your personal financial direction and how you can participate more fully in the world marketplace. $190

Week of July 10–15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $390

Zero Balancing: Beginning/Intermediate Workshop

Fritz Smith

Zero balancing is a body-oriented practice focusing on the interface between the structural and functional components of the musculoskeletal system. Efficiency of body movement is determined to a great extent by the subliminal movement available in the joints of the body, which is at a level beneath our conscious control. When imbalances occur at this interface, the body tends to compensate around them rather than resolve them directly, often leading to a person's loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and lessened potential for optimum health.

In this program Eastern and Western viewpoints of anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology are reviewed and correlated. With this background, the system of zero balancing is presented and specific guidelines are outlined for evaluating and balancing the structural/functional interface of the body. The workshop is both didactic and experiential, with the main emphasis on teaching the participants new skills in this practice, using one another as models.

This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification. C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $390

Energy Strategies

Nancy Rosanoff

An energy strategy is a plan for using all available resources most effectively. In this week long intensive, participants will be encouraged to develop a personal strategy for self-management, while expanding the limits of what is possible. We will begin with an evaluation of present life patterns and then will move on to develop creative and intuitive abilities into tools for directing personal power toward appropriate action. The energy strategy approach blends all aspects of ourselves toward specific goals while working with the changes necessary to achieve them. Your personal energy strategy will help to clarify what you want to do and, with application, enable you to do it. $390

Feeling and Relating

Joel Dweck, Anne Ruderman & Linda Rice-Mandigo

By using Reichian emotional release methods, such as the Radix® intensive, and by working individually within small supportive groups, participants will be given the opportunity to find that the deeply held emotions of pain, anger, and fear can be released. Such release can soften chronic unconscious patterns of tension and a new capacity for pleasure, love, and trust can follow.

As a complement to the emotional release work, approaches to group process will be introduced, providing for the subtler patterns of relating to emerge. Thus, each participant's capacity to translate personal growth into quality interaction can be developed experientially. $390

Weekend of July 15–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $210

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

For workshop description see May 13-15.

A Dolphin Weekend

Daniel Bianchetta & Tom Fitz

In this weekend both experiential and didactic methods will be used to share the spontaneity, joy, and fluidity we have experienced during our years of swimming with and researching dolphins. Emphasis will be on practical ways of incorporating into daily life the insights we have received through interaction with dolphins. $210

Kathy J. Thormod

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Holistic Prenatal Care

Gayle Peterson & Lewis Mehl

This workshop will introduce participants to the holistic view of birthing and prenatal care. We will integrate the new physics systems theory and holistic biology into an improved understanding of the birthing process.

Our focus will be to integrate these concepts into actual clinical situations. Specifically, we will consider approaches to effective childbirth preparation to maximize the likelihood of women birthing normally. These approaches will include: confrontation of pain; development of individual coping styles; uses of guided imagery and indirect hypnosis; group visualization; stress reduction; and relaxation. A balance will be provided between theory and practice. We will delve in depth into the structure and effectiveness of birth visualization and how this method may be used to prevent complications in birthing. By demystifying the visualization process through the discussion of the method, intent, and possible neuro-psychobiological mechanisms of action, the possibility will be available to all participants to begin using birth visualization as an effective prenatal tool.

Recommended reading: Birthing Normally, Gayle Peterson.

For additional information on C.E. credit for nurses see page 38. $210

Week of July 17–22

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of "holonomic integration," developed by the workshop leaders, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the entire spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be in the roles of experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $420

Midsummer in Your Body

Jack Downing & Esalen Staff

This will be a celebration in the 23 bodily senses—a conducted tour of your various selves, relaxed in all your ways while soaking in the beauty of Big Sur. There will be instruction in selected meditations both medical and physical, sun worship, dance, and massage, along with a modicum of coming to know oneself. $420

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week we will focus on how to develop those qualities in ourselves that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based in warmth and humor we will explore our capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $420

The Joy of A Close Relationship

Will Schutz & Judi Bell

Something has gone wrong. A deep relationship with another person can be one of the most joyful experiences possible. Yet success in such relationships has proven perhaps the most elusive of accomplishments in the modern world.

This workshop focuses on achieving such joy through telling the whole truth, taking self-responsibility, and strengthening the self-concept. Verbal, movement, and imagery methods, and the new instrument, element R, will be featured. If you are not prepared to explore telling the truth, this workshop is not for you. Couples and individuals who wish to explore themselves within the relationship are welcome to attend. $420

July 17–24

Wilderness Celebration: Emergence in Nature

Jessica Moore Britt & Ruth Leveton

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $350

Weekend of July 22–24

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $210

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $210

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

The human being's movement toward a stable and balanced organism undergoes many adjustments in direct proportion to his/her responses to parental and environmental messages. The result is the formulation of stratified patterns of visible physiology and behavior. These join to form that which is usually called personality, one's individual energy system. Two common examples of energy system responses to life stress are those personalities who collapse under stress and those who control. There are many more. This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit intrapersonal and interpersonal contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. For additional information read the July31-August 5 description. $210

Awakening the Healer Within: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Every human being is a potential channel for healing energy. Negative conditioning of our emotions, or unconscious beliefs and behavior, combined with environmental factors such as pollution, can give birth to dissociated parts of self which act as impediments to our natural healing abilities. Studies have shown the reality of psychic awareness, in which a person cannot only better understand his/her own functioning, but actually heal and psychically ward of illness.

This workshop will provide a didactic and experiential model for participants to gain a perspective on psychic healing, and the basic skills necessary to develop healing abilities in themselves. Channeling of energies will be taught, along with methods of dissolving impediments to the healing process. $210

Week of July 24–29

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $420

Massage for Health Professionals

Deane Juhan & Vicki Topp

For workshop description see May 22-27. $420

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see June 5-10. $420

Creative Attachment: The Art of Making Affectional Bonds

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others; a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including emotional detachment, depression, and burn-out. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $420

Weekend of July 29–31

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $210

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $210

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

For workshop description see May 27-29. $210

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry Fletcher

Many people have had the experience of suddenly finding they were doing something extremely well, far better than they usually do. They often report that these times of very high performance were easy and flowing, far different from the stress, fatigue, and burnout that can accompany long periods of working hard. Yet until recently little has been known about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents.

More than five years of research and testing has established that these times are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which they perform exceptionally well. Once they learn their personal high performance pattern, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their own high performance behavior.

This seminar presents a carefully developed process for individuals to learn what their high performance patterns are, and how to adjust their environment to create the conditions under which they perform exceptionally well. It is particularly valuable for individuals whose effectiveness depends on what they do: entrepreneurs, the self-employed, sales people, creative artists, professionals in private practice, and consultants, and for managers and executives who are looking for a fresh perspective on how to humanely stimulate employees to do their best work. $210

The Levity of Gravity: A Feldenkrais and Trager Weekend

Betty Fuller

Betty writes: "My synthesis of Feldenkrais and Trager awareness training teaches simple, pleasurable movements you can continue on your own at home to achieve optimal function in all activities athletic, contemplative, and sensual. These rhythmic motions appear to promote the production of endorphins and postaglandins, which create feelings of supreme well-being. An introduction to Trager psychophysical integration and mentastics is included, along with time at the baths and lots of laughter." $210

Joyce Rogers

Sogyal Rinpoche leading a seminar on death and dying.

July 30–August 4

Moving On: A White Water Adventure on "The River of No Return"

David Schiffman & Bob Doppelt

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $575

Week of July 31–August 5

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Effecting Change: The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

This is a week for recognizing the relationship between personal growth/change and economic/environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern for your individual energy system to provide more stable contact with the difficulties of the emerging decade.

The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the system's movement towards maturity is the development of the consistency of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character, strong emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of strength development leads each of us to develop compensations in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some of the obvious are psychosomatic problems, blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, things is often a major compensation for the strength that allows us the experience of self, people, and things.

Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations, trusting self and the group process enough to experiment with mobilizing more energy. This means rendering more alive the strength of the physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result is clarity and stability and a deeper awareness of the balance of self as we contact the very real issues of the coming decade. For further information, read the July 22-24 workshop description. $420

Our Creative Core

Susan Franklin Tanner

"Each of us is an artist. All that is needed is a non-judgmental environment where we may use our creative selves and experience the power of our imagination."—Living Stage Credo

Imagination is our birthright, and the freedom to play is as essential to humans as breathing. Through improvisational theater exercises, dance, visualization, poetry writing, and drawing, participants in this workshop will explore their many roles and characters to develop creativity. This form of theater work is strongly influenced by gestalt and neo-Reichian practices. $420

The Downhill Runners and Fast Walkers: Changing Health Lifestyles

Kathleen Keating

We now know that certain habits and lifestyles are important factors in many diseases. Yet excessive behaviors such as overeating, overwork, lack of exercise, and smoking are extremely difficult to change by willpower and "doctor's orders." This workshop will explore motivational approaches and awareness concepts for the development of healthy habits and constructive patterns of coping with stress. As a guide we will use The Downhill Runners and Fast Walkers, a motivational workbook on health and well-being for beginners.

This workshop is structured for participants who seek motivational skills on health and well-being for both their clients and themselves. $420

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & The NINE

For workshop description see May 29-June 3. $420

August 5–12

Psychosynthesis: A Seven Day Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see June 12-17. $630

Weekend of August 5–7

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $210

Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Celebrating with Chungliang's new book, "offering Chinese 'dim sum' (a light touch of heart) profundities, tai ji dancing (quantum hop), laughter, poetry and I Ching in Chinese brush calligraphy, music of J. S. Bach and JAZZ-Z-Z-ZEN and TAO and OZ of living."

Recommended reading: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), Living Tao (Celestial Arts), Tao: The Watercourse Way, with Watts (Pantheon). $210

Joyce Rogers

Huichol medicine man, don José Matsuwa.

August 6–13

A Gentle Trip in the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Fred Moore

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $550

Week of August 7–12

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $420

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

For workshop description see August 5-7. $420

Weekend of August 12–14

Weekend Massage Intensive

Peggy Morrison Horan & Bill Liles

For workshop description see June 3-5. $210

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 20-22. $210

Spiritual Healing

Alan Young

This workshop will be experiential, and will answer such questions as: What is spiritual healing? How does it work? How can we discover the underlying cause in each case? How can I help my own healing? How can I develop the ability to be a channel for the healing of others? It will include exercises in sensing the energy radiating from your own body, and from that of others. It will culminate in a demonstration healing in which all will be invited to participate.

The workshop is designed to interest: (a) those who want to learn about healing themselves, or at least assist in the healing process; (b) those who wish to become a channel for the healing of others; and (c) those who want to learn more about spiritual healing as a matter of interest or personal growth. $210

Skylight of the Mind

Prem Das & Rutuima

Bliss and ecstasy are described as a daily experience by both shamans and yogins. This workshop will actively explore ancient methods used by shamans and yogins to gain access to the human potential for bliss, ecstasy, and transpersonal insight. Singing, dancing, and dreaming together can reveal how shamanic and yogic approaches can be employed for healing the "extended family." In culmination, the group will gather in a circle for a nocturnal ceremony in celebration of the living potential. $210

Personal Process Weekend

Jessica Moore Britt

This weekend is for people who have done work in gestalt or breath work and would like to take time from their busy lives to focus on their personal process in a supportive, small group atmosphere. Our tools will be gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, meditation, and time at the baths. Limited to ten participants.

For additional information on gestalt practice see page 13. $210

Week of August 14–19

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Ma Prita

For workshop description see May 29-June 3. $420

Experiencing Your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $420

Kathy J. Thormod

The beach below the Big House.

Emotions of Desire: Protecting the Limits of Love and Commitment

Ayala Pines & Gordon Clanton

Love, jealousy, envy, anger, and other powerful emotions are generated in intimate relationships. These emotions are not useless flights of irrationality. Emotions are useful. They are signals we can learn to interpret. They are also shock-absorbers which can facilitate personal growth and relationship enrichment.

Through group discussions, gestalt work, role-playing, and shared fantasy, we shall become more aware of the varieties of love and the combinations of love-styles that are formed in intimate relationships. In the supportive, non-judgmental workshop context we shall learn and practice constructive ways of protecting love relationships and positive ways of expressing legitimate anger, thus minimizing the pain of jealousy and envy.

This workshop is for everyone who seeks a better understanding of the emotions of desire. It is especially helpful for couples who are seeking to define and protect the limits of their relationships and for counselors who work with people for whom these issues are important. $420

Weekend of August 19–21

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $210

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see May 13-15. $210

Feldenkrais and Neurolinguistic Programming

Mia Segal, David Gastor & Leora Gastor

This workshop will bring together and explore two highly effective methods for increased awareness and personal change: Feldenkrais and neurolinguistic programming.

Through a combination of exercises and demonstrations we will examine how we experience the world and what new discoveries we can learn about our personal behavior, applying these findings toward the goals of each individual participant. Before attending the workshop, please list what you would like to change or improve in your life and we will offer ways and means to assist you in this process. $210

A Healthier Way To Goal Achievement

Neil Fiore

Neil Fiore writes, "As a former cancer patient I have used my training in psychology and hypnosis to cope with the stresses of my disease and its medical treatment. Since then I have altered my lifestyle and have worked with patients and caregivers on the maintenance of self-esteem in the face of uncontrollable stressors, active participation in one's own health care, and on systems for creatively and joyfully engaging in the challenges of life. It is my belief that the will to live is kept robust when one sees that life, even following a traumatic event, can be lived with great effectiveness and less distress.

"The purpose of this workshop is to teach you how to work in harmony with the needs and inner wisdom of your mind and body. We will draw on elements from stress management, the hypnotic approaches of Dr. Milton H. Erickson, and cognitive-behavior methods to teach the identification of internal dialogue and beliefs that elicit the stress response, rapid trance induction for focusing on tasks and overcoming blocks, and methods for quickly recovering from set-backs while refocusing on the task at hand." This workshop may be of particular interest to both health-care professionals and individuals with stress related illnesses. C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $210

Dreams, Energy, and Transformation

Kenneth Kelzer

Dreams are a power source within the body/mind, offering us a wide variety of energies and "raw materials of the psyche." These energies, once refined and transformed, serve to elevate our lives to new levels. This workshop will employ a wide variety of dream transformational methods for personal renewal and energy expansion.

We will use gestalt processes, psychodrama, the Senoi methods, Jung's depth psychology, intuitive feedback, and creative art media as our principal tools. Participants will have ample time to present their own dreams and are urged to bring their dream journals to the workshop.

Suggested reading: Black Elk Speaks, chapters 3, 13, and 14; Creative Dreaming, Patricia Garfield, chapter 5; Man and His Symbols, Carl Jung, chapter 1; Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Fritz Perls. $210

Week of August 21–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $420

Awareness Through Movement and Functional Integration: The Feldenkrais Method

Mia Segal

Through a series of simple, gentle exercises devised by Moshe Feldenkrais we can learn to know ourselves and find many new choices of behavior to enrich our lives. $420

Five Day Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tension, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $420

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $420

Weekend of August 26–28

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see 13. $210

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Heinz Pagels

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar then we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation.

Recommended reading: Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics, Nick Herbert. $210

Vision Improvement: Our Willingness to See

Ma Prita

This weekend will focus primarily on the awareness continuum, emphasizing ways to clear and re-educate the eye and the self to see without distortion in the here and now. With the aid of various approaches including deep emotional release, bioenergetics, gestalt, the Bates system of eye relaxation, and nutrition, participants will have the opportunity to create new ways of looking at themselves and the world. $210

Journey Through/Beyond Divorce

Bob Blood

When two people separate, it is useful to look back and discover what has been learned from the years of being together. This is a time to heal the pain of separation and let go of the partner, definitively and with understanding. It is also a time to make new choices. What are the directions in which you wish to move as you begin your journey alone? And what are your hopes for finding new relationships, either with casual companions or committed partners? During the weekend, we will balance our verbal work with times of expressive movement and caring massage. $210

The Living Body: An Introduction for Health Professionals

Lauren Berry

According to Berry, "Good health is the balanced functioning of the body's systems, the capacity of the body or part of it for vital activity, the interplay of the choice to act in life, and the physical ability to do so."

Viewing the practitioner as a catalyst towards good health, the focus of this workshop will be on demonstrations and discussions of an empirical approach to working with the body by using a method that is precise and direct. In these demonstrations participants will receive individual work which will cater to their particular physical problem areas ranging from the back, knees, and organs to the ears, neck, nose, cranium, etc.

The workshop is designed as an introduction for those health professionals interested in Berry work or for those considering training in the Berry methods. $210

Week of August 28–September 2

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see June 26-July 1. $420

Experiencing The Life Cycle

Elliot & Vera Aronson

This workshop will provide a structure and an opportunity to engage in a revisiting, an anticipation, and a celebration of the major stages of our life histories from birth and infancy to childhood, adolescence, adulthood, old age, death, and rebirth.

By blending the here and now with individual life histories and back home issues, the workshop will provide the opportunity to "redo" ourselves in order to lead more productive, more joyous lives.

Each stage of our development contains joys and problems of a specific and near universal nature. For example, in infancy we will confront and try to learn more about such issues as sexuality and the fear of rejection. By examining and reliving issues that we might have dealt with incompletely in earlier stages of our lives, we may work at clearing ourselves in the present, thus allowing us to move in life with greater freedom, creativity, and spontaneity. $420

Body Changes: Feldenkrais, Rolfing®, and Berry Methods

Dub Leigh, Dee Dee Lozier & Michael Joyce

This is a workshop for individuals interested in beginning or accelerating their process of body change. Through private and group sessons, simple, gentle, and progressive Feldenkrais and Rolf® patterning exercises will provide participants the chance to experience such changes within the body as increased comfort and awareness, and more harmoniously integrated movement.

Private sessions will focus on resolution of individual functional problems in neuromuscular and connective tissue organization of the body. Participants will be guided in the development of a personal program for continuing improvement at home. $420

August 28–September 4

A Seven Day Workshop in Gestalt Synergy: An Integrative Approach to Self Actualization

Ilana Rubenfeld

The sea always has waves . . . waves are the sea . . . sea and waves are one. To speak of waves apart from the sea is a delusion—so mind and body are one!

The focus in this workshop will be on experiencing one's own body and emotions as a total organism. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tension and imbalance. A unique blend of gestalt, Alexander method, and Feldenkrais exercises will be used as a gateway to contacting, expressing, and working through deep feelings. Massage staff will be on hand to assist the workshop.

We have the choice to contact ourselves and each other with joy, sadness, compassion, humor, ideas, and with the body—the whole person. $630

Weekend of September 2–4

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $210

A Dualistic Universe

Robert Nadeau

In this workshop we will look at the dualistic nature of the universe and play with some of the dualities such as idea/energy and hereness/awareness. $210

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation in Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

The intention of this workshop is to generate even greater access to the participants' utilization of their own natural intelligence. Paradoxically, as human creatures, we use our intelligence too often, to repetitively and habitually impose limitations onto an infinitely rich realm of possibility. This is done without knowing the processes involved in the interpretation of an experience into symbols, such as words, images and/or feelings, and without knowing the difference between the incorrect use of these symbols and the realities that they represent. This unrealized confusion and the habitual patterns of perception affect two things: the limits for knowing what one can know and the thresholds for imagining what one can achieve.

The conscious and unconscious patterns of communication and the way in which an individual puts words together will be explored and utilized to expand individual frames of reference and to generate new and desired responses. Hypnotic phenomena will be induced and utilized throughout the workshop including: time distortion, age regression, positive and negative hallucination, catalepsy, analgesia, hyperesthesia, and amnesia. Emphasis on the nature and sensitivity of the "unconscious in communication" and the individuality of each personality will be punctuated as a theme.

This workshop is most suitable for those professionals interested in hypnosis and/or communication as well as for clinicians interested in using Ericksonian approaches to hypnosis and counseling. $210

September 4–30

Journey To The East

Stanislav & Christina Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1600

September 4–11

Women's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure Through the Big Sur Wilderness

Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $420

Week of September 4–9

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation in Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

For workshop description see September 2-4. $420

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman & James Bupp

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep

Kathy J. Thornod

The Big House.

to one's self, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants can learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate, in a safe environment, in the choice of expression or depression. $420

Weekend of September 9–11

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $210

The Placebo Response

Andrew Weil

Many misconceptions exist about placebo responses. They are said to be less strong than "objective" effects of treatments and restricted to people of certain origins or educational backgrounds. In fact, placebo responses are universal and can be of any magnitude. There are placebo deaths and placebo remissions. Placebo effects are most striking in cancer and other advanced organic diseases.

In this workshop the concept of the "active placebo" will be developed as a basis for interpreting the clinical success of many conflicting therapeutic systems. We will talk about the kind of belief that makes placebos work, about mechanisms of the response, how that belief is transmuted into reality by the alchemy of nerves and hormones. Rather than trying to rule out placebo responses in evaluating the efficacy of treatments, doctors and nurses can learn to see them as an integral part of medicine—pure healing responses uncontaminated by toxic side effects. Practical advice will be given on the art of using placebo responses to enhance the therapeutic power of medical interventions of whatever school and belief.

For additional information on C.E. credit for physicians and nurses see page 38. $210

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronnic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries, all of which can improve by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "re-educable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each others bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about their bodies through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens who may find themselves discovering new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painlessly and immediately. $210

Week of September 11–16

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Five Days with Paul Horn

"Blending music, meditation, philosophy, and experiences of far away places (India, Egypt, China) into a meaningful integration of life." $420

Weekend of September 16–18

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Jaime Morton & Brita Ostrom

This seminar is designed for people who have some experience in giving massage. Through demonstrations and practice sessions, participants will learn how to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of their massage skills and have the opportunity to add fresh approaches to their work. The intent is to help participants make deeper and more sensitive contact, and to heighten their awareness of the responses they are creating. $210

Ashtanga Yoga Weekend

Deborah Anne Medow

"The body is a boat which carries the soul in the ocean of the world. If it is not strong or it has a hole, then it can't cross the ocean. So the first duty is to fix the boat."—Baba Hari Dass

The primary focus of this workshop is to utilize the methods of the ancient system of ashtanga yoga in "fixing the leaky boat." Throughout this weekend, a cleansing diet and various integrated sessions will be combined to encourage workshop participants to develop a solid basis for further development of the physical, mental, and spiritual aspects of yoga practice. Topics covered will include yoga theory, yogic purification and breathing exercises, and meditation with particular emphasis on asanas (postures). $210

The Art of Self-Direction

Lenore Lefer

This workshop is about personal, social, and cultural change. It is about creating, initiating, and directing change as well as responding to those alterations that we seem not to choose. We will explore how to be casual around change and how to include our deepest values. Do we know what is meaningful, and how do we integrate that into our life? It is an art to lead a self-directed life that includes both personal and social responsibility.

Founded conceptually in psychosynthesis, the focus of this self-exploration will be experiential, using imagery, inner dialogue, meditation, and individual and group process. The environment will be supportive and evocative. This workshop is appropriate for professionals who deal with transitional crises in their own work. $210

Week of September 18–23

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $420

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $420

Surrender to Self

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

In a supportive and safe environment participants will utilize individual Reichian intensives, group interaction, bioenergetics, imagery, hypnosis, dance, and massage to discover new ways to soften, let go, and surrender to themselves and others. $420

Weekend of September 23–25

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $210

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see July 8-10. $210 per participant

Frogs Into Princes: Practical Transformation

John Michael Grey & Eli Jaxon-Bear

If all of the world's a stage and we are the players, then who writes the script? Each day is an opportunity to participate in life and its evolution. This workshop focuses on developing the practical tools for self-transformation and an increased ability to communicate successfully with others. Problems are opportunities to grow in the areas of our lives that currently await transformation.

You may learn to expand your ability to gain perspective in any situation and develop the options for feelings and behaviors that better suit who you want to be. You may discover greater clarity in what it is you want and how to achieve it, professionally or personally. You may also find how the very limitations you encounter can be transformed into your allies for success.

Neurolinguistics presents an array of practical tools for people to assist themselves and others in achieving the changes they want in an unusually direct way. This experiential workshop will present the basic tools for helping people who are interested in transforming their own lives and for professionals who want to increase the range of their own current approaches. $210

Week of September 25–30

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see May 15-20. $420

Frogs Into Princes: Practical Transformations

John Michael Grey & Eli Jaxon-Bear

For workshop description see September 23-25. $420

Five Day Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Peggy Morrison Horan

For workshop description see August 21-26. $420

Weekend of September 30–October 2

Experiencing your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see August 14-19. $210

Re-printing: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Ericksonian), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in, and consider opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $210

Love, Power, and Relationship

Harry Sloan

Power without love and love without power create imbalance within the self and in relationships. The capacity to be both sensitive and strong, caring and independent, enhances the ability to relate in a balanced and meaningful way. The development of these basic qualities is unique for each of us, and often reflects our "growing edge" in relating. This weekend will be a time to explore the strengths and limitations within our relational patterns. Our purpose together will be to become aware of our next steps toward more fulfilling and joyful relationships. $210

Burnout: Causes and Cures

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who give service to others and who are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and creativity of their relationships with clients and colleagues. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $210

Week of October 2–7

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see June 12-17. $420

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see September 9-11. $420

Weekend of October 7–9

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon

For workshop description see June 5-10. $210

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

For workshop description see September 16-18. $210

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & The NINE

For workshop description see May 29-June 3. $210

Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care

Tom Ferguson & Joe Graedon

About 70% of illness care—and an even higher percentage of preventive care—is self-provided, yet this most important part of our health care system is largely ignored by many health care professionals.

This workshop will provide an overview of the field of self-care. Topics will include the present extent of self-care, what people can learn to do for themselves, self-care classes, self-diagnostic tests, self-help groups, social support systems, health promotion, self-care in the schools, the literature of self-care, the effectiveness and safety of self-care, self-care in the clinic, dealing with sophisticated medical consumers, the developing technology of self-care, special problems health professionals have in taking care of themselves, and how this is related to care of others. Participants will have an opportunity to meet others with similar interests and to share their personal and professional experiences in self-care. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $210

Week of October 9–14

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $420

The Art of Self-Direction

Lenore Lefer

For workshop description see September 16-18. $420

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

Participants will employ Radix® neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix® intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting, which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief or pain, fear and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexual feelings intensify and merge. $420

Kathy Thornood

Group leader, Deborah Medow.

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow & Ruth Leveton

"To Touch and Feel is to Experience. Many people live out their entire lives without ever really Touching or being Touched by anything. . . . They do not live and become one with life." from Seven Arrows by Hyemeyohsts Storm.

Deborah writes, "For fifteen years, I have been teaching and practicing yoga and various types of body work, developing my art of touching and moving, my inner and outer balance. Now, for the past three years, I have begun to work with the native American medicine ways. The blending of the Eastern Indian yogic tradition and the American Indian medicine ways has enabled me to touch more deeply inside myself, inside Mother Earth, and in my relations to all my fellow beings."

Ruth writes, "For the past four years, I have been leading wilderness and vision quest trips. My work integrates ancient native teachings and sacred movements with emerging ceremonial practices that apply to modern day-to-day life."

During these five days, classes in yogic cleansing methods, yoga theory, breath purifications, meditation, asanas, massage, and creative movement will be integrated with the teachings of the Western native people, drawing upon the ancient practices that specifically address our relationship to each other, ceremony, dreams, the medicine wheel, and the Earth. Weather permitting, at least one afternoon will be spent hiking in the Big Sur hills, consciously making a more meaningful contact with the land. Through the various practices taught, the workshop is designed to help participants move to a place of depth and more balance within themselves and in their relations with Mother Earth and all her inhabitants. $420

October 9–16

A Seven Day Workshop in Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics© Beginning Training

Betty Fuller

In this professional training, participants are instructed in Trager table work, receiving sessions from experienced practitioners as well as giving to and receiving from each other under supervision. In addition, participants learn to practice and teach mentastics, learn basic communication skills, clearing exercises, and simple meditations, and have time in group to share and process their experience. This training is open to professionals in education, body work, holistic health care, counseling, psychology, medicine, chiropractic, sports, performing arts, and other disciplines which see movement as a primary means of learning.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38.

$600

Weekend of October 14–16

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feelings of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $210

Successful Business Behavior for Women, or "Act like a lady, think like a man, and work like a dog."

Victoria Elliot

In this workshop we will learn about the social issues vs. the business issues of being a woman: how to make decisions better and faster; how to get to the bottom line; and how to communicate to get what you want from the people you work with. $210

Achieving Maximum Performance in Athletics

Joyce Hanna & Gerald Smith

Within each person's mindset there is a combination of attitudes toward performance which will allow a maximum effort in any athletic event. Since sports uniquely dramatize the human ability to surpass its limits, this workshop will have special emphasis on methods to overcome self-limiting expectations. Recent research in sports psychology, such as the effects of visual-motor behavior rehearsal, relaxation, and imagery on optimal performance, will be reviewed. The primary focus for the workshop will be enhancing your view of what is the best combination of attitudes and disciplines to allow for maximum performance. The following topics will be introduced: tailoring your own goal setting and reward process; handling feelings of boredom, pain, fatigue, and anxiety; dealing with ambivalent feelings toward success; overcoming self-defeating attitudes toward competition; strenthening the capacity for psychological endurance; using pre-match mental preparation; incorporating attentional focusing; preventing burnout. Participants will have an opportunity to design their own personalized maximum performance programs.

$210

On Letting Go

Judyth Weaver

In everything we do we have a choice—but are we aware of it? We can perform stressfully or relaxed, we can have fun or suffer, we can act economically or wastefully, we can hold on tightly or let it go. The more we are in touch with our feelings and abilities the more choices we have available to us.

This workshop will focus on rediscovering awareness of self—mentally, physically, and spiritually—to develop and integrate as many options as possible. It is through this awareness that we can acquire choice of how to live.

We will work with deep sensings of our organism, gentle breathing methods for stress reduction, t'ai chi ch'uan for relaxed exercise, gestalt, movement, massage, and meditations, all designed to help integrate a sense of centered grounding and balance that can develop and enhance an economic, energetic, pleasurable, and effective life. $210

Joyce Rogers

· SPECIAL PROGRAMS ·

Joseph Campbell in Residence

Joseph Campbell, author, lecturer, and international authority on ancient and modern mythologies, will be Esalen's scholar-in-residence for the month of November, 1983.

A limited number of places will be available for individuals interested in spending the month studying with Joseph Campbell in an in-depth tutorial program focusing on the subject of the participants' specific interests. The fee for the month will be $1600.

Three weekend workshops will also be available through the catalog: "Psyche and Symbol Archetypes"; "Myth and the Body"; and "Symbolism of the Kundalini." They may be taken as a series or individually. The weekends will be available to month-long participants at a reduced rate. Further information will be announced in the next issue of the catalog.

Tutorial Program in Gestalt Body Therapy

This will be a professional training program for licensed or license-eligible psychotherapists and graduate students in gestalt body therapy (GBT). GBT is a complete system of psychotherapy with an emphasis on breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. The program will consist of approximately one week (five days) at Esalen every five weeks for a period of two years. This program can lead to an M.A. or Ph.D. in psychology through affiliation with an approved degree-granting institution. The program will be didactic and experiential and is based on a tutorial system with Jack Rosenberg and staff. If interested, please contact Jack Rosenberg, 1107 W. Washington Bl., Venice, Ca. 90291. Please include personal and therapeutic history and educational background.

June 5–July 1
Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."
—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special care and attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what we've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. What are the most important elements that support this transformation and renewal? And how might this process be effectively shared with others? Out of the answers to these basic questions has emerged the dream of combining the best of Esalen's human potential practice work with the spirit of adventure found in Outward Bound's wilderness programs, along with the gracious informality of living and working together in one of the most beautiful and peaceful settings in the world.

The aim of this unique curriculum will be to explore and develop a new model for learning, one that not only deepens the experience of traditional self exploration, but also breaks new ground in erasing the line between intensive group and individual work and the ordinary world of everyday life.

Among the areas we will touch on during this month are:

The Body and its Functions: as a temple for the spirit; as a reflection, and as a turning point from past habits, fears, and attitudes; as a source of grace, ease, and fluidity in movement and in contact; as a kinetic homebase for exuberance, playfulness, and balance; and as a healing source of touch.

The Emotional Realm: exploring and opening the limits of temperament; redirecting negative feelings for inspiration and power; cultivating passion and strength as the core of integrity; resolving inner and outer turmoil simply and peacefully.

The Mind: developing the powers of the imagination for self-affirmation and creativity; deepening the ability to see, hear, and understand so that one can range easily from the practical to the transcendental; strengthening the sense of fair-witness and developing the skillful use of the will; using the perspective of humor to heal separation.

Coming together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in ourselves, the group will create a community whose foundation is based on trust, good will, and authenticity.

During the month each participant will have the opportunity to clarify and develop his/her own style and artfulness as an individual guide and group facilitator doing in-depth study of gestalt practice, body work, psychosynthesis methods, and the meditative arts. The program will be structured to include: intensive individual work; creative music and movement; supervised observations; practicum work in group leading and individual counseling skills; video feedback; illustrated lectures and didactic theoretical sessions.

The emphasis throughout will be on creating a personally integrated perspective that will bring buoyancy and lightness into life and work. This workshop is designed for people from all walks of life. $1600

September 4–30 83
Journey to the East

Stanislav & Christina Grof & Visiting Faculty including: Anne & Jim Armstrong, Angeles Arrien, Fritjof Capra, Father Bede Griffiths, Jack Kornfield, don José Matsuwa, Brant Secunda, Ajit Mookerjee & Sogyal Rinpoche.

This four week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy who are interested in exploring theoretically and practically the great spiritual traditions of the East and their relationship to Western science. Special attention will be paid to the similarities and differences between mysticism and psychosis and to the problems related to evolution of consciousness. This seminar is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals trained to facilitate the process of evolution and to assist in spiritual emergencies. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Ancient Technologies of the Sacred: The Great Spiritual Traditions of the East: Visiting spiritual teachers will explore with participants theoretically and practically Buddhist vipassana meditation, the Tibetan vajrayana, Zen Buddhism, tantric science, art and ritual, sufism, aikido, and shamanism.

New Frontiers of Western Science: Researchers who have contributed to the emerging paradigm will discuss revolutionary developments in quantum-relativistic physics, systems theory, brain research, and modern consciousness studies which point to a future synthesis of science and mysticism.

Psychosis: Disease or Transpersonal Crisis? Participants will be exposed to a new understanding of the psychotic process emerging from psychedelic practice, Jungian analysis, kundalini research, and modern clinical and laboratory studies. They will have the opportunity to experiment with methods of constructive assistance in transpersonal crises.

Self-Exploration and Group Process: The workshops of this series use an experiential educational format that combines didactic input with personal experience. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for participants throughout the program. $1600

November 13–December 9
Four Week Advanced Body Work Practicum

Dub Leigh

This workshop is designed for Rolf, Alexander, Trager, massage, and other professional body practitioners. The goal is to teach each practitioner how to do what he is now doing more easily and efficiently and to demonstrate alternative ways of working.

Individual problem cases will be studied, focusing in depth on the various ways to look at and work with the each problem. Ways of working with the nervous system, the muscles, the joints, the fascia, and various visceral organs of the body will be taught.

Dub Leigh, who has been trained and certified by Moshe Feldenkrais, Ida Rolf, Milton Trager, and Lauren Berry, will be the resident teacher. From time to time visiting teachers will be brought into the class to further expand the scope of the training. $1600

Steve Beck

An aerial view of Pfeiffer Beach.

• WILDERNESS PROGRAMS •

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop we require the following deposit:

Up to 3 days	$ 50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip your deposit is forfeited.

May 14–23
Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

The rugged Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone, almost disappears as it crosses the Mexican border into the Baja peninsula. About one hundred miles below the border it rises to form the Sierra San Pedro Martir, a forested plateau about 7500 feet high. On the eastern edge of this plateau, the soaring granite form of Picacho del Diablo, Baja's highest peak, rises to over 10,000 feet. This workshop will take us from a trailhead on the plateau's western edge through pine forests, broad open meadows, and along clear streams to the base of Diablo on the eastern escarpment. From there participants may climb the peak. To the west the green hills slope off into the Pacific. In the east the plateau falls away to the desert and the waters of the Gulf of California. Participants will descend onto the desert through a sinuous granite canyon, pausing to play in waterfalls and deep pools.

Group members will carry everything they need in packs, cook over fires, and learn a range of basic wilderness skills, including basic rock climbing. 24 hours will be spent alone in reflection and contemplation. The workshop includes group process work, yoga, and journal writing. No previous experience is required. You should be healthy and reasonably fit. The program begins and ends in San Diego. Complete information on travel, clothing, and equipment will be sent upon registration. $595

June 20–29
Rites of Passage: A Sierra Mountain/River Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway

This nine day adventure will take us into the heart of the Sierra Nevada, California's incomparable "Range of Light." Just north of Yosemite's soaring granite domes, we will explore glacially-carved valleys carpeted with early summer wildflowers. Carrying everything we need in our packs, we will set our basecamp by a crystal lake in a small alpine basin.

From here we may experience beginning rock climbing and rappelling, ascend a nearby peak, and relax in a sweathouse. 24 hours will be spent completely alone in reflection and contemplation. During the time together, you will be taught a variety of wilderness skills including campcraft, navigation, mountain medicine, and back-pack gourmet cookery. At the end of seven days, we will resupply with fresh food and travel to the nearby Carson River for two full days of white-water rafting. Guiding our twelve foot rubber rafts through the rapids with paddles we will descend from the pine forested foothills onto the rolling sagebrush terrain of Nevada's high desert. Our river camp will be set at an historic hot springs.

This program is based on the notion that a person's responses to the challenges of mountain and river reflect their responses to the challenges of daily life. From the real and immediate lessons of the wilderness, we can come to see ourselves more clearly and act with a greater sense of purpose and direction. Combined with the wilderness activities will be approaches from process work, yoga, meditation, and journal writing to help us ground our experiences.

No previous experience is required. Participants should be in good physical health. Complete information on clothing, equipment, and travel will be sent upon registration. We will meet in South Lake Tahoe, California on June 20th. $550

July 17–24
Wilderness Celebration: Emergence in Nature

Jessica Moore Britt & Ruth Leveton

Traveling to the lost coast of California, the Coastal King Mountain Range, and the only wilderness beach in California we will explore our connection to the earth, seeking a deeper communication with ourselves and nature. Our goal is to re-own our natural rhythm of body, voice, heart, and spirit, facilitated by the wilderness. We will be assisted by ancient and modern healing modalities of clearing and channeling energy, using native purification rites, ceremony, dream work, gestalt and group process, and simple daily living in the wilderness. There will be basic training in minimum impact camping, along with an orientation to the ecology, geography, and cultural history of the area.

This trip provides a time for reflection and personal renewal. Our focus will be creating a way of healing through participation in a ceremony and a 24 hour vision quest (a time alone in the wilderness).

No experience is necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. Detailed information will be sent upon request. $350

July 30–August 4
Moving On: A White Water Adventure on "The River of No Return"

David Schiffman & Bob Doppelt

The first fifty miles of this expedition are on Idaho's legendary Salmon River and the last fifteen on Oregon's Snake River through Hell's Canyon, the deepest gorge in the United States. Hundreds of feet above us are the vertical rock walls of the Inner Canyons. The focus of the trip is the opportunity to "Row it Yourself"—a concept developed by the Oregon River Experience Staff, which enables each participant, with a partner, to navigate their own boat. Basic wilderness and river skills will be complemented with a variety of approaches to inner development. Along the way there will be opportunities to see and enjoy old mines, Indian pictographs, and remote side canyons. No previous rafting experience is necessary. The group will meet in Lewiston, Idaho. Further information on equipment and transportation is available by writing David Schiffman at Esalen. (Registration deadline: July 15) $575

August 6–13
A Gentle Trip in The High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Fred Moore

During this seven day workshop in wildflower season we will hike eight miles to a clear mountain lake (10,000′) off the main trails in the John Muir Wilderness area of the High Sierra. Mules will carry in all the food, camping equipment, and personal gear, enabling us to have outrageously good food (fresh and frozen meats, fruit, and vegetables). We will camp by the lake for six nights, taking day hikes to the surrounding lakes and meadows, working with body awareness, massage, psychodrama, gestalt, group process, and laughter. We will not only get to know the high country, but one another and ourselves.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary, but applicants should possess a good sense of humor and be capable of hiking uphill at altitudes of up to 11,000′. For a detailed information sheet write or call Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis St., Albany, Ca. 94706 (415-526-5814). Participants will meet in the Sierra on August 6. Fee includes food, wine, permits, and pack mules in and out. $390

September 4–11
Women's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure Through the Big Sur Wilderness

Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

We will come together in the Big Sur Wilderness to explore our inner world: our feminine roles and archetypes; dominant and shadow parts of ourselves; our vulnerability and strength; our heroism and sense of adventure. Carrying everything we need in our packs, we will hike through the Ventana wilderness, pausing to swim in a rock pool with a waterfall. Woven into our week will be group process work, traditional wilderness skills, and Rolfing® movement integration, all designed to open ourselves to balance, grace, and fluidity. Crackling fires, and excellent food—much of it fresh—will enhance our journey. Near the week's end, each of us will spend 24 hours alone in reflection and contemplation.

We will camp out at Esalen our first night, drive to the trailhead the next morning, and return to Esalen the following Sunday morning to enjoy the hot springs and lunch, our final meal together. No previous wilderness experience is necessary. Complete equipment lists will be sent on registration. $420

September 25–October 1
Cataract Canyon: An Outward Bound White Water Expedition

Coordinated by Nelson Chase of Colorado Outward Bound School & Steven Harper of Esalen

Travel with us on a journey down two of the great wilderness rivers in the western United States. Our white water adventure will begin in Canyonlands National Park, Utah, on the Green River, which will carry us to its confluence with the mighty Colorado. There, compressed by precipitous gorges, these two major tributaries join to form one of the swiftest rivers on the continent. At the entrance to Cataract Canyon, its walls soar above in giant 1400 ft. steps to the rim. From here each one of us, in turn, will captain the rafts as we run the Cataract's famous white water.

At night we will camp on the riverbank, and by day we will take time to seek new adventures on land: exploring tranquil side canyons, visiting Native American ruins and petroglyphs, and rock climbing and rappelling. In addition to group process there will be time for reflection, for laughing and singing, and for creating rituals. Half-way through the week we will solo overnight in the wilderness, encountering ourselves and seeking a vision.

Acquiring skills to care for ourselves and each other in the wilderness can promote increased self-efficacy and awareness. The well-being that comes from attempting and succeeding at new endeavors can transfer to other areas of our lives, becoming a catalyst to growth and change.

This wilderness program is offered in collaboration with the Colorado Outward Bound School, and will be staffed by both Esalen and Outward Bound. Please Note: Registration for this program is being handled by the Colorado Outward Bound School. To register, please send your name, address, phone number, name of course (i.e., Cataract Canyon: an Outward Bound White Water Expedition), and a $25 application fee to: River Program, Colorado Outward Bound School, 945 Pennsylvania, Denver, Colorado, 80203. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $600

• MEDICAL PROGRAMS •

Esalen Institute is a California state approved provider for continuing education for health professionals. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category 1 approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

May 6-8
A Practical Approach to Sexual Counseling
Jack Rosenberg, D.D.S., Ph.D. — 10 hours

May 15-20
Symptom as Metaphor
Jeff Kane, M.D. & Ronnie Paul — 30 hours

May 22-27
Massage for Health Professionals
Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman, M.D. — 30 hours

June 10-12
Adjunct Approaches in Traditional Health Care Systems
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 10 hours

July 24-29
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan & Vicki Topp — 30 hours

September 9-11
The Placebo Response
Andrew Weil, M.D. — 10 hours

September 30-October 2
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

October 7-9
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. & Joe Graedon, M.S. in Pharmacology — 10 hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

May 6-8
A Practical Approach to Sexual Counseling
Jack Rosenberg, D.D.S., Ph.D. — 10 hours

May 8-13
The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing for the Health Professional
Jack Downing, M.D. & Murray Korngold, Ph.D., A.B.P.P. — 30 hours

May 15-20
Symptom as Metaphor
Jeff Kane, M.D. & Ronnie Paul — 30 hours

May 22-27
Massage for Health Professionals
Lila Daniels Klapman & Gary Klapman, M.D. — 30 hours

June 10-12
Adjunct Approaches in Traditional Health Care Systems
Phillip Mac, M.D. & Susan Baldi, R.N. — 10 hours

July 10-15
Zero Balancing: Beginning/Intermediate Workshop
Fritz Smith, M.D. — 30 hours

July 15-17
Holistic Prenatal Care
Gayle Peterson, M.S.S.W. & Lewis Mehl, M.D., Ph.D. — 10 hours

July 24-29
Massage for Health Professionals
Deane Juhan & Vicki Topp — 30 hours

August 19-21
A Healthier Way to Goal Achievement
Neil Fiore, Ph.D. — 10 hours

Kathy J. Thormod

September 9-11
The Placebo Response
Andrew Weil, M.D. — 10 hours

September 30-October 2
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

October 7-9
Medical Self-Care: The Role of Health Professionals in Supporting Self-Provided Health Care
Tom Ferguson, M.D. & Joe Graedon, M.S. in Pharmacology — 10 hours

October 9-16
Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics©
Beginning Training
Betty Fuller — 30 hours

· BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION ·

A

Diana Alstad . . . . . taught the first women's studies courses at Yale and Duke. She has led male/female groups with Joel Kramer in North America, Europe, and Asia.
p. 22

Maurica Anderson . . . . . regularly conducts psychodrama and support groups at various alcoholism treatment centers. She has led Esalen High Sierra wilderness trips for many years.
p. 22, 27, 37

Walt Anderson . . . . . is a writer, political scientist, environmentalist, and longtime Esalen group leader. His most recent book is a history of Esalen, entitled The Upstart Spring.
p. 22

Anne Armstrong . . . . . has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 18 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.
p. 28, 32, 35

Jim Armstrong, ... a former engineer, is a life-long student and teacher of esoteric studies.
p. 28, 32, 35

Elliot Aronson . . . . . is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.
p. 30, 32

Vera Aronson . . . . . is a lay counselor specializing in family dynamics as well as issues of old age.
p. 30

B

Susan Baldi, ... R.N., is director of student health at Santa Rosa Community College.
p. 20

Jamie Baraz . . . . . has studied meditation with Joseph Goldstein, Ram Dass, Jack Kornfield, and others in the United States and Asia. He has led classes and retreats in the Bay Area for several years.
p. 17

Judi Bell . . . . . is chair of the creative arts therapy department at Antioch University, San Francisco. She has done pioneering work in integrating movement into family therapy.
p. 25

Lauren Berry . . . . . has over fifty years of experience with an empirical approach to working with the body.
p. 29

Keith Berwick . . . . . is an historian, author, TV host, and producer of award-winning programs on personal transformation, including The Energy Workshop, Parenting, and Faces: The Urban Mosaic.
p. 17

Daniel Bianchetta . . . . . shares intuitive readings, shiatsu, deep tissue work, and meditation at Esalen. He has been regularly swimming with dolphins for a number of years.
p. 24

Bob Blood . . . . . is a marriage counselor, working with individuals and groups in Ann Arbor, Michigan, and author of four books on marriage and the family.
p. 29

Jessica Moore Britt . . . . . is a registered nurse who is presently a member of the Esalen community and a practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.
p. 18, 25, 28, 37

James Bupp . . . . . combines gestalt practice with group process and emotional release work.
p. 30

Leon Burry-Trice . . . . . is an architect and builder living with his family in Big Sur.
p. 22

C

Annie Callaway, ... professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen wilderness trips for many years.
p. 16, 21, 30, 36, 37

Ned Callihan . . . . . is a Big Sur resident, architect/planner, and an Esalen deep tissue practitioner.
p. 22

Joseph Campbell . . . . . is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.
p. 35

Anne Caple . . . . . is a technical writer and editor with earlier careers as homemaker and fiber artist. She is a student of the intuitive process.
p. 19

John Caple . . . . . is a college professor and career counselor with an earlier career in business management. He is the author of Careercycles (1983).
p. 19

Seymour Carter . . . . . has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years, and is currently a teacher in residence at Esalen.
p. 21, 30

Michell Cassou . . . . . is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 22

Gordon Clanton . . . . . teaches sociology at San Diego State University and is the author of Jealousy and Face to Face to Face: An Experiment in Intimacy.
p. 28

Stewart Cubley, ... artist and scientist, is a co-founder of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 22

Dale Cummings, ... MFCC and certified Radix® teacher, is in private practice at the Radix® Center in Santa Monica, and is also a trainer for the Radix® Institute in Ojai.
p. 33

D

Terry Dobson . . . . . apprenticed to the founder of aikido for eight years. He is the author of Giving In To Get Your Way and Safe and Alive.
p. 16

Steven Donovan . . . . . is director of the Transformation Project and is an Esalen trustee.
p. 15

Bob Doppelt . . . . . has been a river guide since 1967, and is a licensed guide in Idaho, Oregon, Utah, and Wyoming.
p. 26, 37

Patrick Douce, ... a resident at Esalen since 1972, teaches ongoing classes in Feldenkrais awareness through movement and is available for individual sessions in functional integration.
p. 31, 33

Jack Downing, ... M.D., is a psychiatrist with a comprehensive background in gestalt, Rolfing®, Arica, applied kinesiology, and neurolinguistic programming.

François Duquesne ..... is the executive director of the Findhorn Community in northern Scotland, and an educator and writer on the themes of personal and planetary transformation.
p. 20

Joel Dweck, ... formerly a physicist and freelance builder, is a certified Radix® teacher in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 24

Ken Dychtwald, ... psychologist and international consultant, is the author of Bodymind, Millenium: Glimpses into the 21st Century, and The Aging of America (forthcoming).
p. 22

E

Victoria Elliot, ... an Esalen trustee, is president of Norman H. Gershman Consultants, executive recruiters and management consultants to the securities business.
p. 34

Werner Erhard ..... is founder of the est training and a number of other transformation programs and projects offered by a world-wide network of centers, associated entities, and individuals.
p. 15

Esalen Lands Crew ..... includes Steve Beck, April Bekaert, Sydney Ocean, and Bruce Neeb.
p. 18

F

Tom Ferguson, ... M.D., is editor of the quarterly journal Medical Self-Care, medical editor of The Whole Earth Catalog/Co-Evolution Quarterly, and author of the book Medical Self-Care: Access to Health Tools.
p. 33

Neil Fiore ..... is a licensed psychologist practicing hypnosis, and is currently writing The Road Back to Health: Coping With the Emotional Side of Cancer.
p. 29

Tom Fitz ..... has been working with interspecies communication with the Human-Dolphin Foundation for the last three years.
p. 24

Jerry Fletcher ..... is president of Manifest International, a training and management consulting firm which specializes in assisting individuals and organizations to reach and sustain high performance levels.
p. 26

Susan Franklin-Tanner .... is an actress, director, and teacher of improvisational theater. She is based in Los Angeles and affiliated with the Living Stage Company in Washington, D.C.
p. 27

Betty Fuller, ... a humanist counselor, A.H.A., is director of the Trager Institute, and instructor of Trager psychophysical integration and mentastics©, and Feldenkrais awareness through movement.
p. 26, 34

G

Dick Galland ..... was the founding director of the Southwest Outward Bound School. He designs and guides wilderness programs for individuals, schools, and corporations.
p. 16, 21, 36

David Gastor, ... a teacher and developer of neurolinguistic programming, is a business consultant involved in producing computer software for education. He is fluent in several languages.
p. 29

Leora Gastor ..... is a group leader, Feldenkrais teacher, and master practitioner of neurolinguistic programming. She is also an expert horsewoman and holds a black belt in judo.
p. 29

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) ..... is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and is in private practice in West Los Angeles and San Francisco.
p. 17, 32

Joe D. Goldstrich, ... past national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Association, is a physician and author specializing in nutrition and preventive medicine.
p. 18, 26

Joe Graedon ..... writes a syndicated column, The People's Pharmacy, which runs in more than 100 newspapers. He is the author of The People's Pharmacy and People's Pharmacy-2.
p. 33

John Michael Grey, ... co-founder of a research institute at Stanford, integrates neurolinguistics, cognitive psychology, and Ericksonian hypnotic practice with transpersonal psychosynthetic approaches.
p. 32

Christina Grof, ... hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." She is co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 25, 30, 35

Stanislav Grof, ... psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of The Human Encounter with Death and LSD Psychotherapy.
p. 25, 30, 35

H

Anna Halprin, ... founder of the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop and co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Training Institute in Marin County, is the author of Movement Ritual I and Collected Writings.
p. 22

Rana Halprin-Vassau ..... presents the "Halprin Method" in private practice in Santa Fe, New Mexico, teaching Movement Ritual I and Dance Explorations.
p. 22

Betsy Hand, ... former resident staff member of the Gestalt Institute of Canada, has 20 years experience with families, couples, and groups. She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.
p. 16, 24

Joyce Hanna ..... is a behavioral fitness consultant in Palo Alto, California. She is a marathon runner and has competed in the Boston marathon.
p. 34

Steven Harper ..... teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, and is currently the coordinator of the Esalen Wilderness Programs.
p. 13, 37

Nick Herbert, ... an independent researcher in the foundations of physics, is completing a popular book on quantum foundations entitled Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics (Doubleday).
p. 29

Peggy Morrison Horan .... is an Esalen masseuse and teacher, and coordinator of the Esalen Childbirth Education Program.
p. 28, 32

Paul Horn ..... is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and teacher of meditation.
p. 31

Chungliang Al Huang ..... is the founder-president of The Living Tao Foundation, and director of its Lan Ting Institute, an international cultural-arts network for lifelong learning.
p. 27, 28

IJ

Ed Jackson, ... trained in family medicine, pediatrics, and epidemiology, teaches in Berkeley, California. He is in private practice and is interested in gestalt and Reichian body work.
p. 21

Galvin Jackson, ... an educator, musician, and counseling consultant, is founder and senior coordinator of the firm, Consultants for Creative Growth.
p. 23

Eli Jaxon-Bear, ... former director of a Buddhist meditation center, is a master practitioner of neurolinguistics who integrates this work with Ericksonian hypnotic practice and Eastern philosophies.
p. 32

Michael Joyce, ... a somatologist and Feldenkrais teacher in private practice in Nevada and California, is author of works on physiological learning and functional intelligence.
p. 30

Andrea Juhan ..... is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practioner, has trained with Anna Halprin, and currently conducts Esalen community classes in stretch/exercise, aerobics, and dance.
p. 13

Deane Juhan, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.
p. 26

K

Jeff Kane, ... M.D., researches the body-mind relationship and teaches medical philosophy, stress management, and hatha yoga. His articles have appeared in CoEvolution Quarterly, New Age, and Yoga Journal.
p. 16

Kathleen Keating, ... a registered nurse and mental health consultant, is currently creating The Downhill Runners and Fast Walkers, a motivational workbook on health.
p. 27

Kenneth Kelzer ..... works as a transpersonal educator and counselor in California. Using dreamwork, he has been conducting classes and groups for over ten years.
p. 29

Donald Keys, ... author, human rights and peace movement leader, and consultant to United Nations delegations, is founder and president of Planetary Citizens.
p. 16

Joel Kirsch, ... a founding member of the Energy Training Institute, has developed and presented energy training programs in management, human resource development, sports, dance, and education.
p. 13, 18

Susan Kirsch, ... with a background in educational research and training, specializes in speech communications. Her doctoral project is entitled Trust and Energy Training in Organizational Development.
p. 13

Gary Klapman ..... has been practicing emergency medicine in Santa Cruz for five years and is a student of medical ecology.
p. 17

Lila Daniels Klapman, ... longtime member of the Esalen massage crew, integrates deep tissue, polarity, and Trager bodywork in her teaching and practice.
p. 17

George Kohlrieser ..... is director of Shiloah, Center for Human Growth in Dayton, Ohio, where he works with individuals, families, and groups.
p. 26

Murray Korngold ..... is a certified acupuncturist and a teacher and speaker on parapsychology and psychic healing.
p. 16

Robert Kourik, ... formerly director of the edible landscape program at Farallones Institute Rural Center, is a landscaper and designer of food-producing gardens and solar greenhouses.
p. 15

Joel Kramer, ... a western master of physical and mental yoga, has taught on the evolution of awareness and male/female relationships with Diana Alstad throughout the world.
p. 21, 22

John Krysko, ... a psychic business consultant in NYC, is pioneering new approaches to investment, finance, and business that illuminates spiritual, creative, and interpersonal factors.
p. 23

L

Stephen LaBerge ..... is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and does research on conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University.
p. 19

Benj Langdon, ... former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.
p. 19, 26, 33

Lenore Lefer, ... currently maintaining a private practice in San Francisco, is on the training staff of the Psychosynthesis Institutes of London and San Francisco.
p. 32, 33

Dub Leigh ..... has been trained by Ida Rolf and Moshe Feldenkrais and has studied with Lauren Berry and Milton Trager.
p. 18, 30, 35

Annie Styron Leonard ..... is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.
p. 19

George Leonard, ... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.
p. 15, 16, 18, 19, 21

Peter Levine ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He holds doctorates in medical biophysics and psychology. His interests include the effects of stress on children and infants.
p. 21

Ruth Leveton, ... co-founder of Medicine Way, Inc., is a wilderness instructor for U.C. Santa Cruz Extension, leader for Rites of Passage, and student of biology and environmental studies.
p. 25, 33, 37

Bill Liles, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, integrates polarity with traditional Esalen massage.
p. 20, 28

Paul Lounsbury ..... has studied extensively with Milton Erickson and has conducted numerous training seminars on the use of hypnosis and strategic counseling. He is in private practice in New York.
p. 30

DeeDee Lozier ..... is a Feldenkrais practitioner who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in the United States and Israel.
p. 18, 30

Nancy Kaye Lunney, ... a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, does individual as well as group work, and is manager of programming at Esalen.
p. 25

M

Phillip Mac ..... is a board certified family physician who has trained family physicians and physicians' assistants. His special interest is the health and ill health of health care providers.
p. 20

Ma Prita, ... certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches to well being in group and private instruction.
p. 18, 28, 29

John McKeithen, ... a practitioner and teacher of Esalen deep tissue work for several years, is presently in practice in Petaluma, California.
p. 22

Deborah Anne Medow, ... Esalen body work practitioner and group leader since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines, and studies Native American tradition.
p. 17, 32, 33

Lewis Mehl, ... lecturer and practitioner of birth psychology and psychophysiology, teaches how to maintain health. He is author of Mind and Matter: Existential Foundations of Holistic Health.
p. 25

Fred Moore ..... teaches in the graduate counseling program at Sonoma State University, is supervising psychologist for Azure Acres alcoholic treatment facility, and maintains a private practice in Rohnert Park, Ca.
p. 27, 37

Jaime Morton ..... is a teacher of massage, a counselor, and an earth artist.
p. 31

Laurie Muller (Lioness), ... a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches of healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 22, 29

N O P R S

Christian Murphy ..... was in co-practice as a counselor with John Zeigler in Manhattan. A gestaltist, she specializes in body work and role playing.
p. 22

Michael Murphy ..... is co-founder of Esalen Institute and founder of the Transformation Project. He is author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, and An End to Ordinary History.
p. 15

Robert Nadeau, ... a spiritual researcher, has been leading workshops in centering and awareness for over 15 years. He holds a fifth degree black belt in aikido.
p. 30

The NINE ..... "We are pure thought human fantasy seeking a road to the birth canal of reality where we will be seen as 'The NINE.'"
p. 18, 27, 33

Jenny O'Connor ..... is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."
p. 18, 27, 33

Brita Ostrom, ... a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.
p. 18, 29, 31

Heinz Pagels, ... president of the New York Academy of Sciences, author of The Cosmic Code, professes physics in New York City.
p. 29

Ronnie Paul, ... formerly a ranked Eastern Junior tennis player, now studies and teaches the Iyengar method of hatha yoga. She is a frequent author and former contributing editor for Yoga Journal.
p. 16

Kenneth Pelletier ..... is assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at U.C.S.F.; assistant professor, public health department, U.C. Berkeley; and director of the California Health and Medical Foundation.
p. 19

Gayle Peterson, ... active in research, publication, and clinical application on holistic health principles to prenatal care, also teaches the use of mental imagery to mental health professionals.
p. 25

Ayala Pines, ... research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.
p. 28, 32

Prem Das ..... completed a six-year apprenticeship with don Jose Matsuwa and is the founder and director of Mishakai, Center for the Study of Shamanism, Covelo, California.
p. 28

Hector Prestera, ... a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neurolinguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.
p. 32

Christine Price ..... combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.
p. 13, 15, 21, 23, 28, 31, 33

Paul Rebillot ..... was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theatre Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.
p. 17

Don Ridge ..... has an MFCC license, is in private practice, and is director of human services at Rossier Educational and Assessment Center.
p. 23

Linda Rice-Mandigo ..... is a counselor in private practice in New York.
p. 24

Carl Rogers ..... is a counselor, educator, and author of On Becoming a Person, A Way of Being, (1980) and Freedom to Learn for the 80's (1982).
p. 21

Nancy Rosanoff ..... conducts workshops in energy strategy and creativity throughout the United States and has a private practice in New York City.
p. 24

Jack Rosenberg, ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.
p. 15, 20, 33

Ilana Rubenfeld ..... is the originator of her own integration called "gestalt synergy." She trained with Fritz and Laura Perls and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is on the faculty of New York University.
p. 30

Anne Ruderman, ... a certified Radix® teacher and clinical social worker, is in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 24

Rutuima, ... Prem Das' wife and don Jose's brother's (don Carlos') granddaughter, is a mother and teacher of Huichol.
p. 28

Ruth Sanford, ... co-director, Center for Interpersonal Growth, Long Island, facilitator of learning in person-centered graduate programs, is experienced in public school education and group facilitation.
p. 21

David Schiffman ..... a longtime leader at Esalen, is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.
p. 16, 19, 23, 25, 26, 29, 32, 35, 37

Elisa Lodge Schiffman ..... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.
p. 17, 19, 23, 28, 30, 32, 35, 37

Will Schutz, ... founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.
p. 18, 25

Alan Schwartz ..... is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."
p. 25, 27

Mia Segal ..... is Moshe Feldenkrais' first assistant. She taught the Feldenkrais Guild teachers in San Francisco, teaches the Alexander method, and has a black belt in judo.
p. 29

Julian Silverman, ... an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.
p. 34

Harry Sloan, ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Dr. Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.
p. 20, 27, 32

Fritz Smith ..... is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is in a private practice of holistic health in Watsonville, California.
p. 24

Gerald Smith ..... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.
p. 16, 24, 34

Elizabeth Stratton, ... a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.
p. 25

T
V
W

Y
Z

Vicki Topp . . . . . joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.
p. 18, 20, 26, 33

Attila Vaas . . . . . has been an Esalen massage practitioner for the past six years. His approach combines polarity, acupressure, and the Esalen massage.
p. 22

Judyth Weaver, ... a Reichian counselor, certified teacher of t'ai chi ch'uan, and student of Buddhism and Taoism, holds a doctorate in psychology and teaches at the California Institute of Integral Studies.
p. 34

Andrew Weil, ... M.D., is an investigator of alternative medicine, mind-body interactions, and beneficial plants, and author of The Natural Mind, and Health and Healing in the Year 2000.
p. 19, 31

Nancy Winston . . . . . is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling throughout North America.
p. 30

Alan Young . . . . . is a spiritual healer in private practice in Carmel, California, and the author of a recently published book, Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage?
p. 28

John Zeigler, ... a gestaltist, is a consultant to the National Institute of Mental Health on the newer counseling methods and has taught problem solving at several universities.
p. 22

Janet Zuckerman . . . . . has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than seven years. Her work includes gestalt practice, group process,and emotional release work.
p. 12, 30

The Esalen Catalog

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year, including postage and handling, is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. A preaddressed envelope is included in this catalog for your convenience.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student $15
One Year Individual $25
One Year Donor $50
One Year Sponsor $100
One Year Patron $500
(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes and artwork by people of the Esalen community is now available. To order by mail, use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies of Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $1.20 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $7.15 (California residents add $.35 tax.) I am enclosing a total of $_____.

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery.

Joyce Rogers

• AUDIO RECORDINGS •

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single-tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Mother Theresa: Bombay ITA Conference Address, 1982
Father Bede Griffiths: Christian Doctrine and Contemporary Science
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Formative Causation)
Claudio Naranjo: Eastern Meditation and Western Psychotherapy
Marilyn Ferguson: The Leading Edge of Change
Senator Matsunaga: Academy of Peace and Conflict Resolution
Donald Keys: Choosing a New World
Helen Caldicott: Medical Effects of Nuclear War
Daniel Ellsberg & Ram Dass: Face to Face with Extinction
Ram Dass: Embracing Paradox (Dharma and the Bomb)
Thomas Banyacya: Hopi Prophecy and Survival
Prem Das: Healing Our Planet and Ourselves
Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice
Gregory Bateson: Eternal Verities of Life
Fritjof Capra: The Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
David Zeller: A Kabbalistic Perspective on Consciousness
Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
Tom Ferguson: What About Self-Care?
Jim Clendenen: Ericksonian Hypnotherapy
Stanislav Grof: Introduction to Spiritual Emergency Work
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality
Terence McKenna: Old and New Maps of Hyperspace
Terence McKenna: Tryptamine Hallucinogens and Consciousness
Timothy Leary & Panel: Higher Intelligence and Creativity
John Lilly: Birth, Brains, and Beings
Alan Watts: Interviewed by Michael Murphy, 1964
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1966
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Daniel Ellsberg: (2) The Nuclear Policy Catastrophe
Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life
Sheldrake, Capra, Targ & Grof: (2) Considerations
don Jose: (2) 69 Years of Huichol Apprenticeship
Sogyal Rinpoche: (2) Training for the Moment of Death
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe
Robert Bly: (2) Thoughts on the Art of Poetry
Bernard Aaronson: (2) Tantric Chant, Poetry and Hypnosis
Poetry of Robinson Jeffers: (2) A Dramatic Presentation, 1972
Ram Dass: (2) Ten Years in Retrospect, 1982
Stanislav & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism
Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please address your order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Donald Keys: Inner Transformation and Outer Involvement (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 with check ($44 with purchase order)
Joseph Campbell: Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Charles Ponce: The Epiphanies of the Soul (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Timothy Leary: A Day With Timothy Leary, 1982 (4 tapes, 4½ hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Kornfield: Buddhist Meditation and Practice (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Anne & Jim Armstrong: A Psychic Training Program (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Rollo May: A Weekend with Rollo May: The F. Scott Fitzgerald Myth and Your Own (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Theodore Roszak & Wm. Irwin Thompson: Personal and Cultural Transformation (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
R. D. Laing: Dialogues with James Fadiman and Fritjof Capra (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)

Jack Rosenberg: New Understanding of Sexual Relationship
(4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)

Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health
(6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)

Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance
(6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)

Heinz Von Foerster & John Lilly: Meta-Language
(6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)

Gregory Bateson: Steps to an Ecology of Mind
(6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)

Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend
(6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)

Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development
(7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)

Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method
(6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)

Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method
(6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)

Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul
(8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)

Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles
(8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)

Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar
(8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)

Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences
(10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)

Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and the Individual Adventure
(10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please address order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975–1980)

This recorded series of informal talks on twelve tapes is now part of Gregory Bateson's estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate. The complete set may now be purchased in two equal parts: Part I or Part II may be ordered separately (6 tapes each) for $60 ($66 by purchase order). Either set of six tapes will come in a vinyl album accompanied by a summary of contents of all twelve, for reference, plus additional pages. For Parts I & II combined in one order, send $98 ($108 by purchase order). Please add $2 for mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). In California include 6% sales tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Recordings from the Early Years

A 32-page catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $2 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Meditation Music, Space Age Music

This new music, called by many names (cosmic, celestial, transcendent, new age) covers a wide range and is becoming increasingly known and appreciated. Listed here are several mail order sources for catalogs or information: ABODE TAPES, P.O. Box 300, New Lebanon, NY 12125; HEARTS OF SPACE, P.O. Box 31321, San Francisco, CA 94131; NARADA, 1804 E. North Ave., Milwaukee, WI 53202; BACKROADS, Box 416, Evans, CO 80620; VITAL BODY MARKETING, Box 703, Fresh Meadows, NY 11365; YES! BOOKSTORE & TAPES, 1035 31st Street NW, Washington D.C. 20007.

• THE MEDIA CENTER •

The Esalen Media Center has produced two audio-visual programs which are now available for rental or purchase. They are two-projector slide dissolve shows which can be shown with a single projector. We have also transferred the programs onto video cassettes.

Esalen

This is an 18-minute slide presentation with a soundtrack of narration and music telling the story of Esalen—from its early history to the present. Included are scenes of the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, and the various work departments, as well as aspects of our workshop seminars, long-term programs, and special projects. Musical soundtrack by Paul Horn, Joel Andrews, and Pinchey Pete.

Cost: For Sale

Slide Program—includes 130 color slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entré 7610 dissolve unit available on request)		$150.00
1/2" VHS color video cassette		$125.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette		$135.00
For Rent
1/2" VHS color video cassette	per week	$30.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette	per week	$35.00

The Ritual Of Birth

This is a 10-minute slide presentation including scenes of a "blessing way" ceremony honoring the birthing family, and a home birth. Musical soundtrack by David Tate and Char Pias Brenner.

Cost: For Sale

Slide Program—includes 52 color slides, cassette tape and script (pulsed tape for Entré 7610 dissolve unit available on request)		$85.00
1/2" VHS color video cassette		$65.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette		$75.00
For Rent
1/2" VHS color video cassette	per week	$20.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette	per week	$25.00

Color Slide Sets

Sets of five scenes of Esalen—the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, garden, the outdoor hot baths, t'ai chi on the pool deck—are available for sale at $5.50 per set.

Please address your order with a check payable to the ESALEN MEDIA CENTER, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. California residents add 6% sales tax for sale purchases.

Overseas air mail orders please add additional postage: each slide program $10 ($15 for Australia and Asia), each video cassette $7, each slide set $1.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette on Chungliang Al Huang's new work, entitled Tai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, send inquiries also to KLB PRODUCTIONS at the above address. Recent color videotapes of Stephen Levine and Ram Dass on "Conscious Living/ Conscious Dying", and of Daniel Ellsberg, Helen Caldicott, and others on the nuclear issue are available from ORIGINAL FACE VIDEO, Box 447, Grass Valley, Ca. 95945.

• GENERAL INFORMATION •

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three- week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335

Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 5 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The price of a weekend workshop will be $165, and a five-day will be $340. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations, Please present proof of age when you register.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $1600 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $60 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $100 per day, or $110 per day per couple. Family special rates are available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Bus Service: Bus service to Esalen and along Highway #1 is provided twice daily from Monterey and San Luis Obispo by Coastlines. Buses depart from the Monterey Airport at 9 am and 3 pm and from the Monterey Greyhound Terminal and Doubletree Inn a few minutes later. The fare is $5 one way. From San Luis Obispo the fare is $10 one way, with departures beginning at the airport at 8:30 am and 3 pm with stops at Greyhound and Amtrac a few minutes later. Additional information can be obtained by consulting timetable No. 6288 at your local bus terminal or by calling Coastlines directly at (408) 649-4700 or (805) 541-3407.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $18 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Joyce Rogers

• Esalen Institute Reservations •

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 46.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐ Age _____

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Check whether this workshop will be held in Big Sur ☐ or as a Wilderness Program ☐

Do you smoke? _____

Limousine Service:
I want limousine service from (check one):
_____ Monterey Airport
_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station
at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only)

The $18 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

Check here ☐ if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Reservation Fee

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Your reservation can be charged to:

MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 46. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

THE ESALEN CATALOG

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920
DATED MATTER

THE ESALEN CATALOG

SEPTEMBER 1983 - FEBRUARY 1984

ONE DOLLAR

Contents

Volume XXII, Number 3

Audio Recordings 44–45
Big Sur Wilderness Experience 11
Biographical Information 39–43
Catalog Subscription Information 43
Conference: New Dimensions in Care for the Dying 20
Esalen Seminars 13–33
Experiencing Esalen 10–11
Experiencing Esalen: The Body 11
Food for Thought:

On Applied Vulnerability
Don Michael 4–5

The Synergy of the Body, Mind and Emotions
Ilana Rubenfeld 6–8

Cycles and Seasons
Janet Lederman 9

Friends of Esalen 43
Future Programs 36
General Information 46
Gestalt Practice 11
Media Center 45
Medical Programs 38
Reservations Form 47
Scholarship Information 11
Special Programs 34–36
Ways of Being at Esalen 10–11
Wilderness Programs 37–38
Work Study Program and Application 12

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920
Phone (408) 667-2335
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 PM

Catalog Editor: Heather Tarnas
Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Rogers

Cover Photograph by Steve Beck

©1983 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

David Nelson

Esalen would like to thank the employees and associates of California Department of Transportation for their strenuous and often heroic efforts to keep Highway 1 open during this past winter.

This winter's storms, so devastating to the California Coast and other parts of America, caused enormous damage in Big Sur. Highway One, both north and south of Esalen, was impassable for various lengths of time, causing us to be closed for nine weeks this spring. Loss of program revenue and expenses for storm repair will cost us more than half a million dollars.

These difficulties, though, have presented us with a new opportunity. By forcing us to look at our building plans more carefully than before, they have made us think about the long range consequences of all our program and development ideas. They have helped us imagine what we want to be in the future, which elements in our program and what parts of our facilities we want to preserve, which we want to discard, and which we want to improve.

We believe that imaginative development plans — for program, land, and buildings — will reinforce each other. We have been stimulated in this thinking by Nathaniel Owings and Howard McKee of the architectural firm Skidmore, Owings, and Merrill, who will help us rethink the future of our Big Sur properties. The co-ordination of long-range program and facility planning, we believe, will help us develop Esalen into the kind of educational and research center all of us want it to be, a center featuring more training programs, more selective public seminars, more scholars-in-residence, more work with an international focus like our Soviet-American exchange, more research in human development, and more invitational conferences. (We are already sponsoring annual conferences on physics, problems of governance, the psychological structure of international relations, new models in parapsychology, evolutionary theory, the nature of human identity, and other subjects.) With this brochure we are already substituting more three and four week workshops for weekend and five-day seminars, and we have started to organize a permanent Soviet Studies Center.

Nathaniel Owings will supervise the formation of our masterplan. No one has done more than he to preserve the Big Sur coast (and many other parts of America) from bad planning and commercial exploitation. Few have done so much to foster ecological sensitivity and environmental design. He will donate his services to us free of charge, but the technical work for our masterplan will cost at least $100,000. To pay for it, we need your help. Whatever you can send us will help us turn our difficulties into something positive.

With a masterplan we will put our development on a sounder, more imaginative basis; we will plan our future costs more effectively; we will have a more beautiful facility in which to house our future programs. And while these physical changes are underway, we will work to improve the quality of all our programs. We hope you will support us.

Michael Murphy
Richard Price

ON APPLIED VULNERABILITY

Keith Thompson Talks with Donald Michael

Donald Michael is professor emeritus of Planning and Public Policy and professor of psychology at the University of Michigan and the author of four books, including On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn. He is internationally recognized for his work in long-range planning and coping with future-oriented national and international policy problems.

Prior to his November 27–December 2, 1983 workshop at Esalen, Donald Michael sat down with contributing editor, Keith Thompson, for a wide-ranging talk about the learning value of acknowledging uncertainty, the networking movement, the meaning of living ecologically, and some of the skills which stem from what Michael calls "applied vulnerability."

THOMPSON: One thing seems true for individuals and organizations, even for nations: what we assume we know with great certainty, when examined more closely, leads to larger unknowns. Individuals realize how little they know about the complex processes of their own minds, and social and political organizations discover they don't know much about what's really happening in the interdependent world around them. The response, often, is that we gather a lot of facts to try to cover the gap. We consolidate against our ignorance.

Your work, Don, points in a different direction — toward embracing our ignorance, working with it, moving into a "learning mode" in the face of great uncertainty. How did you come to this view?

MICHAEL: Well, in appreciating that we face enormous problems and opportunities in the future, I was also aware that we did a miserable job of longer range planning for those opportunities and difficulties. And I was curious as to why we were so irresponsible about planning our future, particularly from the standpoint of organizations — governmental, corporate, educational, and the like. What I discovered was essentially what you just said: that as a society we hadn't thought much about possibilities and problems for the future, nor, especially, much about how we were to get from where we were to where we wanted to be. If you think about the usual kind of learning our society rewards — what our schooling rewards — it is not learning to ask questions. It's learning to know the answers. The learning models for our society are the engineers who know the answers based on their knowledge of cause-and-effect. But since cause-and-effect knowledge couldn't be the standard used for talking about what would happen to society, planners — both public and private — feared looking incompetent. So, rather than seeking to do long range planning, which would have required acknowledging their uncertainties — which in turn would have been completely unacceptable — all they did was short range planning by extrapolation from the present. The whole process went nowhere. The most blatant example of this was in the early days of futures studies. The presumption was that the studies would tell what would happen, so that planners could act according to the engineering mode. But what the studies did, if they were good ones, was indicate, "Well it could go this way, or could go that way, or could go still this way." So the futures studies went on the shelf.

THOMPSON: Along with the reports of various presidential commissions whose conclusions pointed in directions different from those conceived by successive occupants of the White House.

MICHAEL: Exactly. And it led me to see more clearly that the whole definition of competence for people in administrative and decision-making positions is knowing the answer, knowing the cause and its effect, and knowing what to do about it. And if you can't act as if you know what to do you'd either better pretend you can or avoid facing the situation that requires acknowledging that you don't know. This led me to appreciate the value of acknowledging uncertainty as a way to create new questions. It allows you to use your uncertainty as a guide to what options are available and what you want to pay attention to. You enter the experiential mode of both the true scientist and the artist, a mode of exploration and willingness to be informed by ignorance.

THOMPSON: In many schools of humanistic psychology and various meditative practices, there is built-in support for being a learner and for acknowledging ignorance, which are seen as essential to growth and development. And many so-called "primitive" cultures understand that there is energy and wisdom in darkness — that "the shadow knows." Our society, as a whole, especially on the macro-organizational and political levels, lacks a learning/exploring context for decision-making. Presidential candidates campaign on platforms which assert what they know and what they will do, and candidates (like Jerry Brown) who imply that not-doing-at-all is often the intelligent path, are mocked by the press and political experts. Have you given any thought to how we can begin to put incentives into the system to make learning as valuable as knowing?

MICHAEL: First, it's important to recognize that the burden on decision-makers to act as if they know, when they know that they don't know, is a heavy one. The world is continually demonstrating to people who have responsibility for decisions and programs that things don't go the way they expect them to. Things really are uncertain. So a big part of providing incentives is to give these people a sense of legitimacy, a story, a perspective, that says "It's reasonable, it's logical, it's sensible to acknowledge your ignorance. If you don't, you are going to get into trouble, because denying it leads to enormous personal anxiety and organizational unproductiveness. And furthermore there are other people like you who are in this same situation. What you need to do is build a support group wherein you can share this alternate way of engaging the world and learn from each other."

Just as in the self-exploration practices for which Esalen is known, planners are searching too. The most wonderful thing I experience whan I work with them is the enormous relief they feel when they find out they are not alone, that there are other people with whom to share their questioning.

So, if you can begin, as I try to do in my workshops, to put them in touch with one another, you can help them legitimize the logic of acknowledging uncertainty. They come to see that the conventional way of living in organizations insulates people from one another, separates them, in effect decentralizing them from one another, so that they are unable to see that there are others sharing their situation, and unable to learn to use their specific uncertainties.

THOMPSON: Recently, as it has become apparent that the old hierarchical organizational models don't account very well for the world as we know it, the notion of networking has become very appealing — decentralized, autonomous movements to bridge the gap between local governance processes and the old hierarchical ones. What do you see as the strengths and weaknesses of networks?

MICHAEL: I think the strengths of networking are two-fold. First, it is a way to sharing large amounts of information, the amount depending on the technology to some extent — telephone, photocopies, meetings, computers, or what have you. The point is that once you have a group of people recruited for a particular preoccupation, the self-consciousness of the network — its own sense of what it is for — rewards sharing a lot of information. More importantly, it is the expectations that the networkers have about networking that encourages sharing information. It is part of their mythology.

Secondly, networking is a way of recruiting people who are interested in accomplishing something that depends on the sharing of information and a connectivity. It focuses and coalesces a set of people, a set of preoccupations, and a certain kind of information, in order to push on the rest of society in some way. Yet networks are also diffuse, in that people frequently are not face to face and the linkages are not necessarily tight, and people can flow in and out. The strength of networks is that they are both diffuse, or decentralized, and coherent, or centralized.

THOMPSON: And their weakness?

MICHAEL: Well, you could say that a strength and a weakness of the recruiting attractiveness of networks is its tendency to attract like-minded people and to wash out other views. And because networks are often low on the structure side, there is no way to ensure attention to ideas that are unattractive. You can throw them into the pot; maybe they will get attended to, and maybe they won't. This brings up the big question of the shadow, or the darker side of our motivations. One of the rewards of the network is that it seems as if we are all in it to serve a higher social purpose, yet each networker also has his or her own self-serving psychological needs and motivations. Insuring regulation of these contending purposes, insuring accountability, is one of the main reasons there are structures and hierarchies in organizations. I would say lack of accountability is one of the main limitations of networking.

THOMPSON: And as for your mention of sharing information, perhaps the greater availability of information is not an unquestionable good. How is one to evaluate it? How does one hold onto the stance of not knowing in the midst of so much seductive new information? It can give us a sense of confidence and justification for our actions which may not be merited by the situation as a whole.

MICHAEL: I agree with you on all these points. Having more information alone doesn't make the information correct, or even valuable. I would simply say that networking has not revealed itself to be a process that automatically guarantees a better society. It is itself another mode of contention and competition as much as it is a collaboration. Think of all the pro and anti networks, locally and nationally, about abortion, bussing, gun control, gay rights, the nuclear freeze, etc. A major weakness at present is that there has been very little theoretical and conceptual work on such questions as: Are networks based on anything more than a belief in the old "invisible hand" operating in a new mode, with a new attitude — a belief somehow that if we each and all go our networking ways, this will add up to the common good. There is nothing I know of that suggests on the face of it that it will add up any more so than competition and collaboration among nations or in the marketplace has done. It may be simply another market activity.

THOMPSON: And even when this "invisible hand" is spoken of in terms of ecological networks and whole-earth networks, it's difficult to avoid the impression that beneath the holistic metaphors often lurk the same old Newtonian mechanistic assumptions. When these kinds of networks claim for their actions and beliefs a vague ecological legitimacy in the hushed tones of near-theological sanction, we're exactly back where we started: to the fear of acknowledging our ignorance and uncertainty about our actions in a systemic world. The unfortunate result is that networking, as a mode and as a style, becomes more mystified, not less, and possibly even trivialized.

MICHAEL: That's well put. Moreover, there is often a misunderstanding of the meaning of "ecological." Take a tropical rain forest, for example. It looks like everything fits together nicely, that there is a mutuality, a convergence of all the parts, and they fit beautifully. But they fit, in part, by virtue of destroying each other. There is the interdependence of life and death, of adjustment and readjustment. If you go down into an ecology it is an ongoing transformation in which some win and some lose. Within an ecology it is not a win-win situation.

THOMPSON: The winners eat the losers.

MICHAEL: Yes. And if we say we are part of an ecology, or ecologies within ecologies, it means that somehow we must work out how we are going to deal with some being winners and some being losers. If we wish to speak of "fittingness" in an ecological sense, we must be willing to accept the deeply engrained sense of true mutuality, of vulnerability, of the coming and going, rising and falling, decaying and growing, that make up life on this planet. It is precisely this kind of world view that is yet to be worked out to deal with six billion people, limited resources, finite plans and contending value systems, endless groups here and abroad, each going their own way, "networking," claiming their rights and their vision of society. If there is one law at this level of human and material exchange, it is that there are, finally, no free lunches. We have hardly begun to work out the social and personal implications of this.

THOMPSON: In your seminar description, you speak of several "new competences" which are allied with taking the learner's stance, or as you put it, with developing "applied vulnerability." Can you say something about these skills?

MICHAEL: Well, first, as I have already mentioned, there is the need to acknowledge to oneself and share with others extremely high levels of uncertainty. By uncertainty I don't mean probability; I mean the uncertainty that accompanies knowing that you don't know. A second characteristic of the new competence is what I call error embracing. Neither persons nor organizations can learn if they aren't able to embrace the unavoidable errors that accompany planning. Error is not synonymous with failure, but it is closely allied with learning, and the only way to learn is to reach out to discover our errors and learn from them.

A third requirement is to be future responsive. Making the future always part of the present informs us about the ethical and operational validity of our present actions. The true value of futures studies is that they can teach us about our assumptions and our ways of acting in the present. And future responsiveness can provide us with visions strong enough to engage ourselves with commitment and passion toward what we might become — or seek to avoid becoming. Then there is what I simply call interpersonal competence. Overall, our incompetence at listening, supporting, coping with value conflicts, nurturing, role playing, and empowering contributes monumentally to the appallingly low efficiency and low effectiveness of task groups, staff meetings, committees, and our individual relationships with our fellows. Some of the better interpersonally focused group work at Esalen over the years points in the direction of this skill. The challenge is to continue to apply these insights to organizational and social contexts where large scale change is essential.

THOMPSON: I know this is a simplistic question, but given your work in futures planning, I can't resist: Are you optimistic about the future?

MICHAEL: I prefer to say I'm hopeful rather than optimistic. Optimistic means you believe the odds are on your side; hopeful means it's worth trying regardless of the odds. The next two decades promise to be a period of profound turbulence, a time of potential excitement and potential terror. One response to the challenge would be to withdraw from the costs of an open society, to retreat to the security that comes with law and order under authority and an identity based on separating "us" from "them."

But the potential is also there for learning to live more compassionately, to become better learners; indeed, to become a learning society. To do so we need all the clarity we can muster regarding our ignorance and finiteness, our vulnerability, and all the support we can obtain in order to face the often unsettling implications of what our clarity reveals to us.

It is, really, a matter of becoming more compassionate. For it is compassionate persons who, by virtue of accepting the implications of their own vulnerability, can provide others as well as themselves with support as we choose the path of learners.

The Synergy of the Body, Mind, and Emotions

Kathy J. Thormod

Until the last decade, counseling focused primarily on verbal behavior; body work was separate. Yet with the growing agreement that the integration of these is fundamental to our holistic nature, we now see therapeutic forms that treat the whole person.

Buckminster Fuller coined the word "synergy" to describe "the behavior of whole systems unpredicted by the behavior of the parts taken separately." As a musician turned counselor/teacher, Ilana Rubenfeld creates a synergy, which is a means of contacting, expressing, and working through body tensions and stored emotions by using touch, subtle movements, and the verbal integration of gestalt practice. This article follows her evolution from a conductor of music to her discovery of a unique, synergistic approach to working with the body, mind, and emotions.

Formally trained at the Juilliard School of Music, Ilana played viola, piano, oboe, and conducted orchestras for nearly two decades. The backaches and physical tension resulting from this strenuous work led her to take lessons in the Alexander Technique, a system designed in the early 1900's by F. M. Alexander to teach the proper use of the body. The process was done one-to-one or in a small group with the guidance of an experienced teacher who used words, images, and light touch so that the student learned to "do nothing" and thus made room to experience a new choice of movement and being. Ilana recalls: "As the lessons progressed, my try-harder goal-orientation was challenged. I once asked my teacher, 'How am I doing? Getting better?' to which she replied, 'You're doing! As soon as you accept where you are in the present, you'll change.' The experience was inscrutable to me intellectually, but I continued with the lessons because I simply felt better. Of profound significance was the bewildering fact that the lightness of her touch often brought about spontaneous emotional releases: I felt angry, sad, or happy, and had access to many early memories."

To capture the potential of those spontaneous moments and to process the intense feelings that came up in the body work, Ilana began training with Fritz and Laura Perls who encouraged her to integrate gestalt practice with her body work. "Thus I was availed of the skills necessary to process stored emotions released during Alexander lessons — and to do so in the spontaneous present moment."

This synthesis was further enriched when Ilana met Moshe Feldenkrais and studied his two-part method of Functional Integration (one-to-one guidance through touch) and Awareness-Through-Movement (over a thousand different movement sequences), both designed to re-educate the muscular, skeletal, and nervous systems. Over the years this work together with her training in the Alexander Technique and gestalt practice combined to form the basis of the Synergy® Method. Ilana reflected, "I didn't plan to be a counselor. Gradually my work shifted into that world and out of the world of music. But the knowledge that I had learned as a musician, the ability to synthesize various elements into a new 'sound' has stayed with me and influences all of my work."

Ilana's ideal is to form a subtle, non-intrusive and intuitive collaboration when she works with an individual. Every physical touch has the potential of evoking emotional content associated with a particular body part. The idea is not simply to allow expression of repressed feeling but to explore the emotional history which led to the tightness in the first place. The working-through process does not attempt to search out reasons but to enable the person to re-enter the original experience. She then assists the person to move to verbal expression and assessment, exploring how the habitual responses might be changed in similar future situations. Ilana's purpose is to help the person simplify complexities and to extract themes which may be central to the unfolding of a number of new life options and choices for change. Awareness is the key factor, and it is here that the synergist and the client meet. This is, in a sense, where the touch really happens. "I'm touching you here and I am also asking you to send consciousness to this place." It is a collaboration; the client participates by coming into awareness.

Ilana employs touch as a way of non-verbally "listening" to the body/mind organism. Using an open and listening hand she guides the person through physical and emotional resistances — facilitating release of energy in a locked joint, relaxing tense muscles, lengthening a compressed spine, etc. Such an approach is responsive and receptive and focuses a person's awareness so that he or she may explore a previously unconscious pattern. "In some forms of body work," Ilana says "the goal is to break down a person's 'armor.' In the kind of touch I use, which is a combination of what I learned from the Alexander and Feldenkrais work, I stayed centered and wait for the person to release. I am not breaking down anything. I guide, give them a sense of my hand, and wait. When they're ready to let go, they let go and the process becomes a melting. My hands both receive information about where the person is and communicate what is happening for me at that moment."

An Opportunity to Experiment

Ilana purposely uses the term "experiment" to distinguish the lessons in awareness from the thoughtless repetition of exercises. These innovative experiences facilitate the change from habitual movements and attitudes towards life to non-habitual ones, each a step towards greater consciousness. Each experiment can become a metaphor revealing deep inner patterns. Ilana explains, "In an exercise, typically, we are drilled to 'turn the head to the right 15 times'; the tendency is to respond by performing the movement automatically, emphasizing quantity rather than quality of movement. But an experiment is primarily a lesson in awareness. Suggestions for movement are made and responsibility given to us to explore our own awareness which is our most valuable skill in improving functioning. Experiments are by nature innovative and can often result in surprising self-observations. They allow us to sense on a small scale the change from an habitual movement to a non-habitual one. Each time this happens, we are being pioneers in the brain. Moshe Feldenkrais has been an inspiration in creating such experiments. Here is one example:

Kathy J. Thornod

Kathy J. Thomson

'Interlace your hands, and look down to see which thumb is on top, your right thumb or your left? . . . Now separate your hands some distance and bring them back together with the opposite thumb on top. Take some time to sense how this new arrangement feels . . . Some of you may feel a little nausea. Some may wonder who's hands there are . . . The first time you interlaced your hands, you didn't think about it, you simply did it the way you've always done it. The message from your brain to your hands was the same as usual, nothing new. But when you interlaced your hands in a new and non-habitual way, the new movement spoke to the brain as if to say, "What are you doing? This is different"—while a new path is created neurologically.'"

• • •

The synergist may begin an intensive workshop by warming up the group with a series of body/mind experiments. Following these, a Feldenkrais awareness sequence is appropriate because it usually leaves participants more alert, softer, breathing more deeply and fully, and more conscious of their bodies and their feelings in the here-and-now.

In such a sequence, participants are asked to lie on their backs, which allows the maximum degree of tension release in relation to gravity. They are asked to notice where and how various parts of the body touch the floor. After this initial inventory or "scanning," the synergist leads the participants through a series of movements. Throughout the sequence, the guide asks them to pay close attention to what they are experiencing in their body as they move, to observe what is happening in their spine, head, neck, muscles, ribs, pelvis, etc., and to observe how they are breathing. One feature of this process is the absence of drill. Participants are instructed to go only as far as is comfortable, not to make the extra try to reach a given position. Each movement sequence includes before-and-after observations of the differences in body position. By consciously making these contrasts, the brain registers the differences and lets participants know that change has indeed occurred. In the course of the sequence, they may discover they can now move with more fluidity than they formerly thought possible.

• • •

A one-to-one session may begin verbally and lead to body work, or begin with touch and lead to verbal expression. As each new gestalt emerges for completion, feelings are dealt with in a vivid and active way and are integrated with present experience.

The group is asked to participate by paying close attention, sometimes mirroring quietly to themselves. Not only does the presence of other participants facilitate the individual work, but the individual who is working may inspire self-reflection on the part of group members. Individual sessions often touch on such themes as death, grief, guilt, separation, self-denial, joy; these powerful experiences can awaken sympathetic and constructive responses in the group. The themes are universal but the variations for each person are unique.

To illustrate such a session Ilana recalls: "A young woman from Canada had a severe car accident which resulted in a whiplash injury to her neck. Before she came to my workshop, she had been through treatment with doctors for both the whiplash and considerable upper back pain. She complained this treatment had given her no relief. After preliminary touching, feeling a very tight spasm in her upper back and neck, I asked her to tell me about the accident. She said, 'I'm driving the car and another car comes toward me. There is a man in the other car. I can see by the way he is driving that he is going to hit me because he doesn't see me.' As she said 'he doesn't see me,' her back tightened more and tears came to her eyes. She began to shout, 'Look at me! Look at me! Pay attention to me!' He doesn't and crashes into her. As she repeated 'Look at me!' I asked her to tell me who else she wanted to say that to. She burst our crying and said, 'My father.' Following this ensued an entire piece of work centered around the theme of her father and his paying attention to her. When he didn't pay attention to her, she was hurt and became stiff-necked to keep the hurt inside. She reverses roles with her father, he talks to her, and finally he notices her.

"At that point I felt some release in her neck, but through my touch I could feel it was still not complete. Something was still missing. To complete the process, I asked her to go back to the accident again. Since it was her script and it was now like a daydream, I asked her to redo the script. She said, 'I'm driving the car and I see the other car coming towards me. There's a man in the car . . . ' As she said this, she began to smile broadly. 'He sees me! He notices me. He swerves and doesn't hit me.' Her neck and shoulders then released. A year later I got a letter from her saying the release was complete.

"This example is particularly clear in showing how the accident related to the issue with her father (and with men in general), how the script/image could be reconceived, and especially how the use of touch told me at a certain point that the work still wasn't finished. Touch was my guide to stay with her until there was true closure."

Excerpts for the above were taken from an article by Dawna Markova and from a chapter written by Ilana Rubenfeld for a book entitled Gestalt Theory/Gestalt Therapy, Ed.N.Shub, (NY, 1983).

Cycles and Seasons

David Nelson

Winter storms revamped the California coast and then moved eastward across the country. Many citizens of the nation experienced winter within a common context of minor and major devastations. Here on the Big Sur coast the cleaning up, repairing, and restructuring continues to unfold. At Esalen, trees damaged and felled by winter winds are now being harvested and prepared for this winter's fire wood. Open spaces appear, making room for new growth.

The children at Gazebo continued their process of schooling and participation within the community.

Shortly after the first major landslide at Hurricane Point, the Gazebo's Computer Space Bus went into action. A computer system was located at the home of volunteer fireman Frank Pinney. The Pinney's are also a Gazebo family. With the aid of Jim Doty who is in charge of the Space Bus, the Pinney family began the task of creating an emergency information center. Parents, staff, and children all worked together within a real life situation.

A second slide occurred and many of the Gazebo children were unable to attend Esalen's Gazebo. Penny Vieregge formalized an extended program already in process. The parents and children created an extension so that learning continued on the other side of the slide.

The Gazebo was in the middle of the state's licensing process when the storm hit. We proudly discovered that we were prepared and safe for emergency situations. Everyone learned and worked together. Sometimes the learning was indeed difficult, but rewarding. The KENNEL program was used when there was a need for children to stay overnight. With the farmhouse, comfortable and familiar, Gazebo remained open throughout and there were times that the staff worked twenty-four hours a day. Kathy Mausshardt and the small children learned letters in the boat and it leaked only a little. The green house provided a warm place to be amid plants and flowers and the yurt offered a warm and cozy place for the older children to continue their reading and writing with Emily Wender. Perry Holloman built model mountains with the children and they learned about erosion using local soils. The farmhouse was a little chaotic from time to time, but it provided a place to bake bread and make hot soup. Everyone learned how to spell the word MUDSLIDE.

With the rain gone and the sun out the children and staff have returned to the outdoors, riding the ponies, walking the goats, and waiting for the new baby goat to be born, looking forward to making goat cheese with Markus from Switzerland, who worked on a goat farm in his home country. Marianne is also a student teacher from Switzerland and the children are learning about the Swiss language through song and conversation.

Lucia, Sunshine, and Jenny, our eight-year-olds, have joined Steve Beck and the farm crew. They are learning to prepare the soil to plant vegetables for summer use, and are riding with Steve on the farm tractor, learning what it does and how it feels. Each girl looks a little taller at the end of the day.

The babies of winter are now the toddlers of spring, taking their new steps on the new soft spring grass, watching the goats graze and taking their naps alongside Harvey the rabbit. The race track has been tilled and is ready for the newly charged spring energy bursting forth from the children riding their hot wheels. Flowers are popping up in every secret corner of Gazebo, in every imaginable color. The three and four-year-olds are planting carrots in their small round garden. There are already many green heads of lettuce waiting to be used for lunch. The strawberries barely have time to turn red before the two-year-olds taste the fruits of their pre-winter planting.

Spring has arrived and is providing new worlds for Gazebo to explore. The children learn of seasons and cycles and with each moment embrace the new.

Joyce Rogers

The Esalen garden

• WAYS OF BEING AT ESALEN •

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose those approaches which feel most appropriate and pursue them in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 12 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls.)

Schedule:

September 9–11	$210
September 18–23	$420
September 23–25	$210

October 16–21	$420
October 28–30	$210
October 30–November 4	$420
December 2–4	$230
December 4–9	$450
December 16–18	$230
December 23–25	$230
January 15–20	$450
January 29–February 3	$450
February 10–12	$230
February 26–March 2	$450

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

Similar in format to Experiencing Esalen, these workshops will emphasize learning different ways to keep your body healthy and vital. Participants will be introduced to various approaches Esalen offers for fitness, stress reduction, and body awareness. Some of the following practices will be included: dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, yoga, hiking, meditation, massage, and diet and nutritional information. The staff will provide guidance to help you find and select the practices most suitable to your individual needs.

Schedule:

September 4–9	$420
October 16–21	$420
October 21–23	$210
November 20–25	$450
December 16–18	$230
December 30–January 1	$230
Januray 1–6	$450
January 27–29	$230
February 24–26	$230

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim (Perls); Tao Te Ching (Lao Tzu); The Power of Mindfulness (Nyanponika Thera); Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg (J. C. Pearce); Illusions (Richard Bach).

Schedule:

September 11–16	$420
November 13–18	$450
December 4–9	$450
February 19–24	$450

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length) and weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration.

Schedule:

September 2–4	$210
September 11–16	$420
October 9–14	$420

Joyce Rogers

Intensive Organic Gardening

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available for June 15-September 15 programs or for weekend programs. There are no scholarships available for The Work Study Program.

• WORK-STUDY PROGRAM •

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen. It is a work oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to community labor needs and work assignments are made according to those requirements.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders, who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a specific interest section which focuses primarily on one type of growth practice, such as gestalt and Reichian work, massage and body work, etc.

The schedule of specific interest programs planned thus far for 1983-1984 includes:

September 18–October 16: A one month program of gestalt practice and Reichian breath work coordinated by Jessica Moore Britt.

October 16–December 11: A two month program of holistic studies coordinated by Polly Kirby.

December 11–January 8: A one month program of gestalt practice and Reichian breath work coordinated by Jessica Moore Britt.

January 1–February 5: A five week combination workshop and work study program focusing on gestalt practice and related approaches, coordinated by Christine Price. The first week will be a seven day intensive workshop (see Gestalt Practice page 11, for workshop description). During the following four weeks participants will continue the program as work scholars. For more information see Special Programs, page 35.

February 5–April 29: A three month program combining Esalen deep tissue work and gestalt practice, coordinated by John McKeithen. To apply please write c/o John McKeithen, Esalen.

April 29–July 22: The Esalen massage practitioners will be offering a three month certification program in body work, with intensive instruction in massage, movement, and self-care. In March, 1983, the Esalen massage practitioners began the application process for California state approved certification for workshop participants. Please call for further information.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, duch as massage and Rolfing®, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

The 28 day Work Study Program costs $600 for the first month. A $300 deposit in U.S. currency is required with your application. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month, at a cost of $550, or a third month at a cost of $500 depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program,
Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.
Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt.

Available dates: September 18–October 16; October 16–November 13; November 13–December 11; December 11–January 8; January 8–February 5; February 5–March 4; March 4–April 1; April 1–April 29; April 29–May 27; May 27–June 24; June 24–July 22; etc.

• Application to the Work-Study Program •

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐

I prefer the specific interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ in _____ (subject)

The Work Study program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

If you have emergency medical skills, (M.D., E.M.T. or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay please check here. ☐

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles, group leaders, and dates: _____

_____

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include any skills you may have available.

• ESALEN SEMINARS •

Weekend of September 2–4

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $210

A Dualistic Universe

Robert Nadeau

In this workshop we will look at the dualistic nature of the universe and play with some of the dualities such as idea/energy and hereness/awareness. $210

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation in Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

The intention of this workshop is to generate even greater access to the participants' utilization of their own natural intelligence. Paradoxically, as human creatures, we use our intelligence too often, to repetitively and habitually impose limitations onto an infinitely rich realm of possibility. This is done without knowing the processes involved in the interpretation of an experience into symbols, such as words, images, and/or feelings, and without knowing the difference between the incorrect use of these symbols and the realities that they represent. This unrealized confusion and the habitual patterns of perception affect two things: the limits for knowing what one can know and the thresholds for imagining what one can achieve.

The conscious and unconscious patterns of communication and the way in which an individual puts words together will be explored and utilized to expand individual frames of reference and to generate new and desired responses. Hypnotic phenomena will be induced and utilized throughout the workshop including: time distortion, age regression, positive and negative hallucination, catalepsy, analgesia, hyperesthesia, and amnesia. Emphasis on the nature and sensitivity of the "unconscious in communication" and the individuality of each personality will be punctuated as a theme.

This workshop is most suitable for those professionals interested in hypnosis and/or communications as well as for clinicians interested in using Ericksonian approaches to hypnosis and counseling. $210

Week of September 4–9

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $420

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation in Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

For workshop description see September 2-4. $420

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman & James Bupp

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to one's self, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness.

Kathy J. Thomas

Participants can learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate, in a safe environment, in the choice of expression or depression. $420

September 4–11

Women's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure Through the Big Sur Wilderness

Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $400

September 4–30

Journey to the East

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 34. $1800

Weekend of September 9–11

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $210

The Placebo Response

Andrew Weil

Many misconceptions exist about placebo responses. They are said to be less strong than "objective" effects of treatments and restricted to people of certain origins or educational backgrounds. In fact, placebo responses are universal and can be of any magnitude. There are placebo deaths and placebo remissions. Placebo effects are most striking in cancer and other advanced organic diseases.

In this workshop the concept of the "active placebo" will be developed as a basis for interpreting the clinical success of many conflicting therapeutic systems. We will talk about the kind of belief that makes placebos work, about mechanisms of the response, how that belief is transmuted into reality by the alchemy of nerves and hormones. Rather than trying to rule out placebo responses in evaluating the efficacy of treatments, doctors and nurses can learn to see them as an integral part of medicine—pure healing responses uncontaminated by toxic side effects. Practical advice will be given on the art of using placebo responses to enhance the therapeutic power of medical interventions of whatever school and belief.

For additional information on C.E. credit for physicians and nurses see page 38. $210

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries, all of which can improve by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "reeducable". Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each others bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about their bodies through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens who may find themselves discovering new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painlessly and immediately. $210

Week of September 11–16

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $420

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $420

Five Days with Paul Horn

". . . blending music, meditation, philosophy, and experiences of far away places (India, Egypt, China) into a meaningful integration of life." $420

Weekend of September 16–18

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Jaime Morton & Brita Ostrom

This seminar is designed for people who have some experience in giving massage. Through demonstrations and practice sessions, participants will learn how to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of their massage skills and have the opportunity to add fresh approaches to their work. The intent is to help participants make deeper and more sensitive contact, and to heighten their awareness of the responses they are creating. $210

Ashtanga Yoga Weekend

Deborah Anne Medow

"The body is a boat which carries the soul in the ocean of the world. If it is not strong or it has a hole, then it can't cross the ocean. So the first duty is to fix the boat." —Baba Hari Dass

The primary focus of this workshop is to utilize the methods of the ancient system of ashtanga yoga in "fixing the leaky boat." Throughout this weekend a cleansing diet and various integrated sessions will be combined to encourage workshop participants to develop a solid basis for further development of the physical, mental, and spiritual aspects of yoga practice. Topics covered will include yoga theory, yoga purification and breathing exercises, and meditation, with particular emphasis on asanas (postures). $210

The Art of Self-Direction

Lenore Lefer

This workshop is about personal, social, and cultural change. It is about creating, initiating, and directing change as well as responding to those alterations that we seem not to choose. We will explore how to be casual around change and how to include our deepest values. Do we know what is meaningful, and how do we integrate that into our life? It is an art to lead a self-directed life that includes both personal and social responsibility.

Founded conceptually in psychosynthesis, the focus of this self-exploration will be experiential, using imagery, inner dialogue, meditation, and individual and group process. The environment will be supportive and evocative. This workshop is appropriate for professionals who deal with transitional crises in their own work. $210

Week of September 18–23

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $420

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $420

Surrender to Self

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

In a supportive and safe environment participants will utilize individual Reichian intensives, group interaction, bioenergetics, imagery, hypnosis, dance, and massage to discover new ways to soften, let go, and surrender to themselves and others. $420

Weekend of September 23–25

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $210

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods. $210 per participant

Frogs Into Princes: Practical Transformations

John Michael Grey & Eli Jaxon-Bear

If all of the world's a stage and we are the players, then who writes the script? Each day is an opportunity to participate in life and its evolution. This workshop focuses on developing the practical tools for self-transformation and an increased ability to communicate successfully with others. Problems are opportunities to grow in the areas of our lives that currently await transformation.

You may learn to expand your ability to gain perspective in any situation and develop the options for feelings and behaviors that better suit who you want to be. You may discover greater clarity in what it is you want and how to achieve it, professionally or personally. You may also find how the very limitations you encounter can be transformed into your allies for success.

Neurolinguistics presents an array of practical tools for people to assist themselves and others in achieving the changes they want in an unusually direct way. This experiential workshop will present the basic tools for helping people who are interested in transforming their own lives and for professionals who want to increase the range of their own current approaches. $210

Week of September 25–30

Frogs Into Princes: Practical Transformations

John Michael Grey & Eli Jaxon-Bear

For workshop description see September 23-25. $420

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $420

Five Day Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Peggy Morrison Horan

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tension, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $420

September 25–October 1

Cataract Canyon: An Outward Bound White Water Expedition

Coordinated by Nelson Chase of Colorado Outward Bound School & Steven Harper of Esalen

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $600

Weekend of September 30–October 2

Experiencing your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities.

They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $210

Re-printing: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Ericksonian), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in, and consider opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $210

Love, Power, and Relationship

Harry Sloan

Power without love and love without power create imbalance within the self and in relationships. The capacity to be both sensitive and strong, caring and independent, enhances the ability to relate in a balanced and meaningful way. The development of these basic qualities is unique for each of us, and often reflects our "growing edge" in relating. This weekend will be a time to explore the strengths and limitations within our relational patterns. Our purpose together will be to become aware of our next steps toward more fulfilling and joyful relationships. $210

Burnout: Causes and Cures

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who give service to others and who are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and creativity of their relationships with clients and colleagues. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $210

Week of October 2–7

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $420

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see September 9-11. $420

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationsips. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep us locked in obsolete behavior patterns. $420

Weekend of October 7–9

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

For workshop description see September 16-18. $210

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed." —M.C. Richards, Centering.

Stress related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness. Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf® movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $210

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

"In this form we become bridge between whole and unwhole, happy and sad, good and bad. We are thought form, the first thought as you, as mankind, assumed shape and the last thought as you choose to leave. What remains is afterthought or vibration as we know it, and so the form begins again. The vibration came before the chicken." —The NINE

"This workshop is an invitation to spend time with The NINE in dialogue and self-discovery. As they move to answer questions, they create a kind of language that bypasses the mental structures of the brain and enters through the pores of the body. It can be beyond expectation because it enters the space between all expectations and, caught unawares, you may find yourself looking at a reflection of yourself that is shockingly familiar, for there may be more of you than you ever believed possible. You may well be compelled to reach across that space between the masks you carry and the self you don't quite yet believe possible and so put the strain of your theater to rest for a while. All this through a meeting, a few questions that seem simple enough in the asking but may rebound in a way that strikes far beyond what you thought you asked. It is a very fast way to know yourself better, in a form that teaches through compassion, humor, intelligence, and a vital concern for the future of us and our planet."—Jenny O'Connor $210

Week of October 9–14

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $420

The Art of Self-Direction

Lenore Lefer

For workshop description see September 16-18. $420

Steve Beck

George Leonard with Werner Erhard

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

Participants will employ Radix® neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix® intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting, which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief or pain, fear and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexual feelings intensify and merge. $420

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow & Ruth Leveton

"To Touch and Feel is to Experience. Many people live out their entire lives without ever really Touching or being Touched by anything. . . . They do not live and become one with life."

—from Seven Arrows by Hyemeyohsts Storm.

Deborah writes, "For fifteen years I have been teaching and practicing yoga and various types of body work, developing my art of touching and moving, my inner and outer balance. Now, for the past three years, I have begun to work with the native American medicine ways. The blending of the Eastern Indian yogic tradition and the American Indian medicine ways has enabled me to touch more deeply inside myself, inside Mother Earth, and in my relations to all my fellow beings."

Ruth writes, "For the past four eyars, I have been leading wilderness and vision quest trips. My work integrates ancient native teachings and sacred movements with emerging ceremonial practices that apply to modern day-to-day life."

During these five days, classes in yogic cleansing methods, yoga theory, breath purifications, meditation, asanas, massage, and creative movement will be integrated with the teachings of the Western native people, drawing upon the ancient practices that specifically address our relationship to each other, ceremony, dreams, the medicine wheel, and the Earth. Weather permitting, at least one afternoon will be spent hiking in the Big Sur hills, consciously making a more meaningful contact with the land. Through the various practices taught, the workshop is designed to help participants move to a place of depth and more balance within themselves and in their relations with Mother Earth and all her inhabitants. $420

October 9–16

A Seven Day Workshop in Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics© Beginning Training

Betty Fuller

In this professional training, participants are instructed in Trager table work, receiving sessions from experienced practitioners as well as giving to and receiving from each other under supervision. In addition, participants learn to practice and teach mentastics, learn basic communication skills, clearing exercises, and simple meditations, and have time in group to share and process their experience. This training is open to professionals in education, body work, holistic health care, counseling, psychology, medicine, chiropractic, sports, performing arts, and other disciplines which see movement as a primary means of learning.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38.
$630

Weekend of October 14–16

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feelings of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $210

Successful Business Behavior for Women, or "Act like a lady, think like a man, and work like a dog."

Victoria Elliot

In this workshop we will learn about the social issues vs. the business issues of being a woman: how to make decisions better and faster; how to get to the bottom line; and how to communicate to get what you want from the people you work with. $210

Achieving Maximum Performance in Athletics

Joyce Hanna & Gerald Smith

Within each person's mindset there is a combination of attitudes toward performance which will allow a maximum effort in any athletic event. Since sports uniquely dramatize the human ability to surpass its limits, this workshop will have special emphasis on methods to overcome self-limiting expectations. Recent research in sports psychology, such as the effects of visual-motor behavior rehearsal, relaxation, and imagery on optimal performance, will be reviewed. The primary focus for the workshop will be enhancing your view of what is the best combination of attitudes and disciplines to allow for maximum performance. The following topics will be introduced: tailoring your own goal setting and reward process; handling feelings of boredom, pain, fatigue, and anxiety; dealing with ambivalent feelings toward success; overcoming self-defeating attitudes toward competition; strengthening the capacity for psychological endurance; using pre-match mental preparation; incorporating attentional focusing; preventing burnout. Participants will have an opportunity to design their own personalized maximum performance programs. $210

On Letting Go

Judyth Weaver

In everything we do we have a choice— but are we aware of it? We can perform stressfully or relaxed, we can have fun or suffer, we can act economically or wastefully, we can hold on tightly or let it go. The more we are in touch with our feelings and abilities the more choices we have available to us.

This workshop will focus on rediscovering awareness of self—mentally, physically, and spiritually—to develop and integrate as many options as possible. It is through this awareness that we can acquire choice of how to live.

We will work with deep sensings of our organism, gentle breathing methods for stress reduction, t'ai chi ch'uan for relaxed exercise, gestalt, movement, massage, and mediations, all designed to help integrate a sense of centered grounding and balance that can develop and enhance an economic, energetic, pleasurable, and effective life. $210

Week of October 16–21

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $420

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $420

Five Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 25-30. $420

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within.

Some of the areas to be touched upon this week include: recognizing and learning to release tensions which lock emotions in the body; ways of contacting and allowing unexpressed sadness and pain to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; practices for expressing and releasing anger constructively, which may open the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; learning about the nature of fear—moving toward greater trust of self and others. Paying special attention to the mental processes that shape the emotional and physical body, participants will be shown ways to trust their body's responsiveness and inner direction.

This workshop will utilize Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, vision improvement, massage, dance, meditation, and various other approaches. $420

Weekend of October 21–23

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $210

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Being close yet also free to grow individually is a most important theme in any intimate relationship. This weekend will be tailored to what each participant brings, and will provide structured experiences designed to enhance communication, help resolve conflict, raise self-esteem, and promote fun. Limited to ten couples. $210 per participant

The Moving Center

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

An American shamanic ritual using music, poetry, sacred dance, and ritual theater experiences to mirror the mind, catalyze the heart, and open the body as a channel for creative energies. Through collective rituals participants will explore individual dreams and visions and learn to share differences. $210

Stories

James Fadiman

Every tradition from the shamans of Australia to Jesus to Zen masters to the Sufis use teaching stories to open us up to alternative realities, to break down preconceptions, and to develop our inner resources. Stories are a form of non-invasive therapy and encourage non-righteous personal growth. We will use stories from the traditions to unlock our own doors and work with the story material using the full range of transpersonal methods to touch our own core. $210

Week of October 23–28

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 25-30. $420

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student, I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher, these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop is based on the attempt to evoke and balance psychodynamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $420

Unity

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

This is a five-day shamanic healing ritual designed to inspire and channel the religious, sexual, and creative aspects of life energy into unity and expression. Through music, sacred dance, poetry, and ritual theater processes, participants will explore and present their unique experiences of life's waves, rhythms, and cycles. The Moving Center tools are designed to release gifts, talents, and potentials. $420

Work Choices, Life Choices

John Caple

"Lieben und arbeiten," Freud answered, when asked what the normal person should be capable of. "To love and to work." In this workshop participants will explore the choices they make about work and the congruence of these choices with their life direction. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use art, body work, gestalt processes, and video feedback to seek answers and to consider life decisions.

This week is for those who want more value in their work, for career changers, potential career changers, re-entry persons, and those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual work/life issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs. $420

Weekend of October 28–30

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $210

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $210

Clairvoyant and Clairsentient Practices

Helen Palmer & Wendy Palmer

The two most identifiable aspects of internal perception are the ability to sense and the ability to act from a range of information that is unavailable to the thinking self. Clear sight and clear sensing have their historical bases of training in the traditions of visualization and martial arts practices.

This workshop will be an introduction to the internal practices that identify habits interfering with internal abilities and to the sitting and moving practices that can produce the state of mind in which the abilities occur. $210

A Journey into Wholeness: The Balancing of Masculine and Feminine in Relationships and Within Oneself

Peter Caddy

As the old and static patterns of relationships become less appropriate and more unworkable, many people are looking for new models and methods to achieve a balance in their business, home, and social relationships. Through personal sharings and drawing upon the collective experience of the group, this workshop will explore the meaning and dimensions of new age relationships, focusing on identifying and working with the masculine and feminine energies, both within each person and in a planetary context. $210

Beyond Paranoia: Shadow Knowledge or How to Dance with your Devil

Sam Keen

This workshop is about: making love, ending warfare, conflict resolution, renewing passion, and developing compassion.

It will focus on three great modes of warfare: the civil war within the divided self, the war between the sexes, and the political war between Us and Them.

It will make use of lectures, guided exercises, and sharing of stories to explore: the nature of paranoia, projection, and propaganda; disowning our shadows; denying forbidden emotions; projecting our unconscious vices and virtues onto wild men, wicked women, devils, demons, enemies, and creatures that go bump in the dark; the art of metanoia, repentence, changing our minds, reclaiming our projections, disarming the inner pentagon, surrendering defense mechanism, shedding character armor, and risking vulnerability.

It may help you: love your enemies, delight in the dark, befriend yourself, and embrace your shadow.

Please bring: a journal to write and draw in, pen and colored pencils, and an assortment of pictures of parents, family, friends, lovers, and enemies. $420

Week of October 30–November 4

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $420

Five Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 25-30. $420

Transpersonal Psychology: New Approaches to Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This workshop will explore theoretically and experientially the rapidly developing area of transpersonal psychology. The emphasis in experiential work will be on "holonomic integration," a method developed by the leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It mediates access not only to unresolved biographical issues, but to powerful death-rebirth experiences and a broad spectrum of transpersonal phenomena. Special attention will be paid to the problem of "spiritual emergencies" and constructive approaches to transpersonal crises. $420

Steve Beck

Weekend of November 4–6

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 16-18. $230

Psyche and Symbol

Joseph Campbell

Psyche and Symbol is a slide-illustrated introduction to those "archetypes of the unconscious" which are the structuring forces of mythological systems. Illustrations will be drawn from oriental and occidental mythologies, works of modern artists, and the visionary paintings of psychological patients. $230

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

An introduction to sensing, for more meaningful contact with our own nature and with the world around us.

How we relate to our deep inner needs, to other people, or to different tasks and situations depends on how we perceive them and how we trust our own findings. When perception is clear and full, we cannot make mistakes. Our whole organism is geared to respond appropriately. We have come, however, to see through a fog of preconceptions, a bewildering fabric of the ideas and judgements of others. Our own experience has been belittled; our perceptive faculties have lost their edge. The true I and the true you no longer meet. Both life and death have become often threatening fantasies.

Sensory awareness is a practice for rediscovering and reviving full sensory functioning. Through the gradual quieting of premature and inappropriate intellectual activity, it directs our attention both inward and outward to the actuality of the present moment. As perceptivity revives, true relationship becomes possible. Each everyday occasion in living gains its own freshness, its own uniqueness. We can become content again, like healthy children, as quality begins to make quantity unimportant. $230

Psychic Sense and Psychic Nonsense

Charles Tart

To believe that everything labeled "psychic" is true is stupid. To believe the psychic is nothing but nonsense is also stupid, and narrows your world. We can increase the possibilities in our lives by being intelligently open to the psychic or be susceptible to manipulation and delusion by failing to discriminate the true, the possible, the improbable, and the nonsensical.

This weekend will be a survey of what 100 years of scientific research on parapsychology has learned about the psychic, and some of its implications. We will discuss the reasons and the ways we fool ourselves about the psychic, but mainly survey cutting-edge developments in research, such as remote viewing, psychokinsesis on electronic devices, out-of-the-body experiences, and survival of death. Bring your hopes and your fears, your skepticism, and your intelligence!

Suggested reading: by Charles Tart: States of Consciousness, and Transpersonal Psychologies (Psychological Processes), Altered States of Consciousness (Dutton, N.Y.), On Being Stoned: Psychological Studies of Marijuana Intoxication (Science & Behavior Books, Palo Alto); with Harold Puthoff & Russel Targ: Mind at Large (Praeger, N.Y.) $230

November 4–27

Explorations in the Mythological Dimension

Joseph Campbell

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 34. $1600

Week of November 6–11

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver

For workshop description see November 4-6. $450

The Turning Point: Crisis and Transformation in Science and Society

Fritjof Capra

This workshop will offer the opportunity of an in-depth exploration of the paradigm shift that is going to dominate this decade—a shift from a fragmented, mechanistic world view to an ecological vision of reality which is spiritual in its ultimate essence. The discussions will include the fields of physics, biology, systems theory, health care, economics, ecology, and politics. There will be ample time for relaxed, informal exchanges of ideas. Contacts will also be made with other Esalen leaders to facilitate experiential approaches to the new vision of reality. $450

Open Seat

Paul Rebillot

Paul Rebillot writes, "The concept of 'open seat' is an open space into which people may enter in order to work through their resistances, express their feelings, and reorder their way of being in the world. As a gestalt facilitator I help people find ways of healing themselves by combining the principles of gestalt with concepts of ritual and theater. I assist people in working with their subconscious material, such as dreams and fantasies, in order to augment their ways of living and dealing with day to day problems. I encourage people to become more expressive in all ways: in their personal lives; in their communities; and in the political situations to which they feel committed. I can help people develop a clear sense of responsibility, not only for their own life process, but also for the world." $450

Liberation at the Moment of Death

Sogyal Rinpoche

What happens to us when we die, and how can we help others who are dying? Based on ancient Buddhist knowledge, such as the Tibetan Book of The Dead, this seminar will provide practical information to health-care professionals and lay people who want to know how to give the most effective and compassionate care for the dying.

Death can best be understood in terms of life, and through overcoming fears caused by ignorance, fear of pain, fear of the unknown, and fear of the coming separation from life and loved ones.

New Dimensions in Care For The Dying Nov. 4–6, 1983

This conference is concerned with Eastern and Western perspectives on death and their applications in medical care. Oriented to medical professionals and others who work with the dying, the conference seeks to open the door to a new understanding of death which synthesizes current near-death research, the experience of health care professionals working with the dying, and insights from ancient Buddhist teachings.

Presentations include:

The Experiences of the Dying and Their Relevance to the Living – Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, clinical psychiatrist and internationally respected counselor, lecturer and author of numerous books on caring for the dying, including, On Death and Dying, Questions and Answers on Death and Dying, and To Live Until We Say Goodbye.

Current Findings in Near Death Research – Dr. Kenneth Ring, professor of psychology at the University of Connecticut, author of Life At Death, the first published scientific research on near death experiences.

The Process of Dying and Death – Ven. Sogyal Rinpoche, a Tibetan lama and specialist in the traditional knowledge associated with the Tibetan Book of the Dead, and director of a special project with the Scientific and Medical Network in London.

Comprehensive Care of the Dying – Dr. Charles Garfield, founder of the Shanti Project, a counseling support group for dying patients, faculty member at the UCSF School of Medicine, and editor of The Psychosocial Care of the Dying Patient.

New Perspectives in Critical Care and Suicide – Kimberly Clark, M.S.W. in an Intensive Care Unit, and faculty member of the University of Washington Medical School.

The conference will also include workshops, film, and dialogues between conference participants and speakers.

Joyce Rogers

Sogyal Rinpoche

Co-sponsored by: Esalen Institute, the University of California Extension, Santa Cruz, and the International Association for Near Death Studies.

Place: The University of California at Santa Cruz

To register, or for more information, contact:

Adrienne Van Gelder
University of California Extension
Santa Cruz, Ca. 95064
(408) 429-2971

To prepare for death, we need to learn to use life skillfully, letting go when change occurs. What continues after we die is mind. If we learn to know our mind, we learn to know ourselves. Then all our inner fears and neuroses are resolved, and we gain an inner trust and confidence which finds expression as compassion, the basis of helping ourselves and others effectively in life and death.

During this course, Rinpoche will describe the actual processes that take place at the moment of death and after, and how the caregivers can help the dying person prepare for death. Practical training will be given on how to prepare for one's own death in life, and through developing awareness of the sleep and dream state, which is itself a little like death. Rinpoche will discuss how the family can best help the dying person, and how they can practice mourning effectively. $450

Weekend of November 11–13

The Romance of Peace: The Art of War

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Chungliang describes this workshop as a t'ai chi discourse and practice based on his forthcoming book, a new interpretation and application of the 2,500-year old Wisdom of Sun Tzu, the Chinese classic, " . . . expanding visions of the universal harmony through the active art of Inner and Outer war-to-peace. Explore and examine this eternal quest, East and West, in history, mythology, and current affairs through individual discipline and self-cultivation to global networking."

Recommended reading: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $230

Classical Mysteries of the Great Goddess

Joseph Campbell

Opening with a slide-illustrated review of her earliest documented appearances in the late Paleolithic, Early Neolithic, and Bronze Ages, these talks will give special attention to the historical interaction of these mythologies of the Great Goddess of Many Names with the later Homeric and Mosaic patriarchal systems. The discussions will conclude with an examination of the late mystery cults of Eleusis and Dionysus as background to an understanding of the Early Christian reinterpretation of her symbols. $230

The Soviet View of Soviet Life and Soviet-American Relations

Yuri Zamoshkin

Yuri Zamoshkin, a Soviet philosopher and sociologist, will discuss aspects of contemporary Soviet culture that are little understood in the West. He will also present his perspective on Soviet-American relations. Dr. Zamoshkin is head of a department in the Soviet Academy Institute for the U.S.A. and Canada that studies American culture and public opinion. $230

November 13–December 9

Month Long Professional Body Work Intensive

Dub Leigh

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 34 & 35. $1800

Week of November 13–18

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

The Quantum Mechanical View of Reality

Richard Feynman, assisted by Ralph Leighton, Faustin Bray & Brian Wallace

This workshop will be a discussion of how the world looks from the point of view of modern quantum physics, wave-particle duality, the uncertainty principle, indeterminance, the question of hidden variables, Bell's theorem, and the Einstein-Podolsky-Rosen paradox. These otherwise difficult ideas will be discussed in a leisurely and relaxed manner, interspersed with sessions of primitive drums playing, yoga, and eclectic experiential events to help integrate the information pleasurably. Participants are invited to bring rhythm instruments.

Recommended reading: Character of Physical Law, Richard P. Feynman (MIT Press, 1965). $450

Quantum Soup: For the Gourmets of Living

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

"This will be a special tribute to the philosophical entertainment of Alan W. Watts (January 6, 1915 - November 18, 1973), offering Chinese 'dim sum' (a light touch of heart) profundities, t'ai chi dancing (quantum hop), laughter, poetry and I Ching in Chinese brush calligraphy, music of J.S. Bach and JAZZ-Z-ZEN and TAO and OZ of living."

Recommended reading: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $450

Weekend of November 18–20

Arthurian Traditions of Courtly Love and the Grail

Joseph Campbell

The "Waste Land" theme of T. S. Eliot, traced to its source in the twelfth and thirteenth century grail legends; the influence of oriental themes on medieval poetry; the mystical lore of the Courts of Love; spiritually as an individual adventure; woman as a vehicle of grace; love and loyalty as forces more powerful than death; these and the like will be the topics of this weekend. Legends of the Celtic fairy hills and of medieval crusades will be our texts. $230

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an intense introduction to intraphysic work using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice.

Reichian work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration the possibility is opened to come to a truer concept of self, with an expanded ability to respond in the present. This workshop is limited to ten participants. $230

Politics That Heal: Gandhi Today

John Graham

The film Gandhi is raising the same questions in thousands of minds. What is the link today between spiritual truth and political effectiveness? Can we solve problems like nuclear war, unemployment, and decaying cities without using the same "me-against-you" thinking that causes them? Is any healing vision powerful enough to challenge the patterns of fear and separation that underlie today's conflicts?

The answer is "Yes," and Politics That Heal explains why. You will be taught: to find the source of personal power in the clarity of your own vision and purpose; to use that power effectively, solving problems by finding common ground with an "opponent" and building on it; to communicate with force, clarity, and compassion; to deal more effectively with the "can'ts" and "won'ts" and fears that can undermine your will to act; to keep your spiritual bearings under pressure, using confrontation as an opportunity for growth and healing; to boost your practical skills in areas like managing a project, resolving a conflict, and speaking in public; and to see your life as a blueprint for the world you want.

Graham says, "We need to accept our potential to shape our lives and our world. We need to see political and social change as Gandhi did, not as an end in itself, but as an opportunity for changing lives. I spent fifteen

Joyce Rogers

Aperture photographers' conference at Esalen years in the Foreign Service and I know well the political and emotional obstacles that can cloud this vision. My experience is that finding intellectual answers is the easy part; real effectiveness in solving problems flows from saying "yes" to the power of the spirit, from understanding that we can co-create with God." $230

Black Dance and Massage

James Xavier Nash & Peggy Morrison Horan

This workshop will explore the styles and rituals of Black dance in contemporary American society with high-low energy, both sensual and sexual, using rhythm and syncopation, hand clapping, foot stomping, African drums, chanting, and recorded popular Black music. Massage sessions at the hot baths will complement the dance. $230

Week of November 20–25

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

"A dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened."—Talmud.

Each night we receive brilliant, insightful, creative communiques disguised in poetic imagery. In this workshop we will explore how to use our dreams for personal growth, insight, creativity, and problem solving. Participants will discover that any dream, however fragmentary or prosaic, can offer entry to a new world of insight. Methods for dream discovery will include exercises in dream recall, Senoi dream practices, mandala drawing, gestalt dream work, and psychosynthesis. $450

Somewhere Between Freedom and Security

Phyllis Shankman

Living is often experienced as a delicate balance between one's desire for personal freedom or growth and the need for security and attachment. In this workshop, participants will explore the issues of independence/dependence, self-esteem, trust, risk-taking, work, love, and relationship. During the week, participants will use meditation, massage, music, movement, and the Esalen/Big Sur environs to slow down, relax, open, and experience themselves fully. Gestalt process work will be used to increase self-awareness. $450

Taoism and Buddhism

John Blofeld

John Blofeld will come to Esalen to lecture and discuss his more than forty years of studying and living in Asia and writing about Far Eastern religions. Lectures will be informal and there will be time for questions and answers. $450

Weekend of November 25–27

Exploring Self Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see October 28-30. $230

James Joyce and Pablo Picasso: Mythology in Twentieth Century Literature and Art

Joseph Campbell

Grounded from early youth in both the Classical and Christian strains of European philosophy and art, these two culminating artists of the European twentieth century brought to contemporary focus, in their mythologically informed masterworks, the perennial themes of our complex Occidental spiritual heritage. In this weekend of lectures and exhibited slides, their remarkably similar transformations in art and consciousness will be reviewed as typifying not only the histories of these two front-runners of our times, but also the basic spiritual problems of us all in this century of wars and revelations. $230

The Two-Career Couple

Ayala Pines

With a growing number of women choosing a career as an integral part of their adult life, couples are increasingly faced with the challenges involved in balancing two careers and a home.

When both partners are involved in a full time career about which they care deeply, they have to deal with the inherent conflict between the pull of the career and the pull of the relationship about which they care equally deeply. The tight line between career and intimacy often includes such issues as: sharing of household chores; changing sex role stereotypes; time; money; burnout; jealousy; power.

The weekend workshop is intended for two-career couples interested in exploring these and similar issues, and who are committed to increasing intimacy, sharing, and growth in their relationship. $230

Week of November 27–December 2

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $450

Integrative Body Work

Gael Switzer & Vicki Topp

This is a special massage workshop which utilizes Rolf® Movement Integration. Based on the theories of Ida Rolf, Rolf® Movement Integration teaches the principles of physical strength, support, grace, and ease. This workshop will begin with specific exercises which promote an easy and open physical structure. Participants will then be shown how to apply these same exercises and principles while learning to give an effective, integrative massage. $450

Symptom as Metaphor

Jeff Kane & Ronnie Paul

"It is more important to know what kind of patient has a disease than what kind of disease the patient has."—Sir William Osler

Contrary to popular concept, disease does not "strike" randomly. Patterns are perceptible. Massive current evidence points toward the conclusion that disease is inextricably connected to diet, stress factors, exercise, and attitudes. In short, disease is somehow related to the way we lead our lives.

This principle dovetails with the concept that the body is not an insensate sack of enzymes, but the physical vehicle for the continual, deliberate expression of the mind. That is, disease may be fruitfully seen as a physiologically encoded, translatable message about our state of being. This approach is neither alternative nor antithetical to allopathic medicine. It is a necessary complement. Patients need to examine and adjust their lives while physicians attend to their physical aspect. This course will invite participants to incorporate these concepts into their own practice. Practitioners may, in turn, educate their patients about the healing benefits of deep relaxation, voluntary pain control, and physiological manipulation. This course utilizes yoga to bring awareness to a symptom, imagery to translate the symptom into an existential statement, and therapeutic dialogue to initiate the appropriate behavioral change. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $450

Applied Vulnerability

Donald Michael

Don Michael writes: "In my work to help organizations and individuals plan more intelligently for the future, I've come to feel that the main task we face in the next crucial twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This sounds simple and obvious on the surface, but consider for a moment how much time we spend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing and how to do it. There is a parallel between what happens when people begin to pay close attention to the processes of their mind (in meditation, for instance), and when they begin to study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of our world: in both cases, we begin to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and social beings. Far from this realization being something to be ashamed of, the recognition of our ignorance about our situation is the starting point for embracing our ignorance and for the profound sense of vulnerability it entails. Only then does it become possible for us to feel compassion, for ourselves and for our fellows.

"During our time together I will introduce several skills, or what I call 'new competences,' which follow from compassion and which open the possibility for humane and just responses to personal and social crises. These skills include acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future responsive, goal setting, self knowledge, and interpersonal competence. The focus is on applying these skills directly in our lives—in the decisions we make in the workplace as well as in family situations, and in all the various circumstances in which we have the chance to make ignorance and uncertainty our best teachers. My experience has been that, even in so short a period as this workshop, as we learn to be more comfortable with our uncertainty, we can win freedom from the need to act over-cautiously and conservatively out of fear of making a mistake and from the need for those defensive, self-protecting, interpersonal posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. The workshop is appropriate for those who are interested in applying these skills to their personal lives as well as for persons interested in professional and vocational applications. $450

Weekend of December 2–4

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $230

The Intelligent Body

Thomas Hanna

This weekend workshop will present a series of somatic exercises designed to increase the overall intelligence of the body. The intelligent body is maximally self-aware and self-regulatory. The somatic exercises that will be presented are gentle and fascinating ways of changing brain patterns which control movement. The exercises can be continued at home for further improvement and can also be taught to others. During the weekend, exercises will be done with all joints of the body, with special attention paid to enhanced breathing, balance while sitting or standing, and the posture of the lower back and head/neck region.

Above and beyond the physiological effects of this workshop, the weekend will be an enjoyable, fascinating adventure in self-discovery. Participants will be introduced to the "somatic" realm where the body and mind interact to improve the total functioning of the person. Recommended reading: The Body of Life, Thomas Hanna. $230

Building From a Place of Beauty: A Workshop for Gay Women and Men

Sally Smith & Joan Brozovich

Joan and Sally write, "Even though long out of the closet, gay women and men still feel the burden of oppression. This workshop questions how much of this is internalized oppression and how much is still due to a homophobic society.

"Participants will have the opportunity to examine how their own internal presuppositions are restrictive, self-limiting, and actually may contribute to the phenomenon of oppression.

"Join us if you believe it is time to move with courage beyond your barriers of fear into a more universally loving place." $230

Week of December 4–9

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Five Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 25-30. $450

Weekend of December 9–11

Intuition Practice

Helen Palmer

This seminar teaches the identification of personal intuition systems that can be made accessible by internal focusing practices, or that may already be operating in unrecognized ways. The practices develop the ability to discriminate between personal thoughts, fantasies projected from personal thinking, and impressions received from situations outside the self. The psychic aspect of intuition rests on the ability to shift attention from the self to impressions received from outside the self. $230

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body"—James Joyce

Elisa writes, "This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used." $230

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ian Macnaughton

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes. Our sense of the body is lessened and our connectedness is diminished.

In this workshop body approaches and dream work will be incorporated to teach us how to trust more fully in our bodies rather than kill our excitement and passion. Through a vital sense of the body and feelings we can understand our dreams, impulses, and actions more deeply, and can begin to re-own our inner selves. Avenues will be explored in developing a sense of pleasure, ease, and self-esteem. Without storming our citadels by force, we can soften body armor by allowing the body to express itself, in its own language, within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $230

The Therapeutic Approaches of Milton H. Erickson, M.D.

Jane Parsons & Francis Lu

This is a course designed for professionals in the mental health field. Dr. Erickson's approaches are of particular value because of his exquisite understanding of the use of verbal and nonverbal communication to affect physiological changes. A clinician who knows how to talk to a patient's unconscious mind, which Erickson defines as a rich storehouse of learning potential, can call upon abilities and experiences unique to that patient and can evoke hitherto unrecognized strengths and "patterns of happiness." These patterns can come alive even in a hospital bed and can have powerful therapeutic effects.

This course will teach clinicians to discover and develop their own unique resources that will enhance and refine their therapeutic methods and that will enable them to sharpen their sensory skills so that they can understand and utilize minimal nonverbal responses.

Dr. Erickson's understanding of how the mind works will be explored didactically and experientially. We will watch his training sessions on video, and will integrate these with practical exercises that gradually build up technical skills. Clinicians will be invited to present cases for discussion.

"Workshop attendance is limited to mental health professionals with graduate degrees (M.S., Ph.D., M.S.W., D.D.S., etc.) in health related fields from accredited institutions and to graduate students in accredited programs in the above fields who supply a letter from their departmental chairperson certifying their student status."—Jane Parsons.

Recommended reading: My Voice Will Go With You, Sidney Rosen, (Norton & Co., N.Y.); by Jay Haley: Uncommon Therapy, (Norton & Co., N.Y.), Strategies of Psychotherapy, and Advanced Techniques of Hypnosis and Therapy: Selected Papers of Milton Erickson, (Grune & Stratton, N.Y.).

C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $230

Week of December 11–16

A Week with Will Shutz $450

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see October 23-28. $450

The Evolution of Intelligence: A "How To" Seminar

Timothy Leary & Friends

Leary says, "It is useful and amusing to accept two premises: 1.) that few human beings use more than .000,001 (one millionth) of their available brain-potential; most of us are, in fact, robots programmed by our brains, and 2.) that once an individual learns how to program the brain, then the probabilities of accelerated personal growth are limitless.

"This seminar will consider 24 levels/types of intelligence, 24 stages of neuro-technology through which a human being can develop. Participants will be encouraged to take and analyze newly devised test-questionnaires which will allow assessment of their lives in terms of intelligence increase, from infancy and childhood to adolescence and beyond; and to write detailed life programs for multiplying intelligence in each of the 24 dimensions.

"Evolutionary competence in the following vectors will be studied: biological intelligence; emotional intelligence; mental-intellectual intelligence; social intelligence; sensory-erotic-aesthetic intelligence; brain-computer intelligence; genetic intelligence; and metaphysiological (out-of-body) intelligence." $450

Creative Attachment: The Art of Making Affectional Bonds

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others; a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including emotional detachment, depression, and burn-out. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $450

A Voice/Body Workshop

Owen James & David Smukler

The objective of the workshop is to examine perceptions of how the body and voice are used so that we can free both the natural voice and body. To undertake this objective, physical, emotional, and vocal exercises will be practiced individually and in groups to apply the following theories: by awakening to the differences between the extrinsic body-mind and the intrinsic core intelligence, the resultant openess and availability of the body can allow the free flow of communications; by rooting the voice in the body through the examination of habitual patterns and perceptions; and by giving permission to the voice to be transparent to thoughts, feelings, and impulses. $450

Weekend of December 16–18

A Special Weekend at Esalen

Except for two introductory workshops, we have set aside this weekend for all those Esalen friends who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and contact with the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual, and we will have Big Sur musicians and dancers as part of the weekend's activities. $120

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 10. $230

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description, see page 11. $230

Joyce Rogers

Week of December 18–23

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

For workshop description see October 7-9. $450

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow & Ruth Leveton

For workshop description see October 9-14. $450

Christmas Present

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

We've idealized birth in the Christmas story—the newborn child surrounded by adoring parents, singing angels, comforting animals; worshipped by the wise and the simple, welcomed into the world and loved for nothing that he does, but for simply being who he is. Most of us were not welcomed in that way, and at Christmastime our disillusionment

Joyce Rogers

The Farm

peaks. Our despondency and regrets are based on unfulfilled ideals, promises, and fairy tales. Using gestalt, guided fantasy, theater games, and rituals, we will seek to release ourselves from the excess baggage of past regrets and future expectations in order to return to the divine simplicity of our own present being. Out of that simplicity, we will create our own "Christmas present," a celebration in which each of us singly and all of us together can give ourselves our self for Christmas. $450

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is very rare for most people to use painting purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to do it just for the process of exploration, not for the result. This workshop will focus on the painting experience as a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to creative expression. Emphasis will be placed on the practical experience of creative painting in which participants are given support and stimulation to discover a natural way of painting based directly on feeling. The mechanisms and patterns that prevent creative action will be discussed in order to integrate understanding with experience. The work will take place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, and a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. An audio-visual program will illustrate the development of inner expression during the painting process. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

$450 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of December 23–25

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see October 28-30. $230

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

In this introductory seminar participants will learn to give a competent full-body massage. The emphasis will be on developing a soothing and penetrating contact, on sustaining that contact to create a relaxing and integrating experience, and on centering physical and mental energies while working. The intent of the seminar is to introduce massage as a practical approach to developing greater sensory awareness and bringing relief from stress. $230

Gestalt Workshop

Marty Fromm

This workshop is designed for professionals who are interested in further personal growth and professional training in the practice of gestalt, as well as for others who are simply interested in their own personal growth through gestalt. While the sessions will be mostly experiential, ample time will be provided for didactic sessions of theory and practice.

The focus is on awareness: the discovery of what is, rather than on what was, might be, or should be. We will concentrate on "how and now" rather than on "why and because" of past and future, and will attend to body language and feelings. $230

Week of December 25–30

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see October 2-7. $450

Healer as Visionary: A Workshop in the Teaching of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

To see into a person's essence, into the heart and soul beneath the defenses, is the first step the psychic healer takes when confronted with someone who needs healing. To then mirror back this essence, over and over during the healing process, affords the person an opportunity to choose this vision of wholeness.

Almost everyone has wished, at times, to be able to reach someone who needs healing, but who seems to be resistant. This workshop is for both non-professionals and professionals who would like to be taught how to make the kind of healing contact that can lead to transformation.

The workshop will explore: the physical, psychic, and spiritual dimensions of energy; the blocking of energy that can lead to the formation of illness; the will to live, the will to die; illness and death as learning, not punishment; releasing judgment and allowing forgiveness; requirements for recovery in long term, short term, and instantaneous healing; the role of the healer; and channeling healing energy through the heart, eyes, voice, and laying on of hands. $450

Effecting Change: The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

This is a week for recognizing the relationship between personal growth / change and economic / environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern for your individual energy system to provide more stable contact with the difficulties of the emerging decade.

The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the system's movement towards maturity is the development of the consistency of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character, strong emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of strength development leads each of us to develop compensations in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some of the obvious are psychosomatic problems, blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, things is often a major compensation for the strength that allows us the experience of self, people, and things.

Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations, trusting self and the group process enough to experiment with mobilizing more energy. This means rendering more alive the strength of the physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result is clarity and stability and a deeper awareness of the balance of self as we contact the very real issues of the coming decade. For further information, read the December 30-January 1 workshop description. $450

December 25–January 1

A Seven Day Workshop in Gestalt Synergy: An Integrative Approach to Self Actualization

Ilana Rubenfeld

The sea always has waves . . . waves are the sea . . . sea and waves are one. To speak of waves apart from the sea is a delusion—so mind and body are one!

The focus in this workshop will be on experiencing one's own body and emotions as a total organism. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tension and imbalance. A unique blend of gestalt, Alexander method, and Feldenkrais exercises will be used as a gateway to contacting, expressing, and working through deep feelings. Massage staff will be on hand to assist the workshop.

We have the choice to contact ourselves and each other with joy, sadness, compassion, humor, ideas, and with the body—the whole person. $680

Weekend of December 30–January 1

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

The human being's movement toward a stable and balanced organism undergoes many adjustments in direct proportion to his/her responses to parental and environmental messages. The result is the formulation of stratified patterns of visible physiology and behavior. These join to form that which is usually called personality, one's individual energy system. Two common examples of energy system responses to life stress are those personalities who collapse under stress and those who control. There are many more. This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit intrapersonal and interpersonal contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. For additional information read December 25-30 description. $230

Awakening the Healer Within: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Every human being is a potential channel for healing energy. Negative conditioning of our emotions, or unconscious beliefs and behavior, combined with environmental factors such as polluton, can give birth to dissociated parts of self which act as impediments to our natural healing abilities. Studies have shown the reality of psychic awareness, in which a person cannot only better understand his/her own functioning, but actually heal and psychically ward off illness.

This workship will provide a didactic and experiential model for participants to gain a perspective on psychic healing, and the basic skills necessary to develop healing abilities in themselves. Channeling of energies will be taught, along with methods of dissolving impediments to the healing process. $230

Week of January 1–6

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see September 18-13. $450

The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing for the Health Professional

Jack Downing & Murray Korngold

The "art" of healing is seldom taught as a rational discipline. We propose that empathy between care-giver and care-receiver can form the base for the "art" of healing; that conscious empathy can be developed through the faculty of intuition, and that this skill provides a matrix for joining effective healing to scientific knowledge. The health professional becomes a healer. Healing demands the deepest intent from the professional; the balance between professionalism and personal feelings must be adjusted in order to enhance the healing process. Key to this is the willingness to sense and respond to subtle body cues, both in oneself and the patient. The course will provide lecture and practical experience on empathy development and application to clinical situations. C. E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $450

Perceptual Body

Rosemary Feitis & R. Louis Schultz

Perceptual body was created by three advanced Rolf® practitioners as a pre-Rolfing® training. The workshop is a new way of seeing the body, using eyes, ears, nose, throat, hands, and hara. (The hara is an energy center located two fingers below the navel. It is the basic moving center of the body, known as the tan t'ien in Zen practice.) The emphasis is on non-linear approaches and unorthodox methods of viewing/integrating the body image (yours and others), through living anatomy, palpation, and Rolf® movement. This introduction to a new kind of perception is a distillation of the original fourteen day course. $450

Weekend of January 6–8

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies

Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul and Chungliang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, and China experiences.

Recommended reading and listening: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon); Paul Horn's Albums: Inside, Nexus, and Dream Machine. $250

Maps of Consciousness

Rosemary Feitis & Timothy O'Reilly

Have you ever had a powerful spiritual experience, a feeling or an insight, that trickled away because you didn't know how to stay with it or what to do next? Such a moment points out the need for maps of consciousness which place experiences in context and which show the way through unknown territories of the body, mind, and spirit to the next point of completion.

This workshop will teach fundamentals of consciousness mapping including completing states by finding the balance between being, energy, understanding, and identity as well as the relationship between surrender and decision-making. $230

Week of January 8–13

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies

Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 6-8. $470

Advanced Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This workshop will include morning and afternoon practice sessions with various instructors, yoga, movement, evening lectures and discussions, and demonstrations of specific practices designed to increase the range of conditions with which participants can deal effectively. The following concerns will receive emphasis: how to sustain one's energy through a day of treatments; how to clear negative energy released by the client; how to use weight and leverage. As one massages more and more deeply, emotional changes can be triggered by the unravelling of blocked muscular energy. As these emotions present themselves, they will provide group members with some first hand practice in productive ways to move through them.

The format and pace of this course will presume some previous massage experience—at least an introductory five day intensive or its equivalent. $450

January 8–February 3

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman, Hareesh & faculty: Deborah Anne Medow

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 35. $1800

Weekend of January 13–15

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see September 23-25. $230

Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Celebrating with Chungliang's book, "offering Chinese 'dim sum' (a light touch of heart) profundities, tai ji dancing (quantum hop), laughter, poetry and I Ching in Chinese brush calligraphy, music of J. S. Bach and JAZZZZZEN and TAO and OZ of living."

Recommended reading: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $230

Week of January 15–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see September 25-30. $450

The Spiritual Path: Promises and Pitfalls

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This seminar will combine observations from modern consciousness research with various traditional practices to explore the process of spiritual awakening. The participants will have the opportunity to confront transpersonal areas within themselves, using "holonomic integration," a method developed by the workshop leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. Special attention will be paid to the understanding and management of "spiritual emergencies"—transpersonal crises which can occur in the context of various spiritual practices or spontaneous spiritual awakening. $450

Weekend of January 20–22

Weekend Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see December 23-25. $230

See Yourself Release

Gael Switzer & Wendy Oser

This workshop seeks to expand self-image and promote a freer, more graceful body. We will use facilitated video feedback and integrated movement education to gently guide you toward releasing patterns of holding that contribute to tension, pain, and awkwardness, and a limited view of yourself. You may experience subtle yet powerful shifts, first in ordinary activities (breathing, walking, sitting), then in more sophisticated areas such as how you use your body in work, play, or any other movement discipline. You will be taught skills that will continue to enhance your elegance and allow you to see yourself with greater objectivity and compassion. $230

January 20–27

Shamanic Healing, Journeying, and the Afterlife Experience: Basic and Intermediate Shamanic Practice

Michael Harner, assisted by Sandra Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and acting on that learning, especially for well-being and healing. In this experiential workshop the participants will practice the methods of the shaman (a type of medicine man or woman), to see and to activate power to resist illness and maintain personal health. With the aid of traditional sonic-driving and dancing methods, the group will engage in archetypal exercises and rituals practiced by North and South American Indian shamans to awaken dormant human capabilities and forgotten connections with the powers of nature. Training will include shamanic journeys to both the Lower- and Upperworlds for knowledge and power, work with animal and plant powers, divination, clairvoyance, and shamanic methods of healing, including the extraction of spiritual pain and illness. There will be an introduction to the Ghost Dance method and to shamanic ways of exploring the afterlife experience. Participants will be taught shamanic methods of helping the terminally ill and their families, and the work of the shaman as psychopomp or conductor of souls.

This rare seven-day workshop is both for beginners and for those who have previously taken a workshop with Michael Harner.

It is recommended that participants read beforehand Michael Harner's book, The Way of the Shaman: a Guide to Power and Healing (Bantam; also Harper & Row), and bring a notebook and pen to preserve their experiences for their own shamanic development. They are also invited to bring drums and rattles. $680

Joyce Rogers

Highway One south of Esalen

January 20–February 17

Tutorial Program in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $2300

Week of January 22–27

A Healthier Way To Goal Achievement

Neil Fiore

Neil Fiore writes, "As a former cancer patient I have used my training in psychology and hypnosis to cope with the stresses of my disease and its medical treatment. Since then I have altered my lifestyle and have worked with patients and caregivers on the maintenance of self-esteem in the face of uncontrollable stressors, active participation in one's own health care, and on systems for creatively and joyfully engaging in the challenges of life. It is my belief that the will to live is kept robust when one sees that life, even following a traumatic event, can be lived with great effectiveness and less distress.

"The purpose of this workshop is to teach you how to work in harmony with the needs and inner wisdom of your mind and body. We will draw on elements from stress management, the hypnotic approaches of Dr. Milton H. Erickson, and cognitive-behavior methods to teach the identification of internal dialogue and beliefs that elicit the stress response, rapid trance induction for focusing on tasks and overcoming blocks, and methods for quickly recovering from set-backs while refocusing on the task at hand." This workshop may be of particular interest to both health-care professionals and individuals with stress related illnesses. C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $450

Gestalt Process for Daily Living

Paul Rebillot

Paul writes: "My purpose for this workshop is to teach basic gestalt theory in such a way as to make it immediately accessible and practical for day to day living. Frequently in conversation emotional material emerges that interferes with the here-and-now contact people are making. Friends and couples, as well as individuals, can learn to use gestalt tools to facilitate one another's, or their own, emotional work whenever the material comes up—without having to wait until the next therapy session.

"Participants will be taught how to take responsibility for their own feelings and the expression of those feelings and how to find the appropriate moment and situation for that expression.

"Dance, theater games, drama, ritual, and chanting will be used to create experiences that will communicate the concepts of gestalt more thoroughly.

"I will also work with people individually and facilitate group members working with each other in small groups and dyads." $450

Weekend of January 27–29

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Love, Power, and Relationship

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see September 30-October 2. $230

The Power of the Holy Dragon Today

Gioia Timpanelli

The dragon has been a vivid and powerful image in many of the world's mythologies, legends, and household stories (fairytales). As such, its strong energy has had a major influence on both the inner and outer lives of individuals in the past.

In this seminar, Gioia will discuss specific "dragon stories" to define and describe this energy and to help us understand its effect on our lives today. Themes to be discussed include heroines, heroes and dragons; the dragon in the world today; the holy and generative forces of the "first reptile"; divine dragonwomen and men; dragons and virgins; and dragons and jewels.

Seminar participants will hear the stories which will provide the oral text for the weekend workshop. Slides of Eastern and Western dragon images will be shown and discussed. Participants are asked to know one myth, legend, or household tale in which a dragon appears a a central character. $230

Week of January 29–February 3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see October 7-9. $450

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

This is a weekend of intense body work, structured for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which is reflected in the body as armor, tension, stress, and a lack of spontaneity. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released and more positive feelings of joy, love, trust, and pleasure can be experienced more fully.

A most important feature of the workshop is the individual Radix®-Reichian intensive, done in a safe, supportive environment. By also using dreamwork, hypnosis, chiropractic, bioenergetics, massage, dance, and group interaction as one lets go/moves on, a new capacity for living can emerge. $450

Joyce Rogers

Weekend of February 3–5

Introducing Hands-On Computer at Esalen

Tom Taussig & Wendy Oser

"Hands on at Esalen" no longer refers exclusively to the many bodywork practices available at Esalen. It also means that during this weekend seminar, participants will be introduced to the potentials of the home computer revolution. Specifically, participants can expect to be taught the fundamentals of these computer processes: word processing; text entry and editing; and file manipulation, including copying, storing, retrieving, and printing your work.

This seminar is designed for persons with no hands-on computer experience, for potential computer whizzes of all ages, backgrounds, and educational levels. In fact, one purpose of the workshop is to dispel the common notion about computers, expressed by a New York computer mogul: "If you were born before 1965, boy, you're going to be out of it." ("Here Come the Microkids," Time, May 3, 1982.) If anything, the evidence is to the contrary; it appears that most people are quick computer learners, depending on their goals and intentions. The leaders wish to show that far from being miraculous, magical, or demonic, home computers are simply a valuable tool for creating and producing with greater ease and efficiency.

Bring a current project to work with: a letter, journal, chapter of your book, or dissertation. Bring your partner and learn the "intimacies of software" together. Most of all, bring an open mind and a willingness to learn something new. Come prepared to dissipate stress related to your written and organizational work—as well as to your attitude toward computers. By registering 30 days in advance, you can be assured of the use of a portable Osborne computer throughout the workshop. $230

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Saul-Paul Sirag

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation. $230

Medical Self-Care: New Directions in Patient Education

David Sobel

A new strategy is needed to address current health problems—one which acknowledges the critical importance of individual lifestyle and behavior and equips people to become active agents in their own health care. Lay people and self-help groups are increasingly being recognized as the primary resource in the health care system. Health professionals are entering into partnerships with patients in which traditionally passive patients are encouraged to take an active, responsible, and effective role in their health care. This course will explore the importance of lay people in self-diagnosis, self-treatment, and health promotion. The emphasis will be on how health professionals can learn practical ways to teach self-care skills to patients. Topics will include: the role of lifestyle and individual behavior in health; self-diagnostic tests and skills; self-treatment strategies; self-help and mutual aid groups; use of the media to promote public health education; restructuring periodic health examinations; and how to overcome barriers to effective self-care. The course is intended to assist health professionals gain understanding and skills in self-care education. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38. $230

Self-Portrait: A Performance Workshop for Non-Performers

Paul Rebillot & Benj Langdon

Have you ever secretly wished you could see yourself on television? What kind of show would you have? Would you like to be a talk show host, or guest, comedian, soap-star, newscastor, political analyst, or something uniquely different—especially you? In this workshop we would like to explore with you the possibility of capturing your uniqueness with the video-camera. You don't have to know in advance what you're going to do; however, if there is something you would like to bring, a musical instrument, costumes, a poem or a song, feel free to do so. The focus will be on spontaneity in front of the camera. A willingness to look at yourself in a new way, doing what you do anyway, is all that is necessary.

Theater games, gestalt process, as well as exercises to help ease anxiety in front of the group and the camera will be an essential part of the preparation for the performance. Each participant will prepare a "self-portrait" for video, produce it and review it in the course of the weekend. $230

Week of February 5–10

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see October 16-21. $450

Fluidity of Being: Rolf®-Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see December 9-11. $450

Weekend of February 10–12

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see October 28-30. $230

The Soviet Union Today: Cliches or Questions

Vera Dunham

Vera writes, "Truth—whatever that means—about the Soviet Union today is obscured by ignorance, indifference, and preconceived notions in the West. It is no less distorted by dogmatic cliches and cant endemic to the official Soviety propaganda machinery.

"This seminar will explore several important social issues as they are revealed in Soviet literature, and discuss them in a special way, namely, by pointing out what we do not know about them as outsiders. What I propose to do, therefore, is to identify some pertinent questions about Soviet life without fretting about neatly packaged answers. Awareness of uncertainties and problems of perception is mandatory for objectivity. One should know what one does not know. Examples: Has social stratification been increasingly more divisive? What is Soviet ethnic pluralism? Is there social mobility? Is the family still strong? Is the Soviet future what it used to be?" $230

Hypnosis and Parapsychology

Lee Pulos

All participants will be taught to experience beginning and advanced methods of self-hypnosis. There will be a number of opportunities throughout the workshop to practice hypnosis for personal habit changes and to learn how to use hypnotic uncovering practices such as automatic writing and ideo-motor questioning. In addition to brief lecturettes explaining and demystifying hypnosis, the workshop will include exploratory use of hypnosis as a bridge to other realities. Trance states for opening up psychic and telepathic channels will be experienced and these will lead into turning one's visions inward to the possibility of multiple dimensions and existences. A feature of the workshop will be to teach how to use hypnosis for health maintenance. $230

Week of February 12–17

Five Day Massage Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see September 25-30. $450

The Foundations of Body Image

Andrea & Deane Juhan

This is a course for the improvement of your relationship with the body—your own and those you contact personally and professionally. Each major area of the body will be studied and experienced in turn. The sessions allotted for each area will include: slides and discussion to familiarize the group with the basic anatomical structures; specific stretches and exercises to isolate the muscles and joints in question; movement, dance, and visualization to explore the psychological dimensions of each body part; instruction in massage methods designed to locate and alleviate common problems.

The intent is to provide enough concrete experience for each participant to feel a change for the better in self image; to provide enough discussion to understand how the improvements occurred and how they may be sustained; and, particularly, to help you contact your images of your physical self—the body you do have, the body you think you have, and the body you could have. $450

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of the self-defeating patterns of the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $450

Weekend of February 17–19

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

For workshop description see October 14-16. $230

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of "holonomic integration," developed by the workshop leaders, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the entire spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be in the roles of experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $230

Astrology: A Map of the Psyche

Robert Hand

Carl Jung once stated that astrology contained within its teachings the sum total of the psychological knowledge of the ancients. The point of this workshop will be to show the validity of this statement expressed in modern terms.

Many people have tried to make astrology fit into various systems of modern psychology. Here we will explore the extent to which astrology is, in itself, a complete system of psychology, which makes its own statements about human nature, and which suggests rather surprising consequences for ideas of human life and behavior.

Little or no previous knowledge of astrology will be required in this workshop. We will be concerned largely with the symbolism and its psychological import, not especially with the techniques of horoscope analysis. Any material of a technical nature that is needed in the workshop will be introduced as we go along. $230

Polarity Massage

Bill Liles & Deborah Anne Medow

The Esalen mineral baths will be the classroom for exploring and learning by experience the basic concepts of polarity body work through the medium of massage. Emphasis will be on the dynamics of living anatomy and polarity energy balancing methods as implemented in the course of a complete, full-body massage. $230

Week of February 19–24

Gestalt Practice

Christine Price & Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Quest for the Inner Man and the Inner Woman

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes, "My study of Carl Jung's Psychology of the Transference stimulated me to look into the concept of the alchemical marriage as a process of owning and uniting the various archetypal aspects of ourselves. By exploring my own polarities, I saw how they affect the organization of my personality. By becoming aware of four aspects of myself, the negative and positive man, and the negative and positive woman, I discovered when I am being authentic with others and when I am not. All four must live together within me if I am to experience my wholeness.

"Consequently, I created a process in which people, by developing these roles, can discover how they liberate or how they confuse relationship. By playing out these roles and having fun with them, they become options rather than determinations.

"At the climax of this workshop, participants design and act out a ritual of joining together, a wedding celebration whereby they create the possibility of these four aspects actually uniting within themselves, awakening the seed of individuation." $450

Educating the Genius Within— Learning to Learn— The Feldenkrais Method

Harriet Goslins

"By my body's actions . . . teach my mind."—Shakespeare

The habitual way you sit, stand or move reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to your nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By re-educating the brain/muscle connection restrictions in your movement are freed, freeing also the life-time habits that have organized around that movement.

Awareness-through-movement lessons are a re-learning of the ease and fluidity you took for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or on-going stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of our awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. When you change how you hold your muscles, your entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury, for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries, and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort.

The Feldenkrais work teaches how to tap into our genetic birthright, the nervous system's enormous powers of self-correction, which often lie dormant and unexplored in adulthood. $450

Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage

Alan Young

This workshop will be an exploration of many aspects of spiritual healing. Starting from the belief (now shared by many orthodox physicians) that all disease, pain, and physical body malfunction is only the outward manifestation of an inner emotional, mental, or spiritual cause, the workshop will review in detail what these many causes are, how they can be uncovered in each case, and how to deal with the cause when it is known. Reasons why some people are not healed regardless of the method used (orthodox medicine, alternative treatments, or spiritual healing) will also be discussed.

The workshop will be experiential and will include exercises in which the participants may experience the energy radiating from their own body and from others. High intensity music, six different kinds of meditation, dream analysis (to seek cause and cures), and active imagination and visualization will also be included. Case histories from the instructor's own experience will be used to illustrate many of the points discussed.

The group will meet together mornings and evenings and the workshop will include individual sessions with Alan Young in the afternoons. $450

Weekend of February 24–26

Experiencing Your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see September 30-October 2. $230

Citizenship in the Solar Age: Thinking Globally, Acting Locally

Hazel Henderson

Hazel Henderson writes: "An integral aspect of personal growth and development is healthy interaction within groups. As we resolve internal fears and conflicts and achieve a greater sense of empowerment, it becomes natural to seek further challenge and wider social interaction. Abraham Maslow identified these higher, growth-oriented needs as including the desire for social harmony, justice, order, and beauty in our communities and environment. We know that we have the power to heal our own bodies and minds, and similarly, we know how to heal our fragmented social relationships. And when we honor this knowledge, action for social change can be healing and integrative, rather than "need-oriented" activism which projects one's inner conflicts onto issues and ends up in divisiveness or coercive organizing.

"This workshop explores the interface between personal growth and holistic social action. I am interested in addressing theoretical, strategic, spiritual, and practical ways of becoming effective planetary citizens. There are no hard formulas for this—we will all be learners together. Some of the themes of great interest to me are: personal growth as a prerequisite to healthy social change, and social action as a prerequisite to further personal growth; the emergence of transformational paradigms in science, literature, art, and music which suggest greater planetary awareness and global networking; the vital new role of non-governmental organizations; learning to demystify economics (economics as politics in disguise); the mass media as the nervous system of the body politic (gaining media access for citizens, groups and community issues, and evaluating various media as channels for social renewal); and identifying the winning coalitions for the new societies of the Solar Age.

"The world needs truly mindful, responsible, social-change activism and leadership as never before, just as developing self-actualizers need the risk-taking and challenge of relating to ever-more complex patterns of social, ecological and planetary interdependence. I am interested in teaching and learning how to accept the challenge of helping to heal our divisive, competitive, nationalistic, industrial societies (East and West); how to move beyond their narrow technological/rationalism and militaristic posturing; and how to help foster viable alternative futures which can operate peacefully and fairly on our inter-connected planet."

Recommended reading: The Politics of the Solar Age: Alternatives To Economics, Hazel Henderson, (Doubleday, Anchor paperback N.Y.); The Aquarian Conspiracy, Marilyn Ferguson, (Tarcher); Person/Planet, Theodore Roszak, (Doubleday); New Age Politics, Mark Satin, (Delta); The Turning Point, Fritjof Capra, (Simon & Schuster); The Politics of Women's Spirituality, Charlene Spretnak, (Doubleday); MegaTrends: Ten New Directions that are Transforming our Lives, John Naisbett, (Warner Communications, N.Y.) $230

Mind, Hallucinogens, and the I Ching

Terence McKenna

"The hallucinogenic experience remains a misunderstood and taboo area of human becoming. Yet with birth and death it represents a profound dimension of our being that we can choose to ignore only at our peril. We will discuss plant hallucinogens, their use in shamanism and their impact on modern conception of mind. We will discuss self exploration through hallucinogenic plants using philosophical constructs both ancient and modern. Shamanism, schizophrenia, and the holographic nature of time will be reunderstood in the light of hallucinogenic experiences. The Invisible Landscape, by my brother and myself, will be the core around which discussion will be constellated according to the needs and interests of the group. The hallucinogens catalyze a deep crisis in human evolution that calls for a new model of mind and world. We will explore the implications of that new model for human transformation."—Terence McKenna.

Suggested reading: The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: The Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide, Terence McKenna.

This will be a didactic workshop. The use of hallucinogens is not permitted at Esalen. $230

February 24–March 16

Getting in Shape: Physical/Metaphysical Fitness

Jessica Moore Britt & Andrea Juhan

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1600

Week of February 26–March 2

Awareness Through Movement: Learning to Feel

Harriet Goslins & Robert Raleigh

Feeling is a state of ongoing vulnerability that catalyzes change.

Feelings are the endless content of the body-mind. Deeply patterned whole-body fear prevents us from feeling not only our current life-condition (thus anesthetizing us from the need to change) but blocks the bodily and profoundly pleasureful "feeling-connectedness with everything" that can be felt by the human nervous system.

This work utilizes Feldenkrais principles bringing awareness to dormant parts of the nervous system that are usually inhibited by the whole-body fear response.

The movement sessions will be combined with work to further integrate the learning into one's lifestyle and behavior. $450

February 26–March 23

Spiritual Emergency: Understanding and Treatment of Transpersonal Crises

Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & Rita Rohen

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1800

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1800

Sydelle Forman

"Contact is the appreciation of differences"

Fritz Perls

• SPECIAL PROGRAMS •

Tutorial Program in Gestalt Body Therapy

Jack Rosenberg

This will be a professional training program for licensed or license-eligible psychotherapists and graduate students in gestalt body therapy (GBT). GBT is a complete system of psychotherapy with an emphasis on breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. The program will consist of approximately one week (five days) at Esalen every five weeks for a period of two years. This program can lead to an M.A. or Ph.D. in psychology through affiliation with an approved degree-granting institution. The program will be didactic and experiential and is based on a tutorial system with Jack Rosenberg and staff. If interested, please contact Jack Rosenberg, 1107 W. Washington Bl., Venice, Ca. 90291. Please include personal and therapeutic history and educational background.

The Human/Dolphin Foundation

The Human/Dolphin Foundation, born out of the work of John and Toni Lilly, is privately funded and continues through the dedication of many individuals. Currently there are two projects in progress: Project Janus—Redwood City, California, and Project Careyes—Costa de Careyes, Jalisco, Mexico.

Project Janus is in its fourth year of continuous research with two captive "bottlenose" dolphins. Janus, the Roman god of beginnings, was usually pictured with two opposing faces. Today Janus is also a computer, one face in dialogue with humans and the other turned toward the dolphins. This "interface" is expected to produce a hybrid language of symbols and sounds that will be understood by both species.

Project Careyes, on the beautiful west coast of Mexico, is the first attempt by HDF to contact wild dolphins in a consistent manner so that the Janus achievements and future efforts can be offered to the dolphins in their own natural environment. Eventually a human/dolphin community is envisioned where a "pod" of humans will live in more or less constant contact with a pod of volunteer dolphins.

Specific Esalen/HDF workshops and projects are being discussed. If you are interested, send inquiries directly to the Human/Dolphin Foundation, P.O. Box 4172, Malibu, California 90265. Phone (213) 457-4384.

September 4–30
Journey to the East

Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & visiting faculty including: Anne & Jim Armstrong, Angeles Arrien, Fritjof Capra, Father Bede Griffiths, Jack Kornfield, don Jose Matsuwa, Brant Secunda, Ajit Mookerjee & Sogyal Rinpoche.

This four week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, religion, and philosophy who are interested in exploring theoretically and practically the great spiritual traditions of the East and their relationship to Western science. Special attention will be paid to the similarities and differences between mysticism and psychosis and to the problems related to evolution of consciousness. This seminar is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals trained to facilitate the process of evolution and to assist in spiritual emergencies. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Ancient Technologies of the Sacred: The Great Spiritual Traditions of the East: Visiting spiritual teachers will explore with participants theoretically and practically Buddhist vipassana meditation, the Tibetan vajrayana, Zen Buddhism, tantric science, art and ritual, sufism, aikido, and shamanism.

New Frontiers of Western Science: Researchers who have contributed to the emerging paradigm will discuss revolutionary developments in quantum-relativistic physics, systems theory, brain research, and modern consciousness studies which point to a future synthesis of science and mysticism.

Psychosis: Disease or Transpersonal Crisis? Participants will be exposed to a new understanding of the psychotic process emerging from psychedelic studies, Jungian analysis, kundalini research, and modern clinical and laboratory studies. They will have the opportunity to experiment with methods of constructive assistance in transpersonal crises.

Self-Exploration and Group Process: The workshops of this series use an experiential educational format that combines didactic input with personal experience. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for participants throughout the program.

Reservations should be addressed to Christina Grof, c/o Esalen. $1800

November 4–27
Explorations in the Mythological Dimension

Joseph Campbell

This will be a month of exploring lectures and discussions having to do with traditions of the Western world wherein the heritage of what has been called the "Perennial Philosophy" is represented. The language of this philosophy is mythology, whose "worlds" and "gods" (to quote Ananda K. Coomaraswamy) are "levels of reference and symbolic entities which are neither places nor individuals but states of being realizable within you." The topics for the lecture weekends are:

Psyche and Symbol. For workshop description see November 4-6.

Classical Mysteries of the Great Goddess. For workshop description see November 11-13.

Arthurian Traditions of Courtly Love and the Grail. For workshop description see November 18-20.

James Joyce and Pablo Picasso: Mythology in Twentieth Century Literature and Art. For workshop description see November 25-27. $1600

Kathy J. Thomas

Joseph Campbell

November 13–December 9
Month Long Professional Body Work Intensive

Dub Leigh

The premise of this workshop is that an unwell body tends to be shortened, thick, and suffering from pain and stress, and that a healthy body tends to be long, balanced, and supple.

Kathy J. Thormod

In this workshop we will emphasize how to transform an unhealthy body into a long, supple, organized body by inquiring into ways pain can be erased. Further questions to be considered are: how can short tissue be lengthened, hard tissue be softened and made more resilient; how may tissue be repositioned and balanced, constriction be removed from organs and joints, a general heaviness be replaced by a lightness and lift, and body armor and old buried trauma be eliminated?

We will explore four premises: first, by Ida Rolf, that the body is plastic and segmented and therefore its structure can be reorganized, repositioned, and balanced as ordered; second, by Feldenkrais, that the nervous system can be reprogrammed so as to bring the desired changes in the body's function and structure; third, by Slye, that stress can end in pain and disease and that it does not need to; and fourth by Cyriax, that all pain arises from a lesion and that treatment must reach the lesion and exert a beneficial effect on it.

We will also explore Reich's body armor and Ron Hubbard's stored trauma concepts.

The workshop will be limited to eight professional body workers who want to improve their expertise. From time to time various body experts will be brought into class. Participants will have the opportunity to do as much body work as desired and to experience body work each day of the class, being taught as they work. In the course of the workshop, participants will receive many hours of work from one another and Dub Leigh. The goal is to have each participant return to his/her practice with a new level of knowledge and ability.

Interested participants should submit an application, addressed to Dub Leigh, c/o Esalen, with a short personal history explaining their qualifications in body work. As enrollment is limited applications should be sent early. Applicants will be notified when they are accepted. $1800

January 1–February 5
Gestalt Practice: A Combination Seven Day Intensive and Work Study Program

Coordinated by Christine Price

This is a five week program focusing on gestalt practice (for further information see Gestalt Practice, page 11), and designed primarily for people who are presently working with clients and who want to directly apply the skills developed in this program to their work. The first week will be a seven day intensive where participants will have no commitments outside of the sessions. Beginning the second week, members will become work scholars, will work 32 hours weekly, and live in work scholar housing (see Work Study Program, page 12, for details). The group will continue to work together in afternoon and evening sessions and in some weekend intensives. The curriculum will include time for participants to do their own personal clearing work in the "open seat" format with group leaders as well as time for practicums, where group members may provide feedback for each other as they work.

Although gestalt is the primary focus, some Reichian breath work and other related approaches to growth will be presented. Dick Price, Jessica Moore Britt, and other Esalen leaders will be the support faculty for the course.

If you wish to attend, please send in a completed work scholar application form provided on page 12, a deposit, and a letter stating your present work and how you imagine this program might relate to you and your work. Address this to the attention of Christine Price, c/o Esalen. $1280

January 8–February 3
The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman, Hareesh & faculty: Deborah Anne Medow

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to one's self, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants will explore how to separate feelings from thoughts, how to be perceptive to their own body rhythms, to contact their own wisdom, and participate in a safe environment in the choice of expression or depression.

Combined with this emotional process work will be a program of cleansing and rejuvenation based on a nutritional diet which will include: guided two-to-three-day water and juice fasts, wheatgrass, a live raw-foods menu, and transitional lightly cooked foods. The wheatgrass will be presented in a learn-by-doing process where participants will sprout, plant, water, harvest, and juice their own wheatgrass in the Esalen gardens. Group process, paired breathing sessions, movement, massage, Trager, and herbal baths will complete the experience. Playfulness and a sense of personal celebration is a prerequisite. $1800

January 20–February 17
Tutorial Program in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

This four week program is the first time Michael Harner will teach the practice of shamanism and shamanic healing to a small group of people for such an extended period of time. The program has four phases approximately corresponding to the four weeks: participation and assistance in an intensive seven day workshop in basic and intermediate shamanic healing and practice (see January 20-27 for workshop description); individual practice and further development of the methods of intermediate shamanic work; new developments in research on shamanism; and focus on the mastery of individual shamanic skills.

Enrollment is limited to eight students. If interested, please write a letter of application to Michael Harner, Box 673, Belden Station, Norwalk, Connecticut, 06852. Please include in your letter a description of your background and the reasons you would like to be in this tutorial program. $2300

February 24–March 16
Getting in Shape: Physical/Metaphysical Fitness

Jessica Moore Britt & Andrea Juhan

This program is an in-depth exploration of the interplay of our physical structure, tone, capacity, and appearance and our internal feeling and thoughts and how these create our concept of self and well-being. Each week will be integrated sessions in: Fitness and Relaxation: including stretching, aerobics, dancing, hiking, Feldenkrais work, massage, and meditation. Personal Awareness Work: using gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, and video in order to explore conditioned images and feelings and to provide an opportunity to explore alternatives.

In lectures and demonstrations guest faculty will discuss anatomy and physiology, and the psychology of the relationship between the physical body and states of being. Diet and nutritional information and guidelines will be provided by physician, Joe D. Goldstrich, author of The Best Chance Diet.

This three week period is for participants to create new patterns in their individual life process, and to reinforce this new behavior in a supportive environment. The course is designed to be a step towards a life long program of well-being. A fact sheet of detailed scheduling is available upon request. $1600

February 26–March 23 84
Spiritual Emergency: Understanding and Treatment of Transpersonal Crises

Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & Rita Rohen

This four week interdisciplinary program is for professionals and students in the areas of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, and religion. The workshop has been specifically designed for intensive and focused exploration of the new concept of "spiritual emergency," an important subgroup of unusual states of consciousness that contemporary psychiatry labels as psychosis. It is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals qualified to facilitate the process of personal transformation and to assist others during transpersonal crises. The program will focus on the following areas:

Historical and Anthropological Perspectives on Psychosis: We will review the evidence suggesting that many ancient and non-Western cultures have developed deep knowledge of transpersonal crises and maps of consciousness that can be used as guidelines in the process of personal transformation. Shamanism, spiritual practices of the great Oriental religions and philosophies, aboriginal rites of passage, and the ancient death-rebirth mysteries provide not only maps, but also tools to initiate and facilitate such a process.

The Concept of Transpersonal Crisis and Western Science: This aspect of the program will focus on observations that support the new approach, such as the healing, evolutionary, and problem-solving potential of certain psychotic states; results of clinical studies using placebo; pioneering work in psychotherapy of psychoses and family studies of schizophrenia; modern kundalini research; and psychedelic studies. We will explore new developments in various disciplines—consciousness research, quantum-relativistic physics, information theory, biology, and neurophysiology—that provide a solid scientific basis for an alternative understanding of psychosis.

Transpersonal Crisis Intervention: We will explore various strategies that are useful in the management of spiritual emergencies and in facilitating personality transformation.

Self-Exploration and Group Process: The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines information input with experiential approaches and group process. For this purpose, we will use controlled breathing, music, mandala drawing, gestalt practice, and various forms of body work. The coordinators and the Esalen staff will function as facilitators for participants all through the workshop.

Reservations should be addressed to Christina Grof, c/o Esalen. $1800

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."
—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special care and attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what we've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. What are the most important elements that support this transformation and renewal? And how might this process be effectively shared with others? Out of the answers to these questions has emerged the dream of combining the best of Esalen's human potential practice work with the spirit of adventure found in Outward Bound's wilderness programs, along with the gracious informality of living and working together in one of the most beautiful and peaceful settings in the world.

The aim of this unique curriculum will be to explore and develop a new model for learning, one that not only deepens the experience of traditional self exploration, but also breaks new ground in erasing the line between intensive group and individual work and the ordinary world of everyday life.

Among the areas we will touch on during this month are:

The Body and its Functions: as a temple for the spirit; as a reflection, and as a turning point from past habits, fears, and attitudes; as a source of grace, ease, and fluidity in movement and in contact; as a kinetic home-base for exuberance, playfulness, and balance; and as a healing source of touch.

The Emotional Realm: exploring and opening the limits of temperament; redirecting negative feelings for inspiration and power; cultivating passion and strength as the core of integrity; resolving inner and outer turmoil simply and peacefully.

The Mind: developing the powers of the imagination for self-affirmation and creativity; deepening the ability to see, hear, and understand so that one can range easily from the practical to the transcendental; strengthening the sense of fair-witness and developing the skillful use of the will; using the perspective of humor to heal separation.

Coming together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in ourselves, the group will create a community whose foundation is based on trust, good will, and authenticity.

During the month each participant will have the opportunity to clarify and develop his/her own style and artfulness as an individual guide and group facilitator doing in-depth study of gestalt practice, body work, psychosynthesis methods, and the meditative arts. The program will be structured to include: intensive individual work; creative music and movement; supervised observations; practicum work in group leading and individual counseling skills; video feedback; illustrated lectures and didactic theoretical sessions.

The emphasis throughout will be on creating a personally integrated perspective that will bring buoyancy and lightness into life and work. This workshop is designed for people from all walks of life. $1800

Future Programs Include:

Peter Levine, March 2–11; Massage Month Long Intensive, March 11–April 6; Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper, March 23–April 13; Anne & Jim Armstrong, March 23–April 6; John Heider, March 23–April 6; Helen Palmer, April 6–13; Jack Rosenberg, April 6–27.

Joyce Rogers

• WILDERNESS PROGRAMS •

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop we require the following deposit:

Up to 3 days	$ 50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip your deposit is forfeited.

September 4-11
Women's Challenge: A Dance of Adventure Through the Big Sur Wilderness

Annie Callaway & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

We will come together in the Big Sur Wilderness to explore our inner world: our feminine roles and archetypes; dominant and shadow parts of ourselves; our vulnerability and strength; our heroism and sense of adventure. Carrying everything we need in our packs, we will hike through the Ventana wilderness, pausing to swim in a rock pool with a waterfall. Woven into our week will be group process work, traditional wilderness skills, and Rolfing® movement integration, all designed to open ourselves to balance, grace, and fluidity. Crackling fires, and excellent food—much of it fresh—will enhance our journey. Near the week's end, each of us will spend 24 hours alone in reflection and contemplation.

We will camp out at Esalen our first night, drive to the trailhead the next morning, and return to Esalen the following Sunday morning to enjoy the hot springs and lunch, our final meal together. No previous wilderness experience is necessary. Complete equipment lists will be sent on registration. $400

September 25-October 1
Cataract Canyon: An Outward Bound White Water Expedition

Coordinated by Nelson Chase of Colorado Outward Bound School & Steven Harper of Esalen

Travel with us on a journey down two of the great wilderness rivers in the western United States. Our white water adventure will begin in Canyonlands National Park, Utah, on the Green River, which will carry us to its confluence with the mighty Colorado. There, compressed by precipitous gorges, these two major tributaries join to form one of the swiftest rivers on the continent. At the entrance to Cataract Canyon, its walls soar above in giant 1400 ft. steps to the rim. From here each one of us, in turn, will captain the rafts as we run the Cataract's famous white water.

At night we will camp on the riverbank, and by day we will take time to seek new adventures on land; exploring tranquil side canyons, visiting Native American ruins and petroglyphs, and rock climbing and rappelling. In addition to group process there will be time for reflection, for laughing and singing, and for creating rituals. Half-way through the week we will solo overnight in the wilderness, encountering ourselves and seeking a vision.

Acquiring skills to care for ourselves and each other in the wilderness can promote increased self-efficacy and awareness. The well-being that comes from attempting and succeeding at new endeavors can transfer to other areas of our lives, becoming a catalyst to growth and change.

This wilderness program is offered in collaboration with the Colorado Outward Bound School, and will be staffed by both Esalen and Outward Bound. Please Note: Registration for this program is being handled by the Colorado Outward Bound School. To register, please send your name, address, phone number, name of course (i.e., Cataract Canyon: an Outward Bound White Water Expedition), and a $25 application fee to: River Program, Colorado Outward Bound School, 945 Pennsylvania, Denver, Colorado, 80203. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $600

• MEDICAL PROGRAMS •

Esalen Institute is a California state approved provider for continuing education for health professionals. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category 1 approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

September 9-11
The Placebo Response
Andrew Weil, M.D. — 10 hours

September 30-October 2
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

November 27-December 2
Symptom as Metaphor
Jeff Kane, M.D. & Ronnie Paul — 30 hours

December 9-11
The Therapeutic Approaches of Milton H. Erickson, M.D.
Jane Parsons, A.C.S.W. & Francis Lu, M.D. — 10 hours

February 3-5
Medical Self-Care:
New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D. — 10 hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

September9-11
The Placebo Response
Andrew Weil, M.D. — 10 hours

September 30-October 2
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D. — 10 hours

October 9-16
Trager Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics©
Beginning Training
Betty Fuller — 30 hours

November 27-December 2
Symptom as Metaphor
Jeff Kane, M.D. & Ronnie Paul — 30 hours

December 9-11
The Therapeutic Approaches of Milton H. Erickson, M.D.
Jane Parsons, A.C.S.W. & Francis Lu, M.D. — 10 hours

January 1-6
The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing
for the Health Professional
Jack Downing, M.D. & Murray Korngold, Ph.D., A.B.P.P. — 30 hours

Steve Beck

January 22-27
A Healthier Way to Goal Achievement
Neil Fiore, Ph.D. — 30 hours

February 3-5
Medical Self-Care:
New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D. — 10 hours

· BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION ·

A

Anne Armstrong p. 15, 32, 34 — has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 18 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.

Jim Armstrong, p. 15, 32, 34 — a former engineer, is a life-long student nd teacher of esoteric studies.

Elliot Aronson p. 15 — is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authoried ten books, including The Social Animal.

B

John Blofeld p. 22 — is a world-renowned authority on Zen and Tibetan Buddhism and Taoism. His translations include The Zen Teaching of Huang Po, the I Ching, and Tantric Mysticism of Tibet.

Faustin Bray, p. 21 — performing musician and media artist, founder of Island and Flying Machine International Mobile Schools, specializes in instigating and integrating creativity using yoga, fine arts, science, and travel.

Jessica Moore Britt p. 12, 21, 33, 36 — is a registered nurse who is presently a member of the Esalen community and a practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.

Charles Brooks, p. 19 — author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of sensory awareness since 1963 often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.

Joan Brozovich, p. 24 — a licensed psychologist in private practice in San Francisco, works with gay individuals, couples, and groups and consults with agencies to develop staff training on gay issues.

James Bupp p. 13 — combines gestalt practice with group process and emotional release work.

C

Peter Caddy p. 18 — is the co-founder of the Findhorn Foundation, and is presently engaged in visiting and assisting in the link-up of communities, groups, and movements for the process of planetary transformation.

Annie Callaway, p. 14, 37 — professional wilderness guide, group leader, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen wilderness trips for many years.

Joseph Campbell p. 19, 20, 21, 22, 34 — is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.

John Caple p. 18 — is a college professor and career counselor with an earlier career in business management. He is the author of Careercycles (1983).

Fritjof Capra p. 20, 34 — is researching theoretical high energy physics at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and is author of two books, The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point.

Seymour Carter p. 18, 24 — has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years, and is currently a teacher in residence at Esalen.

Michell Cassou p. 26 — is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Stuido in San Francisco.

Stanford Eugene Cates p. 25, 32 — is working and in training with Paul Rebillot, assisting and co-leading groups. He has trained in Trager psychophysical integration and is a minister.

Nelson Chase p. 15, 37 — is the director of the Mental Health Projects Center for the Colorado Outward Bound School.

Stewart Cubley, p. 26 — artist and scientist, is a co-founder of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

Dale Cummings, p. 16 — MFCC and certified Radix® teacher, is in private practice at the Radix® Center in Santa Monica, and is also a trainer for the Radix® Institute in Ojai.

D

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) p. 17, 31 — certified Radix® practitoner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches to well being in group and private instruction.

Patrick Douce, p. 14, 16 — a resident at Esalen since 1972, teaches ongoing classes in Feldenkrais awareness through movement and is available for individual sessions in functional integration.

Jack Downing, p. 27 — M.D., is a psychiatrist with a comprehensive background in gestalt, Rolfing®, Arica, applied kinesiology, and neurolinguistic programming.

Vera Dunham p. 31 — is an internationally acclaimed poet, translator, essayist, and expert on Soviet culture.

E

Victoria Elliot, p. 17 — an Esalen trustee, is president of Norman H. Gershman Consultants, executive recruiters and management consultants to the securities business.

Esalen Massage Practitioners p. 12, 17, 18, 19, 24, 26, 28, 31 — include Peggy Morrison Horan, Deane Juhan, George King, Lila Daniels Klapman, Lars Larson, Bill Liles, Deborah Anne Medow, Jane Miletich, Dianne Sue Miller, Laurie Muller, Brita Ostrom, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vaas.

F

James Fadiman p. 17 — is a management consultant and teaches at Stanford and the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. He has taught Sufi stories for six years.

Rosemary Feitis, p. 27, 28 — a certified Rolfer® and editor of Ida Rolf Talks, is presently working on two manuscripts: one on consciousness and perception; the other, with Louis Schultz, on anatomy.

Richard Feynman p. 21 — has been a professor of theoretical physics at the California Institute of Technology since 1950 and has received many awards for his contributions to quantum theory.

Neil Fiore, p. 29 — a licensed psychologist practicing hypnosis, is working on the effects of stress and anxiety on performance and health.

Joyce Frazee p. 22 — is a gestaltist whose training includes art, encounter, bioenergetics, body awareness, and psychosynthesis. She is presently on the staff of Cold Mountain Institute.

Marty Fromm p. 26 — trained with Fritz Perls for three years. Some aspects of their relationship are described in In and Out the Garbage Pail.

Betty Fuller, p. 17 — a humanist counselor, A.H.A., is director of the Trager Institute, and instructor of Trager psychophysical integration and mentastics©, and Feldenkrais awareness through movement.

G

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) p. 15, 30 — is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and is in private practice in West Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Harriet Goslins p. 32, 33 — is a Feldenkrais practitioner and an awareness-through-movement teacher with a background in psychosynthesis and applied kinesiology.

John Graham, p. 21 — former U.S. diplomat, is equally at home in the worlds of big business and government and in the world of transformational thought and spirit.

John Michael Grey, p. 15 — co-founder of a research institute at Stanford, integrates neurolinguistics, cognitive psychology, and Ericksonian hypnotic practice with transpersonal psychosynthetic approaches.

Christina Grof, p. 14, 18, 28, 31, 33, 34, 36 — hatha yoga teacher and student of Swami Muktananda, has special interest in the kundalini process and the problem of "spiritual emergency." She is co-author of Beyond Death.

Stanislav Grof, p. 14, 18, 28, 31, 33, 34, 36 — psychiatrist with over twenty years' experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics, is the author of The Human Encounter with Death and LSD Psychotherapy.

H

Betsy Hand, p. 17 — former resident staff member of the Gestalt Institute of Canada, has 20 years experience with families, couples, and groups, She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.

Robert Hand, p. 32 — as an astrological teacher, author, consultant, and researcher, is involved in micro-computer technology. His latest books are Horoscope Symbols and Essays on Astrology (Para Research).

Joyce Hanna p. 17 — is a behavioral fitness consultant in Palo Alto, California. She is a marathon runner and has competed in the Boston marathon.

Thomas Hanna p. 23 — is director of the Navato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, editor of Somatics magazine, and author of The Body of Life and Bodies in Revolt.

Hareesh p. 28, 35 — is interested in alternative nutritional programs.

Michael Harner, p. 28, 29, 36 — an anthropologist who has studied shamanism among South and North American Indians for more than two decades, is the author of The Way of the Shaman.

Sandra Harner, p. 28 — textile artist and executive director of the Center for Shamanic Studies, Norwalk, Connecticut, has accompanied her husband, Michael, in studies among Upper Amazon tribes.

Steven Harper p. 11, 15, 37 — teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, and is currently the coordinator of the Esalen Wilderness Programs.

Hazel Henderson p. 32 — is a self-described "independent, self-employed futurist," and author of The Politics of the Solar Age Alternatives to Economics (Anchor Press / Doubleday).

Nick Herbert, p. 30 — an independent researcher in the foundations of physics, is completing a popular book on quantum foundations entitled Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics (Doubleday).

Peggy Morrison Horan p. 15, 22 — is an Esalen masseuse and teacher, and coordinator of the Esalen Childbirth Education Program.

Paul Horn p. 14, 28 — is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and teacher of meditation.

Chungliang Al Huang p. 21, 28 — is the founder-president of The Living Tao Foundation, and director of its Lan Ting Institute, an international cultural-arts network for lifelong learning.

IJ

Owen James p. 25 — teaches body-mind-center-brain awareness and is a professional flutist and performance coach. He has practiced Rolfing® and Rolf®-movement for many years.

Eli Jaxon-Bear, p. 15 — former director of a Buddhist meditation center, is a master practitioner of neurolinguistics who integrates this work with Ericksonian hypnotic practice and Eastern philosophies.

Andrea Juhan p. 11, 31, 33, 36 — is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practitioner, has trained with Anna Halprin, and currently conducts Esalen community classes in stretch / exercises, aerobics, and dance.

Deane Juhan, p. 31 — a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.

K

Jeff Kane, p. 23 — M.D., researches the body-mind relationship and teaches medical philosophy, stress management, and hatha yoga. His articles have appeared in CoEvolution Quarterly, New Age, and Yoga Journal.

Sam Keen p. 18 — is an explorer of inner space, a psychonaut and philosopher, editor of Psychology Today, author of Apology for Wonder, To a Dancing God, Beginnings Without End.

Polly Kirby p. 12 — is a registered nurse, certified acupuncturist, and coordinator of the holistics studies program at Esalen.

George Kohlrieser p. 25 — is director of Shiloah, Center for Human Growth in Dayton, Ohio, where he works with individuals, families, and groups.

Murray Korngold p. 27 — is a certified acupuncturist and a teacher and speaker on parapsychology and psychic healing.

L

Benj Langdon, p. 16, 29, 30 — former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.

Timothy Leary p. 24 — is a philosopher and scientific optimist.

Lenore Lefer, p. 14, 16 — currently maintaining a private practice in San Francisco, is on the training staff of the Psychosynthesis Institutes of London and San Francisco.

Dub Leigh p. 21, 34 — has been trained by Ida Rolf and Moshe Feldenkrais and has studied with Lauren Berry and Milton Trager.

Ralph Leighton p. 21 — has taught math for many years and combining this talent with an interest in ethnic music, he has developed considerable facility in creating rhythms.

Peter Levine p. 24 — has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He holds doctorates in medical biophysics and psychology. His interests include the effects of stress on children and infants.

Ruth Leveton, p. 16, 25 — co-founder of Medicine Way, Inc., is a wilderness instructor for U.C. Santa Cruz Extension, leader for Rites of Passage, and student of biology and environmental studies.

Bill Liles, p. 32 — a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, integrates polarity with traditional Esalen massage.

Paul Lounsbury p. 13 — has studied extensively with Milton Erickson and his conducted numerous training seminars on the use of hypnosis and strategic counseling. He is in private practice in New York.

Francis Lu, p. 24 — with a background in gestalt, psychosynthesis, and transpersonal psychology, is assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco.

M

Ian Macnaughton p. 24 — has been involved in Reichian work and neurolinguistic programming and is particularly interested in the bringing together of Eastern and Western approaches.

John McKeithen, p. 12 — a practitioner and teacher of Esalen deep tissue work for several years, is presently in practice in Petaluma, California.

Terence McKenna p. 33 — authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at U.C. Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and Amazonas.

Deborah Anne Medow, p. 14, 15, 16, 25, 28, 32, 35 — Esalen body work practitioner and group leader since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines, and studies Native American tradition.

Don Michael p. 23 — is author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn and professor emeritus in planning and public policy at the University of Michigan.

Jaime Morton p. 14 — is a teacher of massage, a counselor, and an earth artist.

N

Robert Nadeau, p. 13 — a spiritual researcher, has been leading workshops in centering and awareness for over 15 years. He holds a fifth degree black belt in aikido.

James Xavier Nash, p. 22 — a member of the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop, is a performing artist in movement and theater, and has worked with Robert Hall in gestalt and body work.

The NINE p. 16, 25 — "We are pure thought human fantasy seeking a road to the birth canal of reality where we will be seen as 'The NINE' "

O

Jenny O'Connor p. 16, 25 — is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."

Timothy O'Reilly p. 28 — is a writer, teacher, and businessman. His teaching is based on the consciousness work of George Simon.

P

Wendy Oser, p. 28, 30 — founder and director of Video Feedback Service of Berkeley, and creator of Video Insight, specializes in transpersonal, professional, and personal applications of video.

Brita Ostrom, p. 14 — a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.

Helen Palmer, p. 18, 24 — a clairvoyant counselor, is director of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and uses personality issues as access points to psychic perception and the inner life.

Wendy Palmer, p. 18 — a teacher and director of the Lomi School, holds a black belt in aikido and is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.

Jane Parsons p. 24 — was facilitator in individual, group, and family treatment in the department of psychiatry at Mount Sinai Hospital for 12 years, and is in private practice in New York City.

Ronnie Paul, p. 23 — formerly a ranked Eastern Junior tennis player, now studies and teaches the Iyengar method of hatha yoga. She is a frequent author and former contributing editor for Yoga Journal.

Ayala Pines, p. 15, 23 — research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.

Hector Prestera, p. 15 — a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neurolinguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.

Christine Price p. 11, 12, 14, 16, 21, 24, 32, 35 — combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.

Lee Pulos p. 31 — is a clinical psychologist whose career has ranged from traditional clinical practice in hypnosis to his current interests in gathering cross-cultural data on paranormal healing.

R

Robert Raleigh p. 33 — is a Feldenkrais movement teacher learning to map the higher functions of the nervous system relative to their movement correlations.

Paul Rebillot p. 20, 23, 25, 29, 30, 32 — was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theater Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.

Sogyal Rinpoche, p. 20, 34 — a Tibetan lama and specialist in the traditional knowledge associated with the Tibetan Book of the Dead, is director of a special project with the Scientific and Medical Network in London.

Rita Rohen, p. 33, 36 — an international group leader and body worker, is co-coordinator and trainer for the Spiritual Emergency Network at Esalen. Her background includes family therapy and organizational development.

Jack Rosenberg, p. 16, 26, 34 — author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.

Gabrielle Roth p. 17, 18 — is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the east coast, where she directs and performs with her own theater / dance company.

Ilana Rubenfeld p. 27 — is the originator of her own integration called "gestalt synergy." She trained with Fritz and Laura Perls and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is on the faculty of New York University.

S

David Schiffman p. 15, 18, 22, 23, 26, 28, 31, 33, 36 — a longtime leader at Esalen, is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.

Elisa Lodge Schiffman p. 14, 15, 24, 28, 31, 33, 36, 37 — trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf® -movement integration.

R. Louis Schultz, p. 27 — Ph.D., a certified Rolfer®, Rolf® -movement practitioner, and director of the New York School for Rolfing®, has developed a living anatomy course from his teaching experiences.

Will Schutz, p. 24 — founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.

Alan Schwartz p. 27 — is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."

Charlotte Selver p. 19, 20 — teaches sensory awareness, perception, and non-verbal and verbal communication. A center has been built for her long-term study groups at Green Gulch Farm through the Zen Center, San Francisco.

Phyllis Shankman p. 22 — is an instructor at U.C.L.A. Extension, counselor in private practice in West Los Angeles, and founder of Women in Transition Seminars.

Julian Silverman, p. 17, 31 — an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.

Saul-Paul Sirag p. 30 — has published two physics papers in Nature and has authored a theory on the size of the universe. In 1977 he founded the Consciousness Theory Group, which he directs.

Harry Sloan, p. 14, 15, 27, 29 — a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Dr. Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.

Sally Smith p. 24 — first led gay groups and couples' groups at Esalen in the late 60's. She currently leads groups for gay couples and is a licensed masseuse.

Gerald Smith p. 17 — is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.

David Smukler p. 25 — is director of the experimental graduate theater program at York University, Toronto and voice coach to Stratford, Ontario's Shakespearean Festival.

David Sobel, p. 30 — a practicing physician, is chief of preventive medicine at Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center, San Jose, contributing editor to Medical Self-Care, and author of Ways of Health.

Elizabeth Stratton, p. 26, 27 — a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.

Gael Switzer p. 23, 28 — is a Rolfer® and teacher of Rolf® -movement integration. She has studied movement with Judith Aston.

T

Charles Tart p. 19 — teaches psychology at U.C. Davis, and is internationally known for his research on both parapsychology and on altered states of consciousness.

Tom Taussig p. 30 — teaches psychology and computer science, and is irreverently committed to life being easy.

Gioia Timpanelli, p. 29 — poet, teacher, and winner of two Emmy awards, has completed a tape on fairy tales for adults for PBS and is now writing a book on folk tales for Viking Press.

Vicki Topp p. 16, 23 — joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.

W

Brian Wallace p. 21 — is an international musician, composer, and media artist noted for creating a dramatic environment. He has performed solo and in companies for 20 years.

Judyth Weaver, p. 17 — a Reichian counselor, certified teacher of t'ai chi ch'uan, and student of Buddhism and Taoism, holds a doctorate in psychology and teaches at the California Institute of Integral Studies.

Andrew Weil, p. 14 — M.D., is an investigator of alternative medicine, mind-body interactions, and beneficial plants, and author of The Natural Mind, and Health and Healing in the Year 2000.

Nancy Winston p. 13 — is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling throughout North America.

Y

Alan Young p. 32 — is a spiritual healer in private practice in Carmel, California, and the author of a recently published book, Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage?

Z

Yuri Zamoshkin p. 21 — is head of a department in the Soviet Academy Institute for the U.S.A. and Canada that studies American culture and public opinion.

Janet Zuckerman p. 10, 13, 28, 35 — has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than ten years. Her work includes emotional release work, group process, and gestalt practice.

The Esalen Catalog

The Esalen Catalog is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year, including postage and handling, is $6 for the United States, $9 for Canada and Mexico, $12 for Europe and South America, and $14 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. A preaddressed envelope is included in this catalog for your convenience.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student	$15	One Year Donor	$50	One Year Patron	$500
One Year Individual	$25	One Year Sponsor	$100	(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes
and artwork
by people of the Esalen community
is now available.
To order by mail,
use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies of Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $1.20 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $7.15. (California residents add $.35 tax.) I am enclosing a total of $ _____.

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery.

Joyce Rogers

• AUDIO RECORDINGS •

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single-tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Mother Theresa: Bombay ITA Conference Address, 1982
Father Bede Griffiths: Christian Doctrine and Contemporary Science
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Formative Causation)
Claudio Naranjo: Eastern Meditation and Western Psychotherapy
Marilyn Ferguson: The Leading Edge of Change
Senator Matsunaga: Academy of Peace and Conflict Resolution
Donald Keys: Choosing a New World
Helen Caldicott: Medical Effects of Nuclear War
Daniel Ellsberg & Ram Dass: Face to Face with Extinction
Ram Dass: Embracing Paradox (Dharma and the Bomb)
Thomas Banyacya: Hopi Prophecy and Survival
Prem Das: Healing Our Planet and Ourselves
Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice
Gregory Bateson: Eternal Verities of Life
Fritjof Capra: The Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
David Zeller: A Kabbalistic Perspective on Consciousness
Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
Tom Ferguson: What About Self-Care?
Jim Clendenen: Ericksonian Hypnotherapy
Stanislav Grof: Introduction to Spiritual Emergency Work
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality
Terence McKenna: Old and New Maps of Hyperspace
Terence McKenna: Tryptamine Hallucinogens and Consciousness
Timothy Leary & Panel: Higher Intelligence and Creativity
John Lilly: Birth, Brains, and Beings
Alan Watts: Interviewed by Michael Murphy, 1964
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1966
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Daniel Ellsberg: (2) The Nuclear Policy Catastrophe
Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life
Sheldrake, Capra, Targ & Grof: (2) Considerations
don José: (2) 69 Years of Huichol Apprenticeship
Sogyal Rinpoche: (2) Training for the Moment of Death
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe
Robert Bly: (2) Thoughts on the Art of Poetry
Bernard Aaronson: (2) Tantric Chant, Poetry and Hypnosis
Poetry of Robinson Jeffers: (2) A Dramatic Presentation, 1972
Ram Dass: (2) Ten Years in Retrospect, 1982
Stanislav & Christina Grof: (2) Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm
Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism
Paul Rebillot: (2) The Hero's Journey
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please address your order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Donald Keys: Inner Transformation and Outer Involvement (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 with check ($44 with purchase order)
Joseph Campbell: Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Charles Ponce: The Epiphanies of the Soul (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Timothy Leary: A Day With Timothy Leary, 1982 (4 tapes, 4½ hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Kornfield: Buddhist Meditation and Practice (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Anne & Jim Armstrong: A Psychic Training Program (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Rollo May: A Weekend with Rollo May: The F. Scott Fitzgerald Myth and Your Own (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Theodore Roszak & William Irwin Thompson: Personal and Cultural Transformation (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
R. D. Laing: Dialogues with James Fadiman and Fritjof Capra (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Rosenberg: New Understanding of Sexual Relationship (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)

Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health
(6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance
(6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)
Heinz Von Foerster & John Lilly: Meta-Language
(6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)
Gregory Bateson: Steps to an Ecology of Mind
(6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend
(6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development
(7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method
(6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)
Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)
Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul
(8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles
(8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar
(8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)
Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences
(10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and the Individual Adventure
(10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)

Please add $2 to your order for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please address order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Gregory Bateson Archive Tapes: "The Informal Esalen Lectures" (1975–1980)

This recorded series of informal talks on twelve tapes is now part of Gregory Bateson's estate. Radio broadcast, transcription, or publication of material from the tapes is expressly forbidden without prior permission from the estate. The complete set may now be purchased in two equal parts: Part I or Part II may be ordered separately (6 tapes each) for $60 ($66 by purchase order). Either set of six tapes will come in a vinyl album accompanied by a summary of contents of all twelve, for reference, plus additional pages. For Parts I & II combined in one order, send $98 ($108 by purchase order). Please add $2 for mailing ($4 if you wish priority mail). In California include 6% sales tax. Please write check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Recordings from the Early Years

A 32-page catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $2 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Meditation Music, Space Age Music

The new music, called by many names (cosmic, celestial, transcendent, new age) covers a wide range and is becoming increasingly known and appreciated. Listed here are several mail order sources for catalogs or information: ABODE TAPES, P.O. Box 300, New Lebanon, NY 12125; HEARTS OF SPACE, P.O. Box 31321, San Francisco, CA 94131; NARADA, 1804 E. North Ave., Milwaukee, WI 53202; BACKROADS, Box 416, Evans, CO 80620; VITAL BODY MARKETING, Box 703, Fresh Meadows, NY 11365; YES! BOOKSTORE & TAPES, 1035 31st Street NW, Washington D.C. 20007.

• THE MEDIA CENTER •

The Esalen Media Center has produced two audio-visual programs which are now available for rental or purchase. They are two-projector slide dissolve shows which can be shown with a single projector. We have also transferred the programs onto video cassettes.

Esalen

This is an 18-minute slide presentation with a soundtrack of narration and music telling the story of Esalen—from its early history to the present. Included are scenes of the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, and the various work departments, as well as aspects of our workshop seminars, long-term programs, and special projects. Musical soundtrack by Paul Horn, Joel Andrews, and "Pinchey" Pete Velasquez.

Cost: For Sale

Slide Program—includes 130 color slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entré 7610 dissolve unit available on request) $150.00
1/2" VHS color video cassette $125.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette $135.00

Cost: For Rent

1/2" VHS color video cassette ..... per week $30.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette ..... per week $35.00

The Ritual Of Birth

This is a 10-minute slide presentation including scenes of a "blessing way" ceremony honoring the birthing family, and a home birth. Musical soundtrack by David Tate and Char Pias Brenner.

Cost: For Sale

Slide Program—includes 52 color slides, cassette tape and script (pulsed tape for Entré 7610 dissolve unit available on request) $85.00
1/2" VHS color video cassette $65.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette $75.00

Cost: For Rent

1/2" VHS color video cassette ..... per week $20.00
3/4" U-Matic color video cassette ..... per week $25.00

Color Slide Sets

Sets of five scenes of Esalen—the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, garden, the outdoor hot baths, t'ai chi on the pool deck—are available for sale at $5.50 per set.

Please address your order with a check payable to the ESALEN MEDIA CENTER, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. California residents add 6% sales tax for sale purchases.

Overseas air mail orders please add additional postage: each slide program $10 ($15 for Australia and Asia), each video cassette $7, each slide set $1.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette on Chungliang Al Huang's work, entitled Tai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, send inquiries also to KLB PRODUCTIONS at the above address. Recent color videotapes of Stephen Levine and Ram Dass on "Conscious Living/Conscious Dying", and of Daniel Ellsberg, Helen Caldicott, and others on the nuclear issue are available from ORIGINAL FACE VIDEO, Box 447, Grass Valley, Ca. 95945.

• GENERAL INFORMATION •

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three-week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335

Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 to 3
Wednesday 9 to 12 Noon
Friday 9 to 8 PM
Sunday 12 Noon to 8

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 4 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop will be $25, and a five day will be $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $1800 per 26-day period.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $60 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $100 per day, or $110 per day per couple. Special family rates are available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Bus Service: Bus service to Esalen and along Highway #1 is provided twice daily from Monterey and San Luis Obispo by Coastlines. Buses depart from the Monterey Airport at 9 am and 3 pm and from the Monterey Greyhound Terminal and Doubletree Inn a few minutes later. The fare is $5 one way. From San Luis Obispo the fare is $10 one way, with departures beginning at the airport at 8:30 am and 3 pm with stops at Greyhound and Amtrac a few minutes later. Additional information can be obtained by consulting timetable No. 6288 at your local bus terminal or by calling Coastlines directly at (408) 649-4700 or (805) 541-3407.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $18 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

George Ehrlich

• Esalen Institute Reservations •

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 46.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

There are sometimes unexpected situations that may require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? If you can't be reached please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Do you smoke? _____

Limousine Service:

I want limousine service from (check one):

_____ Monterey Airport

_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station

at 5:00 p.m. on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only)

The $18 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 p.m.

Check here ☐ if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Your reservation can be charged to:

MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 46. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

THE ESALEN CATALOG

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

Facilitator's copy

The Esalen Catalog

January – June 1984

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Contents

Volume XXIII, Number 1

Audio Recordings 44–45
Big Sur Wilderness Experience 10–11
Biographical Information 39–42
Catalog Subscription Information 43
Esalen Seminars 13–32
Experiencing Esalen 10
Experiencing Esalen: The Body 10
Food for Thought: Planning For Esalen's Future

Esalen Concept Plan 4–5
The Soviet Studies Program 6
Invited Conferences at Esalen 7–8
Research, Education, and the Arts at Esalen 8–9

Friends of Esalen 43
General Information 46
Gestalt Practice 10
Media Center 45
Medical Programs 38
Reservations Form 47
Scholarship Information 11
Special Programs 36
Ways of Being at Esalen 10–11
Wilderness Programs 37–38
Winter Study Programs 33–35
Work Study Program and Application 12

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920
Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 9 am to 3 pm
Wednesday 9 am to 12 Noon
Friday 9 am to 8 pm
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 pm

Catalog Editor: Heather Tarnas
Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Rogers
Architectural Renderings: Skidmore, Owings, and Merrill

©1984 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

esalen institute

Dear Friend,

For twenty-two years, we have used the income from our programs to maintain the Esalen buildings and grounds, its staff, and its outreach programs. During that time we received (and asked for) only limited support from contributions, and have managed to sustain the enterprise surprisingly well.

New demands, however, have arisen and our facilities require improvement and expansion. The winter storm damage necessitated repairs, the costs of which are draining our reserves.

At the same time, we find an increasing opportunity to improve our research, our programs, and our services. Described in the following pages are the various conferences and projects which we believe are of importance for our developing view of human potential. We are sponsoring the participation of national and international leaders, practitioners, and scholars who will benefit professionally from this work and who will teach others both here and abroad.

Esalen will always be a center for individual growth and development. But to ensure that our work is transferred to the larger national and international front, we need your assistance.

If you would like to support the building and program initiatives outlined in this brochure, please consider any contribution you can make, and enclose it in the Esalen Catalog Subscription Envelope on page 24. Your funding now can help ensure that Esalen's work will continue to develop at this time when it may be most valuable.

We thank you for your interest and your help.

Sincerely,

Michael Murphy

Richard Price

Richard Price

big sur, california 93920 • phone: (408) 667-2335

Planning for Esalen's Future

Esalen was hard hit by the winter storms of 1983. Trees were toppled, sleeping units and meeting rooms were damaged, and the baths were threatened. Mudslides on Highway 1 cut Esalen off from the outside world, stopping the flow of regular workshops. But if crises bring difficulties, they also bring opportunities: the storm damage set into motion a process that would create a comprehensive plan for the future use of the Esalen property.

To set the scene: For more than a year, Esalen's managers, staff, and trustees had been taking new initiatives in many areas of the Institute's operation. These included an increased emphasis on invited conferences, professional development programs for educators and counselors, a Soviet Studies program, a scholars in residence program, and seminars to examine the strengths and weaknesses of various approaches to human development (see pages 7-11). These initiatives were sometimes expensive and depended upon subsidies from Esalen's operating surplus. On top of these demands, we were now faced with unexpected costs to repair our facilities and protect against further storm losses. To compound the problem, Esalen's financial resources had been stretched to the limit by the interruption of regular seminars.

These conditions, as difficult as they were, forced us to think ahead—reaffirm our new program initiatives—and move on. We decided that by drafting a master plan at this time we would not only deal with the needed repairs but would develop facilities to provide better support for the programs we would offer in the future, thereby setting an imaginative course for Esalen in the years ahead.

A neighbor of Esalen, the renowned architect/conservationist, Nathaniel Owings volunteered to assist us in developing a master plan for our property which would meet our future facility requirements with sensitivity to the magnificent environment we all treasure. Owings, who is chairman of the Big Sur Land Trust, has been an outspoken protector of the land, particularly the Big Sur area to which he has made a lifetime commitment. He will consult with us on our future planning, which will be done by Howard McKee of Skidmore, Owings, and Merrill, an architect and planner Owings recommended as the best man for the job.

The sketches on these pages represent the first stage of McKee's work. Drawings of proposed buildings and landscape changes will appear in later issues. Here, briefly, are some of the chief elements of the development plan:

* Centers for special studies will be built on properties separate from the main Big Sur facility, beginning with the expansion of Esalen's South Coast Center at Burns Creek. The South Coast Center will house staff and work scholars, and will provide meeting rooms for the work scholar program. A Soviet Studies Center will eventually be created on a separate site to house Soviet and American scholars.
* The number and quality of Esalen meetings rooms will be increased, and a small auditorium built for concerts and lectures. This improvement of meeting spaces will allow for new program formats.
* All the sleeping accommodations will be upgraded in quality. More than half the present units will be replaced, beginning with the units overlooking the baths, which Esalen's soil engineers have recommended not be used during the winter rainy season.
* The dining room will be enlarged to provide better access and a more tranquil atmosphere.
* The hot baths will eventually be replaced and redesigned. In addition we intend to create a facility for classes in various types of body work with more spacious and attractive rooms for massage and deep tissue work.
* A central aspect of the overall design strategy is to enhance the retreat ambience on Esalen's main property by devoting it more completely to seminarians. This would be accomplished by relocating the service functions to property north of Hot Springs Creek.
* The garden, farm, and grounds, which are among the most attractive features of Esalen today will be improved and expanded.
* Parking will be removed from the main residential and pedestrian areas. It will be relocated to landscaped areas adjacent to the primary development.

After 21 years Esalen continues to offer a simple message: there are better ways for individuals and groups to relate, to deal with conflicts, and to go on learning and changing constructively through all of life. The most exciting frontier involves the exploration which touches individuals, groups, and nations, and has as its ultimate goals: peace, social justice, the development of human potential, and an increase in harmony among all peoples. Esalen's plans for the future are dedicated to this exploration, these goals.

The goal of the master plan is to heighten one's experience of Esalen by providing a conscious sense of arrival, clear orientation, a sense of privacy where appropriate, and a sense of sharing. The sharing extends to other individuals, groups, the community, and to nature. Contact is made with nature through the landscape, the enhancement of views, places that are quiet, and spaces that provoke particular moods.

SITE ORGANIZATION

This plan illustrates the overall organization of the main grounds. Visitors arrive at a central gatehouse which provides security, directs visitors, and is a communications center for all of Esalen.

Immediately adjacent is a facility that provides guest registration, visitor information, book sales, and houses administrative offices. Two residential complexes are organized around central quadrangles which provide intimately scaled private spaces for the respective residents. Parking is consolidated on the site and removed from pedestrian areas. The lodge is the central meeting place which benefits from a large commons that includes the lawn, garden, and volleyball court. Baths are remotely located and are organized to serve both the massage group and the hot springs bather.

BIG HOUSE
INVITED SCHOLAR HOUSING
HOUSING
GARDEN SUPPLIES
LAUNDRY
MEETING RMS.

POOL LODGE COMMONS
MEETING ROOMS OFFICES
REGISTRATION
BOOKSTORE
QUAD
PARKING
HOUSING
HOUSING QUAD I GATEHOUSE
HOUSING
HOUSIN
HIGHWAY 1

The Soviet Studies Program

Since 1979, Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange has sponsored visits by Soviet scholars to the United States, visits by Americans to the Soviet Union, seminars and symposia exploring various aspects of Soviet-American relations, and special projects such as live interactive satellite link-ups between the two countries. Encouraged by the program's success in developing working relations between Soviet and American professionals, the Esalen trustees and managers have established the Esalen Soviet Studies Program, and intend to build a permanent center for Soviet studies in Big Sur, California.

The program has three major objectives: to broaden American knowledge of Soviet culture; to explore those elements in American life that make accord with the Soviet Union difficult; and to develop non-governmental, or "track two," exchanges between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. In pursuit of these goals, the program sponsors seminars led by American and Soviet scholars, organizes public symposia and private conferences, sponsors residencies at Big Sur for scholars of Soviet-American relations, and is developing a publishing program of books and monographs on Soviet studies.

In these projects, the program brings together scholars from many disciplines in hopes of finding fresh perspectives on Soviet culture and problems of East-West accord; it invites to its discussions amateurs in non-governmental diplomacy who have something valuable to contribute; and it brings insights from depth psychology, cultural anthropology, and the arts to bear upon its subject matter. By encouraging a broader understanding of human relations and human potential, the program hopes to create workable alternatives to adversary relationships between nations. If appropriate, its studies will be disseminated through the media and the arts as well as through scholarly publications.

Elements of the Program

Individual Exchanges

The heart of the Esalen program is the exchange of individual Soviet and American leaders in the scientific, political, and artistic communities. Out of the personal relationships that develop from these exchanges, larger projects are emerging to influence a wider audience.

Scholars in Residence

The program sponsors residencies at Big Sur for scholars and students of Soviet culture and Soviet-American relations. These last for various lengths of time, according to the program participants' needs and schedules, following a pattern for such residencies established at Esalen for scholars in other fields. The program enables its participants, who come from both the U.S. and U.S.S.R. to work on books and meet with colleagues and students. The format encourages intensive private discussions between Soviets and Americans on subjects of common interest.

Satellite Link-Ups

On Labor Day weekend, 1982, James Hickman, director of the Esalen Exchange, and Richard Lukens of UNUSON Corporation, arranged two live satellite link-ups between Moscow and the US '82 Festival in Southern California. Soviet and American musical groups played live via satellite to young audiences on both sides of the world, who were able to see and hear each other as well as the musicians. This was the first communication of its kind. On Memorial Day weekend, 1983, there were two more satellite link-ups between Moscow and the second US Festival.

Health Promotion Project

Dulce Murphy, a founder of the Exchange, is establishing contacts with various Soviet scientific and educational institutions to promote Soviet-American cooperation in the fields of wellness, disease prevention, and holistic health. Participating American professional organizations include the California Governor's Council on Wellness and Physical Fitness. Topics for this exchange will include preventive medical care, nutrition, stress reduction, and physical fitness.

Astronaut/Cosmonaut Dialogues

Former astronaut Rusty Schweikart went to Moscow in July, 1982, to discuss with cosmonauts their interest in regular meetings. In April, 1983, Hickman accompanied Schweikart and astronauts Michael Collins and Edgar Mitchell to Moscow to meet with several Soviet cosmonauts. Other meetings are planned for the future.

Farm and Garden Exchange

Esalen has provided information on urban farming and intensive organic gardening to Soviet agricultural specialists, several of whom will visit the United States in August, 1984. They will participate in Esalen's Horticulture Program and visit urban farming communities on both the east and west coasts, to identify methods and technologies applicable to Soviet agricultural needs. In 1985, the program will send three American specialists to study such techniques in the U.S.S.R.

Cooperative Ventures with Other Institutes and Professional Organizations

These have emerged from a variety of projects and individual exchanges. For example, in preparation for their April, 1983 U.S.S.R. visit, three American astronauts attended briefing sesions at the W. Averell Harriman Institute for Advanced Study of the Soviet Union. Future meetings are planned.

Public Seminars and Educational Conferences

Of the 400 seminars Esalen sponsors each year at its Big Sur facility, an increasing number will be devoted to explorations of Soviet culture and Soviet-American relations. Some of these will be led by American scholars, some by Soviet scholars, and some will be organized around specific topics. Among the leaders of these programs in 1983-84 will be Arthur Cox, a specialist on arms control; Vera Dunham, a scholar of contemporary Soviet literature; Yuri Zamoshkin, a political philosopher from the Soviet Academy of Sciences; Sam Keen, a philosopher exploring the psychology of international conflict; Robert Bathurst, a scholar of Soviet political culture; and James Hickman, director of the Esalen Soviet Studies Program.

Publishing

The program will arrange for the publication of journal articles, books, and monographs. Some of these will be authored by scholars in residence at the center, others by scholars located elsewhere.

USE AREAS

The overall plan designates compatible activities for the various sub areas of the property. The zones are:

Seminarian — includes the lodge, housing, meeting rooms, and bath facilities. This area is oriented to the needs of the short term visitor. It also houses centralized service functions such as the gatehouse, guest registration, office administration, laundry, and food services.

Semi-permanent/invited scholar — an area devoted to permanent or semi-permanent residents.

Gazebo/experimental — a more informal area of the site devoted to the Gazebo School and other experimental uses.

Support — a zone devoted to farm, maintenance, shops, and parking.

LANDSCAPE CONCEPT

Landscaping is largely natural and helps define spaces, frame views and complement the existing topography. The principles are:

- To reinforce/preserve existing tree formations.
- To reinforce separation of functions by additional mass planting.
- To frame views and connect spaces by selective thinning.
- To preserve lawn areas and establish new lawn and low shrub areas in community "quad" spaces.
- To preserve and expand existing terraced land formations.

PARKING
MAINTENANCE BARN
BO SCHOOL
PARKING

Invited Conferences at Esalen

These conferences are becoming an important part of the Esalen program. They are convened and chaired by one or two individuals interested in a particular topic, and are not open to the public. The conferences listed below either have become or will become annual events in which a small core group meets each year with new participants invited to present material relevant to the ongoing themes of the discussions.

Shamanic Practice

This conference, which meets for the first time in February, 1984, will bring together scholars of shamanic practice from around the world for an examination and reappraisal of shamanism as an enduring, vital cross-cultural tradition. The conference will be hosted by Dr. Michael Harner, professor of anthropology at the New School for Social Research and chair of the National Academy of Sciences committee on anthropology.

The Nature of Reality

February 1984 marks the ninth year that the theoretical physicists Nick Herbert and Saul-Paul Sirag have brought together a small number of scientists interested in the reality question in quantum theory. Though quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's Theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of time and space. Thus, either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary Newtonian physics) to believe. The influence of Bell's Theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it may have a revolutionary impact on physical theory, like the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity.

Most of the participants at this annual conference share an appreciation of the central role that Bell's Theorem plays in any discussion of the nature of quantum reality. A good part of the work has been to simplify, clarify, and dissect in minute detail the structure of this theorem. Foremost in these discussions is Henry Stapp's version of Bell's Theorem that relies on a bare minimum of assumptions. Much of the discussion among participants has focused on trying to talk about wholeness through such varied tongues as quantum logic (Finkelstein, Chernavska), generalized mechanics (Abraham), recursive functions (White, Etter), multidimensional geometries (Sirag, Rauscher), and non-measurable set theory (Pitowski, Bub). Special topics of discussion have included: experimental tests of Bell's Inequality (Clauser, Eberhard, Bartell), how interaction with the environment may confer reality on quantum systems (Zeh), and the possibility of superliminal communication via quantum connectedness (Herbert). The meetings strive ultimately for a communicable vision of quantum reality, and several imaginative ways of visualizing this reality have been presented by Herbert and Weiss.

The generosity of Charles Brandon and the Reality Foundation have made it possible to pay travel expenses of scientists from Europe to attend the seminar. The Reality Foundation has also awarded the first "Reality Prize" to John Bell and John Clauser for their work in formulating and experimentally verifying Bell's Theorem.

Soviet-American Relations

The sixth semi-annual conference on Soviet-American relations, co-chaired by James Hickman, director of Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange, and Esalen co-founder, Michael Murphy, will be held in February, 1984. Among topics to be discussed: similarities between cultural change in the United States and the Soviet Union; stereotypes and blindspots each nation has about the other; possibilities for non-governmental, "track-two" diplomacy; and resistances in both nations to greater understanding and accord.

Appropriate Governance

February 1984 marks the third annual conference exploring the nature of appropriate governance for nations and groups that require both autonomy and ever-increasing interdependence. Conceived and chaired by social psychologist and futures planner Donald Michael, this conference is attempting to formulate a theoretical base for social technologies based on new ways of designing governance processes in highly turbulent societies.

"It is true," Michael remarks, "that everything is connected to everything else. But it is also true that, increasingly, everything gets in the way of everything else. In other words, the conventional values and means for reliably conducting local, national, and planetary tasks are becoming less and less effective. Our group of thinkers and planners is working with these questions: What might be the structures and values for insuring reliable, responsible, institutional and personal behavior in the world's governance processes? What might be the procedures and norms for changing these values and structures at the local or global level?"

Microphysics

In April, 1984, Dr. David Finkelstein, professor of physics at Georgia Institute of Technology, will convene a meeting to explore frontiers of fundamental thinking in physics, using the principles of relativity, quantum theory, and gauge theory. Reports Dr. Finkelstein: "Some of the things that we used to think varied continuously and smoothly, actually change in irreducible jumps or 'quanta,' according to quantum theory. For example, there are quanta of spin and electric charge. But other quantities, such as time, still vary smoothly in the present theory. It is likely that the process of 'quantization' is still incomplete. There may be a quantum of time too, and this is what we will be exploring."

The Scientific Investigation of Subtle Energies

In May, 1983, George Leonard convened a gathering of seven scientists to report on their investigations into "subtle energies." The conferees focused on three main subject areas: psychokinesis, or the power of mind to influence physical objects at a distance; the extraordinary control of bodily states through intentionality; and the ability of two or more people to synchronize or entrain such physiological functions as brainwaves.

Fred Lorenz of the University of California at Davis reported on experiments in which some Energy Training students, simply by following instructions to "move ki" to the right or left hands, were able to shift dominance of skin electrical potential level (SPL) from one hand to the other. Charles Tart, also of UC Davis, surveyed the best current work in psychokinesis in the U.S. and Europe. Chris Cullander described his work at UC Berkeley in making extremely accurate measurements of variation in skin electrical potential level, which revealed significant differences of SPL at traditional acupuncture points. Dr. Tod Mikuriya and Tim Scully demonstrated sophisticated computerized biofeedback equipment designed by Scully and manufactured at his Mendocino Microcomputers, Inc. Volunteers in the group were hooked up to this equipment for informal experiments which showed a marked increase in the ability of pairs of people to synchronize their brainwaves after an energy training synchronization induction.

Research, Education, and the Arts at Esalen

The conferees considered the possibility that training and induction, currently neglected in this field, might well improve the performance of experimental subjects. Plans were made to conduct further experiments using practitioners of Leonard Energy Training as subjects. A second conference is scheduled for 1984.

Frontiers of Evolution

Bringing together perspectives from the physical and biological sciences, philosophy, and the history of ideas, this symposium aims to explore a wide range of issues relating to the ongoing development of evolutionary theory. Its first meeting will be in June, 1984, chaired by Theodore Roszak, professor of history at California State University and author of Unfinished Animal, Person/Planet, and The Making of a Counter-Culture.

The Esalen Arts Symposium

In November, 1982, sixteen artists met at a conference convened by Silver Mountain Foundation/Aperture. Photographers, poets, performance artists, graphic artists, editors, critics, and curators were among the participants. The conference focused on the future of photography, identifying its problems and opportunities. It also led to several projects for the participants, and the drafting of a photographic arts manifesto. A second conference will be held July, 1984.

The Erikson Symposium on Political Psychology

In October, 1982, Esalen hosted a conference on the political psychology of the relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union. The meeting was inspired and convened by Joe Montville, a Foreign Service officer with the U.S. State Department and a founding member of the International Society of Political Psychology. Montville invited Erik Erikson, the eminent social psychoanalytic theorist, and his wife and collaborator, Joan, to bring their considerable insights into group and national motives and behavior into the context of U.S.-Soviet relations.

A second meeting, in October, 1983, gave special focus to the psycho-historical roots of the American fear of the Soviet Union, apart from the more obvious military, strategic, and political reasons for superpower competition. In planning for the third session in the fall of 1984, Montville comments: "The symposium's work has been slow and painstaking. Psycho-social-political self-analysis is a relatively new territory, and poses new challenges. Traditional political scientists have difficulty integrating the idea of group or national unconscious forces into their analyses, just as traditional psychoanalysts have been hesitant to get into political analysis. But progress is being made."

Personal Identity

In November, 1983, a conference chaired by Michael Murphy was held to discuss fundamental problems of human identity. Among the topics were: sources of identity in ordinary experience (George Leonard); the relationship between identity and the experience of various selves in cases of multiple personality (Chris Sizemore, Jay Ogilvy); the nature of the self revealed by shamanist meditation practice (Michael Harner); the relationships between personal identity and mystical experience (Michael Murphy); and the evidence for a personal identity that survives bodily death (Kenneth Ring, Carlos Alvarado, Charles Tart).

Research in Parapsychology

In November, 1983, Russell Targ and Charles Tart convened Esalen's third annual conference on research in parapsychology. The focus of the meeting was "methods of response in psi," that is, how the most successful psychics process their mental images and information to extract the psi signal from mental noise.

The 1983 conference built on developments from the previous two years. The 1981 conference on "The Physical and Psychological Nature of Time" looked into the data for precognition as it relates to new ideas in modern physics. Participants concluded that the prevailing metaphor of "time flowing like a river" was not compatible with the data from psi research and was not required by physics.

The 1982 conference contributed new ideas about the methodology of psi research, such as the effect that an experimenter's expectation has on the outcome of an experiment. Participants concluded that, as in psychotherapy, a psi experiment is unlikely to succeed if the experimenter is ambivalent about what he or she is doing.

Besides the seminars described on our regular catalogs, Esalen sponsors other activities such as the ones described below. We are listing them here because many of our future programs will build upon the work they have done.

The Ford-Esalen Project in Confluent Education

studied various approaches to affective learning from Esalen's many seminars and workshops—and from other sources—to see which ones might be appropriate for the classroom. It was funded by the Ford Foundation, sponsored by Esalen, and directed by Dr. George I. Brown, Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. It helped give birth to the Department of Confluent Education at UC, Santa Barbara, where affective and cognitive approaches are combined in school curricula and teacher training programs for grades 1 through 12. Over 100 Master's degrees and 30 Doctorates in Confluent Education have been granted through this program by the University of California, Santa Barbara.

The Schizophrenia Research Project

was conducted over a three year period with 127 young male schizophrenics at Agnews State Hospital in San Jose, California. This program, co-sponsored with the California Department of Mental Hygiene and the National Institutes of Mental Health, explored the thesis that the health of certain patients will permanently improve if their disease is not interrupted with antipsychotic chemotherapy. The results indicated that, in many instances, patients with a positive, "integrating" attitude toward their disease, who were provided with a supportive hosptial setting in which to freely express their psychotic behavior, were more likely to rebalance themselves than if they were given traditional treatment with drugs to lessen their psychotic symptoms during hospitalization.

The Esalen Horticultural Program is an educational and experimental demonstration project testing numerous approaches to intensive organic gardening. The program uses a ¾ acre intensive garden, a 4.5 acre farm, and ten acres of landscaped grounds at Esalen's Big Sur facility. It aims to supply 50-60% of the food needs for the Esalen community of 200 people while maintaining a standard of environmentally sound organic methods.

Scholars in Residence

are sponsored by Esalen at its Big Sur facility. Gregory Bateson, Joseph Campbell, Alan Watts, George Leonard, Sam Keen, Virginia Satir, Stanislav Grof, Fritz Perls, Ida Rolf, Will Schutz, and others have lived and worked at Esalen as part of this program. Recently, Esalen has established a Soviet Scholars in Residence Program. Dr. Yuri Zamoshkin, a political philosopher from the Soviet Academy of Sciences, was the first Soviet participant in residence for two weeks during November 1983.

The Research Project in Humanistic Medicine

examined various approaches to wellness and healing that were presented in Esalen seminars to see which ones might help standard medical practice. About 20 doctors were trained in a variety of these approaches; several monographs were published; and many seminars were held for the medical community to disseminate the project's findings.

The Transformation Project

begun in 1976, is studying extraordinary bodily transformations that occur in religious practice, mind assisted healing, hypnosis, biofeedback, sensory isolation, sports, yoga, shamanism, and other activities. To this end, the project is developing a computerized data base of evidence for the human organism's transformative capacities, analyzing the ways and circumstances in which high-level bodily change occurs, developing disciplines to support such change, conducting seminars, and publishing books and articles to disseminate the project's findings.

A Series of Interracial Marathon Encounters organized by Price Cobbs and George Leonard in 1967, encouraged members of various racial and ethnic groups to explore their prejudices, angers, fears, and resentments concerning racial issues. Many of the participants believed that the breakthroughs in racial understanding they achieved in the program led to a general improvement in their personal relationships, while making a contribution to the solution of a serious social problem. The series sponsored 22 weekend or week-long sessions, and stimulated other organizations to conduct similar encounter groups.

Arts Events

at Esalen have included: seven Joan Baez Folk Festivals with Simon and Garfunkel, Bob Dylan, Judy Collins, Mimi Farina, the Chambers Brothers, Lily Tomlin, and others; poetry readings with Robert Bly, Allen Ginsberg, Gary Snyder, Michael McClure, and Lawrence Ferlinghetti; concerts with Ravi Shankar, Ali Akbar Khan, George Harrison, Ringo Starr, John Cage, Robert Rauchenberg, Charles Lloyd, Paul Horn, and the Merce Cunningham Dancers. During November, 1982, Esalen hosted the 30th anniversary conference of Aperture Magazine with photographers and art critics from around the world.

The Publishing Project

of Esalen Institute and Viking Press has published seventeen books related to the topics explored at Esalen. The series was edited by Stuart Miller and included volumes by Abraham Maslow, Roberto Assagioli, George I. Brown (on Confluent Eduation), Robert Ornstein, Claudio Naranjo, Michael Murphy, Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks (on sensory awareness), and Joe K. Adams. In addition to these books, Esalen has published numerous papers and monographs through the years.

The Gazebo School

for children is an alternative approach to education created and directed by Janet Lederman, a trustee of Esalen. It is a learning environment that utilizes its natural surroundings and the inherent curiosity of children as motivators for acquiring knowledge. Children are allowed to learn at their own pace, primarily by an apprenticeship or learning-by-doing method. The Gazebo involves members of the community, particularly older members who share their knowledge with the youngsters.

The Esalen Sports Center

was established in San Francisco to explore innovative approaches to athletic training, altered states of consciousness in sports, and new games.

The Spiritual Emergency Network

directed by Dr. Stanislav Grof and Christina Grof is an international network of individuals working with new approaches to non-ordinary states of consciousness that are seen by traditional medicine as psycho-mental disease. Headquartered in Big Sur, California, the Network presently joins 6,000 individuals in crisis with facilitators in centers around the world.

Conferences and Seminars

of various kinds have been held in London, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and at Stanford University, the University of California at Berkeley and at Santa Cruz, the University of Michigan, the University of Massachusetts, and other places. Among these, there have been conferences on authoritarianism in religious and therapeutic groups, psychological projection upon the enemy in international relations, confusion between spiritual and medical ideas of human development, and on several other subjects. Esalen has co-sponsored five seminar series with the Far West Institute, from which a number of books have been published.

Ways of Being at Esalen

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose those approaches which feel most appropriate and pursue them in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 12 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Fritz Perls.

Schedule:

January 15–20	$450
January 29–February 3	$450
February 10–12	$230
March 2–11	$770
April 29–May 4	$450
May 11–13	$230
May 13–18	$450
May 25–27	$230
June 10–15	$450
June 15–17	$230

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

"Be strong then, and enter into your own body;
there you have a solid place for your feet.
Think about it carefully!
Don't go off somewhere else!"
—Kabir

We spend much of our time on "automatic pilot," oblivious to many messages from our bodies, missing opportunities to open more fully to the subtleties of sensing, to greater ranges of physical expression, to health, vitality, and the many ways of "being a body." There are various entry points to increased awareness, practices that help cultivate the countless dialects of body language. These include dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, movement theater, postural analysis, hiking, meditation, massage, and nutritional education. Experiencing Esalen: The Body draws from varying combinations of these approaches in each workshop. Emphasis is placed on developing greater freedom and variety of movement, as well as on the quality of awareness as we move. This program is designed to give participants some basic tools for continuing to develop body awareness.

Schedule:

January 1–6	$450
January 27–29	$230
June 8–10	$230
June 29–July 1	$230

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, non-coercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim and Ego, Hunger and Aggression, Fritz Perls; Tao Te Ching, Lao Tzu; The Power of Mindfulness, Nyanponika Thera; Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg, J. C. Pearce; Illusions, Richard Bach.

Schedule:

February 19–24	$450
May 6–11	$450
June 3–8	$450

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length) and weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic out-door skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration.

Schedule:

May 18-20	$230
May 27-June 1	$450
June 17-22	$450

Winter Study Programs

This year Esalen is inaugurating a new program schedule for the winter months that reflects what many seminarians and Esalen faculty members have desired for some time: the opportunity to engage in more workshops of longer duration allowing for more intensive study in specific areas. On this principle, we will be offering between January 1 and April 20 a number of seminars, from seven days to three or four weeks in length, led by both established teachers of long standing as well as some new to Esalen, and treating subjects ranging from theoretical physics and gestalt practice, psychic and shamanic studies, to dance and physical fitness. Our plan is to schedule the Winter Study Programs every winter for approximately three months, during which time the focus at Esalen will move away from the atmosphere and rhythm of the shorter weekend and five-day workshops, in favor of an educational ambience that encourages more sustained, in-depth learning experiences. Please see pages 33-35 for these workshops' descriptions.

January 1-February 5
Gestalt Practice: A Combination Seven Day Intensive and Work Study Program
Coordinated by Christine Price $1280

January 8-February 3
The Feeling Process
Janet Zuckerman & faculty $1800

January 20-February 17
Tutorial Program in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
Michael Harner $2300

February 24-March 16
Getting in Shape: Physical/Metaphysical Fitness
Jessica Moore Britt & Andrea Juhan $1600

February 26-March 23
Spiritual Emergency: Understanding and Treatment of Transpersonal Crises
Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & Rita Rohen $1800

February 26-March 23
Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change
David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff $1800

March 2-11
Experiencing Esalen: A Special Nine Day Program
(For workshop description see page 10.)
Experiencing Esalen Staff $770

March 2-11
The Body Has Its Reasons
Peter Levine $770

March 11-April 6
Massage Month Long Intensive
Esalen Massage Practitioners $1800

March 23-April 6
Human Potential Theory and Practice
John Heider $1120

March 23-April 6
Spiritual/Esoteric Practice: The Key to Intuitive and Psychic Development
Anne & Jim Armstrong $1120

March 23-April 13
Continuum Dance Meditation Intensive: Waves and Whispers
Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper $1575

April 1-13
Post Modern Physics
David Finkelstein $960

April 6-13
The Enneagram: A Tool for Identifying and Developing Intuition
Helen Palmer $680

April 6-27
Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul
Jack Rosenberg $1575

April 13-20
Hiking and Gestalt Practice
Steven Harper & Richard Price $680

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available June 15 and September 15 or for weekend programs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Accreditation

Many formal education institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

David Nelson

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to community labor needs and work assignments are made according to those requirements.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a specific interest section which focuses primarily on one type of growth practice, such as gestalt and Reichian work, massage and body work, etc.

The schedule of specific interest programs planned thus far for 1984 includes:

January 1–February 5: A five week combination workshop and work study program focusing on gestalt practice and related approaches, coordinated by Christine Price. The first week will be a seven day intensive workshop (see Gestalt Practice page 10, for workshop description). During the following four weeks participants will continue the program as work scholars. For more information see Winter Study Programs, page 34.

February 5–April 29: A three month program of Esalen deep tissue work, coordinated by John McKeithen, and gestalt practice, coordinated by Richard Price. The emphasis will be on teaching the ten sessions of the deep tissue series. There will also be related classes in anatomy, group process, and gestalt. For a special application, please write c/o John McKeithen, Esalen.

April 29–July 22: The Esalen massage practitioners will be offering a three month program in body work, with intensive instruction in massage, movement, and self-care. In March, 1983, the Esalen massage practitioners began the application process for California state approved certification for workshop participants. Please call for further information.

July 22–September 16: A two month program focusing on gestalt practice, coordinated by Seymour Carter. Recommended reading: Neurosis and Human Growth, Karen Horney.

November 11–December 9: A one month program coordinated by Seymour Carter. See July 22-September 16 above for details.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing®, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

The 28 day Work Study Program costs $600 for the first month. A $300 deposit in U.S. currency is required with your application. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month, at a cost of $550, or a third month at a cost of $500 depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program,
Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.
Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt.

Available dates: January 8–February 5; February 5–March 4; March 4–April 1; April 1–April 29; April 29–May 27; May 27–June 24; June 24–July 22; July 22–August 19; August 19–September 16; September 16–October 14; October 14–November 11; November 11–December 9; etc.

Application to the Work Study Program

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐

I prefer the specific interest program: yes ☐ no ☐ in _____ (subject)

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability.

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

If you have emergency medical skills, (M.D., E.M.T. or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay, please check here. ☐

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles, group leaders, and dates: _____

_____

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include any skills you may have available.

Esalen Seminars

Week of January 1-6

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $450

The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing for the Health Professional

Jack Downing & Murray Korngold

The "art" of healing is seldom taught as a rational discipline. We propose that empathy between care-giver and care-receiver can form the base for the "art" of healing; that conscious empathy can be developed through the faculty of intuition, and that this skill provides a matrix for joining effective healing to scientific knowledge. The health professional becomes a healer. Healing demands the deepest intent from the professional; the balance between professionalism and personal feelings must be adjusted in order to enhance the healing process. Key to this is the willingness to sense and respond to subtle body cues, both in oneself and the patient. The course will provide lecture and practical experience on empathy development and application to clinical situations. C. E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $450

Perceptual Body

Rosemary Feitis & R. Louis Schultz

Perceptual body was created by three advanced Rolf® practitioners as a pre-Rolfing® training. The workshop is a new way of seeing the body, using eyes, ears, nose, throat, hands, and hara. (The hara is an energy center located two fingers below the navel. It is the basic moving center of the body, known as the tan t'ien in Zen practice.) The emphasis is on non-linear approaches and unorthodox methods of viewing/integrating the body image (yours and others), through living anatomy, palpation, and Rolf®-movement. This introduction to a new kind of perception is a distillation of the original fourteen day course. $450

Weekend of January 6-8

Inside/Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies,

Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

Paul and Chungliang will celebrate and share with us their joyous collaboration in nature, music, dance, t'ai chi, jazz, and China experiences.

Recommended reading and listening: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon); Paul Horn's Albums: Inside, Nexus, and Dream Machine. $250

Maps of Consciousness

Rosemary Feitis & Timothy O'Reilly

Have you ever had a powerful spiritual experience, a feeling or an insight, that trickled away because you didn't know how to stay with it or what to do next? Such a moment points out the need for maps of consciousness which place experiences in context and which show the way through unknown territories of the body, mind, and spirit to the next point of completion.

This workshop will teach fundamentals of consciousness mapping including completing states by finding the balance between being, energy, understanding, and identity as well as the relationship between surrender and decision-making. $230

Week of January 8-13

Inside / Living Tao: Fluting and T'ai Chi Dancing with Whales, Butterflies,

Paul Horn & Chungliang Al Huang

For workshop description see January 6-8. $470

Advanced Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & George King

This workshop will include morning and afternoon practice sessions with various instructors, yoga, movement, evening lectures and discussions, and demonstrations of specific practices designed to increase the range of conditions with which participants can deal effectively. The following concerns will receive emphasis: how to sustain one's energy through a day of treatments; how to clear negative energy released by the client; how to use weight and leverage. As one massages more and more deeply, emotional changes can be triggered by the unravelling of blocked muscular energy. As these emotions present themselves, they will provide group members with some first hand practice in productive ways to move through them.

The format and pace of this course will presume some previous massage experience—at least an introductory five day intensive or its equivalent. $450

January 8-February 3

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman & Hareesh with Deborah Anne Medow

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 33. $1800

Weekend of January 13-15

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will look at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$230 per participant

Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis

Chungliang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Celebrating with Chungliang's book, "offering Chinese 'dim sum' (a light touch of heart) profundities, t'ai chi dancing (quantum hop), laughter, poetry and I Ching in Chinese brush calligraphy, music of J. S. Bach and JAZZ-Z-Z-ZEN and TAO and OZ of living."

Recommended reading: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press); with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $230

Week of January 15–20

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Self Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work. $450

The Spiritual Path: Promises and Pitfalls

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This seminar will combine observations from modern consciousness research with various traditional practices to explore the process of spiritual awakening. The participants will have the opportunity to confront transpersonal areas within themselves, using "holonomic integration," a method developed by the workshop leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. Special attention will be paid to the understanding and management of "spiritual emergencies"—transpersonal crises which can occur in the context of various spiritual practices or spontaneous spiritual awakening. $450

Weekend of January 20–22

Weekend Massage Intensive

Deane Juhan & George King

In this introductory seminar participants will learn to give a competent full-body massage. The emphasis will be on developing a soothing and penetrating contact, on sustaining that contact to create a relaxing and integrating experience, and on centering physical and mental energies while working. The intent of the seminar is to introduce massage as a practical approach to developing greater sensory awareness and bringing relief from stress. $230

See Yourself Release

Gael Switzer & Wendy Oser

This workshop seeks to expand self-image and promote a freer, more graceful body. We will use facilitated video feedback and integrated movement education to gently guide you toward releasing patterns of holding that contribute to tension, pain, and awkwardness, and a limited view of yourself. You may experience subtle yet powerful shifts, first in ordinary activities (breathing, walking, sitting), then in more sophisticated areas such as how you use your body in work, play, or any other movement discipline. You will be taught skills that can continue to enhance your elegance and allow you to see yourself with greater objectivity and compassion. $230

January 20–27

Shamanic Healing, Journeying, and the Afterlife Experience: Basic and Intermediate Shamanic Practice

Michael Harner, assisted by Sandra Harner

Shamanism is an ancient human strategy for personal learning and acting on that learning, especially for well-being and healing. In this experiential workshop the participants will practice the methods of the shaman (a type of medicine man or woman), to see and to activate power to resist illness and maintain personal health. With the aid of traditional sonic-driving and dancing methods, the group will engage in archetypal exercises and rituals practiced by North and South American Indian shamans to awaken dormant human capabilities and forgotten connections with the powers of nature. Practice will include shamanic journeys to both the Lower- and Upperworlds for knowledge and power, work with animal and plant powers, divination, clairvoyance, and shamanic methods of healing, including the extraction of spiritual pain and illness. There will be an introduction to the Ghost Dance method and to shamanic ways of exploring the afterlife experience. Participants will be taught shamanic methods of helping the terminally ill and their families, and the work of the shaman as psychopomp or conductor of souls.

This rare seven day workshop is both for beginners and for those who have previously taken a workshop with Michael Harner.

It is recommended that participants read beforehand Michael Harner's book, The Way of the Shaman: a Guide to Power and Healing (Bantam; also Harper & Row), and bring a notebook and pen to preserve their experiences for their own shamanic development. They are also invited to bring drums and rattles. $680

January 20–February 17

Tutorial Program in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 33. $2300

Week of January 22–27

A Healthier Way To Goal Achievement

Neil Fiore

Neil Fiore writes, "As a former cancer patient I have used my training in psychology and hypnosis to cope with the stresses of my disease and its medical treatment. Since then I have altered my lifestyle and have worked with patients and caregivers on the maintenance of self-esteem in the face of uncontrollable stressors, active participation in one's own healthcare, and on systems for creatively and joyfully engaging in the challenges of life. It is my belief that the will to live is kept robust when one sees that life, even following a traumatic event, can be lived with great effectiveness and less distress.

"The purpose of this workshop is to teach you how to work in harmony with the needs and inner wisdom of your mind and body. We will draw on elements from stress management, the hypnotic approaches of Dr. Milton H. Erickson, and cognitive-behavior methods to teach the identification of internal dialogue and beliefs that elicit the stress response, rapid trance induction for focusing on tasks and overcoming blocks, and methods for quickly recovering from set-backs while refocusing on the task at hand." This workshop may be of particular interest to both health-care professionals and individuals with stress-related illnesses. C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 38. $450

Gestalt Process for Daily Living

Paul Rebillot

Paul writes: "My purpose for this workshop is to teach basic gestalt theory in such a way as to make it immediately accessible and practical for day to day living. Frequently in conversation emotional material emerges that interferes with the here-and-now contact people are making. Friends and couples, as well as individuals, can learn to use gestalt tools to facilitate one another's, or their own, emotional work whenever the material comes up—without having to wait until the next formal session.

"Participants will be taught how to take responsibility for their own feelings and the expression of those feelings and how to find the appropriate moment and situation for that expression.

"Dance, theater games, drama, ritual, and chanting will be used to create experiences that will communicate the concepts of gestalt more thoroughly.

"I will also work with people individually and facilitate group members working with each other in small groups and dyads." $450

Weekend of January 27–29

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Joyce Rogers

Love, Power, and Relationship

Harry Sloan

Power without love and love without power create imbalance within the self and in relationships. The capacity to be both sensitive and strong, caring and independent, enhances the ability to relate in a balanced and meaningful way. The development of these basic qualities is unique for each of us, and often reflects our "growing edge" in relating. This weekend will be a time to explore the strengths and limitations within our relational patterns. Our purpose together will be to become aware of our next steps toward more fulfilling and joyful relationships. $230

The Power of the Holy Dragon Today

Gioia Timpanelli

The dragon has been a vivid and powerful image in many of the world's mythologies, legends, and household stories (fairytales). As such, its strong energy has had a major influence on both the inner and outer lives of individuals in the past.

In this seminar, Gioia will discuss specific "dragon stories" to define and describe this energy and to help us understand its effect on our lives today. Themes to be discussed include heroines, heroes, and dragons; the dragon in the world today; the holy and generative forces of the "first reptile"; divine dragonwomen and men; dragons and virgins; and dragons and jewels.

Seminar participants will hear the stories which will provide the oral text for the weekend workshop. Slides of Eastern and Western dragon images will be shown and discussed. Participants are asked to know one myth, legend, or household tale in which a dragon appears as a central character. $230

Week of January 29–February 3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."
—M.C. Richards, Centering.

Stress related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf® -movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $450

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

This is a weekend of intense body work, structured for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which is reflected in the body as armor, tension, stress, and a lack of spontaneity. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released and more positive feelings of joy, love, trust, and pleasure can be experienced more fully.

A most important feature of the workshop is the individual Radix®-Reichian intensive, done in a safe, supportive environment. By also using dreamwork, hypnosis, chiropractic, bioenergetics, massage, dance, and group interaction as one lets go/moves on, a new capacity for living can emerge. $450

Weekend of February 3–5

Introducing Hands-On Computer at Esalen

Tom Taussig & Wendy Oser

"Hands on at Esalen" no longer refers exclusively to the many body work practices available at Esalen. It also means that during this weekend seminar, participants will be introduced to the potentials of the home computer revolution. Specifically, participants can expect to be taught the fundamentals of these computer processes: word processing; text entry and editing; and file manipulation, including copying, storing, retrieving, and printing your work.

This seminar is designed for persons with no hands-on computer experience, for potential computer whizzes of all ages, backgrounds, and educational levels. In fact, one purpose of the workshop is to dispel the common notion about computers, expressed by a New York computer mogul: "If you were born before 1965, boy, you're going to be out of it." ("Here Come the Microkids," Time, May 3, 1982.) If anything, the evidence is to the contrary; it appears that most people are quick computer learners, depending on their goals and intentions. The leaders wish to show that far from being miraculous, magical, or demonic, home computers are simply a valuable tool for creating and producing with greater ease and efficiency.

Bring a current project to work with: a letter, journal, chapter of your book, or dissertation. Bring your partner and learn the "intimacies of software" together. Most of all, bring an open mind and a willingness to learn something new. Come prepared to dissipate stress related to your written and organizational work—as well as to your attitude toward computers. By registering 30 days in advance, you can be assured of the use of a portable Osborne computer throughout the workshop. $230

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Saul-Paul Sirag

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's Theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar than we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's Theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation. $230

"Songs of Innocence . . ." with Nancy Kaye Lunney

Medical Self-Care: New Directions in Patient Education

David Sobel

A new strategy is needed to address current health problems—one which acknowledges the critical importance of individual lifestyle and behavior and equips people to become active agents in their own health-care. Lay people and self-help groups are increasingly being recognized as the primary resource in the health-care system. Health professionals are entering into partnerships with patients in which traditionally passive patients are encouraged to take an active, responsible, and effective role in their health-care. This course will explore the importance of lay people in self-diagnosis, self-treatment, and health promotion. The emphasis will be on how health professionals can learn practical ways to teach self-care skills to patients. Topics will include: the role of lifestyle and individual behavior in health; self-diagnostic tests and skills; self-treatment strategies; self-help and mutual aid groups; use of the media to promote public health education; restructuring periodic health examinations; and how to overcome barriers to effective self-care. The course is intended to assist health professionals gain understanding and skills in self-care education. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 38.

$230

Self-Portrait: A Performance Workshop for Non-Performers

Paul Rebillot & Benj Langdon

Have you ever secretly wished you could see yourself on television? What kind of show would you have? Would you like to be a talk show host or guest, comedian, soap-star, newscastor, political analyst, or something uniquely different—especially you? In this workshop we would like to explore with you the possibility of capturing your uniqueness with the video-camera. You don't have to know in advance what you're going to do; however, if there is something you would like to bring, a musical instrument, costumes, a poem or a song, feel free to do so. The focus will be on spontaneity in front of the camera. A willingness to look at yourself in a new way, doing what you do anyway, is all that is necessary.

Theater games, gestalt process, as well as exercises to help ease anxiety in front of the group and the camera will be an essential part of the preparation for the performance. Each participant will prepare a "self-portrait" for video, produce it and review it in the course of the weekend. $230

Week of February 5–10

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within.

Some of the areas to be touched upon this week include: recognizing and learning to release tensions which lock emotions in the body; ways of contacting and allowing unexpressed sadness and pain, to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; practices for expressing and releasing anger constructively, which may open the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; learning about the nature of fear—moving toward greater trust of self and others. Paying special attention to the mental processes that shape the emotional and physical body, participants will be shown ways to trust their body's responsiveness and inner direction.

This workshop will utilize Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, vision improvement, massage, dance, meditation, and various other approaches. $450

Fluidity of Being: Rolf®-Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body"—James Joyce

Elisa writes, "This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used."

$450

Weekend of February 10–12

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $230

The Soviet Union Today: Clichés or Questions

Vera Dunham

Vera writes, "Truth—whatever that means—about the Soviet Union today is obscured by ignorance, indifference, and preconceived notions in the West. It is no less distorted by dogmatic clichés and cant endemic to the official Soviet propaganda machinery.

"This seminar will explore several important social issues as they are revealed in Soviet literature, and discuss them in a special way, namely, by pointing out what we do not know about them as outsiders. What I propose to do, therefore, is to identify some pertinent questions about Soviet life without fretting about neatly packaged answers. Awareness of uncertainties and problems of perception is mandatory for objectivity. One should know what one does not know. Examples: Has social stratification been increasingly more divisive? What is Soviet ethnic pluralism? Is there social mobility? Is the family still strong? Is the Soviet future what it used to be?" $230

Hypnosis and Parapsychology

Lee Pulos

All participants will be taught to experience beginning and advanced methods of self-hypnosis. There will be a number of opportunities throughout the workshop to practice hypnosis for personal habit changes and to learn how to use hypnotic uncovering practices such as automatic writing and ideo-motor questioning. In addition to brief lecturettes explaining and demystifying hypnosis, the workshop will include exploratory use of hypnosis as a bridge to other realities. Trance states for opening up psychic and telepathic channels can be experienced and these may lead into turning one's visions inward to the possibility of multiple dimensions and existences. A feature of the workshop will be to teach how to use hypnosis for health maintenance. $230

Week of February 12–17

Five Day Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Peggy Morrison Horan

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tension, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $450

The Foundations of Body Image

Andrea & Deane Juhan

This is a course for the improvement of your relationship with the body—your own and those you contact personally and professionally. Each major area of the body will be studied and experienced in turn. The sessions allotted for each area will include: slides and discussion to familiarize the group with the basic anatomical structures; specific stretches and exercises to isolate the muscles and joints in question; movement, dance, and visualization to explore the psychological dimensions of each body part; instruction in massage methods designed to locate and alleviate common problems.

The intent is to provide enough concrete experience for each participant to feel a change for the better in self image; to provide enough discussion to understand how the improvements occurred and how they may be sustained; and, particularly, to help you contact your images of your physical self—the body you do have, the body you think you have, and the body you could have. $450

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of the self-defeating patterns of the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $450

Weekend of February 17–19

A Course in Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feelings of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self-worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $230

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of "holonomic integration," developed by the workshop leaders, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the entire spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be in the roles of experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $230

Astrology: A Map of the Psyche

Robert Hand

Carl Jung once stated that astrology contained within its teachings the sum total of the psychological knowledge of the ancients. The point of this workshop will be to show the validity of this statement expressed in modern terms.

Many people have tried to make astrology fit into various systems of modern psychology. Here we will explore the extent to which astrology is, in itself, a complete system of psychology, which makes its own statements about human nature, and which suggests rather surprising consequences for ideas of human life and behavior.

Little or no previous knowledge of astrology will be required in this workshop. We will be concerned largely with the symbolism and its psychological import, not especially with the techniques of horoscope analysis. Any material of a technical nature that is needed in the workshop will be introduced as we go along. $230

Polarity Massage

Bill Liles & Deborah Anne Medow

The Esalen mineral baths will be the classroom for exploring and learning by experience the basic concepts of polarity body work through the medium of massage. Emphasis will be on the dynamics of living anatomy and polarity energy balancing methods as implemented in the course of a complete, full-body massage. $230

Week of February 19–24

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Quest for the Inner Man and the Inner Woman

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes, "My study of Carl Jung's Psychology of the Transference stimulated me to look into the concept of the alchemical marriage as a process of owning and uniting the various archetypal aspects of ourselves. By exploring my own polarities, I saw how they affect the organization of my personality. By becoming aware of four aspects of myself, the negative and positive man, and the negative and positive woman, I discovered when I am being authentic with others and when I am not. All four must live together within me if I am to experience my wholeness.

"Consequently, I created a process in which people, by developing these roles, can discover how they liberate or how they confuse relationship. By playing out these roles and having fun with them, they become options rather than determinations.

"At the climax of this workshop, participants design and act out a ritual of joining together, a wedding celebration whereby they create the possibility of these four aspects actually uniting within themselves, awakening the seed of individuation." $450

Educating the Genius Within—The Feldenkrais Method

Harriet Goslins

"By my body's actions . . . teach my mind."
—Shakespeare

The habitual way you sit, stand, or move reflects patterns that are "wired-in" to your nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By re-educating the brain/muscle connection, restrictions in your movement are freed, freeing also the life-time habits that have organized around that movement.

Awareness-through-movement lessons are a relearning of the ease and fluidity you took for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or on-going stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns, necessary at the time, remain when no longer needed, outside of our awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and unnecessary limitation. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness, a more restful sleep, and a higher energy level. When you change how you hold your muscles, your entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk of injury, for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries, and for the average person who feels chronically tired and stressed and wants to learn how to take better care of his neck, shoulders, and back, to improve his posture and breathing, and to live and move with more flexibility and comfort. $450

David Nelson

Sword practice taught by George Leonard

Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage

Alan Young

This workshop will be an exploration of many aspects of spiritual healing. Starting from the belief (now shared by many orthodox physicians) that all disease, pain, and physical body malfunction is only the outward manifestation of an inner emotional, mental, or spiritual cause, the workshop will review in detail what these many causes are, how they can be uncovered in each case, and how to deal with the cause when it is known. Reasons why some people are not healed regardless of the method used (orthodox medicine, alternative treatments, or spiritual healing) will also be discussed.

The workshop will be experiential and will include exercises in which the participants may experience the energy radiating from their own body and from others. High intensity music, six different kinds of meditation, dream analysis (to seek cause and cures), and active imagination and visualization will also be included. Case histories from the instructor's own experience will be used to illustrate many of the points discussed.

The group will meet together mornings and evenings and the workshop will include individual sessions with Alan Young in the afternoons. $450

Weekend of February 24–26

Experiencing Your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities.

They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases.

Joyce Rogers

$230

Citizenship in the Solar Age: Thinking Globally, Acting Locally

Hazel Henderson

Hazel Henderson writes: "An integral aspect of personal growth and development is healthy interaction within groups. As we resolve internal fears and conflicts and achieve a greater sense of empowerment, it becomes natural to seek further challenge and wider social interaction. Abraham Maslow identified these higher, growth-oriented needs as including the desire for social harmony, justice, order, and beauty in our communities and environment. We know that we have the power to heal our own bodies and minds, and similarly, we know how to heal our fragmented social relationships. And when we honor this knowledge, action for social change can be healing and integrative, rather than "need-oriented" activism which projects one's inner conflicts onto issues and ends up in divisiveness or coercive organizing.

"This workshop explores the interface between personal growth and holistic social action. I am interested in addressing theoretical, strategic, spiritual, and practical ways of becoming effective planetary citizens. There are no hard formulas for this—we will all be learners together. Some of the themes of great interest to me are: personal growth as a prerequisite to healthy social change, and social action as a prerequisite to further personal growth; the emergence of transformational paradigms in science, literature, art, and music which suggest greater planetary awareness and global networking; the vital new role of non-governmental organizations; learning to demystify economics (economics as politics in disguise); the mass media as the nervous system of the body politic (gaining media access for citizens, groups, and community issues, and evaluating various media as channels for social renewal); and identifying the winning coalitions for the new societies of the Solar Age.

"The world needs truly mindful, responsible, social-change activism and leadership as never before, just as developing self-actualizers need the risk-taking and challenge of relating to ever-more complex patterns of social, ecological and planetary interdependence. I am interested in teaching and learning how to accept the challenge of helping to heal our divisive, competitive, nationalistic, industrial societies (East and West); how to move beyond their narrow technological/rationalism and militaristic posturing; and how to help foster viable alternative futures which can operate peacefully and fairly on our inter-connected planet."

Recommended reading: The Politics of the Solar Age: Alternatives To Economics, Hazel Henderson, (Doubleday, Anchor paperback N.Y.); The Aquarian Conspiracy, Marilyn Ferguson, (Tarcher); Person/Planet, Theodore Roszak, (Doubleday); New Age Politics, Mark Satin, (Delta); The Turning Point, Fritjof Capra, (Simon & Schuster); The Politics of Women's Spirituality, Charlene Spretnak, (Doubleday); MegaTrends: Ten New Directions that are Transforming our Lives, John Naisbitt, (Warner Communications, N.Y.) $230

Mind, Hallucinogens, and the I Ching

Terence McKenna

"The hallucinogenic experience remains a misunderstood and taboo area of human becoming. Along with birth and death it represents a profound dimension of our being. We will discuss plant hallucinogens, their use in shamanism, and their impact on modern conception of mind. We will discuss self-exploration through hallucinogenic plants using philosophical constructs both ancient and modern. Shamanism, schizophrenia, and the holographic nature of time will be reunderstood in the light of hallucinogenic experiences. The Invisible Landscape, by my brother and myself, will be the core around which discussion will be constellated according to the needs and interests of the group. The hallucinogens catalyze a deep crisis in human evolution that calls for a new model of mind and world. We will explore the implications of that new model for human transformation."—Terence McKenna.

Suggested reading: The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: The Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide, Terence McKenna.

This will be a didactic workshop. The use of hallucinogens is not permitted at Esalen. $230

February 24–March 16

Getting in Shape: Physical/Metaphysical Fitness

Jessica Moore Britt & Andrea Juhan

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 33. $1600

Week of February 26–March 2

Awareness Through Movement: Learning to Feel

Harriet Goslins & Robert Raleigh

Harriet and Robert write: "Feeling is a state of ongoing vulnerability that catalyzes change.

"Feelings are the endless content of the body-mind. Deeply patterned whole-body fear prevents us from feeling not only our current life-condition (thus anesthetizing us from the need to change) but blocks the bodily and profoundly pleasureful "feeling-connectedness with everything" that can be felt by the human nervous system.

"This work utilizes Feldenkrais principles, bringing awareness to dormant parts of the nervous system that are usually inhibited by the whole-body fear response.

"The movement sessions will be combined with work to further integrate what is taught into one's lifestyle and behavior." $450

February 26–March 23

Spiritual Emergency: Understanding and Treatment of Transpersonal Crises

Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & Rita Rohen

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 33. $1800

Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 34. $1800

March 2–11

Experiencing Esalen: A Special Nine Day Program

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $770

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 34. $770

March 11–April 6

Massage Month Long Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 34. $1800

Weekend of March 16–18

The Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend Near Big Sur

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $195

Living Tao: Dancing Your Life in Form

Chunghiang Al Huang & Living Tao Staff

Chunghiang writes, "For everyone who is ready to spread wings and embrace life in the present, and for those who are willing to learn the essential structure of t'ai chi form for daily practice, the enjoyment of movement, music, and laughter is highly recommended."

Recommended reading: by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain (Real People Press), with Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way (Pantheon). $230

Week of March 18–23

The Sword and the Flute: Mythologies of War and Peace

Joseph Campbell & Chunghiang Al Huang

This will be a celebration of Joseph's 80th birthday and the sixth year of joyous celebration in Your Own Mythbody to Live By series with Joseph and Chunghiang. This year the theme will focus on how to discover ways to honor our individual WARRIOR's power and dance the inner harmony in our daily creativity.

Suggested readings: by Campbell: The Mythic Image, Myths to Live By, (Bantam) and The Hero with a Thousand Faces, (Bollingen); by Huang: Quantum Soup: Fortune Cookies in Crisis, (E. P. Dutton), Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain, (Real People Press), and with Watts: Tao: The Watercourse Way, (Pantheon). $470

March 23–April 6

Human Potential Theory and Practice

John Heider

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 34. $1120

Spiritual/Esoteric Practice: The Key to Intuitive and Psychic Development

Anne & Jim Armstrong

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 34. $1120

March 23–April 13

Continuum Dance Meditation Intensive: Waves and Whispers

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 35. $1575

March 25–31

Sierra Ski Touring: The Gentle Pleasure of Winter

Dick Galland, Annie Callaway-Galland & David Beck of Sierra Ski Touring

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 37. $500

April 1–13

Post-Modern Physics

David Finkelstein

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 35. $960

Joyce Rogers

The gestalt practice section of the Work Study Program presents an opportunity for work scholars to both explore their own process and support one another while developing new skills. Here Richard Price gives individual instruction.

April 6-13

The Enneagram: A Tool for Identifying and Developing Intuition

Helen Palmer

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 35. $680

April 6-27

Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 35. $1575

Week of April 8-13

Transpersonal Psychology: New Approaches to Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This workshop will explore theoretically and experientially the rapidly developing area of transpersonal psychology. The emphasis in experiential work will be on "holonomic integration," a method developed by the leaders, which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It mediates access not ony to unresolved biographical issues, but to powerful death-rebirth experiences and a broad spectrum of transpersonal phenomena. Special attention will be paid to the problem of "spiritual emergencies" and constructive approaches to transpersonal crises. $450

Weekend of April 13-15

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see February 10-12. $230

The World of Physics

David Finkelstein

The (r)evolutions of quantum theory and relativity already deny us an objective reality and yet seem to be but precursors of an impending, still more drastic, upheaval in our worldview. We open our imaginations to this changing non-mechanical attitude to Nature by living its evolution from ancient Pythagorean roots, through the Aristotelean-Euclidean-Newtonian mechanism of the rational Enlightenment, beyond the interregnum of Einstein and Heisenberg, to today's increasingly Pythagorean cosmos. The workshop draws from a work of the same name to appear this year. $230

April 13-20

Hiking and Gestalt Practice

Steven Harper & Richard Price

For workshop description see Winter Study Programs, page 35. $680

April 14-22

Easter Climber's Paradise: Joshua Tree

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $450

Week of April 15-20

Effecting Change: The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

This is a week for recognizing the relationship between personal growth/change and economic/environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern for your individual energy system to provide more stable contact with the difficulties of the emerging decade.

The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the system's movement towards maturity is the development of the consistency of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character, strong emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of strength development leads each of us to develop compensations in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some of the obvious are psychosomatic problems, blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, things is often a major compensation for the strength that allows us the experience of self, people, and things.

Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations, trusting self and the group process enough to experiment with mobilizing more energy. This means rendering more alive the strength of the physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result is clarity and stability and a deeper awareness of the balance of self as we contact the very real issues of the coming decade. For further information, read the April 20-22 workshop description. $450

Psychic Healing: Healer as Visionary

Elizabeth Stratton

To see into a person's essence, into the heart and soul beneath the defenses, is the first step the psychic healer takes when confronted with someone who needs healing. To then mirror back this essence, over and over during the healing process, affords the person an opportunity to choose this vision of wholeness.

Almost everyone has wished, at times, to be able to reach someone who needs healing, but who seems to be resistant. This workshop is for both non-professionals and professionals who would like to learn how to make the kind of healing contact that can lead to transformation.

The workshop will explore: the physical, psychic, and spiritual dimensions of energy; the blocking of energy that can lead to the formation of illness; the will to live, the will to die; illness and death as learning, not punishment; releasing judgment and allowing forgiveness; requirements for recovery in long term, short term, and instantaneous healing; the role of the healer; and channeling healing energy through the heart, eyes, voice, and laying on of hands. $450

Weekend of April 20-22

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

The human being's movement toward a stable and balanced organism undergoes many adjustments in direct proportion to his/her responses to parental and environmental messages. The result is the formulation of stratified patterns of visible physiology and behavior. These join to form that which is usually called personality, one's individual energy system. Two common examples of energy system responses to life stress are those personalities who collapse under stress and those who control. There are many more. This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit intrapersonal and interpersonal contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. For additional information read the April 15-20 description. $230

Awakening the Healer Within: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Every human being is a potential channel for healing energy. Negative conditioning of our emotions, or unconscious beliefs and behavior, combined with environmental factors such as polluton, can give birth to dissociated parts of self which act as impediments to our natural healing abilities. Studies have shown the reality of psychic awareness, in which a person cannot only better understand his/her own functioning, but actually heal and psychically ward off illness.

This workshop will provide a didactic and experiential model for participants to gain a pespective on psychic healing, and the basic skills necessary to develop healing abilities in themselves. Channeling of energies will be taught, along with methods of dissolving impediments to the healing process. $230

Joyce Rogers

Death and Resurrection

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

This workshop offers the opportunity to experience, rather than avoid, one of life's most real situations and its only inevitability: your own death. On a wider scale, it explores ways to move creatively through life's many transitions, letting go of the old and welcoming the new.

We will prepare to experience our deaths by reviewing our lives, completing unfinished business, writing wills. We will plan and celebrate our own funerals. Attachments to persons, things, and self-images are gradually severed until, surrendering all to the ultimate unknown, we are able to experience the birth of the truly new. Reborn, we can begin to create a new life the way we want it. $230

Week of April 22–27

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week we will focus on how to develop those qualities in ourselves that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based in warmth and humor we will explore our capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $450

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is very rare for most people to use painting purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to do it just for the process of exploration, not for the result. This workshop will focus upon the painting experience as a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to creative expression. Emphasis will be placed upon the practical experience of creative painting in which participants will be given the support and stimulation to discover a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The mechanisms and patterns that prevent creative action will be discussed in order to integrate understanding with experience. The work will take place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, and a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. An audio-visual program will illustrate the development of inner expression during the painting process.

The workshop has proved to be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop write: The Painting Experience Studio, 509 Noriega Street, San Francisco, CA 94122. (415) 564-8515. $450 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of April 27–29

Weekend Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Brita Ostrom

For workshop description see January 20-22. $230

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see January 29-February 3. $230

The Esalen Soviet-American Exchange

Dulce & Michael Murphy, James Hickman & Mary Payne

This seminar will review recent developments in Esalen's Soviet-American exchange program.

It will also examine the problems and opportunities of non-governmental "track two" diplomacy and explore aspects of Soviet culture that are relatively unknown in the West. The seminar leaders believe that if Americans evolve a deeper understanding of Soviet culture, the United States government might evolve a more creative Soviet-American policy.

This seminar is one of a series on Soviet-American relations that Esalen will sponsor this year and in the years ahead. See the May-October 1984 catalog for further programs in this series. $230

Empowerment Through Women's Spirituality

Charlene Spretnak

Recent archaeological discoveries of the pre-Indo-European eras have revealed that women's elemental power was the focus of numerous peaceful, Goddess-oriented cultures which felt a holistic connection with Mother Earth and created sophisticated art to express that relationship. During the 1970s, a unifying, nature-honoring spirituality evolved within, and spread out from, feminist circles. It draws on the wisdom of pre-patriarchal symbols, including the Goddess; "body parables" of the female experience; and new meanings of transcendence and ritual.

This workshop will explore the relationship between women's power in pre-patriarchal cultures and in the women's spirituality movement which has emerged in the past decade. Building on a history of power (understood as power within and as transformative power, rather than the patriarchal mode of power over), contemporary women are expressing their spirituality through art and ritual, among other forms. Slides of such art will be shown. Participants will also have the chance to explore their personal mythologies, and to experience group ritual. The central theme of the seminar is the integration of spiritual insight and power into our lives, including our political activism.

Recommended reading: Goddesses and Gods of Old Europe, 6500-3500 B.C., Maria Gimbutas; Overlay: Contemporary Art and the Art of Prehistory, Lucy R. Lippard; Lost Goddesses of Early Greece and The Politics of Women's Spirituality, Charlene Spretnak. $230

Week of April 29–May 4

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

The Evolution of Intelligence: A "How To" Seminar

Timothy Leary & Friends

Leary says, "It is useful and amusing to accept two premises: 1.) that few human beings use more than .000,001 (one millionth) of their available brain-potential; most of us are, in fact, robots programmed by our brains, and 2.) that once an individual learns how to program the brain, then the probabilities of accelerated personal growth are limitless.

"This seminar will consider 24 levels/types of intelligence, 24-stages of neuro-technology through which a human being can develop. Participants will be encouraged to take and analyze newly devised test-questionnaires which will allow assessment of their lives in terms of intelligence increase, from infancy and childhood to adolescence and beyond; and to write detailed lie programs for multiplying intelligence in each of the 24 dimensions.

"Evolutionary competence in the following vectors will be studied: biological intelligence; emotional intelligence; mental-intellectual intelligence; social intelligence; sensory-erotic-aesthetic intelligence; brain-computer intelligence; genetic intelligence; and metaphysiological (out-of-body) intelligence."

Recommended reading: Flashbacks, Leary (J.P. Tarcher). $450

David Nelson

The Hero's Journey

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul Rebillot writes, "Again and again, in my work with people, I have seen the suffering and confusion caused by our society's lack of significant rites of passage. Without shamans or ritual masters to guide them, modern women and men must find their own lonely and usually traumatic paths from one stage of life to another—whether it be a child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus; the adolescent's awkward approach to puberty; marriage or the ending of a marriage, or a change of career. Every such change requires a movement from one level of being to another.

"Seeing this need, I created a rite of passage universal enough to allow people to discover the pattern of change, whatever that change might be. That pattern is exemplified in the myth of the hero. The new stage of life that is to be reached calls forth a heroic action on the part of the person taking the journey. At the same time, as soon as a new goal begins to emerge, all of the resistance to that goal emerges as well. I call these two forces 'the hero' and 'the demon.' In order for the new state of being to be realized, these two forces must discover how to communicate with each other and how to work together. The old forms must fall away so that the new form can emerge.

"My purpose is to give people a chance to experience a rite of passage so that they can go into the changes in their lives with a sense of joy and greater context. My hope is that through this process people will awaken to their own creative genius and enter into the drama of their lives with imagination and delight."

Recommended reading: Joseph Campbell, The Hero With a Thousand Faces (Bollingen) and Myths to Live By (Bantam). $450

Empower and Fit: The Use of the Human Potential to Transform Work into Joy

Will Schutz

Will writes: "The human potential movement is destined to be regarded historically as a major cultural watershed, a time and place where a variety of people and traditions converged and created quantum leaps in our understanding of the human condition—body, mind, spirit. The movement is comparable to the Bauhaus in architecture, the Vienna Circle in philosophy, and Paris in the 20s in literature—occasions where breakthroughs were made that affected our lives in important ways.

"A next step is to take the results of the human potential movement and to apply them to establishment institutions. By empowering the individual and by creating a better fit between individuals, between individual and job, between individual and organization and by creating an atmosphere of openness, self-responsibility, and self-knowledge, a new concept of work and of organizations emerges. Work becomes a source of excitement, productivity, and joy and organizations become temples of human achievement and pleasure.

"This workshop explores the application of these principles to specific organizations. A proram called "The Human Element," embodying these ideas, has been administered to NASA, the United States Army in Okinawa, a Catholic hospital in Iowa, the staff of the Association for Humanistic Psychology, and elsewhere, with startling results. Aspects of this program will be described and demonstrated to participants. Some new instruments based on a major revision of the Firo theory will be presented." $450

Weekend of May 4-6

The Future of the Body: The Transformation Project

Michael Murphy & Steven Donovan

In his novel, Jacob Atabet, Michael Murphy speculated that a next stage of human development might involve the power to alter the physical body at will. He is developing this idea more thoroughly in a book, The Future of the Body, and through The Transformation Project, organized in 1976 to compile and analyze a broad range of scientific, speculative, and anecdotal literature on bodily transformation. Murphy will discuss some of the major ideas of his current book, and Donovan will present results to date of The Transformation Project.

Recommended reading: Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, "The Transformation Project," and "The Transformation Project Monographs I-IV" (available through Esalen). $230

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

This workshop is an introduction to sensing, for more meaningful contact with our own nature and with the world around us.

How we relate to our deep inner needs, to other people, or to different tasks and situations depends on how we perceive them and how we trust our own findings. When perception is clear and full, we cannot make mistakes. Our whole organism is geared to respond appropriately. We have come, however, to see through a fog of preconceptions, a bewildering fabric of the ideas and judgements of others. Our own experience has been belittled; our perceptive faculties have lost their edge. The true I and the true you no longer meet. Both life and death have become often threatening fantasies.

Sensory awareness is a practice for rediscovering and reviving full sensory functioning. Through the gradual quieting of premature and inappropriate intellectual activity, it directs our attention both inward and outward to the actuality of the present moment. As perceptivity revives, true relationship becomes possible. Each everyday occasion in living gains its own freshness, its own uniqueness. We can become content again, like healthy children, as quality begins to make quantity unimportant. $230

Leonard Energy Training: The State of the Art

George Leonard
& the Leonard Energy Training Staff

In the world of Leonard Energy Training, problems become opportunities. Stress and pain become gifts of energy. Personal and social options are multiplied. The flow of vital energy is enhanced. Leonard Energy Training is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations. It is not physically demanding. It does not aim at emotional catharsis. Most of the training involves simple movement exercises in which the body itself becomes a learning facility. Participants will practice such things as centering, relaxing under pressure, blending, and alternative ways of being. There will also be discussions of applications to education, sports, management, relationships, social transformation, and personal growth.

Recommended reading: The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard. $230

May 4-12

Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Jessica Moore Britt & Steven Harper

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $400

May 4-June 29

Leonard Energy Training: A Certification Program

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard
& Leonard Energy Training Staff

For full description see Special Programs, page 36. $4250

Week of May 6–11

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Five Day Massage Intensive

George King & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see February 12-17. $450

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® -Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see February 5-10. $450

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

For workshop description see May 4-6. $450

Leaving Symbols and Approaching the Universe

Robert Bly & Gioia Timpanelli

Robert and Gioia write: "Through poems and stories, we will discuss states in our developing ability to approach the universe. To escape from human mental prisons, we need to allow images and animals to have their own life over and above the life human beings offer them in their symbolic systems. Myth has its place in this freeing process, and the workshop also gives participants practice in what Joseph Campbell calls 'learning to think mythically.' We touch, too, on the scientist's descriptions: 'The sunlight lays itself down before every protozoa, the night opens itself out behind it, and inside its own energy it lives!'"

In preparation for the seminar, participants would benefit from reading the following books: News of the Universe, Robert Bly, Editor; Dancing Wu-Li Masters, Gary Zukov; The King and the Corpse, Heinrich Zimmer; and The Moon and the Virgin, Norhall. $450

Weekend of May 11–13

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Stories

James Fadiman

Every tradition from the shamans of Australia to Jesus to Zen masters to the Sufis use teaching stories to open us up to alternative realities, to break down preconceptions, and to develop our inner resources. Stories are non-invasive and encourage non-righteous personal growth. We will use stories from the traditions to unlock our own doors and work with the story material, using the full range of transpersonal methods to touch our own core. $230

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Being close yet also free to grow individually is a most important theme in any intimate relationship. This weekend will be tailored to what each participant brings, and will provide structured experiences designed to enhance communication, help resolve conflict, raise self-esteem, and promote fun. Limited to ten couples. $230 per participant

Leonard Energy Training in Sports

George Leonard & Joel Kirsch

The practice of Leonard Energy Training has shown itself to be effective in improving performance, reducing injuries, and increasing enjoyment in sports and other physical activities. This workshop is designed both for athletes and for those who simply wish to move efficiently, gracefully, and joyfully. We begin with the assumption that there is an appropriate movement activity for everybody and every body type. We will stress balancing and centering, relaxation, grace under pressure, and the use of intentionality. A Samurai Game will be played during the Saturday night session.

Suggested reading: The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard; Golf in the Kingdom, Michael Murphy. $230

May 12–20

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 38. $595

Week of May 13–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see January 29-February 3. $450

May 13–June 8

Technologies of the Sacred: Ancient and Modern Approaches

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 36. $1800

Weekend of May 18–20

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see January 13-15. $230

Liberation at the Moment of Death

Sogyal Rinpoche

What happens to us when we die, and how can we help others who are dying? Based on ancient Buddhist knowledge, such as the Tibetan Book of The Dead, this seminar will provide practical information to health-care professionals and lay people who want to know how to give the most effective and compassionate care for the dying.

Death can best be understood in terms of life, and through overcoming fears caused by ignorance, fear of pain, fear of the unknown, and fear of the coming separation from life and loved ones.

To prepare for death, we need to learn to use life skillfully, letting go when change occurs. What continues after we die is mind. If we learn to know our mind, we learn to know ourselves. Then all our inner fears and neuroses are resolved, and we gain an inner trust and confidence which finds expression as compassion, the basis of helping ourselves and others effectively in life and death.

During this course, Rinpoche will describe the actual processes that take place at the moment of death and after, and how the caregivers can help the dying person prepare for death. Practical training will be given on how to prepare for one's own death in life, and through developing awareness of the sleep and dream state, which is itself a little like death. Rinpoche will discuss how the family can best help the dying person, and how they can practice mourning effectively. $230

Week of May 20–25

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see January 15-20. $450

Liberation at the Moment of Death

Sogyal Rinpoche

For workshop description see May 18-20. $450

Steve Beck

Nacimiento Valley

Rolfing®, Feldenkrais, and Other Methods for Releasing Pain and Tension

Dub Leigh & Dee Dee Lozier

This workshop is designed for people who want to learn to move with more freedom, ease, and awareness, and to get release from chronic pain and tension. Through different types of body work participants will have the opportunity to explore experientially methods to free up constricted movement.

The leaders will also offer participants sessions in body work and instruction in group movement including: Moshe Feldenkrais' awareness work, Lauren Berry's joint work, deep tissue as taught by Ida Rolf, and the trigger point work of John St. John. $450

Weekend of May 25-27

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $230

Leonard Energy Training and the Art of Love

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop, we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of Leonard Energy Training to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's book, The End of Sex. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Recommended reading: The Silent Pulse and The End of Sex, George Leonard. $230

Week of May 27-June 1

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see February 5-10. $450

Making Your Dreams Come to Life

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul writes: "Dreams offer a deep spiritual guidance that can reveal both the goals and the practical power of the inner self. In this workshop I introduce a variety of methods such as gestalt, drama, movement, music, journal-writing, and artwork, all of which can help participants to bring their dreams to life. Using dreams, discoveries may be made to strengthen one's present path and clarify future directions." $450

Weekend of June 1–3

Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing

Dick Galland

Few pastimes offer the opportunity of so profound a look into the natural world and into ourselves as flyfishing. The tools of the fisherman have more to do with disciplining the body and mind and tuning the senses than with killing trout. There is a focus and subtlety of movement in fly fishing akin to Eastern meditative disciplines. The possibility always exists of entering the trout's world. In fly fishing, the trout are the teachers. They let you know by their actions when you have presented the fly properly.

This weekend, which will be spent at Esalen, is a combination of practical instruction, visualization, physical exercise, and guided fantasy. Participants spend Saturday on the Esalen grounds learning basics. On Sunday, we travel a few miles up the coast to tempt the rainbows of the Big Sur River. Beginners and accomplished fishermen welcome. Complete information on equipment will be sent upon registration. $230

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $230

Focusing: An Integrative Process of Change

John Welwood

Focusing is a simple experiential method for untangling life problems, emotional blockages, or fixed mental habits, and opening up the natural wisdom of the body/mind. It developed out of many years of research into the core process of change in psychotherapy and creativity by Eugene Gendlin, John Welwood, and others at the University of Chicago.

Focusing teaches people how to pay attention to bodily "felt sense," which contains what they need to know about their lives, allowing new words and images to arise from it. This process integrates mind and body, intellect and intuition, resulting in a "felt shift," a bodily-felt release which allows a person to discover new ways of being and doing, which inspires forward movement in one's life. Focusing also facilitates stress reduction, the ability to listen and communicate more effectively, creativity, and physical healing.

Recommended reading: Focusing, Eugene Gendlin (Everest House, 1978); Awakening the Heart: East/West Approaches to Psychotherapy and the Healing Relationship, edited by Welwood (Shambhala). $230

Week of June 3–8

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Joyce Rogers

Leonard Energy Training and the Samurai Game

George Leonard & Leonard Energy Training Staff

This workshop provides a rare opportunity for you to immerse yourself, under game conditions, in the life of the medieval Japanese samurai. The Samurai Game was created by George Leonard and is used in the est Six-Day Training. Its purpose is to make it possible for you to experience a style of governance and consciousness radically different from that of 20th century America, and to face symbolic death and rebirth. By entering this other world, you get a chance to see your own life with new eyes, and to fully comprehend the futility of conflict. During the workshop, you will receive a thorough grounding in Leonard Energy Training and will play three complete Samurai Games. Between games, you will continue to live samurai-style with your own group much of the time, and to join in creating legends, songs, poems, and a history in the spirit of bushido, the Way of the Warrior. The Samurai Game is not physically demanding, but is psychologically intense and must be played wholeheartedly.

Recommended reading: The Silent Pulse, George Leonard; The Zen Way to the Martial Arts, Taisen Deshimaru. $450

Weekend of June 8–10

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

A Course In Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

For workshop description see February 17-19. $230

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intraphysic work using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice.

Reichian work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration the possibility is opened to come to a truer concept of self, with an expanded ability to respond in the present. This workshop is limited to ten participants. $230

Creativity and The Feminine

Susan Griffin

Susan Griffin presents a new way of looking at creativity. Working from the theories in her books (Woman and Nature: The Roaring Inside Her and Pornography and Silence: Culture's Revenge Against Nature), and from her own process as a poet, essayist, and playwright, she explores how the false dichotomy between nature and culture, mind and body, masculine and feminine, affect the creative process. Her premise is that the totalitarian repression of the arts is a political expression of the fear of nature and the feminine. She will lead participants in the workshop to discover how this repression becomes internalized. Using meditation, writing exercises, and guided imagery, Susan will show how creativity is an expression of the unity of matter and spirit, the "feminine" and the "masculine" qualities of sensuality, intuition, insight, intelligence. She will guide students toward experiencing a deeper level of knowledge, a knowledge which emanates from the body and from experience, and she will help students to express this knowledge in a creative form. $230

A Gentle Unfolding

Daniel Bianchetta

Daniel writes: "In the business of a day, we can allow ourselves to be pushed to our periphery. This weekend we will explore ways of paying attention to our own inner guide. Through the use of such tools as intuitive and energy awareness, conscious dreaming, play, massage, and meditation, we will be taught how to cultivate practical and portable skills for coming home to our inherent wisdom." $230

Week of June 10–15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ed Jackson

For workshop description see March 2-11. $450

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. In this workshop, participants will examine their worklife and work options in the context of their love for themselves, for others, and for the larger world. The group will use integrative exercises, art, body work, gestalt processes, and video feedback to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly 1) what they want within the interplay of relational love and work and 2) how to get it.

This weekend is for those who want more value in their worklife, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life/work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs.

Recommended reading: Careercycles, John Caple (Prentice-Hall). $450

Leonard Energy Training and Aikido

George Leonard
& the Leonard Energy Training Staff

Non-aggressive yet powerful, aikido is perhaps the most sophisticated of the martial arts. This workshop provides a grounding in Leonard Energy Training and an introduction to the art of aikido. Obviously, no one can learn a martial art in five days, but everyone will have a chance to gain a unique body-mind-spirit understanding of this remarkable art, along with increased confidence and grace under pressure. A Samurai Game will be played during the workshop.

Recommended reading: The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard; The Zen Way to the Martial Arts, Taisen Deshi-maru. $450

Weekend of June 15–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

The Face of God— The Face of Man

James Kavanaugh

"One's vision of God is a reflection of one's own self-image. Thus salvation, guilt, sin, authority, law, marriage, divorce, sexuality, heaven, hell, judgment, etc. are colored by one's personal vision and experience. In a sense, such theological notions are defined by each of us in a different way according to our personal freedom and self knowledge. As Nietzsche said, 'After Christ came the Christians'."—James Kavanaugh

This seminar is for individuals who have left the institutional church and are searching for a personal spirituality. The seminar deals particularly with the traditional myths of historic Christianity and Judaism and attempts to replace ancient and ineffective symbols with contemporary and real ones.

Recommended reading: There Are Men Too Gentle to Live Among Wolves, Kavanaugh (E. P. Dutton). $230

Alternatives for Managers: An Energy Training Perspective

Susan & Joel Kirsch

Susan and Joel write: "How can managers effectively deal with the changes that constantly bombard them? Does supervision of others have to lead to conflict? Can managers combine strength with sensitivity while providing leadership? In this workshop we use movement exercises from Leonard Energy Training along with demonstration and discussion to discover the manager's role in creating and supporting quality and excellence in the workplace. Participants will have the opportunity to gain insights into their own managerial style and explore alternative ways to increase productivity, improve teamwork, and enhance personal and professional performance." $230

Miracles of Infancy

Laurie Schutz Munyer, Arthur Munyer
& Jezariah Canyon Munyer

Laurie and Arthur write: "This will be a time to celebrate the profound miracle of new life and parenthood. The workshop will provide an opportunity for new parents and their infants (up to one year) to come together in a harmonious and joyous way. In an atmosphere of warmth we will guide both parent and infant through a creative experience. Our approaches will be drawn from massage, creative movement, music, communication, and nurturing touch. We will bring awareness to how our children can be our teachers." $230

Re-printing: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Ericksonian), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in, and consider opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $230

Week of June 17–22

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $450

Advanced Massage Intensive

Vicki Topp & Deborah Anne Medow

For workshop description see January 8-13. $450

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see January 29-February 3. $450

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see January 1-6.

$450

The Teachings of Hawaiian Huna

Jack Downing & Murray Korngold

Jack and Murray write: "Hawaiian Huna is the ancient mystic teaching of Polynesia. The last native Ka'huna died in this century after passing on the concepts of the Triune or three-part personality. Huna is a reasonably simple and quite effective method for balancing our internal mental forces. The teaching can result in less guilt and anxiety, greater energy and self-confidence, and finally a deeper, more harmonious, brighter sense of the Divine. No encounter, hot seat, or stressful methods will be used, but instead, simple introspection, internal converse, and pleasant sharing."

$450

Weekend of June 22-24

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see February 10-12.

$230

The Science and Practice of Homeopathic Medicine: Principles and Self-Care Applications

Dana Ullman & Gregory Manteuffel

Homeopathy is a scientific natural medicine in which individually chosen non-toxic doses of plants, minerals, or animals are used to stimulate a person's defense system. A specific curative medicine is prescribed based upon the law of similars, that is, a substance that causes a set of symptoms in overdose will cure these symptoms in specially prepared microdoses. Since symptoms represent efforts of the organism to establish homeostasis and to heal itself, the correct homeopathic medicine provides the necessary stimulus to aid the organism's attempts to promote a deep cure. Immunizations and allergy treatments are two orthodox medical procedures that utilize the law of similars but do not use other important homeopathic principles for healing.

This course will discuss the fundamental principles of the homeopathic science and their value in understanding the healing process. The historical context of homeopathy and its scientific basis will also be discussed. Specific laws of healing will be described in order to differentiate clearly between the suppression or palliation of symptoms and the cure of disease. The practical application of at least 15 homeopathic medicines for self-care will be described, and specific books and publications to learn more about homeopathy will be available.

Recommended reading: Homeopathic Medicine for Infants & Children, Ullman & Cummings (Spring, 1984).

$230

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard
& the Leonard Energy Training Staff

In addition to its practical applications, Leonard Energy Training offers the possibility of extraordinary powers of intuition and sensing. This workshop will present a basic grounding in Leonard Energy Training, the move into experiments that push the limits of what we carelessly term "normal" human capacities. To quote The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet, sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, making connections that defy conventional space and time . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

David Nelson

Recommended reading: The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard. $230

Week of June 24–29

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $450

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop is based on the attempt to evoke and balance psychodynamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities

> "Contact is the appreciation of differences."
>
> —Fritz Perls

that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $450

Joyce Rogers

Richard Price

Storytelling, Healing, and Theater

Corey Fischer & Naomi Newman of A Traveling Jewish Theater

Corey and Naomi write, "Storytelling is a potentially shamanic activity. The storyteller can go anywhere. The telling can be danced, sung, spoken, shown. The teller can inhabit a single moment of the story and dwell in it, revealing all its facets and layers.

"In locating and telling our stories within a community of trust, we begin to restore value to that which has been ignored, suppressed, denied, and neglected.

"In this workshop, we will use guided fantasy, vocal and physical improvisation, writing, ensemble exercises, and work in pairs to explore the stories, dreams, memories, voices, and images that are inside us. In the course of the five days we will move toward a fuller and deeper articulation of the material as it is shared through performance.

No previous performance experience is necessary."

$450

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

"In this form we become bridge between whole and unwhole, happy and sad, good and bad. We are thought form, the first thought as you, as mankind, assumed shape and the last thought as you choose to leave. What remains is afterthought or vibration as we know it, and so the form begins again. The vibration came before the chicken."—The NINE

"This workshop is an invitation to spend time with The NINE in dialogue and self-discovery. As they move to answer questions, they create a kind of language that bypasses the mental structures of the brain and enters through the pores of the body. It can be beyond expectation because it enters the space between all expectations and, caught unawares, you may find yourself looking at a reflection of yourself that is shockingly familiar, for there may be more of you than you ever believed possible. You may well be compelled to reach across that space between the masks you carry and the self you don't quite yet believe possible and so put the strain of your theater to rest for a while. All this through a meeting, a few questions that seem simple enough in the asking but may rebound in a way that strikes far beyond what you thought you asked. It is a very fast way to know yourself better, in a form that teaches through compassion, humor, intelligence, and a vital concern for the future of us and our planet."—Jenny O'Connor $450

Weekend of June 29–July 1

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 10. $230

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Peggy Morrison Horan

For workshop description see January 20-22. $230

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

"Each dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened."—Talmud.

Each night we receive brilliant, insightful, creative communiqués disguised in poetic imagery. In this workshop we will explore how to use our dreams for personal growth, insight, creativity, and problem solving. Participants will discover that any dream, however fragmentary or prosaic, can offer entry to a new world of insight. Methods for dream discovery will include exercises in dream recall, Senoi dream practices, mandala drawing, gestalt dream work, and psychosynthesis. $230

Vision Improvement: Our Willingness to See

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

This weekend will focus primarily on the awareness continuum, emphasizing ways to clear and re-educate the eye and the self to see without distortion in the here and now. With the aid of various approaches including deep emotional release, bioenergetics, gestalt, the Bates system of eye relaxation, and nutrition, participants will have the opportunity to create new ways of looking at themselves and the world. $230

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to assume responsibility for their health care management. The emphasis will be on learning what to eat to create vitality, energy, and health. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live food will be presented. Special attention will be given to increasing complex carbohydrate and fiber while decreasing simple sugar. We will examine the optimum amount of fat and cholesterol needed to both prevent and reverse atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease. Ideal protein intake for various levels of physical activity and health states will be examined and protein combinations to obtain complete sources will be demystified. Participants will receive a personalized health plan to work with at home.

Suggested reading: The Best Chance Diet, Joe D. Goldstrich (Humanics Limited). $230

Steve Beck

Winter Study Programs

January 1–February 5
Gestalt Practice: A Combination Seven Day Intensive and Work Study Program

Coordinated by Christine Price

This is a five week program focusing on gestalt practice (for further information see Gestalt Practice, page 10), and designed primarily for people who are presently working with clients and who want to directly apply the skills developed in this program to their work. The first week will be a seven day intensive where participants will have no commitments outside of the sessions. Beginning the second week, members will become work scholars, will work 32 hours weekly, and live in work scholar housing (see Work Study Program, page 12, for details). The group will continue to work together in afternoon and evening sessions and in some weekend intensives. The curriculum will include time for participants to do their own personal clearing work in the "open seat" format with group leaders as well as time for practicums, where group members may provide feedback for each other as they work.

Although gestalt is the primary focus, some Reichian breath work and other related approaches to growth will be presented. Dick Price, Jessica Moore Britt, and other Esalen leaders will be the support faculty for the course.

If you wish to attend, please send in a completed work scholar application form provided on page 12, a deposit, and a letter stating your present work and how you imagine this program might relate to you and your work. Address this to the attention of Christine Price, c/o Esalen. $1280

January 8–February 3
The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman & Hareesh with Deborah Anne Medow

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to one's self, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants will explore how to separate feelings from thoughts, how to be perceptive to their own body rhythms, to contact their own wisdom, and participate in a safe environment in the choice of expression or depression.

Combined with this emotional process work will be a program of cleansing and rejuvenation based on a nutritional diet which will include: guided two-to-three-day water and juice fasts, wheatgrass, a live raw-foods menu, and transitional lightly cooked foods. The wheatgrass will be presented in a learn-by-doing process where participants will sprout, plant, water, harvest, and juice their own wheatgrass in the Esalen gardens. Group process, paired breathing sessions, movement, massage, Trager, and herbal baths will complete the experience. Playfulness and a sense of personal celebration is a prerequisite. $1800

January 20–February 17
Tutorial Program in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner

This four week program is the first time Michael Harner will teach the practice of shamanism and shamanic healing to a small group of people for such an extended period of time. The program has four phases approximately corresponding to the four weeks: participation and assistance in an intensive seven day workshop in basic and intermediate shamanic healing and practice (see January 20-27 for workshop description); individual practice and further development of the methods of intermediate shamanic work; new developments in research on shamanism; and focus on the mastery of individual shamanic skills.

Enrollment is limited to eight students. If interested, please write a letter of application to Michael Harner, Box 673, Belden Station, Norwalk, Connecticut, 06852. Please include in your letter a description of your background and the reasons you would like to be in this tutorial program. $2300

February 24–March 16
Getting in Shape: Physical/Metaphysical Fitness

Jessica Moore Britt & Andrea Juhan

This program is an in-depth exploration of the interplay of our physical structure, tone, capacity, and appearance and our internal feeling and thoughts and how these create our concept of self and well-being. Each week will be integrated sessions in: Fitness and Relaxation: including stretching, aerobics, dancing, hiking, Feldenkrais work, massage, and meditation. Personal Awareness Work: using gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, movement, and video in order to explore conditioned images and feelings and to provide an opportunity to explore alternatives.

In lectures and demonstrations guest faculty will discuss anatomy and physiology, and the psychology of the relationship between the physical body and states of being. Diet and nutritional information and guidelines will be provided by physician, Joe D. Goldstrich, author of The Best Chance Diet.

This three week period is for participants to create new patterns in their individual life process, and to reinforce this new behavior in a supportive environment. The course is designed to be a step towards a life long program of well-being. A fact sheet of detailed scheduling is available upon request. $1600

February 26–March 23
Spiritual Emergency: Understanding and Treatment of Transpersonal Crises

Christina Grof, Stanislav Grof & Rita Rohen

This four week interdisciplinary program is for professionals and students in the areas of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, and religion. The workshop has been specifically designed for intensive and focused exploration of the new concept of "spiritual emergency," an important subgroup of unusual states of consciousness that contemporary psychiatry labels as psychosis. It is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals qualified to facilitate the process of personal transformation and to assist others during transpersonal crises. The program will focus on the following areas:

Historical and Anthropological Perspectives on Psychosis: We will review the evidence suggesting that many ancient and non-Western cultures have developed deep knowledge of transpersonal crises and maps of consciousness that can be used as guidelines in the process of personal transformation. Shamanism, spiritual practices of the great Oriental religions and philosophies, aboriginal rites of passage, and the ancient death-rebirth mysteries provide not only maps, but also tools to initiate and facilitate such a process.

The Concept of Transpersonal Crisis and Western Science: This aspect of the program will focus on observations that support the new approach, such as the healing, evolutionary, and problem-solving potential of certain psychotic states; results of clinical studies using placebo; pioneering work in psychotherapy of psychoses and family studies of schizophrenia; modern kundalini research; and psychedelic studies. We will explore new developments in various disciplines—consciousness research, quantum-relativistic physics, information theory, biology, and neurophysiology—that provide a solid scientific basis for an alternative understanding of psychosis.

Transpersonal Crisis Intervention: We will explore various strategies that are useful in the management of spiritual emergencies and in facilitating personality transformation.

Self-Exploration and Group Process: The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines information input with experiential approaches and group process. For this purpose, we will use controlled breathing, music, mandala drawing, gestalt practice, and various forms of body work. The coordinators and the Esalen staff will function as facilitators for participants all through the workshop.

Reservations should be addressed to Christina Grof, c/o Esalen. $1800

February 26–March 23
Still Points, Turning Points: A New Curriculum for Change

David Schiffman, Elisa Lodge Schiffman & Esalen Staff

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special care and attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what we've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. What are the most important elements that support this transformation and renewal? And how might this process be effectively shared with others? Out of the answers to these questions has emerged the dream of combining the best of Esalen's human potential practice work with the spirit of adventure found in Outward Bound's wilderness programs, along with the gracious informality of living and working together in one of the most beautiful and peaceful settings in the world.

The aim of this unique curriculum will be to explore and develop a new model for learning, one that not only deepens the experience of traditional self exploration, but also breaks new ground in erasing the line between intensive group and individual work and the ordinary world of everyday life.

Among the areas we will touch on during this month are:

The Body and its Functions: as a temple for the spirit; as a reflection, and as a turning point from past habits, fears, and attitudes; as a source of grace, ease, and fluidity in movement and in contact; as a kinetic homebase for exuberance, playfulness, and balance; and as a healing source of touch.

The Emotional Realm: exploring and opening the limits of temperament; redirecting negative feelings for inspiration and power; cultivating passion and strength as the core of integrity; resolving inner and outer turmoil simply and peacefully.

The Mind: developing the powers of the imagination for self-affirmation and creativity; deepening the ability to see, hear, and understand so that one can range easily from the practical to the transcendental; strengthening the sense of fair-witness and developing the skillful use of the will; using the perspective of humor to heal separation.

Coming together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in ourselves, the group will create a community whose foundation is based on trust, good will, and authenticity.

During the month each participant will have the opportunity to clarify and develop his/her own style and artfulness as an individual guide and group facilitator doing in-depth study of gestalt practice, body work, psychosynthesis methods, and the meditative arts. The program will be structured to include: intensive individual work; creative music and movement; supervised observations; practicum work in group leading and individual counseling skills; video feedback; illustrated lectures and didactic theoretical sessions.

The emphasis throughout will be on creating a personally integrated perspective that will bring buoyancy and lightness into life and work. This workshop is designed for people from all walks of life. $1800

March 2–11
The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes. Our sense of the body is lessened and our connectedness is diminished.

In this workshop body approaches, dream work, and gestalt will be incorporated to teach us how to trust more fully in our bodies and enhance our excitement and passion. Through a vital sense of the body and feelings we can understand our dreams, impulses, and actions more deeply. Avenues will be explored in redeveloping a sense of pleasure, ease, and self-esteem. Without storming our citadels by force, we can soften body armor by allowing the body to express itself, in its own language, within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $770

March 11–April 6
Massage Month Long Intensive

Esalen Massage Practitioners

This month long program offers, at a professional level, intensive instruction in massage practice, movement, and self-care. The emphasis will be on developing basic massage skills through daily lecture-demonstrations including "hands-on" practice sessions using one another as models, illustrated anatomy classes, and instruction in the basic principles of alignment. Meditation and gestalt awareness sessions will be scheduled regularly throughout the program allowing participants the opportunity to experience the psyche/soma relationship on a deeper, more integrative level. Body work will be studied as a function of optimal well-being and stress reduction, and as a valued aid to transpersonal growth. Workshop sessions will meet Sunday through Friday and on alternate weekends.

In March, 1983, the Esalen massage practitioners began the application process for California state approved certification for workshop participants. Please call for further information.

Recommended reading: Bodymind, Ken Dychtwald; The Anatomy Coloring Book, Wynn Kapit & Lawrence M. Elson; and Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Fritz Perls. $1800

March 23–April 6
Human Potential Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will offer a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. Emphasis will be on becoming more conscious or aware of oneself, of others, and of the environment. The purpose of the workshop is twofold: personal and professional growth.

A typical day's schedule will be: 7:30 am — meditation, 10 am and 3:30 pm — open floor group work, 8 pm — discussion. During the middle weekend, we'll have free time, excepting morning meditations and a Sunday evening discussion group.

Because this is a professional development workshop, individual work will be discussed and the group leader's methods explored. Participants will be encouraged to facilitate the group and to share special skills. The workshop is open to both professionals and non-professionals. $1120

March 23–April 6
Spiritual/Esoteric Practice: The Key to Intuitive and Psychic Development

Anne & Jim Armstrong

Anne & Jim write: "We feel that a well-developed, directable intuition is a natural, healthy outgrowth of self-realization. But unless we are willing to create the proper environment through self-discipline, meditation, and being mindful of everything we think, feel, say, or do, this powerful force will lie dormant within us. This two week workshop will concentrate on building a firm esoteric/spiritual foundation for serious students interested in using intuition as a factor in their lives and professions. This will be accomplished by drawing from many ancient and modern spiritual disciplines, including meditation and yoga, while emphasizing the spiritual and ethical use of the intuitive/psychic process. Participants will be given intensive instruction and practice in the practical aspects of intuitive work — in counseling and other professions as well as in everyday living. They will also receive instruction on learning to recognize, trust, and apply their own psi abilities through lecture, basic exercises, and practice on selected cases. During the exercises Anne will use her "tracking" abilities to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity.

"Although esoteric and metaphysical explanations and background will be presented where appropriate, this is not a primary goal of the program. Particular attention will be placed on helping the participants differentiate between perception and projection, and between psychic and intuitive input." $1120

March 23–April 13
Continuum Dance Meditation Intensive: Waves and Whispers

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud & Susan Harper

Within our skin is a world of movement, not just the familiar movement of liquids and organs, but a dance of intelligent life. This is an invitation to dance.

This inner movement is different from spatial movements such as walking. We call it "intrinsic movement." It is a great facilitator of our body's healing powers, a source for the development of an organic awareness that is fundamental to all intelligence, and a way to understand movement as what we are, rather than an activity we do.

The workshop will be focused on breath, sound, and what we call the "movement of movements."

Each breath is like a motif or theme of a musical composition. The implications of this orchestration involve a re-ordering of our nervous system, refinement of our sense perception, and the ability to pay attention at the deeply organic levels of movement where molecules spin and cells commune.

Sound also plays an enormous part in these orchestrations, making the breath audible. Through audible breath we create new possibilities in our ability to affect ourselves, both as healers and as a way to tune ourselves to the evolutionary thrust on Earth.

The movement of movements is the overall flow to the many currents of eddying patterns of motion. Some of the movements can be experienced as wavelike undulates, some are pulsing micro-movements, some have the vibratory hum of tissue, and some the sparkling charge of an electrical current. When all these different movements flow together without interference, we call this "fluidity."

The workshop will be open to both advanced and beginning participants. $1575

April 1–13
Post Modern Physics

David Finkelstein

Modern physics was dominated by two bodies of doctrine, the relativistic and the quantum; was born from two seemingly separate bodies of optical experiment, macroscopic propagation and atomic emission-absorption of light; and led to deep revisions of the two classical theories of time and truth. Post-modern physics is the quest for the unity beneath this pervasive dualism. Modern physics, in finer and finer detail, presents: 1) the world as set, 2) the world as topology, 3) the world as manifold, 4) the world as cross-section, 5) the world as dynamical system, 6) the world as quantum system.

The workshop will be devoted to each of these levels of modern thought, experienced through analogy, metaphor, experiment, and every possible channel of communication except mathematics. This process is intended to free us from illusions about matter, time, and truth associated with the classical mechanical view of the world. We will then explore unifications of these levels presently being attempted, spiralling over the same ground.

There will be two hours of workshop each morning, consisting of a 45 minute presentation, 20 minutes of meditation, 45 minutes of free discussion, and a 10 minute summation.

Among the concepts that will be treated both didactically and intuitively are: the paradoxes of quantum theory and relativity, spontaneous symmetry and asymmetry, autopoeisis, quantum logic, quantum set theory, black holes, solitons, the unstable vacuum, Higgs fields, quarks, gluons, and others of interest to the group. $960

April 6–13
The Enneagram: A Tool for Identifying and Developing Intuition

Helen Palmer

Helen writes: "For the past several years I have been teaching people how to develop their intuition as a reliable source of information. It has become increasingly clear that adults are especially sensitive to issues and situations that, as children, they were attracted to or needed to defend themselves against. For example, a loved child may develop the ability to merge with the wishes of others and so become highly intuitive about the means of gaining their approval. A child who has had a frightening early life can become precognitively sensitized to anger or negativity in other people. These psychic abilities, centered around the survival issues of childhood, then become an integral part of the adult personality, but the grown up child is usually not conscious of operating from anything other than intellectual information. The key idea is that each person's intuitive style seems to be closely associated with a particular set of issues that derive from early experience.

"The Enneagram is a Sufi system that acts as a bridge between intellect and intuition. It has been taught for generations in the oral tradition. In its present form, it uses the language of psychology to identify nine personality types and their interrelationships. Each personality type has a unique way of looking at the world and this viewpoint is reflected in a set of preoccupying thoughts and a related intuitive style. Thus, once the focal points of internal attention are identified, a person has a place to begin to look for the related intuitive ability.

"The function of a teacher in the oral tradition is to first work with a group of people who have the same personality type, and to develop a line of questioning which demonstrates the operation of their particular thought strategy. By observing such exemplars, workshop participants will be able to discover their own personality type in this system and thus their own preoccupying issues and the ways in which they internally sense the presence of these issues. The task is then to be able to distinguish between thoughts about an external situation and intuitive information about that same situation. The second half of the workshop will be devoted to the internal focusing practices that enable one to develop the ability to shift attention between thought and intuitive perception, and to discriminate between psychic and intellectual information.

"The Enneagram workshop is useful to people who wish to develop their intuitive abilities and are working to separate their psychic impressions from their projections. It is particularly useful to anyone who works in a situation where reliable access to intuitive information is important." $680

April 6–27
Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul

Jack Rosenberg

This workshop will start wherever you are in your inner journey. The work is an in-depth integration of body and gestalt practices and the transformative process of consciousness.

The course will cover:

Psychology of the Self: Working with early unfinished situations that interrupt our sense of well-being and interfere with our relationships in the present. Sexual implications of this work will be dealt with in body work and in lecture.

Body Work (Gestalt Body Approach): Theoretical and practical application, combining classical Reichian work, yoga, and aerobics and massage, assisted by Andrea Juhan.

Transformative Process of Consciousness: As our inner journey progresses, our figure/ground is shifted from "doing" and "having" to "being" and to our relationship with the eternal. We will explore ways to integrate and sustain these new awarenesses in our everyday life. $1575

April 13–20
Hiking and Gestalt Practice

Steven Harper & Richard Price

This workshop brings together gestalt practice and hiking. Both are practices in awareness. Both offer a chance to explore "inner" and "outer" wilderness.

There will be a balance of gestalt practice at Esalen and short to medium range day-hikes into the Big Sur backcountry. For more specific descriptions of these two approaches, refer to "Gestalt Practice" and "Big Sur Wilderness Experience" on page 10. $680

Special Programs

Tutorial Program in Gestalt Body Therapy

Jack Rosenberg

This will be a professional training program for licensed or license-eligible psychotherapists and graduate students in gestalt body therapy (GBT). GBT is a complete system of psychotherapy with an emphasis on breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. The program will consist of approximately one week (five days) at Esalen every five weeks for a period of two years. This program can lead to an M.A. or Ph.D. in psychology through affiliation with an approved degree-granting institution. The program will be didactic and experiential and is based on a tutorial system with Jack Rosenberg and staff. If interested, please contact Jack Rosenberg, 1107 W. Washington Bl., Venice, Ca. 90291. Please include personal and therapeutic history and educational background.

Joyce Rogers

Healthspring Traveling Workshops

The Esalen massage teachers and their associates have created Healthspring, an independent organization devoted to extending their work into an outreach program. Healthspring will conduct workshops at locations outside of Esalen in your hometown or city. Focused on building and maintaining optimal health, the workshops can be designed to suit the needs of individual groups, combining such approaches as massage, body awareness, breath enhancement, movement, stretching and aerobic dance, meditation, yoga, and other health strengthening disciplines.

For more information on scheduling a Healthsprings group in your community, write to: Healthsprings Traveling Workshops, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

May 4–June 29 Leonard Energy Training: A Certification Program

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & the Leonard Energy Training Staff

For the second year, a limited number of applicants will be accepted for an intensive, rigorous, eight week program leading to possible certification by the Leonard Energy Training Institute. The program will be conducted under the personal supervision of the Leonard Energy Training Staff and will include cognitive, physical, psychological and spiritual training.

Leonard Energy Training can be described as a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations and of enhancing the flow of vital energy. Though it does not aim for emotional catharsis, it is sometimes psychologically intense. Though its purpose is practical and down to earth, it often brings about results that seem extraordinary or even paranormal. Its ultimate purpose is centeredness, harmony, and service to others.

Candidates will learn to teach Leonard Energy Training exercises and lead workshops, but the emphasis in this program is on experiencing a grace under pressure that offers the possibility of personal transformation. At the end of the first four weeks, candidates for certification will be evaluated through a series of tests and ordeals, and those for whom the work seems inappropriate may leave the program. In this case, half of the payment will be refunded. Applicants should be in good physical and psychological shape, and willing to give their wholehearted effort at all times. For further information and an application form, write Leonard Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 609, Mill Valley, CA 94942. $4250

May 13–June 8 Technologies of the Sacred: Ancient and Modern Approaches

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This four week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, comparative religion, anthropology, and philosophy, interested in the theory and practice of the spiritual quest. Special attention will be paid to the similarities between mysticism and psychosis and to the crises related to evolution of consciousness. This seminar is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals trained to facilitate the process of transformation and to assist in spiritual emergencies. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Ancient Technicians and Technologies of the Sacred: We will explore theoretically and practically with visiting spiritual teachers, shamans and anthropologists the methods that have been developed by various shamanic traditions and ancient spiritual systems, such as the Tibetan Vajrayana, Kaskmir Shaivism, Siddha yoga, the Buddhist Vipassana, Zen, and aikido.

Theory and Practice of Transpersonal Psychology Prominent representatives of the transpersonal movement who have made significant contributions to the field will introduce participants to the rediscovery of spirituality by western science—modern consciousness research with and without psychedelic drugs, experiential psychotherapies, anthropology, neurophysiology, and quantum-relativistic physics.

Psychosis: Disease or Transpersonal Crisis? Participants will be exposed to a new understanding of the psychotic process and non-ordinary states of consciousness emerging from psychedelic therapy, Jungian analysis, kundalini research, and modern clinical and laboratory studies.

Self-Exploration and Group Process: The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic input with personal experience. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for participants throughout the program. $1800

Wilderness Programs

Jane English

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

Up to 3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your non-refundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

March 16-18 The Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend Near Big Sur

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

"There is an art in finding one's direction in the lower regions by the memory of what one saw higher up. When one can no longer see, one can at least still know."—Rene Dumal

Rock climbing is a dance done in a vertical world, a dance of grace, balance, and simplicity. It is an opportunity for stretching limits, extending ourselves, exploring our own edges. Our responses to the challenges of climbing offer a metaphor for looking at the ways we deal with stress and challenge in our daily lives. During the day we will play on the sunny boulders and low rock faces at Pinnacles National Monument, three hours east of Esalen. We'll learn basic movements, such as how to rappel and belay, building trust in our hands and feet and each other. Safety ropes free us to experiment and to discover our inner heroes.

We'll prepare our gourmet meals together over a crackling fire and camp beneath the stars, sharing insights from the day's adventure. This weekend begins Friday and ends Sunday evening at the Monterey airport. A shuttle bus operates between the airport and Esalen, and we'll travel by van to and from Pinnacles. No previous climbing or camping experience is necessary. Minimum equipment will be needed. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $195

March 25-31
Sierra Ski Touring: The Gentle Pleasure of Winter

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

Annie and Dick write: "Ski touring is a state of mind, a balance of boldness and caution, an ease and grace of motion, an exploration of the ever-changing winter wilderness. The Sierra Nevada—the 'Snowy Mountains' of California's earliest Spanish explorers—becomes a silent magical place when the snows begin in November. Ski tourers have the range to themselves for six months, to glide through meadow and forest, savoring the sparkle and solitude only ski touring affords. And it is an easy skill to learn. After a few hours of instruction, you'll be ready for your first tour.

This six day ski adventure will teach you all you need to know to travel comfortably and safely in the winter wilderness, whether for an afternoon or a week."

"We'll begin at a lodge at Mammoth Lakes, and then ski a short distance to a backcountry hut, where the untracked hills beckon us to kick and glide, to carve turns in the fresh snow, to savor the crisp, clear air. Mid-week during a mini-expedition, we will sleep in spacious tents and cook on stoves and campfires getting the chance to learn the basics of safe winter travel. Our final night together we will sauna and feast back at the hut before skiing out the next day.

"You need not already be a skier to enjoy this program. You should, however, be reasonably fit and enthusiastic. All food, community gear, lodging, and local transportation is provided. Ski and boot rentals will be arranged for you at Mammoth. Full information will be sent upon registration." $500

April 14-22
Easter Climber's Paradise: Joshua Tree

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

Spring is a time of intense beauty in California's high desert. In Joshua Tree National Monument, streams fill normally dry canyons and wildflowers carpet the desert floor. Granite formations are warmed by the spring sun, creating a perfect playground for learning the art of the vertical dance.

We will begin the trip slowly. Guided fantasies and sensory awareness practice will be offered to help us learn to trust our hands and feet—and each other. Safety ropes free us to discover the excitement of playing on the solid granite, allowing us to extend our limits further and try more challenging routes. Rock climbing is not the domain of the brash or foolhardy, but, rather, an exercise in grace, balance, and agility. It is an opportunity to discover and extend edges and limits, to encounter and befriend fear.

Interspersed with climbing will be hikes to 49 Palms Oasis and the Wonderland of Rocks. We will camp and cook together, sleep beneath the stars, and share the day's experiences around a crackling campfire. No previous climbing experience is necessary. You need only your sense of adventure. All food, group equipment, and transportation from Palm Springs is provided. Detailed information will be sent upon registration. $450

May 4-12
Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Jessica Moore Britt & Steven Harper

Nature can provide us with opportunities to stretch our limits and explore our inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment we can expand our sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. We will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, the geography and cultural history of the area.

With the wilderness as our mirror, we will explore our inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, we will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24 hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley, with natural hot springs, for our last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, and participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration. $400

May 12-20
Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

The rugged Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone, almost disappears as it crosses the Mexican border into the Baja peninsula. About one hundred miles below the border it rises to form the Sierra San Pedro Martir, a forested plateau about 7500 feet high. On the eastern edge of this plateau, the soaring granite form of Picacho del Diablo, Baja's highest peak, rises to over 10,000 feet. This workshop will take us from a trailhead on the plateau's western edge through pine forests, broad open meadows, and along clear streams to the base of Diablo on the eastern escarpment. From there participants may climb the peak. To the west the green hills slope off into the Pacific. In the east the plateau falls away to the desert and the waters of the Gulf of California. Participants will descend onto the desert through a sinuous granite canyon, pausing to play in waterfalls and deep pools.

Group members will carry everything they need in packs, cook over fires, and learn a range of basic wilderness skills, including basic rock climbing. Twenty four hours will be spent alone in reflection and contemplation. The workshop will also include psychosynthesis, group process work, yoga, and journal writing. No previous experience is required. You should be healthy and reasonably fit. The program begins and ends in San Diego. Complete information on travel, clothing, and equipment will be sent upon registration. $595

Medical Programs

Esalen Institute is a California state approved provider for continuing education for health professionals. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category 1 approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

February 3-5
Medical Self-Care:
New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D.
10 hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

January 1-6
The Uses of Empathy and Intuition in Healing for the Health Professional Jack Downing, M.D.
& Murray Korngold, Ph.D., A.B.P.P.
30 hours

January 22-27
A Healthier Way to Goal Achievement
Neil Fiore, Ph.D.
30 hours

February 3-5
Medical Self-Care:
New Directions in Patient Education
David Sobel, M.D.
10 hours

David Nelson

Leonard Energy Training

Biographical Information

A

Anne Armstrong p. 11, 19, 21 ..... has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 18 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.

Jim Armstrong, p. 11, 19, 21 ..... a former engineer, is a life-long student and teacher of esoteric studies.

B

David Beck, p. 21 ..... a backcountry skier for 25 years, is an instructor for National Avalanche School, author of Ski Touring in California, and founder and director of Sierra Ski Journey.

Daniel Bianchetta p. 29 ..... practices intuitive readings, shiatsu, and deep tissue work at Esalen. He is a teacher and student of Siddha yoga.

Robert Bly, p. 26 ..... poet, editor, translator of poetry, is author of several books including This Tree Will Be Here for a Thousand Years and National Book Award winner Light Around the Body.

Jessica Moore Britt p. 11, 20, 25, 28 ..... is a registered nurse who is presently a member of the Esalen community and a practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to well-being.

Charles Brooks, p. 25, 26 ..... author of Sensory Awareness, the Rediscovery of Experiencing, has been a teacher of sensory awareness since 1963 often in conjunction with Charlotte Selver.

C

Annie Callaway-Galland, p. 21, 22, 26 ..... professional wilderness guide and counselor, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for many years.

Joseph Campbell p. 21 ..... is a professor emeritus at Sarah Lawrence College. He is a mythologist, lecturer, and author of The Hero With a Thousand Faces, The Masks of God, and Myths to Live By.

Anne Caple p. 29 ..... is a technical writer and editor with earlier careers as homemaker and fiber artist. She is a student of the intuitive process.

John Caple p. 29 ..... is a career counselor and college professor with an earlier career in business management.

Seymour Carter p. 12, 31 ..... has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years, and is currently a teacher in residence at Esalen.

Michell Cassou p. 23 ..... is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

Stanford Eugene Cates p. 18, 23, 25, 27 ..... is working and in training with Paul Rebillot, assisting and co-leading groups. He has trained in Trager psychophysical integration and is a minister.

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud, p. 11, 21 ..... a professional dancer and teacher of movement, has studied and performed ballet, modern jazz, Afro-Cuban and primitive dance in New York and the West Indies.

Stewart Cubley, ... artist and scientist, is a co-founder of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 23

D

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) ..... certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches to well-being in group and private instruction.
p. 17, 27, 32

Steven Donovan ..... is director of The Transformation Project and an Esalen trustee.
p. 25

Jack Downing, ... M.D., is a psychiatrist with a comprehensive background in gestalt, Rolfing®, Arica, applied kinesiology, and neurolinguistic programming.
p. 13, 30

Vera Dunham ..... is an internationally acclaimed poet, translator, essayist, and expert on Soviet culture.
p. 17

E

Esalen Massage Practitioners ..... include Peggy Morrison Horan, Deane Juhan, George King, Lila Daniels Klapman, Lars Larson, Bill Liles, Deborah Anne Medow, Jane Miletich, Dianne Sue Miller, Laurie Muller, Brita Ostrom, Vicki Topp, and Attila Vaas.
p. 11, 12, 21

F

James Fadiman ..... is a management consultant and teaches at Stanford and the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. He has taught Sufi stories for six years.
p. 26

Rosemary Feitis, ... a certified Rolfer® and editor of Ida Rolf Talks, is presently working on two manuscripts: one on consciousness and perception; the other, with Louis Schultz, on anatomy.
p. 13

Neil Fiore, ... a licensed psychologist practicing hypnosis, is working on the effects of stress and anxiety on performance and health.
p. 14

David Finkelstein ..... is a physics professor at Georgia Institute of Technology and edits the International Journal of Theoretical Physics. He has given several presentations at Esalen previously.
p. 11, 21, 22

Corey Fischer ..... is an actor, writer, and founding member of Traveling Jewish Theater. In fifteen years he has worked with, among others, Joe Chaikin, Linda Putman, and The New York Shakespeare Festival.
p. 31

Joyce Frazee ..... is a gestaltist whose training includes art, group process, bioenergetics, body awareness, and psychosynthesis.
p. 32

G

Dick Galland, ... professional wilderness guide and fly fishing instructor, was founding director of Southwest Outward Bound and currently heads Clearwater Trout Tours. He has led Esalen trips for several years.
p. 21, 22, 26, 28

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) ..... is a chiropracter, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and is in private practice in West Los Angeles and San Francisco.
p. 16, 23, 26

Joe D. Goldstrich, ... past national director of education and community programs for the American Heart Association, is a physician and author specializing in nutrition and preventive medicine.
p. 32

Harriet Goslins ..... is a Feldenkrais practitioner and an awareness-through-movement teacher with a background in psychosynthesis and applied kinesiology.
p. 18, 20

Susan Griffin ..... is an author, poet, teacher, and lecturer. Formerly an instructor at U.C. Berkeley and San Francisco State University, she now teaches writing privately.
p. 29

Christina Grof ..... studied with Swami Muktananda and has a special interest in the kundalini process and "transpersonal crises." She is founder of the Spiritual Emergency Network and co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 11, 14, 18, 21, 22, 26

Stanislav Grof ..... is a psychiatrist with over twenty years experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics. He is author of Realms of the Human Unconscious and LSD Psychotherapy.
p. 11, 14, 18, 21, 22, 26

H

Betsy Hand, ... former resident staff member of the Gestalt Institute of Canada, has 20 years experience with families, couples, and groups. She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.
p. 26

Robert Hand, ... as an astrological teacher, author, consultant, and researcher, is involved in micro-computer technology. His latest books are Horoscope Symbols and Essays on Astrology (Para Research).
p. 18

Hareesh ..... is interested in alternative nutritional programs.
p. 13

Michael Harner, ... an anthropologist who has studied shamanism among South and North American Indians for more than two decades, is the author of The Way of the Shaman.
p. 11, 14

Sandra Harner, ... textile artist and executive director of the Center for Shamanic Studies, Norwalk, Connecticut, has accompanied her husband, Michael, in studies among Upper Amazon tribes.
p. 14

Steven Harper ..... teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, and is currently the coordinator of the Esalen Wilderness Programs.
p. 10, 11, 22, 25

Susan Harper, ... a dance teacher in Los Angeles and San Francisco, is co-founder of Continuum Montage, a company which produces and distributes recordings by musicians and composers.
p. 11, 21

John Heider, ... a psychologist in private practice in Coconut Grove, Florida, is a group leader and teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Residential program from 1967-71.
p. 11, 21

Hazel Henderson ..... is a self-described "independent, self-employed futurist," and author of The Politics of the Solar Age: Alternatives to Economics (Anchor Press / Doubleday).
p. 20

Nick Herbert, ... an independent researcher in the foundations of physics, is completing a popular book on quantum foundations entitled Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics (Doubleday).
p. 16

James Hickman ..... is director of Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange Program.
p. 23

Peggy Morrison Horan ..... is an Esalen masseuse and teacher, and coordinator of the Esalen Childbirth Education Program.
p. 17, 32

Paul Horn ..... is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and teacher of meditation.
p. 13

Chungliang Al Huang ..... is the founder-president of The Living Tao Foundation, and director of its Lan Ting Institute, an international cultural-arts network for lifelong learning.
p. 13, 21

J

Ed Jackson, ... trained in family medicine, pediatrics, and epidemiology, teaches in Berkeley, California. He is in private practice and is interested in gestalt and Reichian body work.
p. 29

Andrea Juhan ..... is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practitioner, leads movement exploration classes for various group leaders, and conducts Esalen community classes in stretch/exercises, aerobics, and dance.
p. 10, 11, 17, 20

Deane Juhan, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.
p. 14, 17

K

James Kavanaugh, ... former priest, psychologist, novelist, and poet is the author of twenty books and director of an institute in Reno, sponsoring SEARCH workshops.
p. 29

George King, ... a massage practitioner for 22 years, has worked throughout the U.S., Europe, and South America.
p. 13, 14, 26

Joel Kirsch, ... a founding member of the Energy Training Institute, has developed and presented energy training programs in management, human resource development, sports, dance, and education.
p. 26, 29

Susan Kirsch, ... with a background in educational research and training, specializes in speech communications. Her doctoral project is entitled Trust and Energy Training in Organizational Development.
p. 29

Murray Korngold ..... is a certified acupuncturist and a teacher and speaker on parapsychology and psychic healing.
p. 13, 30

L

Benj Langdon, ... former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.
p. 15, 17, 29

Timothy Leary ..... is a philosopher and scientific optimist.
p. 24

Dub Leigh ..... has been trained by Ida Rolf and Moshe Feldenkrais and has studied with Lauren Berry and Milton Trager.
p. 27

Annie Styron Leonard ..... is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.
p. 25, 27

George Leonard, ... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.
p. 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30

Peter Levine ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He holds doctorates in medical biophysics and psychology. His interests include the effects of stress on children and infants.
p. 11, 21, 29

Bill Liles, ... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, integrates polarity with traditional Esalen massage.
p. 18, 23

DeeDee Lozier ..... is a Feldenkrais practitioner who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in the United States and Israel.
p. 27

Nancy Kaye Lunney, ... a gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, does individual as well as group work, and is manager of programming at Esalen.
p. 28

M

Gregory Manteuffel, ... medical director of the homeopathic Hering Family Clinic, Berkeley, received advanced training in homeopathy from the International Foundation for Homeopathy and the Himalayan Institute.
p. 30

John McKeithen, ... a practitioner and teacher of Esalen deep tissue work for several years, is presently in practice in Petaluma, California.
p. 12

Terence McKenna ..... authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at U.C. Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and Amazonas.
p. 20

Deborah Anne Medow, ... Esalen body work practitioner and group leader since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines, and studies Native American tradition.
p. 13, 17, 18, 29

Laurie Muller (Lioness), ... a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches of healing the body, mind, and spirit.
p. 26

Laurie Schutz Munyer ..... has been a long time resident of Esalen, a staff member in several capacities, and has assisted at Gazebo. She is now a member of the Esalen Massage Crew.
p. 29

Arthur Munyer ..... is a long time resident of Esalen and a member of the Massage Crew. He was one of the first faculty members at the Gazebo School at Esalen.
p. 29

Jezariah Canyon Munyer, ... born February 11, 1983, is his parents' favorite teacher.
p. 29

Dulce Murphy ..... is a founder of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program and director of its Health Promotion Project.
p. 23

Michael Murphy ..... is co-founder of Esalen Institute and founder of The Transformation Project. He is author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, and An End to Ordinary History.
p. 23, 25

N

Naomi Newman, (aka Pollack) ..... director, writer, and performer with Traveling Jewish Theater is a member of the Gestalt Institute, Los Angeles. Her theater work has gone hand in hand with her work as a counselor.
p. 31

The NINE ..... "We are pure thought human fantasy seeking a road to the birth canal of reality where we will be seen as 'The NINE'."
p. 31

O

Jenny O'Connor ..... is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."
p. 31

Timothy O'Reilly ..... is a writer, teacher, and businessman. His teaching is based on the consciousness work of George Simon.
p. 13

Wendy Oser, ... founder and director of Video Feedback Service of Berkeley, and creator of Video Insight, specializes in transpersonal, professional, and personal applications of video.
p. 14, 16

P

Brita Ostrom, p. 23, 32 ... a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.

Helen Palmer, p. 11, 22 ... a clairvoyant counselor, is director of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition and uses personality issues as access points to psychic perception and the inner life.

Mary Payne p. 23 ... is a trustee of Esalen.

Hector Prestera, p. 29 ... a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neurolinguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.

Christine Price p. 10, 11, 12, ... combines gestalt practice with creative visualizations and body meditations.

Richard Price p. 11, 12, 22 ... is the co-founder of Esalen and has been practicing gestalt as a facilitator for over twelve years.

Lee Pulos p. 17 ... is a clinical psychologist whose career has ranged from traditional clinical practice in hypnosis to his current interests in gathering cross-cultural data on paranormal healing.

R

Robert Raleigh p. 20 ... is a Feldenkrais movement teacher learning to map the higher functions of the nervous system relative to their movement correlations.

Paul Rebillot p. 14, 17, 18, 23, 25, 27 ... was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theater Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.

Sogyal Rinpoche, p. 26 ... a Tibetan lama and specialist in the traditional knowledge associated with the Tibetan Book of the Dead, is director of a special project with the Scientific and Medical Network in London.

Rita Rohen, p. 11, 21 ... an international group leader and body worker, is co-coordinator and trainer for the Spiritual Emergency Network at Esalen. Her background includes family therapy and organizational development.

Jack Rosenberg, p. 11, 22 ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.

S

David Schiffman p. 11, 13, 14, 17, 18, 21, 22, 23, 26, 30, 31 ... a longtime leader at Esalen, is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.

Elisa Lodge Schiffman p. 11, 13, 17, 21, 26 ... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf®-movement integration.

R. Louis Schultz, p. 13 ... Ph.D., a certified Rolfer®, Rolf®-movement practitioner, and director of the New York School for Rolfing®, has developed a living anatomy course from his teaching experiences.

Will Schutz, p. 25 ... founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.

Alan Schwartz p. 22 ... is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."

Charlotte Selver p. 25, 26 ... teaches sensory awareness, perception, and non-verbal and verbal communication. A center has been built for her long-term study groups at Green Gulch Farm through the Zen Center, San Francisco.

Julian Silverman, p. 18, 28 ... an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.

Saul-Paul Sirag p. 16 ... has published two physics papers in Nature and has authored a theory on the size of the universe. In 1977 he founded the Consciousness Theory Group, which he directs.

Harry Sloan, p. 13, 15, 30 ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Dr. Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.

Gerald Smith p. 26 ... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.

David Sobel, p. 16 ... a practicing physician, is chief of preventive medicine at Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center, San Jose, contributing editor to Medical Self-Care, and author of Ways of Health.

Charlene Spretnak p. 24 ... is author of Lost Goddesses of Early Greece, editor of The Politics of Women's Spirituality, and co-author with Fritjof Capra, of Green Politics.

Elizabeth Stratton, p. 22 ... a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.

Gael Switzer p. 14 ... is a Rolfer® and teacher of Rolf®-movement integration. She has studied movement with Judith Aston.

T

Tom Taussig p. 16 ... teaches psychology and computer science, and is irreverently committed to life being easy.

Gioia Timpanelli, p. 15, 26 ... poet, storyteller, educational TV writer and broadcaster / producer, is author of Stones for the Hours of the Night and Emmy award winner for the series "Stories from My House."

Vicki Topp p. 29 ... joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.

U

Dana Ullman, p. 30 ... M.P.H., is an educator, publisher, editor, author, practitioner, and public policy advisor in the field of homeopathic medicine, alternative medicine, and self-care.

W

John Welwood p. 28 ... is a clinical psychologist and editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and Awakening the Heart: East / West Approaches to Psychotherapy and the Healing Relationship.

Y

Alan Young p. 19 ... is a spiritual healer in private practice in Carmel, California, and the author of a recently published book, Spiritual Healing: Miracle or Mirage?

Z

Janet Zuckerman p. 10, 11, 13 ... has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than ten years. Her work includes emotional release work, group process, and gestalt practice.

Catalog Subscription Information

The Esalen Catalog is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year, including postage and handling, is $8 for the United States, $10 for Canada and Mexico, $14 for Europe and South America, and $16 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. A preaddressed envelope is included in this catalog for your convenience.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

Please notify us if you change your address and check here ☐ if you are receiving duplicates of the catalog.

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student	$15	One Year Donor	$50	One Year Patron	$500
One Year Individual	$25	One Year Sponsor	$100	(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes
and artwork
by people of the Esalen community
is now available.
To order by mail,
use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies of Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $1.20 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $7.15. (California residents add $.35 tax.) I am enclosing a total of $ _____ .

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery.

Audio Recordings

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single-tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Jean Houston: The Possible Human/The Possible Society
Marilyn Ferguson: Our Dreams Work in the World
Elizabeth Campbell: Strategies for the 1980s
Thomas Szasz: The Myth of Psychotherapy
Toni & John Lilly: Reality and Beliefs

Helen Caldicott: Medical Effects of Nuclear War
Ram Dass: Embracing Paradox (Dharma and The Bomb)
Thomas Banyacya: Hopi Prophecy and Survival
Donald Keys: Choosing a New World

Prem Das: Healing Our Planet and Ourselves
Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice
Claudio Naranjo: Insights into Spiritual Birth
David Zeller: A Kabbalistic Perspective on Consciousness
Fritjof Capra: The Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms

Mother Theresa: Bombay ITA Conference Address, 1982
Father Bede Griffiths: Christian Doctrine and Contemporary Science
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Formative Causation)

Charles Brooks: Introduction to Sensory Awareness
Charlotte Selver: Experiments in Sensory Awareness
Ken Dychtwald: Strategies for Stress Management
Tom Ferguson: What About Self-Care?
Gregory Bateson: Eternal Verities of Life
Sogyal Rinpoche: Interview on Death and Dying
Stanislav Grof: Introduction to Spiritual Emergency Work
Christina Grof: Kundalini Awakening and Spiritual Emergency

Robert Bly: The Six Powers of Poetry
Gioia Timpanelli: Fairy Tales: The Enduring Stories
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality
Terence McKenna: Psilocybin and the Sands of Time
Terence McKenna: The Definitive UFO Tape
Robert Anton Wilson: The Prism Lecture

Alan Watts: Interviewed by Michael Murphy, 1964
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities, 1962
Carl Rogers: The Intensive Group, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Fritz Perls: Dream Theory and Demonstration, 1968

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Daniel Ellsberg: (2) The Nuclear Policy Catastrophe, 1983
Ram Dass: (2) Ten Years in Retrospect, 1982
Arthur M. Young: (2) Interviewed on His Life and Work, 1983
Carl Rogers: (2) A Weekend at Esalen, 1983

Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life
Sheldrake, Capra, Targ & Grof: (2) Considerations
Stan & Christina Grof: (2) The Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm
Sogyal Rinpoche: (2) Training for the Moment of Death

Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe
don Jose: (2) 69 Years of Huichol Apprenticeship
Andrew Weil: (2) Use and Abuse of Beneficial Plants
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities

Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human
Robert Bly: (2) Poetry East and West
Bernard Aaronson: (2) Tantric Chant, Poetry, and Hypnosis, 1969
Poetry of Robinson Jeffers: (2) A Dramatic Presentation, 1972

Please add $2 to your order for mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail your order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Donald Keys: Inner Transformation and Outer Involvement (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 with check ($44 with purchase order)
Jack Kornfield: Buddhist Meditation and Practice
Anne & Jim Armstrong: A Psychic Training Program (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Julian Silverman: The Structural Basis of Body Work (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
R. D. Laing: Dialogues with James Fadiman and Fritjof Capra (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Joseph Campbell: Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Rosenberg: New Understanding of Sexual Relationships (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Theodore Roszak & William Irwin Thompson: Personal and Cultural Transformation (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Rollo May: A Weekend with Rollo May: The F. Scott Fitzgerald Myth and Your Own (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)

Julian Silverman: Further Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (6 tapes, 7½ hours) $60 ($66)
The 1983 Santa Barbara Conference: Entheogens: The Spiritual Psychedelics (6 tapes, 6½ hours) $60 ($66)
Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)
Gregory Bateson: Steps to an Ecology of Mind (6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend (6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)
Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development (7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)

Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement: The Feldenkrais Method (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $72 ($80)
Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)
Julian Silverman: Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (8 tapes, 10 hours) $72 ($80)

Buckminster Fuller: The Pajaro Dunes Tapes: A Weekend Seminar (8 tapes, 12 hours) $80 ($88)
Esalen 1979–1980 Stress and Caring Conferences (10 tapes, 14 hours) $80 ($88)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and the Individual Adventure (10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)
Gregory Bateson: The Informal Esalen Lectures 1975-1980 (12 tapes, 18 hours) $98 ($108)

Please add $2 for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please mail your order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Audiotapes of FACES OF THE ENEMY conference . . .

"The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything save our modes of thinking, and thus we drift toward unparalleled catastrophes."
—Albert Einstein

"We have met the enemy and he is us." —Pogo

FACES OF THE ENEMY, a multidisciplinary symposium held at the San Francisco Palace of Fine Arts in January 1983—co-sponsored by the University of California at Berkeley, the Tarrytown Group, and Esalen Institute—examines the darkness, the shadow within us. The premise is that hope begins when we acknowledge and face our dark side, re-owning our projections, learning to change the habitual patterns that govern us. Speakers from the arts, sciences, philosophy, religion, and from the Soviet and the United States governments address the process of psychological projection, the creation and perception of enemies, the political function of propaganda, and the conditions that will allow us to attain peace within ourselves, with others, and on the planet:

Sam Keen: Paranoia, Propaganda, and Projection
Ashley Montagu: Is There Any Way Out?

Valentin Berezhkov: How Russians Perceive Americans
Arthur Macy Cox: How Americans Perceive Russians

Susan Griffin: The Need for an Enemy

Robert Bly: What the Shadow Knows

Richard Baker-Roshi: An Eastern Perspective
William Sloane Coffin: A Western Perspective

Cost of complete set of Faces Of The Enemy (8 tapes, 11 hours) in vinyl album is $72 ($80 with purchase order). Please add $2 for handling and mailing. California residents add 6% tax. Please address your order enclosing check payable to Planet Tapes and mail to: Planet Tapes — Hot Springs Lodge — Big Sur, California 93920

Recordings from the Early Years

A 32-page catalog of tape recordings from the human potential movement, including the early years of Esalen's history, is available for $2 from: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 91, Big Sur, California 93920. Commercial use of Esalen program tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved.

Meditation Music, Space Age Music

The new music, called by many names (spatial, cosmic, celestial, transcendent, meditational) covers a wide range and is becoming increasingly known and appreciated. Listed here are several mail order sources for catalogs or information: ABODE TAPES, P.O. Box 300, New Lebanon, New York 12125; BACKROADS, 530 South 46th St., Boulder, Colorado 80303; HEARTS OF SPACE, P.O. Box 31321, San Francisco, California 94131; NARADA, 1804 E. North Ave., Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53202; VITAL BODY MARKETING, Box 703, Fresh Meadows, New York 11365, and YES! BOOKSTORE & TAPES, 1035 31st Street NW, Washington D.C. 20007.

The Media Center

Esalen

This 18 minute videotape, which tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present, is an inexpensive way to view the general offerings available at Esalen. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities. The musical soundtrack is by Paul Horn, Joel Andrews, and "Pinchey Pete" Velasquez.

Cost: For Rent:

½" VHS color video cassette ..... per week $10.00
¾" U-Matic color video cassette ..... per week $15.00

Cost: For Sale:

½" VHS color video cassette $35.00
¾" U-Matic color video cassette $40.00

This program is available for purchase in its original form—a two-projector slide dissolve show which can also be viewed with a single projector.

Cost: For Sale:
Slide Program—including 130 slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entré 7610 dissolve unit available on request) $150.00

Color Slide Sets

Sets of five scenes of Esalen—the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, garden, the outdoor hot baths, t'ai chi on the pool deck—are available for sale at $4.50 per set.

Please address your order with a check payable to the ESALEN MEDIA CENTER, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. California residents add 6% sales tax for sale purchases.

Overseas air mail orders please add additional postage: each slide program $10 ($15 for Australia and Asia), each video cassette $7, each slide set $1.

Films

Films of the work of Fritz Perls, Carl Rogers, Abraham Maslow, Rollo May, Virginia Satir, Alexander Lowen, and others, are available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 110 North Wheeler Street, Orange, California 92669. For color documentaries with Alan Watts, Huston Smith, Lama Govinda, Joseph Campbell, Edgar Mitchell, Margaret Mead, and others, write HARTLEY PRODUCTIONS, Cat Rock Road, Cos Cob, Connecticut 06807. A film or video cassette on Chungliang Al Huang's work, entitled Tai Chi: The Watercourse Way, is available through KLB PRODUCTIONS, 490 Redwood Road, Corralitos, California 95076. Regarding the forthcoming documentary on Gregory Bateson, send inquiries also to KLB PRODUCTIONS at the above address. Recent color videotapes of Stephen Levine and Ram Dass on "Conscious Living/Conscious Dying", and of Daniel Ellsberg, Helen Caldicott, and others on the nuclear issue are available from ORIGINAL FACE VIDEO, Box 447, Grass Valley, Ca. 95945.

General Information

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three-week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to:
Reservations, Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335
Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 am to 3 pm
Wednesday 9 am to 12 Noon
Friday 9 am to 8 pm
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 pm

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, please call our alternate number (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 4 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop will be $25, and a five day will be $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $1800 per 26-day period.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Limousine Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain limousine service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pickups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $18 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen limousine service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

David Nelson

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $60 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $100 per day, or $110 per day per couple. Special family rates are available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 46.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

There are sometimes unexpected situations that may require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? If you can't be reached please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Do you smoke? _____

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. (For further details see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 10.)

Limousine Service:

I want limousine service from (check one):

_____ Monterey Airport

_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station

at 5:00 pm on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only)

The $18 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the limousine change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen limousine service is not available at any time other than 5 pm.

Check here ☐ if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

License Number:

(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Your reservation can be charged to:

MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page . The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

The Esalen Catalog

May-October 1984

Contents

Volume XXIII, Number 2

Audio Recordings 48–49
Big Sur Wilderness Experience 11
Biographical Information 42–47
Catalog Subscription Information 47
Conferences at Esalen 12
Esalen Seminars 14–38
Experiencing Esalen 11
Experiencing Esalen: The Body 11
Food for Thought:

Bamboo Shoots with Grain of Salt 7
Chungliang Al Huang

Dealing with the Dragons: 4–6
An Interview with Robert Bly

The Need to Historicize 8–9
James Hillman

Wait for Me 10
Konstantin Simonov
Translation by Vera Dunham

Friends of Esalen 47
Future Programs 41
General Information 50
Gestalt Practice 11
Media Center 49
Medical Programs 41
Reservations Form 51
Scholarship Information 12
Special Programs 39
Ways of Being at Esalen 11–12
Wilderness Programs 40–41
Work Study Program and Application 13

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 9 am to 3 pm
Wednesday 9 am to 12 Noon
Friday 9 am to 8 pm
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 pm

Catalog Editor: Heather Tarnas
Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Photographic Coordination: Joyce Rogers
Cover Photograph: Steve Beck

©1984 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Harold Benjamin
Steven Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Richard Gunther
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Perry

Friends of Esalen

For 22 years Esalen has thrived on the support and encouragement of Esalen's extended family throughout the world. Many of these people have emphasized their belief in Esalen's activities by becoming "Friends of Esalen" through financial contributions to Esalen's scholarship fund. In the past year Esalen has renewed its commitment to the further exploration of human frontiers by creating a comprehensive plan for the future use of the Esalen property. This long-term development plan is designed to fulfill the needs of a future world increasingly committed to changing human values. The following list of people have provided substantial support to the Institute as Friends of Esalen and contributors to the development plan. We thank everyone for their continuing involvement in Esalen Institute.

Grant Abert
Richard M. Adams
William Allen
Ralph Alpert
Arthur Anderson
Mr. & Mrs. Les Anderson
Lew Andrews
Anonymous
James Armstrong
Chloe P. Atkins
Stephen Aubry
Ian & Toni Baker
Gisele Barret
David Barstow
Phillip Bauer
Walter Beebe
Fr. Justin Belitz, OFM
Harold Benjamin
Robert & Jeanne Benoliel
Richard Bertram
A. S. Bigelow
William B. Bilohorka
John & Nancy Bissell
Mark Bloome
Bernie Blough
Dorothy Blumm
Dick Bogard
J. J. Boissier
Michele Branca
Ted Brandhorst
Charles Brandon
Joseph Brandon
Dr. Michael C. Braun
Barbara Braunstein
Ian Brett
Kenneth Briggs
Crittenden E. Brookes, M.D.
Heidi Broström
Charles Brush
Michael Buchele
Robert Burg
Pauline Burgher
Mr. & Mrs. Burleson
Stan Burns
Roger Byrd
Martha Cameron
William & Ruth Campbell
Dee Caperton
John Caple
Don W. Carlson
Werner Carlson
J. A. Cirie
Susan Cochran
Murray Cohen
James H. Coker
C. Napier Collyns
Mr. & Mrs. Conland
Cliff Conran
Fielder Cook
Margaret D. Cooper
Helen Cowley
Arthur Cox
H. W. Coxon
Constance Crawford
Harriett Crosby
Oz Crosby
Linda Crouse
Nancy Crow
Stephen Cutter
Henry Dakin
Matt Dalton
J. Davis
Mark Dayton
Arcadia De Fontenay
Arthur & Etta Deikman
Frank & Mary Deits
John & Maxine Denham
Joseph & Carol DeGuardi
Rene di Rosa
Bill & Betsy Doenges
Jerome Domurat
Steven Donovan
Kenneth Dorman
Jerome C. Dougherty
Lynne Dover
Frances Doyle
John Dukes
Robert Dunlap
Madelaine A. Dykema
Ferdinand Eberstadt Foundation
Ward Edwards
Victoria Elliot
Jane English
Yvonne Esposito
Mark & Johanna Evans
Ann Farish
Susan Fast
Charles & Virginia Fauvre
Alan Felix
Findhorn Foundation
John Findling
Cass Flagg
Flaxman Foundation
Alysoun Huntley Ford
Dr. Karl Fossum
Richard Fowler
Elaine Fox
Leon Frankel
Marshall Frankel
Joanne Freeman
Robert Freeman
Richard A. Freling
Betty Fuller
Susan Fulton
Rex Fuqua
John Galbraith
Foster Gamble
Jerome Gary
Suzanne Gauntlett
Norman Gershman
Marilyn & Don Gevirtz
Allen Goodman
David B. & Edward B. Goodstein Foundation
Gwendolyn Grace
Elmer & Alyce Green
Bob Grossman
Richard Gunther
Gerald V. Haigh
Margaret & Peter Harding, M.D.
Cynthia Harris, M.D.
John A. Harris IV
Donald Haselwood
R. Allen & Helen Hermes
Michael Hersey
James L. Hickman
Paul D. Hickman
Colin Higgins
Bernice H. Hill
Marian Hindmarsh
Peggy Hitchcock
Lee G. Hobart
Harrison & Olivia Hoblitzelle
Leighton Hodges
George & Ann Hogle
Grace Huffman
Paul Hughes
Laura Huxley
Phillip C. Hyde
Anna Ingenito
Institute of Noetic Science
Travis & Linda Jackson
Bill & Lila Jaeger
Stella James
William James
James Jarvis
Ed Jennings
Jim Jenson
Walker Jensen
F. B. Jenson
Joseph Johnson
Robert Johnston
Barbara S. Jones
Ben & Inez Jones
Thorton Jordon
John & Nancy Jungerman
Robert Kalin
Ryland Kelley
Shaun Kelley, Jr.
Ruth Kerhart
Paul Kervick
Kathy Kirkpatrick
William Kistler III
Mary Ellen Klee
Carolyn Kleefeld
Kalman & Eleanor Klein
Katherine Klein
Don G. Kolp
Howard Kornfeld
Nabuaki Kunija
Rene Laberge
Alan Lakein
Shelley Lamper
John K. Landre
Jean Lanier
Ada Beth Lee
Sun yee Lee
Barbara Legge
Richard Lert
Michael Lesparre
David M. Levitt
Charlie Levy
Michael R. Lewis
George Lichter

Esalen in December

Slowly I settle into water, hot, sulfurous, until it kisses
my chin and my mind wafts away.
Incense and vapors
Shadow dances with candle-flame
The ocean roaring below delivers me momentarily to December winds icy from winter
roaring in faraway mountains.

—written and dedicated by David DiDomenico to George Lichter

Life Dynamics Foundation
Edith Lozier
Joshua Mailman
Jackie Malik
Clara Mallar
Cecilia Marcus
Mrs. W. M. Mayes
John Mayott
Don McDavid
Josselyn Mellon
Millenium Foundation
James Miller
John Miller
Carole & Michael Milligan
Stanley Mills
Robert Misch
Robert Mister
Bernard J. Mizock, M.D.
Joseph Moran
Jacqueline C. Morby
Lila Stanley Murphy
John Naisbitt
Dolores Nesbit
Mary Newman
Henry & Mary Cushing-Niles
Sherrill Nilson
Jo Norris
James Odell
Liam O'Gallagher
John Palmer
Parker Foundation
Stanley Parry
John Pavis
Mary Payne
Claiborne Pell
Marion Pelton
People House, Inc.
Edward Peterson
Philosophical Society of San Francisco
Sally Pierone
Thomas A. Pilling
William Pitt
Anna Bell Popp
Carol Porcello
Henry Pransky
Dr. Frederick E. Pratt
Rosalie & Maurie Pressman
Lee Pulos
Spiro Radonich
Mildred Allen Ries
Pedro Robell
Janice Roberts
Marius A. Robinson
Laurance S. Rockefeller
Theodore Rockwell
Marc Ronca
Robert E. Rose
June Rosenberg
Howard & Beverley Rosenfeld
Erwin A. Salk
Leon Savetsky
Bayla Schecter
Marianne Schieber
Carl H. Schmitt
William B. Sechrest
Robert & Jeanne Segal
Salvatore Sellaro
Madeline Sherwood
D. Wayne Silby
June Singer
Robert Slocombe
Clyn Smith
Mary P. Smith
Myron Smith
Wallace B. Smith
William H. Smith
Richard Soper
Jod Souers
Maunce J. Spectoroff
Mae Stadler
Lila Stanley
Hugo Steigman
James Stevens
Thomas & Elaine Stevenson
Leonard & Merle Stine
Judith Stout
Edward J. Stringham
F. J. Suatoni
Debbie Swackhamer
Albert Sweet
Deborah Szekely
Helen Talge
Nettie Tamler
Queenie Taylor
Fred Terman
Hobart & Rachel Thomas
Margaret Rohrer Thomas
Three Swallows Foundation
Threshold Foundation
William Thurston
Tides Foundation
Roger & Eileen Tiel
Charles & Lois Tilden
Mary L. Tiscornia
Ted Todd
S. Bates Tompkins
Robert Toporek
Toulouse Foundation
Katherine Tremaine
Joanna Turkan
Bill Twist
Edmund Tyska
Andre Ventresca
Mark Von Hagke
Dr. & Mrs. Jeremy Waletzky
Tom Wallace
James Wang
David & Nancy Warner
Steven Weiner
Tom West
Stephen White
Betty Whitehead
Whitney Foundation
Gunther Wieland
Terry Killam Wilbur
Margaret Wilburn
Gail Williams
Helen Williams
Sherry Williams
Jerry A. Wills
Larry Wilson
David Michael Winton
Jerry & Nancy Wisnia
Cornelia Wohlfarth
Peter M. Wohlwend
Bruce & Mary Woolpert
Hank Worden
Dale Wright
Lance & Barbara Wright
Jerry & Lee Wyker
James Yarbrough
Bonnie Ying
The Youth Project
Ben Zimmerman

Dealing with the Dragons: An Interview with Robert Bly

Steve Bell

Robert Bly is one of America's leading poets. He first gained national attention when, upon receiving the National Book Award for The Light Around the Body, he used the award ceremony to donate his prize money to the Vietnam draft resistance movement. Through his critically acclaimed journal (called, successively, The Fifties, The Sixties, The Seventies, and The Eighties), he has helped introduce American audiences to gifted European and Latin American poets. When not writing at his cabin in rural Northern Minnesota, Bly gives "poetry concerts" and seminars in poetry, mythology, psychology, and fairy tale interpretations. He often accompanies himself by dulcimer or bouzouki (a Greek lute), and occasionally uses masks to make mythological ideas come to life. Fond of bringing together disparate notions into imaginative formulations, Bly can then shatter these same formulations in his next sentence. He describes himself as a teacher, not a guru.

The following conversation between Bly and Sy Safransky is an excerpt from a longer interview which appeared in Issue 96 of The Sun, the North Carolina magazine of which Safransky is editor. It is reprinted here with Mr. Safransky's permission.

SAFRANSKY: Robert, your criticism of the new age movement for its "compulsive cheerfulness" makes a great deal of sense. Yet I wonder whether the cheerfulness and childishness aren't the edge of something else. Cheerfulness may just be redirected spirituality.

BLY: Or true faith may be a redirection of energy that once went into cheerfulness. The so-called new age can be thought of as a rerun of the 1860's. As you know, Emerson and Thoreau and Whitman accepted Eastern ideas, and those ideas helped them to blossom. Thoreau in Walden mentions Kabir. America has always had part of its head open towards the East. Gary Snyder ends Myths and Texts with a sentence from Thoreau: "The sun is but a morning star."

Yet that spirituality you mention fed itself, and still feeds itself, primarily on Asian food. We need the food, because teachers in our own tradition don't cook. I mean by that not one of the major Christian groups teaches meditation any longer, in a way that makes the discipline available. The Americans had to go to Asians to learn it. I am an example. I took instruction from Trungpa while he was still in Scotland, and later did meditation with Ananda Marga teachers. And yet that food is not quite right for us. The Asian emphasis on skipping over pain and suffering, such as one finds in Rajneesh disciples or TM disciples, seems to me dangerous for our psyches, and a violation of our deepest traditions. So I feel that if we have projected our interior spiritual guide onto Asian teachers, we should take it back now.

Many Eastern gurus suggest that our suffering and grief can be dismissed as Western neuroticism, and the student can go directly to bliss, or the heart, or the spirit. That idea is not helpful. Let me tell you a story.

Gioia Timpanelli from New York, and I sometimes work together when teaching or telling mythical material. That happened recently when we both taught at the summer session of the Rudolf Steiner people in California, at San Rafael. Steiner is a genius, but his disciples tend to avoid all negative emotions, and emphasize the spiritual nature right away. (Steiner was a theosophist for a while.) We found ourselves in hot water there.

When it came time for Gioia's performance, she decided to go ahead and present the other point of view. She told the audience that she would center her performance around the chakra system, and would begin with a story from the lowest chakra and move upward. To my astonishment, she told a dragon story for the anal chakra, which brought a lot of dragon-fierceness into the room, dragon greed and dragon brutality, and followed that with a dragon story for the sexual chakra and a dragon story for the stomach chakra. By now the audience was well off their feed, and I could feel that they were longing for their usual nourishment provided by spiritual nature and the prospect of spiritual victory. She wouldn't give it to them. They canned both of us shortly after.

SAFRANSKY: Say more about the dragon.

BLY: I have the sense that Asia went through its dragon-fighting stage hundreds, maybe thousands, of years ago. Krishna, who represents ancient Shaivite traditions, strangled dragons and giants when he was only one or two days old. He didn't have much trouble with them.

But we are still in the dragon-fighting stage; our dragons have not been defeated by any means. Do you remember that Beowulf's first battle was with Grendel, a giant, and Grendel's mother? And his last, from which he died, was with a dragon. That means we are not always victorious with dragons. Dragons come up again in the King Arthur cycle. Giants really won the Second World War in the sense that the Nazis got possessed by giant-energy and a tremendous cultural destruction followed.

I take all of this to mean that the giants and dragons are still very much alive inside us. The light tone of the new age often implies that all you need to do is to meditate 20 minutes a day and if something negative appears "bring it up and bathe it in the heart radiance." I hear revolting statements like that every day delivered with full confidence.

It's very dangerous—this heart radiance attitude—because if the dragon material is not dealt with, a man or woman can suffer a breakdown, and the longer the dealing is put off, the deeper the breakdown will be.

SYFRANSKY: What does it mean to you to deal with it?

BLY: First of all, we stop talking about enlightenment for awhile. The soul is not born ready for light. Joseph Campbell declares that the human infant, to judge by his inability to function well apart from his parents, is born twelve years too soon. A kind of marsupial pouch called the home is necessary; if it is not present, the body's development can arrest, suffer distortion, or end. But the human soul too needs a marsupial pouch. This is called mythology; if that is not present, the psyche's development can arrest, suffer distortion, or even end in suicide. Mythology in ancient times acted so as to guide the young psyche through regions of darkness; one can still feel "Hansel and Gretel" doing that guiding for children.

So, for us, mythology is more helpful than enlightment; or to put it chronologically, years of mythology need to come, accustoming the soul to darkness, before the soul is ready for enlightenment.

Some storytellers deal with dragon energy by memorizing stories and telling them: that is active, not passive, and so belongs to dealing. To take rage, anger, jealousy, envy seriously, while watching them, is a way of dealing with dragons. Rather than getting a massage in order to remove tensions from your body, you could say, "What's the matter with tensions in the body?" Rather than slandering your parents by taking an Asian name, you refuse to do that, and ask the Asian to take an American name. See if he'll do it. That will bring up a little dragon energy. Going back to your parents and trying to understand the grief in them, and in your relationship to them, is a good way. Dealing with dragons seems to involve moving backward or downward.

For the work with one's parents, and early childhood, Alice Miller has produced a superb book, called in cloth, Prisoners of Childhood, and in paper, The Drama of the Gifted Child. I think it's marvelous. It threw me into a depression for several weeks when I read it recently, but it was a good fall.

The "drama" is this: we receive a deep wound from our parents before we can speak and we spend the rest of our lives pretending we had a happy childhood. When people can't remember their childhood, or when they say, "Oh, it was very happy! I had wonderful parents," that is, Alice Miller says, the mark of a really deep wound. I always answered things like that if someone asked me about my childhood.

That our mothers and fathers gave us a wound does not stem from their being evil—that's not it at all—it stems from their being narcissistic. For our purposes here, that would mean that they needed us for something, or they needed us to be something, or they needed something from us. They weren't standing on all four legs in the world, they weren't complete in themselves, they were needy. But who isn't? Our parents too were born twelve years too early. What do they need us for? Well, my parents were second and third generation Norwegian immigrants, and felt, as many immigrants do, insecure, inferior, perhaps a little savage, and they needed my brother and me to be nice.

The nature we brought with us from the far reaches of the universe, and worked on in the womb, using the threads of DNA, and the genetic cross threads, was our nature, and our gift. But our parents didn't want it.

Alice Miller believes that we each live with this tremendous wound, which amounts to a rejection that is, because it is pre-verbal, not accessible to encounter group tellings nor to confession. And what do we do then, if we can't express it? We can work it out by rejecting somebody close to us—that would keep us in unconscious touch with it—or we can work it out as someone else rejects us. Both ways remind us of the rejection. I've done both.

We are all living through post-verbally the rejections we received pre-verbally. The important thing is gaining consciousness of the procedure, so that one doesn't have to go on being angry and offering blame for the rest of one's life. As the Buddhists say, when the pre-verbal is entered, blame disappears. But grief comes.

SAFRANSKY: Once you've acknowledged the deep grief and you're working with it, isn't there a way to bring it up to the heart, not superficially, but more profoundly?

BLY: I suppose. But some dragons don't want to be lifted up into the heart area. That's their place down where they are. You go down and meet them on their ground. "I'm going to lift you up and bathe you in the violet light of the heart." What do they care about that?

SAFRANSKY: You said last night that going to a Jungian analyst was money well-spent.

BLY: Yes, I said that learning to think intuitively is something our ancestors knew how to do. Fairy tales move intuitively from one point to another; so do myths. We've lost our ability to do that, so we have to hire someone to teach us to think intuitively, which teaching we mistakenly call therapy.

SAFRANSKY: Is that something you've done, or do?

BLY: Well, no, my therapy, or my instruction, came through reading Jung, alone, in the woods, while also trying to write poems. The intuitive intelligence and language appears in all dreams, in true fairytales, and in great poems. We have to struggle so much now to write poetry. I didn't publish my first book until I was 36, and I would say that the 10 to 15 years before that were spent trying to understand intuitive language and sound. Frost says, "A man is a writer if all his words are strung on definite recognizable sentence sounds. The voice of the imagination, the speaking voice, must know certainly how to behave, how to posture in every sentence he offers." I didn't have an older male that I could apprentice to, physically, in this world, but I did have one in the other world—Yeats. And he is a superb intuitive thinker; he is still my master, and I read him every day. I mentioned last night that I think the male needs to be initiated into the world of male intuition, but the initiator needn't be your father. He doesn't need to be alive. And I suspect women need and long for a similar initiation. Many women poets have been initiated by Emily Dickinson or by Anna Akhmatova.

SAFRANSKY: Another thing you said last night is that it takes a lot of energy for a man and woman to have a relationship; you have to get it back from your parents. I'd like you to talk about what that energy is, how you get it back, how you've gotten it back.

BLY: Let's say the dragons ate it. We're going to suppose that an energy, invisible but potent, a sort of liquid fire, appears in us and with us at birth. Our body produces it naturally, even while in the womb. When we are tiny, we keep some for ourselves, but most of it we give to feed our mother's thirst for it. We exchange it for a similar substance our mother gives us. We also, after we are two or three, give some, exchange some, with our father, but much less. Around twelve we begin to give more to the father.

What am I saying? Most of a boy's liquid fire, because his mother's sexuality has tremendous magnetism, becomes pulled toward and committed to his mother. Another way of saying it is the dragons eat it. They become fat on it. Dragons are not idealistic or religious; they are usually guarding some materialistic treasure they can't use themselves. So when the dragon eats the liquid fire, the stomach becomes home for a complicated interweaving family of energies: self preservation, love of food, longing to possess the mother, and beyond her, all women, the impulse for sexual union now confused with maternal receiving, fierce longing for comfort, for home, for not leaving home. The main image is that the dragons eat the liquid fire, and we can't get it back, because, fed by that fire, they get too fierce for us.

If we talk of early marriage, the young male doesn't have enough of that invisible fire energy available to sustain and feed a relationship. He has twenty percent or so at the most. And the girl? What she has not fed to the mother dragon, she has fed to the father dragon. The father dragon guards his useless treasure, and fights her off if she wants to get the fire back. So she too has no more than twenty percent to give to a man her own age.

That's a gloomy prospect. I remember in my first years of marriage a terrific loneliness. I think the loneliness appears because neither the man nor woman can give; what each is thirsty for the other has already committed somewhere else. The committing took place unconsciously, that is, without the conscious mind being utterly clear about it, and so the conscious mind feels helpless. It's like a lawyer who can't find the papers for a certain case—what can he do without them? Nothing.

SAFRANSKY: How does one go about making this process conscious?

BLY: Writing is very helpful, Jung and Marie-Louise von Franz are very helpful, imagining witches and dragons is very helpful, moving toward the non-maternal is very helpful. Accepting food stamps means participating in the maternalism of the state so that is not helpful. Drifting is not helpful. Joining a spiritual group usually means joining a reconstituted family, so that is usually not helpful. For a man in this situation, adopting feminine values is dangerous. I've tried all of these. I know that all my remarks need qualification, but each person can do that for himself or herself. In our culture now, the young male, being parted from positive masculine values by the collapse of mythology, and separated physically from his father by the Industrial Revolution, is often, in this new age, full of feminine values. Many of these values are marvelous, but their presence in his psyche are not well balanced by positive male values. It is the male, in both the man and in the woman, who fights the dragon—the dragon-fighter is not "a man" but the yang, whether that appears in a woman or in a man.

The young man in this decade, unable to get his fire energy away from the dragons, will find it difficult to support a relationship. To some extent, the young man, each time he leaves a woman, feels it as a victory, because he has escaped from his mother. But the woman feels it as a defeat. I notice that men, when around 35, begin to feel that their habit of leaving a woman amounts to a defeat too. Then the time has come to fight dragons, or as Iron John or Iron Hans (a Grimms Brothers story) says, "Steal the key to the wild man from under your mother's pillow."

I can't speak for women, but I suspect they have some work to do in getting the key from under their father's pillow. I think they do better on that in some ways than men do.

With men I understand the struggle a little better. During the struggle I think it's important to stop imagining yourself as spiritual. Spiritual people don't steal keys. You know that (laughs). I think the whole imagery of going down in the lower chakras and fighting the dragons has a certain quality in it that involves forgetting oneself as someone destined for higher consciousness. One doesn't consider oneself as someone spiritual, or someone nice, but one just does what men and women have done for hundreds of thousands of years, which is to deal with that material. It's also good to stop imagining oneself as a part of the new age.

(The Sun is a monthly magazine of ideas. Subscription rates: $25 for one year, $15 for half year. To subscribe, or to receive free sample copies, write to The Sun, 412 West Rosemary Street, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.)

Bamboo Shoots with Grain of Salt

Laughter in Chinese writing is depicted by a human with arms and legs flung wide apart, head up to the sky, vibrating with mirth like bamboo leaves in the wind.

Listen! The sound of true laughter is as open and clear as the flute-heart of bamboo. We are like that. Breathe through us freely and we make heavenly music.

To grow a proper laugh, start with the image of a baby shoot pushing up through the earth. Start with just the thoughts of laughter. Don't hurry it. Let it grow like the shoot. Wait for a genuine smile. Let it widen as a sound begins to tickle in the throat. Now let it begin to bounce around in the chest. Still, do not hurry it!

Think now of the rapidly growing bamboo, rising to the sun, leaves atremble in the fresh spring air. Allow your body to follow the leaves, expanding in all directions. Your breath is bigger, deeper, wider. S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g. Let it grow. Watch it go. Now give it its sound!

A chuckle shakes the shoulders; a guffaw is born in the belly. Haw—haw—haw—haw! How it escapes through the mouth and quakes and shakes and blooms and booms. Your very fingers are atingle with it. Your toes and kneecaps and hips and lips become the very sound of laughter. It is everywhere. Haw-haw-haw! ("Is that me?" you think, and laugh ever more fully and freely at the absurdity of the thought.)

Bam-bam-bam-boo . . . bamboozling you.

Haw—haw—haw!

The very same Haw-haw-haw, quaking and shaking can also be a good and healthy cry.

In the Chinese writing, the same human character, with brush strokes looking like arms and legs flung wide apart, is allowing tears to gush from the openings of the eyes and all emotional and energy channels.

Why do we hide tears and insist on restraining our natural expressions of feeling?

One of the most highly recommended Taoist and Zen meditations is to let your hair down, stick out your belly and roar with laughter. Shall we fantasize this ritual for all the great world leaders? Laughter can be particularly purifying for them during one of those important summit meetings where they gather to decide the fate of our world.

When was the last time you experienced a hearty, releasing cry?

Tears can be a most effective cleansing ritual as well. During funerals in China, we hire professional cryers to help us continue the drama of all necessary expressions of grief. We yell and scream our regrets and guilts with great gusto. By the time we have cried our eyes dry and our hearts out, we are released and at peace.

So . . .

Cry a lot.

Enjoy being the great and healthy human.

"Bamboo Shoots . . . " is a tidbit excerpted from Chungliang Al Huang's latest book, "Quantum Soup," a delightful series of philosophical essays, each introduced by the author's own Chinese calligraphy as shown here. Published by E. P. Dutton.

The Need to Historicize

James Hillman

In his newest book, Healing Fiction, James Hillman addresses the long-standing dichotomy between history as stories of outer events and fiction as stories of inner events: "As long as the problem is locked into the old mechanical dualities of soul and world, inner and outer, psychological and medical, we chug on down the same old ruts. Instead we have to see the inner necessity of historical events, out there, in the events themselves, where 'inner' no longer means private and owned by a self or a soul or an ego, where inner is not a literalized place inside a subject, but the subjectivity in events and that attitude which interiorizes those events, goes into them in search of psychological depths."

With Dr. Hillman's kind permission, the following essay is reprinted from Healing Fiction. (It can be found on pages 40-46 of the first chapter, entitled "The Fiction of Case History.")

Freud's crucial discovery that the stories he was being told were psychological happenings dressed as history and experienced as remembered events was the first recognition in modern psychology of psychic reality independent of other realities. It was, further, a recognition of the independence of memory from history and history from memory. There is history that is not remembered—forgetting, distortion, denial, repressing; there is also memory that is not historical—screen memories, confabulations, and those tales told him of early sexual trauma and primal scenes that had not occurred in the literal historical past.

The separability of history and memory—that memory is not a reliable guide to history and can falsify it—is old hat to historians. Hence their insistence upon objective documentary evidence. No document, no event. But that history is not the very substance of memory, that memory originates, presenting its productions as reproductions, throws open wide windows to a view of the mind, to reminiscence, and to the sense of time.

Platonists find nothing startling in Freud's rediscovery of what they had always said. From the Meno, through Augustine's Confessions, the Art of Memory in Guilio Camillo, to Swedenborg, Romantic philosophy, and Rudolf Steiner, reminiscence is never only of facts that happened in your or my lifetime, imprinted on the wax tablet of the mind, stored and retrieved through links of association. Memory for Platonism is a vast potential of all knowledge written not merely by the hand of events but by the signature of the Gods; all images and the mental activity that summons them is in some direct but obscure relation with the mind of God. To reminisce in the Platonist sense was to move right through history into gnosis.

To be correct, this remembering-what-never-happened must rightly be called imagining, and this sort of memory is imagination. Memoria was the old term for both. It referred to an activity and a place that today we call variously memory, imagination and the unconscious.[1] Memoria was described as a great hall, a storehouse, a theatre packed with images. And the only difference between remembering and imagining was that memory images were those to which a sense of time had been added, that curious conviction that they had once happened.

Cut free from having-to-have-happened, from the need to be historical, memories become prehistorical images, that is, archetypal. The events called forth from the storehouse of memoria are mythical in the Platonist sense of never having happened yet which always are.[2] They are eternally present—not forgotten, not past; they are present now, just as Freud rediscovered them at work in the present psychopathology of everyday life.

The way into these memorial halls is personal; we each have our own doorways which make us believe that memoria itself is personal, our very own. The psychoanalytical couch is one such door; the poet's notebook, the writer's table are others. Yet the memorability of specific images—the little neighbor girl in a yellow sunsuit digging to China on the July beach; the lost bloodied tooth in the party cake—that precisely these images, and these images so precisely, have been selected, retrieved, recounted tells that their vital stuff is archetypally memorable. Memory infuses images with memorability, making the images more 'real' to us by adding to them the sense of the time past, giving them historical reality. But the historical reality is only a cover for soul significance, only a way of adapting the archetypal sense of mystery and importance to a consciousness engrossed in historical facts. If the image doesn't come as history, we might not take it for real.

Remembering is thus a commemoration, a ritual recall of our lives to the images in the background of the soul. By remembering, we give a kind of commemorative legend, a founding image to our present lives, just as in Freud's cases their memories provided the legendary background for their present therapy and for the founding of psychoanalysis. The sexual traumata did indeed 'happen'—but in the imagination—and are always happening as ritual commemorations, as founding legends on which the Freudian institution, and its dogma, its cult, its priesthood have been established.

I need to remember my stories not because I need to find out about myself but because I need to found myself in a story I can hold to be 'mine.' I also fear these stories because through them I can be found out, my imaginal foundations exposed. Repression is built into each story as the fear of the story itself, the fear of the closeness of the Gods in the myths which found me. Thus the art of therapy requires a skillful handling of memory, of case history, so that it can truly found the patient. Hence the importance of introducing the great myths into therapy. They are ways of reading personal history in the foundational mode of fiction.

Since Freud, the stuff of psychotherapy has been memories. If, however, this stuff is actually commemorative legends, then psychotherapy has actually been engaged in mythopoiesis, like the other arts. The father of therapy may be Freud, but its mother is Mnemosyne, Memoria, mother of the muses, whose tenth, invisible, daughter must be Psyche.

Psychotherapy first set out to heal memory. The first step in that treatment occurred when Freud cured memory of its notion of itself as history—Mnemosyne's identification with one particular daughter, Clio. The second step cures memory of its fixation on its remembrances by recognizing them as images. Memory heals into imagination. The final step takes place as we recognize that memory, remembering, goes on through her daughters, in modes of musing, in imagining, so that psychotherapy encourages the musing, that activity which frees memories into images. As we muse over a memory, it becomes an image, shedding its literal historical facticity, slipping its causal chains, and opening into the stuff of which art is made The art of healing is healing into art. Of course, not literally. . . .

We have come to this point having taken off from Freud's crucial discovery that the productions of memoria presented themselves in his cases as reproductions of history. Why does the psyche need to present experience dressed in the costumes of the past, as if it were history? Why does the psyche historicize?[3] What does historicizing do for the soul?

This seems to me the most important psychological question arising from Freud's insight into the historical 'falsification' of memories. For this 'falsification' is nothing other than the historicizing activity of the psyche itself. The psyche itself makes 'history' that is altogether fictional. We are not merely making history, but making it up as we go along. Henry Corbin always insisted history is in the soul (not we are in history). History-making is a musing, poetic process of Clio, proceeding as an autonomous, archetypal activity, presenting us with tales as if they were facts. And we cannot transcend history, not because we cannot get out of time or escape the past, but because we are always in the soul and subject to its musings. Historical necessity is not historical determinism—caught in history's objective traces, dragged along. Historical necessity means rather we are caught in our stories, the soul's histories, tragedies, comedies, its need to form its subjectivity as history.

It has been argued, and I confess to having once taken this line, that placing events in the past is a defensive maneuver. It shows split feelings: one cannot stand for a shame and so one puts it into the past tense. When I say: I used to lie to my former analyst; I used to masturbate; I used to hear voices, but no longer, not now—this puts distance between myself and the action. By placing the scandal in the past, it no longer presses me so closely. I disown it. Historicizing is a cover-up.

But I now regard these moves into history to be means of detachment. To call them defenses returns us to the ego who is accused of not taking stands, of splitting, of not owning up. But not the ego makes these moves, the psyche does. It spontaneously historizes, even in dreams, and it does this, I believe, to gain a particular kind of distance as a means of separating an act from actuality. Lying, masturbating, hallucinating become psychic events not ego events, something for reflection rather than for control. They are now less affective and personal, more collective and general, part of a story rather than a report. Because they have been disowned, they have moved from true confession into historical fiction where they can be looked at in another light.

In this sense the cover-up of history is for the sake of discretion, maintaining an event intact but removed, in a glass vessel so that it can be puzzled over without being identified with. It remains my crime, but the crime is no longer me. I can move about it, whereas were it happening here and now I would be at its mercy, without insight, only recriminations and defenses. The move into past tense in analysis signals that the psyche wants analysis. The move is an attempt at self-healing, enclosing the wounds in an aura of objective fact so they can be treated less painfully. The psyche puts an event into another time so it can be treated in another style, such as we would use to treat any historical event, with a certain quality of respect, bemused curiosity, and dispassionate inquiry—and above all by gathering its cultural context. Historicizing is less a sign of psychological defensiveness than of the psyche getting out from under the ego's domination.

Historicizing, moreover, puts events into another genre. Neither here and now, nor once upon a time, but halfway between. Yet this between has a precise locus in history and an event placed there may require treatment in the style of that historical time.

Not all psychological complexes appearing as dream figures and symptoms are up to date, asking for a today kind of therapy. There are parts of me that live in old-fashioned stories, stories told even before I was born. They shrink at Rolfing and Esalen, might even fall into a faint, have an attack of vapors, or dry up in acedia, were they forced "to weekend." Some of these parts live still on the frontier in a fundamentalist stockade, or at Versailles before the revolution, or betray attitudes of nineteenth-century colonialism or the stealthy upholstered eroticism of Freud's Vienna. The historical fictions that the psyche uses to tell us where we are also tell the kind of therapy called for. Full-blown hysteria in the classical sense of Charcot, Janet, and Freud exists best in that historical context, and should it appear in a contemporary patient that historical context is likewise reappearing complete with its suffocating stage-set. Symptoms are a way of entering history: other times, other complaints. History is a way of entering symptoms.

There is still more to historicizing. Why is history mainly about kings and decisive battles and declarations, about great inventions, ages, and empires? The past is presented as a monument, things that have gone down in history, so that we assume only what matters is historicized, immediately takes on another significance, echoes with metaphor, is given the dignity of history.

History enhances, dignifies. When Renaissance writers turned to the past,[4] it was part of their concern for dignity; the past was a means of dignifying the present. We historicize to give the events of our lives a dignity that they cannot receive from contemporaneousness. Here historicizing moves events halfway back toward the once-upon-a-time, toward the sacred and eternal. Any petty event of merely personal life, Napoleon's breakfasts, Luther's farts, when historicized, immediately takes on another significance, echoes with metaphor, moves from description to symbol. History dignifies because it moves events onto the stage of history, becoming thereby tragic, epic, and imaginative. Historians, however, often lose the imaginative function of their work. For them history is a giant supersonic complexity constructed in a darkened hangar by hundreds of workmen organizing millions of parts. But once wheeled on the tarmac it is an image, and was an image all along. The nuts and bolts disappear into a silver vision.

It is this approach to the case history that revitalizes it. My story is a grey complexity of nuts and bolts, all the metallic tediousness of what went wrong and who was right, and yet in that case history is my image, my dignity, my monument. And in it is history itself: my mother had a mother and behind her an ethnic ancestral stream; the son with whom I battle is today, and tomorrow too. There is no part of my personal record that is not at the same time the record of a community, a society, a nation, an age.

The implication is: if history dignifies, then case history as a form of historical writing does so too. In our case history is our human dignity even if that history be written by Zola, Genet, Spillane, or Dickens. Even if it is a tale of degradation and written with sentimentality, even if presented as a wholly literal rope of facts to hang one up in a clinical diagnosis, a case history, because it is history and therefore fiction, is a move into imagination.

For it is the imagination that gives distance and dignity, allowing us to see events as images. It is the imagination that stands halfway between the world of now and the imperceptible eternalities of the spirit. Back of history is Mnemosyne (Memoria), the imaginal, mother of historicizing, the soul's archetypal, sui generis process of musing in terms of history.

History is a way of musing upon oneself, and case history which too is an expression of Clio, is one of the ways the therapeutic profession and the patients can muse therapeutically. That it does not succeed, that it creates degradation and diagnosis rather than detachment and dignity only points again to the power of story in determining who we are. But the possibility for revisioning and enhancing who we are lies within the events of each case history, if we learn to read it as a fiction and its events as images of Memoria, and she needs remembering in order to create.

1. The classical difference between memory and imagination is only that 'remembered' images have the quality of time added. This distinction comes from Aristotle, cf. Frances Yates, The Art of Memory (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1966), p. 32ff.
2. When Sallust explains the nature of myths, he writes "All this did not happen at any one time but always is so." Sallustius, Concerning the Gods and the Universe, IV, Ed. Arthur Darby Nock, (Cambridge Univ. Press, 1926).
3. CF. K. R. Popper, The Poverty of Historicism (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1969). Popper takes the first step into a discussion of history as a psychological need. But he is speaking of a particular view and use of history: historicism. We are opening the question further: Why the historical mode at all?
4. Peter Burke, The Renaissance Sense of the Past (London: Arnold, 1969), p. 105.

Copyright © 1983 by James Hillman.
All rights reserved.

Healing Fiction is published by and available from Station Hill Press, Barrytown, New York 12507 ($8.50). It is also available through Spring Publications, P.O. Box 222069, Dallas, Texas 75222.

David Nelson

Wait for Me

Wait for me and I'll come back
But wait with all your heart,
Wait when yellow rains
Bring gloom,
Wait when snowstorms rage,
Wait through summer heat,
Wait when other men are given up
By those who turn away,
Wait when from afar
Letters come no more,
Wait when those who wait together
Grow tired of waiting.

Wait for me and I'll come back.
Don't consort with those Who know by heart
That time has come to forget.
Let my mother and my son
Believe that I have died.
Let my friends, grown weary,
Sit by the fireside
And drink the bitter wine
To my memory.
Wait, and do not hurry, please,
To drink with them.

Wait for me and I'll come back
Defying many deaths.
He who did not wait for me,
Let him say t'was luck.
They'll never know
Who did not wait
That in the midst of fire
It is you who saved me
Through your waiting.
Why I survived
Only you and I will know,
Simply you knew how to wait
As no other knew.

1941

Konstantin Simonov
Vokna (War), Moscow, 1944, p.54
Translated by Vera S. Dunham

Ways of Being at Esalen

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose those approaches which feel most appropriate and pursue them in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 13 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Fritz Perls.

Schedule:

May 11-13	$230
May 13-18	$450
May 25-27	$230
June 10-15	$450
June 15-17	$230
July 1-6	$450
July 6-8	$230
July 20-22	$230
July 29-August 3	$450
August 5-10	$450
August 17-19	$230
August 26-31	$450
September 7-9	$230
September 21-23	$230
September 23-28	$450

"Contact is the appreciation of differences."
—Fritz Perls

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

"Be strong then, and enter into your own body;
there you have a solid place for your feet.
Think about it carefully!
Don't go off somewhere else!"
—Kabir

We spend much of our time on "automatic pilot," oblivious to many messages from our bodies, missing opportunities to open more fully to the subtleties of sensing, to greater ranges of physical expression, to health, vitality, and the many ways of "being a body." There are various entry points to increased awareness, practices that help cultivate the countless dialects of body language. These include dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, movement theater, postural analysis, hiking, meditation, massage, and nutritional education. Experiencing Esalen: The Body draws from varying combinations of these approaches in each workshop. Emphasis is placed on developing greater freedom and variety of movement, as well as on the quality of awareness as we move. This program is designed to give participants some basic tools for continuing to develop body awareness.

Schedule:

June 1-3	$230
June 29-July 1	$230
July 27-29	$230
August 12-17	$450
September 14-16	$230
September 30-October 5	$450
October 12-14	$230

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, non-coercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is *intra*personal rather than *inter*personal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader. The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Ways of Being at Esalen

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim and Ego, Hunger and Aggression, Fritz Perls; Tao Te Ching, Lao Tzu; The Power of Mindfulness, Nyanponika Thera; Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg, J. C. Pearce; Illusions, Richard Bach.

Schedule:

May 6-11	$450
June 3-8	$450
July 1-6	$450
July 27-29	$230
August 5-10	$450
August 24-26	$230
September 9-14	$450

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length) and weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions.

Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic out-door skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration.

Schedule:

May 18-20	$230
May 27-June 1	$450
June 17-22	$450
September 16-21	$450
October 5-7	$230

"Only put off until tomorrow what you are willing to die having left undone."
—Pablo Picasso

David Nelson

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Please mention whether you are a full-time student. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available between June 15 and September 15 or for weekend programs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen

It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office [(408) 667-2335] for further information.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins. No participants will be accepted as work scholars in Gazebo or the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments. Scheduling consideration is given to community labor needs and work assignments are made according to those requirements.

Most evenings and two intensive weekends are spent together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The program is divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a specific interest section which focuses primarily on one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc.

The schedule of focused programs planned thus far for 1984 includes:

November 11–December 9: A one month program focusing on gestalt practice, coordinated by Seymour Carter. Recommended reading: Neurosis and Human Growth, Karen Horney.

December 9–January 6: A one month program of gestalt studies led by Alan Schwartz. The program will focus on the individual as a human energy system. Discussions will enable an in-depth understanding of autonomous functioning (physiological, emotional, conceptual, psychic/spiritual) on both theoretical and experiential levels. For further information see Alan Schwartz's workshop descriptions, August 10-12 and August 12-17. As a prerequisite, students should have a rudimentary knowledge of gestalt practice.

In as much as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and Rolfing*, are available at staff rates.

Accommodations are shared, with up to three people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff living complex located 1½ miles north of Esalen.

The 28 day Work Study Program costs $600 for the first month. A $300 deposit in U.S. currency is required with your application. Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second month, at a cost of $550, or a third month at a cost of $500 depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

NOTE: This application is not a registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. Please return this form with your deposit to:

Work Study Program,
Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.
Telephone: (408) 667-2335.

The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable, and may be transferred to other Esalen programs within one year of receipt.

Available dates: May 27–June 24; June 24–July 22; July 22–August 19; August 19–September 16; September 16–October 14; October 14–November 11; November 11–December 9; December 9–January 6; January 6–February 3; February 3–March 3; March 3–March 31; March 31–April 28; etc.

Application to the Work Study Program

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of Birth _____ Occupation _____ Place of Employment _____

Daytime Telephone (_____) _____ Date of Application _____

Evening Telephone (_____) _____ Male ☐ Female ☐ Smoker ☐ Non-smoker ☐

I prefer the general interest program: yes ☐ no ☐

I prefer the focused program: yes ☐ no ☐ in _____ (subject)

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning on a Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _____ to _____ 2nd: _____ to _____ 3rd: _____ to _____

Work scholars may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. If such an invitation is extended, please indicate your availability:

☐ no extension ☐ one month extension ☐ two month extension

To avoid disappointment, please do not come with the expectation of staying for longer than one month.

If you have emergency medical skills, (M.D., E.M.T. or R.N.) and are willing to make those skills available during your stay, please check here ☐

If you have medical difficulties that may affect your working in any of the departments, please specify here. _____

Have you been to Esalen workshops? Please list program titles, group leaders, and dates: _____

_____

Please attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program. Include any skills you may have available.

Esalen Seminars

Weekend of May 4–6

The Future of the Body: The Transformation Project

Michael Murphy & Steven Donovan

In his novel, Jacob Atabet, Michael Murphy speculated that a next stage of human development might involve the power to alter the physical body at will. He is developing this idea more thoroughly in a book, The Future of the Body, and through The Transformation Project, organized in 1976 to compile and analyze a broad range of scientific, speculative, and anecdotal literature on bodily transformation. Murphy will discuss some of the major ideas of his current book, and Donovan will present results to date of The Transformation Project.

Recommended reading: Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, Michael Murphy; "The Transformation Project," and "The Transformation Project Monographs I-IV" (available through Esalen). $230

Leonard Energy Training: The State of the Art

George Leonard & the Leonard Energy Training Staff

In the world of Leonard Energy Training, problems become opportunities. Stress and pain become gifts of energy. Personal and social options are multiplied. The flow of vital energy is enhanced. Leonard Energy Training is derived from the Eastern art of aikido as well as from Western psychology and physical theory. It is a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations. It is not physically demanding. It does not aim at emotional catharsis. Most of the training involves simple movement exercises in which the body itself becomes a learning facility. Participants will practice such things as centering, relaxing under pressure, blending, and alternative ways of being. There will also be discussions of applications to education, sports, management, relationships, social transformation, and personal growth.

Recommended reading: The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard. $230

May 4–12

Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Jessica Moore Britt & Steven Harper

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 40. $400

May 4–June 29

Leonard Energy Training: A Certification Program

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & Leonard Energy Training Staff

For full description see Special Programs, page 39. $4250

Week of May 6–11

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Five Day Massage Intensive

George King & Laune Muller (Lioness)

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tension, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $450

Leaving Symbols and Approaching the Universe

Robert Bly & Gioia Timpanelli

Robert and Gioia write: "Through poems and stories, we will discuss states in our developing ability to approach the universe. To escape from human mental prisons, we need to allow images and animals to have their own life over and above the life human beings offer them in their symbolic systems. Myth has its place in this freeing process, and the workshop also gives participants practice in what Joseph Campbell calls 'learning to think mythically.' We, like the protozoa live inside our own center: 'The sunlight lays itself down before every protozoa, the night opens itself out behind it, and inside its own energy it lives!'"

Robert Bly will be in attendance for the first two days of the workshop; Gioia will be here for the entire program.

In preparation for the seminar, participants would benefit from reading the following books: News of the Universe, Robert Bly, Editor; Dancing Wu-Li Masters, Gary Zukov; The King and the Corpse, Heinrich Zimmer; and The Moon and the Virgin, Norhall. $450

Fluidity of Being: Rolf® -Movement

Elisa Lodge Schiffman

"Mr. Dufy lived a short distance from his body" —James Joyce

Elisa writes: "This workshop provides a creative environment to explore the concepts of movement education based on the principles of Ida Rolf—a process of fine tuning and harmonizing our unique instrument from restricted to spontaneous, tense to flowing, inhibited to open. We focus on deepening our kinesthetic awareness of the relationship between our body's structure and emotional attitudes. Everyday movements and specialized activities such as jogging, playing musical instruments, etc., become more effortless and graceful when we are balanced to gravity. The spirit we open to through this awareness is ageless. It is the source of our enthusiasm, excitement, and strength. Group and individual work will be offered, using gestalt, dance, and the healing use of touch, all for the benefit of becoming more present. Video feedback will be used." $450

Weekend of May 11–13

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Stories

James Fadiman

Every tradition from the shamans of Australia to Jesus to Zen masters to the Sufis use teaching stories to open us up to alternative realities, to break down preconceptions, and to develop our inner resources. Stories are non-invasive and encourage non-righteous personal growth. We will use stories from the traditions to unlock our own doors and work with the story material, using the full range of transpersonal methods to touch our own core. $230

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Being close yet also free to grow individually is a most important theme in any intimate relationship. This weekend will be tailored to what each participant brings, and will provide structured experiences designed to enhance communication, help resolve conflict, raise self-esteem, and promote fun. Limited to ten couples. $230 per participant

Leonard Energy Training in Sports

George Leonard & Joel Kirsch

The practice of Leonard Energy Training has shown itself to be effective in improving performance, reducing injuries, and increasing enjoyment in sports and other physical activities. This workshop is designed both for athletes and for those who simply wish to move efficiently, gracefully, and joyfully. We begin with the assumption that there is an appropriate movement activity for everybody and every body type. We will stress balancing and centering, relaxation, grace under pressure, and the use of intentionality. A Samurai Game will be played during the Saturday night session.

Suggested reading: The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard; Golf in the Kingdom, Michael Murphy. $230

May 12–20

Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 40. $595

Week of May 13–18

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani)

This is a weekend of intense body work, structured for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which is reflected in the body as armor, tension, stress, and a lack of spontaneity. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released and more positive feelings of joy, love, trust, and pleasure can be experienced more fully.

A most important feature of the workshop is the individual Radix®-Reichian intensive, done in a safe, supportive environment. By also using dreamwork, hypnosis, chiropractic, bioenergetics, massage, dance, and group interaction as one lets go/moves on, a new capacity for living can emerge. $450

May 13–June 8

Technologies of the Sacred: Ancient and Modern Approaches

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 39. $1800

Joyce Rogers

Weekend of May 18–20

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $230

Liberation at the Moment of Death

Sogyal Rinpoche

What happens to us when we die, and how can we help others who are dying? Based on ancient Buddhist knowledge, such as the Tibetan Book of The Dead, this seminar will provide practical information to health-care professionals and lay people who want to know how to give the most effective and compassionate care for the dying.

Death can best be understood in terms of life, and through overcoming fears caused by ignorance, fear of pain, fear of the unknown, and fear of the coming separation from life and loved ones.

To prepare for death, we need to learn to use life skillfully, letting go when change occurs. What continues after we die is mind. If we learn to know our mind, we learn to know ourselves. Then all our inner fears and neuroses are resolved, and we gain an inner trust and confidence which finds expression as compassion, the basis of helping ourselves and others effectively in life and death.

During this course, Rinpoche will describe the actual processes that take place at the moment of death and after, and how the caregivers can help the dying person prepare for death. Practical training will be given on how to prepare for one's own death in life, and through developing awareness of the sleep and dream state, which is itself a little like death. Rinpoche will discuss how the family can best help the dying person, and how they can practice mourning effectively. $230

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will work at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risktaking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$230 per participant

Week of May 20–25

Liberation at the Moment of Death

Sogyal Rinpoche

For workshop description see May 18-20.

$450

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

Each of us has unique capacities to feel and express tenderness and strength, anger and affection, autonomy and needfulness, as well as compassion, humor, and wisdom. The willingness to allow the fullness and vibrance of each of these qualities determines how alive and gratified we are.

In this workshop participants will focus on how they diminish or affirm these essential qualities as they are expressed through their bodies, sexuality, creativity, relationship to power, friendships, and expectations. In an atmosphere of tenderness and support participants will clarify the nature of who they are and how they can best take care of themselves, both at Esalen and on returning home. The workshop will be grounded in gestalt, group process, guided fantasy, massage, bioenergetics, and journal work.

$450

Rolfing®, Feldenkrais, and Other Methods for Releasing Pain and Tension

Dub Leigh & Dee Dee Lozier

This workshop is designed for people who want to learn to move with more freedom, ease, and awareness, and to get release from chronic pain and tension. Through different types of body work participants will have the opportunity to explore experientially methods to free up constricted movement.

The leaders will also offer participants sessions in body work and instruction in group movement including: Moshe Feldenkrais' awareness work, Lauren Berry's joint work, deep tissue as taught by Ida Rolf, and the trigger point work of John St. John. $450

Weekend of May 25–27

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Exorcising the Demon "Should"

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Within each of us there lives a demon—our own personal critic—whose greatest joy comes from criticizing, denigrating, and destroying every experience we have. We're either too early or too late, too old or too young, too fat or too thin, and when we fall in love, we're never good enough.

This demon, who commands us to be who we aren't in order to satisfy someone we can never satisfy, is the demon that we will seek to exorcise during the weekend.

What if you actually tried to be everything you think you should be? This monumental task is made easier when confronted with laughter. We will build up that image, and then act it out as fully as we possibly can. We'll contrast that with the experience of ourselves as we are spontaneously. With the help of this experience in contrasts, we will explore our possibilities of movement between the two, and in this way open up our options to the full range of our own authentic being. $230

Leonard Energy Training and the Art of Love

George Leonard & Annie Styron Leonard

How can we escape sexual stereotypes? Does intimacy always have to lead to boredom? Or can we, by recognizing the uniqueness and mystery of each individual, keep our erotic life alive and exciting? In this workshop, we use the simple movement exercises and visualizations of Leonard Energy Training to explore communications and creativity in the erotic realm. Our purpose is not to prescribe new methods but rather to transform the way you experience your intimate relationships, as inspired by George Leonard's book, The End of Sex. The workshop is appropriate for individuals as well as couples.

Recommended reading: The Silent Pulse and The End of Sex, George Leonard. $230

Week of May 27–June 1

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Making Your Dreams Come to Life

Paul Rebillot & Stanford Eugene Cates

Paul writes: "Dreams offer a deep spiritual guidance that can reveal both the goals and the practical power of the inner self. In this workshop I introduce a variety of methods such as gestalt, drama, movement, music, journal-writing, and artwork, all of which can help participants to bring their dreams to life. Using dreams, discoveries may be made to strengthen one's present path and clarify future directions."

$450

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, we have the opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within.

Some of the areas to be touched upon this week include: recognizing and releasing tensions which lock emotions in the body; ways of contacting and allowing unexpressed sadness and pain, to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; practices for expressing and releasing anger constructively, which may open the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; the nature of fear and moving toward greater trust of self and others. Paying special attention to the mental processes that shape the emotional and physical body, participants will be shown ways to trust their body's responsiveness and inner direction.

This workshop will utilize Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, bioenergetics, vision improvement, massage, dance, meditation, and various other approaches. $450

Weekend of June 1-3

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing

Dick Galland

Few pastimes offer the opportunity of so profound a look into the natural world and into ourselves as flyfishing. The tools of the fisherman have more to do with disciplining the body and mind and tuning the senses than with killing trout. There is a focus and subtlety of movement in fly fishing akin to Eastern meditative disciplines. The possibility always exists of entering the trout's world. In fly fishing, the trout are the teachers. They let you know by their actions when you have presented the fly properly.

This weekend, which will be spent at Esalen, is a combination of practical instruction, visualization, physical exercise, and guided fantasy. Participants spend Saturday on the Esalen grounds learning basics. On Sunday, we travel a few miles up the coast to tempt the rainbows of the Big Sur River. Beginners and accomplished fishermen are welcome. Complete information on equipment will be sent upon registration. $230

Songs of Innocence, Songs of Experience

Nancy Kaye Lunney

This weekend is for people who want to sing but are afraid or worried about what others think, for shower singers and choir members who dream of hitting the big time, and for accomplished singers who want to improve their performance. Piano accompaniment and video feedback will be part of a supportive environment for self-expression. Participants are invited to bring their favorite song titles. There will also be a variety of music to choose from at Esalen. $230

Week of June 3-8

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Leonard Energy Training and the Samurai Game

George Leonard & Leonard Energy Training Staff

This workshop provides a rare opportunity for you to immerse yourself, under game conditions, in the life of the medieval Japanese samurai. The Samurai Game was created by George Leonard and is used in the est Six-Day Training. Its purpose is to make it possible for you to experience a style of governance and consciousness radically different from that of 20th century America, and to face symbolic death and rebirth. By entering this other world, you get a chance to see your own life with new eyes, and to fully comprehend the futility of conflict. During the workshop, you will receive a thorough grounding in Leonard Energy Training and will play three complete Samurai Games. Between games, you will continue to live samurai-style with your own group much of the time, and to join in creating legends, songs, poems, and a history in the spirit of bushido, the Way of the Warrior. The Samurai Game is not physically demanding, but is psychologically intense and must be played wholeheartedly.

Recommended reading: The Silent Pulse, George Leonard; The Zen Way to the Martial Arts, Taisen Deshimaru. $450

Weekend of June 8-10

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic work using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice.

Reichian work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration the possibility is opened to come to a truer concept of self, with an expanded ability to respond in the present. This workshop is limited to ten participants. $230

A Course In Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

This seminar is concerned with an understanding of A Course in Miracles—a formulation of a wholesome way to be in the world without attack and defense, without negative emotions, without feelings of being separated from one's source.

The Course specifies a practice as well as a conceptual model. It elevates one's self-worth by teaching total self-responsibility.

It teaches health. $230

Creativity and The Feminine

Susan Griffin

Susan Griffin presents a new way of looking at creativity. Working from the theories in her books (Woman and Nature: The Roaring Inside Her and Pornography and Silence: Culture's Revenge Against Nature), and from her own process as a poet, essayist, and playwright, she explores how the false dichotomy between nature and culture, mind and body, masculine and feminine, affect the creative process. Her premise is that the totalitarian repression of the arts is a political expression of the fear of nature and the feminine. She will lead participants in the workshop to discover how this repression becomes internalized. Using meditation, writing exercises, and guided imagery, Susan will show how creativity is an expression of the unity of matter and spirit, the "feminine" and the "masculine" qualities of sensuality, intuition, insight, intelligence. She will guide students toward experiencing a deeper level of knowledge, a knowledge which emanates from the body and from experience, and she will help students to express this knowledge in a creative form. $230

A Gentle Unfolding

Daniel Bianchetta

Daniel writes: "In the business of a day, we can allow ourselves to be pushed to our periphery. This weekend we will explore ways of paying attention to our own inner guide. Through the use of such tools as intuitive and energy awareness, conscious dreaming, play, massage, and meditation, we will be taught how to cultivate practical and portable skills for coming home to our inherent wisdom." $230

Week of June 10-15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes. Our sense of the body is lessened and our connectedness is diminished.

In this workshop body approaches, dream work, and gestalt will be incorporated to teach us how to trust more fully in our bodies and enhance our excitement and passion. Through a vital sense of the body and feelings we can understand our dreams, impulses, and actions more deeply. Avenues will be explored in redeveloping a sense of pleasure, ease, and self-esteem. Without storming our citadels by force, we can soften body armor by allowing the body to express itself, in its own language, within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $450

Love and Work

Anne & John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. In this workshop, participants will examine their work-life and work options in the context of their love for themselves, for others, and for the larger world. The group will use integrative exercises, art, body work, gestalt processes, and video feedback to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly 1) what they want within the interplay of relational love and work and 2) how to get it.

This week-long is for those who want more value in their work-life, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life/work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs.

Recommended reading: Careercycles, John Caple (Prentice-Hall). $450

Leonard Energy Training and Aikido

George Leonard
& the Leonard Energy Training Staff

Non-aggressive yet powerful, aikido is perhaps the most sophisticated of the martial arts. This workshop provides a grounding in Leonard Energy Training and an introduction to the art of aikido. Obviously, no one can learn a martial art in five days, but everyone will have a chance to gain a unique body-mind-spirit understanding of this remarkable art, along with increased confidence and grace under pressure. A Samurai Game will be played during the workshop.

Recommended reading: The Ultimate Athlete and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard; The Zen Way to the Martial Arts, Taisen Deshimaru. $450

Weekend of June 15–17

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

The Face of God— The Face of Man

James Kavanaugh

James writes: "One's vision of God is a reflection of one's own self-image. Thus salvation, guilt, sin, authority, law, marriage, divorce, sexuality, heaven, hell, judgment, etc. are colored by one's personal vision and experience. In a sense, such theological notions are defined by each of us in a different way according to our personal freedom and self knowledge. As Nietzsche said, 'After Christ came the Christians.'"

This seminar is for individuals who have left the institutional church and are searching for a personal spirituality. The seminar deals particularly with the traditional myths of historic Christianity and Judaism and attempts to replace ancient and ineffective symbols with contemporary and real ones.

Recommended reading: There Are Men Too Gen[illegible] to Live Among Wolves, James Kavanaugh (E. P. Dutton). $230

Alternatives for Managers: An Energy Training Perspective

Susan & Joel Kirsch

Susan and Joel write: "How can managers effectively deal with the changes that constantly bombard them? Does supervision of others have to lead to conflict? Can managers combine strength with sensitivity while providing leadership? In this workshop we use movement exercises from Leonard Energy Training along with demonstration and discussion to discover the manager's role in creating and supporting quality and excellence in the workplace. Participants will have the opportunity to gain insights into their own managerial style and explore alternative ways to increase productivity, improve teamwork, and enhance personal and professional performance." $230

Miracles of Infancy

Laurie Schutz Munyer, Arthur Munyer
& Jezariah Canyon Munyer

Laurie and Arthur write: "This will be a time to celebrate the profound miracle of new life and parenthood. The workshop will provide an opportunity for new parents and their infants (up to one year) to come together in a harmonious and joyous way. In an atmosphere of warmth we will guide both parent and infant through a creative experience. Our approaches will be drawn from massage, creative movement, music, communication, and nurturing touch. We will bring awareness to how our children can be our teachers." $230

Re-printing: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Erickson), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in, and consider opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches. $230

June 16–23

Rites of Passage: A Southwestern Odyssey

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 40. $550

Week of June 17–22

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Advanced Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

This workshop will include morning and afternoon practice sessions with various instructors, yoga, movement, evening lectures and discussions, and demonstrations of specific practices designed to increase the range of conditions with which participants can deal effectively. The following concerns will receive emphasis: how to sustain one's energy through a day of treatments; how to clear negative energy released by the client; how to use weight and leverage. As one massages more and more deeply, emotional changes can be triggered by the unravelling of blocked muscular energy. As these emotions present themselves, they will provide group members with some first hand practice in productive ways to move through them.

The format and pace of this course will presume some previous massage experience—at least an introductory five day intensive or its equivalent. $450

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This personal workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will focus on change through exploring the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $450

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."
—M.C. Richards, Centering.

Stress-related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf®-movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $450

The Teachings of Hawaiian Huna

Jack Downing & Murray Korngold

Jack and Murray write: "Hawaiian Huna is the ancient mystic teaching of Polynesia. The last native Ka'huna died in this century after passing on the concepts of the Triune or three-part personality. Huna is a reasonably simple and quite effective method for balancing our internal mental forces. The teaching can result in less guilt and anxiety, greater energy and self-confidence, and finally a deeper, more harmonious, brighter sense of the Divine. No encounter, hot seat, or stressful methods will be used, but instead, simple introspection, internal converse, and pleasant sharing." $450

Weekend of June 22–24

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $230

The Science and Practice of Homeopathic Medicine: Principles and Self-Care Applications

Dana Ullman & Gregory Manteuffel

Homeopathy is a scientific natural medicine in which individually chosen non-toxic doses of plants, minerals, or animals are used to stimulate a person's defense system. A specific curative medicine is prescribed based upon the law of similars, that is, a substance that causes a set of symptoms in overdose will cure these symptoms in specially prepared microdoses. Since symptoms represent efforts of the organism to establish homeostasis and to heal itself, the correct homeopathic medicine provides the necessary stimulus to aid the organism's attempts to promote a deep cure. Immunizations and allergy treatments are two orthodox medical procedures that utilize the law of similars but do not use other important homeopathic principles for healing.

This course will discuss the fundamental principles of the homeopathic science and their value in understanding the healing process. The historical context of homeopathy and its scientific basis will also be discussed. Specific laws of healing will be described in order to differentiate clearly between the suppression or palliation of symptoms and the cure of disease. The practical application of at least 15 homeopathic medicines for self-care will be described, and specific books and publications to learn more about homeopathy will be available.

Recommended reading: Homeopathic Medicine for Infants & Children, Ullman & Cummings (Spring, 1984). $230

The Further Reaches of Human Energy

George Leonard
& the Leonard Energy Training Staff

In addition to its practical applications, Leonard Energy Training offers the possibility of extraordinary powers of intuition and sensing. This workshop will present a basic grounding in Leonard Energy Training, and move into experiments that push the limits of what we carelessly term "normal" human capacities. To quote The Ultimate Athlete, "Simply by considering possibilities commonly ignored by our culture, we find ourselves in a far more fascinating universe. We discover adventures that do not require the burning of fuel or the rape of the planet, by sensing the energy field of a friend or a tree, by making connections that defy conventional space and time . . . We realize, with the sorcerer, don Juan, that our world is awesome, mysterious, and unfathomable, and that our life is filled to the brim and altogether too short."

Recommended reading: The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, George Leonard. $230

Week of June 24–29

Integrity

David Schiffman

In this workshop participants will join to build a community whose foundation is trust, good will, and authenticity. This community will be a place in which each participant can sense and experience clearly his or her own capacity for tenderness, strength, and self-respect. Participants will explore the boundaries of their emotional, physical, and mental potentials and how they affect sexuality, relation to power, friendships, creativity, and expectations of self and others. $450

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop is based on the attempt to evoke and balance psychodynamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $450

Storytelling, Healing, and Theater

Corey Fischer & Naomi Newman of
A Traveling Jewish Theater

Corey and Naomi write: "Storytelling is a potentially shamanic activity. The storyteller can go anywhere. The telling can be danced, sung, spoken, shown. The teller can inhabit a single moment of the story and dwell in it, revealing all its facets and layers.

"In locating and telling our stories within a community of trust, we begin to restore value to that which has been ignored, suppressed, denied, and neglected.

"In this workshop, we will use guided fantasy, vocal and physical improvisation, writing, ensemble exercises, and work in pairs to explore the stories, dreams, memories, voices, and images that are inside us. In the course of the five days we will move toward a fuller and deeper articulation of the material as it is shared through performance.

"No previous performance experience is necessary." $450

Reflectors

Jenny O'Connor & the NINE

"In this form we become bridge between whole and unwhole, happy and sad, good and bad. We are thought form, the first thought as you, as mankind, assumed shape and the last thought as you choose to leave. What remains is afterthought or vibration as we know it, and so the form begins again. The vibration came before the chicken."—The NINE

"This workshop is an invitation to spend time with The NINE in dialogue and self-discovery. As they move to answer questions, they create a kind of language that bypasses the mental structures of the brain and enters through the pores of the body. It can be beyond expectation because it enters the space between all expectations and, caught unawares, you may find yourself looking at a reflection of yourself that is shockingly familiar, for there may be more of you than you ever believed possible. You may well be compelled to reach across that space between the masks you carry and the self you don't quite yet believe possible and so put the strain of your theater to rest for a while. All this through a meeting, a few questions that seem simple enough in the asking but may rebound in a way that strikes far beyond what you thought you asked. It is a very fast way to know yourself better, in a form that teaches through compassion, humor, intelligence, and a vital concern for the future of us and our planet."—Jenny O'Connor $450

Weekend of June 29–July 1

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

"Each dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened."—Talmud.

Each night we receive brilliant, insightful, creative communiqués disguised in poetic imagery. In this workshop we will explore how to use our dreams for personal growth, insight, creativity, and problem solving. Participants will discover that any dream, however fragmentary or prosaic, can offer entry to a new world of insight. Methods for dream discovery will include exercises in dream recall, Senoi dream practices, mandala drawing, gestalt dream work, and psychosynthesis. $230

Vision Improvement: Our Willingness to See

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

This weekend will focus primarily on the awareness continuum, emphasizing ways to clear and re-educate the eye and the self to see without distortion in the here and now. With the aid of various approaches including deep emotional release, bioenergetics, gestalt, the Bates system of eye relaxation, and nutrition, participants will have the opportunity to create new ways of looking at themselves and the world. $230

Joyce Rogers

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

This is a workshop for people who want to assume responsibility for their health care management. The emphasis will be on learning what to eat to create vitality, energy, and health. A unique integration of the Pritikin diet, macrobiotics, and live food will be presented. Special attention will be given to increasing complex carbohydrate and fiber while decreasing simple sugar. We will examine the optimum amount of fat and cholesterol needed to both prevent and reverse atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease. Ideal protein intake for various levels of physical activity and health states will be examined and protein combinations to obtain complete sources will be demystified. Participants will receive a personalized health plan to work with at home.

Suggested reading: The Best Chance Diet, Joe D. Goldstrich (Humanics Limited). $230

Weekend Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Peggy Morrison Horan

In this introductory seminar participants will be taught to give a competent full-body massage. The emphasis will be on developing a soothing and penetrating contact, on sustaining that contact to create a relaxing and integrating experience, and on centering physical and mental energies while working. The intent of the seminar is to introduce massage as a practical approach to developing greater sensory awareness and bringing relief from stress. $230

Week of July 1–6

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

The Feeling Process

Janet Zuckerman

For many people, feelings are something mysterious, something to keep to one's self, or something to think about. This workshop is about all the steps involved in learning to experience, respect, and honor one's feeling process in a way that will increase vitality and personal effectiveness. Participants can learn to separate feelings from thoughts, learn from their own body rhythms, learn to contact their own wisdom, and participate, in a safe environment, in the choice of expression or depression. $450

The Mystical Quest

Christina & Stanislav Grof

In this workshop, we will explore theoretically and experientially the transpersonal dimensions of the human psyche and the importance of the spiritual impulse in human beings. Special attention will be paid to the new emerging world-view that integrates science and mysticism and to the problem of "spiritual emergencies," emotional and psychosomatic crises that can be associated with consciousness evolution. In the experiential work, we will use "holonomic integration," which combines controlled breathing, evocative music, and focused body work, and has the potential to mediate experiential access to the mystical domain. $450

July 1–8

Walkabout: A High Sierra Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 40. $550

Weekend of July 6–8

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Personal Process Weekend

Jessica Moore Britt

This weekend is for people who have done gestalt or breath work and would like to take time from their busy lives to focus on their personal process in a supportive, small group atmosphere. Our tools will be gestalt practice, Reichian breath work, meditation, and time at the baths. Limited to ten participants.

For additional information on gestalt practice see page 11. $450

Beyond Sports

Marilyn King

In the area of sports performance, our greatest achievers are attributing their successes to mental skills as opposed to physical training methods. Current research shows that everyone can learn these skills and call upon resources they never knew they possessed. In this workshop we will explore this research and the field work being done in the United States and abroad in the area of optimal performance. We will identify and work with the tools and methods that are common to super-achievers in many fields. This workshop will demonstrate that use of the process of becoming successful in a new sports skill (such as weight-lifting) can be a blueprint for achieving success in any area. We will explore the implications and possible applications of this knowledge in the areas of education, future sports performance, and global harmony. $450

Psychodrama

Maurica Anderson

Psychodrama is the enactment of improvised life scenes in order to express feelings, gain insight, work on improving interpersonal relationships, and laugh a lot. With an emphasis on psychodrama and by using group process, gestalt, and body awareness approaches, we will play with ways of becoming more open and spontaneous. The degree of active involvement will be up to the individual. $450

Creating Our Future

Prem Das & Rutuima

Prem Das writes: "In this workshop we will explore the origins of our personal universe. Drawing on the ancient wisdom passed down to us by shamins and yogins we will probe into our latent potential as co-creators of the world-universe, and thus of our future."

Recommended reading: The Global Brain, Peter Russell (J.P. Tarcher); Realms of the Unconscious: The Enchanted Frontier, Vasily Nalimov (ISI Press). $230

Week of July 8–13

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see May 27-June 1. $450

Zero Balancing: Beginning/Intermediate Workshop

Fritz Smith

Zero balancing is a simple yet powerful method for aligning the body structure and energy field. The structural/energetic interface of the body is beneath our conscious awareness and when imbalances occur at this level, the body tends to compensate around them rather than resolve them directly. This asymmetry often leads to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, increasing stress, and less potential for vibrant health. Zero balancing assists in overcoming these patterns of imbalance.

In this program Western anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology are reviewed and Eastern concepts of chi energy, its movement in the body and the chakra systems are discussed. With this background information, the system of zero balancing is presented including specific guidelines for evaluating and balancing the structural/energetic interface of the body. The workshop is both didactic and experiential with the main emphasis on teaching the participants new skills in body handling. This is an accredited program towards zero balancing cerfitication. C.E. credit is available for nurses; for additional information see page 41. $450

Ericksonian Hypnosis and Communication

Paul Carter & Marianne Paschke-Carter

"Wisdom is the intelligence of the system as a whole."
—Gregory Bateson

"Your conscious mind is very intelligent, and your unconscious mind is a hell of a lot smarter."
—M.H. Erickson

Paul writes: "We have an intelligence obtained from our wholeness that is far greater than we are ordinarily conscious of. Erickson called it the 'unconscious mind.' Accessing and integrating this intelligence formed the basis of his hypnotic work.

"This workshop is designed for people who work with people and would like experience with Ericksonian hypnosis, communication, and problem-solving. The emphasis will be on developing a practical understanding of the principles of this approach including trance as a natural and necessary part of health and the idea that people are paradoxical and so too must their communication and problem-solving be paradoxical.

"Through guided exercises and demonstrations, participants will be taught the hypnotic use of metaphor in movement, sound, image, and story, as well as the hypnotic realities of age-regression, age-progression (traveling into futures), lucid dreaming, dissociation, and deep-trance identification (a process of deepening self-awareness through identification with different persona in and out of trance).

"Additional exploration will include the recognition and use of spontaneous trance states that commonly occur in the course of body work, acupuncture, movement and dance, sports, counseling, and everyday stress situations; the art of using all of the system, including the 'bad, sick, crazy, and resistant, parts; the value of humor, confusion, pattern interruption, and paradox in accessing unconscious creativity and resources; and an integrative approach to problem-solving and self-healing as described in my soon-to-be published book, The Parts Model.

"Course prerequisites: a sense of humor, a warm heart, a little skepticism, a little trust, and an unconscious mind."

Suggested readings: Uncommon Therapy, Jay Haley (W.W. Norton & Co.); Ericksonian Approaches to Hypnosis and Psychotherapy, Jeffrey Zeig, Editor (Brunner & Mazel). $450

The Existential Model

Galvin Jackson

Through a variety of activities we will build a support group for the nurturance of self-awareness, trust, risking, relations with others, sexual identity, sensual expression, and the freedom necessary to attain a comfort with areas that will permit a carry-over to each participant's own life style. The workshop will employ an existential model, in which each person is seen as existing with no "givens." The task is for participants to define themselves through creations (actions). Group members will be asked to make statements about themselves through interfacing with others as authentically as possible. The leader's role is to return consistently to the present moment, and to reflect and clarify the feelings and ideas of each individual. Interaction methods will be employed, to generate immediate, productive experience for group members. The workshop's goals are to clarify self-definitions, to expand potentials, and to extend abilities to sustain intimacy. $450

East Touching West

Deborah Anne Medow

"To Touch and Feel is to Experience. Many people live out their entire lives without ever really Touching or being Touched by anything. . . . They do not live and become one with life."
—from Seven Arrows by Hyemeyohsts Storm.

Deborah writes: "For over fifteen years, I have been teaching and practicing yoga, various types of body work, dance, and process work, developing my art of touching and moving, my inner and outer balance. For the past four years, I have also begun working with native American medicine ways. The blending of the Eastern Indian yogic tradition, the American Indian medicine ways, and the gestalt process work has enabled me to touch more deeply inside myself, inside the Earth, and in my relations to all my fellow beings.

"During these five days, classes in yoga theory and practice, meditation and asanas will be integrated with sessions in various types of massage and creative movement, dance, and theater, encouraging participants to develop a stronger sense of 'self,' both in relationship to oneself and each other.

"Teachings of the Western native peoples, drawing upon ancient practices that specifically address our relationship to each other, ceremony, dreams, the medicine wheel, and the Earth will also be incorporated into the workshop schedule.

"Through the various practices taught, this workshop is designed to help participants touch more deeply, moving to a place of depth and more balance within themselves and in their relations with Mother Earth and all its inhabitants." $450

Weekend of July 13–15

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see June 24-29. $230

Zero Balancing: Advanced Workshop

Fritz Smith

This workshop is for people who have completed at least one introductory zero balancing program. Following a review of basic concepts time will be spent on answering specific questions and giving individual instruction as needed. New work will focus on exploring the direct perception and assessment of energy currents in the body, refinement of evaluating and balancing the foundation joints, and the discussion of nonfoundation joints, including the small joints of the body. Theory will be clarified by demonstration and individual practice, using each other as models.

This is an accredited program toward zero balancing certification. $230

Heading Toward Omega

Kenneth Ring

In the mid-1970s, tremendous interest in the experience of dying was kindled by the work of Elizabeth Kubler-Ross and Raymond Moody (author of Life After Life). Since then abundant scientific documentation of their basic findings has been compiled. Recently there has been great interest in exploring the spiritual implications of the near-death experience (NDE) and the ways we can draw on this research in dealing with death and dying.

This workshop will begin by reviewing the most recent research in the field and will continue with an in-depth examination of the significance of NDE's, for both everyday life and planetary evolution. Featured in this workshop will be material from Kenneth Ring's new book, Heading Toward Omega, which deals primarily with the transformative power of NDE's.

Although oriented toward persons who are attuned to the spiritual significance of NDE's this program will also be of special interest to nurses and others involved in the health professions. People who have undergone NDE's are particularly welcome to attend this workshop. Films and video tapes will be incorporated into the workshop which will encompass a combination of didactic and experiential formats.

Recommended reading: Life at Death and Heading Toward Omega, Kenneth Ring (Morrow, NY). $230

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive

Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

"For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate, the last test and proof, the work for which all other work is but preparation."
—Rainer Maria Rilke

The goal of this weekend is to provide a context in which couples can focus and explore their relationship in the areas of communication, closeness, conflict, and individuality. A balance of structured and spontaneous interactions will be used within the framework of the large group, subgroups, and the couple. Limited to ten couples. $230 per participant

The National Media From the Inside

Charles Kaiser

Who decides what gets on the front page of the New York Times? Why do Time and Newsweek run the same cover so often? How are reporters manipulated by public figures? What are their most frequent ethical conflicts? How are reporters treated differently from ordinary Americans? Charles Kaiser is media editor of Newsweek, a veteran of the New York Times, where he was a reporter for five years, and has also written for Saturday Review, The New Republic, Rolling Stone, and the American Lawyer. This seminar will explain how editors decide which stories are big news while others are ignored altogether. At the conclusion, seminar participants will be given eight real stories and asked to draw their own sample New York Times' front page. $230

Week of July 15–20

Five Day Massage Intensive

George King & Peggy Morrison Horan

For workshop description see May 6-11. $450

Shaping Love and Intimacy From Conflict

John Zeigler & Mary Kay Christian

According to medical research, the price paid for repressed emotions during conflict can be illness, premature death, and even suicide. Another penalty is loss of intimacy, the ability to share one's deepest feelings.

Our aim in this workshop therefore becomes twofold: 1) to demonstrate the healing power of intense emotonal discharge during the conflicts we have with others and within ourselves, and 2) to teach ways to prevent the same emotional upsets from recurring.

Because the 1960s encouraged repetitive emotional binging in conflicts and de-emphasized personal accountability and positive resolution, there was an inevitable backlash. The result: fear of highly charged confrontations caused some people to avoid risk in a relationship.

The Eighties, nevertheless, appear to be a period when more people are willing to experience conflict because they are committed to the concepts that you can't really love from a deep place until you can allow yourself to cry, be afraid, or even hate, and that emotional blow-ups need not have catastrophic repercussions and can induce compassion, understanding, and even affection from others.

Self-hypnosis is one of the methods which may be explored in the workshop as a means to manage emotional excess and as a way to reprogram the unworkable and self-destructive belief systems inherited from parents, teachers, and society and that are the cause of most upsets. As T.S. Eliot said, "You are nothing but a set of obsolete responses."

The approaches that will be used for deep emotional release may include gestalt and body work, a role playing method developed by the leaders, and non-threatening, non-coercive, supportive group interaction. There will be ample time to experience massage at the baths, laughter, play, music, movement, and the majestic splendor of Big Sur. $450

The New World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Lucid dreaming means dreaming while knowing that we are dreaming. The presence of consciousness during this extraordinary state of consciousness allows us to respond flexibly and creatively to the flow of dream experience. We are in a unique position to control our dreams; this control brings within reach a remarkable range of possibilities from indulging your wildest fantasies to fulfilling your highest spiritual aspirations.

For most of us, lucid dreams are as rare as the waking peak experiences to which they are analogous. This need not be so; workshop participants will learn how to develop the skill of lucid dreaming. The results of recent scientific research will be presented and participants will be exposed to a wide variety of uses to which the world of lucid dreaming can be put, including self-exploration, creative problem solving, healing, adventure, and, perhaps most importantly, a way of self-integration leading to the transpersonal realms.

The emphasis will be on improving the quality of the dreamer's experience while in the dream. This means self-control, not dream control; changing the context rather than the content of the dream. Ann Faraday has called lucid dreaming "one of the most exciting frontiers of human experience." This workshop will provide an opportunity to find out why. $450

You and Universal Motion

Robert Nadeau

The physical conscious system operates in direct relationship to a larger energy activity or universal motion. It is important to recognize this activity as a "friend" and learn to work in harmony with it. We will explore energy and our "marriage" with it through meditation, centering, and body movement. $450

Feeling and Relating

Joel Dweck, Anne Ruderman & Linda Rice-Mandigo

By using Reichian emotional release methods, such as the Radix® intensive, and by working individually within small supportive groups, participants will be given the opportunity to find that the deeply held emotions of pain, anger, and fear can be released. Such release can soften chronic unconscious patterns of tension and a new capacity for pleasure, love, and trust can follow.

As a complement to the emotional release work, approaches to group process will be introduced, providing for the subtler patterns of relating to emerge. Thus, each participant's capacity to translate personal growth into quality interaction can be developed experientially. $450

Weekend of July 20–22

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Weekend Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Brita Ostrom

For workshop description see June 29-July 1. $230

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

For workshop description see May 18-20. $230

Laugh Your Way to Health

Annette Goodheart

This workshop will include lecture, discussion, demonstrations, and experiential exercises, all having to do with laughter and other cathartic processes, particularly tears. The information will include the physiology of laughter, the use of laughter with acute and chronic pain, laughter as a connecting and spiritual experience, and laughter as a natural tension reliever. Inappropriate laughter, including aspects of jokes, teasing, and tickling, will also be examined. $230

Adventures in Self-Exploration

Christina & Stanislav Grof

The process of self-exploration in this workshop will be based theoretically and practically on observations from modern consciousness research. The method of "holonomic integration," developed by the workshop leaders, combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. It uses a model of the psyche that includes the biographical-recollective level, the dynamics of the death-rebirth process, and the entire spectrum of transpersonal experiences. All participants will have the opportunity to be in the roles of experiencers as well as facilitators or "sitters." Special emphasis will be placed on the relevance of this work for management of transpersonal crisis. $230

July 21–27

Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing in Yellowstone National Park

Dick Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, pages 40 & 41. $525

Week of July 22–27

Self-Acceptance: The Freedom to Be

David Schiffman

For workshop description see May 20-25. $450

Energy Strategies

Nancy Rosanoff

Tapping the intuitive mind can release the limitations of everyday consciousness and make the impossible possible. Energy strategies, when applied, can be the bridge between potential and fulfillment.

In this course you will be taught to organize and appropriate the vast amount of intuitive knowledge and energy available to you. Some methods used will be to evaluate life patterns, explore how to change when necessary, unblock creative energy and use it as leverage to do more with less, and examine relationship patterns with the idea of turning energy drain to gain.

Energy, a building block of life, may be enhanced by planning, managing, and applying it using a personal energy strategy. $450

Designing a Healthy Lifestyle

Ken Dychtwald

In this experiential workshop, the group will explore and examine the ways in which certain attitudes and lifestyle variables correlate with high levels of health, life-satisfaction, longevity, and professional effectiveness. Particular attention will be placed on having each participant develop a personal approach to altering his or her personal habits and attitudes in order to enhance all aspects of mental and physical functioning within an enjoyable "life plan."

The daily program (all optional) will include: running, stretching, and aerobic exercise sessions; meditation, relaxation, and stress-reduction classes; health walks/hikes; sensory awareness and creative visualization instruction; massage lessons at the Esalen baths; nutritious meals prepared in the Esalen kitchen; and a series of didactic seminars on such topics as life planning, longevity, diet and nutrition, optimal fitness, stress-management, wellness, and peak performance.

Although the material and activities to be covered in this seminar will be of value to all interested participants, graduates of previous Ken Dychtwald workshops are encouraged to attend. $450

July 22–29

Psychosynthesis: A Seven Day Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

Harry Sloan writes: "Many of us have experienced those moments in working with clients when we don't have the foggiest idea of what's going on. Often, to avoid the discomfort of confusion and not knowing, we hurriedly grasp for what is most familiar—a technique, map, or model. This can lead to the mechanical experience of 'going through the motions' and rote interventions. However, if we could reach for essence and truth instead of falling back on what's most familiar, the dissonance might open to insight. The result of capturing the moment and responding to the need of the client and to the dynamics of the situation can have a decidedly different effect upon both the guide and client. The heart of psychosynthesis is understanding the process of reaching for essence within ourselves and our clients. This practice can lead to developing wisdom and intuition, transcending the methodologies we use.

"The format will combine individual work within the group setting with seminars, group exercises, and practicum. This program will be useful not only to those who are interested in psychosynthesis, but also to anyone in the helping professions who wants to come into a more creative relationship with his/her discipline.

"Psychosynthesis is the name for the conscious attempt to align and cooperate with the natural process of growth and integration. It recognizes that each human being is spiritual in essence and encourages the realization and expression of this essence, or higher self, as fully as possible in personal and social existence." $680

Weekend of July 27–29

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

The I in the Triangle

Robert Anton Wilson

"It took nearly four billion years of evolution to produce your mind just as it exists now. Was that all a joke or an accident?"
—Robert Anton Wilson

This seminar confronts the great anxiety about the future that is increasingly dominating and paralyzing our society and ourselves. The participants will be asked to confront their own defenses of apathy or despair, and the chronic low-grade terror that exists in the unconscious, because of our institutionalized nostalgia ("rear-view mirrorism") and our attempts to live in a present that is constantly changing and vanishing. The goal: to accept responsibility for the future, to recognize ourselves as co-creators of the tomorrows in which we must live.

Major topics and exercises include: the symbolism of the eye in the triangle and the Western occult tradition—Bruno, the Illuminati, freemasonry and what it means to be a "Builder of the Temple"; creative agnosticism, or how to escape from the twin tyrants (yes and no); alternative realities (how to get into and out of any reality-tunnel); basic futurism, or why everything will change more in the next 30 years than in the previous 30,000; worry and its cure, including personal and planetary anxieties; primate and post-primate psychology, or how to tell your friends from the apes, and the art of time-travel: learning to live in many dimensions.

Recommended pre-seminar reading: Critical Path, Buckminster Fuller; Neuropolitics, Leary & Wilson; Prometheus Rising, Wilson. $230

Our Creative Core

Susan Franklin-Tanner

"Each of us is an artist. All that is needed is a non-judgmental environment where we may use our creative selves and experience the power of our imagination."
—Living Stage Credo

Imagination is our birthright, and the freedom to play is as essential to humans as breathing. Through improvisational theater exercises, dance, visualization, poetry writing, and drawing, participants in this workshop will explore their many roles and characters to develop creativity. This form of theater work is strongly influenced by gestalt and neo-Reichian practices. $230

Week of July 29–August 3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Experiencing Your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities.

They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $450

Frogs Into Princes: Practical Transformation

John Michael Grey & Eli Jaxon-Bear

If all of the world's a stage and we are the players, then who writes the script? Each day is an opportunity to participate in life and its evolution. This workshop focuses on developing the practical tools for self-transformation and an increased ability to communicate successfully with others. Problems are opportunities to grow in the areas of our lives that currently await transformation.

You may learn to expand your ability to gain perspective in any situation and develop the options for feelings and behaviors that better suit who you want to be. You may discover greater clarity in what it is you want and how to achieve it, professionally or personally. You may also find how the very limitations you encounter can be transformed into your allies for success.

Neurolinguistics presents an array of practical tools for people to assist themselves and others in achieving the changes they want in an unusually direct way. This experiential workshop will present the basic tools for helping people who are interested in transforming their own lives and for professionals who want to increase the range of thier own current approaches. $450

David Nelson

Hypnosis and Neo-Reichian Body Work

David Silverstein & Gottfried Heuer

This workshop will combine neo-Reichian body work and hypnosis to enable participants to work on different levels simultaneously. By loosening the body armor through the neo-Reichian approach, participants may become more receptive to exploring their unconscious processes. Hypnosis will be used to gain access to altered states of consciousness, to experience or re-experience fantasies, dreams, unfinished childhood situations, and possible past-life events. By bringing together these two approaches to human development, the workshop's aim is to create a safe environment which respects each individual's natural process of growth. $450

Body Changes: Feldenkrais, Rolfing®, and Berry Methods

Dub Leigh, Dee Dee Lozier & Michael Joyce

This is a workshop for individuals interested in beginning or accelerating their process of body change. Through private and group sessions, simple, gentle, and progressive Feldenkrais and Rolf®-patterning exercises will provide participants the chance to experience such changes within the body as increased comfort and awareness, and more harmoniously integrated movement.

The two or more private sessions included in the workshop will focus on resolution of individual functional problems in neuromuscular and connective tissue organization of the body. Participants will be guided in the development of a personal program for continuing improvement at home. $450

Weekend of August 3–5

Transformation—Within and Without

Frances Belmonte, Charles Brandon & Russell Schweickart

Richard Falk, Milbank professor of International Law at Princeton University writes: "often deep transformations in structure are virtually 'invisible' to those who experience them."

It is our thesis that just such a deep transformation in structure as referred to by Falk is now taking place and that the personal and the external aspects of the transformation are interrelated and in fact inseparable. It has been our experience that the awareness of the transformation of the whole can lead to a transformation of the person.

In this seminar we will explore this transformation process—both within and without—on many levels. We will survey the extraordinary changes taking place in many areas, including physics, theology, medicine, and women's rights and roles. We will examine the proposition that these changes are facets of a singular, elemental, global process. Through the use of audio-visual material of an unusual and dramatic nature, we will accompany Russell Schweickart on his voyage into space as an Apollo 9 astronaut and see our home planet from a new perspective. Through another multi-screen audio-visual presentation we will examine the four major myths that have informed our view of the nature of reality: the animistic, the theological, the Newtonian physical, and the emerging quantum myth.

It seems to us that it is of the utmost value to communicate this experience of the awareness of the elemental global transformation as a means of facilitating the possibility of other persons having similar experiences and awareness. Funds for the preparation of this workshop were provided by The Reality Foundation.

Recommended reading: The Dancing Wu Li Masters, Gary Zukav, (Wm. Morrow & Co.); Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics, Nick Herbert, (Doubleday); The Aquarian Conspiracy Marilyn Ferguson, (Tarcher); A New Science of Life, Rupert Sheldrake, (Tarcher); The Politics of Women's Spirituality, Charlene Spretnak, Editor, (Anchor Press / Doubleday). $230

Dreams, Energy, and Transformation

Kenneth Kelzer

Dreams are a power source within the body / mind, offering us a wide variety of energies and "raw materials of the psyche." These energies, once refined and transformed, serve to elevate our lives to new levels. This workshop will employ a wide variety of dream transformational methods for personal renewal and energy expansion.

We will use gestalt processes, psychodrama, the Senoi methods, Jung's depth psychology, intuitive feedback, and creative art media as our principal tools. Participants will have ample time to present their own dreams and are urged to bring their dream journals to the workshop.

Suggested reading: Black Elk Speaks, chapters 3, 13, and 14; Creative Dreaming, Patricia Garfield, chapter 5; Man and His Symbols, Carl Jung, chapter 1; Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Fritz Perls. $230

"Painting: used purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery."
– Michell Cassou

The Role and Functions of Crystals

Marcel Vogel

Dr. Vogel writes: "Material covered in this workshop will include: a discussion on crystals and instruction on the preparation of an individual in the work with and use of various crystal forms. We will look at the possibility of using crystals as information transducers and storage devices, taking into consideration the significance of their color and impurities, their use in healing, their essence chemistry, and their use as biological pacemakers." $230

Crossroads: Awareness of Possiblity of Life Change and Personal Growth

Anne Nechama Simkin

This workshop is for people who have reached an impasse in life, who feel that they are at a crossroad and / or are seeking more vitality and excitement. Participants may find it is possible to become aware of exactly where they are and how they got there and that they may explore ways to mobilize and energize their ability to choose and act. Special attention will be given to the ways in which one stops seeking options and alternatives and immobilizes oneself and arrests advancing and adventuring in new directions. Emphasis will be on risk-taking in the safe, supportive milieu of the group. $230

Achieving Sustained High Performance

Jerry Fletcher

Many people have had the experience of suddenly finding they were doing something extremely well, far better than they usually do. They often report that these times of very high performance were easy and flowing, far different from the stress, fatigue, and burnout that can accompany long periods of working hard. Yet until recently little has been known about these high performance experiences. People assumed such times were lucky accidents.

More than five years of research and testing has established that these times are not capricious. Each individual has a unique set of conditions under which they perform exceptionally well. Once they learn their personal high performance pattern, they can deliberately create the conditions they need to sustain their own high performance behavior.

This seminar presents a carefully developed process for individuals to learn what their high

David Nelson

"The Painting Experience" Workshop

performance patterns are, and how to adjust their environment to create the conditions under which they perform exceptionally well. It is particularly valuable for individuals whose effectiveness depends on what they do: entrepreneurs, the self-employed, sales people, creative artists, professionals in private practice, and consultants, and for managers and executives who are looking for a fresh perspective on how to humanely stimulate employees to do their best work. $230

August 4–11

A Gentle Trip on the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Greg Henderson

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 41. $410

Week of August 5–10

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

New Directions in Body Work

Brita Ostrom & Vicki Topp

Body work often leads us into the deeper levels of the psyche. How we can most creatively explore and develop these moments of openness will be the focus of this massage workshop. We will use the tools of Esalen massage, gestalt awareness practice, visualization, and movement. No previous massage experience is necessary. $450

New Approaches to Birth, Sex and Death

Christina & Stanislav Grof

In this workshop, we will explore the implications of modern consciousness research for the understanding of the three basic aspects of existence—birth, sex, and death—and their mutual interrelations. We will focus on such issues as the relevance of the birth trauma for psychiatry and psychotherapy, new understanding of emotional, sexual, and psychosomatic disorders, the kundalini syndrome, new revolutionary approaches to self-exploration and healing, and constructive handling of spiritual crises. The format of the workshop combines discussion with deep personal experience and participants will have the opportunity to explore personally their experiences and feelings in the above three areas. We will use the method of "holonomic integration," which combines evocative music, controlled breathing, facilitative body work, and mandala drawing. $450

Creative Attachment: The Art of Making Affectional Bonds

George Kohlrieser

From cradle to grave life involves a changing script of "affectional bonds." These bonds are different from dependency and essential for growth, health, and happiness. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans (and other mammals) to make strong affectional bonds with particular others; a way to explain many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including emotional detachment, depression, and burn-out. Life energy is connected to the quality and depth of emotional contact. This experiential workshop will focus on the patterns of forming, maintaining, breaking, and renewing affectional bonds. Methods include guided affective imagery, emotional release, group process, and intense bonding work to understand, create, and celebrate positive emotional attachments. $450

Weekend of August 10–12

Food for Health and Wellness

Joe D. Goldstrich

For workshop description see June 29-July 1. $230

The Human Energy System and Gestalt Process

Alan Schwartz

The human being's movement toward a stable and balanced organism undergoes many adjustments in direct proportion to his/her responses to parental and environmental messages. The result is the formulation of stratified patterns of visible physiology and behavior. These join to form that which is usually called personality, one's individual energy system. Two common examples of energy system responses to life stress are those personalities who collapse under stress and those who control. There are many more. This will be a weekend to explore and understand our individual energy systems and their relation to how we make and inhibit intrapersonal and interpersonal contact. One focus will be on the simple task of being present, physiologically and emotionally, being aware that contact refers to our consistent awareness process and the autonomous expression of who we are. For additional information read the August 12-17 description. $230

Awakening the Healer Within: Dimensions of Psychic Healing

Elizabeth Stratton

Every human being is a potential channel for healing energy. Negative conditioning of our emotions, or unconscious beliefs and behavior, combined with environmental factors such as pollution, can give birth to dissociated parts of self which act as impediments to our natural healing abilities. Studies have shown the reality of psychic awareness, in which a person cannot only better understand his/her own functioning, but actually heal and psychically ward off illness.

This workshop will provide a didactic and experiential model for participants to gain a perspective on psychic healing, and the basic skills necessary to develop healing abilities in themselves. Channeling of energies will be taught, along with methods of dissolving impediments to the healing process. $230

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries, all of which can improve by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "reeducable". Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods to improve their ability to sense each others bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about their bodies through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens who may find themselves discovering new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painlessly and immediately. $230

Burnout: Causes and Cures

Elliot Aronson & Ayala Pines

This workshop is designed for people who give service to others and who are experiencing burnout. It deals with the impact of burnout on both the service provider and the client, ways of finding and recognizing support resources on the job, and positive methods of dealing with burnout and life tedium. Through lectures, group discussions, and input from the participants themselves, individuals will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of those aspects of their own work and life which could cause burnout. In addition they will be provided with the tools and opportunity to learn how to handle these problems in order to increase the productivity and creativity of their relationships with clients and colleagues. C.E. credit is available for doctors and nurses; for additional information see page 41. $230

Week of August 12–17

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) & Fred Kalmus

For workshop description see May 13-18. $450

Emotions of Desire: Protecting the Limits of Love and Commitment

Ayala Pines & Gordon Clanton

Love, jealousy, envy, anger, and other powerful emotions are generated in intimate relationships. These emotions are not useless flights of irrationality. Emotions are useful. They are signals we can learn to interpret. They are also shock-abosrbers which can facilitate personal growth and relationship enrichment.

Through group discussions, gestalt work, role-playing, and shared fantasy, we shall become more aware of the varieties of love and the combinations of love-styles that are formed in intimate relationships. In the supportive, non-judgmental workshop context we shall learn and practice constructive ways of protecting love relationships and positive ways of expressing legitimate anger, thus minimizing the pain of jealousy and envy.

This workshop is for everyone who seeks a better understanding of the emotions of desire. It is especially helpful for couples who are seeking to define and protect the limits of their relationships and for counselors who work with people for whom these issues are important. $450

Effecting Change: The Human Energy System and Risk

Alan Schwartz

This is a week for recognizing the relationship between personal growth/change and economic/environmental realities. This is a week for designing a growth pattern for your individual energy system to provide more stable contact with the difficulties of the emerging decade.

The human energy system represents a constantly changing personality dimension. Often neglected in the system's movement towards maturity is the development of the consistency of strength. We hear metaphors not only of physical strength, but strength of character, strong emotions, and the spiritual and psychic strengths of perception. Lack of strength development leads each of us to develop compensations in order to be able to function in our chosen worlds. Some of the obvious are psychosomatic problems, blame, denial, and indiscriminate sexual functioning. Power over self, people, things is often a major compensation for the strength that allows us the experience of self, people, and things.

Risk involves awareness of our individual compensations, trusting self and the group process enough to experiment with mobilizing more energy. This means rendering more alive the strength of the physiology, feelings, conceptual process, and psychic perceptiveness. The result is clarity and stability and a deeper awareness of the balance of self as we contact the very real issues of the coming decade. For further information, read the August 10-12 workshop description. $450

Psychic Healing: Healer as Visionary

Elizabeth Stratton

To see into a person's essence, into the heart and soul beneath the defenses, is the first step the psychic healer takes when confronted with someone who needs healing. To then mirror back this essence, over and over during the healing process, affords the person an opportunity to choose this vision of wholeness.

Almost everyone has wished, at times, to be able to reach someone who needs healing, but who seems to be resistant. This workshop is for both non-professionals and professionals who would like to learn how to make the kind of healing contact that can lead to transformation.

The workshop will explore: the physical, psychic, and spiritual dimensions of energy; the blocking of energy that can lead to the formation of illness; the will to live, the will to die; illness and death as learning, not punishment; releasing judgment and allowing forgiveness; requirements for recovery in long term, short term, and instantaneous healing; the role of the healer; and channeling healing energy through the heart, eyes, voice, and laying on of hands.

$450

Weekend of August 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Weekend Massage Intensive

George King & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see June 29-July 1.

$230

Evolutionary Process as a Unifying Paradigm

Frank Barr & Michael Buchele

This workshop is designed for the consciousness researcher / explorer who seriously seeks a comprehensive model of reality—one which satisfactorily integrates the spectrum of science with human experience. We will critically examine the theory of evolutionary process of Arthur M. Young, as outlined in The Reflexive Universe and Geometry of Meaning. Among the topics covered will be: ancient and modern philosophy, psychology, mythology, religion, and esoteric systems (such as astrology) as well as quantum physics, molecular / cellular / developmental biology, and the brain sciences. In particular, we will explore and propose solutions to some of the major current unsolved mysteries, including the "mind-body" problem; psychoneuroimmunology and tissue regeneration; psychedelics, schizophrenia, and "altered states" of consciousness; and parapsychological phenomena. $230

Achieving Maximum Performance in Athletics

Joyce Hanna & Gerald Smith

Within each person's mindset there is a combination of attitudes toward performance which will allow a maximum effort in any athletic event. Since sports uniquely dramatize the human ability to surpass its limits, this workshop will have special emphasis on methods to overcome self-limiting expectations. Recent research in sports psychology, such as the effects of visual-motor behavior rehearsal, relaxation, and imagery on optimal performance, will be reviewed. The primary focus for the workshop will be enhancing your view of what is the best combination of attitudes and disciplines to allow for maximum performance. The following topics will be introduced: tailoring your own goal setting and reward process; handling feelings of boredom, pain, fatigue, and anxiety; dealing with ambivalent feelings toward success; overcoming self-defeating attitudes toward competition; strengthening the capacity for psychological endurance; using prematch mental preparation; incorporating attentional focusing; preventing burnout. Participants will have an opportunity to design their own personalized maximum peformance programs.

$230

The Moving Center

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

An American shamanic ritual using music, poetry, sacred dance, and ritual theater experiences to mirror the mind, catalyze the heart, and open the body as a channel for creative energies. Through collective rituals participants will explore individual dreams and visions and learn to share differences. $230

Week of August 19–24

Miracles of Infancy

Laurie Schutz Munyer, Arthur Munyer & Jezariah Canyon Munyer

For workshop description see June 15-17.

$450

The Craft of Dream Analysis: Psyche in the World

Stephen Aisenstat

Stephen writes: "Throughout history dream images have served as windows into the depths of the psyche. Methods of dream analysis have been developed which take into account the Personal Unconscious and the Collective Unconscious. In addition, it is now especially necessary to find a way of listening to dreams which takes into account the realm of the World Unconscious. The World Unconscious is seen as a deeper and broader dimension of psyche in which all of the phenomena of the world (not only human beings) contain a subjective inner nature and are interrelated. At this level of consciousness it is possible, through listening to dreams, to hear the psyche in the world speak of her fate. In these precarious times, it is particularly important to discover how the individual psyche and the collective human psyche can work in cooperation with the world psyche.

"In this workshop, I will review established approaches of dream analysis (personal, existential, and archetypal). In addition, I will offer a new approach to understanding dreams (holonomic). Used to explore the World Psyche, holonomic dream methods are based on principles from archetypal psychology, systems theory, and relativistic quantum physics. Coordinating holonomic dream methods with personal, existential, and archetypal methods, I will demonstrate a multi-dimensional approach of dream work. This workshop is both theoretical and experiential. Please bring your dreams."

$450

Work with Passion

Nancy Anderson

Passion is emotional excitement which comes to us when we feel intensely about some object, person, or ideal. We all have passion within us and often bury it because, early in life, we were ridiculed for "getting carried away." We were often dis-couraged, literally; denied the courage to dream and feel. This workshop is about en-couragement, particularly with our careers, our life work.

Career satisfaction begins with knowing what our passions are, what satisfies us. The heart is the guide to finding and doing work we love. In this workshop we will look at how to follow our hearts to our "right niche" in work. The premise is that we must define ourselves before entering the marketplace, and then we must learn how to research and make contacts in our areas of interest.

The concept is that you create your job by solving others' problems. Every business has problems. Which ones do you want to solve?

Recommended reading: Work with Passion, Nancy Anderson (Whatever Publishing).

$450

Catharsis and Beyond

Jessica Moore Britt

Insight and body-oriented practices depend on awareness and on the expression of sensations, feelings, and images that most of us ordinarily repress. Insight and catharsis by themselves, however, may not necessarily lead us into the depth that transpersonal disciplines like meditation and shamanism cultivate. Practitioners of meditation and shamanism, on the other hand, may neglect the emotional / physical clearing that often allows the opening from which our depths may emerge, be perceived, and integrated. This workshop seeks to join these two levels of practice. Using gestalt awareness practice, Reichian breath work, meditation, and chanting, we will begin to explore the relationship between the learned patterns of our personality and the depths of our being. $450

Joyce Rogers

Unity

Gabrielle Roth & Moving Center Staff

This is a five-day shamanic healing ritual designed to inspire and channel the religious, sexual, and creative aspects of life energy into unity and expression. Through music, sacred dance, poetry, and ritual theater processes, participants will explore and present their unique experiences of life's waves, rhythms, and cycles. The Moving Center tools are designed to release gifts, talents, and potentials. $450

August 19–26

Season's of a Woman's Life: Self-Exploration in the Wilderness

Annie Callaway-Galland & Marilyn Mason

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 41. $450

Weekend of August 24–26

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see June 22-24. $230

Poetry Writing Workshop

Jane Hirshfield

To write a poem is to explore the world as you alone meet it. You discover what you know / feel / think about the poem's "subject" and find a way of describing it that is wider than conscious reality. In this workshop (which is intended for those who do not think of themselves as poets) we will make use of the material at hand—our own perceptions, memories, and ideas, and the Esalen site itself. A series of writing exercises, free writing time, and group discussions will be combined to help us open ourselves to a realm of language that is empowered, individual, and close to the heart of experience. Participants are asked to bring one poem which is meaningful to them to the first session. $230

Awakening the Dreamer: Tibetan Dream Yoga

Chakdud Tulku Rinpoche & Joan Halifax

Who is the dreamer? What is the relationship between the dream of sleep and the dream of everyday reality? This unusual retreat will explore rare Tibetan Buddhist practices of lucid dreaming and working in the dream state. Clarifying the mind through dream yoga allows one to awaken in the dream of sleep and potentially awaken in the dream of so-called everyday reality. This workshop will include direct teachings, discussion, and practice.

Recommended reading: Shamanic Voices, Shaman, Wounded Healer, Joan Halifax; The Human Encounter with Death, Stanislav Grof & Joan Halifax. $230

Physics Weekend: Bell's Theorem and the Nature of Reality

Nick Herbert & Heinz Pagels

Quantum theory is universally successful in describing nature at all levels accessible to experiment. However, this comprehensive practical success is accompanied by an unprecedented disagreement as to what quantum theory actually means, and a corresponding confusion as to what sort of reality supports the phenomenal world.

Controversy over the nature of deep reality has been sharpened by Bell's Theorem, which proves that any conceivable objective reality underlying the facts of experience must be independent of space and time. Thus either there is no ultimate objective reality, or this reality is more peculiar then we have been led (by ordinary physics) to believe. The impact of Bell's Theorem is just beginning to be felt in the world of physics, but it is rather like the situation of the Michelson-Morley experiment, which led to Einstein's theory of relativity. Just what the current controversy in the foundations of physics will lead to is not yet clear, but the various possibilities will be explored in this weekend presentation.

Recommended reading: Quantum Reality Beyond the New Physics, Nick Herbert; The Cosmic Code, Heinz Pagels (Simon & Schuster). $230

Week of August 26–31

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week we will focus on how to develop those qualities in ourselves that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based in warmth and humor we will explore our capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $450

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley

It is very rare for most people to use painting purely for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to do it just for the process of exploration, not for the result. This workshop will focus upon the painting experience as a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to creative expression. Emphasis will be placed upon the practical experience of creative painting in which participants will be given the support and stimulation to discover a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The mechanisms and patterns that prevent creative action will be discussed in order to integrate understanding with experience. The work will take place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, and a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. An audio-visual program will illustrate the development of inner expression during the painting process.

The workshop has proved to be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary.

For further information about this workshop write: The Painting Experience Studio, 509 Noriega Street, San Francisco, CA 94122. (415) 564-8515. $450 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Yoga: A Week of Rejuvenation

Ganga White

In a recharging and rejuvenating week combining the Esalen experience with in-depth instruction and practice of yoga, Ganga will share from over sixteen years experience studying and teaching yoga around the world. The course will aim at giving participants the inspiration and understanding necessary to create a personal practice of yoga. Yoga can bring about a strong, healthy, and flexible body, mind, and spirit. When approached correctly it becomes exhilarating and a joy to include in one's life. Ganga teaches a holistic approach that is flowing and graceful and combines asana (posture), pranayama (breathing), and dhyana (meditation).

A special feature of the week will be "double yoga" practice, which is a new system of yoga created by Ganga that is practiced with a partner. It allows you to share your practice with a friend and try poses you couldn't accomplish alone.

The course is open to students of all levels, from beginners to advanced. Students will be shown how to develop a 45 minute daily practice that includes all elements necessary for maintaining optimum fitness. Other topics will include: how yoga works, yoga for the athlete, dealing with injuries, aligning and restructuring the body, diet and nutrition, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Double Yoga, Ganga White (Penguin). $450

August 26–September 2

Psychosynthesis: A Seven Day Workshop for Professionals

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see July 22-29. $680

Weekend of August 31–September 2

Letting Go—Moving On

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) & Fred Kalmus

For workshop description see May 13-18. $230

Weekend Massage Intensive

Peggy Morrison Horan & Vicki Topp

For workshop description see June 29-July 1. $230

Relationships: Making it Easy

Wendy Oser & Tom Taussig

The quality of life is intimately connected to how we relate: to lovers, co-workers and, especially to ourselves.

During this weekend we will share strategies, notice beliefs, and clarify priorities. We will use individual and group processes of the mind, the body, and the heart, aided by the insightful support of video feedback.

Our purpose is to move away from stress and dissatisfaction in the interest of delight and greater equilibrium. The weekend is intended to be a practice session in doing it the easy way. $230

Symbols and Myths of Transformation

Angie Arrien

This seminar is an intensive experiential study of symbols as tools of personal growth and facilitators for increased perception and intuition. We will consider a variety of symbols: psychologically, as archetypes of individuation, and cross-culturally, as universal constants. The symbols to be studied and experienced include: sun and moon, trees, flowers, circles / wheels / mandalas, totem animals, masks, light and fire, the elements, sacred mountains, the body and its parts, the journey / path, and others. Some of the sources of symbolism that we will draw on are astrology, alchemy, mythology and folklore of all the cultures, and tarot. Special attention will be given to the uses and significance of symbols in dreams, art, and the helping professions. Specific symbolic creative projects and exercises in extending perception and intuition will be part of the seminar. $230

Week of September 2–7

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

For workshop description see May 27-June 1. $450

Mothers And Daughters: Confluence Into Contact

Lois & Gail Stewart, Christine Stewart Price & Jenny Price

The relationship between mother and daughter is one of the deepest and most intimate of connections. The experience of feeling that deep connection while also knowing oneself as a separate and whole individual can lead to the richness that comes when one matures out of confluence and into contact. The group's four leaders span three generations of women from one family and bring to the group skills in gestalt practice, group process, Reichian breath work, massage, and theater improvisation. This is a workshop for mothers and daughters to attend together and explore the issues that prevent clear contact between them and celebrate the nourishment that they can find with each other. $450

Five Days with Carl Whitaker

This will be a five day effort to facilitate the transition from doing family therapy to being a family therapist, via using symbolic experience to deprogram our lifetime of purposeful interpersonal manipulation. $450

Optimizing Health and Performance

Neil Fiore

Most of us manage the stress in our lives, and even enjoy it to some extent. But too often we pay the price of weakened health and less than optimal performance when stress becomes chronic and enthusiasm is dampened. In careers and lifestyles that are challenging and developing, we could all use greater control over stress, the ability to rapidly relax and recuperate, and skill at tapping the creative ability of the unconscious mind.

In this workshop we will draw on the wizardry of Dr. Milton H. Erickson and Bandler and Grinder, on elements from stress management, cognitive-behavior modification, and assertiveness.

You will be provided with methods for: identifying patterns and beliefs that evoke the stress response, rechanneling stress into problem resolution, concentrating on task and goal accomplishment, and developing deep relaxation and recuperation.

Recommended reading: The Road Back to Health, Neil Fiore (Bantam). $450

The Foundations of Body Image

Andrea & Deane Juhan

This is a course for the improvement of your relationship with the body—your own and those you contact personally and professionally. Each major area of the body will be studied and experienced in turn. The sessions allotted for each area will include: slides and discussion to familiarize the group with the basic anatomical structures; specific stretches and exercises to isolate the muscles and joints in question; movement, dance, and visualization to explore the psychological dimensions of each body part; instruction in massage methods designed to locate and alleviate common problems.

The intent is to provide enough concrete experience for each participant to feel a change for the better in self image; to provide enough discussion to understand how the improvements occurred and how they may be sustained; and, particularly, to help you contact your images of your physical self—the body you do have, the body you think you have, and the body you could have. $450

September 2–9

A Seven Day Workshop in Rubenfeld Synergy Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

The sea always has waves . . . waves are the sea . . . sea and waves are one. To speak of waves apart from the sea is a delusion—so mind and body are one!

The Rubenfeld Synergy Method is a system for the dynamic integration of body, mind, and emotions. The focus in this workshop will be on experiencing one's own body and emotions as a total organism. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tension and imbalance. A unique blend of gestalt, Alexander method, and Feldenkrais exercises will be used as a gateway to contacting, expressing, and working through deep feelings. Massage staff will be on hand to assist the workshop.

We have the choice to contact ourselves and each other with joy, sadness, compassion, humor, ideas, and with the body—the whole person. $680

Weekend of September 7–9

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Yoga: The Physical, Psychological, and Spiritual Dimensions

Joel Kramer

This workshop will allow you to experience a mind / body approach to yoga that combines Eastern and Western perspectives, enabling yoga to directly enhance the quality of your daily life. The physical yoga sessions will introduce an approach to postures that use breath to create energy and center awareness. As the body has tight areas that limit energy, so, too, does the mind. The mental yoga sessions will show how to use the mind to transform itself and expand consciousness.

We will explore how yoga relates to emotions, health, consciousness, relationships, and other aspects of life. This workshop is for anyone interested in experiencing yoga or deepening their practice.

Recommended reading: The Passionate Mind, Joel Kramer. $230

Ritual and Personal Power

Starhawk

In this weekend workshop we will explore the tools of ritual that can evoke our own power-from-within. Using the framework of the four elements—air, fire, water, and earth—we will work with breath and visualization, sensing and projecting energy, trance states, and grounding to embark on a rite-of-passage. Ritual creates a sense of community. Part of our challenge as a group is to bond without hierarchy, to become a circle in which we empower each other. Alive to our own power, we can connect with the deeper powers of the living, enspirited earth.

Recommended reading: by Starhawk: The Spiral Dance (Harper & Row) and Dreaming The Dark (Beacon Press). $230

Steve Beck

The Big House

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation in Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

The intention of this workshop is to generate access to the participants' use of their own natural intelligence. Paradoxically, as human creatures, we use our intelligence too often, to repetitively and habitually impose limitations onto an infinitely rich realm of possibility. This is done without knowing the processes involved in the interpretation of experience onto symbols, without recognizing the difference between the symbols themselves and the realities they represent. These habitual patterns of perception affect at least two important perspectives: the limits for knowing what one can know and the thresholds for imagining what can be achieved.

Conscious and unconscious patterns of communication will be explored and used to expand individual frames of reference and to generate new and desired responses. Essential value will be placed on the individuality of each personality and the sensitivities of the "unconscious" in communication. Hypnotic phenomena will be induced and utilized throughout the workshop to access personal potential including: time distortion, age regression, positive and negative hallucination, catalepsy, analgesia, hyperesthesia, and amnesia. Governing principles operating on perceptual processes will also be worked with including those patterns used in constructing reality. While some people will find this work provocative, the workshop will be most suitable for professionals and those who enjoy expanding personal thresholds and recognize that play is the transition between fantasy and reality. $230

Week of September 9–14

Five Day Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

For workshop description see May 6-11. $450

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ed Jackson

For workshop description see June 10-15. $450

Move and Dance

Anna Halprin & Daria Halprin Khalighi

From the delight-maker (Koshares) of the American Indian dances to the comedy within the Greek tragedy, the role of humor has been an important factor in releasing stress and tension on the personal as well as social level. Yet it seems as if many of us in our daily lives, both personally and professionally, have forgotten this age-old art, and are not enjoying as much play, lightness, and creativity as we might like.

In this workshop, we will have the opportunity to recapture the fun and excitement of dance and to use humor, play, and serious study to break through emotional, physical, and mental blocks that interfere with our creativity. Specific skills developed at the Tamalpa Institute of San Francisco Dancers' Workshop will be used to increase movement range, imagination, and artistic development.

This workshop is for students, potential students for Tamalpa trainings, educators, health practitioners, counselors, handicapped and little people, couples, elders, performing artists, and others.

For further information about this workshop write: Tamalpa Institute of SF Dancers' Workshop, Fort Mason Center, San Francisco, CA 94123. (415) 771-1212.

Recommended books by Anna Halprin: Movement Ritual I (available at Esalen); Collected Writings II (available by writing SF Dancers' Workshop) $450

Weekend of September 14–16

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Moore Britt

For workshop description see June 8-10. $230

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see August 10–12. $230

A Celebration of the Goddess Within

Margot Adler

In this workshop we will explore ecstatic communion with what has been called goddess energy. We will look at the idea of goddess as an image of personal empowerment for women and as a source of creative power for all people. The weekend focuses on ritual and celebration as a way of attuning ourselves to the cycles of the seasons, the cycles of moon and sun and stars, and as a means to end our estrangement and alienation from the planet and from each other.

We will participate in and create a ritual for the fall equinox, as well as chant, dance, and explore ways of deepening our encounter with the cosmos. Other topics will include the use of dreams, pathworking, and meditation to deepen ritual experience, and the idea of magic as a non-manipulative personal tool.

Suggested reading: by Starhawk: The Spiral Dance (Harper & Row), Dreaming The Dark (Beacon Press); by Margot Adler: Drawing Down the Moon. $230

From Stress to Optimum Health: Soviet and American Perspectives

Dulce Murphy & Kenneth Pelletier

Drawing upon both American and Soviet medical perspectives, this seminar will explore the following subjects: longevity, social factors involved in disease, health promotion and disease prevention, stress, bio-feedback, visual imagery as a cure for disease, and other alternative approaches to health-care. The seminar leaders will report on their recent Soviet trip to continue work on the Esalen Soviet-American Health Promotion Project and Dr. Inna Kolgunenko and Tatyana Khromchenko of the Institute of Cosmotological Rehabilitation and Health will discuss optimum health in the U.S.S.R.

Recommended reading: by Kenneth Pelletier: Holistic Medicine: From Stress to Optimum Health, Longevity: Fulfilling Our Biological Potential (Delacorte & Delta), Healthy People in Unhealthy Places: Stress and Fitness at Work (Delacorte, Delta, & Doubleday). $230

Applied Vulnerability

Donald Michael

Don Michael writes: "In my work to help organizations and individuals plan more intelligently for the future, I've come to feel that the main task we face in the next crucial twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This sounds simple and obvious on the surface, but consider for a moment how much time we spend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing and how to do it. There is a parallel between what happens when people begin to pay close attention to the processes of their mind (in meditation, for instance), and when they begin to study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of our world: in both cases, we begin to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and social beings. Far from this realization being something to be ashamed of, the recognition of our ignorance about our situation is the starting point for embracing our ignorance and for the profound sense of vulnerability it entails. Only then does it become possible for us to feel compassion, for ourselves and for our fellows.

"During our time together I will introduce several skills, or what I call 'new competences,' which follow from compassion and which open the possibility for humane and just responses to personal and social crises. These skills include acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future responsive, goal setting, self knowledge, and interpersonal competence. The focus is on applying these skills directly in our lives—in the decisions we make in the workplace as well as in family situations, and in all the various circumstances in which we have the chance to make ignorance and uncertainty our best teachers. My experience has been that, even in so short a period as this workshop, as we learn to be more comfortable with our uncertainty, we can win freedom from the need to act over-cautiously and conservatively out of fear of making a mistake and from the need for those defensive, self-protecting, interpersonal posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. The workshop is appropriate for those who are interested in applying these skills to their personal lives as well as for persons interested in professional and vocational applications."

For further information on Don Michael and his work see the interview entitled "On Applied Vulnerability" in the September 1983-February 1984 issue of the Esalen Catalog. $450

Week of September 16–21

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see June 24-29. $450

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation in Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

For workshop description see September 7-9. $450

Five Days with Paul Horn

". . . blending music, philosophy, movement, and meditation into a meaningful integration of life."

Suggested listening: by Paul Horn: Inside, Inside the Great Pyramid, China, Jupiter 8, Heart to Heart, Inside the Magic of Findhorn. $450

Relationships: Deepening the Connection Between Men and Women

Joel Kramer & Diana Alstad

This workshop will provide an environment for open communication and understanding between men and women. We will look at such basic issues as: trust, freedom and commitment,

Joyce Rogers

A week long gestalt workshop with Jack Downing, specially arranged for our visitors from Japan, with the use of simultaneous translation.

power, jealousy, adequacy, and sexuality; why relationships fall apart; what men and women don't know about each other; the male point of view—what feminism left out; why we are often attracted to people who aren't "good" for us; why some "autonomous" women still lose themselves in relationships with men; keeping relationships new once the newness has worn off; using the mind to open the heart.

Awareness and intelligence can help keep passion and sexuality alive over time. A process will be presented which can enable you to move beyond the patterns and blind spots that may prevent a relationship from forming, or that may keep an existing relationship from growing. Understanding yourself and examining how you interact with others can eliminate many seemingly hopeless conflicts.

This workshop is open to couples or individuals. There will be discussions, group interaction, and exercises focusing on specific issues relevant to the participants. $450

Weekend of September 21–23

A Special Weekend at Esalen

Except for two introductory workshops, we have set aside this weekend for all those Esalen friends who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and contact with the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual, and we will have Big Sur musicians and dancers as part of the weekend's activities. $120

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $230

Week of September 23–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11. $450

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

For workshop description see June 17-22. $450

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

For workshop description see June 17-22. $450

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of the self-defeating patterns of the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $450

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

Participants will employ Radix® and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix® intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting, which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief or pain, fear and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexual feelings intensify and merge. $450

Weekend of September 28–30

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

For workshop description see June 22-24. $230

Clairvoyant and Clairsentient Practices

Helen Palmer & Wendy Palmer

The two most identifiable aspects of intuition are the ability to see and the ability to sense a range of information that is unavailable to the thinking self. Clear sight and clear sensing have their historical bases of training in the traditions of visualization and martial arts practices.

This workshop will be an introduction to the internal focusing practices that can provide access to the intuitive state of mind. The particular visualization and martial arts exercises are presented in such a way that they can form the basis of discrimination between personal projections and accurate visual and sentient impressions from situations unknown to the thinking self. $230

Bach Flowers

Nancy Sanders

The Bach Flowers are a simple, holistic system of healing developed in the 1920s and 1930s by Edward Bach, a British physician. This workshop will be an introduction to using the flower essences for yourself and your family, friends, and clients. The flowers are associated with physical, emotional and spiritual imbalances in an individual, and are extremely powerful for treating illness, or for facilitating change in a healthy person who is interested in personal growth and is evolving on a spiritual path. The weekend will consist of lecture presentations, and experimentation with the flowers, with an emphasis on developing interviewing and diagnosing skills.

Recommended reading: The Twelve Healers, Edward Bach; Handbook of the Bach Flower Remedies, Chancellor. $230

The Screenwriter as Mythmaker

Phil Cousineau & Tom Schlesinger

If, as Freud wrote, "myths are public dreams and dreams are private myths," then the screenwriter in the Dream Factory of the movies is one of our more redoubtable myth-makers.

In the stories he or she tells around the flickering light of our modern caves, the cinema, the storyteller of film evokes powerful archetypes and further probes a story structure that can be traced back to the earliest recorded tales.

Our workshop is for the socially conscious screenwriter and film buff alike. Using guided imagery and movement work we will employ creative writing exercises to explore how "images deny our nothingness," as Malraux said, and with film clips and slides, film scores and stills, we will discuss the social phenomenology of the movies and the responsibility of the film maker. The model of the Heroes' Journey will be the template for our consideration of the role of mythology, fairy tales, legends, and literature in films ranging from Wizard of Oz and High Noon to Apocalypse Now and the Star Wars trilogy. Against the background of contemporary folklore we will contrast the harsh reality of commercial pressures and creative restrictions that face the screenwriter.

By examining how movies reflect the culture at large, its hopes and dreams, its fears and anxieties, we will review—and experience—the role of the storyteller as mythmaker and the dynamics of the narrative film that provides a model for social action and consciousness itself by attempting to resolve the perennial conflict between the individual and society.

One of the screenwriters from Tom Schlesinger's book, The Writer-Director as Storyteller, will be on hand for the workshop. Name to be announced at a later date.

Joyce Rogers

Recommended reading: Storytelling and Mythmaking, Frank McConnell, (Oxford); The Hero With a Thousand Faces, Joseph Campbell (Bollingen). $230

The Art of Self-Direction

Lenore Lefer

This workshop is about personal, social, and cultural change. It is about creating, initiating, and directing change as well as responding to those alterations that we seem not to choose. We will explore how to be causal around change and how to include our deepest values. Do we know what is meaningful, and how do we integrate that into our life? It is an art to lead a self-directed life that includes both personal and social responsibility.

Founded conceptually in psychosynthesis, the focus of this self-exploration will be experiential, using imagery, inner dialogue, meditation, and individual and group process. The environment will be supportive and evocative. This workshop is appropriate for professionals who deal with transitional crises in their own work.

Recommended reading: What We May Be, Pierro Ferucci, The Act of Will, Robert Assagioli. $230

Week of September 30–October 5

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11 $450

Reflectors

Jenny O'Conner & the NINE

For workshop description see June 24-29 $450

Giving Peace a Chance

Jacqueline Schwartz

Jacqueline writes: "When I set out to design this course specifically for those in or entering into the helping professions, I quickly came to see that most professions involve helping and working with others, and that most of us can benefit from time away from the workplace to replenish and expand our resources and spirit. These five days will be devoted to methods of natural breathing for developing greater relaxation, with particular emphasis on mindful awareness. Mindfulness is 'paying attention' in the present moment. The focus is: coming into awareness, momentary staying, and the passing away of physical sensations, sounds, sights, smells, thoughts, and emotions, as we experience them through conscious physical movement, eating, talking, sitting in silence, and in many other contexts. While the emphasis of the seminar is on attending to the processes of mind and body rather than specific content, attention will be given to working with physical, mental, or emotional pain that may emerge naturally through the simple act of paying attention.

"Mind and body can naturally come into balance when they are allowed to do so. The environment of Esalen and mindful awareness can help us settle into the present, allowing us to release past tensions, accumulations, and resistance. Deeper states of peace have a chance to emerge. The practice becomes one of being present, mindful, and at peace not only at retreats and workshops, but in every aspect of our lives." $450

Human Potential Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to educate the human potential, which means the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work.

Suitable for professionals and non-professionals alike $450

Weekend of October 5–7

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 11 $230

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see June 24-29. $230

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Deborah Anne Medow

This seminar is designed for people who have some experience in giving massage. Through demonstrations and practice sessions, participants will be taught how to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of their massage skills and have the opportunity to add fresh approaches to their work. The intent is to help participants make deeper and more sensitive contact, and to heighten their awareness of the responses they are creating. $230

Improvisation

David Darling

With a sense of magic, David offers to both the accomplished musician and non-musician a freedom and excitement to break through to a unique and personal power of self-expression. From a lifetime of his own musicianship and years of teaching others, he has developed a teaching style and method that is devoted to several ideas: that everyone is musical and can perform; that the quality of inspiration is a matter of the moment-by-moment experience of the flow of sound through space; and that instruments are sound-making objects, not sophisticated technical problems to confront.

This workshop uses improvisation games that awaken childlike curiosity, movement exercises to release the blockages and stiffness that inhibit energy flow, and individual and ensemble work with any musical instrument, including the voice. Spontaneous performances in small and large ensembles give each participant a chance to share music, song, design, poem, movement, or pure inspiration. Bring any instrument that you play or would like to play. Instruments are provided for those who need them. A sophisticated recording system and an electronic playback system for electric instruments are provided. $230

Building From a Place of Beauty: A Workshop for Gay Women and Men

Sally Smith, Joan Brozovich & Peter Alpert

The leaders write: "Even though long out of the closet, gay women and men still feel the burden of oppression. This workshop questions how much of this is internalized oppression and how much is still due to a homophobic society.

"Participants will have the opportunity to examine how their own internal presuppositions are restrictive, self-limiting, and actually may contribute to the phenomenon of oppression.

"Join us if you believe it is time to move with courage beyond your barriers of fear into a more universally loving place." $230

Week of October 7–12

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ed Jackson

For workshop description see June 10-15. $450

Ritual Theater

Antero Alli

Ritual means "root." The value of ritual rests in its capacity to restore our living sense of the sacred. Ritual Theater, a non-performance medium concerned with how rituals evolve, combines elements of theater, dance, and Zen meditation to provide participants with skills in designing personal and collective rites of passage. The purpose of these rites are threefold: making direct spiritual contact, sustaining integrity, and establishing ourselves through relationship. Guides along the way include: commitment, resistance, laughter, writing, rhythm, gesture, sound, autonomy, and sacrifice. Each work session begins with a gentle yet rigorous physical warm-up. Bring clothing suited for movement.

Joyce Rogers

The Esalen garden

Recommended reading: Zen Mind, Beginner's Mind, Shunryu Suzuki (Weatherhill). $450

Homeopathic Medicine for Self-Care and Professional Practice

Dana Ullman

Animal poisons such as snake and bee venoms, minerals such as arsenic and mercury, and plants such as belladonna and poison oak are all valuable and effective medicines commonly used by homeopaths. Each are individually prescribed to a person based on the specific symptoms they cause in overdose, and then they are given in specially prepared non-toxic dose. Since symptoms of a sick person are the body's efforts to adapt to the various stresses he or she is experiencing, it is logical and ultimately effective to give a medicine that would create in overdose these similar symptoms. Homeopathic medicines go with, rather than against, the body's efforts to heal itself.

This workshop will provide an overview of homeopathic philosophy and homeopathic self-care. Reference to developments in new physics, Jungian psychology, and energy medicine will provide us with helpful understanding of homeopathy. Homeopathic methodology and clinical practice will be discussed with a particular emphasis on how participants can practically apply homeopathic principles and medicines in professional practice or self-care. Participants will learn how to use at least 20 different homeopathic medicines for self-care applications.

Suggested reading: Homeopathic Medicine for the Family, Stephen Cummings & Dana Ullman (Tarcher). $450

Empower and Fit: The Use of the Human Potential to Transform Work into Joy

Will Schutz

Will writes: "The human potential movement is destined to be regarded historically as a major cultural watershed, a time and place where a variety of people and traditions converged and created quantum leaps in our understanding of the human condition—body, mind, spirit. The movement is comparable to the Bauhaus in architecture, the Vienna Circle in philosophy, and Paris in the 20s in literature—occasions where breakthroughs were made that affected our lives in important ways.

"A next step is to take the results of the human potential movement and to apply them to establishment institutions. By empowering the individual and by creating a better fit between individuals, between individual and job, between individual and organization and by creating an atmosphere of openness, self-responsibility, and self-knowledge, a new concept of work and of organizations emerges. Work becomes a source of excitement, productivity, and joy and organizations become temples of human achievement and pleasure.

"This workshop explores the application of these principles to specific organizations. A program called "The Human Element," embodying these ideas, has been administered to NASA, the United States Army in Okinawa, a Catholic hospital in Iowa, the staff of the Association for Humanistic Psychology, and elsewhere, with startling results. Aspects of this program will be described and demonstrated to participants. Some new instruments based on a major revision of the Firo theory will be presented." $450

> "The reasonable man adapts himself to the world; the unreasonable one persists in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore all progress depends on the unreasonable man."
>
> —George Bernard Shaw

Weekend of October 12–14

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 11 $230

A Course In Miracles: A New Thought Form for Our Time

Julian Silverman

For workshop description see June 8-10 $230

Reprinting: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

For workshop description see June 15-17 $230

Life Change, Career Change

John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. In this workshop, participants will examine their work-life and work options as part of the larger pattern unfolding in their lives. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use integrative exercises, art, body work, and gestalt processes to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly what they want and how to get it. One outcome will be a specific action plan.

This weekend is for those who want more value in their life at work, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life / work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs.

Suggested reading: Careercycles, John Caple (Prentice-Hall). $230

Psychic Sense and Psychic Nonsense

Charles Tart

To believe that everything labeled "psychic" is true is stupid. To believe the psychic is nothing but nonsense is also stupid, and narrows your world. We can increase the possibilities in our lives by being intelligently open to the psychic or be susceptible to manipulation and delusion by failing to discriminate the true, the possible, the improbable, and the nonsensical.

This weekend will be a survey of what 100 years of scientific research on parapsychology has learned about the psychic, and some of its implications. We will discuss the reasons and the ways we fool ourselves about the psychic, but mainly survey cutting-edge developments in research, such as remote viewing, psychokinesis on electronic devices, out-of-the-body experiences, and survival of death. Bring your hopes and your fears, your skepticism, and your intelligence!

Suggested reading: by Charles Tart: States of Consciousness, and Transpersonal Psychologies (Psychological Processes), Altered States of Consciousness (Dutton, N.Y.), On Being Stoned: Psychological Studies of Marijuana Intoxication (Science & Behavior Books, Palo Alto); with Harold Puthoff & Russel Targ: Mind at Large (Praeger, N.Y.) $230

Psychedelic Prospectives on Future History

Terence McKenna & Friends

Terence McKenna writes: "How clearly do we perceive the impact of psychoactive plants and the shamanic experiences they induce on the origins and future development of humanness? What role are the plant psychedelics playing in the hyper-future outside of history? How have our cultural biases, from the Mandaeans to the Maya, caused us to misunderstand the crucial part psychedelics have played in the evolution of language and cultural self-image?

"We will explore these matters conversationally using our collection of people, books, and ideas as resources."

Recommended reading: The Invisible Landscape, McKenna & McKenna (Lux Natura); Cosmos and History, Mircea Eliade.

This will be a didactic workshop. The use of hallucinogens is not permitted at Esalen. $230

Special Programs

Graduate Studies Program with Jack Rosenberg

This will be a professional training program for licensed or license-eligible psychotherapists and graduate students in integrative body psychotherapy (IBP), formerly, gestalt body therapy (GBT). IBP is a complete system of psychotherapy with an emphasis on breathing as a vehicle for the integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit. The program will consist of approximately one week (five days) at Esalen every five weeks for a period of two years. This program can lead to an M.A. or Ph.D. in psychology through affiliation with an approved degree-granting institution. The program will be didactic and experiential and is based on a tutorial system with Jack Rosenberg and staff. If interested, please contact Jack Rosenberg, 1107 W. Washington Bl., Venice, Ca. 90291. Please include personal and therapeutic history and educational background.

Healthspring Traveling Workshops

The Esalen massage teachers and their associates have created Healthspring, an independent organization devoted to extending their work into an outreach program. Healthspring will conduct workshops at locations outside of Esalen in your hometown or city. Focused on building and maintaining optimal health, the workshops can be designed to suit the needs of individual groups, combining such approaches as massage, body awareness, breath enhancement, movement, stretching and aerobic dance, meditation, yoga, and other health-strengthening disciplines.

For more information on scheduling a Healthsprings group in your community, write to: Healthsprings Traveling Workshops, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

May 4–June 29
Leonard Energy Training: A Certification Program

George Leonard, Annie Styron Leonard & the Leonard Energy Training Staff

For the second year, a limited number of applicants will be accepted for an intensive, rigorous, eight week program leading to possible certification by the Leonard Energy Training Institute. The program will be conducted under the personal supervision of the Leonard Energy Training Staff and will include cognitive, physical, psychological and spiritual training.

Leonard Energy Training can be described as a comprehensive body of work that teaches practical, alternative ways of dealing with life situations and of enhancing the flow of vital energy. Though it does not aim for emotional catharsis, it is sometimes psychologically intense. Though its purpose is practical and down to earth, it often brings about results that seem extraordinary or even paranormal. Its ultimate purpose is centeredness, harmony, and service to others.

Candidates will learn to teach Leonard Energy Training exercises and lead workshops, but the emphasis in this program is on experiencing a grace under pressure that offers the possibility of personal transformation. At the end of the first four weeks, candidates for certification will be evaluated through a series of tests and ordeals, and those for whom the work seems inappropriate may leave the program. In this case, half of the payment will be refunded. Applicants should be in good physical and psychological shape, and willing to give their wholehearted effort at all times. For further information and an application form, write Leonard Energy Training Institute, P.O. Box 609, Mill Valley, CA 94942. $4250

May 13–June 8
Technologies of the Sacred: Ancient and Modern Approaches

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This four week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, comparative religion, anthropology, and philosophy, interested in the theory and practice of the spiritual quest. Special attention will be paid to the similarities between mysticism and psychosis and to the crises related to evolution of consciousness. This seminar is part of a systematic effort to create an international network of individuals trained to facilitate the process of transformation and to assist in spiritual emergencies. The program will focus on the following thematic areas:

Ancient Technicians and Technologies of the Sacred: We will explore theoretically and practically with visiting spiritual teachers, shamans, and anthropologists the methods that have been developed by various shamanic traditions and ancient spiritual systems, such as the Tibetan Vajrayana, Kashmir Shaivism, Siddha yoga, the Buddhist Vipassana, Zen, and aikido.

Theory and Practice of Transpersonal Psychology: Prominent representatives of the transpersonal movement who have made significant contributions to the field will introduce participants to the rediscovery of spirituality by western science—modern consciousness research with and without psychedelic drugs, experiential psychotherapies, anthropology, neurophysiology, and quantum-relativistic physics.

Psychosis: Disease or Transpersonal Crisis? Participants will be exposed to a new understanding of the psychotic process and non-ordinary states of consciousness emerging from psychedelic therapy, Jungian analysis, kundalini research, and modern clinical and laboratory studies.

Self-Exploration and Group Process: The workshops of this series use an experimental educational format that combines didactic input with personal experience. The Esalen staff and guest leaders will act as facilitators for participants throughout the program. Reservations should be addressed to Christina Grof, c/o Esalen. $1800

October 28–November 23
Evolution of Consciousness: The Path of the Senses

Christina & Stanislav Grof

This four week interdisciplinary educational program is designed for professionals and students in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, anthropology, art, religion, and philosophy to explore experientially and theoretically the use of human senses in emotional and psychosomatic healing, personality transformation, and consciousness evolution. The program will focus on the following areas:

Ancient and Non-Western Technologies of the Sacred Utilizing Human Senses. We will explore theoretically and practically the methods developed by various ancient and non-Western cultures which produce significant temporary and lasting changes in consciousness by modifying input in various sensory areas, such as the use of yantras, mandalas, perception of colors and focused visual attention; mantras, instrumental music, chanting, and drumming; acupuncture, various forms of body work, massage, and other physical intervention; movement, dance, and other forms of kinesthetic stimulation; and materials activating smell or taste.

Modern Laboratory Methods of Consciousness Alteration Focusing on Human Senses. We will discuss and explore the use of sensory isolation, sensory overload, stroboscopic stimulation, various forms of biofeedback, holography, holophonic sound technology, hypnosis, and various kinesthetic devices. Special attention will be paid to the implications of psychedelic research for the understanding of human nature and for the emerging paradigm in science.

The Concept of "Spiritual Emergency" or Transpersonal Crisis. This aspect of the program will focus on observations suggesting that certain non-ordinary states of consciousness, if supported rather than medically suppressed, are conducive to emotional and psychosomatic healing and consciousness evolution.

Self-Exploration and Group Process. The workshop's format will be both didactic and experiential, with the latter including controlled breathing, focused body work, and other methods. The coordinators and the Esalen staff will function as facilitators for participants throughout the workshop. Reservations should be addressed to Christina Grof, c/o Esalen. $1800

Wilderness Programs

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, we require the following deposit:

Up to 3 days	$50
4-7 days	$100
Over 8 days	$200

The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

May 4-12
Big Sur Wilderness Journey . . . from Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Jessica Moore Britt & Steven Harper

Nature can provide us with opportunities to stretch our limits and explore our inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment we can expand our sense of self and depth of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. We will travel "light," with instruction in minimum impact camping, ecology, and the geography and cultural history of the area.

With the wilderness as our mirror, we will explore our inner world of dreams, feelings, and sensations as they emerge, using gestalt awareness practice and group process. Taking inspiration from natural and native purification practices, we will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24 hour period alone. The group will hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley, with natural hot springs, for our last night together. There, meditation instruction will be available for those who wish it. Backpacking experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration.

$400

May 12-20
Rites of Passage: Baja California's Secret Mountains

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

The rugged Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone, almost disappears as it crosses the Mexican border into the Baja peninsula. About one hundred miles below the border it rises to form the Sierra San Pedro Martir, a forested plateau about 7500 feet high. On the eastern edge of this plateau, the soaring granite form of Picacho del Diablo, Baja's highest peak, rises to over 10,000 feet. This workshop will take us from a trailhead on the plateau's western edge through pine forests, broad open meadows, and along clear streams to the base of Diablo on the eastern escarpment. From there participants may climb the peak. To the west the green hills slope off into the Pacific. In the east the plateau falls away to the desert and the waters of the Gulf of California. Participants will descend onto the desert through a sinuous granite canyon, pausing to play in waterfalls and deep pools.

Group members will carry everything they need in packs, cook over fires, and learn a range of basic wilderness skills, including basic rock climbing. Twenty four hours will be spent alone in reflection and contemplation. The workshop will also include psychosynthesis, group process work, yoga, and journal writing. No previous experience is required. You should be healthy and reasonably fit. The program begins and ends in San Diego. Complete information on travel, clothing, and equipment will be sent upon registration.

$595

June 16-23
Rites of Passage: A Southwestern Odyssey

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

Zion National Park in southern Utah is a land of superlatives. The magnificence of the wind and water-sculpted sandstone captures the imagination of all who visit here. From the first Spanish explorers following the Virgin River into the cool depths of Zion Canyon in 1776 to the modern adventurer seeking solitude and renewal, the sweeping vistas offer inspiration of soaring proportions.

Beginning our journey on the forested plateau near the Park's northern boundary, we will carry everything we need in our packs, traveling through pinyon and juniper, perhaps glimpsing deer or coyote. We will visit Lava Point and Angel's Landing and walk through the Narrows of the Virgin River gradually descending 4000 feet to the lush inner Canyon and Visitors Center. Making camp near springs and along streams, we will cook delicious meals together over fires and stoves, study the geology of the area, and reflect on the Paiute Indians who first hunted and fished here. There will be time for exploring fern grottos and sinuous side canyons, morning yoga in the sun, and learning how to live and travel comfortably in the backcountry. Nights will find us sitting by the fire recalling the day's adventures and the feelings that this magnificent land and journey evoke. Toward the end of our trip each of us will spend 24 hours alone in reflection and contemplation.

You should be healthy and reasonably fit and have a sense of adventure. This program begins and ends in Cedar City, Utah. Complete information will be sent upon registration. $550

July 1-8
Walkabout: A High Sierra Adventure

Dick Galland & Annie Callaway-Galland

A walkabout is a passage, a step into new ways, a time for reflection and reaffirmation. For seven days we will explore the remote and spectacular Great Western Divide in the heart of the southern Sierra Nevada, California's mountainous backbone. The trip will start by van and take us through groves of giant sequoia to our trailhead at 8000 feet. Carrying everything we need in our packs, we will ascend through forests of pine and fir to rest in meadows of bright wildflowers and camp by rushing streams. A spectacle of granite spires standing sentinel above deep green valleys will unfold for us as we cross a 12,000 foot pass. Setting out from our camp in a small alpine basin, we will be taught novice rock climbing and rappelling, ascend a nearby peak, and play on lingering snowfields. Near the end of the week, each of us will spend 24 hours alone in reflection and contemplation.

This workshop is based on the notion that our responses to the challenges of the wilderness reflect our responses to the challenges of daily life. From the lessons of the wilderness we can come to see ourselves with more clarity and thus act with a greater sense of purpose. Woven into the week are yoga, journal writing, and process work, as well as the skills necessary for living comfortably and easily in the mountains. You should be healthy and reasonably fit and have a sense of adventure. This workshop begins and ends in Fresno. Complete information will be sent upon registration.

$550

July 21-27
Zen and the Art of Fly Fishing in Yellowstone National Park

Dick Galland

Dick writes: "This week-long program is set in Yellowstone, mecca for American fly fishers since the early years of this century. Here among geysers, travertine pools, abundant wildlife, and unmatched scenery are the best waters of the West in which to learn the skills necessary to become accomplished fly fishers. We will be challenged by the slicks and rich hatches of the Firehole to the tumbling pocket water and deep runs of the Madison.

"No other sport offers the opportunity for so intimate a look into natural world—and into oneself—as fly fishing. There is a subtlety of movement and focus akin to the Eastern meditative disciplines. The trout must be approached with delicacy and grace. Learning to fly fish has more to do with disciplining the mind and body and tuning the senses than with killing trout. Indeed, it is the most ecologically sensitive way to fish as the trout are released unharmed.

"During this week, we will camp together at streamside, preparing meals over fires and campstoves and sleeping beneath the stars. Each day we will travel by van to a different stream or river and will be taught a full range of fishing skills, from basic casting to advanced nymph and streamer methods. The small group size allows ample time for individualized instruction on the water.

"Whether you are a novice intrigued by the delicacy of fly fishing, or an old hand wishing to experience the extraordinary waters of the Park, this program will give you the chance to become more proficient. Open to men and women, the program begins and ends in West Yellowstone, Montana. A detailed information packet will be sent upon registration." $525

August 4–11
A Gentle Trip on the High Sierra

Maurica Anderson & Greg Henderson

During this seven day workshop in wildflower season we will hike eight miles to a clear mountain lake (10,000 feet) off the main trails in the John Muir Wilderness area of the High Sierra. Mules will carry in all the food, camping equipment, and personal gear, enabling us to have outrageously good food (fresh and frozen meats, fruit, and vegetables). We will camp by the lake for six nights, taking day hikes to the surrounding lakes and meadows, working with body awareness, massage, psychodrama, gestalt, and group process, and laughing a lot. We will get to know the high country, one another, and ourselves.

Mountaineering experience is not necessary, but applicants should possess a good sense of humor and be capable of hiking uphill at altitudes of up to 11,000 feet. For a detailed information sheet write or call Maurica Anderson, 1112 Curtis St., Albany, Ca. 94706 (415) 526-5814. Participants will meet in the Sierra on August 4. Fee includes food, wine, permits, and pack mules in and out. $410

August 19–26
Season's of a Woman's Life: Self-Exploration in the Wilderness

Annie Callaway-Galland & Marilyn Mason

Women are discovering that their life cycles and crises differ substantially from those life experiences of men. Most adult developmental models, however, are male-oriented and women find themselves with road maps that don't fit. Through an outdoor adventure and aided by the use of an evolving feminist model of adult development, the focus of this workshop will be to help women identify and make clear choices about which "season of their life" they are living.

Reflecting on our own inner seasons, we will hike together exploring nature in the summer-autumn of her life, acquiring wilderness skills and becoming infused with the rich lore of the Ventana wilderness—from the dry chapparal to the spectacular Big Sur Coast ridges.

We will camp at Esalen our first night, drive to the trailhead the next afternoon, and return to Esalen the following Sunday morning to enjoy the hot springs and lunch. No previous wilderness experience is necessary. A complete equipment list and reading list will be sent upon registration. $450

Medical Programs

Esalen Institute is a California state approved provider for continuing education for health professionals. The California Medical Association has granted Esalen Category 1 approval. Physicians attending approved courses may receive credit toward the California Medical Association Certificate in Continuing Education. The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152.

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Physicians

August 10–12
Burnout: Causes and Cures
Elliot Aronson, Ph.D. & Ayala Pines, Ph.D.
10 hours

Esalen Institute — Approved Provider for Registered Nurses

July 8–13
Zero Balancing:
Beginning / Intermediate Workshop
Fritz Smith, M.D.
30 hours

Future Programs

October 21–26

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Stephen Harper & Roderick Nash

October 26–28

The Holistic Revolution in Medicine
Larry Leshan

The Gentle Art of Becoming - Together:
A Workshop for Couples
David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

How To Deal with the Soviets: A Colloquium
Robert Bathurst

October 28–November 2

Creating a Musical Comedy
Didi Conn, David Shire, Nancy Kaye Lunney & Bradley Bernstein

The Practical Art of Risk-Taking
David Schiffman

October 28–November 4

Psychosynthesis:
A Seven Day Workshop for Professionals
Harry Sloan

November 9–11

The Upstart Spring:
Reflections on Esalen and the Human Potential
Walter Truett Anderson & Theodore Roszak

Experiencing Your Psychic / Intuitive Abilities
Anne & Jim Armstrong

November 11–16

Fluidity of Being: Rolf®-Movement
Elisa Lodge Schiffman

November 16–18

On Letting Go
Judyth Weaver

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
Betsy Hand & Gerald Smith

Biographical Information

A

Margot Adler, p. 33 — a pagan priestess who has worked for 12 years within the traditions of goddess spirituality and modern witchcraft is author of Drawing Down the Moon.

Stephen Aizenstat, p. 29 — clinical director of the Human Relations Institute, has conducted dream groups throughout the U.S. and recently completed a comprehensive research project on theories and methods of dream analysis.

Antero Alli p. 37 — has been performing, directing, and writing original multi-media theater works for eleven years. Nine years ago he designed Ritual Theater.

Peter Alpert p. 37 — is a psychologist in private clinical practice in San Francisco and has conducted research regarding internalized oppression among gay people.

Diana Alstad p. 34 — taught the first women's studies courses at Yale and Duke. She has led male/female groups with Joel Kramer in North America, Europe, and Asia.

Maurica Anderson p. 21, 27 — regularly uses psychodrama and other practices at alcohol treatment centers and for organizational development. She has led Esalen High Sierra wilderness trips for many years.

Nancy Anderson, p. 29 — president of Cole Associates, specializes in communications. She leads workshops on organizational development, is in private practice, and is a business consultant in finance, sales, and marketing.

Anne Armstrong p. 24 — has been doing transpersonal counseling for over 18 years and has trained professionals to use their own intuitive abilities.

Jim Armstrong, p. 24 — a former engineer, is a life-long student and teacher of esoteric studies.

Elliot Aronson p. 28 — is a professor of psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He has published over 60 articles on interpersonal relations and authored ten books, including The Social Animal.

Angie Arrien p. 32 — is a Basque folklore specialist, anthropologist, and a tarot counselor who teaches at the California Institute of Asian Studies.

B

Frank Barr p. 29 — is a physician, neuroscientist, and consciousness researcher who has applied Arthur Young's process paradigm to such problems as the mind-body interface, schizophrenia, altered states, and regeneration.

Frances Belmonte p. 25 — is a theologian, teacher, and lecturer. She is currently on the faculty of Loyola University of Chicago.

Daniel Bianchetta p. 17 — practices intuitive readings, shiatsu, and deep tissue work at Esalen. He is a teacher and student of Siddha yoga.

Robert Bly, p. 14 — poet, editor, translator of poetry, is author of several books including This Tree Will Be Here for a Thousand Years and National Book Award winner Light Around the Body.

Charles Brandon p. 25 — is chairman of The Reality Foundation. Educated as a physicist, he helped found a major corporation. He has been following transformations in various disciplines for 8 years.

Jessica Moore Britt p. 14, 17, 21, 29, 33 — is a registered nurse who is presently a member of the Esalen community and a practitioner of gestalt, Reichian, and wilderness approaches to healing and well-being.

Joan Brozovich, p. 37 — a licensed psychologist in private practice in San Francisco, works with gay individuals, couples, and groups and consults with agencies to develop staff training on gay issues.

Michael Buchele p. 29 — is a physician who synthesizes holistic medicine with Arthur Young's theory of evolution process.

C

Annie Callaway-Galland, p. 15, 18, 21, 30 — professional wilderness guide and counselor, hatha yoga teacher, and writer, has been leading Esalen trips for many years.

Anne Caple p. 18 — is a technical writer and editor with earlier careers as homemaker and fiber artist. She is a student of the intuitive process.

John Caple p. 18, 38 — is a career counselor and college professor with an earlier career in business management.

Paul Carter, p. 21 — co-founder and director of Meta-Education and Training Arts since 1976, leads workshops in the U.S. and Europe in Ericksonian hypnosis, family therapy, creativity, and learning.

Seymour Carter p. 13, 19, 22, 34, 36 — has taught gestalt at Esalen and other growth centers in the United States and Europe for over 12 years, and is currently a teacher in residence at Esalen.

Michell Cassou p. 31 — is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.

Stanford Eugene Cates p. 16 — is working and in training with Paul Rebillot, assisting and co-leading groups. He has trained in Trager psychophysical integration and is a minister.

Mary Kay Christian, p. 23 — a specialist on conflict resolution, is writing a semi-autobiographical book entitled The Maverick Couple, about breaking the conventional rules for successful relationships and being happier for it.

Gordon Clanton p. 28 — teaches sociology at San Diego State University and is the author of Jealousy and Fact to Face to Face: An Experiment in Intimacy.

Phil Cousineau p. 35 — is a freelance writer and film educator. He has lectured and taught for the American Film Institute and is currently working on a novel and a screenplay.

Stewart Cubley, artist and scientist, is a co-founder of the Expressive Painting Studio in San Francisco.
p. 31

Dale Cummings, MFCC and certified Radix® teacher, is in private practice at the Radix® Center in Santa Monica, and is also a trainer for the Radix® Institute in Ojai.
p. 35

D

David Darling, master cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher, has recorded many records, including Journal October, Cycles, and River Notes.
p. 36

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) certified Radix® practitioner, combines Reichian body work, emotional release, gestalt practice, Bates vision improvement, and other approaches to well-being in group and private instruction.
p. 16, 20, 21, 32

Steven Donovan is director of The Transformation Project and an Esalen trustee.
p. 14

Patrick Douce, a resident at Esalen since 1972, teaches ongoing classes in Feldenkrais awareness through movement and is available for individual sessions in functional integration.
p. 28, 33

Jack Downing, M.D., is a psychiatrist with a comprehensive background in gestalt, Rolfing®, Arica, applied kinesiology, and neurolinguistic programming.
p. 19

Joel Dweck, formerly a physicist and freelance builder, is a certified Radix® teacher in private practice in Santa Monica, California.
p. 23

Ken Dychtwald, psychologist and international consultant, is the author of Bodymind, Millennium: Glimpses into the 21st Century, and The Aging of America (forthcoming).
p. 24

F

James Fadiman is a management consultant and teaches at Stanford and the California Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. He has taught Sufi stories for several years.
p. 14

Neil Fiore, a licensed psychologist practicing hypnosis, is working on the effects of stress and anxiety on performance and health.
p. 32

Corey Fischer is an actor, writer, and founding member of Traveling Jewish Theater. In fifteen years he has worked with, among others, Joe Chaikin, Linda Putman, and The New York Shakespeare Festival.
p. 19

Jerry Fletcher is president of High Performance Dynamics, Inc., a training and management consulting firm which specializes in assisting individuals and organizations to reach and sustain high performance levels.
p. 26

Susan Franklin-Tanner is an actress, director, and teacher of improvisational theater. She is based in Los Angeles and affiliated with the Living Stage Company in Washington, D.C.
p. 24

Joyce Frazee is a gestaltist whose training includes art, group process, bioenergetics, body awareness, and psychosynthesis.
p. 20

G

Dick Galland, professional wilderness guide and fly fishing instructor, was founding director of Southwest Outward Bound and currently heads Clearwater Trout Tours. He has led Esalen trips for several years.
p. 15, 17, 18, 21, 23

Merri Goldenson (Devarani) is a chiropractor, certified Radix® teacher, Bates vision instructor, and is in private practice in West Los Angeles and San Francisco.
p. 15, 28, 31

Joe D. Goldstrich is a cardiologist, and a former medical director of the Pritikin Longevity Center, and is in private practice in Santa Monica, Ca.
p. 20, 28

Annette Goodheart, a licensed marriage, family, and child counselor and educator, has led workshops on laughter, aging, relationships, sex, and sensuality. As a painter she has had numerous private gallery exhibitions.
p. 23

John Michael Grey, co-founder of a research institute at Stanford, integrates neurolinguistics, cognitive psychology, and Ericksonian hypnotic practice with transpersonal psychosynthetic approaches.
p. 24

Susan Griffin is an author, poet, teacher, and lecturer. Formerly an instructor at U.C. Berkeley and San Francisco State University, she now teaches writing privately.
p. 17

Christina Grof studied with Swami Muktananda and has a special interest in the kundalini process and "transpersonal crises." She is founder of the Spiritual Emergency Network and co-author of Beyond Death.
p. 15, 21, 23, 27

Stanislav Grof is a psychiatrist with over twenty years experience in consciousness research with and without psychedelics. He is author of Realms of the Human Unconscious and LSD Psychotherapy.
p. 15, 21, 23, 27

H

Joan Halifax, medical anthropologist, director of the Ojai Foundation, and dharma teacher in the Zen Chogyl Order, has worked with shamans and healers the world over.
p. 31

Anna Halprin, founder of the San Francisco Dancers' Workshop and co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Training Institute in Marin County, is the author of Movement Ritual I and Collected Writings.
p. 33

Daria Halprin-Khalighi is a gestalt movement facilitator and is co-founder and teacher at the Tamalpa Institute in Marin County.
p. 33

Betsy Hand, former resident staff member of the Gestalt Institute of Canada, has 20 years experience with families, couples, and groups. She is in private practice in Kentfield, California.
p. 14, 22

Joyce Hanna is a fitness consultant in Palo Alto, Ca. She is a tri-athlete and a ranked marathon runner.
p. 29

Steven Harper teaches for Colorado Outward Bound and the National Outdoor Leadership School, and is currently the coordinator of the Esalen Wilderness Programs.
p. 12, 14

John Heider, a psychologist in private practice in Coconut Grove, Florida, is a group leader and teacher of group leaders. He was part of the Esalen Residential program from 1967-71.
p. 36

Greg Henderson leads groups at the Augustine Center in Melbourne, Australia.
p. 27

Nick Herbert, p. 31 ..... an independent researcher in the foundations of physics, is completing a popular book on quantum foundations entitled Quantum Reality: Beyond the New Physics (Doubleday).

Gottfried Heuer, p. 25 ..... a neo-Reichian specialist at the Gerda Boyesen Institute for Biodynamic Psychology in London, studied hypnosis in Vienna and is a published author on the subject.

Jane Hirshfield p. 30 ..... is a poet whose work has appeared in The New Yorker, The American Poetry Review, and The Nation. Her first collection, Alaya, was published in 1982.

Peggy Morrison Horan p. 21, 22, 31 ..... is an Esalen masseuse and teacher, and coordinator of the Esalen Childbirth Education Program.

Paul Horn p. 34 ..... is a flutist, jazz musician, creator of the Inside albums, and teacher of meditation.

J

Ed Jackson, p. 33, 37 ..... trained in family medicine, pediatrics, and epidemiology, teaches in Berkeley, California. He is in private practice and is interested in gestalt and Reichian body work.

Galvin Jackson, p. 22 ..... an educator, musician, and counseling consultant, is founder and senior coordinator of the firm, Consultants for Creative Growth.

Eli Jaxon-Bear, p. 24 ..... former director of a Buddhist meditation center, is a master practitioner of neurolinguistics who integrates this work with Ericksonian hypnotic practice and Eastern philosophies.

Michael Joyce, p. 25 ..... a somatologist and Feldenkrais teacher in private practice in Nevada and California, is author of works on physiological learning and functional intelligence.

Andrea Juhan p. 11, 32 ..... is an Esalen deep tissue and massage practitioner, leads movement exploration classes for various group leaders, and conducts Esalen community classes in stretch/aerobic exercises, and dance.

Deane Juhan, p. 32 ..... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, is a certified practitioner of Trager psychophysical integration.

K

Charles Kaiser p. 22 ..... is a reporter for the New York bureau of the Wall Street Journal.

Fred Kalmus, p. 28, 31 ..... co-founder of the Alternative Choice Counseling Program, leads workshops in stress management for corporations and individuals.

James Kavanaugh, p. 18 ..... former priest, psychologist, novelist, and poet, is the author of twenty books and director of an institute in Reno, sponsoring SEARCH workshops.

Kenneth Kelzer p. 26 ..... works as a transpersonal educator and counselor in California. Using dreamwork, he has been conducting classes and groups for over ten years.

George King, p. 14, 22, 29 ..... a massage practitioner for 22 years, has worked throughout the U.S., Europe, and South America.

Marilyn King, p. 21 ..... two-time Olympian and former head coach at U.C. Berkeley, has created "Beyond Sports" to teach self-actualization skills through athletics.

Joel Kirsch, p. 15, 18 ..... a founding member of the Energy Training Institute, has developed and presented energy training programs in management, human resource development, sports, dance, and education.

Susan Kirsch, p. 18 ..... with a background in educational research and training, specializes in speech communications. Her doctoral project is entitled Trust and Energy Training in Organizational Development.

Murray Korngold p. 19 ..... is a certified acupuncturist and a teacher and speaker on parapsychology and psychic healing.

Joel Kramer, p. 32, 34 ..... a western master of physical and mental yoga, has taught with Diana Alstad throughout the world on the evolution of awareness and male/female relationships.

L

Stephen LaBerge p. 23 ..... is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and does research on conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University.

Benj Langdon, p. 19, 35 ..... former coordinator of Experiencing Esalen: The Body, is currently exploring transformation through body practices.

Lenore Lefer, p. 36 ..... currently maintaining a private practice in San Francisco, is on the training staff of the Psychosynthesis Institutes of London and San Francisco.

Dub Leigh p. 16, 25 ..... has been trained by Ida Rolf and Moshe Feldenkrais and has studied with Lauren Berry and Milton Trager.

Annie Styron Leonard p. 14, 16 ..... is an associate director of Wellness Associates of Mill Valley, California, where she teaches workshops and classes in energy awareness and its application to wellness.

George Leonard, p. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 ..... author of Education and Ecstasy, The Transformation, The Ultimate Athlete, and The Silent Pulse, holds a black belt in aikido, from which he derives his present work.

Peter Levine p. 17, 33, 37 ..... has practiced and taught Reichian body work for many years. He holds doctorates in medical biophysics and psychology. His interests include the effects of stress on children and infants.

Bill Liles, p. 23, 33, 36 ..... a member of the Esalen massage crew for many years, integrates polarity with traditional Esalen massage.

Paul Lounsbury p. 33, 34 ..... has studied extensively with Milton Erickson and has conducted numerous training seminars on the use of hypnosis and strategic counseling. He is in private practice in New York.

DeeDee Lozier p. 16, 25 ..... is a Feldenkrais practitioner who studied with Moshe Feldenkrais in the United States and Israel.

Nancy Kaye Lunney, p. 17 ..... is gestaltist and musician on Esalen's faculty, has specialized in work with professionals in the creative arts, does individual as well as group work, and is manager of programming at Esalen.

M

Gregory Manteuffel, p. 19 — medical director of the homeopathic Hering Family Clinic, Berkeley, received advanced training in homeopathy from the International Foundation for Homeopathy and the Himalayan Institute.

Marilyn Mason p. 30 — is founder and director of Wilderness Learning Institute and is a professional wilderness counselor. She is also a family and sex counselor at Family Therapy Institute in Minneapolis.

Terence McKenna p. 38 — authored The Invisible Landscape and Psilocybin: Magic Mushroom Grower's Guide. He studied shamanism at U.C. Berkeley and has lived in tropical Asia and Amazonas.

Deborah Anne Medow, p. 18, 22, 36 — Esalen body work practitioner and group leader since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, and related healing disciplines, and studies Native American tradition.

Don Michael p. 34 — is author of On Learning to Plan and Planning to Learn and professor emeritus in planning and public policy at the University of Michigan.

Laurie Muller (Lioness), p. 14, 29, 33 — a member of the Esalen massage crew and teaching staff since 1974, integrates traditional and innovative approaches to healing the body, mind, and spirit.

Arthur Munyer p. 18, 29 — is a long time resident of Esalen and a member of the massage crew. He was one of the first faculty members at the Gazebo School at Esalen.

Jezariah Canyon Munyer, p. 18, 29 — born February 11, 1983, is his parents' favorite teacher.

Laurie Schutz Munyer p. — has been a long time resident of Esalen, a staff member in several capacities, and has assisted at Gazebo. She is now a member of the Esalen massage crew.

Dulce Murphy p. 34 — is a founder of the Esalen Soviet-American Exchange Program and director of its Health Promotion Project.

Michael Murphy p. 14 — is co-founder of Esalen Institute and founder of The Transformation Project. He is author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, The Psychic Side of Sports, and An End to Ordinary History.

N

Robert Nadeau, p. 23 — a spiritual researcher, has been leading workshops in centering and awareness for over 15 years. He holds a fifth degree black belt in aikido.

Naomi Newman, (aka Pollack) p. 19 — director, writer, and performer with Traveling Jewish Theater, is a member of the Gestalt Institute, Los Angeles. Her theater work has gone hand in hand with her work as a counselor.

O

The NINE p. 20, 36 — "We are pure thought human fantasy seeking a road to the birth canal of reality where we will be seen as 'The NINE'."

Jenny O'Connor p. 20, 36 — is a psychic from England, and is a channel for "The NINE."

Wendy Oser, p. 31 — founder and director of Video Feedback Service of Berkeley, and creator of Video Insight, specializes in transpersonal, professional, and personal applications of video.

Brita Ostrom, p. 21, 23, 27 — a longtime Esalen massage practitioner, incorporates Trager training with the personal energetic connection of the Esalen massage.

P

Heinz Pagels, p. 31 — executive director of the New York Academy of Sciences, author of The Cosmic Code, professes physics in New York City.

Helen Palmer, p. 35 — a clairvoyant counselor, is director of the Center for the Investigation and Training of Intuition. Her approach uses personality issues as access points to psychic perception and the inner life.

Wendy Palmer, p. 35 — a teacher and director of the Lomi School, holds a black belt in aikido and is co-founder of the Tamalpais Aikido and International Movement Arts Center.

Marianne Paschke-Carter p. 21 — combines movement, hypnosis, conscious breathing, and Trager psychophysical integration in her work with individuals, families, and groups.

Kenneth Pelletier p. 34 — is assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at U.C.S.F.; assistant professor, Public Health Department, U.C. Berkeley; and director of the California Health and Medical Foundation.

Ayala Pines, p. 28, 29 — research associate in the psychology department, U.C. Berkeley, is the author of Experiencing Social Psychology and Burnout: From Tedium to Personal Growth.

Prem Das (Paul Adams) p. 21 — completed a six year apprenticeship with the Huichol Indian Shaman, don Jose Matsuwa and studied/practiced Raja yoga with Baba Hari Das in India.

Hector Prestera, p. 18, 38 — a physician, acupuncturist, Rolfer®, certified neurolinguistic trainer, and practitioner of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, is in private practice in Monterey.

Christine Stewart Price p. 11, 32 — combines gestalt awareness practice with creative visualization. She is a born-again pagan.

Jennifer Price, p. 32 — age 9, was born at Esalen, is an alumna of the Gazebo and a junior staff member there.

R

Paul Rebillot p. 16 — was founding director of the Gestalt Fool Theater Family in San Francisco and has been a resident group leader at Esalen.

Linda Rice-Mandigo p. 23 — is a counselor in private practice in New York.

Kenneth Ring, p. 22 — active in the field of near-death studies since 1977, is a psychology professor and president of the International Association for Near-Death Studies at the University of Connecticut.

Chakdud Tulku Rinpoche, p. 31 — a Tibetan lama and medical doctor, brings to Western students his teaching of medicine, tantra, ritual, painting, sculpture, and traditional folk arts.

Sogyal Rinpoche, p. 16 ... a Tibetan lama and specialist in the traditional knowledge associated with the Tibetan Book of the Dead, is director of a special project with the Scientific and Medical Network in London.

Nancy Rosanoff p. 23 ... teaches energy strategies and creativity as a private counselor and business consultant. She is based in New York City.

Jack Rosenberg, p. 39 ... author of Total Orgasm, has trained in gestalt and Reichian work. He has worked with cancer research and transformation of consciousness, and is currently in private practice in Venice, Ca.

Gabrielle Roth p. 29, 30 ... is the creator of the Moving Center method of catalyzing natural movements. She lives on the east coast, where she directs and performs with her own theater / dance company.

Ilana Rubenfeld p. 32 ... is the originator of her own integration called "gestalt synergy." She trained with Fritz and Laura Perls and Moshe Feldenkrais, and is on the faculty of New York University.

Anne Ruderman, p. 23 ... a certified Radix® teacher and clinical social worker, is in private practice in Santa Monica, California.

Rutuima, p. 21 ... Prem Das' wife and don Jose's brother's (don Carlos') granddaughter, is a mother and teacher of Huichol.

S

Nancy Sanders, p. 35 ... a licensed social worker, has been teaching about Bach Flowers for the past five years at Esalen and elsewhere in the United States and Canada.

David Schiffman p. 16, 19, 23, 30, 31, 35 ... a longtime leader at Esalen, is involved in developing a synthesis of teaching for the full expression of mental, physical, and spiritual states of being.

Elisa Lodge Schiffman p. 14, 16, 23 ... trained in structural integration with Ida Rolf and is an advanced teacher of Rolf® -movement integration.

Tom Schlesinger, p. 35 ... whose screenplay, Power Play, is presently in production, is a film educator and moderator of seminars for the American Film Institute.

Will Schutz, p. 38 ... founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations, and author of Joy and Profound Simplicity.

Alan Schwartz p. 13, 28 ... is a college professor and gestaltist in private practice in New York City. His latest article in print is "The Human Energy System and Spirituality."

Jacqueline Schwartz p. 36 ... has lectured at the World Health Organization in Geneva, Switzerland and teaches throughout the United States and Europe. She is currently writing a book.

Russell Schweickart p. 25 ... is a California Energy Commissioner and Apollo-9 crew member. His experiences during a 46-minute space walk permanently changed his view of the planet Earth.

Julian Silverman, p. 17, 38 ... an Esalen trustee, is director of counseling and psychological services at U.C. Santa Cruz.

David Silverstein p. 25 ... is a hypnotherapist and neo-Reichian practitioner in private practice in Berkeley, Ca.

Anna Nechama Simkin, p. 26 ... trained in gestalt with Erv and Miriam Polster and Jim Simkin, is a licensed clinical psychological assistant, State of California, and has conducted workshops internationally.

Harry Sloan, p. 18, 24, 31, 35 ... a 1969 Esalen resident fellow, former dentist, and playwright, worked with Dr. Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and is in private practice in San Francisco.

Fritz Smith p. 21, 22 ... is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of zero balancing. He is in a private practice of holistic health in Watsonville, California.

Gerald Smith p. 14, 22, 29 ... is a psychologist in Belmont, California. He is the author of Hidden Meanings and Couple Therapy.

Sally Smith p. 37 ... first led gay groups and couples' groups at Esalen in the late 60s. She currently leads groups for gay couples and is a licensed masseuse.

Starhawk, p. 32 ... a feminist and peace activist, is a counselor in private practice in San Francisco, and a teacher of the European goddess tradition, often called witchcraft.

Gail Stewart p. 32 ... has been teaching and practicing massage and body work for several years. She teaches in Berkeley, both privately and at the Gefion School.

Lois Stewart, p. 32 ... a trainer in interpersonal communication skills and a Trager trainee, has a private practice near Washington, D.C. and has 62 years of practice in learning to be a human.

Elizabeth Stratton, p. 28, 29 ... a psychic healer and counselor in private practice in New York City, leads workshops in self-healing, psychic self-defense, and psychic development for health professionals.

T

Charles Tart p. 38 ... teaches psychology at U.C. Davis, and is internationally known for his research on both parapsychology and on altered states of consciousness.

Tom Taussig p. 31 ... teaches psychology and computer science, and is irreverently committed to life being easy.

Gioia Timpanelli, p. 14 ... poet, storyteller, educational TV writer and broadcaster / producer, is author of Stones for the Hours of the Night and Emmy award winner for the series "Stories from My House."

Vicki Topp p. 18, 27, 31 ... joined the Esalen massage staff in 1968, and is currently interested in integrating emotional release work and the transpersonal aspects of body work.

U

V

Dana Ullman, p. 19, 38 ... author of Homeopathic Medicine for the Family, is an educator, publisher, practitioner, and public policy advisor specializing in homeopathy, alternative health-care, and self-care.

Marcel Vogel, p. 26 ... a senior scientist at IBM in the field of material science, has worked on developing liquid crystals and rare earth phosphors. He has also worked on healing with crystals.

W

Carl Whitaker, p. 32 ..... professor emeritus at the University of Wisconsin, is one of the world's leading innovators in family communication and therapy. He is co-author of Roots of Psychotherapy and The Family Crucible.

Ganga White, p. 31 ..... an internationally known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yogacharya" and "Yogiraj" (King of Yogis) in India.

Robert Anton Wilson, p. 24 ..... a visionary, humorist, novelist, playwright, poet, popular science writer, and libertarian philosopher, is a founder of the Institute for the Study of Human Future and a director of the Prometheus Society.

Nancy Winston p. 33, 34 ..... is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling throughout North America.

Z

John Zeigler p. 23 ..... is a gestaltist and counselor in private practice in New York City. He originated, directed, and performs in The Maverick Couple, a totally improvised Off-Off Broadway comedy / drama.

Janet Zuckerman p. 11, 21 ..... has been on the teaching staff at Esalen for more than ten years. Her work includes emotional release work, group process, and gestalt practice.

Friends of Esalen

We invite you to join us in our organization—Friends of Esalen.

Friends of Esalen provides financial aid to people who are eager to attend our workshops but who cannot afford them.

We believe that one of our first priorities is to make our programs available on a broader basis. We have therefore decided to use membership contributions to fund such scholarships.

In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen, you will receive the Esalen Catalog for one year. We hope you feel your experience at Esalen was worth the sharing and that you will join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

☐ I wish to become a Friend of Esalen and I enclose my check for the category circled.

☐ I wish to renew my membership in Friends of Esalen.

One Year Student	$15	One Year Donor	$50	One Year Patron	$500
One Year Individual	$25	One Year Sponsor	$100	(Contributions are tax-deductible)

Name _____ Student Affiliation _____

Street _____

City, State _____ Zip Code _____ Date _____

Please mail to: Friends of Esalen, Big Sur, California 93920.

Catalog Subscription Information

The Esalen Catalog is published tri-annually. Subscription cost for one year, including postage and handling, is $8 for the United States, $10 for Canada and Mexico, $14 for Europe and South America, and $16 for all other countries. Please make all payments in U.S. currency. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available upon request from Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.

☐ To obtain future issues of the Esalen Catalog and occasional mailings for one year, please send a check or money order in U.S. currency only to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. A preaddressed envelope is included in this catalog for your convenience.
(Note: People who attend an Esalen workshop or conference will receive a free subscription for one year.)

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Please send a complimentary copy of the Esalen Catalog to the person listed below:

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

Please notify us if you change your address and check here ☐ if you are receiving duplicates of the catalog.

Food for the Senses

a book of recipes and artwork by people of the Esalen community is now available.

To order by mail, use the following form.

Please send me _____ copies of Food for the Senses at $5.95 each, plus an additional $1.20 per book for postage and handling, or a total of $7.15. (California residents add $.35 tax.) I am enclosing a total of $ _____

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Please mail to: Food for the Senses, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. Make checks payable to Esalen Institute. Allow 6 weeks for delivery.

Audio Recordings

Tape Recordings of Human Potential Programs

The human potential movement continues to have unusual events which in turn produce unusual recordings. Each issue of the Esalen Catalog lists a number of new titles and also includes some from the Big Sur Recordings archives. Nearly all tapes are stereo, from live events, and tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours. These recordings are available on cassettes only. Single-tape titles are $9 with check or money order ($10 by purchase order):

Robert Schwartz: Toward a Higher Human Language, 1983
Norman Lear: Communications, Liberty, and The New Right, 1983
Robert Muller: The Language of Happiness, 1983

Jean Houston: The Possible Human/The Possible Society, 1983
Marilyn Ferguson: Our Dreams Work in the World, 1983
Elizabeth Campbell: Strategies for the 1980s

Thomas Szasz: The Myth of Psychotherapy
Toni & John Lilly: Reality and Beliefs
Fritjof Capra: Turning Point: Shifting Paradigms
Claudio Naranjo: Insights into Spiritual Birth
Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice

Father Bede Griffiths: Christianity, Science, and Mysticism
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance (Formative Causation)
Sogyal Rinpoche: Interview on Death and Dying
Gregory Bateson: Eternal Verities of Life, 1980

Charles Brooks: Introduction to Sensory Awareness
Charlotte Selver: Experiments in Sensory Awareness
Robert Bly: The Six Powers of Poetry
Gioia Timpanelli: Fairy Tales: The Enduring Stories

Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality
Terence McKenna: New and Old Maps of Hyperspace
Terence McKenna: The Definitive UFO Tape
Robert Anton Wilson: The Prism Lecture
Michael Harner: Drumming for the Shamanic Journey

Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities, 1962
Alan Watts: Interviewed by Michael Murphy, 1964
Carl Rogers: The Intensive Group, 1966
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Fritz Perls: Dream Theory and Demonstration, 1968
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968

Two-tape titles are $16 with check or money order ($18 by purchase order):

Carl Rogers: (2) A Weekend at Esalen, 1983
Father Bede Griffiths: (2) Convergence of Religions, 1983
Jack Kornfield: (2) Pitfalls of Spiritual Practice, 1983
Frank Herbert: (2) Conversations at Home with Frank and Bev, 1983

Rupert Sheldrake: (2) A New Science of Life
Sheldrake, Capra, Targ & Grof: (2) Considerations
Stanislav & Christina Grof: (2) The Holonomic Consciousness Paradigm
Sogyal Rinpoche: (2) Training for the Moment of Death

Angeles Arrien: (2) The Story of Basque Mysticism
Michael Harner: (2) Shamanism, Songs, and Spirit Canoe
Andrew Weil: (2) Interplay of Mind and Body Realities
Robert Bly: (2) Poetry East and West

Wilson Van Dusen: (2) Interviewed by Michael Murphy, 1963
Wilson Van Dusen: (2) Confronting Hallucinations, 1968
Bernard Aaronson: (2) Tantric Chant, Poetry, and Hypnosis, 1969
Poetry of Robinson Jeffers: (2) A Dramatic Presentation, 1972

Please add $2 to your order for handling and mailing. California residents include 6% tax. Please mail your order with check payable to: WORKSHOP CASSETTES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920. Suggestions regarding recordings are appreciated.

The Dolphin Series: (complete sets in vinyl albums)

Arthur M. Young: Interviews on His Life and Work (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 with check ($44 with purchase order)
Theodore Roszak: The Unfinished Animal (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Donald Keys: Inner Transformation and Outer Involvement (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Kornfield: Buddhist Meditation and Practice (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Anne & Jim Armstrong: A Psychic Training Program (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Julian Silverman: The Structural Basis for Body Work (4 tapes, 5 hours) $40 ($44)
Joseph Campbell: Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Jack Rosenberg: A New Understanding of Relationships (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Theodore Roszak & William Irwin Thompson: Personal and Cultural Transformation (4 tapes, 4 hours) $40 ($44)
Rollo May: A Weekend with Rollo May: The F. Scott Fitzgerald Myth and Your Own (4 tapes, 6 hours) $40 ($44)
Julian Silverman: Further Commentaries on A Course In Miracles (6 tapes, 7½ hours) $60 ($66)
The 1983 Santa Barbara Conference: Entheogens: The Spiritual Psychedelics (6 tapes, 6½ hours) $60 ($66)
Andrew Weil: Integrated Consciousness and Health (6 tapes, 6 hours) $60 ($66)
Gregory Bateson: Steps to an Ecology of Mind (6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Fritz Perls: The Perls Encounter: A Complete Weekend (6 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ken Dychtwald: Bodymind Health, Longevity, and Optimal Performance (6 tapes, 7 hours) $60 ($66)
Emmett Miller: Self-Hypnosis and Personal Development (7 tapes, 8 hours) $60 ($66)
Ruthy Alon: Awareness Through Movement—Series I (6 tapes, 12 lessons) $60 ($66)
Moshe Feldenkrais: Awareness Through Movement—Series I (6 tapes, 10 lessons) $70 ($77)
Jack Rosenberg: Sustained Integration: Body, Self, and Soul (8 tapes, 10 hours) $70 ($77)
Joseph Campbell: World Mythology and the Individual Adventure (10 tapes, 15 hours) $80 ($88)
Gregory Bateson: The Informal Esalen Lectures 1975-1980 (12 tapes, 18 hours) $90 ($99)

Please add $2 for mailing each vinyl album set ($4 if you wish priority mail). California residents include 6% tax. Please mail your order with check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, Hot Springs Lodge, Big Sur, California 93920.

Meditation Music, Space Age Music

This new age music, called by many names (spatial, cosmic, celestial, transcendent, meditational) covers a wide range and is becoming increasingly known and appreciated. Listed here are several mail order sources for catalogs or information: ABODE TAPES, Box 300, New Lebanon, New York 12125; BACKROADS, 530 South 46th Street, Boulder, Colorado 80303; HEARTS OF SPACE, Box 31321, San Francisco, California 94131; NARADA, 1804 E. North Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53202; VITAL BODY MARKETING, Box 703, Fresh Meadows, New York 11365, and YES! BOOKSTORE & TAPES, 1035 31st Street NW, Washington D.C. 20007.

Audiotapes of Faces of the Enemy Conference

"The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything save our modes of thinking, and thus we drift toward unparalleled catastrophes."
—Albert Einstein

"We have met the enemy and he is us." —Pogo

FACES OF THE ENEMY, a multidisciplinary symposium held at the San Francisco Palace of Fine Arts in January 1983, co-sponsored by the University of California at Berkeley, the Tarrytown Group, and Esalen Institute, examines the darkness, the shadow within us. The premise is that hope begins when we acknowledge and face our dark side, re-owning our projections, learning to change the habitual patterns that govern us. Speakers from the arts, sciences, philosophy, religion, and from the Soviet and the United States governments address the process of psychological projection, the creation and perception of enemies, the political function of propaganda, and the conditions that will allow us to attain peace within ourselves, with others, and on the planet:

Sam Keen: Paranoia, Propaganda, and Projection
Ashley Montagu: Is There Any Way Out?

Valentin Berezhkov: How Russians Perceive Americans
Arthur Macy Cox: How Americans Perceive Russians

Susan Griffin: The Need for an Enemy
Robert Bly: What the Shadow Knows

Richard Baker-Roshi: An Eastern Perspective
William Sloane Coffin: A Western Perspective

Cost of complete set of Faces Of The Enemy (8 tapes, 11 hours) in vinyl album is $72 ($80 with purchase order). Please add $2 for handling and mailing. California residents add 6% tax. Please enclose check with your order payable to: PLANET TAPES — Hot Springs Lodge — Big Sur, California 93920

No Other Generation Audiotapes

Selection 1

This single tape contains on Side A: 25 minutes from the keynote address "Caring for An Endangered Planet" by Helen Caldicott, speaking on the medical aspects of nuclear war, at the 1982 AHP Annual Meeting, American University, Washington, D.C.; and on Side B: the 30-minute soundtrack from "No Other Generation" (originally produced as a video documentary) with key speakers at the historic Meeting of the Ways conference at Stanford University in March 1982. This single tape costing $5 is accompanied by printed text of "No Other Generation" speakers. Permission is granted to reproduce for further distribution to your friends; however, copies direct from PLANET TAPES will retain best audio quality.

In addition, the following two sets of tapes, selected from the 1982 and 1983 Meeting of the Ways conferences, also speak to the issues of nuclear disaster and seek positive alternatives for planetary problems:

Selection 2

Six tapes from the March 1982 Meeting of the Ways conference at Stanford University:

Daniel Ellsberg: The Policy Catastrophe (2 tapes)
Ram Dass: Embracing Paradox (Dharma and the Bomb)
Thomas Banyacya: Hopi Prophecy and Survival
Panel 7: "Where Do We Go From Here?" (2 tapes): Yogi Bhajan, Ram Dass, Joanna Macy, Ken Keyes, Jr., Phillip Deere, Daniel Ellsberg and Swami Satchidananda are participants in Panel 7.

Selection 3

Four tapes from the September 1983 Meeting of the Ways conference at Fort Mason, San Francisco:

David Brower: The Fate of the Earth
David Martinez: U.S.-U.S.S.R. Nuclear Arms Agreements
Petra Kelly and Panel 6: Experience in Conflict
Representing the Green Party in Germany, Petra Kelly speaks from a life of "incredible intensity and commitment". The panel which follows her 30-minute presentation is moderated by Patricia Ellsberg, with Sam Keen, philosopher and realist; Phillip Deere, American Indian spiritual guide; Gert Bastian, ex-German army general now Green Party member of parliament; and Petra Kelly.

The above tapes are all concerned with the health and life of the planet and of the human race. They are available from PLANET TAPES as a public service, and priced a little more than the cost of the materials to encourage distribution. Order by Selection 1, 2, or 3, and mail your order at $5 per tape direct to PLANET TAPES at the address below, adding $3 for handling and mailing your complete order. In California add 6% tax. Please enclose your check for the complete amount to: PLANET TAPES — Hot Springs Lodge — Big Sur, California 93920.

The Media Center

Esalen Videotape

This 18 minute videotape, which tells Esalen's story from its early history to the present, is an inexpensive way to view the general offerings available at Esalen. The visuals consist of 130 color slides featuring scenes of the Big Sur coast, Esalen's garden, grounds, and various workshops and activities. The musical soundtrack is by Paul Horn, Joel Andrews, and "Pinchey Pete" Velasquez.

Cost: For Rent:
½" VHS color video cassette ..... per week $10.00
¾" U-Matic color video cassette ..... per week $15.00

Cost: For Sale:
½" VHS color video cassette $35.00
¾" U-Matic color video cassette $40.00

This program is available for purchase in its original form—a two-projector slide dissolve show which can also be viewed with a single projector.

Cost: For Sale:
Slide Program—including 130 slides, cassette tape, and script (pulsed tape for Entré 7610 dissolve unit available on request)..... $150.00

Color Slide Sets

Sets of five scenes of Esalen—the Big Sur coast, the Esalen grounds, garden, the outdoor hot baths, t'ai chi on the pool deck—are available for sale at $4.50 per set.

Please address your order with a check payable to the ESALEN MEDIA CENTER, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920. California residents add 6% sales tax for sale purchases.

Overseas air mail orders please add additional postage: each slide program $10 ($15 for Australia and Asia), each video cassette $7, each slide set $1.

General Information

Jane English

Esalen lies 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific with the Santa Lucia Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was once the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esselen.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute-By Reservation Only.

Reservation Information: In order to reserve a space in any workshop we require a reservation fee of $50 for weekend groups, $100 for five-day groups, $200 for two-week groups, $300 for three-week groups, and $400 for month-long groups, payable in U.S. currency only. Balance of payment is due on arrival. These fees are not refundable but, with five days' notice, may be transferred to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year of receipt.

Please mail all reservations to:
Reservations, Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Reservations by Telephone: You may make reservations by phone if you use your Mastercard, Visa, or American Express credit card number to charge your reservation fee.

Phone (408) 667-2335
Office Hours:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9 am to 3 pm
Wednesday 9 am to 12 Noon
Friday 9 am to 8 pm
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 pm

If there is no answer during our regular business hours, and the phone company confirms that our phones are out of order, please call our alternate number (408) 372-8719, for recorded up-to-date workshop, road, and transportation information.

Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Rooms are shared by two or three workshop participants. Camping on the grounds is prohibited.

Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with lunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Sunday and end with lunch on Friday. Rooms become available at 4 pm; however, guests are welcome to arrive any time after lunch.

Esalen's flourishing organic garden provides the kitchen with many of its vegetables and herbs. Our breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

Senior Citizens' Discount Information: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25, and a five day is $50. Discounts are available only when you make your reservations. Please present proof of age when you register.

Ongoing Residence Program: Offered from October through May, the Ongoing Residential Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A minimum stay: 26 days (or four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay. Weekend workshops are available at special prices. Some programs are cancelled, so second choices are advised. Many community programs are also open to residents. The cost is $1800 per 26-day period.

Health Services: We are unable to provide medical supervision or pharmaceutical supplies. If you are on a health-care program and you plan to spend several weeks at Esalen, please arrive prepared to administer to your health-care needs.

Room and Board: Bed spaces not required for workshop participants are sometimes available for room and board. Accommodations are shared and the rate is $60 per person per day, which includes dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch the following day. Private rooms are sometimes available at $100 per day, or $110 per day per couple. Special family rates are available. Please phone the office for additional information.

Bus Service: Those traveling by air or bus can obtain further transportation service to Esalen by notifying the office of time of arrival. Pick-ups are made at the Monterey Airport and the Greyhound terminal at 5 pm each Sunday and Friday. The cost is $20 per person one way, payable on arrival at Esalen. Esalen bus service is not available at any other time.

Seminarians as Staff (Karma Yoga): Seminarians in residence at Esalen are expected to contribute several hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out. A staff member will appear at your first workshop meeting to schedule volunteer help.

Accreditation: We do not offer accreditation in the form of certificates or diplomas, such as those conferred by traditional schools. Many formal educational institutions do recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax-deductible.

The expenses of attending Esalen, including travel, are deductible for federal income tax purposes as an educational expense if incurred to maintain or improve professional or work skills. (See Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5.)

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Esalen Institute Reservations

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. In completing the form, please indicate the name, address, and telephone number of each person registering and clearly indicate the title of the workshop for which each person is reserving a place. A registration fee for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (See General Information, page 50.)

(Please Print)

Name _____ Sex M ☐ F ☐

Address _____

City, State _____ Zip _____ Occupation _____

Telephone Number: Day: Area Code ( ) _____ Evening: Area Code ( ) _____

There are sometimes unexpected situations that may require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you? If you can't be reached please call us before your scheduled arrival for final confirmation.

(On additional paper please repeat the above information for every person in your party making a reservation. Mail all reservations to Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920.)

Check if you want: ☐ shared room with friend: _____ ☐ housing as a couple

Do you smoke? _____

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. (For further details see Ways of Being at Esalen, page 12.)

Bus Service:

I want bus service from (check one):

_____ Monterey Airport

_____ Monterey Greyhound Bus Station

at 5:00 pm on _____ (date of arrival, Fridays & Sundays only)

The $20 per person charge is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the bus change after you submit this reservation, please notify us. Esalen bus service is not available at any time other than 5 pm.

Check here ☐ if you do not want us to give out your number for the purposes of ride sharing.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

License Number:
(for registered nurses wanting CEU's) _____ (for physicians wanting CEU's) _____

Name of Person Registering	Date(s)	Leader's Name/Title of Workshop	Deposit Enclosed

Total amount enclosed: $ _____

Your reservation can be charged to:

MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express ☐

Card No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Checks payable to Esalen Institute.

Payments: All workshops require nonrefundable reservation fees. See page 50. The balance of program fees becomes payable at the time of check-in.

U.S. currency only, please.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence.
Its activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting, and research.

Esalen Institute
Big Sur
California 93920

DATED MATTER

The Esalen Catalog

September 1984-February 1985

Contents

Volume XXIII, Number 3

Audio Recordings 48-49
Big Sur Wilderness Experience 13
Biographical Information 42-46
Catalog Subscription Information 47
Conferences at Esalen 13
Esalen Seminars 14-36
Experiencing Esalen 12
Experiencing Esalen: The Body 12
Food for Thought:

The Concept of Spiritual Emergency 4-5
Christina and Stanislav Grof

The Trager Approach: Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics 6-8
Deane Juhan

Track Two Diplomacy 9
Keith Thompson

"After a Fall" 10
Garrison Keillor

A Loss of Sense 11
Don Johnson

The Upstart Spring 13
Walter Truett Anderson

Friends of Esalen 47
Future Programs 41
General Information 50
Gestalt Practice 12
Media Center 49
Medical Programs 41
Reservations Form 51
Scholarship Information 13
Special Programs 38-40
Ways of Being at Esalen 12-13
Wilderness Programs 41
Work Study Program and Application 37

Esalen Institute, Big Sur, Ca. 93920

Phone (408) 667-2335

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday
& Saturday 10 am to 3 pm
Wednesday 10 am to 12 Noon
Friday 10 am to 8 pm
Sunday 12 Noon to 8 pm

Catalog Editor: Heather Tarnas
Associate Editor: Nancy Knapp
Contributing Editor: Keith Thompson
Consulting Editor: Nancy Kaye Lunney

Graphic Design: Barbara Adamson
Illustrations: Marc Rosenthal

Esalen Board of Trustees:

Harold Benjamin
Steven Donovan
Jack Downing
Victoria Elliot
Stanislav Grof
Richard Gunther
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Mary Payne
John Perry

©1984 Esalen Institute
All Rights Reserved.

"Contact is the appreciation of differences."

—Fritz Perls

Spiritual Emergency:

Understanding and Treatment of Transpersonal Crises

Christina and Stanislav Grof, M.D.

The Concept of Spiritual Emergency

There exists increasing evidence that many individuals experiencing episodes of non-ordinary states of consciousness accompanied by various emotional, perceptual and psychosomatic manifestations are undergoing an evolutionary crisis rather than suffering from a mental disease. The recognition of this fact has important practical and theoretical consequences. If properly understood and treated as difficult stages in a natural developmental process, these experiences, 'spiritual emergencies' or transpersonal crises, can result in emotional and psychosomatic healing, creative problem-solving, personality transformation and consciousness evolution. This fact is reflected in the term 'spiritual emergency' that suggests a crisis, but also the potential for rising to a higher state of being.

Traditional psychiatry does not recognize the difference between mystical and psychotic experiences. All unusual states of consciousness are essentially seen as pathological and attributed to anatomical, physiological and biochemical changes in the brain or other medical causes. There is no acknowledgement that any dramatic experiential states involving changes of consciousness could be potentially therapeutic and transformative. Psychiatry thus routinely and indiscriminately uses controlling and suppressive approaches to terminate such experiences. However, in the case of transpersonal crises, insensitive use of repressive measures can lead to chronicity and long-term dependence on tranquillizing medication or other pharmaceuticals with ensuing serious side effects and impoverishment of personality. It seems, therefore, extremely important to clarify theoretically the concept of transpersonal crises and develop comprehensive and effective approaches to their treatment.

'Spiritual emergencies' or transpersonal crises, can occur spontaneously without any precipitating factors, or be triggered by emotional stress, physical exertion and disease, accidents, intense sexual experiences, childbirth, or exposure to psychedelic drugs. However, in many instances the catalyzing factor seems to be involvement in various meditative practices which are specifically designed to activate spiritual energies. As spiritual disciplines are gaining in popularity in the West, an increasing number of people are experiencing transpersonal crises that can be traced to their practice of yoga, Zen, various movement meditations, pranayama, kundalini maneuvers, Tibetan Buddhist psychoenergetic exercises, and other forms of intense and focused self-exploration.

Supportive evidence for the concept of spiritual emergency can be drawn from a variety of fields: history, anthropology, comparative religion, clinical psychiatry, modern consciousness research, psychedelic therapy, Jungian psychology, new experiential psychotherapies, and many others. Indirectly, the developments in a variety of scientific disciplines that undermine the Newtonian-Cartesian model of the universe and mechanistic thinking can be used to support the new concepts. While quite incompatible with traditional thinking in science, the new approaches are congruent with many important aspects of the emerging paradigm.

Definition of Spiritual Emergency

To prevent misunderstanding, it is important to emphasize that not everybody who experiences unusual states of consciousness and intense perceptual, emotional, cognitive and psychosomatic changes falls into the category of spiritual emergency and/or can be treated with the new strategies. The Spiritual Emergency Network is not an effort oriented against traditional psychiatry; it aims at offering an alternative approach to those individuals who can benefit from it and are capable and willing to accept it.

Many mental disorders are directly related to brain dysfunctions or diseases of other organs and systems of the body. A good medical and psychiatric examination is, therefore, a necessary prerequisite for any alternative therapeutic considerations. When this examination does not detect any medical cause, the decision will depend on the nature of the client's experiences, his or her attitude toward the process, the experiential style, and the ability to relate and cooperate. Thus even those individuals who would otherwise meet the criteria of having a spiritual emergency cannot be treated by and benefit from the new strategies if they are unable to see their problems as related to an inner process, or are unwilling to undergo the pain of confronting the underlying experiences.

It is also necessary to keep in mind that even purely psychological work with people whose problems are not primarily of a medical nature can result in difficulties that require medical considerations. Here belong, for example, issues such as concern for proper nutrition, supply of minerals and vitamins, adequate rest and sleep, and prevention of dehydration. The possibility of complications of this kind has to be kept in mind whenever powerful inner experiences extend over a period of days or weeks. Intense emotional work has also clear medical contraindications, such as cardiovascular disorders and pregnancy, or epilepsy when hyperventilation is used as a facilitating technique.

The following are the important criteria suggesting that a person might be experiencing a spiritual emergency and can be offered alternative treatment:

a. Episodes of unusual experiences which involve changes in consciousness and in perceptual, emotional, cognitive and psychosomatic functioning. There is a significant transpersonal emphasis in the person's process, such as dramatic death and (re)birth sequences, mythological and archetypal phenomena, past incarnation memories, out-of-body experiences, incidence of synchronicities or extrasensory perception, indication of kundalini awakening, states of mystical union, identification with cosmic consciousness, and others.

b. Absence of an organic brain disorder underlying abnormal mental functioning, such as infection, tumor, cardiovascular or degenerative disease of the brain, etc.

c. Absence of a physical disease of another organ or system which is responsible for the mental disorder, as exemplified by uremia, diabetes, toxic states with delirium, or decompensated cardiac disease.

d. Reasonably good general somatic and cardiovascular condition allowing the client to endure safely physical and emotional stress frequently associated with the experiential work and with the uncovering strategy.

e. The ability to see the condition as an inner psychological process and approach it in an internalized way. The capacity to form an adequate working relationship and maintain the spirit of cooperation. This excludes persons with severe paranoid states, persecutory delusions and hallucinations who use consistently the mechanism of projection, exteriorization and acting out.

f. Absence of a long history of conventional psychiatric treatment and hospitalizations which generally tend to make the application of the new approaches much more difficult and in many cases impossible.

g. Since it is not possible in some cases to draw a clear line between a spiritual emergency and psychosis, it might be necessary to postpone the final decision about the strategy of treatment until the response of the client to the new techniques has been tested experimentally.

The Spiritual Emergency Network (SEN)

The Spiritual Emergency Network (SEN) was created in 1980 by Christina and Stanislav Grof in response to the increasing number of people having unusual experiences and seeking understanding, support, and assistance. The project was started with an initial grant from Esalen Institute in Big Sur, California, and in cooperation with the International Transpersonal Association. The interest, vision and support of various friends was essential for this project to be launched. Esalen provided the generous gift of the services of Rita Rohen to help coordinate the program. We are particularly grateful to Richard Price and Michael Murphy for making the program possible.

The SEN is a non-profit service organization; it represents an internationally oriented effort to offer a new understanding and approach to a specific category of emotional disorders that traditional psychiatry treats as diseases of unknown etiology and thus as medical problems. The SEN activities are based on the notion that these states can be better understood and treated more effectively as complications of a transformative and evolutionary process—as 'spiritual emergencies' or transpersonal crises.

The task of the SEN is to create centers to disseminate theoretical information related to the new concepts, provide training for future facilitators, mediate contact among interested persons to create an international network, and to offer referral information. The SEN computer stores information about professionals and other categories of helpers who have an expanded understanding of unusual states of consciousness. With their consent, this information is then made available to individuals in crisis in the corresponding area. This will enable the network representatives to be more intimately familiar with the nature and quality of the work of various facilitators.

It is important to emphasize that the SEN center in Big Sur is an educational, training and information-providing facility. It is not equipped to actually handle spiritual emergencies, nor is it capable of making specific referrals. Decisions of this kind cannot be made on the basis of a letter or a telephone call and require a personal interview with a well-trained person in the region where the individual in crisis resides. As a special service, the SEN offers professionals lists of colleagues in their area who share the transpersonal perspective.

One of the goals of the SEN has been to build a comprehensive library of books and articles on alternative approaches to psychosis. Complete lists of references and abstracts of the most important sources are now available to the public. We have also acquired a television camera and videotape recording system and have started building a library of educational videotapes. These too will be made available to interested persons. Some of this material will be suitable for creating ongoing educational programs in regional centers all over the world.

One of the moving and convincing aspects of the project is that, in essence, the network created itself in response to a large international public demand for a new understanding of 'unusual states of consciousness'. Discussion of the ideas involved in a few lectures and workshops brought such a powerful reaction from participants that we felt moved to continue in the direction that suddenly seemed obvious. Telephone calls and letters from a wide range of individuals from many countries of the world made us realize that we had to start connecting people with each other—those in crisis with potential helpers and with those having similar experiences, as well as facilitators with others who share their views and approaches.

The individuals in crisis who contact the SEN need different forms and degrees of help. In some, the experiences are not overwhelming and do not seriously disrupt their daily lives. For such persons, a brief conversation providing new understanding and a few references to relevant literature might be enough to make the process less puzzling and mystifying and give them strength to cope with it. On the other side of the spectrum are those in whom the process is so intense and involving that they cannot function adequately in their everyday lives and need a safe refuge where they can receive continuous support throughout their crisis. Lack of alternative facilities with twenty-four hour care is the most serious problem that the SEN is facing today.

But the SEN activities are not limited to individuals in crisis. We hear from many professionals who think or work along similar lines as we have outlined, but feel isolated from their mainstream colleagues. In addition to offering help to people in transpersonal crisis, they also ask to be put in touch with other like-minded mental health professionals and helpers in their area. Other psychiatrists and psychologists who are still working along traditional lines feel deep dissatisfaction with the superficial and mechanistic nature of the established routines. They express keen interest in the new concepts and ask for all the information they can get or seek an opportunity for theoretical and experiential training. We are also being contacted by many people who have in the past lived through the difficulties and challenges of the transformation process and have emerged from it with a deep understanding of its inner dynamics. They are offering their assistance to other people who are in some difficult stages of the process. We frequently hear: "I was alone when it happened to me. I don't want somebody else to face it the way I had to. Please, let me know how I can help.'

The general strategy of the SEN is to utilize all the human resources that are available and create a world-wide network offering a rich spectrum of alternatives for those who are undergoing transpersonal crises. We keep interested groups or individuals informed about the SEN activities through regular issues of our newsletter (back issues are available).

The Trager Approach:

Psychophysical Integration and Mentastics©

Deane Juhan

Trager Psychophysical Integration was the discovery of a single individual, Milton Trager, M.D. He first encountered intuitively, almost accidentally, its simple principles and its surprising effects at the age of 18, and then spent the next 50 years, first as a lay practitioner and later as a medical professional, expanding and refining his discovery. This long and successful career as a therapist was behind him before he tried to teach anyone his innovative form of body work, so that in spite of its almost silent incubation and development, Dr. Trager's work reached his first students at a very ripe stage, with a wide variety of demonstrably successful applications.

Dr. Trager's manner of manipulating the body is not a technique or a method in the sense that there are no rigid procedures which purport to produce specific symptomatic results. There is no formula, no recipe, no standardized practical procedure. Rather, it is an approach, a way of learning and of teaching movement re-education. He stresses that his patients should come to him ready to absorb a lesson, instead of ready to simply receive a treatment. His concern is not with moving particular muscles or joints per se, but with using motion in muscles and joints to produce particular sensory feelings —positive, pleasurable feelings which enter the central nervous system and begin to trigger tissue changes by means of the many sensory-motor feedback loops between the mind and the muscles. The Trager therapist does not change the condition of tissue with his hands; he or she uses the hands to communicate a quality of feeling to the nervous system, and this feeling then elicits tissue response within the patient. When a body feels lighter, it begins to stand and to move as though it were lighter.

The Elements of a Trager Session

A session takes from 1 to 1½ hours. No oils or lotions are used. The client wears swim trunks or briefs and lies on a well-padded table in a warm, comfortable environment. The practitioner gently and rhythmically moves the body of the client as a whole and all of its individual parts, in such a way that the client actually experiences the possibility of being able to move that freely, effortlessly, and gracefully on his or her own. After getting up from the table, the client is given some instruction in the use of "Mentastics," a system of simple, effortless movement sequences developed by Dr. Trager to maintain and even enhance the sense of lightness, freedom, and flexibility that were instilled by the table work. Mentastics is Dr. Trager's coinage for "mental gymnastics"—a "mindfulness in motion"—designed to help his patients recreate for themselves the sensory feelings produced by the motion of their tissue in the practitioner's hands. It is a powerful means of teaching the patient to recall the pleasurable sensory state which produced positive tissue change. Every time this feeling state is clearly recalled the changes deepen, become more permanent, more receptive to further positive change. It is evident, based upon most recipients' experiences, that the effects of a Trager session penetrate below the level of conscious awareness and continue to produce positive results long after the session itself. Changes described have included the disappearance of specific symptoms, discomforts, or pains, heightened levels of energy and vitality, better posture and carriage with less effort, greater joint mobility, deeper states of relaxation than were previously possible, and a new ease in daily activities. As these benefits are the cumulative results of a learning process, patients often richly profit from a series of sessions or from occasional "reminders."

What most distinguishes Tragering from other body work disciplines is the particular focus and intent of the Trager practitioner's manipulations. Most other methods direct their attention to one or another of the body's tissues—the skin, the fascia, the muscles, the joints, and so on—and the various properties of these tissues determine the sort of touch and manipulation required by the practitioner. Even though his hands must inevitably contact these tissues when he works, Trager's focus and intent are not specifically directed towards local conditions in any of these areas. He says:

> "My work is directed towards reaching the unconscious mind of the patient. Every move, every thought communicates how the tissue should feel when everything is right. The mind is the whole thing, what has developed up here in between the ears. That is all I am interested in. You can keep the rest of it. I am convinced that for every physical non-yielding condition there is a psychic counterpart in the unconscious mind, and exactly to the degree of the physical manifestation."

When the Trager practitioner encounters stiffened limbs or hardened muscles, his response is never to bear down upon them, to work harder to soften them or force them to stretch. Through the motions of his hands, he questions, "What can be lighter and freer than that? Yes. And lighter than that? Fine." And so on. These questionings and these feelings have to be established in the practitioner's character, have to be a part of his mind and body, before he can successfully project them into another person's sensibilities. No one can give what they do not genuinely have. This is why the cultivation by the practitioner of the mental state Dr. Trager calls "hook-up," a relaxed, meditative alertness, is crucial to effective Tragering.

Hook-up is the practitioner's source of the enriched and relaxed feelings which he projects, his own contact with the qualities of gracefulness, effortlessness, and non-intrusive presence. Trager puts it this way:

> "Many times in my treatments, I will find myself saying 'Thank you' . . . . It took me many years to realize that I wasn't thanking the patient for responding, I was thanking this hook-up thing that was doing so much for me. My big helper."

The principle is elegantly simple: We learn to love by being loved, we learn gentleness by being treated gently, we learn to be graceful by experiencing the feeling of grace. The goal of a Trager session is no more complex than this—to bring to the surface of consciousness an awareness of this force, and of the pleasurable and positive feelings that are inherent in it. These feelings will do the rest.

Development of the Trager Approach

Milton Trager was born in Chicago in 1908. By the age of 18, he was training in Miami to be a professional boxer. Mickey Martin, his trainer, used to give him a rubdown after each session. One day Mickey looked tired, and young

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Milton said, "Come on and lay down on the table, Mickey. I'll work on you." After he had been working about two minutes, Mickey turned around to him, a little stunned, and asked,

"Hey, where did you learn to do that?"

"You taught me, Mickey," Milton said. "I've never done anything like this in my life."

"I never taught you this, kid. But I don't care. Let me tell you, you got hands."

Milton was elated. When he went home, he approached his father, who had been suffering from acute sciatica for two years. "Lay down, Dad," he said, "I think I can fix your legs up." The sciatic pain eased considerably that first session; two sessions later, Mr. Trager was completely free of his symptoms, and they never recurred. Milton was more than elated. He started exploring his Miami neighborhood looking for aches and pains to work on. He had no idea what he was doing or why it worked, but he got results. People began to seek him out, and Tragering was born.

He quit boxing so that he could take care of his hands. He worked as a dancer and as an acrobat. And he Tragered. When Milton was 19 his first polio victim walked—a 16 year-old boy who had been paralyzed for over four years. From then on, he thirsted to find new problems, to work with those who could find no relief through conventional medicine. For many years he never worked on a normal, healthy body, and his client's conditions continued to improve.

After eight years of this pursuit, Trager felt a more formal training and certification was necessary for him to establish a professional therapeutic practice. He had long wanted to become a doctor so that his work would be accepted by the medical profession. He knew it was now or never and applied to 70 American medical schools—but they all turned him down. They felt that at 41, Trager was too old to warrant training. Finally, he was accepted into the University Autonoma de Guadalajara in Mexico. When he arrived there they asked him what he did in physical medicine and he replied that he specialized in polio. He had not been there long when one day he was called into a treatment room lined with doctors, professors, and the Mother Superior with some of her nuns. On the table was a four-year-old girl, a victim of a polio epidemic who had been paralyzed from the waist down for two years. They all wanted to see what he could do for her. He worked on her for about forty minutes, by which time she could move her foot and twitch her leg in four directions. Dr. Trager turned around to see all the nuns, including the Mother Superior, on their knees crossing themselves. He said to himself, "How can a Jewish boy in a Catholic university fail with all this feeling coming through?" In three weeks, with additional treatments, the girl walked. The university organized a clinic for Milton, and he continued to treat polio victims throughout his years of study there.

When a body feels lighter, it begins to stand and move as though it were lighter.

In 1959, Dr. Trager started a private practice in general medicine and physical rehabilitation in Waikiki which he continued for the next 18 years. Then in 1974, while traveling through California, he was called to work on a muscular dystrophy patient in Los Angeles. As he was leaving after the treatment, the patient asked him to demonstrate to his regular therapist how to continue the same work for him. Dr. Trager did not have much hope. Every time he had tried to show others how to do the work, he had been unsuccessful. But he gave it a go. The therapist was not getting it, and Trager was about to quit when he had a moment of inspiration. Trager told the therapist, "Cover my hands lightly as I work." Then he had the therapist place his own hands on the patient while Dr. Trager worked on top of them. To his joy he could feel the other's hands responding—he had hit on a way to transfer his own feeling to a student. He let the therapist work by himself and the patient finally cried, "That's it Doctor, he's got it! It almost feels like you are doing it!" For Trager, a turning point had been reached.

Later in 1975 Dr. Trager travelled to Esalen, where he did his first public demonstrations. There he met group leader Betty Fuller and found that he could teach her in the same fashion that he had taught his patient's therapist. Betty immediately recognized the significance of Trager's work, and also realized that Trager was too content in his Honolulu practice to take up the task of creating a training program. She persuaded him to let her form an organization that would spread his work. Thus the Trager Institute, located in Mill Valley, California, was founded, with Betty Fuller as its director. By 1977 Dr. Trager closed his private practice to devote his full time to his growing number of students. At present, there are well over 2000 students throughout the world, more than 200 accomplished practitioners, and seven instructors.

Dr. Trager has since demonstrated his work in many hospitals, medical schools, and training centers in the United States and Europe. Currently a member of the American Medical Association and the North American Academy of Manipulative Medicine, he teaches, lectures, and demonstrates in Honolulu, Mill Valley, and Europe.

Applications of the Trager Approach

Dr. Trager's particular interest has been the application of his approach to severe neuromuscular disturbances which do not respond well to conventional therapies. Yet his approach achieves excellent results with a wide range of less debilitating conditions—the aches, pains, depressions, poor postures, limited movements, and aging processes which plague many daily lives to one degree or another. Most of these troublesome and inhibiting conditions do not respond any better to drugs and surgery than do many kinds of paralysis and spasm, but they often prove to be very responsive to the soothing sensory intervention of Tragering.

Tense muscles can be caused by many things, but the pattern of the tension is in the mind. "I was doing my internship at St. Francis Hospital in Honolulu in 1955," says Dr. Trager.

> "An indigent patient, a man about 75, was brought in for abdominal surgery. I watched him walk, and he was so stiff that if you called to him, he'd have to turn his whole body to look at you. He couldn't just turn his head. But under a general anaesthetic, it took eight people to roll him over on an operating table without dislocating his joints, he had become so limp and loose. Then I had to watch him while he recovered from the anaesthetic. It was interesting to observe what went on as he gradually came to himself. By degrees his body progressively returned to its original pattern of stiffness. Seeing this, I began to realize that the stiffening and the aging processes are not just tissue involvement. This experience, and others similar to it, were germinal to my realization that we are the sum total of all the adverse happenings in our lives which cause this kind of phenomenon. The pattern of stiffness and of aging exist more in the unconscious mind than in the tissues."

J. A. is a patient with multiple sclerosis who has experienced a long series of sessions from a Trager practitioner. Before she began her treatments, J. A. felt overwhelmed by the burden of her disability—there is as yet no cure for her degenerative condition. But as her Trager experience progressed, she found new ways to be lighter, freer, and more positive in her outlook. She wrote:

> "Until the cure comes, our primary focus should be to make ourselves feel good. It is difficult in the face of continual bodily destruction to maintain a feeling of confidence towards our physical selves, and yet it is with our physical selves that all interactions with others takes place. My concern has been to build an image of myself, something that radiates from within and then works to move my body with less effort."

Dr. Trager contends very firmly that he is not a "healer" or a manipulator of esoteric energies, and that his successes have nothing of the "miraculous" about them. The kinds of reflex responses, tissue changes, and behavioral changes he is able to elicit are possible because of the intimate neurological associations between sensory stimulations, emotional feelings, attitudes and concepts, and the body's motor responses to all of them. At this time no one can say with certainty just exactly how these sensations, feelings, and actions are materially inter-related, but it is abundantly clear that they influence one another.

In the final analysis, people do not respond to a technique or a procedure; they respond to the skill with which it is used. And what constitutes skill for Dr. Trager is, more than anything else, the ability to be there with the patient, to be "hooked-up," open to his or her needs, aware of responses, intimately responsive to responses. It is this connection that Dr. Trager strives above all to impart to his patients and to teach to his students. And it is this feeling of calm, peaceful connectedness that is indeed the essence of the Trager approach.

The Trager Institute is located at:
300 Poplar Avenue, Suite #5
Mill Valley, California 94941
Telephone (408) 388-2688

Deane Juhan has been a masseur at Esalen Institute since 1973, and a Trager practitioner there since 1978. He lectures on anatomy and physiology for body workers, and is currently writing a book on that subject. He is an instructor for the Trager Institute.

© Copyright by Deane Juhan

Diplomacy as Psychology

Keith Thompson

Esalen's Soviet-American Exchange Program was established in 1979 to help create alternatives to adversary relations between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. In the autumn of 1984, Esalen will convene its third annual invitational symposium on political psychology, chaired by Joseph Montville. The following article provides a brief look at Montville's work and explores the relationship between non-governmental international exchanges like Esalen's and traditional, official diplomatic approaches.

A major problem with conventional psychotherapy, argues James Hillman, is its tendency to consider neurosis and psychopathology solely personal phenomena. The world is seen as a projection of inner perceptions rather than as a place whose forces and processes are fundamentally real. It's time, Hillman says, to "consider that the entire intra-subjective model with which psychotherapy works—psychodynamics, psychopathology, the unconscious, even personality itself—might also apply to the world and its things."

Joseph Montville agrees with Hillman. Montville is a specialist in the scientific study of human behavior applied to political action, and his tools are a body of practical insights and experiences which make up what he calls "track two" diplomacy. Track two refers to constructive, unofficial, informal interactions between individuals and groups on different sides of ethnic and sectarian conflicts. Conceived as an adjunct to track one diplomacy (official, traditional nation-to-nation channels), track two seeks to reduce psychological barriers between contending parties, creating new possibilities for negotiation.

"Track two recognizes the psychological tasks of diplomacy which support and sometimes go beyond traditonal diplomatic channels," says Montville, who is former director of the Office of Global Issues in the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research. "These psychological tasks, if not performed, frequently make it impossible for official diplomacy to do its work effectively."

What are the "psychological" aspects of a conflict, as opposed to the more visible political and strategic dimensions? An important factor, Montville believes, is the history and accumulation of grievances between conflicting parties, such as Arabs and Israelis, Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland, or Turks and Greeks. "In cases where any side perceives that humiliation or annihilation is the goal of the adversary," he says, "grievances are passionately held and long-lasting."

A second factor is victimization—the sense of being unjustly wounded. Also crucial is the process of dehumanization, or what psychoanalyst Erik Erikson calls pseudospeciation, an attitude which considers the "enemy" a species somehow less than human.

Various combinations of these core elements help make it psychologically easier to commit violence against an adversary, Montville believes. Yet because these factors are at work unconsciously, in individuals as well as entire nations, they tend to be invisible to eyes not alert to psychological dimensions. Such conflicts carry an emotional charge which is often impenetrable by traditional diplomacy, leading to the too-familiar impasses between nations. It is when negotiations become deadlocked, Montville says, that psychological skills and approaches can be particularly effective.

As an example, Montville cites a series of intensive private discussions between leading Israelis, Egyptians and Palestinians. Groups of psychiatrists, educators, diplomats, journalists, former cabinet ministers and retired military and intelligence officials from the three communities came together to air their grievances face to face.

"The conversations were tough and frank," Montville recalls, "and continued for several days in formal sessions and during meals, in corridors between meetings, often late into the night." Because participants were not there to score media points or negotiate victories, they were able to bypass the posturing and bluffing which sometimes characterize official government diplomacy.

"In these workshops, many Egyptians revealed classic anti-Semitic stereotypes in all innocence," Montville reports. "And many Israelis in turn had a hard time bridging the cultural gap beween their own European orientation and that of the Arab world." As an atmosphere of relative confidence and trust was established after several days, each side got to see how the other viewed the same sets of issues. Participants began to understand, as Montville puts it, "that feelings of persecution and victimization are shared, not solitary." Even a modicum of what he calls "rehumanization" is a considerable achievement.

Montville admits the real challenge is one of translating the workshop breakthroughs to the larger cultures on various sides of a conflict. For instance, many participants took their stories to the print and electronic media of their nations, eager to share their experience of new avenues for easing tension and reducing the instinct for violence. It's when both tracks of diplomacy converge that Montville believes real progress can be made quickly, as when Egyptian President Anwar Sadat travelled to Jerusalem to deliver his inspired, historic message to all Israelis: "We accept you in our midst."

Montville is hopeful that track two methods can be developed in the difficult arena of U.S.-Soviet relations, where issues are intrinsically more complex than in other sectarian conflicts. "The difficulty is that there is no third party mediator available," Montville states. "Yet the current chill in official relations makes private, informal dialogue all the more urgent." Appreciating that balance-of-power competition is likely to continue to dominate U.S.-Soviet relations, Montville considers this all the more reason to "probe for the identification of common interest and the elimination of common fear."

Montville is encouraged by the increased support for psycho-political conflict analysis from within the State Department, given his finding that "political people often have difficulty integrating the ideas of group unconscious forces into their analyses—just as traditional psychoanalysis has been hesitant to make political connections." He is also encouraged to discover more individuals and groups interested in moving psychology beyond its obsession with what Hillman calls "self-reflective confessional egos." It's the rich diversity of perspective among people fluent in the tongues of psychology and politics that convinces Montville progress is being made in track two territory.

(The term "track two diplomacy" was introduced by Montville and William D. Davidson, M.D., in their article entitled "Foreign Policy According to Freud," in Foreign Policy No. 45, Winter 1981-82, pp. 145-57.)

Contributing editor Keith Thompson is a former staff assistant to U.S. Senator Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio.

Garrison Keillor has been called "America's tallest radio comedian." For over ten years he has hosted "A Prairie Home Companion," American Public Radio's run-away hit performed before an audience of 1,000 each Saturday evening from the World Theater in St. Paul, Minnesota, and broadcast live over APR stations throughout the country. A highlight of each show is the "News from Lake Wobegon," during which Keillor tells stories about people and places in his imaginary hometown of Lake Wobegon, Minnesota—the home of Bob's Bank (whose motto is "Neither a borrower nor a lender be"), The Fearmonger's Shop ("Serving all your phobia needs since 1954"), and Ralph's Pretty Good Grocery ("Remember, if you can't find it at Ralph's, you can probably get along without it.")

Keillor describes Lake Wobegon as "the little town that time forgot, that the decades cannot improve, where all the women are strong, all the men good-looking, and all the children above average." James Traub has written that "Keillor lives next door to everyone, and each week he recounts the adventures of his neighbors." What follows, with Mr. Keillor's generous permission to reprint, is an adventure from his essay entitled "After a Fall," which appeared originally in The New Yorker and can be found among the comic pieces and stories in his best-selling book, Happy to Be Here (Penguin Books).

After a Fall

Garrison Keillor

The first time I ever went naked in mixed company was at the house of a girl whose father had a bad back and had built himself a sauna in the corner of the basement. Donna and I were friends in college. Both of us had grown up in fundamentalist Christian homes, and we liked to compare notes on that. We both felt constricted by our upbringings and were intent on liberating ourselves and becoming more free and open and natural. So it seemed natural and inevitable one night to wind up at her house with some of her friends there and her parents gone and to take off our clothes and have a sauna.

We were nineteen years old and were very cool ("Take off my clothes? Well, sure. Heck, I've taken them off dozens of times") and were careful to keep cool and be nonchalant and not look at anybody below the neck. We got into the sauna as if getting on the bus. People do this, I thought to myself. There is nothing unusual about it! Nothing! We all have bodies! There is no reason to get excited! This is a normal part of life!

We filed into the little wooden room, all six of us, avoiding unnecessary body contact, and Donna poured a bucket of water on the hot rocks to make steam. It was very quiet. "There's a shower there on the wall if you want to take a shower," she said in a strange, nervous voice.

"Hey! How about a shower!" a guy said in a cool-guy voice, and he turned on the water full blast. The shower head leaped from the wall. It was a hand-held type—a nozzle at the end of a hose—and it jumped out at us like a snake and thrashed around exploding ice-cold water. He fell back, someone screamed, I slipped and fell, Donna fell on top of me, we leaped apart, and meanwhile the nozzle danced and flew from the force of the blast of water. Donna ran out of the sauna and slipped and fell on the laundry-room floor, and another girl yelled, "God damn you, Tom!" Donna scrambled to her feet. "God! Oh, God!" she cried. Tom yelled, "I'm sorry!" Another guy laughed a loud, wicked laugh, and I tiptoed out as fast as I could move, grabbed my clothes, and got dressed. Donna grabbed her clothes. "Are you all right?" I said, not looking at her or anything. "No!" she said. Somebody laughed a warm, appreciative laugh from inside the sauna. "Don't laugh!" she yelled. "It isn't funny! It isn't the least bit funny!" "I'm not laughing," I said, though it wasn't me she was angry at. I still am not laughing. I think it's a very serious matter, twenty years later. Your first venture as a naked person, you want it to go right and be a good experience, and then some joker has to go pull a fast one.

All I can say is, it's over now, Donna. Don't let it warp your life. We were young. We meant well. We wanted to be natural and free. It didn't mean we were awful. God didn't turn on the cold water to punish us for taking off our clothes—Tom did, and he didn't mean it, either. It was twenty years ago. Let's try to forget it. Write me a letter and let me know how you're doing. I would like to hear that you're doing well, as I am, and that our night of carnal surprise did you no lasting harm. Life is so wonderful, Donna. I remember once, after I lost track of you, I ran on the dock of a summer camp where I worked as a counselor—ran and slipped on the wet boards and did a backward half somersault in the air and instead of hitting the dock and suffering permanent injury I landed clean in the water head first and got water up my nose and came up sneezing and choking, but I was all right, and is that so surprising? It was luck, I suppose, but then two-thirds of the earth's surface is water, so our chances are not so bad, and when you add in the amount of soft ground, bushes, and cushions in the world and the amazingly quick reactions of the body—to protect itself, I think the odds of comedy are better than even. God writes a lot of comedy, Donna; the trouble is, He's stuck with so many bad actors who don't know how to play funny. When I dropped the window off that falling ladder back in 1971, I didn't know that my son had come around the corner of the house and was standing at the foot of the ladder watching me. The window hit the ground and burst, the ladder hit the ground and bounced, and his father landed face first in the chrysanthemums; all three missed him by a few feet. Quite a spectacle for a little boy to see up close, and he laughed out loud and clapped his hands. I moved my arms to make sure they weren't broken into little pieces, and I clapped, too. Hurray for God! So many fiction writers nowadays would have sent the window down on that boy's head as if it were on a pulley and the rope were around his neck, but God let three heavy objects fall at his feet and not so much as scratch him. He laughed to see me and I laughed to see him. He was all right and I wasn't so bad myself.

I haven't seen you since that night, Donna. I've told the sauna story to dozens of people over the years, and they all thought it was funny, but I still don't know what you think. Are you all right?

Copyright © 1983 by Garrison Keillor
All rights reserved

A Loss of Sense

Don Johnson

"We are gripped by ideologies," writes Don Johnson in his recent book, Body, (Beacon, 1983). "The dominant values of our culture insinuate their ways into our neuromuscular responses, shaping our perceptions of the world. Altering the morbid dynamics of our culture requires us to loosen their hold on our flesh." Ida Rolf, one of Don's teachers, put it this way: "You can't get beyond the body unless you free the body itself."

Don Johnson's workshop, "Recovering Sensual Authority," will be held at Esalen November 2–4. The following excerpt is from chapter two of Body.

The ways in which dominant cultural values get a hold on our muscles and nerves, disconnecting us from our own experience, were brought home to me in working with another client. Let us call him Charles. Charles was sixty-five years old and had recently retired from a lifetime of traveling the world as a CIA agent. He belonged to an upper-class New England family, had graduated from Exeter and Harvard, and played polo. Tall, elegant in his movement, and well versed in literature and science, he loved good food, drink, and sex. He came to me because he felt he was at a crossroads in his life, that he was doing nothing of significance. He longed to return to a small country in Africa where he had made friends with leaders in the new government, and he could envision using his considerable expertise to help them organize their venture. But he felt impotent to take the steps necessary to follow this or other paths. He had an intuition that direct work with his body would carry him through the impasse.

As I worked with him over a period of several weeks, I was struck by the contrast between his obvious intelligence and wit and his indecisiveness and passivity. I was intrigued by the way in which he responded to my questions about what he felt in his body. When I asked him, for example, "Do you now feel more weight on one foot than the other?" "After this session of work, do you feel any different from before?" "How would you describe your physical energy right now?" he always replied in the same manner. "Well, after all, how can one really say?" "How can one be sure?" "Perhaps my weight is more on my right foot than my left, but can one really know that one is not being deceived?"

Charles's responses did not have the quality those same words would have in the mouth of a college sophomore who has just discovered Descartes. They revealed a childlike confusion and weakness, strangely inappropriate for such a mature person. Puzzled, I continued to explore why he was unwilling to admit even the simplest of perceptions, such as the feel of a breeze or of the texture of my carpet on the soles of his feet.

One day he got up off my therapy table after I had been manipulating the muscles of his legs and exclaimed, "What a strange memory! I must have been four or five years old. I had just listened to a record, a piece by Ravel, if I remember correctly. My nanny had played it for me. I liked it very much. I ran downstairs where my mother was standing and told her how much I liked the record. 'Why, you're such a silly little child,' she said. 'That's a trashy piece of music.' I never recall telling her again how I really felt about anything." As he told me of this experience, his elegant body visibly shrank, head dropping, shoulders slumping like a sad little boy.

Here was the best and the brightest: Charles had received the finest intellectual education; his body had been trained in the most refined sports, posture training, and orthopedics; he had discriminating taste. Yet he reported a deep void in his life, a lack of ability to make ethical decisions. He seemed cut adrift, unable to trust what he heard and felt. Like his companions in government, he answered questions about Vietnam, Chile, or nuclear arms in the same way he answered those about his perceptions of his body: "Well, after all, how can one really say?" As such, he was the perfect civil servant. Since he could not trust the simplest of his perceptions, he could be counted on to obey government policies about more complicated matters, even if they seemed immoral.

Of course, Charles's mother's apparently trivial comment gained its significance for him because of widely known psychological factors. But to understand the full impact of her words on Charles's behavior, we need to look at the social milieu in which he was educated. Her scornful voice was augmented by a chorus whose fully unified hymn Charles heard throughout his life, wherever he might be. Other parts were sung by teachers, religious ministers, physicians, scientists, and politicians. The consistent theme that united their voices was that Charles did not possess sources of wisdom within himself, instead, there are external standards of good music, fashion, intelligent conversation, and what sorts of governments should be destroyed, and Charles should listen to officially designated experts who have the authority to set those standards.

Moreover, those repetitive voices were accompanied by images and body-shaping methods designed to evoke suspicions in Charles about the reliability of his own perceptions and feelings. He encountered these nonverbal messages in posture-training classes, in music and dance classes, when he learned to play polo, and as he learned how he should dress and move as an upper-class male WASP. That nonverbal invalidation of his sensual experience anchored the explicit teachings within his sinews, guts, and nerves.

Charles's case illustrates an important distinction between one's explicit ideas and one's behavior and emotional reactions. The age-old power of authoritarianism to shape people's lives despite repeated attempts at social change derives from both these sources, that is, convincingly argued theories about the unreliability of our perceptions and body-shaping methods designed to evoke conformity.

On an intellectual level, Charles rejected authoritarianism. He considered himself a child of the American Revolution, dedicated to populist ideals of personal freedom. But he acted and felt as if he were subject to people and forces beyond his control. Authoritarianism is more than an idea or a psychological force; it is woven into our bone marrow, causing us to behave like machines rather than self-regulating organisms.

Charles's case also illustrates what I mean by authoritarianism: a belief system holding that we must depend on the judgments of publicly designated experts for reliable decisions about personal and social life. Those experts, moreover, are thought to derive their authority not from the community they serve but from sources outside that community. Presidents and party chairmen derive their authority from classified knowledge kept from ordinary people for purposes of "national security." Scientists and physicians derive their claims from privileged access to experimental data and technical language. Popes, ayatollahs, and gurus are specially illuminated from above.

© Copyright 1983 by Don Johnson
All rights reserved

Ways of Being at Esalen

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from a visit to the hot springs on a week-night to a long-term stay as a student or resident. The weekend and five day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the various methods of personal growth and self-exploration that are available here. The Experiencing Esalen workshops are a kind of smorgasbord introduction to some of these many practices (such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, etc.); from such a sampling, the participant can then choose those approaches which feel most appropriate and pursue them in subsequent seminars. For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more there is an Ongoing Residence Program. Other long-term programs include the "month-longs" coordinated by individuals such as Stan Grof and David Schiffman, which frequently involve didactic seminars as well as experiential workshops. These can be particularly useful for professionals and graduate students.

A very popular way of being at Esalen, and one that allows a much greater involvement with the place and its community at a lower expense, is the Work Study Program, which entails working with the Esalen staff as well as participating in an on-going workshop designed specifically for that program. See page 14 for more information and an application form.

In addition, there are other events which enrich life at Esalen. There are frequent forums in which various writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights, there may be lectures, films, dance performances, choirs, puppet shows, or other forms of entertainment. Body work of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners, including massage, deep tissue, polarity, and Rolfing®. Individual sessions are also available for various types of process work, including gestalt, neo-Reichian emotional release, vision improvement, music gestalt, etc. Finally, there is a Community Workshop program which goes on daily, and provides many opportunities for engaging in personal self-exploration or learning new approaches to human growth.

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Janet Zuckerman

These workshops are designed for people who have not previously been to Esalen. The emphasis is on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for the individual participant. Some of the following experiences are available at each Experiencing Esalen workshop: sensory awareness, gestalt awareness, group process, guided fantasy, meditation, massage. There is time to experience and explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Fritz Perls (Bantam).

Schedule:

September 7–9	$230
September 21–23	$230
September 23–28	$450
October 21–26	$450
October 26–28	$230
November 4–9	$450
November 25–30	$450
November 30–December 2	$230
December 23–28	$450
December 28–30	$230
January 13–18	$450
January 25–27	$230

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff
Coordinated by Andrea Juhan

"Be strong then, and enter into your own body,
there you have a solid place for your feet.
Think about it carefully!
Don't go off somewhere else!"
—Kabir

We spend much of our time on "automatic pilot," oblivious to many messages from our bodies, missing opportunities to open more fully to the subtleties of sensing, to greater ranges of physical expression, to health, vitality, and the many ways of "being a body." There are various entry points to increased awareness, practices that help cultivate the countless dialects of body language. These include dance, aerobic and stretching exercise, movement theater, postural analysis, hiking, meditation, massage, and nutritional education. Experiencing Esalen: The Body draws from varying combinations of these approaches in each workshop. Emphasis is placed on developing greater freedom and variety of movement, as well as on the quality of awareness as we move. This program is designed to give participants some basic tools for continuing to develop body awareness.

Schedule:

September 14–16	$230
September 30–October 5	$450
October 12–14	$230
November 18–23	$450
November 30–December 2	$230
December 16–21	$450
January 18–20	$230
February 22–24	$230

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff
Coordinated by Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
and used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt is as old as the world.
—Fritz Perls

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, non-judgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls, relating that work to ways of personal clearing and development both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. In that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged, the relation to some Reichian work is close.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. Participants are explicitly not patients but persons consenting actively to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and flow with whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment.

Although open seat work is the primary form of this practice, guided fantasy, breath meditations, and movement sessions may be included. Each gestalt practice group will have a member of the Esalen gestalt staff as its primary leader.

The name of this leader will be listed in the office three weeks in advance of the workshop. Please call if you want this information. Other leaders may be involved in single sessions.

Suggested reading: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim and Ego, Hunger and Aggression, Fritz Perls; Tao Te Ching, Lao Tzu; The Power of Mindfulness, Nyanponika Thera; Exploring the Crack in the Cosmic Egg, J. C. Pearce; Illusions, Richard Bach.

Schedule:

September 9–14	$450
November 4–9	$450
December 2–7	$450
January 4–6	$230
January 6–11	$450
February 3–8	$450

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff
Coordinated by Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, we will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Week-long workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles in length) and weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles in length). Using Esalen as our base camp we will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each day-hike will begin after breakfast and will conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. We will practice basic out-door skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration.

Schedule:

September 16–21	$450
October 5–7	$230
*October 21–26	$450

*For additional information see October 21-26 in the Esalen Seminar Section.

Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in immersion in the total environment of Esalen. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants make a commitment to work 32 hours per week in such areas as gardening, landscaping, the farm, maintenance, kitchen, and cabins.

The program is divided into two sections each month: a general interest section which covers a variety of growth approaches, and a specific interest section which focuses primarily on one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, Reichian work, massage or body work, etc. Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen.

For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 37.

Scholarship Information

If you need scholarship assistance for an Esalen program, write for a scholarship application form before making a reservation. Please mention whether you are a full-time student. Allow at least three weeks for processing as we have many applications. If your application is approved, please make a reservation as soon as possible after receiving notice. No scholarship assistance is available between June 15 and September 15 or for weekend programs. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curriculum. Check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs.

Conferences at Esalen

It is now possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We schedule approximately a year in advance for large groups (up to 100). Smaller groups may be accommodated at shorter notice. Call the office [(408) 667-2335] for further information.

The Upstart Spring

Walter Truett Anderson and Theodore Roszak will lead a seminar November 9-11 entitled "The Upstart Spring: Reflections on Esalen and the Human Potential." What follows are two excerpts from Mr. Anderson's book, The Upstart Spring: Esalen and the American Awakening, published last year by Addison-Wesley.

• • •

They had a project that was part business venture and part crusade. They were just getting ready to take over the management of a little hot-springs resort on the Big Sur coast, and they wanted to put on some lecture programs there—make the place a kind of forum for the exploration of religion and philosophy and psychology, for new ideas about the meaning and possibilities of life. [1961]

• • •

The human potential movement, as it issued forth from Esalen, had a much more Oriental tone; it was derived from the Taoist principle of wu-wei, which had to do with acting by not placing oneself in frontal opposition to the direction of things. Alan Watts had often written and spoken of this, and that summer he gave a seminar at Esalen entitled "Being in the Way," which was about the different meanings of that phrase—being an obstacle or being in the flow of life. The Esalen approach to changing the world was to be in the flow: to achieve harmony with that which was bound to happen and to join whatever seemed to be moving in the right direction. Its progress thrived on pleasantly fortuitous happenings (such as Abe Maslow turning up at Big Sur) and was nourished by the continual appearance of new allies who opened new doors. And when somebody came along with what seemed like a worthwhile project, . . . nobody was inclined to scrutinize every detail and control the exact outcome. Out of this came Esalen's greatest successes and its greatest failures, and several things that were a little of each.

• • •

Esalen Seminars

Week of September 2–7

Reichian Gestalt: A Workshop for Contact and Release

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

This workshop focuses on how we may consciously unfold ourselves—physically, emotionally, sexually, mentally, and spiritually. Past anger, fear, sadness, and grief, often reflected in the body as tension, pain, lack of spontaneity, and diminished vitality, can keep one from being fully present and alive. By contacting tension (stuck, accumulated energy) and allowing emotions which have been locked in the body, often since early infancy, there is an opportunity to open ourselves to the creative flow of life energy within. Allowing this life energy meaningful expression—true communication with self and others—is the essence of this work.

Some of the areas to be explored this week include: recognizing and releasing tensions which block emotions in the body; the use of breath and sound to energize and soften the body's tension and emotional holding; ways of contacting and allowing unexpressed sadness and pain, to increase the capacity for pleasure and joy; practices for expressing and releasing anger constructively, which may open the way to deeper levels of compassion and love; the nature of fear and moving toward greater trust of self and others. Paying special attention to the mental processes that shape the emotional and physical body, participants will be shown ways to trust their bodies' responsiveness and inner direction.

This workshop will utilize Reichian body and breath work, emotional release, gestalt practice, the Bates system of eye relaxation, massage, dance, meditation, and various other approaches. $450

Mothers And Daughters: Confluence Into Contact

Lois & Gail Stewart, Christine Stewart Price & Jenny Price

The relationship between mother and daughter is one of the deepest and most intimate of connections. The experience of feeling that deep connection while also knowing oneself as a separate and whole individual can lead to the richness that comes when one matures out of confluence and into contact. The group's four leaders span three generations of women from one family and bring to the group skills in gestalt practice, group process, Reichian breath work, massage, and theater improvisation. This is a workshop for mothers and daughters to attend together and explore the issues that prevent clear contact between them and celebrate the nourishment that they can find with each other. $450

Five Days with Carl Whitaker

This will be a five day effort to facilitate the transition from doing family therapy to being a family therapist, using symbolic experience to deprogram our lifetime of purposeful interpersonal manipulation. $450

Optimizing Health and Performance

Neil Fiore

Most of us manage the stress in our lives, and even enjoy it to some extent. But too often we pay the price of weakened health and less than optimal performance when stress becomes chronic and enthusiasm is dampened. In careers and lifestyles that are challenging and developing, we could all use greater control over stress, the ability to rapidly relax and recuperate, and skill at tapping the creative ability of the unconscious mind.

In this workshop we will draw on the wizardry of Dr. Milton H. Erickson and Bandler and Grinder, and on elements of stress management, cognitive-behavior modification, and assertiveness work.

We will provide methods for: identifying patterns and beliefs that evoke the stress response, rechanneling stress into problem resolution, concentrating on task and goal accomplishment, and developing deep relaxation and recuperation.

Recommended reading: The Road Back to Health, Neil Fiore (Bantam). $450

September 2–9

A Seven Day Workshop in Rubenfeld Synergy Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

The sea always has waves . . . waves are the sea . . . sea and waves are one. To speak of waves apart from the sea is a delusion—so mind and body are one!

The Rubenfeld Synergy Method is a system for the dynamic integration of body, mind, and emotions. The focus in this workshop will be on experiencing one's own body and emotions as a total organism. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tension and imbalance. A unique blend of gestalt, Alexander method, and Feldenkrais exercises will be used as a gateway to contact, express, and work through deep feelings. Massage staff will be on hand to assist the workshop.

We can choose to contact ourselves and each other with joy, sadness, compassion, humor, ideas, and with the body—the whole person. $680

Weekend of September 7–9

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $230

Yoga: The Physical, Psychological, and Spiritual Dimensions

Joel Kramer

This workshop will allow you to experience a mind/body approach to yoga that combines Eastern and Western perspectives, enabling yoga to directly enhance the quality of your daily life. The physical yoga sessions will introduce postures which use breath to create energy and center awareness. As the body has tight areas that limit energy, so, too, does the mind. The mental yoga sessions will show how to use the mind to transform itself and expand consciousness.

We will explore how yoga relates to emotions, health, consciousness, relationships, and other aspects of life. This workshop is for anyone interested in experiencing yoga or deepening their practice.

Recommended reading: The Passionate Mind, Joel Kramer. $230

Ritual and Personal Power

Starhawk

In this weekend workshop we will explore the tools of ritual that can evoke our own power-from-within. Using the framework of the four elements—air, fire, water, and earth—we will work with breath and visualization, sensing and projecting energy, trance states, and grounding to embark on a rite-of-passage. Ritual creates a sense of community. Part of our challenge as a group is to bond without hierarchy, to become a circle in which we empower each other. Alive to our own power, we can connect with the deeper powers of the living, enspirited earth.

Recommended reading: by Starhawk: The Spiral Dance (Harper & Row) and Dreaming The Dark (Beacon Press). $230

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation to Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

The intention of this workshop is to generate access to the participants' use of their own natural intelligence. Paradoxically, as human creatures, we use our intelligence too often, to impose limitations onto an infinitely rich realm of possibility. This is done without knowing the processes involved in the interpretation of experience onto symbols, without recognizing the difference between the symbols themselves and the realities they represent. These habitual patterns of perception affect at least two important perspectives: the limits for knowing what one can know and the thresholds for imagining what can be achieved.

Conscious and unconscious patterns of communication will be explored and used to expand individual frames of reference and to generate new and desired responses. Essential value will be placed on the individuality of each personality and the sensitivities of the "unconscious" in communication. Hypnotic phenomena will be induced and utilized throughout the workshop to access personal potential including: time distortion, age regression, positive and negative hallucination, catalepsy, analgesia, hyperesthesia, and amnesia. Governing principles operating on perceptual processes will also be worked with including those patterns used in constructing reality. While some people will find this work demanding, the workshop will be most suitable for professionals and those who enjoy expanding personal thresholds and recognize that play is the transition between fantasy and reality. $230

Week of September 9–14

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Five Day Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Laurie Muller (Lioness)

In this beginning massage course, participants will learn the fundamentals of self-grounding, quality of touch, and sustained contact. Instruction will familiarize participants with general anatomy, a basic understanding of the relationship between stress and muscular tensions, and specific methods for working with each part of the body. The seminar's goal is to provide participants with the fundamental elements necessary to give a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. $450

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ed Jackson

When we are hurt, we build our own fortress around the wound and thus insulate ourselves against further pain. An armor develops in the muscles of our bodies and breathing becomes controlled to reduce our level of feeling. The strength of these walls depends upon the degree of the hurt. Some fortresses have walls so thin that with a little help we can easily move through them and we are out again. Others are much deeper and have a life and tenacity of their own. They are reflected in rigid roles and are solidified in our bodies as chronic tensions and patterns of bodily attitudes. Our sense of the body is lessened and our connectedness is diminished.

In this workshop body approaches, dream work, and gestalt will be incorporated to teach us how to trust more fully in our bodies and enhance our excitement and passion. Through a vital sense of the body and feelings we can understand our dreams, impulses, and actions more deeply. Avenues will be explored to redevelop a sense of pleasure, ease, and self-esteem. Without storming our citadels by force, we can soften body armor by allowing the body to express itself, in its own language, within its own rhythm. This return toward grace, which is our birthright, is the wisdom of the body. $450

Move and Dance

Anna Halprin & Daria Halprin Khalighi

From the delight-maker (Koshares) of the American Indian dances to the comedy within the Greek tragedy, the role of humor has been an important factor in releasing stress and tension on the personal as well as social level. Yet it seems as if many of us in our daily lives, both personally and professionally, have forgotten this age-old art, and are not enjoying as much play, lightness, and creativity as we might like.

In this workshop, we will have the opportunity to recapture the fun and excitement of dance and to use humor, play, and serious study to break through emotional, physical, and mental blocks that interfere with our creativity. Specific skills developed at the Tamalpa Institute of San Francisco Dancers' Workshop will be used to increase movement range, imagination, and artistic development.

This workshop is for students, potential students for Tamalpa trainings, educators, health practitioners, counselors, handicapped and little people, couples, elders, performing artists, and others.

For further information about this workshop write: Tamalpa Institute of SF Dancers' Workshop, Fort Mason Center, San Francisco, CA 94123. (415) 771-1212.

Recommended books by Anna Halprin: Movement Ritual I (available at Esalen); Collected Writings II (available by writing SF Dancers' Workshop). $450

Weekend of September 14–16

Reflections of Self: A Reichian/Gestalt Primer

Jessica Moore Britt

This will be an introduction to intensive intrapsychic work using Reichian breath work and gestalt practice. Reichian work utilizes breath and sound to energize and deepen the process of self-awareness by softening the body's patterns of physical tension and emotional holding. Gestalt practice is an awareness approach focusing on physical sensation, image, thought, and emotion. By emphasizing a person's experience in the present moment, gestalt moves toward developing a more conscious sense of self. In a supportive group atmosphere, participants will have the opportunity to explore thoughts and feelings formed by past experiences. With this exploration the possibility is opened to come to a truer concept of self, with an expanded ability to respond in the present. This workshop is limited to ten participants. $230

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, shoulder pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries, all of which can improve by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "reeducable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods which can improve their ability to sense each others' bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop will be of value to anyone interested in learning more about his body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health-care professionals, and elderly citizens who may find themselves discovering new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painlessly and immediately. $230

A Celebration of the Goddess Within

Margot Adler

In this workshop we will explore ecstatic communion with what has been called goddess energy. We will look at the idea of goddess as an image of personal empowerment for women and as a source of creative power for all people. The weekend focuses on ritual and celebration as a way of attuning ourselves to the cycles of the seasons, the cycles of moon and sun and stars, and as a means to end our estrangement and alienation from the planet and from each other.

We will participate in and create a ritual for the fall equinox, as well as chant, dance, and explore ways of deepening our encounter with the cosmos. Other topics will include the use of dreams, pathworking, and meditation to deepen ritual experience, and the idea of magic as a non-manipulative personal tool.

Suggested reading: by Starhawk: The Spiral Dance (Harper & Row), Dreaming The Dark (Beacon Press); by Margot Adler: Drawing Down the Moon. $230

From Stress to Optimum Health: Soviet and American Perspectives

Dulce Murphy & Kenneth Pelletier

Drawing upon both American and Soviet medical perspectives, this seminar will explore the following subjects: longevity, social factors involved in disease, health promotion and disease prevention, stress, bio-feedback, visual imagery as a cure for disease, and other alternative approaches to health-care. The seminar leaders will report on their recent Soviet trip to continue work on the Esalen Soviet-American Health Promotion Project. Dr. Inna Kolgunenko and Tatyana Khromchenko of the Institute of Cosmotological Rehabilitation and Health will discuss optimum health in the U.S.S.R.

Recommended reading: by Kenneth Pelletier: Holistic Medicine: From Stress to Optimum Health, and Longevity: Fulfilling Our Biological Potential (Delacorte & Delta), Healthy People in Unhealthy Places: Stress and Fitness at Work (Delacorte, Delta, & Doubleday) $230

Applied Vulnerability

Donald Michael

Don Michael writes: "In my work to help organizations and individuals plan more intelligently for the future, I've come to feel that the main task we face in the next crucial twenty years is that of learning to be better learners. This sounds simple and obvious on the surface, but consider for a moment how much time we spend disguising our uncertainty and ignorance and acting as if we really know what we are doing and how to do it. There is a parallel between what happens when people begin to pay close attention to the processes of their mind (in meditation, for instance), and when they begin to study the vastly complex political, social, and economic processes and systems of our world. In both cases, we begin to see how little we really know about ourselves as individuals and social beings. Far from this realization being something to be ashamed of, the recognition of our ignorance about our situation is the starting point for embracing that ignorance and the profound sense of vulnerability it entails. Only then does it become possible for us to feel compassion, for ourselves and for our fellows.

"During our time together I will introduce several skills, or what I call 'new competences,' which follow from compassion and which open the possibility for humane and just responses to personal and social crises. These skills include acknowledging high levels of uncertainty, error embracing, being future responsive, goal setting, self-knowledge, and interpersonal competence. The focus is on applying these skills directly in our lives—in the decisions we make in the workplace as well as in family situations, and in all the various circumstances in which we have the chance to make ignorance and uncertainty our best teachers. My experience has been that, even in so short a period as this workshop, as we learn to be more comfortable with our uncertainty, we can win freedom from the need to act over-cautiously out of fear of making a mistake and from the need for those defensive, interpersonal posturings that make it so hard to act responsibly and compassionately. The workshop is appropriate for those who are interested in applying these skills to their personal lives as well as for persons interested in professional and vocational applications."

For further information on Don Michael and his work see the interview entitled "On Applied Vulnerability" in the September 1983-February 1984 issue of the Esalen Catalog. $230

Week of September 16–21

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $450

Pattern and Paradox: An Orientation to Hypnosis, Communication, and Change

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

For workshop description see September 7-9. $450

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

Seymour Carter writes: "As a young art student I was taught about figure-to-ground relationships and the resolution of their tensions as a graphic problem. In my development as a gestalt teacher these artistic learnings have gained new potence, becoming basic themes in my quest for an accurate leverage point in my work.

"This workshop attempts to evoke and balance psychodynamic polarities such as accepting and rejecting, remembering and forgetting, giving and keeping—dualities that plague and give purpose to human existence. My aim is to set in motion the unconscious processes of the personality, to awaken dormant talents, and to prepare for the intuitive leap.

"Each participant will be treated as a unique individual with his or her own process of development—a process to be honored and encouraged for further growth. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, Rolfing®, and aikido." $450

Five Days with Paul Horn

". . . blending music, philosophy, movement, and meditation into a meaningful integration of life."

Suggested listening: by Paul Horn: Inside, Inside the Great Pyramid, China, Jupiter 8, Heart to Heart, Inside the Magic of Findhorn. $450

Relationships: Deepening the Connection Between Men and Women

Joel Kramer & Diana Alstad

This workshop will provide an environment for open communication and understanding between men and women. We will look at such basic issues as: trust, freedom and commitment, power, jealousy, adequacy, and sexuality; why relationships fall apart; what men and women don't know about each other; the male point of view—what feminism left out; why we are often attracted to people who aren't "good" for us; why some "autonomous" women still lose themselves in relationships with men; keeping relationships new once the newness has worn off; using the mind to open the heart.

Awareness and intelligence can help keep passion and sexuality alive over time. A process will be presented which can enable you to move beyond the patterns and blind spots that may prevent a relationship from forming, or that may keep an existing relationship from growing. Understanding yourself and examining how you interact with others can eliminate many seemingly hopeless conflicts.

This workshop is open to couples or individuals. There will be discussions, group interaction, and exercises focusing on specific issues relevant to the participants. $450

Weekend of September 21–23

A Special Weekend at Esalen

Except for two introductory workshops, we have set aside this weekend for all those Esalen friends who would like to spend time at Esalen, enjoying the grounds, the baths, and the community, without participating in a group. Massage and other work offered by individual practitioners will be available as usual. Big Sur musicians and dancers will perform as part of the weekend's activities. $120

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $230

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $230

Week of September 23–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Choosing to Change

Harry Sloan

This workshop will combine individual work with discussion of principles and concepts which nourish the process of change. Individual work will stress deepening awareness of one's sense of direction and personal obstacles. Participants will explore the implications of their choices and the ways they retard or encourage the expression of self.

The workshop will include: psychosynthesis, transpersonal and cathartic methods which emphasize learning, and skills to release and transform blocked energies. Participants will focus on aligning their motivation and will with the natural process of change and integration. $450

Coming Home to the Wisdom of the Body

Benj Langdon & Staff

"Freedom: A state of being in which man's relatedness to life is unobstructed."
—M.C. Richards, Centering

Stress-related tension and emotional blocks restrict our capacity for feelings and expressions of aliveness. This workshop is a carefully chosen introduction to a variety of body approaches that release limiting patterns to promote kinesthetic awareness, spontaneity, grace, and mental flexibility. Methods may include imagery, sensory awareness, Feldenkrais, gestalt, Rolf®-movement, massage, Reichian breath work, and video feedback. $450

Still Point, Turning Point: A Light and Gentle Approach to Mind, Heart, and Body

David Schiffman

"Anything which is forced or misunderstood can never be beautiful."—Xenophon

People, like plants, need special attention to thrive and blossom. To naturally grow beyond what they've been requires strength, sensitivity, and a deeply compassionate awareness. The courage to let go of self-defeating patterns from the past, the willingness to master fresh skills and create new dreams for the future: these are the turning points that nourish and sustain us.

In this workshop the group will come together in the spirit of being simply and lovingly at home in themselves. They will create a community whose aim is to explore and move through individual turning points, in a climate of trust, goodwill, and authenticity. The program will be structured to include intensive individual work, using practices from gestalt, psychosynthesis, and bioenergetics, as well as creative movement, music, guided imagery, group rituals, and celebrations. $450

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

Participants will employ Radix® and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix® intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief or pain, fear and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexuality intensify and merge. $450

Weekend of September 28–30

Exploring Self-Acceptance

David Schiffman

The focus of this workshop is the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy, and group process methods, participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis is on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities, and latent powers as a means of achieving productive creative functioning. $230

Clairvoyant and Clairsentient Practices

Helen Palmer & Wendy Palmer

The two most identifiable aspects of intuition are the ability to see and the ability to sense a range of information that is unavailable to the thinking self. Clear sight and clear sensing have their historical bases of training in the traditions of visualization and martial arts practices.

This workshop will be an introduction to the internal focusing practices that can provide access to the intuitive state of mind. The particular visualization and martial arts exercises are presented in such a way that they can form the basis of discrimination between personal projections and accurate visual and sentient impressions from situations unknown to the thinking self. $230

Bach Flowers

Nancy Sanders

Bach Flowers are a simple, holistic system of healing developed in the 1920s and 1930s by Edward Bach, a British physician. This workshop will be an introduction to using the flower essences for yourself and your family, friends, and clients. The flowers are associated with physical, emotional and spiritual imbalances in an individual, and are extremely powerful for treating illness, or for facilitating change in a healthy person interested in personal growth and evolving on a spiritual path. The weekend will consist of lecture presentations and experimentation with the flowers, with an emphasis on developing interviewing and diagnostic skills.

Recommended reading: The Twelve Healers, Edward Bach; Handbook of the Bach Flower Remedies, Chancellor. $230

The Screenwriter as Mythmaker

Phil Cousineau & Tom Schlesinger

If, as Freud wrote, "myths are public dreams and dreams are private myths," then the screenwriter in the Dream Factory of the movies is one of our more redoubtable myth-makers.

In the stories he or she tells around the flickering light of our modern caves, the cinema, the storyteller of film evokes powerful archetypes and further probes a story structure that can be traced back to the earliest recorded tales.

Our workshop is for the socially conscious screenwriter and film buff alike. Using guided imagery and movement work we will employ creative writing exercises to explore how "images deny our nothingness," as Malraux said, and with film clips and slides, film scores and stills, we will discuss the social phenomenology of the movies and the responsibility of the film maker. The model of the Hero's Journey will be the template for our consideration of the role of mythology, fairy tales, legends, and literature in films ranging from Wizard of Oz and High Noon to Apocalypse Now and the Star Wars trilogy. Against the background of contemporary folklore we will contrast the harsh reality of commercial pressures and creative restrictions that face the screenwriter.

One of the screenwriters from Tom Schlesinger's book, The Writer-Director as Storyteller, will be on hand for the workshop. Name to be announced at a later date.

Recommended reading: Storytelling and Mythmaking, Frank McConnell, (Oxford); The Hero With a Thousand Faces, Joseph Campbell (Bollingen). $230

The Art of Self-Direction

Lenore Lefer

This workshop is about personal, social, and cultural change. It is about creating, initiating, and directing change as well as responding to those alterations that we seem not to choose. We will explore how to be causal around change and how to include our deepest values. Do we know what is meaningful, and how do we integrate that into our life? It is an art to lead a self-directed life that includes both personal and social responsibility.

Founded conceptually in psychosynthesis, the focus of this self-exploration will be experiential, using imagery, inner dialogue, meditation, and individual and group process. The environment will be supportive and evocative. This workshop is appropriate for professionals who deal with transitional crises in their own work.

Recommended reading: What We May Be, Pierro Ferucci; The Act of Will, Roberto Assagioli. $230

Week of September 30–October 5

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Reflectors

Jenny O'Conner & the NINE

"In this form we become bridge between whole and unwhole, happy and sad, good and bad. We are thought form, the first thought as you, as mankind, assumed shape and the last thought as you choose to leave. What remains is afterthought or vibration as we know it, and so the form begins again. The vibration came before the chicken."–The NINE

"This workshop is an invitation to spend time with The NINE in dialogue and self-discovery. As they move to answer questions, they create a kind of language that bypasses the mental structures of the brain and enters through the pores of the body. It can be beyond expectation because it enters the space between all expectations and, caught unawares, you may find yourself looking at a reflection of yourself that is shockingly familiar, for there may be more of you than you ever believed possible. You may well be compelled to reach across that space between the masks you carry and the self you don't quite yet believe possible and so put the strain of your theater to rest for a while. All this through a meeting, a few questions that seem simple enough in the asking but may rebound in a way that strikes far beyond what you thought you asked. It is a very fast way to know yourself better, in a form that teaches through compassion, humor, intelligence, and a vital concern for the future of us and our planet."–Jenny O'Connor $450

Giving Peace a Chance

Jacqueline Schwartz

Jacqueline writes: Most of us can benefit from time away from the workplace to replenish and expand our resources and spirit. These five days will be devoted to methods of natural breathing for developing greater relaxation, with particular emphasis on mindful awareness. Mindfulness is 'paying attention' in the present moment. The focus is: coming into awareness, momentary staying, and the passing away of physical sensations, sounds, sights, smells, thoughts, and emotions, as we experience them through conscious physical movement, eating, talking, sitting in silence, and in many other contexts. While the emphasis of the seminar is on attending to the processes of mind and body rather than specific content, attention will be given to working with physical, mental, or emotional pain that may emerge naturally through the simple act of paying attention.

"Mind and body can naturally come into balance when they are allowed to do so. The environment of Esalen and mindful awareness can help us settle into the present, allowing us to release past tensions, accumulations, and resistance. Deeper states of peace have a chance to emerge. The practice becomes one of being present, mindful, and at peace not only at retreats and workshops, but in every aspect of our lives." $450

Human Potential Theory and Practice

John Heider

This workshop will consist of a synthesis of group process, gestalt, body work, and meditation. The purpose is to educate the human potential, which means the ability people have to become more aware or conscious of themselves and of the world around them. While the workshop will be mostly experiential, there will be time for questions and answers and for discussion of the work.

Suitable for professionals and non-professionals alike. $450

Weekend of October 5–7

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Esalen Wilderness Staff

For workshop description see page 13. $230

Gestalt

Seymour Carter

For workshop description see September 16-21. $230

Weekend Advanced Massage Intensive

Bill Liles & Deborah Anne Medow

This seminar is designed for people who have some experience in giving massage. Through demonstrations and practice sessions, participants will be taught how to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of their massage skills and have the opportunity to add fresh approaches to their work. The intent is to help participants make deeper and more sensitive contact, and to heighten their awareness of the responses they are creating. $230

Improvisation

David Darling

David offers to both the accomplished musician and non-musician a freedom and excitement to break through to a unique and personal power of self-expression. From a lifetime of his own musicianship and years of teaching others, he has developed a teaching style and method that is devoted to several ideas: that everyone is musical and can perform; that the quality of inspiration is a matter of the moment-by-moment experience of the flow of sound through space; and that instruments are sound-making objects, not sophisticated technical problems to confront.

This workshop uses improvisation games that awaken childlike curiosity, movement exercises to release the blockages and stiffness that inhibit energy flow, and individual and ensemble work with any musical instrument, including the voice. Spontaneous performances in small and large ensembles give each participant a chance to share music, song, design, poem, movement, or pure inspiration. Bring any instrument that you play or would like to play. Instruments are provided for those who need them. A sophisticated recording system and an electronic playback system for electric instruments are provided. $230

Building From a Place of Beauty: A Workshop for Gay Women and Men

Sally Smith, Joan Brozovich & Peter Alpert

The leaders write: "Even though long out of the closet, gay women and men still feel the burden of oppression. This workshop questions how much of this is internalized oppression and how much is still due to a homophobic society.

"Participants will have the opportunity to examine how their own internal presuppositions are restrictive, self-limiting, and actually may contribute to the phenomenon of oppression.

"Join us if you believe it is time to move with courage beyond your barriers of fear into a more universally loving place." $230

Week of October 7–12

The Body Has Its Reasons

Peter Levine & Ed Jackson

For workshop description see September 9-14. $450

Ritual Theater

Antero Alli

Ritual means "root." The value of ritual rests in its capacity to restore our living sense of the sacred. Ritual Theater, a non-performance medium concerned with how rituals evolve, combines elements of theater, dance, and Zen meditation to provide participants with skills in designing personal and collective rites of passage. The purpose of these rites is threefold: making direct spiritual contact, sustaining integrity, and establishing ourselves through relationship. Guides along the way include: commitment, resistance, laughter, writing, rhythm, gesture, sound, autonomy, and sacrifice. Each work session begins with a gentle yet rigorous physical warm-up. Bring clothing suited for movement.

Recommended reading: Zen Mind, Beginner's Mind, Shunryu Suzuki (Weatherhill). $450

Homeopathic Medicine for Self-Care and Professional Practice

Dana Ullman

Animal poisons such as snake and bee venoms, minerals such as arsenic and mercury, and plants such as belladonna and poison oak are all valuable and effective medicines commonly used by homeopaths. Each are individually prescribed to a person based on the specific symptoms they cause in overdose, and then they are given in specially prepared non-toxic doses. Since symptoms of a sick person are the body's efforts to adapt to the various stresses he or she is experiencing, it is logical and ultimately effective to give a medicine that would create in overdose these similar symptoms. Homeopathic medicines go with, rather than against, the body's efforts to heal itself.

This workshop will provide an overview of homeopathic philosophy and homeopathic self-care. Reference to developments in new physics, Jungian psychology, and energy medicine will provide us with helpful understanding of homeopathy. Homeopathic methodology and clinical practice will be discussed with a particular emphasis on how participants can practically apply homeopathic principles and medicines in professional practice or self-care. Participants will be taught how to use at least 20 different homeopathic medicines for self-care applications.

Suggested reading: Homeopathic Medicine for the Family, Stephen Cummings & Dana Ullman (Tarcher). $450

Empower and Fit: The Use of the Human Potential to Transform Work into Joy

Will Schutz

Will writes: "The human potential movement is destined to be regarded historically as a major cultural watershed, a time and place where a variety of people and traditions converged and created quantum leaps in our understanding of the human condition—body, mind, spirit. The movement is comparable to the Bauhaus in architecture, the Vienna Circle in philosophy, and Paris in the 20s in literature—occasions where breakthroughs were made that affected our lives in important ways.

"A next step is to take the results of the human potential movement and to apply them to establishment institutions. By empowering the individual and by creating a better fit between individuals, between individual and job, between individual and organization and by creating an atmosphere of openness, self-responsibility, and self-knowledge, a new concept of work and of organizations emerges. Work becomes a source of excitement, productivity, and joy and organizations become temples of human achievement and pleasure.

"This workshop explores the application of these principles to specific organizations. A program called 'The Human Element,' embodying these ideas, has been administered in NASA, the United States Army in Okinawa, a Catholic hospital in Iowa, the staff of the Association for Humanistic Psychology, and elsewhere, with startling results. Aspects of this program will be described and demonstrated to participants. Some new instruments based on a major revision of the Firo theory will be presented." $450

Weekend of October 12–14

Experiencing Esalen: The Body

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $230

Reprinting: A New Growth Process

Hector Prestera

How does one become un-stuck from imprinted experiences and more fully realize inner power? Through various approaches including body reading, light trance work, and anchoring (Erickson), participants can explore how powerful the unconscious is in keeping old behavioral patterns locked in, and consider opening up new doors toward growth and freedom. New models of behavior can become available.

The workshop will feature individual and group processes, including body release approaches.

Suggested reading: The Body Reveals, Prestera & Kurtz (Harper & Row). $230

Life Change, Career Change

John Caple

"Work is love made visible," wrote Kahlil Gibran. In this workshop, participants will examine their work-life and work options as part of the larger pattern unfolding in their lives. Working from a conceptual base, the group will use integrative exercises, art, body work, and gestalt processes to seek answers and consider life decisions. The goal is for participants to see more clearly what they want and how to get it. One outcome will be a specific action plan.

This weekend is for those who want more value in their life at work, for career changers and potential career changers, for re-entry persons, and for those who influence others in career choices. Some time will be available for individual life / work issues during group meetings and in pre-breakfast runs.

Suggested reading: Careercycles, John Caple (Prentice-Hall). $230

Introduction to The Fourth Way

Charles Tart

Ordinary consciousness is a kind of waking sleep, an absorption in our own and our culture's illusions. How can we awaken? Our essential selves were invalidated and suppressed in childhood, as part of "education." How can we rediscover and nourish them? Instinctual and sensory wisdom is buried under cultural noise. How do we come to our senses?

The Fourth Way was Gurdjieff's name for psychological and spiritual development approaches that emphasized balanced work on the mind, emotions, instincts, and body. In this workshop we will examine Gurdjieff's main ideas, integrating them with modern growth psychology.

Self-remembering will be taught and practiced throughout the weekend as a primary means for increasing self-understanding and living more effectively in the present. Basic practices adapted from aikido will be used to illustrate how one can develop bodily intelligence, with emphasis on practicing Fourth Way methods as part of everyday life. $230

Psychedelic Prospectus on Future History

Terence McKenna & Friends

Terence McKenna writes: "How clearly do we perceive the impact of psychoactive plants and the shamanic experiences they induce on the origins and future development of humanness? What role are the plant psychedelics playing in the hyper-future outside of history? How have our cultural biases, from the Mandaeans to the Maya, caused us to misunderstand the crucial part psychedelics have played in the evolution of language and cultural self-image?

"We will explore these matters conversationally using our collection of people, books, and ideas as resources."

Recommended reading: The Invisible Landscape, McKenna & McKenna (Lux Natura); Cosmos and History, Mircea Eliade.

This will be a didactic workshop. The use of hallucinogens is not permitted at Esalen. $230

October 14–21

As Esalen will be hosting the International Human Learning Resources Network, no public programs will be held at this time.

Week of October 21–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Five Day Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Brita Ostrom

For workshop description see September 9-14. $450

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper & Roderick Nash

This Big Sur Wilderness Experience will be a unique one. Roderick Nash, author of Wilderness and the American Mind, will join us for part of our week together. We will explore inner and outer wilderness both experientially and intellectually. The week will include hiking in Big Sur's backcountry as well as lecture / discussions about America's wilderness. For further information see page 13. $450

Five Days with Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is aimed at awakening and sustaining awareness of body, self, and soul, as well as examining the anatomy and function of intimate relationships. The method can be described as gestalt body work with a distinct leaning toward the transpersonal aspects of life. During the workshop participants will explore many aspects of Jack Rosenberg's energetic approach to sexuality, the energetic field of the body, and the belief systems which keep us locked in obsolete behavior patterns. $450

Idiosyncratic Thinking

Richard Feynman, assisted by Ralph Leighton, Faustin Bray & Brian Wallace

The leaders write: "The aim of the week is to help participants develop a unique personal philosophy which can bring peace of mind and enjoyment of life's contradictions.

"In science, when we look at common things from some new or unexpected viewpoint, we achieve a new and deeper understanding. When this same approach is applied to personal problems, useful unexpected insights are often realized. This concept will be illustrated in two ways: through discussions of personal human ideas such as doubt, uncertainty, remorse, guilt, responsibility, dignity, and freedom; and by looking at nature as a teacher with these ideas in mind. Participants are invited to contribute their thoughts for discussion in the sessions.

"The thinking and experiencing process will be integrated using a blend of esoteric skills, music, visual arts, and fun. You are invited to bring rhythm instruments."

Recommended reading: Character of Physical Law, Richard Feynman (MIT Press); Nova, The Pleasure of Finding Things Out (Transcript) (WGBH, Box 322, Boston, Mass 02134). $3 Payable to WGBH Transcripts. $450

Weekend of October 26–28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $230

The Gentle Art of Becoming—Together: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Elisa Lodge Schiffman

This workshop will focus on the reawakening and developing of positive, mutual supports that are at the root of satisfying couple relationships. The emphasis will be on creating clear and truthful expressions of loving and personal integrity. Participants will work at their beliefs and habits through the use of intuitional sensing, risk-taking structures, guided imagery, and gestalt awareness methods.

$230 per participant

The Holistic Revolution in Medicine

Larry Leshan

Larry writes: "Holistic medicine is a set of concepts, not a set of methods. It does not replace mainstream medicine, but includes it. This program will include material on the history and basic philosopy of holistic medicine and how it can be practically used to restore and potentiate health. Participants will be helped, if desired, to design their own unique holistic health program. The seminar will be primarily case-oriented." $230

How to Deal with the Soviets: A Colloquium

Coordinated by Robert Bathurst

Honest academics, diplomats, and journalists now generally admit that we are at a dead-end in understanding the Russians. Detente, containment, co-existence, United Nations, military pacts—we've exhausted them all. So where do we go from here? How do we get off the current action-chain threatening to lead to war?

A panel composed of a distinguished diplomat, a businessman, historian, anthropologist, and politico-military scientist, who have spent many years of their lives on this problem, will talk about new paths of understanding and change. There will be full audience participation and discussion and an opportunity to pursue specific aspects in small groups. Discussants include Dean Edward Keenan, Russian historian and dean of the Graduate School, Harvard; Dr. Nina Tumarkin, a Wellesley professor and author of a major work on the cult of Lenin; Ambassador Kirk and Madeline Kirk, he a specialist in Soviet affairs and she a former executive in the Tolstoy Foundation, and Edward Hall, an anthropologist. Professor Robert Bathurst will lead the colloquium and provide answers about the politico-military aspects of the problem. $230

Zen and Dzogchen

Sogyal Rinpoche

"In meditation, there is a simplicity and ordinariness which is almost magical; it is sane, clear, awake, full of humor and extremely powerful."—Sogyal Rinpoche

The practice of meditation is a way to discover our basic sanity and awaken our innate intelligence. Besides deepening our sense of trust, the practice shows us how to work with our confusion—subconscious gossip, hopes and fears, and thoughts of all kinds. Starting with the practice of simply sitting, meditation gradually extends to everyday situations and touches all aspects of our lives.

Dzogchen is the final and ultimate teaching of Buddha in the Tibetan tradition. It has been called the "Zen of Vajrayana" as it shares with Zen an uncompromising simplicity and directness in uncovering the nature of mind, and bringing precise experiences of the awakened state.

Instruction will be offered for those new to meditation and those who already practice. The format will interweave periods of intensive meditation practice with teaching and individual guidance from Rinpoche, along with discussion and time for relaxation. $230

October 26–28

Women's Vertical Dance: A Rock Climbing Weekend Near Big Sur

Annie Callaway-Galland

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 41. $195

Week of October 28–November 2

Creating Musical Theater

Bradley Bernstein, Didi Conn, Nancy Kaye Lunney & David Shire

Theater! Music! Lights! Make-up! Join us for a week of creating original musical theater. Now's your chance to be a writer, a lighting technician, an actor, designer, or a stage manager. Through Spolin exercises and other group games we will engage in the process of creating: from receptivity, through focus, to expression.

This is a week to rediscover your talents; a chance to experience spontaneity, creativity, and being part-of-the-whole. No experience is needed.

The faculty includes Didi Conn, stage, film, and television actress, currently appearing on the weekly TV series Benson, and founder of "The First Stage" in Los Angeles, which is a group of actors, directors, and writers that develop new plays for stage and screen; David Shire, Academy Award-winning composer of many film scores and of the current Broadway hit Baby; Nancy Kaye Lunney, former vocal coach and accompanist who regularly leads singing workshops at Esalen, and Bradley Bernstein, director of shows at Juilliard and other schools and theaters in the United States, Canada, and Australia.

Use your own interests and abilities, be a creative player at whatever you'd like to do. This will be a very active week!

Recommended reading: Improvisation for the Theater, Viola Spolin. $450

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressures of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and the power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

In this week we will focus on how to develop those qualities in ourselves that contribute to a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based in warmth and humor we will explore our capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as non-traditional innovative approaches in body work, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $450

October 28–November 4

Physical Movement and Child Development: A Symposium

Cynthia Rogers Silverman & Stacy Mills

This symposium is concerned with an examination of how patterns of movement in early life affect a person's subsequent physical and mental development. The focus is on learning how to enhance the movement skills of young children in order to effect greater balance in movement and increased coordination of intention with action. The emphasis is not on deficiency or movement disorder; it is on the study of normal development and function. A significant part of the week will be spent in direct observation and interaction with infants, toddlers, and young children.

The symposium will bring together a group of people with varied areas of expertise including: child education, child development, musculoskeletal function, dance, and athletic skills. It will take place at Esalen's Gazebo School, a unique child learning environment in which the outdoor setting and structures are used to support the child's developmental needs rather than constrain them. The philosophy is that exploration in limit testing is an important aspect of healthy child development. $680

October 28–November 23

Evolution of Consciousness: The Path of the Senses

Christina & Stanislav Grof

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 39. $1800

Weekend of November 2–4

Recovering Sensual Authority

Don Johnson

Throughout history in every part of the world, social institutions have taught that one's perceptions are unreliable guides, needing to be checked by reference to superior norms of reason. But access to those norms is reserved for a privileged few authorities: priests, gurus, scientists, politicians, psychotherapists, physicians. The result is a world of dependent adults distrustful of their own viewpoints, feeling impotent to effect significant change.

In this workshop we will explore how we have learned to denigrate the value of the immense treasury of what we have sensed in our lives. Using touch, movement, exercises in seeing, hearing, and guided fantasy, we will begin to reconstruct our sensual access to communal authority, wisdom, and love.

Suggested reading: Body, Don Johnson (Beacon Press, 1983). $230

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

This workshop is an introduction to sensing, for more meaningful contact with our own nature and with the world around us.

How we relate to our deep inner needs, to other people, or to different tasks and situations depends on how we perceive them and how we trust our own findings. When perception is clear and full, we cannot make mistakes. Our whole organism is geared to respond appropriately. We have come, however, to see through a fog of preconceptions, a bewildering fabric of the ideas and judgements of others.

Our own experience has been belittled; our perceptive faculties have lost their edge. The true I and the true you no longer meet. Both life and death have become often-threatening fantasies.

Sensory awareness is a practice for rediscovering and reviving full sensory functioning. Through the gradual quieting of premature and inappropriate intellectual activity, it directs our attention both inward and outward to the actuality of the present moment. As perceptivity revives, true relationship becomes possible. Each everyday occasion in living gains its own freshness, its own uniqueness. We can become content again, like healthy children, as quality begins to make quantity unimportant.

Suggested reading: Sensory Awareness, Charles Brooks (Santa Barbara Press). $230

Week of November 4–9

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Gestalt Practice

Esalen Gestalt Staff

For workshop description see page 12. $450

Towards a More Sensitive Relating

Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

For workshop description see November 2-4. $450

Weekend of November 9–11

Experiencing Your Psychic/Intuitive Abilities

Anne & Jim Armstrong

In this workshop, which is open to professionals and others interested in learning to recognize, trust, and use their own psi abilities, Anne and Jim will use special exercises to aid participants in exploring these abilities.

They have found through their professional workshops that most of those in the helping professions are already using their sensitivity and need only learn to recognize their styles and trust the intuitive input they normally receive. During the exercises Anne will use her own "tracking" abilities acquired from over twenty years in this field to assist participants in developing their own inner sensitivity. One of the basic objectives of the workshop is to demystify the intuitive/psychic process and encourage participants to use it in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. The workshop will include personal psychic scans and practice on selected cases. $230

Dream Discovery

Joyce Frazee

"Each dream that is not understood is like a letter that is not opened."—Talmud.

Each night we receive brilliant, insightful, creative communiqués disguised in poetic imagery. In this workshop we will explore how to use our dreams for personal growth, insight, creativity, and problem solving. Participants will discover that any dream, however fragmentary or prosaic, can offer entry to a new world of insight. Methods for dream discovery will include exercises in dream recall, Senoi dream practices, mandala drawing, gestalt dream work, and psychosynthesis. $230

The Upstart Spring: Reflections on Esalen and the Human Potential

Walter Truett Anderson & Theodore Roszak

It is more than twenty years since the resort at Big Sur offered its first seminars on "Human Potentialities" and began its unique career as a podium for visionaries, mystics, counselors, and social critics.

In this seminar we will assess the accomplishments and shortcomings of Esalen and of the various intellectual and social currents—humanistic psychology, Oriental religions, psychedelics, the youth movement of the 1960s—that have moved across the Esalen scene. We will revisit, from a 1980s perspective, the works of some of the main influences in Esalen's life—such as Alan Watts, Fritz Perls, Abraham Maslow and Will Schutz—and will think about Esalen as an American phenomenon, an outgrowth of American culture, and a response to American dreams.
